CAR STOLEN FROM JOHN B. SAMPLEY

IS LOCATED

John B. Sampley, employee of the Hico yard of Barnes & McCullough, whose Ford coupe was stolen the latter part of August, and with whom settlement has already been made with the insurance company, received word from Sheriff Mack Morgan late Thursday afternoon that a car had been recovered which answered to the description of the one reported stolen.

Sheriff Morgan stated that the car he held was found at a spot about ten miles below Hamilton Monday morning, following efforts of a party or parties unknown to steal turkeys from a farmer, who frustrated the efforts and caused the driver of the car to seek other conveyance, leaving a Ford coupe behind.

The car, if it is the same one stolen from the Hico man, which seemed most probable, had been driven several thousand miles and bore a Comanche license plate.—Hico News Review.

TEXAS CONVICTS GET PAPERS NOW

Newspapers will soon replace the "Grapevine Telegraph" as the greatest bearer of information to the men "behind the walls" of Texas state prisons.

Three hours after W. A. Pad-dock of Houston, chairman of the prison board, announced the three year ban on newspapers for prisoners was lifted, every man within the walls and on the farms had received the news—by "Grapevine Telegraph."

The prison board said colorful stories of crime in newspapers prevented earlier removal of the ban.

DALLAS UNDERTAKERS REDUCE FUNERAL COSTS

Bids filed with the Dallas city council for burying paupers in that city ranged from 1c per body to free funerals and a bonus to the city of $500 per year.

Explanation of the desire of undertakers to get this business was explained by the fact that in many cases relatives are located who will pay for the funeral costs at regular prices.

AMARILLO REBELS

It is pretty clear that the utilities are in for a season of hard sledding in communities where they have failed to establish cordial relations with the public. Oklahoma City has refused to renew its gas company franchise. Amarillo appears to have won its gas fight and is now in the midst of a struggle with the telephone company. Fort Worth, Berger and other Texas towns are more or less at economic war over one utility or another.

Of all the southwest, however, Amarillo seems to be most militant. In one regard the Pan-handle metropolis has had an outstanding advantage and that is in the leadership of her energetic and popular mayor, Ernest Thompson. Mr. Thompson takes the position that price levels are down to stay down and that the way to adjust is to adjust. That doctrine has a very persuasive sound in the ear of patrons of public utility bills, and arguments about obsolescence, upkeep, stand-by service, maintenance and soon are of necessity technical when time comes to reply.

It is pretty clear that public utilities which are quickest to pass on to the public a part of the benefits of savings accomplished in times like these are the companies which fare best in the long run. That is to say, the management that treats rates as static and declining costs as a windfall has another kind of fall in prospect. On the other hand, mere impatience is not an adequate cause for rate reductions. In the course of time the public always pays for what it gets—or else it stops getting it. Meanwhile good will remains an indispensable asset to every public utility.—Dallas News.

ACHIEVEMENTS IN SAFETY

In spite of the terrible rise in automobile injuries and fatalities, there is a bright side to the accident problem. The organized safety movement—which was 20 years old recently—"points with pride" to such achievements as these:

A steady decrease in accidental deaths to children since 1922, when school safety work was inaugurated on a national scale. During this time accidental adult deaths have increased 38 per cent.

A decrease of at least 30 per cent in fatal industrial accidents in the past 20 years.

A decrease of 28 per cent in the accident rates of 1600 industrial establishments reporting to the Nation Safety Council.

A decrease of 19 per cent in accidents involving drivers of trucks, buses and taxicabs in four years. During this time private passenger cars involved in accidents have increased 37 per cent.

This is fine fruit and the safety workers are to be congratulated. Their main problem now is to find some means of checking accidents on the highways and in homes—in the latter, 30,000 deaths occur each year. They are working in the face of great difficulties in this—difficulties that can only be removed by individual realization of the fundamentals of accident prevention.

INDIAN LEADER VISITS KING

Mahatma Gandhi, native leader of the Indian party seeking independence from Britain, attended a formal reception in Buckingham palace in London last week. He wore his usual dress of loin cloth and shawl, although other Indians, including many ruling princes, were richly attired and wore jewels valued at millions of pounds.

Gandhi was provided with goat milk and rice. "The King and Queen were most friendly and agreeable," he said. "I also liked the Prince of Wales."

When asked if the King gave him any hope of recognition of India's independence, he replied, "Only God can give such assurance. Kings can not."

The State of Texas, County of Mills:

NEW ZEALAND TO USE JOBLESS ON HIGHWAYS

Plans whereby all single unemployed men in New Zealand would be drafted to work on highway and land development schemes with only nominal pay, are being developed by authorities there.

The draftees would be provided with food, shelter and "pocket money" to an extent not yet decided. It is anticipated that 1000 men would be placed in these camps at once and that if the plan is found satisfactory all unmarried men without work would be incorporated into the scheme.

DITCH DIGGER PAYS FOR WEARING OUT SHOVEL

Forty-eight years ago a workman employed in digging a ditch in Kosciusko county, Ind., wore out a shovel belonging to the county. Now his conscience pricks and Sheriff Harley Person of Warsaw, has a letter containing a dollar bill with the request that he appropriate it from a man who signed his name Joe Doe and who gives his address as 819 East Tenth street, Los Angeles, Calif. The man, in his letter, offered no explanation as to why he considered it his duty to pay for the worn out shovel.

STERLING LOANS DISCLOSED

An injunction issued in Houston Friday has laid bare to the public view some of the financial operations of Texas' millionaire governor, Ross Sterling. A trust estate securing $800,000 of the governor's notes has been formed, and to this trust the governor has conveyed his interest in the company publishing the Houston Post Dispatch, the land in Liberty county on which the Humble Oil and Refining Co. recently made him a $300,000 advance on his royalty interest, his big ranch interests in southwest Texas, his interests in his office buildings in Houston and Memphis, Tenn., and stock in various corporations.

According to the trust document, the governor will be allowed to operate and manage these properties, but must turn over to the trustee all revenues derived from them. The trustee is the National Bank of Commerce of Houston, of which Jesse Jones is chairman of the board. A committee consisting of Jones and the heads of four other large Houston banks will act in an advisory capacity to the trustee and will authorize the payment to Mr. Sterling of such amounts as may be just and equitable.

The injunction which brought this remarkable trust agreement to light was sought by the trustee against J. M. West and others of Houston from foreclosing on the security given by Sterling to them for a loan of $250,000.

Attorneys for the trust state that this action has no connection with the transaction in which Governor Sterling sold his interest in the Houston National bank recently.

GASOLINE PRICES UP

Governor Sterling's martial law policy in East Texas is beginning to affect purchasers of gasoline. With soldiers stationed to prevent oil production above 125 barrels per well in the greatest oil field, the supply of crude oil has been going down and the price going up. Saturday retail prices of gasoline were increased one cent in most Texas towns.

MORE POLITICS

We have before us the census of Texas by counties. Our total population gives the state three added congressmen. Under the constitution, it is obligatory on the part of the legislature to divide the state into congressional districts, each district to represent a certain portion of the population as nearly the same as possible.

Any high school boy could take a map of Texas and these census figures and divide the state into twenty-one districts, each one as compact as necessary and each one representing approximately the required number of inhabitants. He could do this job in less than a day and have plenty of time for job he would not be hampered by political considerations.

We have a highly-paid legislature. It has been asked by the governor to redistrict the state for congressional purposes. Several bills have received consideration and none of them have proved satisfactory to the majority. We repeat, the job of redistricting the state ought to be taken out of the hands of the legislature and turned over to a non-political body. Then the job would be done without fixing boundary lines to suit some fellow who is already in congress, or who expects to become a candidate some time in the near future.

Legislators who pay more attention to their own political interests or that of their friends than they do to the business of the state are not true to their oaths or to their constituents. In times of prosperity the people take but little note of the political log-rolling going on in the capital city, but in these days there is a demand for patriotic service and quick action. If there is any good reason why the legislature could not have other duties. But, in doing the redistricted state and thus saved the expense of elections at large of three congressmen, we have not learned it—Farm and Ranch.

ARMISTICE DAY

The observance of Armistice Day last Wednesday was the occasion for some patriotic addresses in which the theme was that November 11, 1918, had marked the end of all wars and that our nation would never again march forth to battle.

Impressive figures were quoted as to the extent of military and naval appropriations in this country. The implication was that this whole expenditure was a criminal waste.

Much stress has been laid on the ability of the League of Nations to settle international disputes amicably, although at this very moment Japan is waging a bloody war against China.

Glaring across the Manchurian border at Japan is the Russian Bear. Once an easy victim to the efficient Japanese army, Russia now has the largest and one of the best trained and equipped armies in the world.

No well-informed person can doubt that Soviet Russia, as soon as she has completed her five-year plan of industrialization, will welcome an excuse to crush by force of arms the capitalistic religious nations of the world.

Can anyone believe that the Soviets will be less inclined to attack and subjugate our United States if we give up our army and navy and place our reliance on arbitration and soft speech?

The United States of America despite the world depression, is still the richest nation on earth. In the vaults of its banks is stored more gold alone than in all the rest of the world.

Men and women conversant with world events will not be misled by the specious arguments of misguided speakers who are now preaching the doctrines of disarmament and non-resistance.

The veterans of this country, who have once before answered their nation's call, will unhesi-

POPULATION OF TEXAS

About one year ago the Bureau of the Census announced that the population of Texas had increased 24.9 per cent during the decade preceding 1930.

But only recently more statistics have been released showing that the big increase was due to the immigration of 400,000 Mexicans, to the rapid succession of oil field discoveries, and to the development of new agricultural lands in West and South Texas.

Texas has some other reasons, however, for growing in population in the future and the foremost of these probably is the increase in its manufacturing industries.

PRESIDENT HOOVER SPEAKS FOR PEACE

President Hoover warned the nations of the world Wednesday that peace "cannot be had by resolution and injunction alone."

Dedicating the new marble temple memorializing District of Columbia participation in the World War, the president, in an Armistice Day speech, said the world today was more heavily armed than before the war and confidence should be re-established "not alone each nation in its own institutions, but among nations."

"The backwash of forces loosened by the great war," he said, "has grown until during the past two years the stability of many nations has been greatly shaken."

"This, with their fears and discouragement for the future, weakened confidence through the whole financial and economic world. That loss of confidence added enormously to unemployment, to the distress of agriculture and business everywhere. From it all we have been passing through an emergency second only to the great war."

tatingly go again before they will see her standards threatened with dishonor or defeat. But year by year, as they grow older, they realize that eventually their places must be filled by younger men.

Let us not forget that the meaning of armistice is not victory, but only a truce, and that just so long as there is might to defend the right will that truce remain unbroken.

HOME GOING OF MRS. J. M. CARROLL

Mrs. J. M. Carroll, formerly Miss Martha Moore, was born in Rusk county, Texas, February 13, 1863, was married to Mr. J. M. Carroll in July, 1880, moving to this county in 1888, living here until the end, November 7, 1931.

She leaves to mourn her home-going her husband, J. M. Carroll, and eight children—four boys and four girls: Mrs. M. C. Bledsoe, Dallas; Mrs. Bud Oden, Mrs. Elmer Berry and Mrs. Fannie Brim, Goldthwaite; Jess Carroll, Oklahoma City; Hugh Carroll, Lockney, Texas; Ed Carroll, De Leon; Duke Carroll, Graham, Texas.

Besides the husband and children, she leaves 24 grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Albert Hill of the South Bennett community.

In the passing of this good woman not only will the immediate family feel keenly the loss sustained by them, but the community at large will be bereft of one of its foremost citizens. Mrs. Carroll was converted at the age of fifteen and joined Baptist church. Since that time she has lived a quiet, unassuming, Christian life.

It is human to mourn the passing of one whose life has been helpful. It is likewise human to admit regret when there passes from this glorious life one whose life has been devoted to encouragement and inspiration. Her homegoing meant the laying down of the cross and taking up the crown, brings comfort and consolation to our hearts, realizing that her life has not been in vain, but a contribution to mankind.

Conditions Are Better Here People who know say that Goldthwaite and Mills county are in better all-round condition than any other section of state. While other towns are struggling along with closed banks, our banks known far and wide for their strength and safety. While producers in other sections are having trouble to find buyers for their crops and produce, Goldthwaite always has buyers for anything you have to sell. Many other towns are filled with empty stores or stores offering and incomplete stocks, but here the stores are selling brand new merchandise at lowest prices in 30 years. In many cities there are long lines of hungry and unemployed, but our people are keeping busy. WHAT IS THE REASON? Conditions are better here simply because money is being kept in circulation. Most people are paying their obligations promptly when due. They are buying the things they need from their home town merchants, whom they know and have confidence in. ARE YOU DOING YOUR SHARE? Do you deserve any of the credit making things better? Are your debts paid as promised? Are you doing your part, or are you holding selfishly back? Every dollar you pay will help make conditions better for all. FIRST OF ALL—PAY WHAT YOU OWE Retail Merchants Association "WE KNOW WHO PAYS"

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF PRESIDENT HOOVER ARRESTED ON COAST

At Santa Monica, Calif., Chief of Police Clarence Webb indicated his office would investigate the "accidental" arrest of C. Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, on a liquor possession charge.

The investigation, it was said, will deal with the circumstances which led to taking into custody of the 57-year-old retired plumbing contractor, as he was going out of a neighborhood grocery with a gunny sack containing 19 pints of liquor. Leavitt was confronted by two federal prohibition officers and arrested.

Police Officer Tom Carr, nemesis of Santa Monica liquor law violators, declared the arrest was "bona fide but accidental" in that he had no intention of raiding the grocery.

"Leavitt stumbled over one of the officers in an alley as we were looking over another place," said Carr.

The federal prohibition agents had been assisting Carr in raiding Santa Monica speakeasies.

"Someone handed me the sack when I was visiting in the store," said Leavitt. "He told me to take it out the back door and get rid of it. I did it as friendly service I didn't know it contained liquor."

16,903,000 BALES

Despite the fact that the government's latest crop report indicated a yield of 16,903,000 bales, or an increase of 619,000 bales over the October report, the cotton market Monday instead of declining, as was expected by many, gained $1.25 a bale following the issuance of the report. It failed to hold all the gain and the close was only 13 to 18 points over Saturday.

On the opening heavy week end accumulation of selling orders from the south were in evidence. However, after the opening the trend of the market was upward. When trading was suspended to receive the report, the market stood 4 to 6 points below Saturday's close.

Upon the resumption of trading following the publication of the report, heavy buying orders from general sources awaited execution, with offerings scarce despite the sharp increase in the prospective yield. The remarkable strength of the market was due to heavy speculative buying, principally from the west, predicted on the advance in wheat into new high ground for the movement, a gain of nearly 3c in silver futures, a strong recovery in leading stocks and the belief that more or less inflation is certain in commodities.

WHAT IS YOUR HOBBY?

Maybe we are wrong, but we honestly believe that nearly every man or woman who ever amounts to anything, has a hobby. A hobby is the finest safety valve there is.

It doesn't matter what you choose for your hobby—flowers, dairy cattle, alfalfa, good machinery, antiques, athletics, or what not—the main thing is to have some sort of a hobby—something that will take you out of yourself, will absorb your interest, and by doing so will cause the development of the finest talents in your character and personality. In addition, a hobby will bring you happiness, genuine satisfaction, better health, a more normal mental attitude towards life and neighbors, and generally a longer life. If a hobby will do all this, it surely would be a mistake to overlook cultivating one, wouldn't it?

Farm folks are more fortunate than city folks, in that they can develop hobbies at home and in connection with their own business more easily because of the nature and wide diversity of interests in farm life. For example, a farmer may take for his hobby the goal of developing an ever increasing high production herd of dairy cattle. Another may absorb himself in developing a variety of seed corn, one best adapted to his section and that by constant selection will give higher and higher yields. Better sheep may strike the fancy of many farmers. Flowers and shrubs will be popular choices of many farm women. Both farm men and women have an almost unlimited number of choices.

A hobby on the farm is not only a diversion but in many cases it proves profitable to the farm business; it adds to the attractiveness of the farm, and it renders a contribution to the upbuilding of farming in the community and in some cases the state and nation. After all, a hobby is some specialty in which you strive to excel and on which you concentrate in order to become an expert.

What's your hobby? If you haven't one, you're cheating yourself, your family and your neighbors. Success is not measured by the work of a few years but rather the consistent, conscientious efforts of a lifetime. It's the long, constant pull that counts—and it takes a hobby to keep you from breaking under the strain and make you enjoy life as you go along.—The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist.

THE RESULT OF FIRE

The total fire loss for the first nine months of 1931, according to an estimate by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, was $340,713,477, as compared with $348,421,656 during the same period last year.

One can be thankful for small favors and feel some sense of optimism in the improvement. But at the same time it is practically certain that at least 80 per cent of the loss was totally unnecessary — was, in other words, caused by human neglect, carelessness or ignorance. If the last three months of the year result in waste on the same scale, our total 1931 bill will be well in excess of $450,000,000.

The person who is responsible for a fire is just as much a menace to the community as the person who causes accidents through reckless handling of an automobile. But, as yet, the public has not taken this attitude. It has had only a passive interest in fire waste—regarding it much as a matter of course. It has not realized that fire is an individual problem which can be solved only by individual effort in co-operation with other individuals throughout the community.

Fire is a destroyer of lives, property, jobs. It is a barrier in the way of industrial activity and home ownership. It is a cause of unemployment, of bankruptcy, of intense misery. Knowing this, all of us should do our part in seeing that it is outlawed forever.

"Before I took Cardui, I was nervous, restless, blue and out of heart. I felt depressed all the time. After I took Cardui, all this disappeared.

An Aid To Digestion

BECAUSE pineapple contains an enzyme called bromelain which helps one to take care of foods rich in proteins, it is a good fruit to serve with both meats and fish. Practically all good pineapple comes from Hawaii where a number of great companies operate plantations and canneries, and now send us such a flood of this golden fruit that the price is much lower than heretofore. So here's a recipe for Ham Baked with Pineapple: Soak a slice of ham one inch thick in warm water for at least one hour. Drain and sprinkle with flour. Melt a little fat in the baking pan, preferably a piece that is cut from the Log Cabin and brown the meat in it. Pour one cup crushed pineapple and one-half cup water over the ham and bake slowly until tender or about one hour. Remove to hot platter and pour pineapple around it.
But this is not the only way to serve pineapple with fish or meat. Slices of it can be browned with various dishes, and it can also be combined into a most delicious
Pineapple Stuffing: Mix two cups soft bread crumbs, two tablespoons melted butter, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-half cup finely chopped celery and one-half cup well drained, crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Moisten with the syrup drained from the pineapple and use as a stuffing for baked fish or meat.

THE NEWSPAPERS AND THE PRICE OF COTTON

Some days ago an Associated Press dispatch appeared in the daily papers in which President Hoover pointed out the improvement in general business conditions and stated that "the practical effect of this recovery is shown in an increase in the price of wheat by 10c or 12c a bushel and cotton by $15 to $20 a bale."

Of course there has been no such sensational increase in the price of cotton, the total price now averaging only $30 a bale, but every state daily that comes to this office carried the absurd exaggeration on its front page.

Whether the error was contained in the president's original statement or was made by the press association is immaterial. The noteworthy feature of the incident is that here in Texas where cotton, if no longer King, is still our most important crop, and the price of cotton is one of the most common topics of conversation in the state, the leading newspapers should allow such an error to be printed without correction or comment.

In the old days when an editor really edited the news his paper printed, before the days of column conductors and automatic typewriter-telegraphs, it is unlikely that a misstatement of this kind would have been seen in print. One editor would have simply revised the figures to read correctly, while another would have taken them as the text for a fulminating editorial on the duplicity of Republicans and the unconscionable exaggeration of the president's propaganda.

But there are compensations. Though the sleek-haired, youthful editors of our large papers today may not know or care whether a bale of cotton sells for $30 or $300, the really important items of news will receive their careful scrutiny. The name of Charlie Chaplin's new movie or the score of the Harvard-Texas football game will be printed correctly and with adequate display.

TAKES TIGER BY THE TAIL

From the Jamura River district, where many strange things happen, a message arrived in Calcutta, India, recently telling that a native swam down the river hanging to the tail of a man-eating tiger.

Cheers of excited villagers ashore changed to groans when the animal turned and tried to bite the swimmer, but the intrepid man jammed a club into the tiger's mouth and the pair of them continued down stream until villagers succeeded in capturing the big cat.

It seems that Moyez Uddin, the hero of the story, found the beast stranded by flood on a raft of fallen trees and decided to capture him and obtain the usual reward.

As Uddin's boat approached

A WINNING TICKET

Editor Eagle: It seems that many have been casting about for a whirlwind, stemwinding, jingo ticket for president and vice-president for 1932. Of course we have all kinds of presidential timber in these United States and can cook up a ticket to the liking of most any clique or faction. For those who want to substitute legislation for work so they may put in all of their time suggesting and demanding and advising the government how to get us all by without work, I would suggest that they cast their political optics on Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana and Governor Bill Murray of Oklahoma, or vice versa. It really would not make any difference which end of this ticket was the front end or which was the hind end, we all know the energy and determination of each of these men. If they couldn't go forward or backward they would go straight up, and maybe that is better than standing still to see the salvation of industry in the good old way and helping it along with a bit of old fashioned labor as occasion demanded.

These gentlemen are pregnant with the element of promise and if they should not have had luck and get their ideas all in a mess and produce an abortion, no doubt they would bring forth an economic-political giant that would repeal all the laws of labor and set us all free, then we could spend all of our time being statesmen or advising would-be statesmen and would not have to work a darned bit.

Why not make this ticket Huey P. and Alfalfa Bill or Alfalfa Bill and Huey P. No difference which head you put on the ticket you will have a perfect deluge of new ideas and from the product of their fertile minds and the fecundity of their mental spawning we may be able to start a brand new political circus. A. J. HARRISON the tiger the animal leaped and the craft capsized, but the fearless Uddin—so the story goes—grabbed the striped tail and down stream the two of them went.

OIL: What "Cracked" Gasoline Means to Motorist. CHAPTER XVI. It is fortunate for the owner of the motor car, for the housewife, and for the industrial user that oil refining methods and equipment have undergone change and improvement making possible the meeting of requirements for products in greatest and most essential demand, as well as products of greatly improved quality. Straight-run Refining. The advances of the engineering professions, particularly with respect to metallurgy and furnace design, have made possible "continuous distillation," and refining operations have practically gone over to the so-called "pipe still" type of unit of large capacity. Whereas the sorting of the collection of compounds composing crude oils into groups, such as motor fuel and kerosene, was formerly accomplished largely by repeated partial separation—using in each stage the principles of fractional distillation—operations have been raised to such a high state of perfection that the oils to be separated are converted wholly into vapor in a single step of continuous operation. The whole separation operation is thrown upon a fractionating tower or rectifying column. The tower is able to make separations which would have been the despair of a refiner of even ten years ago. This distillation process is usually referred to as "straight-run refining." Making Gasoline by "Cracking." Until twenty years ago kerosene was the petroleum product in greatest demand. More and more motor cars appeared on the road, and the need for greater quantities of gasoline became apparent. The fullest possible yield from "straight-run" refining seemed to have been secured. It was at about this time that so-called "cracking" processes began to be employed. Cracked gasoline is made by taking the gas oil or fuel oil—the heavier constituents of crude oil—obtained in straight-run refining and subjecting it to high temperatures in specially designed stills. Usually this operation is conducted at high pressures. In other words, the distillation, that is, changing the liquid into vapor, takes place at controlled temperatures and pressures. At these temperatures and pressures a chemical decomposition or "cracking" of the gas oil or fuel oil takes place. The vapors from the cracking distillation are released from the still and separated into distillates—the lightest being finished for gasoline. The balance may be returned to the still for further cracking. More Gasoline from Barrel of Oil. Twenty years ago a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil run through American refineries yielded on a yearly average only 4.5 gallons of gasoline, while from it was produced 13.9 gallons of kerosene. Today the gasoline yield is 16.5 gallons, and the kerosene yield 2.4 gallons. Without the supply of gasoline obtained from cracking operations, the use of automobiles could probably not have expanded to its present proportions, because of lack of fuel. The average yearly consumption of gasoline per motor vehicle over the last ten-year period is estimated at 475 gallons. On this basis, cracked gasoline supplies the annual fuel requirements for 12,700,000 motor vehicles, that is, for as many cars as the total number in operation in this country less than ten years ago. Mrs. John M. Carroll died at the family home a few miles east of Goldthwaite last Saturday morning about 6 o'clock and her remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at this place Sunday afternoon, funeral services being held at the home and attended by a large assembly of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Carroll lived in this county the greater part of her life and was a devout Christian and loyal member of the Baptist church. She suffered a stroke of apoplexy some years ago and while she recovered from it sufficiently to go about her ordinary affairs and household duties, she never fully recovered from its effects and a second stroke is believed to have been the cause of her death.

A more extended notice of Mrs. Carroll's death appears elsewhere in this paper, written by a friend, but the Eagle desires to add its tribute to her memory and to offer sympathy to the bereaved family.
