"What we call 'politics' and what some others call bolshevism are much the same in origin and are often not far apart in technique. A report from Austin says that chambers of commerce are petitioning for the passage of the farm census bill, which would make an appropriation of $20,000 by Texas to be matched with $40,000 by the Federal Government. The data, to be compiled, it is explained, would be used to attract industries as well as answer any inquiry about the farm assets and opportunities of a county.

The Texas Senate Committee on Highways and Motor Traffic took a step Monday to reduce all property tax imposed for the construction of designated highways when favorably reported by unanimous vote of the committee. The bill forbidding the issuance of bonds or warrants for state road building, which would not affect issues voted before the bill becomes effective, was enacted into a law.

GOOD NEWS

Good news is a word fitly spoken. It has value beyond that of gold and precious stones. The power of good news is as evident as the air we breathe, as necessary as meat and potatoes, and is as nourishing.

A word of approval, a smile of appreciation, and simple praise releases within us something briskly regenerative, which kindles to flame the smoldering fires of ambition and aspiration. It is as though a weight has been taken from one's back.

Reality springs from the hard core of the impossible. Real accomplishments in this world have been inspired by the voice of a silver trumpet sounding good news.

Have you such a word for us? You, our friends and neighbors, have you a good word for us who are struggling to do a day's work well before the sun goes down? Say something to hearten us. Give us the word that will set us afire with resolution to do better and to go farther than ever before.

Be generous, spread your good news far and wide so that none within the sound of your voice will go untouched, uncomplimented. Sing us a song of the first robin of spring delayed. Speak to us of the good we have done aforetime, and prophesy of the great things we are to do by and by. Feed us with faith and arm us with courage, and we will go out and accomplish the impossible, and return singing songs of praise for the sustaining strength of your good news.

Be a harbinger of good news. Forget the bad news. Many of us are too conscious of our earth-bound condition. It is ever present, weighing us down. Doubt and fear have tied clogs to our feet. Ignorance and misunderstanding have laid heavy burdens upon our backs.

We look to you who know us who work beside us sharing the fortune of the day, to speak good news while our ears may still hear. Speak and set wings to our heels. Our great need is for the words that tear away the leaden sky and let the stars shine through.

Could you perform a greater service than this? Is there a higher calling than that of trumpeter of good news? Great is he who hews out the way, and greater still to the hearts of men, is he who whispers the right word of hope, inspiration and courage. Every good deed, every worthy action, every pleasant thought that has graced and blessed the world, has

BETTER THINK IT OUT

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the upper house, repeated in a speech in St. Louis an idea, with which he has been credited previously, that a remedy for unemployment would be a five-day week in industries.

Has the Senator tried to think out the effect of his proposition in practice, or has his mind gone no further than to estimate its possibilities for winning some temporary hand clapping from the unthinking?

A five-day week, if established at the expense of those now working, would mean a reduction of their present incomes. If attempted without reduction from the normal pay of six days, it would mean an increase of one-sixth in the operating expenses of industry. To avoid such an increase in costs the industries naturally would reduce the number of their employees until the total wage for the five-day men and the extras would be no greater than is now paid for six days. The general result obviously would be an increase in unemployment and poverty, not a decrease.

Whatever might be argued for this kind of experiment in prosperous times, it would be a disastrous plan to attempt in hard times. —Buffalo Evening News.

SEVEN GRIPPING FACTS

- 1. No man was ever fired from his job, or refused promotion because he kept sober.
2. No engineer was ever refused his "run" because he was not "half shot."
3. No physician was ever rejected on an important case because he did not drink.
4. No captain was ever refused command of a ship because he was not drunk.
5. No student was ever ruled off the college football team because he was an abstainer.
6. No man ever had better credit at the bank, the bakery or the butcher shop because he did not keep soaked or go on periodical sprees.

STATE TAXATION

A critical point, we believe, has been reached in the economic history of Texas, and it is for this reason that we give so much attention to the general question of taxation. An economic transformation is going to be necessary if Texas is to prosper and go forward in the future, and it is essential that there shall be co-operation between agriculture and industry in bringing it about. It is essential also that artificial handicaps which already are causing some degree of embarrassment in other states shall not be set up in this state. The whole question of state taxation, and of the specific measures which have been introduced in the legislature, has taken on immense importance in relation to our economic future, both immediate and ultimate, and our economic leaders must awaken to this situation and face it squarely. For the moment what the Texas legislature may do to our fiscal system is just about the biggest question that demands our attention. Our present system is not perfect, to be sure, but we believe it so vastly superior to many others, including some which we are being asked to emulate, if the legislature only sits steady in the boat, so to speak, until the present depression has passed, and refrains from introducing innovations and novelties, we shall have reason to commend it for many years to come. —Texas Weekly.

STATE INCOME TAX

We are quite sure that a state income tax would be a grand mess in Texas; we are not sure that it would be any more of a mess than the system of tax rendition and collection under which Texas now operates. We don't see how it could be.

We hope the proponents of the measure will urge it strenuously and eloquently. Not because we want to see it pass, but because the threat of its passage will hasten the day when Texas tax laws are remodeled to comply with the constitutional requirements that taxation be equal and uniform. If the business interests that are so scared of a state income tax can be kept scared until they help bring about such a remodeling as is needed, the state income tax agitation will serve a good and useful purpose. Perhaps a couple of years' experience with a state income tax will be needed to make the lesson really impressive. —Wichita Falls Times.

COMMON SENSE

The mania for big business has bankrupted millions of Americans. It used to be said there was no pride in being a man unless one could be a h—l of a man. That idea has animated innumerable men in business throughout all the ages of America. They want to become monumental and memorable. Ego eats them up. Far happier the lot of those who aspire to security rather than conspicuousness. A little business soundly based beats a big business built upon shifting sands. The era of merger, the mania for combination, has not been profitable in general either to the majority of those directly concerned in such movements or to the country at large. Instead of lowering costs to consumers, numerous amalgamations have increased costs. Others have endeavored to save money by reducing pay rolls, with one part of the result being an accreting unemployment which has reacted upon all lines of industry. Any industrial system which is fundamentally based upon great units and mass production will dig the foundation from under its own feet. Machinized production on a huge scale has resulted in producing a consumer default considerable enough to endanger the interest return on plant investment. Bigness in itself is not greatness. No giant is necessarily a success. —State Press in Dallas News.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Cheery and Comfortable Boys' Room

A MOST attractive and comfortable combination sleeping, dressing and play room for two boys came to light recently in a home situated in one of the suburbs near New York. It is simply furnished and yet has everything that a pair of sturdy and normal youngsters could desire, particularly a group of shelving between the windows, built in, and designed along modern lines. Here the boys have a fine place for their books, toys, and the rest of that endless collection of this, that and the other that boys always foster.

Another excellent idea is the corner window seat upholstered in fabricoid, built with two drawers beneath giving added storage space. The furniture is finished in blue, and the color scheme of the room is carried out in cheerful tones, yet with such durable materials that the necessity for replacement has been reduced to almost nothing.

For instance, the walls are done in yellow fabricoid in a rough texture, easily cleaned. The rayon draperies are brown and the glass curtains are blue, with an air-brushed design in yellow, orange and blue. The furniture is painted in a light delft and the window cushions are brown piped with orange. The floor is covered with a yellow rug with natural field, brown border, and orange and brown design. The pillows are of orange and blue and the bed throws of natural linen-colored material.

The general effect is most attractive to the eye and, despite the bright and alluring colors, there seems to be little that even two husky boys can injure. When these boys grow up they will no doubt be found to possess surprisingly good taste, both as to the surface and the deeper elements that go toward beautiful living.

ENCOURAGING FACTS

The monthly bulletin issued by the Santa Fe railroad company, telling conditions in states thru which that road passes, says:

Texas

An extremely mild and open winter has given Texas farmers opportunity to prepare lands for early spring planting. The proportion of land ready for seeding is greater than usual for this period of the year. Abundant rains have put a good season in the ground, but have delayed planting somewhat.

Corn planting is being done in East and South Texas as rapidly as fields dry out sufficiently to work. Acreages to corn and grain sorghums will show a substantial increase.

Cotton planting has started in the southern areas, with prospects of a large reduction in acreage. This, however, will depend to a large extent on ability of farmers to accomplish early planting of feed stuffs.

Planting of early potatoes practically is completed. Conditions thus far are favorable. There is a substantial acreage increase in Santa Fe territory.

Indications are that Santa Fe localities will show a 50 per cent increase in tomato acreage. Plants are coming along in cold frames two to three weeks earlier than usual.

Rice lands are being broken and will be planted soon. Acreage will be about the same as last year.

Winter wheat in the northwest is in good condition generally. In some areas prospects are better than the average. In others moisture is needed, although the crop is not suffering. Damage from blowing, where top soil is dry and loose is a possibility. Preparation of soil for planting spring crops in this part of the state is well advanced.

Cattle are in fine condition, and sheep are doing well. Ranges are better than for many years at this season of the year. Grass is growing and small grain pastures are furnishing abundant grazing. Rainfall during the last month has assured ample soil and stock water in most localities.

NEED BETTER LAWS, NOT MORE LAWS

This country is surfeited with laws. There are so many statutes that it is utterly impossible for the average citizen to be conversant with them, even superficially. This superfluity of statutory law tends to lower general respect for law. It should be the purpose of all legislative bodies to keep down to the minimum the number of legislative enactments.

Fewer laws, and laws of better quality, is the supreme need of the hour throughout the nation, says the Pasadena Star-News.

Painful Condition

"When I was just a girl at home," writes Mrs. B. F. Riggan, of Baird, Texas, "I took Cardui for cramping and pains in my side and back, and it helped me at that time. After I was married, I found myself in a weak, run-down condition. I suffered a great deal with my back, which was so weak it hurt me to get up or when I would stand on my feet. I fell off in weight. A friend of mine, seeing how bad I felt, advised me to take Cardui, which I did. By the time I had taken two bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in a long time."

Just Like An Ostrich... A medical authority says, "A person who tries to cover his face with flour, or cream, or powder, is just like an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. The same is true of the face. It is nature's warning that stipulation is throwing poison in the blood stream and weakening the constitution and you will strain your system against disease and your disfigured skin. The only safe way to get rid of the blemishes is with a course of vegetable medicine that is easily and naturally eliminated from the system."

A RECORD BREAKER

Mrs. Homer Eckert of the Scalhorn community was a caller at the Eagle office yesterday and told us of her baby son born Jan. 12. He weighed 2 pounds at birth, but has now grown and developed until he weighs 3 pounds. At first he was too tiny to nurse and had to be fed with a spoon, but he is now able to nurse and is doing fine. He has been named Clarence Bertrand and bids fair to grow to maturity, altho when he was born the attending physician gave no hope of his living. The Eagle believes this is a record breaking baby and credits his life and development to this delightful and health-giving climate.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckert recently moved here from Miles and live on the Brooks ranch, lately purchased by the Eckert family. They have two other children—a boy 5½ years old, who weighed 8 pounds at birth and a girl 2½ years old who weighed 4 pounds at birth. Mr. Eckert is a son of Mr. Daniel Eckert, who lived in the Locker community, in San Saba county, for a good many years and moved from there to Miles. Mrs. Eckert is a native of Miles.

RICHARD SLACK IMPROVING

Richard Slack has been very sick at his home in Abilene and his condition is still serious, yet considerably improved. He suffered an attack of flu, which was followed by pneumonia. His wife's sisters, Mesdames Frank Taylor and D. H. Harrison, went to Abilene Monday and Tuesday Dr. Campbell was called to attend the patient and John Berry accompanied him. They returned Tuesday night. The ladies are still with their sister, but expect to return home Saturday, if Mr. Slack continues to improve.

A BIG DIFFERENCE

Only a definite revolt on the part of the motoring public can stop the trend toward higher gas and oil taxes. The record of past years is illuminating. The tax was first introduced in Oregon in 1919, with a rate of one cent a gallon. New Mexico established the two cent tax in 1920, and by 1923 seven states had a three cent rate. Arkansas introduced the four cent levy the following year and in 1926 Kentucky and South Carolina raised the ante to five cents. Then in 1929, three states joined to establish the present peak rate of six cents. Now rumblings are being heard of tax rates of eight or ten cents or more, to be levied in the future.
