

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

Mrs. S. P. Sullivan visited in Belton and Temple last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Berry went to Waco to hear Will Rogers Saturday night.

The Eagle appreciates orders for job printing and guarantees the work as well as price.

D. D. Henry of Star, one of the finest young men of the county, was in to see the Eagle Saturday.

Mrs. Annie Little and daughter, Miss Garetta, visited Will Little and family in San Saba Sunday.

Mrs. Clarence Langford, accompanied by her mother, was a caller from Center City Saturday afternoon.

Supt. and Mrs. E. D. Stringer were among those who attended the Will Rogers lecture at Waco Saturday night.

Give the good old family clock a chance. Clock ailments of all kinds promptly cured by L. E. Miller, the Jeweler.

Fred Jones of the Pleasant Grove section was one of the pleasant visitors at the Eagle office a few days since.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Toland spent the first of the week in Dallas, selecting spring goods for the Little Company's store.

Why not buy cordwood and save money? Spanish Oak and Live Oak. Any size, all grades. Real cords $4.50 per cord. Sawing included. Phone 263—F. C. Phillips.

Hard Daniel, an insurance man of Brownwood and formerly an officer of that county, looked after business in this city a few days ago.

Mrs. Jerrell, wife of the superintendent of the Star school was in the city Saturday, accompanied by her two sons, and made the Eagle an appreciated call.

World's renowned prophylactic for colds, flu and pneumonia. Take Chloropractic. Understand it or not. 10-10c

The readers help themselves well as the Eagle by reading carefully every advertisement appearing in the paper and then telling the advertiser about it.

Representative Homer C. DeWolfe came home from Austin last week end for a short visit and was well pleased with the progress being made by the legislature.

Correspondents who get their letters to this office early in the week help to expedite the publication of such communications in the current issue.

Your broken spectacle frames and lenses can be repaired by L. E. Miller, the Jeweler, as good as new.

Misses Inez, Opal and Ellen Woods, daughters of Mr. W. R. Woods of Ratler, were pleasant callers at the Eagle office Saturday. Miss Opal is a trained nurse in a Temple sanitarium and was at home for a short visit.

North Texas State Teachers college at Denton conducts an elaborate school of journalism and has a well equipped printing plant, which is under the management of Jesse D. Hall, Jr., a son of an early day newspaperman of Goldthwaite, who has been engaged in the business in Denton for some years.

WRECK VICTIM DEAD

Sam Middlebrook, who was injured last Thursday morning twelve miles south of this city on the Lometa road, died in the hospital in Brownwood Friday morning at 2:40, after suffering intensely with a broken back and internal injuries.

Middlebrook was 19 years of age and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Middlebrook of Stamford, who reached the hospital before he died and after death had the remains conveyed to the family home for burial.

The young man was in the employ of the Cage Construction Co., of Taff, Texas, who have the contract to build the bayou bridge at Brownwood. He was en route to Brownwood with a load of bridge timbers when the accident occurred that cost him his life. He was driving the truck to which was attached a trailer—both loaded. The truck slipped on the muddy road and he believed it about to turn over and attempted to jump from the cab, but in so doing he lost his balance and fell and the trailer fell on him, but the truck remained upright. He was brought to this city for first aid and was carried to the hospital at Brownwood in Fairman Company's ambulance, accompanied by Dr. J. M. Campbell, who remained with him until he was placed in the hospital and a full outline of the case given the physicians in charge.

J. L. LEWIS DIED IN ARIZONA

Mrs. Mary Lewis Key, wife of K. C. Key, of the Rock House community, received the sad news of the death at the family home in Bisbee, Arizona, of her beloved father, Judge J. L. Lewis, on Monday, January 19.

Judge Lewis had been in ill health for several years, and his death was not unexpected, and yet it was a sorrowful shock to his family and friends.

The body was laid to rest in Bisbee with funeral services at the Baptist church, of which he was a faithful and active member as long as his health permitted his attendance on services and church life activities.

J. L. Lewis was born in Decatur, Georgia, July 25, 1855. He came to Texas in his early youth and lived in Goldthwaite for a number of years, practicing law there prior to coming to Hamilton in 1905. His wife was Miss Mary Hopkins, whom he married in Goldthwaite. His widow and four children survive him. They are John, David and Bennett of Bisbee, Ariz., and Mrs. K. C. Key, of the Rock House community in this county. Judge Lewis served this county four years in the office of County Judge and also conducted a farm near town. He was a scholarly man, and a man of fine, honorable principles. He was a just man and was liked and respected by everybody. The family left here in 1920 to reside in Arizona, and those here who knew Judge Lewis had no intimation that his health had continued failing as he had broken considerably when he left this place. Hamilton Record-Herald.

Judge Lewis was engaged in the practice of law in Goldthwaite a good many years and is kindly remembered by those who knew him. He and his family moved from this place to Hamilton about 20 years ago.

RIDGE SCHOOL HOUSE BURNS

The school building at Ridge, across the bayou west of Mullin, was burned Friday afternoon at a late hour. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have been caused from the stove or flue. Four months of the school term have been completed and it is likely some provision will be made for the completion of the full term. Prof. Robert Forestry is principal of the school and Miss Mildred Mills is assistant teacher. Messrs. Jess Rasco, I. A. Hollis and W. J. Kelso are the trustees. The building was several years old and no insurance was carried on it.

BIG VALLEY CLASS WILL ENTERTAIN

The Big Valley Singing class will present a three act comedy at the school auditorium in that community tonight at 8 o'clock. The title of the play is "The Great Command." There will be no charge for admission and the public has an invitation to attend. Henry Cryer and his orchestra will furnish the music.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD

The county school board held a meeting in the office of the president in the court house Monday. Those present were: W. M. Johnston, president; Judge Roy Simpson, secretary; J. J. Cockrell, R. C. Duren and J. M. Geeslin.

A. G. Langford of Center City was elected a member of the board to fill the unexpired term of H. M. Kerby, deceased.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of Mr. Kerby, which occurred a few weeks ago.

Joe Peck was elected member of the Big Valley school board, to fill a vacancy caused by the trustee elected refusing to accept.

The matter of public school funds to pay the teachers of the rural schools was discussed, but the board was unable to render any aid, as the funds must come from the comptroller and can only be supplied as tax payments are made and disbursed by the state board. It was the opinion of the county board that these funds will be forthcoming in the near future, as the January payments of taxes will soon be at the disposal of the state board.

TEXAS SILVER

Not a great deal is heard about the annual contribution by Texas to the world's store of silver for Texas is not among the greatest producing states, yet it has been one of the most consistent for nearly half a century. Recorded production of silver in this state from the beginning of development in the Trans-Pecos mountains to the present time, totals about 21,000,000 ounces with an aggregate of annual reported values of something more than $15,000,000.—The Earth.

Dressing Table Set With French Feeling
Louis XVI feeling.
But such very feminine and beautifully designed sets do not need a period room in every case. It is only necessary that they, by their design and coloring, appeal to the woman herself, and this one seems to look just as well with a plain mirror and table as in the midst of the gold tullest of the great Louis period.
The design and coloring of the paper, the material and hues of the curtains, the style of the lamp, will always give a sleeping room a real individuality, and often a distinctly period feeling, no matter what the furniture may be. In any event, when a woman decorates such a room with the best expressions of her own particular taste, there is little chance but that she will find a design of colorful dressing table accessories that will not only please her but also go well with the rest of the room.

SCHOOL BRIEFS

It looks like we are due a picnic. Mr. Cooke promised us one, if we won the county tournament in basket ball.

Adeline Spinks has been rather sick the last few days. We have missed her.

Speaking of sickness, it seems that we have had our share out here. Just at the present Doris and Hayes Newman have the mumps and Lyndon Davis is at home nursing a case of the chicken pox.

Alice Shipman was absent from school Monday.

Gerald Davis, Alvin Spinks, Onella and J. C. Wesson, Doris Newman and Dorothy Huffman of the primary room were absent from school Monday.

Anna Belle Teifferteller visited Norma Lee Harmon Sunday.

Amy Lavon Hallford visited Faye Williams Sunday afternoon.

Did you know that Center Point had only one substitute each for the boys' and girls' teams in basket ball at the tournament Saturday?

The creek got up Monday and some of the pupils failed to get to school.

We were glad to have Albert Spinks visit us a few minutes Monday morning.

RURAL SCHOOL CHAMPIONS

Did you know that Center Point won the Rural School championship in basketball? Well, we did. Last Saturday we went to Goldthwaite determined to do our best.

Our boys played two games each. The girls first played Lake Merritt winning by a score of 14 to 3. We then played Big Valley, who had defeated Mount Olive and Center City. Again we won by a score of 15 to 4.

Our boys won a hard fought game against Center City by a score of 16 to 15. The final game of the day was another victory for us over Mount Olive. The score of this game was 19 to 14.

Washings Wanted—Student and family, carefully washed by hand.

Mr. Cooke had found his boys reluctant in their writing of English compositions. At last he conceived a great idea to stimulate their interest—to write an account of a foot ball game.

It seemed that he was successful. With one exception the boys threw themselves at the task and evolved youthful masterpieces. Johnnie Fallon checked reluctantly at his pen and was then struck by a burst of genius. When Mr. Cooke opened his paper, it read: "Rain, no game."

J. P. KINNARD DEAD

Judge J. P. Kinnard of Haskell, who was district attorney for this district in the long ago, died at his home in Haskell Saturday. He is well remembered here by old-timers, as an active prosecutor. Prior to entering the practice of law he was a school teacher and was the superintendent of the school in Plantersville, Grimes county, when the Eagle editor and his wife were children in the school age. A special from Haskell says:

Haskell, Texas, Feb. 1.—Services conducted by his former pastor and a fellow-member of the bar marked the final tribute paid to Judge James Pinkney Kinnard, who died after an illness of several weeks at Stamford, Okla. Masons conducted the funeral in Willow cemetery. Judge Kinnard, who retired from active law practice a year ago, moved here from Belton, where he had served as district attorney. He was born Jan. 4, 1861, in Livingston, Ala. Surviving Judge Kinnard are his wife, one son and three daughters.

HONOR ROLL

No one in the senior and intermediate rooms made the honor roll this month. Those in the primary room making A in every subject were: Arlie Taylor in the third grade, Onella Wesson and Lucille Taylor in the second grade.

The past week the following made the honor roll in reading: Arlie Taylor, Oran Perry Stark, Lucille Taylor, Onella Wesson, Anna Belle Teifferteller and J. C. Wesson.

In the intermediate room Curtis Taylor, Doris Davis, Eammon Perry, Viva Delbeck and Grovey T. Davis.

THE WINDOW SEAT

It's worry, not work, that does things to you.

Wise advertising in depression times means more business; many advertisers 'in the know' are doing it and getting it.

My boy, there's no time like the present. If you don't act on that resolution quickly it will soon get lost either in your indulgence or in the hurry and scurry of the world. "Do it now."

The department of labor report shows that the retail price of food was 13% lower December 15, 1930, than it was December 15, 1929. You can say what you please, but labor prices are beginning to drop, too. They simply can't stay up to the former high levels.

Boys and girls, be enthusiastic. One authority says the amount of sleep required to recharge energy is in direct proportion to the amount of effort necessary to hold your attention to the work in hand. The man driven by enthusiasm requires little sleep; the man expending conscious effort requires much. Therefore exercise enthusiasm. Get maximum results from minimum effort.

Don't criticize those New York women who are penniless too harshly. Those who prefer to shiver rather than wear second-hand dresses which are out of fashion, and who want worn-out pumps instead of plain, serviceable, old-fashioned shoes suggests Editor Clark, of the Williamsburg (W. Va.) News. Pride tells them that "the apparel proclaims the woman" as an object of charity, declassing her in the eyes of the local "Joneses."

The power investigation brought to light the fact that certain more or less well known professors had been making independent investigations for the power crowd at good pay, not disclosing they were in such employ. A recent meeting of the American University Professors Association at Cleveland laid down the rule that hereafter no professor shall get pay for doing work for a private utility without disclosing the fact. We never know what we read.

How do you American workmen and producers, who have been fed up so long on the political clap-trap about the benefits to you of a high tariff, like this tariff news? Ford, an American manufacturer, is building thousands of automobiles in Canada for shipment to India, to be assembled in four great plants he is building there. India autos are 80% American. Just where do you come in on this, you farmers and workmen who have been voting for this high protective tariff?

Too many fond fathers seriously handicap their boys by following the course of the Arkansas parents whose boy said: "Dad and I work together—he puts it in the bank and I check it out." It's a mighty bad thing for a boy to grow up without having it brought home to him, by the school of hard knocks, the true value, not of a dollar, but of a dime. Senator Dolliver said a wise thing one time that if he had a million dollars and a son his principal work in life would be to keep them separated.

Maryland, Illinois, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, all wet and all Republican states, the bulwark of Republican strength in the electoral college, furnish more than half the deaths from alcoholism. The 12 Southern states, all dry and all Democratic, the bulwark of the Democratic strength, furnish less than 13% of the alcohol deaths. Yet in the next election the Republicans will probably be dry while it now looks like the Democrats will be wet. What a great game is politics.

Roger Babson is a great economist and philosopher; he thinks our prosperity hinges on

FRISCO REDUCES FARES

Passenger fares for day coaches have been reduced to 2 cents a mile over the entire system of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad as a result of the failure of the Interstate Commerce Commission to heed the several protests of that system's railroad competitors against the action. By the reduced schedules, adopted to curtail the inroads made chiefly by motor busses into the Frisco's traffic, the former standard rate of 2.6 cents a mile for passenger carriage is set aside on ordinary traffic and a large group of other railroads in Southeastern and Southwestern territory may be forced to follow suit.

Having more money circulating and one good way to get that, in his opinion, is for the business man to do more advertising. Money will not circulate faster by reducing wages, by discharging employes, by refusing to buy, or by talking gloom. The people who can afford to spend money should be buying things liberally. A dollar started on its rounds will buy many dollars' worth of things before it gets back home again.

Where is this machine age taking us to? Over in New Jersey they have a laboratory with a huge cow-milking machine, which they use with a revolving platform, 60 feet in diameter, where 50 cows are first washed, then dried, and all milked in 12 1/2 minutes. 1,680 cows are milked three times a day, and they give 28,000 quarts of milk—enough to supply 40 big hotels. The cows are cleaner, better milked, there is no kicking the bucket over and more people are put out of employment. We have not heard that the cows are demanding any shorter hours or more pay.

SANTA FE BULLETIN

The Santa Fe Railroad company issues a monthly bulletin on the conditions along that line in the various states and it says of conditions in this state:

Texas

The general agricultural outlook in Texas for 1931 is favorable. Fall rains over the entire state furnished abundant moisture, and subsequent weather conditions enabled farmers to break land to a greater extent than is usual at this period of the year. Present top soil and subsoil moisture is sufficient in most sections for the winter.

Greater care than usual is being given to conservation of moisture by winter working and terracing. Colder weather is needed to put the land in the best condition, and to check insect pests.

Seeding fields in early potatoes is going ahead rapidly. Indications are that the average this season will show a 20 percent increase.

The continued unfavorable outlook in cotton marketing is expected to cause growers to cut 1931 planting materially. This will result in a correspondingly increased acreage of food and feed stuffs.

Tomato cold-frame construction in East Texas is nearing completion. Most hot beds are now filled with vigorous plants which will be ready for cold frames by February 15. Acreage in Santa Fe territory will show a large increase, but the East Texas commercial area will plant a smaller acreage than in 1930.

Prospects are favorable for early fat cattle. Grass and weeds still are growing, grain pastures are abundant, and general conditions are better than a year ago. Sheep ranges are overstocked, but the mild winter less than normal snowfall.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Company has been called by the Directors of said corporation, to be held at the principal office of the corporation in the City of Galveston, Texas, on the 23rd day of February, 1931, at eleven o'clock a. m., for the purpose of submitting to the stockholders the question of increasing the authorized capital stock of the corporation from Ten Million Dollars ($10,000,000), consisting of One Hundred Thousand (100,000) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, to Twenty Million Dollars ($20,000,000), consisting of Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, and to do all things and give all proper authorizations to carry out and effectuate such increase.

Young Poet Produces Jazz Form of Verse

GENEVIEVE TAGGARD

What good is — "Good morn-ing" — There's more good in "Good night."

Genevieve Taggard Names Creation "Ad Lib" Metre

New York City.—Ad lib poetry has just made its bow to Manhattan critics. It is sponsored by Genevieve Taggard, most famous of the younger poets of the day.

Examples of the new poetry are included in Miss Taggard's latest book of verses, "Words for the Chisel." She admits that the innovation takes much the same place in literature that jazz does in music.

"I do not think that I am lowering the standards of poetry at all by comparing it to jazz music," says Miss Taggard. "I like jazz music. I think it has a definite place in the United States and that it will have a still higher place before we are through with it."

affected me in the writing of many of my best verses, especially "The Singing Soan Boxer," which has been described by critics as a jazz poem.

"I am working on a poem now suggested by a haunting bit of popular music heard at the Ritz the other day—"What Good is Good Morning." The inspiration from such music is not cheap or tawdry, either. Interestingly enough, Miss Taggard is the daughter of a missionary. She came to New York from Honolulu where she lived as a child. George Sterling, literary critic of the San Francisco Call, speaking of her book, "For Eager Lovers," wrote, "With the publication of her first book, Miss Taggard steps level-eyed into the shining company of Edna Millay, Elinor Wylie and Sara Teasdale, modernists to the heart-core. But for all her kinship with the three, she remains herself, an intense and starry individuality, and, in my opinion, runs on lighter and surer feet than any of her singing sisters."

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

Five hundred representatives of six agricultural organizations met in Dallas Wednesday for the three-day convention of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation.

The appeal of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of interior, from his conviction in connection with the naval oil reserve lease scandals, was called in the court of appeals for the District of Columbia the early part of this week.

A new agreement for settlement of the Mexican debt was signed Friday to permit postponement of gold payment for two years, because of the sharp shrinkage in the price of silver, which has impaired Mexico's capacity to pay.

After a prisoner at Sweetwater tried to escape, he was put in handcuffs and leg shackles, but the next morning the jailer was startled to find the man snoring soundly, hand cuffs and shackles off, and the slumberer, when aroused, said he picked the locks with a safety pin, because he couldn't sleep with them on.

Three unpaid Texas Treasury warrants of 1863, aggregating $220, have been filed with the Senate Finance Committee with a request for their payment. They are about the size of the present-day currency and are of ornate design and have validating signatures as safeguards against counterfeiting. Two are $100 each and one for $20, all in favor of Angleton county.

The large-sized bank notes, which were abandoned nine months ago in favor of smaller currency are rapidly disappearing from the Nation's pocketbook. They have been replaced so rapidly that only about one-eighth of a total of nearly $5,000,000,000 still is outstanding. The small notes proved so popular that use of the old currency soon stopped. It is a rare thing nowadays to receive a large note. In the nine months 721,000,000 bills of the old currency have been redeemed and gone the way of old currency.

Secretary Mellon denounces congressional plans for further immediate compensation for World War veterans as a program of unmitigated inflation which would lead to greater depression. He predicts a deficit this year of at least $375,000,000, and expressed the opinion the compensation project would necessitate an early tax increase. Mellon discussed the question in testimony before the senate finance committee, which is considering several bills to cash veterans' insurance certificates. He estimates the cost of cash payments will be $3,400,000,000.

Determined to go into the next presidential years with a clean financial slate, leaders in the Democratic national committee have launched a nationwide survey preliminary to a vigorous drive to wipe out their current $600,000 deficit. A professional money-raising organization in New York has been engaged to make the preliminary survey, recent reports from strategic centers have told of abnormal resistance to subscription campaigns, but the Democratic leaders point out that these advices arise from million-dollar drives or better. A mere $600,000, they believe, should be forthcoming from the rank and file of the party within 10 days.

FEDERAL DROUTH RELIEF CONDITIONS

1. Those eligible for loans are farmers who have exhausted all their collateral. If they have any collateral, which banks or others might accept, they are not eligible.
2. The state committee has recommended the following per acre loan basis: For cotton seed, $1; for spring oats, $1.50; for grain seed, $1.50; for grain sorghum seed, 25 cents; for peanuts, $1.50. Certified cotton seed has been offered the committee at $1.50 per bushel, and that will plant one and one-half acres.
3. Feed for a work animal is computed at $1.50 per acre. If a tractor is used, $1.30 per acre.
4. Application for loan will give the government a crop lien, and when his debt is paid he gets a release.
5. Interest rate shall be 5 per cent.
6. Limit of loan for one applicant probably will be $600, to be advanced to him in installments as specified in the application.
7. If the mortgagor (applicant) shall fail to care for his crop in a business like way, agents of the government may enter his premises, take charge of the crop and charge the mortgagor with the expense of the action.
8. If mortgagor fails to pay his promissory note, or breaks the contract in any way, the government shall have the right to take possession of the crop and, without suit, sell all or the necessary part to satisfy the debt in full. The mortgagor will get the balance.
9. Holders of prior mortgages on any applicant's crop shall waive first lien to the government, the federal debt to be satisfied first.
10. The application blank requires a statement of amount of loan sought; number of acres of each crop for which seed is to be purchased; amount desired for feed and number of work animals to be fed; legal description of the land; statement of acreage of these crops grown by applicant in preceding year (1930); agreement to use money for purpose only as set up in the act.
11. Penalty for false representation of any character shall be a fine up to $1,000, imprisonment up to six months or both.

RAILROAD RATES

Congress has been urged by the interstate commerce commission to enlarge the rate-making powers of the commission, to provide that the general state of business may be regarded as a major factor in fixing both freight and passenger tariffs. The proposal should receive consideration.

Railroad rates never have come down from their wartime inflation. The consequent disparity between transportation charges and commodity values is a burden to all business, an obstacle to economic recovery, a load upon the broken back of agriculture.

Although federal regulation of railroads has been a national policy since 1887, there has not yet been written into the law even a beginning of a precise theory of rates. The chaotic system of charges which began with the slogan, "All the traffic will bear," has grown only more bewildering as traffic has increased. Today there is no fixed relationship between distance and charges, between commodities and charges, between speed and charge.

The entire rate structure is a patchwork from half a century's national development. Those industries which have fought extravagantly for relatively low rates have them. Those communities which have made generous appropriations for the cause have the preferential rates to which their costly statistics no doubt entitle them.

Granting the claim of the carriers that we enjoy the best transportation system in the world, two inescapable facts remain; the rate structure is a phantasmagoria, and the national transportation bill is far out of line with returns to other major elements in the economic organization.

We should not try longer to run the finest railroad system in the world on a middle-nineteenth century basis of rates. A great deal of new knowledge is available to serve both the carriers and their patrons as soon

EINSTEIN AT SCHOOL

It may be safely assumed that nobody knows much more of the nature of the physical universe than Dr. Albert Einstein, now the guest of California and the scientists of Pasadena. But the day's news reveals that the learned visitor has sat through several lectures which were not much different in manner from those of the schoolroom, attending respectfully to what others had to say of cosmic and atomic problems.

It may be accepted as a sign of wisdom that a man is willing to learn from any earnest teacher and sincere scholar, recognizing that the best wit and knowledge can not approach all sides of a problem and that every thinker is in debt to many others who have studied in his province. That kindly philosopher of American letters, Oliver Wendell Holmes, went so far as to say that he found special inspiration and enjoyment in dull sermons, not because they lulled him to slumber, but because they gave him full freedom to think all around a topic while the preacher followed a single thread to some obvious conclusion. Other wise men have said that the dullest discourse may be trusted to reveal one gleam of light or to suggest a new problem, which is worth considering.

The science of Einstein and his fellows, of course, is compounded of the work of many men and minds. The most learned among them go constantly to school, seeking a message from the stars and atoms or borrowing clues and observations from other students. Those who think that learning is done when school is over may profitably consider their example.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

as congress will undertake to open the rate windows and allow a breath of today's scientific air into the musty old catacombs of the existing rate structure.—Houston Press.

REDUCING FARES

Two cents a mile is cheap riding. Considering the interest on the first cost of an automobile and the expense of fuel and maintenance, the cost of motor car travel is said to be more than 2 cents a car mile. Every thing is being reduced to figure these times, and it is a fine way to tackle any situation—to sit down and figure it out. But, after it has been figured out, every factor reduced to a mathematical fizzle, it doesn't make much difference. The people will own and drive and go places in automobiles regardless of the statistics involved. They will do about all the other things they like without bothering to discover whether those things can be done with the consent of the statisticians, the economists or the prophets. The railroads will find no gold mine in passenger traffic at 2 cents a mile. But at the present rate that traffic isn't as good even as a silver mine. A silver mine, parenthetically, is about as good for profit as a privately owned tree in Bolshévika. A miner who tries to extort silver from hard rock at 31 cents an ounce is in about the same case as a Russian kulak, who tries to keep a milk goat concealed from the confiscation agents. There will always be a place in American life for railroads. They are at present almost indispensable as taxpayers, and no doubt will continue to be. Should they become unable to pay their operating expenses and taxes, the government will take them over and pay their deficits out of the public treasury. That is the way the government does business. All governments manage their business on similar lines, and that is one thing that is the matter with most of them.—State Press in Dallas News.

VETERAN'S INSURANCE

Beneath the heated argument for and against immediate cash payment by the government of veterans' bonus certificates, there is one very simple issue. It is the same issue which confronts virtually every man some time in life; shall I sacrifice my life insurance or keep it? The wise man decides I shall keep the insurance. And, in my judgment, the veterans in their own interest should hold onto their insurance instead of cashing it.

The whole purpose of the adjusted service certificates, as propounded by the system was set up, was to provide for the veterans in their old age. The principle was exactly the same as the principle of life insurance.

That being the original purpose, it would be automatically defeated by cashing the policies now.

If there was reason once for a plan by which the veterans would be assisted in their old age, that reason is just as sound now as it ever was. Dissipation now of the fund by which that necessity was to be met would not alter the necessity.—Houston Press.

Spring-Time In the Hawaiian Islands

OVER in Hawaii, where morning-glories bloom all day long and the night-blooming cereus lives but one glorious moonlight night to die with the first rays of the morning sun, spring-time is a very different affair from our northern spring.

In a land of perpetual summer, naturally the role of spring seems a bit difficult. To the Northerner, who has left the land of tiny buds and pale green grass to get off the steamer at Honolulu, some April morning, it seems that all Hawaii is in bloom. Large trees are dotted with the brilliant red of African tulips; golden-bower trees vie in splendor with red and white ginger blossoms; red and purple bougainvillea cover the high fences, and the salmon and white of oleander is everywhere.

Yet to the Hawaiian this is spring—a promise of greater fullness to come.

The naive guide cautions the tourist not to pick the flaming red lehua flower for then the day will be rainy. If the temptation is too great and the tourist plucks the flower, the shower inevitably follows, according to the guide, and it is then necessary to return to the tree and take another blossom to avert more rain.

The rainy season has just ended and the natives have no desire to prolong it, knowing that May, June and July constitute the fairest season. The mango, the avocado, the pineapple and the guava are already ripening. Making the most of these sunny days, Hawaiian boys are weaving the big hats that are to protect them from the summer sun to follow. Girls with baskets of fragrant ginger blossoms and lavender jackaranda string leis which they will take to the beaches to sell.

There they will join the jovial, jostling lei-women vending armful of vari-colored flower wreaths. The beaches are a glorious place in May. Brown-skinned Hawaiian boys ride the surf boards alongside of sugar-kings and coffee-magnates. Women from all parts of the world sport in the surf with Hawaiian maidens, whose lithe bodies are the envy of all. A charging platoon of native girls, standing erect on racing surfboards, propelled shoreward by no other power than the force of a giant wave, is a sight worth watching.

Life everywhere seems to be lived in the open. Even the dancing, with native orchestras is outside on the broad lanais or verandas. Here tables are set at tea-time and one enjoys delicious foods strange to most visitors, such as the papaya, a delicious golden-meat melon that grows plentifully on trees the year around. There are, in season, luscious mangoes, passion fruit and avocados, and pineapple every day in the year.

Out on the hills of Oahu and Maui, the new crop of pineapples are ripening in the sun. On the distant slopes the plantations resemble magic carpets whose perfect tapestry patterns stretch away to the sunset. Closer inspection reveals these patterns to be symmetrical rows of spike-edged plants—armored to protect a rare treasure within. This treasure, a few weeks before, was a blossom, not unlike our purple thistle. But the magic of April breezes, and tropical sunshine are slowly transforming it into fruit.

By July, the treasure which has been so stoutly protected by the spear-pointed leaves and so carefully tended by brown-skinned workers, will be transformed into a golden pineapple, such as only Hawaii produces. Eighteen long months of ripening, unharmed, nurtured by tropical sun and salt-laden breezes from the sea, have stored away a wealth of health-giving riches. To retain these riches the pineapple will be quickly put into cans and shipped to ports in every part of the world.

It is only at the harvest season when the fields are golden, and the verdure densely green that the Northerner can realize, as the Hawaiian does, that spring-time in Hawaii with all its foliage is, after all, only a promise of the fullness of summer.

HAMILTON

The Honorable Commissioners Court of Hamilton county has issued and had posted an order for an election to determine whether or not bonds to the amount of $65,000 shall be issued for the purpose of repairing the court house.

Otis Perry, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Yeager, of Brownwood, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yeager, of Pecan Wells, near the McGirk community, died at the family home on Thursday, Jan. 22, at 1:40 o'clock in the morning.

W. T. Little of San Saba, formerly prominent business man and leading citizen of Hamilton, was here the past week looking after business matters and greeting his many friends.

It is declared by Hamilton Lions that each luncheon meeting brings a larger, more enthusiastic assembly of Lions than the one before. The meetings this month have been held in the basement dining hall of the First Baptist church, and next month the Lions will meet around the luncheon table in the Methodist church basement dining hall. The ladies of both churches furnish most excellent luncheons. The foods are well selected and deliciously prepared and appetizingly served.

A party composed of Mrs. Tom Davis, Mrs. M. H. Boyd, Mrs. C. G. Workman, Mrs. Dan Smith and Mrs. Frank Gholson, made an automobile trip to Center City last Monday to visit Grandmother Langford, step-mother of Mrs. Gholson and Mrs. Boyd. Mrs. Langford is ninety-one years of age and is very feeble. She makes her home with a daughter, Mrs. Geeslin, and family. The party enjoyed the day very much and the dear old mother appreciated their visit.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Brown and little granddaughter, Doris Moorhead, and their little son, Alvie Brown, spent last Sunday with relatives of Mr. Brown near Goldthwaite. They were guests in the home of J. D. Ryan, a half brother of Mr. Brown. Mr. Ryan and his good wife were celebrating the fifty-fourth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Ryan's health has been failing for the past several years and his loved ones feel anxious concerning the outcome. Mr. Brown's brother, Charley Brown, and family, also shared in the happy celebration of the day. — Record.

SAN SABA

Popular Songs to be Used as Themes for Scenarios

Are you thinking of me to-night? — The waves drifted in and I still remember...

Famous Motion Picture Critic Presents New Idea
New York City.—The importance of a popular song as the musical theme for a motion picture is emphasized by Julia V. Shawell, who under the name of Betty Colfax is motion picture critic of the New York Evening Graphic, the paper that received the highest metropolitan rating for its movie criticisms.
"A song hit associated with a film is just as effective as a musical hit in a Broadway revue or operetta," Miss Shawell declares. "The time will come when a cinema producer will consider the special and original musical accompaniment to his film as essential as good titling."
"And the next step will be that of writing motion pictures around popular hits as themes. Indeed, I have a song to suggest to some producer. It is, 'Are You Thinking of Me Tonight?' which tells a complete story and would make a corking scenario.
"Songs and movies are so closely connected that they are similar in their purpose and effect. In a season when intense love plots prove most popular with screen audiences, the same taste is shown in songs which make a hit. In an era when snappy comedy or light romance prevails on the screen, the situation is the same over the counters where sheet music is sold.
"Whether songs and pictures create a public sentiment or whether they reflect it, they are two of the most important and best known mediums of public impression and mass expression."

WHY MOSCOW

MUST PROTEST

The protests which Moscow has addressed to those major powers with which the Soviet Union has diplomatic relations, against holding the next disarmament conference in Geneva and against the selection of a conference president by the league, have elicited no opinion sounder than that credited to official circles in Washington. There it is believed that such quibblings from Russia should be taken lightly because, whatever arrangements are made, Moscow "will be found protesting against something." No such opinion can be expressed in the official replies to the Soviet protests from Great Britain, France, Italy and others, but it can be taken for granted that Washington's opinion will be shared in the capitals of these nations. For no one can really understand Communist Russia and not appreciate that the Foreign Affairs Commissariat of the Red State must always find fault with any plan or policy devised by the capitalist nations as being untrue to Communist ideals and ambitions.

The Communist party is eager enough for the whole world to disarm before the Red conquest begins, but if a disarmament conference were to please the citizenry of the capitalist states and win popular support for their governments, the Red diplomat would be a traitor to his cause if he approved. If he is excluded from an international gathering he must denounce it bitterly because he is excluded. If he is admitted, he must prove its bad faith in advance, do his best to throw it into discord and if it approaches success, he must find reasons for quitting, denouncing it as he goes. Any other form of participation in world gatherings would be fraternizing with the enemy. — New York Herald Tribune.

TAXES AND COTTON

The farmer's taxes are not nearly so important a question to him as the price of cotton. A difference of one cent a pound on the Texas cotton crop means three times as much money to the Texas farmers as the total of state taxes on all farms, ranches, livestock, and every other kind of agricultural property in the state. And in view of this, it is ridiculous to talk about "helping the farmer" by reducing or even abolishing his state taxes. A difference of one cent a pound on the average Texas cotton crop means more than $21,000,000 to the farmers, whereas, the total of state taxes paid on all agricultural property in Texas is not as much as $7,000,000 a year, and not more than $6,000,000 of that reaches the state treasury. And the difference between the price that spot cotton was selling for on the Dallas market this time last year and the price it is selling for now is more than six cents a pound. That means that the present cotton crop is selling for about $126,000,000 less than the last crop sold for. The truth is that the difference is even greater than that, but it is at least that much, and in view of this the "savior of the farmer" who can think of no better way to deal with this situation than to reduce or even abolish the farmer's state taxes bears a close resemblance to the fellow who tried to empty the ocean with a spoon. And when in order to do this, he proposes to levy new burdens of taxation on industry, commerce, and natural resources, thus placing extra obstacles in the way of business revival and a resumption of economic progress, we cannot help but think of the China man who believed it was necessary to burn down a house in order to roast a pig. — Texas Weekly.

STOCK SWINDLES

The bureau of securities of the New York State Attorney General's office reports that stock-swindlers obtained about $57,000,000 from persons in that state in 1930. The country's loss from this source is estimated to be about $500,000,000 in the last year. The losses were incurred either through investment in securities that were fraudulent or the purchase of stocks of a highly speculative nature from which the investor hoped to reap a fortune in a few weeks. A prudent investor will seek the advice of persons competent to pass on securities before he entrusts his money to swindlers and fake promoters. No regulatory law has been devised as yet that will check the operations of these swindlers. Hence, the necessity of being cautious and slow before you hand over your money in exchange for a certificate that may not be worth the paper on which it is printed. — Richmond (Ind.) Palladium.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method in Lampasas on Monday, Feb. 16, at the Wachen Hotel and in Brownwood on Tuesday, Feb. 17, at the Southern Hotel, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.
Mr. C. F. Redlich says: "The 'Perfect Retention Shields' hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.
The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures, which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.
Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

Painful Condition

"When I was just a girl at home," writes Mrs. B. F. Riggan, of Baird, Texas, "I took Cardui for cramping and pains in my side and back, and it helped me at that time.
"After I was married, I found myself in a weak, run-down condition. I suffered a great deal with my back, which was so weak it hurt me to get up or when I would stand on my feet. I fell off in weight.
"A friend of mine, seeing how bad I felt, advised me to take Cardui, which I did. By the time I had taken two bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in a long time."

Petty and Mrs. O'Donnell and Mrs. Elvise Bookley of Dallas were unable to be present.

DOWN ON THE FARM
By O. G. Hossiffat.

Read and Weep

Mr. Editor: Much farm news is unpublished. Why not the community scribes sandwich items of farm progress between the social events so interestingly told in your columns?
The pecan men met the 24th and discussed plans and methods for top working and clearing up native groves. C. J. Crawford has been clearing out his fine grove on the Kelso place and will set 500 buds this spring. J. J. Cockrell has done outstanding top working and has planted 100 natives to be budded later and Monroe Geeslin has put out 50 natives and will transplant more. W. W. Head is top working a fine grove. Geo. Robertson, a pioneer pecan man, brought in an attractive exhibit in a frame showing the improved varieties he has propagated. Lon Bledsoe is increasing his planting. W. E. Garner has put out some fine budded trees. Quantities of budwood are being put on cold storage for use the coming spring.
Speaking of orchards, W. E. Garner is putting out 1,500 trees, largely peach and plum. Every row is planted on a terrace. C. R. Wilson has planted several hundred peach and plum on terraced land. R. E. Clements has out 600 trees on the Sharp place.

Not too late yet to put out native pecans.
The county agent has listed all the terracing he can do this spring. He will take your listing for the coming summer.
Walter Fairman and W. R. Fickle have laid off and built a splendid system of terraces on the Wiggins farm out Lake Merritt way. They used the Corsicana Terracer. J. D. Long has terraced his field. Jo Ratliff has some nice terraces, which were laid off by S. J. Fisher. Jim Harmon is doing some good terracing and Chas. Bramlette is holding his soil by constructing good terraces.
In the last four years Wellie Saylor has transformed a worn out, sandy land field to a well paying fruit farm. From 275 grapes planted four years ago, he realized $1,342 last year. From 5,000 berries planted on 1 and 1-8 acres, he marketed $200 worth and that in spite of the severe January freeze. Wellie has 200 peach and plum trees now four years old and 20 bearing pe can trees. He has sold a number of budded pecans. How do the returns from this orchard compare with your cotton patch?
