

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME THIRTY-SEVEN.

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1932.

NUMBER FORTY-FIVE

PAY POLL TAX

Only a few more days now until the time for payment of poll tax will have passed, where a receipt can be issued entitling the holder to vote the next twelve months. This is one of the most important political years in the history of the country. Officers from president to constable are to be nominated and elected, besides many constitutional amendments will be submitted. The citizen who fails to secure his poll tax receipt will have many causes to regret it. The law allows the payment of poll tax without paying other tax, but after the close of this month there will be no way to rectify it.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETICS

We went, we saw, we came back. Our first tussle was with Cherokee and was won by a one point decision, 23-22. Our next encounter resulted in a loss to Lamkin, 21-15. We are now in the midst of preparations for all of the county meet. Literary events are not as popular as athletics, but Goldthwaite high will be well represented in them. The conference schedule for class A basketball: Feb. 2, Gold and Mullin at Mullin; Feb. 4, Mullin and Star, at Star; Feb. 6, Star and Goldthwaite at Goldthwaite; Feb. 9, Mullin and Goldthwaite, at Goldthwaite; Feb. 11, Star and Mullin, at Mullin; Feb. 13, Goldthwaite and Star at Star.

The tournament for the class B division will be held at Goldthwaite Saturday, Feb. 6, beginning at 9:00 a. m. The winner of class B and the winner of class A meet on the 15, 16 and 17 for a series of three games to decide the county championship. This last winner is entitled to the Miller Trophy Cup for boys for one year. This cup was given by Mr. L. E. Miller to the county champion. It becomes the permanent property of a school, when kept by the same school for three consecutive years. DIRECTOR.

MERRY WIVES CLUB

One of the outstanding social affairs of the season was a dinner bridge in the Walter Fairman home on Friday evening, Jan. 22. Mrs. Kelly Saylor and Mrs. Walter Fairman hosted to the Merry Wives club, their husbands and a few friends. Flowers and pot plants were used in the decoration theme. After a very delicious four course turkey dinner, spirited games of bridge offered diversion. At the conclusion of the games it was found that Mrs. Chas. Frizzell, Miss Vivian Campbell and Mr. D. Albert Trent held high score. Each was presented with an attractive novelty. The personnel of this delightful affair included: Mr. and Mrs. D. Albert Trent, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Frizzell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steen, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Foster Brim, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Fairman, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Toland, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Eacott, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rowntree, Miss Vivian Campbell, Raymond Little, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Saylor and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fairman. REPORTER

BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT

The Mills county class B basket ball championship will be settled on Saturday, Feb. 6. The tournament will be held on the Goldthwaite high school grounds and will begin promptly at nine o'clock. All schools participating are asked to notify the athletic director immediately. DIRECTOR.

MERRY WIVES CLUB

Mrs. Charles Frizzell entertained Tuesday of this week honoring the Merry Wives club. A salad course was served to the members and five guests. In bridge Mrs. Foster Brim held high score for club and Mrs. L. E. Miller for guest. REPORTER.

REYNOLDS—LANGLITZ

Wayne F. Reynolds of Mullin and Miss Carrie Langlitz of Goldthwaite were united in sacred bonds of matrimony Saturday evening, January 23, at the home of Rev. L. J. Vann in Mullin. Mr. Reynolds is a prosperous young farmer of Mullin and a brother of Mrs. H. S. McCoy of that place. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Langlitz of Goldthwaite. The young couple were accompanied to Mullin by the bride's sister, Miss Ellen Langlitz, and the groom's friend, Mr. Aaron Kittle. The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for Stephenville and Fort Worth to spend their honeymoon and will be at home to their friends after February 1. We extend to this young couple congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy life. A FRIEND.

MUSIC CLUB ORGANIZED

On Tuesday night, January 19, of the advanced pupils of Miss Ruby Lee Dickerson met at her home to organize a club.

The officers elected are as follows: President, Mary Trent; secretary, Billie Weatherby; reporter, Floyce A. Dickerson.

The pupils are to study the instruments of the symphonic orchestra and the lives of several composers.

The club is to meet on the first Friday in every month. The next meeting being on Feb. 5. * REPORTER.

DINNER BRIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor entertained at their cozy new home on Fisher street Tuesday evening. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with rosebuds and ferns and shaded with soft lights. When the guests found their places, a three course turkey dinner and fixings was served.

After six lively games of bridge, husband and wife were asked to add their score together. High score went to Mr. and Mrs. Foster Brim, low to Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Trent, while the cut for ladies was received by Miss Bernadine Rudd and for gentlemen by Mr. Bob Steen.

Guests included all members of the Merry Wives and their husbands and Misses Lucile Connor, Vivian Campbell, Bernadine Rudd, Adeline Little, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Fairman and Mr. Raymond Little. REPORTER.

MRS. TULLOS INJURED SERIOUSLY

The condition of Mrs. Alpha McGarrity Tullios, who suffered a probable fracture of the skull about 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when she fell down several steps at the county courthouse, remained serious today, according to reports from Central Texas hospital, where she is receiving treatment. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McGarrity, Belle Plain avenue. Mrs. Tullios fell five or six steps down the first flight of stairs, her head striking the concrete floor at the bottom. Witnesses said they thought Mrs. Tullios' crutch, which she uses in walking, slipped off of one of the steps, causing her to fall. She was coming down the steps when she fell. Although x-ray pictures had not been made early this morning, physicians said they thought the skull was fractured. Mrs. Tullios has been unconscious since the accident. Pictures were to be made during the day to determine the exact extent of the injuries.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Mrs. Tullios is a granddaughter of Rev. A. R. Watson, formerly of this county. Her son met with a tragic death some months ago, when he fell from a truck on the Brownwood road.

MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATIONAL W. M. U.

Let every woman that belongs to the Baptist church be present Sunday at 2 p. m. at North Bennett church. Dr. Hardy will speak and it is time for the electing of county officers for the coming year. Let our women take note of this and put forth some effort to be present. We earnestly urge that you attend. MRS. G. C. IVINS, Pres.

LEGION MEETING MONDAY

The first regular meeting of the newly reorganized American Legion post will be held Monday evening at 7:30 in the display room of the Saylor Chevrolet Co. in the Saylor hotel building.

Thirty-eight ex-service men are now members of the local post, and more are expected to join at this meeting. The officers have extended an invitation to all former soldiers and sailors in Mills county to attend the meeting Monday night, whether they plan to join at this time or not. ADJUTANT.

NAZARENE CHURCH

Rev. Wm. H. Phillips and family of Abilene, Texas, have recently moved to our city. Rev. Phillips is district superintendent of the San Antonio Church of the Nazarene. Mrs. Phillips is also an elder in this church and has been a teacher in the public schools of Texas for five years. She has been called here by the local Nazarene church as pastor. Come and hear this woman preacher preach at the 11 o'clock hour Sunday. The evening service will be evangelistic. At that hour her subject will be "There Is a Way That Seemeth Right Unto a Man, But the End Thereof Are the Ways of Death." Miss Ellen Phillips, a student from the Simmons University of Abilene, will sing at both services. All are welcome. Sunday school each Sunday morning at 9:45. XX

THE ART AND CIVIC CLUB

Mrs. W. P. McCullough was hostess to the Art and Civic club on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Homer DeWolfe was leader of the program. The roll call—Changing conventions of sex—was very freely responded to by all. Mrs. M. Y. Stokes read a very interesting paper on "The Problems of Conventions and Morals." Book review—"If Winter Comes"—was given by Mrs. Homer DeWolfe. Mrs. C. A. Eacott read the poem "A Morning Wish" by W. R. Hunt. The program was concluded by the song "If Winter Comes" sung by Mrs. F. P. Bowman. Refreshments were served to the club members and a few guests. REPORTER.

IMPROVING RURAL ROADS

We are learning that poor roads, impassable during part of each year, are one of the farmer's greatest problems. Those who live in cities, from which fine paved highways stretch away in all directions, probably have a difficult time understanding his predicament. But if they can imagine themselves living on an isolated farm, without means for going to town, or for receiving medical or fire-fighting service in case of need, they will have an inkling into the plight of millions of American farm families.

The good roads movement must be extended into rural districts—and amount of traffic must not be the major consideration. Modern construction methods have made possible the building of good asphaltic surfaced roads, passable and safe under all conditions, at an extremely low cost. In any sound consideration of permanent and substantial "farm relief", the problem of good roads for fast, economical transportation of persons and goods, should play an important part.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church will meet Monday afternoon with Mrs. R. M. Thompson in business meeting, also a Voice program will be used.

All those having quilt blocks for the quilt being made by the Society please finish and bring in on that day.

The zone meeting for our district will be held at Cherokee on Tuesday the 9th of February and a good attendance of the members of the Goldthwaite Auxiliary is desired. PRESIDENT.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The official weather forecast and his assistant were just a little wrong as to their forecast last Saturday for Sunday. Both prophesied that Sunday would be one of those days when everybody could go to Sunday school and church, for the sun would shine in all of its splendor and glory. Mr. Edwards knows how to make meal out of corn and Dow Hudson knows how to mix different medicines, but neither one of these gentlemen has been in Texas long enough to tell us Saturday what kind of day we will have Sunday.

Bill Woody does not pretend to know when the sun will shine or when it will rain, but he is authority on when to put your hogs in the smoke house. He sent out an S. O. S. call Saturday telling a gentleman that it was a good time for him to salt away his year's meat. All will agree that Mr. Woody was correct. But for some reason the gentleman must not have heeded the admonition, as we have not seen any back bones and spare ribs. We ate dinner with George Wesley Jackson, Jr., Sunday. The little man had his mother prepare a feast for the pastor and his wife and George knows just the art of entertaining his company.

We met Junior Rudd on the street the other day, and he informed us that he lived in Abilene and that he was here on a visit, and that he knew to whom he was speaking and that he would be in Sunday school Sunday. This is one trait that every child ought to have, and it would not hurt the grown-ups and that is to go to Sunday school every Sunday.

I. O. Harvey has quit fishing and hunting with Claud Burch, and is coming to church right along. He has been present the last two Sunday nights. However, his wife might have had some influence in reference to his coming.

We went down to the office of F. P. Bowman the other day to find out about our city taxes, and naturally wanting to exercise our own right and be like the rest of the folk we began to murmur. Mr. Bowman looked as if he were somewhat surprised. We asked him how many had paid their taxes without "griping." We will not give his reply, but anyway we do not want to violate any code of ethics.

We understand that when the Methodist pastor pays his taxes, he carries along a few cigars for the collector. This has set a bad example for the Baptist pastor, for he never gives cigars, but always in a recipient mood. However, if you want to appeal to a Baptist you must take a fruit jar along.

We notice that Mr. Gilbert and his wife have taken over the Variety store. We bespeak for them a profitable year, and assure them that we are glad to have them become citizens of our town.

The pastor wishes that someone would inform him as to the whereabouts of one Dennis Tate. Any information leading to his whereabouts will be appreciated. We wish to express to Mr. Epps and his family on behalf of our entire church membership our sympathy because of the great tragedy that came to his home in the accidental burning to death of his mother. Mr. Epps and family recently moved to our town from Lubbock, but we have found in them good citizens and loyal to every cause of righteousness.

Remember that Dr. Hardy speaks at the Baptist church Sunday morning. Every Baptist ought to hear this message. Every boy and girl by all means ought to hear it. Dr. Hardy has been president of one of our great colleges for many years, and has been in touch with the life of young people. PASTOR.

PAYMENTS FALLING SHORT

The records at the collector's office indicate the poll tax payments will fall far below last year.

STAR SCHOOL NEWS

Universal Co-Operative Spirit

Many many factors enter into attaining success of any enterprise. No one agent can be singled out and given the entire credit and praise for such an accomplishment, as above mentioned. So it is with a school system. Unit formulas may be advanced, but on analyzing them many sub-agents are found. This writer has tried to reduce, for the sake of complexity, the factors bringing about a successful school term, to a unit-formula termed, "A Universal Co-Operative Spirit." Just what is meant by a universal co-operative spirit? Some one asks. It is the combination of four very important factors working in harmony, namely: A progressive school board, a congenial faculty, an interested community and a treasure seeking school body. The latter is very weighty in arriving at a unit formula, for if the student has no desire to acquire those treasures, which prepare him for citizenship, then the remaining three have a difficult and arduous task to perform. This writer is glad to say that Star possesses the factors, which combine to make "a universal co-operative spirit."

High Lights Around High School

School is getting along as well as usual. Weather conditions have made attendance somewhat irregular, but all are doing their best under the circumstances.

The senior class is making an intensive study of "Macbeth" this week and will soon be fully prepared to "speak their lines" in "Lovely Mary."

Mr. Gerald suggested last Friday morning at chapel that the rooms have a singing contest. This suggestion, as all others of Mr. Gerald's, is very genuine because it creates a desire in the pupil to learn those songs that are most familiar to the public. Each group appointed has been striving to be the winner of the contest.

"LaEstrella," the Spanish club completed plans this week for the all Spanish program to be given during Spanish week. Short plays, skits, songs, readings and piano solos will be represented in this unique program. The Spanish classes are supplementing their daily routine of work with topics taken from "Laprensa," "LaLuz" and "Castumbres Mexicanas." Spanish periodicals subscribed for by "La Estrella." This club is wondering why Mills county could not have some kind of a Spanish organization to forward the aims of the Spanish teacher.

The Glee club has been working rather diligently of late, not only on the numbers that are to be rendered for P. T. A., but the club has received a great number of choral club songs that are requiring more than just ordinary work. But the members like difficult numbers and do not mind the grind that it takes to master them.

Happenings in the Grades

The third, fourth and fifth grades are vying with each other in the reading contests. Stoddard Gerald is leading in the third grade with Lula Mae Neighbors following second. Rose Lee Shelton is leading in the fourth grade with Herman Collier coming second, and Roy Collier is leading in the fifth grade with Dorothy Soules following close on his heels.

The reporter is asking the hearty co-operation of all the teachers in preparing the weekly school news.

Cage Tilts

The Star Tigers, journey to Goldthwaite next Friday, Jan. 29, to clash in a cage tilt with the Eagles. This melee promises much for the cage fans. The Tigers always expect a hard fought battle when they encounter the Mayfield cagers.

Too, the Star sextette meet the Goldthwaite club in a cage battle on the same date. Both teams are well seasoned and will display exciting basket ball skill. Star is proud of her girl's team and the fans are anticipating a

CENTER POINT

Sunday was certainly disagreeable. However, a good crowd attended both Sunday school and church. Bro. Renfro did not preach Saturday night. We had two services Sunday and singing also. The Sunday school reports keep the record, in fact, they were better than they have been the past few Sundays.

Mr. and Mrs. Melton Collier and children of Goldthwaite attended church here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry and children of Lometa are visiting her mother, Mrs. Adams.

The following boys enjoyed playing forty-two in the Adams home Friday afternoon. Louis and Gordon Williams, J. N. Smith, Pete Phillips, Dallas Newman and Lester and Joe Adams.

The ladies of this community presented Bro. Renfro with a nice friendship quilt Sunday. Curtis Taylor is staying in Brownwood with his brother, who is in the hospital here.

The following young people sat until bedtime Wednesday night in the J. N. Newman home: Ola Belle and Lois Williams, Lester and Trula Adams, Virgil Terry and Gordon Williams.

Mrs. Ida Smith visited Mrs. Conner Tuesday afternoon.

Mark Fallon spent the past week end visiting home folks.

Miss Vida Montgomery of South Bennett spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Bernice Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Woods dined in the French home Sunday.

Bro. Bedford Renfro visited in the Sid Tullios home Sunday afternoon.

Lois Williams ate dinner with Carl Spinks Sunday.

Miss Ola Belle Williams visited relatives in Mullin Saturday.

Mrs. R. V. Leverett of Sweetwater spent the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Spinks.

Mrs. Julia Taylor returned home Sunday from Brownwood, where she has been at the bedside of her son, Clyde, who is still under the care of physicians there. She reports that Clyde's condition is greatly improved and we hope that at next report he will be well on the road to recovery.

Misses Julia Dee Fallon and Ola Belle Williams visited Miss Bernice Perry awhile Sunday.

Misses Lillie and Vera Conner called on Miss Trula Adams Saturday afternoon.

Miss Inez Spinks is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Will Harmon.

There was quite a number of visitors from other communities out at singing Sunday afternoon in spite of the disagreeable weather. Everyone remember to be out at Rock Springs the second Sunday afternoon at singing.

Bro. Renfro dined with Joe Spinks Sunday.

Mrs. Jim Tullios spent Sunday with Mrs. Dave Shaw.

Our Sunday school superintendent was absent at Sunday school Sunday, but the scribe failed to learn why.

Those who visited Mrs. B. I. Lawson Tuesday were Mrs. R. J. Hallford, Mrs. Ida Smith and Misses Thelma and Vera Conner.

At present the sun is shining but the wind is cold. Maybe the rain is over for a few days anyway. BO-PEEP.

OFFER STILL GOOD

The Eagle still offers a combination of the Dallas Semi-Weekly News and the Eagle one year for $1.50. This is an exceedingly low price for the two papers and will not be continued indefinitely.

winn over the Goldthwaite sextette next Friday.

On Saturday, Jan. 30, the Star quintet meets the Center City cagers on the Moline court in a cage duel for basket ball. This is a final game of the tournament sponsored by Coach Gilmore of Moline. Owing to rain this game was postponed until next Saturday, Jan. 30. REPORTER.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

Archie Hodge and family visited relatives in Mullin Sunday.

F. R. Hines of the Antelope Gap section was a business visitor to the city Saturday.

The light rain Monday was of some benefit to the small grain and helped to put a season in the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Berry returned the first of the week from a trip to New Mexico to look after their oil interests.

J. Everett Evans of Center City, a former sheriff and tax collector, is assisting in that office during the rush of tax paying.

The low price of a made-to-measure suit will surprise you. Ask Burch.

J. W. McConnell, a pioneer citizen of San Saba, who had a wide acquaintance in this section, died Sunday and was buried Monday.

J. G. Caraway has moved to his farm in Bulls Springs community and was in Saturday to have his paper changed to that route.

Those who send communications to the Eagle should be sure to let the editor know their identity, else the communication can not be published.

Owen Clements has gone to Gulf Port, Miss., to re-enter the Gulf Port Military Academy, where he was a student a year ago. He will likely be away several months.

C. S. Horton's little daughter, who spent several weeks in the hospital in Temple, was able to be brought home last Friday. She stood the trip all right and is recovering nicely.

Those who read the advertisements are always well posted on merchandise and prices and are able to save money on what they buy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stockton and family have returned from a several day's visit with Mr. Stockton's sister, Mrs. C. M. Conoley, and family near Goldthwaite. — Bell County Bulletin.

After this week a poll tax receipt issued will not entitle the holder to vote during the next twelve months, yet the tax must be paid. Those who have not procured their receipts had better hurry.

Presiding Elder Rader was here from Llano Sunday afternoon and held quarterly conference for the Methodist church. There were representatives present from several of the other churches of the county.

It will be unlawful to drive a car on the public streets or highways after February 1 without a 1932 license tag. Those who expect to run their cars after that date should secure a license prior to that time.

Those who favor the Eagle with communications or local items are always appreciated at this office.

Mrs. N. A. Ducey and her daughter, Miss Loraine, were visitors from Big Valley Saturday. The young lady is a teacher in the school at Flat Rock, San Saba county, which position she is holding for the fifth consecutive year, which proves she is a first class teacher.

The team of the Modern Woodmen of Brownwood will give an entertainment in the Woodmen hall in this city the night of Feb. 3, which will be next Wednesday night. There will be no admission charge and the Eagle is directed to say that all members of the order and their families are invited to attend.

For high class printing of all kinds come to the Eagle office. Our work is guaranteed to be neat, perfect and correct.

There was not any Sunday school Sunday morning on account of the weather being bad. But the bad weather didn't keep some from going to the B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. Some forgot their eggs, so next Sunday be sure and bring your eggs, and don't forget the beef. We had five new members. The membership drive is still going at high speed. We hope every member can be present Sunday night, for we want your weights. Be sure and weigh before you come, for it is the pounds we are wanting as well as your presence.

The singing was fine at Center Point Sunday afternoon. The house was very comfortable, after Mr. Shaw built a fire.

M. C. Morris and wife were at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. They sat until bedtime in the Nickols home after B. Y. P. U.

Fred Davis and family from Center Point visited in Ray Davis' home Sunday.

Some were disappointed Monday morning, when they woke up and it was raining, for they wanted to kill hogs.

Phillip Nickols finished sowing oats last Thursday.

Jesse Lowe, Louie Ponder, Fred Shipman, Ethel McClary, Mrs. Eula Nickols and son attended singing at Center Point Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. T. Robertson spent last Wednesday in the Nickols home.

Mr. Truett and family visited in the Shipman home Monday afternoon.

One of Mrs. Nickols' good Jersey cows died this week.

J. O. McClary sold some fat calves last week to Holland and Locklear.

J. C. Stark and wife and J. T. enjoyed a 42 game in the Webb home last Thursday night.

Miss Nellie D. Cooke spent the week end at home.

Those who enjoyed themselves in the Smith home Saturday night were Ray Davis and wife, Homer Doggett and wife, Herbert and Nellie D. Cooke, Janette Roberts and Mrs. Eula Nickols and Philip. They were treated to pop corn and peanuts.

Landy Ellis and family dined with Loy Long and wife Sunday.

Herbert Cooke spent Monday in the Nickols home.

Abbie Hunt visited with Hardy McClary Sunday night.

Claud Laird had business in town Monday.

Mesdames Nickols and Doggett and Janette Roberts visited in the Davis and Roberts home Friday afternoon.

Jack Robertson spent last week end away from home. He visited in Landy Ellis' home Friday night, Bogus' home across the river Saturday night and W. A. Daniel's home Sunday night.

Mesdames Doggett and Davis were the champion 42 players at one table in the Smith home Saturday night and Homey Doggett and Claud Smith at the other table. It made Ray Davis and Phillip Nickols sick, they were beat so bad. Herbert Cooke and Mrs. Nickols are not bad players, but Mrs. Smith and Nellie D. Cooke couldn't get their minds to working at all.

Herbert Cooke took his sister back to her school Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Faulkner spent last Wednesday night with her daughter, Mrs. Claud Laird.

"LADY OF GOLIAD" BURIED AT AUSTIN

Johanna Troutman, "The Lady of Goliad," who sleeps under a monument surmounted by a bronze figure of herself in the state cemetery at Austin, and whose portrait hangs in the senate room at the capitol, was never in Texas, while she was alive.

The story of this Georgia girl is an intriguing tale of the days of the Texas Republic. She presented the Lone Star flag to the Georgia Battalion, which came to Texas to assist in its fight for independence, and for that patriotic service Gen. J. B. Rush gave her the solid silver service, which was captured with the defeat of Santa Anna at San Jacinto. Finally, her body was moved to the state cemetery. It is all told, bit by bit, in old letters and in messages to the Texas legislature.

Miss Troutman was just 18 when the battalion was formed in answer to Stephen F. Austin's appeal for aid in Texas' struggle for independence. Daughter of a military man, Johanna was fired with enthusiasm for the cause of freedom. She lived in Knoxville, Crawford county, with her father, Col. C. A. Troutman, when the volunteers from Georgia were encamped there. Their eagerness fired her with a desire to do a service for the land she had never seen, and she made a flag for them. In November, 1835, she sent it by mail coach to the battalion, which was marching from Macon to Columbus. It reached the Georgians in December, 1835. A single five-pointed star of blue was on each side of its white silken folds. One side bore the words, "Liberty or Death," and on the other appeared a Latin motto, "Ubi Libertas habitat, ibi nostra patria est"—"Where liberty dwells, there our country is."

On January 8, 1836, amid cheers of Texas defenders, heralded by a volley of shots and the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner," the flag was raised for the first time and floated with Capt. William Brown's flag of independence over the American hotel in Velasco.

Then, on March 8, in the old fort at Goliad, where the battalion had marched from Velasco, word was received from Washington that Texas' independence had been recognized by the United States government, and the Georgia girl's flag was raised over LaBahia mission at Goliad to celebrate the freedom of Texas.

At sunset the flag was lowered. Its folds caught in the ropes and the banner was torn into pieces. Only a fragment remained attached to the flag-staff. Who can say whether that was a prophesy. Only a few days later those men who had marched under its folds were massacred at the same fort at Goliad and the fragment of Joanna Troutman's flag, which had followed them thus far, was still on the flag-staff to witness their subsequent murder by the Mexican forces, who had promised to return them to their homes.

Joanna Troutman continued living quietly in Georgia. In July 1879, she died and was buried in the cemetery at Elmwood.

Removal of her body to the state cemetery at Austin was on February 28, 1913, with impressive memorial services. There, surrounded by heroes who fought for the state she, too, had served, lies Joanna Troutman, maker of the Lone Star Flag of the Georgia Battalion. Her grave is marked with a bronze monument by Pompeo Coppini, depicting her as she made the flag. Even the detail of needle and thread is carried out. On the sides of the pedestal are the names of the men who died at Goliad, men who had been her friends in Knoxville, Ga., before they marched into Texas.

TEXAN APPOINTED BY PRESIDENT

Jesse H. Jones of Houston was named a member of the new two thousand dollar Reconstruction Finance Corporation board of directors by President Hoover Monday.

Another Southerner and Democrat, Harvey C. Couch of Pine Bluff, Ark., was also named. Republican members are Charles G. Dawes, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, and either Secretary Mellon or Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury.

Although none of the nominees have been confirmed by the Senate yet, it is taken for granted that they will all be without delay, and the directors are already mapping out relief plans.

COMMON SENSE

College professors have long been accused of lacking common sense. Book learning has often been considered a disadvantage to a business man. But the other night a college professor made an address over a nation-wide radio hook-up, which indicates that the contrary to these popular opinions may be true.

Professor Taussig is one of the greatest authorities on economics in the United States, if not the world. For many years he has been a distinguished member of the faculty of Harvard University, but when he spoke on the subject, "What the Consumer Should Do During the Depression," he talked just plain common sense.

Two extremes faced the country, he said, and one was as bad as the other. One party urged everyone to spend until it hurt—to buy everything he wanted—to buy on installments what he could not pay for in cash. This doctrine is responsible to a large extent for the depths to which the depression plunged.

On the other hand, those who since the crash have been hoarding cash, who have failed to make purchases of the things they need and can afford to pay for, or have sold possessions they were able and needed to keep, these people are doing the country great damage now.

Keep to the middle of the road, counseled the professor. Don't be wasteful or improvident in buying. Don't be miserly in hoarding. The more people who follow this advice, the sooner the country will recover its equilibrium. This may be Harvard economics, but it is good, sound common sense as well.

NATURAL MONUMENT TO GEORGE WASHINGTON

Davis Mountains country proposes to observe the George Washington Centennial year in a rather unusual way. With assistance from the state highway department, the region will open up a scenic route to what is known as the greatest natural monument to the First President. In the solid rock of a mountain visible from the Orient railroad north of Alpine, nature has carved a striking likeness of the national hero. Forehead, nose, mouth, chin and neck bear a close resemblance to those of the familiar Gilbert Stuart portrait, observers say. Other mountainous regions also boast their George Washington rocks. One in the Colorado Rockies and another in the White Mountains of New Hampshire are particularly famous.

MONKEYS USED TO CATCH RADIO SOUNDS HUMANS CAN'T HEAR

A couple of ringtailed monkeys are going to get into the radio business in Chicago. They were brought to Chicago from Caracas, Venezuela, by J. C. Coite, president of a radio and television company. Their names are Poncho and Martina.

"We are to use them in the acoustics laboratory in research on radio reproduction," Mr. Coit said. "Many sounds that are beyond the range of human detection are produced in radio monkeys' ears are attuned to catch them. Poncho and Martina's ears are to be used to aid us in learning of these sounds."

REPARATION VS. REPUDIATION

Reparation means to repay, make good, vight a wrong. Repudiation means to not pay, not to make good or right a wrong.

Now if your neighbor kills hogs and you want to borrow a shoulder of pork from him, is it right that you repay him when you kill hogs? If you borrow money from an individual or bank, is it right that you repay it? If you damage a man or his property, is it right that you make repairs? I say "Yes" to all the above questions. Because some do not pay is no reason that I should not pay my just and honest debts. If individuals, cities, states and nations were all to refuse to pay their obligations we would be in a terrible fix. Now I claim that it is as right for nations to pay their debts as it is for individuals, cities, counties and states? What say you? Boering seems to be spokesman for Germany, and he says that he does not see how Germany can make further payment on the reparation debt now or in the future, and the nations that owe us say they can't pay us unless Germany pays them. To say the least, they all could make satisfactory arrangements about the matter. So if you owe an individual, banker, groceryman, dry goods man, baker or candlestick maker, pay him or make satisfactory arrangements with him and thereby save your credit. I know it is hard these times to pay. I am often times reminded of a memory verse that was put upon the blackboard when I was a school boy which said, "Adversity was a trial of principle and without it a man hardly knew whether he was honest or not."

WILL WRITTEN ON SHINGLE IS FILED IN COURT

In Chicago, a piece of shingle three inches square was filed in probate court the other day. It was the will of the late Mrs. Mary Gormaly, 60, who wrote it in pencil on her way to a hospital for an operation from which she feared she would not survive. Court attaches said the will, which left most of her property to her husband, was the smallest one ever filed in Chicago.

OFFICIALS SERVE FREE

At Crystal City W. F. Cook has been nominated by the local Chamber of Commerce for county commissioner of that precinct. Some six or eight years ago the Chamber of Commerce secured the consent of F. W. Pulliam to serve as commissioner without pay. Since that time Charles Busey and Robert Crawford have served and S. S. Pegues is serving at the present time, all without pay. Cook has agreed, if elected, to serve in the same manner. The money which would be paid the commissioner for services is used for road work. A little expense money has been used by the commissioners serving, but of the $1,200 allowed such an officer, at least $1000 has remained in the available fund.

MORE TAXES NEEDED

Thimble, thimble, who's got the thimble? Something like that is being played by congress in an effort to locate new sources of taxation. With billions of dollars necessary, and the government accounts already in the red, somebody will have to pay. President Hoover has suggested a tax on bank checks, but the bankers point out that there is already too much hoarding of money, and such a law would aggravate it. Automobile taxes were protested by leaders of that industry at Washington Saturday. Higher income taxes are opposed by those who would have to pay them, and so on.

Conoco Germ Processed Oil Saves Motor

When Walter H. Freed reached Pueblo, Colorado, after a 41-mile drive from Colorado Springs, his car was so hot it had to be put into gear before it would stop!

He had plenty of Conoco Germ Processed Oil in the car. No steam was coming from the radiator, so he did not suspect the cooling system.

But a garage man found not a drop of water in the radiator! The 41 miles had been driven without water in the radiator—only the oil to keep the motor from burning up.

Conoco Germ Processed Oil withstood this ordeal! Inspection of the motor revealed no damage done.

Convincing evidence of Germ Processed Oil's stability, of its sure protection under the most trying conditions! Proof that Conoco Germ Processed Oil offers you the safest lubrication for your car.

The oil that protects motors through such ordeals will lubricate your car better in every-day driving. For peace of mind, for economy and long motor life, change now to Conoco Germ Processed Oil at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

We neither encourage "dry radiator" experiments nor guarantee success under all conditions. But unsolicited letters from motorists, now in our files, testify to this and hundreds of other unusual tests of Conoco Germ Processed Oil—runs of ten to over fifty miles with the crankcase empty.

CHINA'S GREAT WALL VISIBLE FROM MOON

China's Great Wall, glamorous to all who have studied geography, but usually considered significant only as a work of the dim past, has become a marker in recent news dispatches. With the fall of Chinchow-fu to Japanese forces, the Chinese have moved south of the wall, and that ancient barrier now forms the frontier between Chinese and enemy territory as it did for centuries after its construction.

"In a world of airplanes, bombs, heavy artillery and high explosives, the Great Wall of China is of no value as an obstacle to an enemy army," says a bulletin in the Dallas News. "Because this is true, and has been for a long time, the Great Wall has come to be looked upon by many as a prodigious folly. But in its day it was of incalculable value to the peace-loving Chinese, who were able for considerable periods to keep the 'Northern Barbarians' out of their country."

Astronomers have speculated that the Great Wall is one of the few works of man on earth that would be discernible by the naked eye from the moon. No other single engineering accomplishment of any age compares with it in size, extent and construction difficulties. Seldom straight and seldom level for as much as a mile, the great rampart withes its way across Northern China like some gigantic serpent, traversing valleys, climbing steep slopes and even cliffs, ascending to mountain crests, crossing gorges and taking up its way again beyond great rivers. Starting at sea level at Shan-hai-kwan on the Gulf of Chihli, it reaches an altitude of 9,900 feet among the mountains of Western China. In the intervening area it crosses several mountain ranges quite or nearly a mile high. When the wall reached a river, the usual plan was to construct parallel sections along both banks for a number of miles, thus affording an opportunity for defense of the water breach.

The Great Wall is not a single structure, but a system with sections built at different times. Its magnitude can best be understood if its is imagined that it were taken bodily up and set down in the United States, with its eastern end at Philadelphia. This transplanted wall would extend westward to within seventy-five miles of Pittsburgh, where it would branch. The northern section would pass near Youngstown, Ohio, and on into central Ohio. The southern loop would dip far into West Virginia, then turn west to meet the main wall near Columbus, O. The rampart would then extend southward through Cincinnati and Louisville, to turn north-westward and recross the Ohio river at the southwest corner of Indiana. Traversing southern Illinois, the wall would cross the Mississippi river 100 miles below St. Louis, and after describing two more loops embracing large areas of southern Missouri and northern Arkansas, would strike north-westward to come to an end 100 miles west of Topeka, Kan. A wall halfway across the North American Continent!

The Great Wall is at its best in its eastern section. There its sheer faces, from twenty to fifty feet high, are constructed of carefully built masonry. In places the entire wall is of masonry, in others the space between the masonry faces is filled in with stones and earth. North of Peiping (Peking) great blocks of carefully cut granite are used, held in place by mortar superior to that made by the Chinese today. In other localities the wall is faced with large bricks of a finer quality than most of those now manufactured in the Western World.

The first disconnected walls along the northern frontier of China were probably constructed as early as 469 B. C., when Xerxes was invading Greece. But the ruler who made the Great Wall great came two and a half centuries later — Chin Shih Huang-ti, who tried to brush aside previous Chinese history and who insisted on being called "First Emperor". Improving existing walls and erecting new ones, Chin creat-

THE JESUITS GO

The Jesuits are to be driven out of Spain. To be sure, they may come back again, but the improbability of that is such as to lead us to believe that we are witnessing an event in history, which will be noted both in ecclesiastical and civil annals for a long time to come. The significance of it is that the Society of Jesus is of Spanish origin. In Spain its power reached the zenith.

The Jesuits, of course, will not come to an end. A review of the four hundred years of their stormy existence shows that greater catastrophes than this one have been survived. They have been at odds at one time or another, with pretty nearly every government on earth, including the papacy itself. In fact for a time they were suspended under Roman ban, and yet lived to receive the blessings of the Holy Father once more.

The fault of the Jesuits is that they have been all things to all men that by all means they might carry out the purposes of their order. Men, obstacles, law, persecution, death—all have been as nothing before them. They have trafficked with kings and executioners; they have curried favor and defied potentates; they have gone in disguise as artists, scientists and teachers; they have dissembled the very doctrines of their creed to make the essentials thereof more palatable to men of alien races and heathen background; they have suffered every torture, borne every privation and dared every danger that ever daunted lesser men.

The Jesuits have engaged in politics in practically every Catholic land—certainly they have been accused of it in every Latin country. Influence and power they have sought, and not infrequently they have gained both; but both were means and not the end. And there, rather than in theology or abstract morals, lies the basis of the accusation that they have made the end to justify the means. Their net influence on politics may have been good for the Society of Jesus, but it has been judged bad for the state and for the people. That is why Spain sends them away. —Dallas News.

ENGLISH BOBBIES SHOW AMAZING PLUCK

When rioting convicts in bleak old Dartmoor prison in England were beating back their guards and had almost reached the walls and liberty, a detachment of English policemen armed with sticks charged them. The convicts had rocks weighing two and three pounds, but the stout English bobbies waded right into the fight and in a little while 60 convicts were stretched out unconscious on the ground.

Starting in the mess hall because the porridge had no sugar, the riot caused the burning of the central building of the prison and the looting of warehouses before the police quelled it. The prison, which was established in 1808 and contained American prisoners during the war of 1812, is located in bleak moorland. Its record is that no prisoner has ever succeeded in escaping from it.

The structure has been extended and repaired at intervals during the last 2,200 years. During the last 300 years no extensive repairs have been made, and many of the less carefully built sections of the long rampart are falling into decay.

The city of Houston lacks just $1,721,000 of making both ends meet, say the bankers to whom the mayor has appealed for expense money. Until city expenditures are pared to agree with expected receipts, the bankers won't advance any cash. The city owes so much bond interest, it finds it hard to keep running on what is left. Advance payment of taxes by the telephone and gas companies provided funds for paying the police and firemen, but 400 laborers are still waiting for their checks.

Pity the poor rich man. Gov. Sterling's business enterprises in Houston owe that city $83,000 back taxes. Friends of the governor cite this as an instance of how he has been forced to neglect his private business for the sake of the state. Unfriendly critics are wondering if the governor has as much business ability as he was credited with during the campaign. They also cite the governor's recent testimony in a Red River bridge case, in which he stated that as highway commission chairman he signed an agreement to pay off the private bridge owners without reading the document.

AN OLD TIMER TELLS HIS STORY

"Each of us, I suppose, contacts life in his own unique way," said William Minton of Dallas, as reported by W. S. Adair in the Dallas News.

"I began at Thebes, Ill., thirty six miles up the river from Cairo. In 1860 the scourge known as black vomit, starting at New Orleans, made its way up the river, killing the people by thousands. It would seize a man in robust health and in less than two hours he would be a corpse. All the carpenters in and about Thebes were kept busy making coffins. When they heard that a man had been attacked by the malady they would, without further ado, select or make a rough casket to fit him and place it at his door. One day a carpenter who had just completed a casket remarked, 'Why, that would just fit me,' and to prove it got into it. The next day he was buried in it. Black vomit in 1860 almost depopulated Memphis, Cairo and other river towns, as yellow fever did several times before and after that year.

"At the end of the war I went to Gibson county, Tenn., where I set up as building contractor and did well until the dry year of 1874. Not a drop of rain fell from April till October. The seeds the farmers sowed did not come up, and even the grass and weeds withered and blew away as dust. Horses, cattle and fowls died, and cholera struck the hogs. I went back to Illinois and bought a drug store at Old Unity, where President Garfield appointed me postmaster, and where on the side I operated a sorghum factory three months out of the year.

"I was out for the money and hearing that gold was to be had in New Mexico for the picking up, I lost no time in turning up at Santa Fe. I went to the Kelley mines, west of Socorro, to toil as a laborer until I could get the hang of it. The miners had to handle great masses of lead in order to get a little silver and gold. The dust that rose from the lead affected their lungs, and everyone who had been there three months had a hacking cough, and I heard with alarm that no man lived longer than three years, after the cough dragon struck him. I went to Socorro, where the Mexicans were dying by the hundred from smallpox, and nobody seeming to pay any attention to the passing of them.

"My next stand was at El Paso. Finding nothing to do there I went to Ysleta, then the county seat. Ysleta had a population of about 5,000. I whiled away one idle day by crossing to Mexico, and watching the Mexicans sow wheat, in December. They used a stick plow, with a small steel point to it, and oxen with boards across their horns, instead of yokes on their necks. They scattered the

DUTY OF THE SCHOOL

The primary function of schools, colleges and universities should be to organize and offer to the sons and daughters of all classes and all conditions of men the opportunity to achieve self-education.

We have not been content with the organization of opportunity. We have insisted upon doing every possible thing for people. Modern governments have fallen into an orgy of spending through undertaking to do for people a thousand and one things they should be doing for themselves. Modern schools have gone in for unprecedented expansion through the attempt to foist education upon people instead of furnishing people with the opportunity to educate themselves.

I have often said that the paramount need of our education system is half as much teaching by teachers and twice as much learning by students. Confucius said: "If you show a man one angle of a subject, he ought to see the other three angles himself."

This single principle of opportunity in place of the now sovereign principle of coddling if really put into practice would double the effectiveness of our institutions while drastically reducing their budgets.—Glenn Frank.

TEXAS SUBDIVISIONS
DEBT IS $673,295,945

For the first time in history Texas now knows the amount of the bonded indebtedness of the various political subdivisions of the state.

Returns collected from 250 of the 255 counties in Texas by George H. Sheppard, state comptroller, reveal that the total bonded indebtedness and other outstanding obligations total $673,295,945.96.

The compilation made by Comptroller Sheppard shows the indebtedness, to be divided as follows: Counties, $297,225,913.23; Cities and towns, $268,838,069.98; common school districts, $11,093,898.66; independent school districts, $75,112,822.38; water control and levee districts, $21,025,241.71.

wheat by hand on the hard ground and pretended to cover it up by running a few furrows an inch in depth with their stick plows, and paid no attention to the crows and chickens that followed them and picked up four-fifths of the grain."

From there Minton went to Luling and thence to Temple, where he landed with just $1.50 in his pocket.

"I got work in the Santa Fe railroad shops. Temple was on a boom, I bought some town lots and sold them at a big profit. It was the year of the state-wide prohibition campaign, 1887, and Temple went dry, not by reason of the campaign, but for lack of rain. The city waterworks, built at a cost of $40,000 went over to the pros and the city had to haul water eleven miles. The railroad threatened to move the shops to Cleburne. The boomers got busy, called in water witches, and lost no time in voting $100,000 bonds for new water works. The contractors placed the big standpipe in the residence section. The first time it was filled, it burst, turned over and flooded several residences, and a church and caused the death of one man, an engineer on the Santa Fe, who was imprisoned in his collapsed house, and burned to death in the fire started by the lantern he had in his hand.

"The drought put Temple out of business, and the people left in bunches. The roads were full of covered wagons of farmers on the way to where it rained. But the next year the drought was broken, and the farmers raised bumper crops. Temple was on a second boom.

"People nowadays have an idea that a man who came west fifty years ago, ought to be rich by now. They forget that the greater part of the state was a desert and that the opportunities were largely imaginary, like the mirages you see on the Plains. They looked substantial, but remained to be developed. There was no certainty about anything, except that it was not going to last."

SPEED AND JUDGMENT

The exercise of good judgment in relation to speed is the hall mark of the careful and able driver. Under no condition should speed be regulated entirely by the "legal limit". In other words, the driver should never consider that the maximum "legal limit" is his minimum rate of speed.

Under many conditions, the so-called "legal limit" is highly dangerous—often entirely impracticable. That is because the "legal limit" is designed in many cases for ideal driving conditions only. To the driver of good judgment, anything tending to interfere with those conditions necessarily cuts down the rate of speed.

In cities where there is a speed law in general, there are also special subsidiary laws for congested centers. These laws are printed with the traffic regulations which anyone may obtain.

But, in suburban and country districts these "subsidiary traffic laws" are unwritten. Their recognition and observance are left to the discretion of the motorist. In many, many accidents, neglect of the observance of these unwritten laws is the cause of misfortune.

A few of the conditions which the driver with good judgment can recognize as unwritten law are as follows:

A choppy road full of "potholes".
Unfamiliarity with the route and the necessity for finding and reading ALL road directions.
Unusually heavy oncoming traffic and bad gutters.
Single "S" or double "S" curves.
A high road crown and slippery pavement.
Pedestrians who happen to be using the road as a pathway.
Farms with house and barn separated by road.
An asphalt road bed, rain, poor tire tread and autumn leaves.
The foregoing are only a few of many situations which might render the "legal limit" a hazardous undertaking. In other words, use good judgment.

Pete McKenzie, convicted of killing a San Antonio detective in 1927, escaped from the Bexar county jail in San Antonio early Wednesday morning. McKenzie had been sentenced to death. After three last minute reprieves by Governor Dan Moody, he was remanded for a sanity hearing. After two state insane hospitals had declared him sane and refused to keep him, he was brought back to the Bexar county jail, where he had been in solitary confinement three months.

A boycott against Japan because of its aggression in China is being discussed by the United States and English governments. Protests have so far been without result. Chinese officials claim that Japan intends to wrest the supremacy of the Pacific from America as soon as it has accomplished its aims in China.

A drive to slash taxes in Texas was announced Thursday by a convention in Fort Worth of the State Taxpayers association of Texas.

"We old timers have brought the cattle business this far, and now it's time for us to step down and let the young fellows carry it on," said Col. Ike T. Pryor of San Antonio at the opening of the American National Live Stock association there this week. Only a sprinkling of the old timers is in attendance this year.

About $150,000,000 was loaned to 750 banks in 43 states by the National Credit Corporation, which was formed last October to aid weak banks, its chairman, George M. Reynolds of Chicago has announced. The corporation is now to have its work turned over to the new two billion dollar corporation, which has just been established by congress.

A Dallas cop made a "water haul" the other day. A negro he arrested for running a red light had in his car, a shotgun, an automatic pistol, a revolver and a case of half-gallon jars filled with a white liquid. The negro said he had been on a hunting trip, where he had killed a rabbit with the shotgun, that he was carrying the pistols to a pawn shop, and that the fruit jars contained mineral water for his wife. The police examined the jars. Sure enough they contained water. The negro is still in jail. Maybe the rabbit he killed didn't have the right kind of foot.

COUNTY CAMPAIGN

Some interest has developed in the county campaign the past few weeks and indications are now that there will be a good deal of life in it before the close. Keep your eye on the announcement column and see the list of good and well qualified citizens offering their services.

Jake O. Kirby

In the announcement column appears the name of Jake O. Kirby, who asks for a second term as public weigher at Goldthwaite, which represents precincts 1, 2, and 4. He has filled the office since last election and has done his work faithfully and well. He has dealt fairly with all the people, buyers and sellers, and he has the commendation and friendship of those who have had business with him. He is always attending to his duties and those who need his services have no trouble in locating him when they need him. The good record he has made in the office is a matter of pride to his friends and those who supported him in the last campaign have had no cause to regret their action. He has proved himself worthy of the confidence reposed in him.

E. I. Oxley

In the announcement column appears the name of E. I. Oxley, a farmer and rancher of the Mullin section, who is a candidate for commissioner for precinct No. 3. He is well qualified for the position, both as a business man and a road builder. He was reared in Mills county and has spent most of his life in the precinct he desires to represent. Friends all over the precinct are strong in his support and those who know him best are enthusiastic in his praise. He feels he is able to render real service to his people and his knowledge of taxable values and the resources of the county would make his services of benefit to the entire county. If he is selected to represent the interests of precinct No. 3, they will be well represented.

ENGLISH SUBMARINE BELIEVED LOST

Hope of saving the 62 men in the submarine M-2 which sank off Portland, England, dissolved with the fading day Wednesday. The wives of the crew, most of them watching operations of the salvage vessels from the docks, received telegrams from the commander of the submarine's mother ship, the Dolphin, that he feared the men were lost.

Even the women who had borne up most bravely gave way to despair at this. A statement from an admiralty official late that evening said hope had not been given up entirely, but chances of a rescue were growing more slender with each hour.

"Everything depends on whether the ship is damaged and has filled up," he said. "If she is not damaged, there still ought to be enough air to keep the men alive."

A check of the personnel list made, indicated there might have been more men aboard than was thought, including two members of the royal air force in charge of the small seaplane. The submarine carried seven submarine officers and fifty-three men.

There were rumors the ship had been located on the bottom by airplanes especially equipped for the work and communication had been established with the men inside, but these reports were denied by the admiralty office.

Another rumor said one of the planes had sighted a large patch of oil on the surface, but it developed it was only mud stirred up by drags scraped along the bottom by the salvagers.

The submarine had made a dive Tuesday morning and did not return to the surface. Its exact location was unknown.

Russia, claimed by communists as the workingman's paradise, has just levied a new income tax on incomes of 900 rubles and over. This is about $450 a year, or incomes of less than $9 a week. The money received is to be used for building houses.

FORMER KAISER HAS 73rd BIRTHDAY

At Doorn, Holland, the seventy-third birthday of former Kaiser Wilhelm Wednesday was overshadowed by mourning, as it was two years ago, when the loss of his favorite brother, Henry, Germany's sailor prince, cast a gloom over the anniversary.

This time the bereavement is still more recent. His sister, the former Queen Sophie of Greece, died only a fortnight ago at Frankfurt-on-Main.

In addition, the exiled monarch's health is not good. He is beginning to feel the infirmities of age, and his Dutch retreat, in winter, has not exactly an enviable climate. Raw and damp mists are likely to settle in the part of Holland where he resides.

A bad cold which kept Wilhelm indoors some weeks ago was followed by bronchitis, and he has in consequence to be extremely careful as regards outdoor exercise. Although still an early riser, he now allows himself more latitude in the matter of an afternoon nap.

Wood cutting, his favorite pursuit for years, he had to abandon some time ago, when the trees on the Doorn house estate thinned out to the point that no more could be spared if privacy from prying folk were to be maintained. The ex-kaiser has been contenting himself with sawing up lumber brought from a distance, but latterly an electric saw has been called into operation. Wilhelm feels he is becoming an old man now.

He finds, however, plenty of occupation at home in an intellectual way, and he keeps himself constantly informed on how the world goes. He will, for instance, watch the progress of the German athletes at the Los Angeles Olympiad with keen interest. Archaeology also engrosses him and he often has the latest discoveries explained to him by competent German authorities.

With these learned friends and with museum directors he keeps in constant touch and spends hours writing at a high desk in his study. Here he sits perched on a swivel stool shaped like a riding saddle, and house orders are that he is not to be disturbed on any account while at work.

Princess Hermine's youngest daughter, now 13, and known in the Doorn household as "The General," because she manages everybody who lives there, was the first to greet Wilhelm at breakfast on his birthday.

Later, the Rev. Walter Richter, once the court preacher at Berlin, came to lead the morning devotions. Afterward Wilhelm and Hermine carried flowers into the room which used to be occupied by the Empress Auguste Victoria.

There was a comparatively simple birthday dinner at noon at which Hermine proposed his majesty's health, a function usually performed by the crown prince. The adjutant said the number of telegrams and letters was greater today than on any previous birthday.

MIDWAY

We are all enjoying the sunshine, after so much rain.

Mrs. Deward Reynolds has been quite ill, but we are glad to report that she is improving now.

Little Jesse Frank Petsick is on the sick list this week.

Miss Floy Beard taught school for her sister, Miss Hazel, last Wednesday.

Herbert Cooke of Rock Springs was a welcome visitor at school last Friday.

A large per cent of the pupils were absent from school Monday, on account of the rain.

Earl Jackson was absent from school all last week on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Petsick and little daughter visited Mr. and Mrs. Deward Reynolds Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Anderson spent Thursday night in the J. M. Petsick home.

Andrew Anderson and M. W. Wright worked on Charlie Featherston's house last Thursday.

Let's all remember and go to the fifth Sunday meeting at North Bennett over the week end.

With city employees without funds to pay for stamps, Houston still has nearly a million dollars in the banks there. The money is from bond issues, however, and can only be spent as provided in the election.

Illinois towns are the latest to declare a moratorium. Aurora, Urbana and three other Illinois cities have closed up for five days to prevent bank runs. All stores except drug stores and groceries were shut tight.

Believe it or not, a Texas congressman has suggested a new way to save money. It is to discontinue the practice of sending a delegation of representatives at government expense to every funeral of a member of congress.

The Texas law prohibiting motor trucks from hauling more than ten bales of uncompressed cotton on the highways was held invalid by the supreme court of the United States Monday. Such a law would give the railroads a virtual monopoly, it had been claimed.

Speaker Garner thinks it likely that a vote on resubmission of the 18th amendment or its modification will be voted on in the house. A petition of 145 members is necessary to get it acted upon. In the senate a resolution calling on the states to hold referendums on the question met with overwhelming defeat—55 to 15.

A committee composed of Methodists from both churches, north and south, met in Pittsburgh last week and revised their hymnals. About 200 hymns were eliminated from the new hymnal. "Rock of Ages," was retained unanimously, but "Oh, Come With Me" and "Oh, Perfect Life of Love," were dropped.

It costs less to live now than a year ago by 10 per cent. So says the bureau of labor statistics, after studying living costs in 32 representative cities throughout the country. But it still costs 46 per cent more to live now than it did in 1913, although prices of farm products are much lower than they were then.

In Chicago, union hearse and funeral carriage drivers decided that no private vehicles should be allowed in funeral processions. They held up a number of funerals and stopped all drivers who did not belong to the union. One automobile of high school students put out of a procession was struck by a speeding truck, and several young people killed. When an American Legion member died, the corpse was carried to the cemetery on an army caisson, and the members marched.

Those who favor the Eagle with communications or local items are always appreciated at this office.

AGRICULTURE BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

In Washington the house passed the $175,000,000 bill making appropriations for the agricultural department and sent it to the senate.

Passage came a few minutes after the house had rejected a proposal to reduce by 5 per cent the personnel of the agricultural department.

As passed by the house the bill carried $175,408,814, over $10,000,000 below budget estimates and $60,000,000 below last year's appropriation.

X-RAY TO DECIDE ON 1000-TO-1 DEATH GAMBLE

In New York this week Baby Diana Moore and her "poor little brain" went under the x-ray preparatory—perhaps to a 1000-to-1 gamble with death.

"I'd take the chance," said the 13-months-old infant's mother, Mrs. Lillian Moore, "even if it were one in a million. I think any mother who would not would be a coward."

Little Diana, confronted with a life of idocy unless science can relieve the pressure of the too-firmly knit skull about her cramped brain, cries a little, coos a little and smiles much. She is physically perfect, but has been backward in mental development.

There was a consultation of four doctors over her. None of them would discuss the case, but Mrs. Moore—who is only 19—said one of the four surgeons had opposed the operation.

The x-ray examination was to determine if there is enough brain matter to enable little Diana to develop into a normal child. Should the answer be negative, the doctors said, there would be little purpose in operating at all. The object of the operation is to expand the skull to permit the brain to develop.

Mrs. Moore's husband walked out of the house a year ago saying he was going to look for a job. He never returned.

WOMAN IS PAROLED

The other day the governor paroled from the state prison a woman not far from 70 years of age. She had finished eighteen years in the penitentiary; her record there was acceptable; the papers of her case were satisfactory, so she got her parole.

Investigators find that she had four life sentences assessed against her. Evidently the juries thought she ought to stay in the penitentiary, but the governor disagrees, and governors have a later say than juries in such matters.

Meanwhile, however, three little stepchildren of the paroled woman—three little tykes between four and seven years of age, whom she was accused of poisoning with arsenic and burning with lye—will not be paroled. They are still dead. — Dallas News.

Miss Mills' pupils rendered the chapel program Monday. The program was enjoyed by everyone. Dallas Newman and Pete Phillips visited during this program.

RAIN

This school will undoubtedly turn out a few firemen. Anyway, the pupils are not afraid of water.

SICKNESS

Clyde Taylor isn't doing so well. The operation has been performed. We are anxious for him to be able to come home. We miss him in our school work and play.

We are glad to have Anna Belle Teiferteller back in school. She has been sick of an attack of scarletina.

We miss Norma Lee Harmon in our room. We hope her sickness doesn't prove serious. Clyde Teiferteller has been absent for several days on account of the earache.

Alvin Spinks is back in school after a severe attack of sore throat.

SPORTS

We have a new baseball and bat and if we pupils have our way, we are going to play a few match games of baseball.

The little boys are still enthused over tops and marble games.

VISITORS

Willard Davis, Mrs. R. V. Leverett, Rosa Spinks, Leona Newman, Pete Phillips and Dallas Newman have visited school of late. We are always glad to have visitors.

WIT

Mr. Davis has a ram, which has been the center of attraction for those who go and come to school through his pasture. Undoubtedly we will be in practice to run in time to enter some of the sports represented at the scholastic league meet in Spring.

"PROFESSIONAL" CHURCH JOINER GETS PEN TERM

At Amarillo, Wednesday, Kam-eron Burgess, admitted "professional" church joiner, got a two-year prison sentence on his plea of guilty in taking $52 from the First Christian church there.

Burgess was arrested in Oklahoma City. He said he had joined several churches there. He became a member of the Polk Street Methodist church in Amarillo a few days before the Christian Church robbery.

The safe was looted while Burgess was waiting for Rev. H. A. Shaw, assistant pastor, in the latter's study.

NEWS ODDITIES

Los Angeles—Her lifelong penchant for paper dolls was carried out by Rovano Valentine into her wedding plans. Miss Valentine and her fiance, William H. Whitley; Judge Carl A. Stutsman and all bridal attendants were dressed in paper clothes at the marriage.

New York—Alfred E. Smith, author, receives 90 cents a word for his writings. Strangely enough he doesn't write. He makes notes on old envelopes and from them delivers a speech, which is taken down by a stenographer and used for newspaper or magazine articles. He's working on a book now and it's being done the same way.

Kingfisher, Okla. — Here's a real bridge marathon: Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burns and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collins of Kingfisher are playing a million point auction match. The score at the end of the year, compiled January 9, was 200,265 to 187,177 in favor of the Burns. They estimated the match will be completed in three years.

Evanston, Ill., Northwestern University professors must be good. Every single one of them was graded by the students and all of them passed. For years the professors had been grading the undergrads, and the Daily Northwestern, student publication, decided it was high time to reverse the process for once. Forty-five of the teachers got "A's". The remainder received "B's" or "C's", "F." meaning "flunk," was received by none.

Out on Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles, where they call it a "walkathon" because the contestants walk, a skunk also is just a plain polecat. But when someone merrily tossed a skunk out on the dance floor, the walkathon turned into a marathon—and where 14 couples had just passed the 340th hour of walking, the polecat stalked in solitary grandeur. Assigned to corral the varmint, Police Officer Johnson started to shoot it, but changed his mind and, in his sadly limited knowledge of skunks, picked it up and took it to the station in a patrol car for "evidence." The skunk was ordered killed and incinerated. The walkathon was resumed even, while the floor was being fumigated.

Chicago—Linus Larson is happy. The 59-year-old Chicago resident was free at last of a two and one-half inch knife blade he had been carrying around in his brain for 30 years without knowing what was the matter with him. The blade was successfully removed at a hospital last Tuesday. Most of the scar tissue that formed in the three decades since the knife was driven into Larson's skull, presumably in a saloon fight long before the days of prohibition. Physicians expressed hope that removal of the blade, which was imbedded in a "silent area" of the left frontal lobe, would relieve the patient of attacks of epilepsy, which prompted Larson to submit to the surgical operation, despite the fact he was told he was a "poor risk" because of his age.

Brunswick, Ga.—Capt. W. G. Lee will retire March 1, with 41 years experience as a seafaring man and the prank played on a president of the United States. He is a steamboat captain of the Savannah district, and says he once made fish bite for Grover Cleveland. He was port captain for the Indian River Steamboat company in Florida, when Mr. Cleveland went there for a three day fishing trip. Capt. Lee feared the fish would not bite when the presidential pole was cast, so he stationed several negroes with a good supply of large bluefish under the dock. "The negroes would drag Mr. Cleveland's line under the dock," he recalled, "and attach a large fish to it." The distinguished visitor was elated over his catches and the reputation of Florida's fishing ground was saved.

PROMINENT MAN TO GATESVILLE

Mr. C. C. Hancock has accepted a position with G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. at Gatesville, as bookkeeper and assistant manager. He will enter upon his duties Feb. 1. Mr. Hancock was manager of the J. H. Randolph Dry Goods business here for several years and is a capable business man.

Mrs. Hancock and children will not leave at this time, but will follow soon. We regret to lose these good people from our town, but wish for them the best of life in their new home.

TRIP BEGINS MONDAY

J. W. (Happy) Shelton, state manager of the Bankers National Insurance company of New Jersey, Monday will begin the trip he earned because of the amount of business done by his company in Texas last year.

He will sail from New York for the Bermudas for a three-week vacation. While in the islands he will attend the national convention of the firm he represents.

The high production record under his management won for him the trip. He left Fort Worth for New York last Tuesday.

The above item from the Sunday Star-Telegram will be read with pleasure by many of the Enterprise readers, as Happy Shelton is well known here, having married Miss Aubrey Jones, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Jones, now of Ingleside, Texas.

M. Y. P. D. PROGRAM

Program for Sunday, Jan. 31. Subject: How can we tell what is right and what is wrong. Leader: Dew Shelton.

Song: Prayer: Scripture: John 5:10-17. Jesus cures a man on Sabbath — Francis Leineweber. Jesus censured by the Jews — Ethel Dean McFarland. What is pleasing in the sight of God — Hoyt Williams. Song: Jesus' standard of value. — Matt 6:25-25-34; Mark 17:10-22.—Wilba Kemp.

WEATHER AND CONDITIONS

This section has been blessed with all kinds of weather during January, except dry weather. The greater part of the month being extremely warm for the season, but Saturday night brought the desired freeze and Sunday morning found the ground frozen firmly, followed by a rise in temperature at night, causing another rain Monday morning. The ground is now thoroughly soaked and seeps are springing up in many places, the best season since 1919.

Livestock are wintering fine. Very few of the farmers are having to feed any of their stock.

Corn needs sunshine to make it grow. Some complaints of green bugs. However, the thing most desired at this time by the farmers of this section is dry weather and sunshine, so they may be able to get their land in condition to plant, as very few have been able to get in their fields since early fall.

A. H. Daniel, Mullin druggist, made a business trip to Goldthwaite Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Lindsey and Miss Flowers were Mullin visitors Saturday.

Miss Marie Calder left Thursday for Jarrell, for a visit with her aunt, Mrs. Connelley.

We are glad to report little Miss Joyce Preston as greatly improved, after a week's suffering with pneumonia.

Miss John Cunningham, English teacher in Mullin school, spent the week end with her home folk in Comanche.

Miss Rosa Meek Fletcher filled the vacancy in school caused by the illness of Miss Nelson, during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pickens of Lometa were guests of J. J. Canady and A. H. Pickens and families Sunday.

E. J. Steinmann of Center Point was here yesterday and reports Mrs. Steinmann as greatly improved.

Miss Winnie Kimble was operated on for appendicitis in a Brownwood sanitarium Monday. She is reported as doing nicely.

Doc Bean, one of Mullin's old timers, who recently moved here from Alvarado, was in town Wednesday meeting his old friends.

Homer Shelton of Colorado is spending a fifteen day vacation with homefolks. He is now employed with a grocery firm in Colorado, Texas.

Presiding Elder Rader of the Llano district preached at the Methodist church here Sunday night, after holding quarterly conference at Goldthwaite in the afternoon.

Ward Farmer has just returned from a visit to Crane and other points in West Texas oil fields. He reports business as very limited there in the oil business.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ingram are happy over the arrival of a young daughter in their home last Thursday. The young lady bears the name of Fannie Estelle Ingram.

We are glad to be able to report Miss Laura Nelson back on duty in Mullin high school, after having been seriously sick during the past week.

S. H. Davis was carried to Brownwood to receive treatment for one of his eyes, which has become infected in some way and several days has been giving him severe pain.

Vernon Jones of Mullin made the honor roll for the fall term at Texas Technological college with an average grade of B plus on 18 term hours of work, according to the report of the registrar's office.

Mesdames L. J. Smith, F. A. Leineweber and O. L. McFarland visited Mrs. J. H. Brown in Brownwood Wednesday. Mrs. Brown has been sick for some time, but is reported improving.

Dr. W. M. Rader, our presiding elder, brought us a wonderful message Sunday night on the all important question of prohibition, and what should be our attitude toward this question at this time.

Carol Henry of Fort Worth, who has been with the City Service oil company of that city, is at home on a furlough. He brought a pretty new radio home with him for a gift to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Henry.

Plans for re-roofing the Methodist church are under way, and it is hoped that they will soon be completed, for this work is badly needed. The building is being damaged by the continued rain, which we are having at this time.

A fine report was had at the first quarterly conference of this charge, which was held at Goldthwaite Sunday afternoon, in joint session, with other charges of this section of the country. A good representation of the officials from this charge was present, and the reports were good considering the condition of the times.

O. L. McFarland returned Saturday, after spending some time in Arizona.

Mrs. W. M. Address of Bellville came in Friday and looked after some business interests here.

Methodist church at Center City will have an educational rally next Sunday, at which time several prominent speakers are expected to be present. A welcome is extended to all who may desire to attend by the good people of that community.

Mrs. J. D. Ramsey and Mrs. I. McCurry were recent visitors in San Saba.

Geo. M. Fletcher, A. H. Daniel and C. C. Hancock made a business trip to Brownwood Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Ramsey and daughter, Miss Johnnie Mae, Mary Ruth Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Wilson, Mrs. I. McCurry, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Casey and daughter, Barbara June, attended the Methodist quarterly conference at Goldthwaite Sunday afternoon.

W. H. G. Chambers of Cross Cut was a Mullin visitor Saturday, having come down to look after his ranch interests in this section.

Five young men from San Saba had the misfortune of going into the ditch with their car about 2 miles west of town Saturday afternoon and demolishing a wheel. However, none of the occupants were seriously injured. The young men had been attending the tournament at Brownwood, before the accident occurred.

E. I. Oxley of Prairie was in town Saturday to meet his sister, Mrs. W. M. Address, of Bellville.

Several Mullin citizens attended the tournament at Brownwood Friday and Saturday. Supt. Scott and the Mullin Bulldogs competed, but failed to bring home the grapes, having been eliminated early in the tournament. However, like the good sports they are they enjoyed many good games, while there and report a good time—eliminating the mud.

NEW GOLD FEVER RAGES IN MEXICO

A new gold fever, akin to that which brought the conquistadores across the Atlantic and turned Spanish commoners into golden knights almost exactly 400 years ago, is sweeping the whole of Oaxaca Valley today.

Following the discovery of a forgotten tomb of a group of ancient Mixtecan nobles last week and the uncovering of millions of dollars worth of gold and jewels, the belief grew among the people today that further fabulous treasure awaits the excavator's spade and pick.

A party of the government's principal archeologists has arrived to study the treasure, which is no wonder heavy military guard.

The government party is headed by Ragadas Vertiz, Mexican archeological director; Ignacio Marquina, director of pre-Hispanic monuments and Fernando Barbo, director of anthropology of the National Museum.

It is the potential treasure that still awaits whoever may be able to find the lost Mixtecan royal city, however, that has fired Oaxacan imaginations. The present find is outside the true Mixtecan country, and the ancient capital, where the remainder of the Mixtecan kings held court and were buried, holds the prospect of discoveries much greater than the present one.

The valley of Oaxaca, which has been rocked and shaken by quakes since long before the coming of the Spaniards, probably was the prize over which the Mixtecan and Zapotecans fought the endless war that survived even the Spanish conquest.

The discoverer of the Mixtecan tomb, Professor Alfonso Caso, said today the principal tomb was the seventh invaded by his excavators, and the first to give up extensive treasure. Others evidently held the remains of common soldiers, although gold relics were found in these also.

The government is taking extreme care with the treasure recovered, resolved to keep it under federal control, for some precious relics uncovered in Oaxacan excavations of the past have become scattered, some of them going into the hands of private collectors in the United States.

Excavation work in other places around the king's tomb is being pushed in an effort to turn up further treasure before the work is halted a month from now by exhaustion of the fund and by the beginning of the rainy season.

The experts were attempting to decipher carvings on human bones inside the tomb which seemed to tell of battles and conquests, and reverence to some idolized Mixtecan god, called "Xipixip." Evidence that the Mixtecan had a calendar, rivaling that of the Aztecs, was found in the tomb. — Houston Chronicle.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

"Other men have been great, but very few have been more human." Thus one writer makes his estimate of the philosopher and man of letters, whose birthday is celebrated in the America he helped create. It is a rare tribute, and one deserved by Benjamin Franklin.

The judgment of time occasionally alters the position public men have achieved in their own generation. The villain is painted in lighter colors, the hero is smudged with the soot of critical modernists. So far as Benjamin Franklin is concerned, no American today judges him more harshly than the preceding generations, because he was never deified like Washington and others of the Founding Fathers. On the contrary, his aspect as a founder of modern civilization grows clearer as years pass.

The homely virtues, which the author of "Poor Richard's Almanac" displayed at the dawn of the nineteenth century are those we would like to encourage in America today. Not that conditions and standards of living have not changed. We can not live as Franklin lived any more than we can substitute the horse and buggy for the automobile and continue to make material and industrial progress. Nevertheless, the maxims of the man who charmed the French court and nation, when he was minister to that country during the revolution have endured and have influenced tremendously the people who are proud to claim him. We like to think that we are following the advice he proffered in simple and homely phrase. We long to believe that the virtues and standards he upheld are our own.

Benjamin Franklin was one of America's immortals. The founder of the Pennsylvania Gazette was a poor young printer, when he first landed in the City of Brotherly Love. When he died he had reached a position of worldwide fame. He had been America's representative in France when the infant nation was struggling desperately for freedom. He had met and conquered in straightforward fashion the most brilliant minds of England. He had sat in the 1787 convention, which framed the Federal Constitution of the United States, and had shrewdly pointed out errors never envisioned by the enthusiasts, who saw a government take form and shape in their agile and gifted brains. He had been honored by the great and near-great of earth in his old age. He died content, as simply as he had lived, leaving behind the power of an example which has endured unto the present generation. He was Benjamin Franklin, and it will be a sorry day for America, when she forsakes the ideals of such a man. — Houston Chronicle.

WHALE SHARK, ONLY FISH ABLE TO GULP MAN, IS CAPTURED

At Miami, Fla., a 4000-pound whale shark, rare deep sea fish, which many scientists say is the only kind that could have swallowed Jonah, has been harpooned and towed to dock.

The big fish was caught in the Gulf Stream off Miami by a fishing party, headed by Captain Tommy Gifford. Fishermen said they knew of but three recorded catches of whale shark in South Florida waters.

None were mounted, but this one will be, its captors said, at a cost of approximately $2000. The bureau of fisheries at Washington and American Museum of Natural History at New York were notified of the catch.

A REASONABLE CHARGE

The Eagle makes a charge of 5 cents per line for obituaries, resolutions of respect, cards of thanks, notice of entertainment where there is a financial benefit, as well as for all similar articles. The sender of these articles will be expected to see the bill paid. The fact that the Eagle has accumulated quite a number of these accounts makes it necessary to require that payment be arranged before the articles are published.

A LITTLE PUSH

I once read the story of a family consisting of father, a son and a daughter. The son cultivated a constant dislike to the limitations of his home life and finally ran away. The father appeared unconcerned about the matter or rather sulky, rarely ever saying a word about his boy, who had been gone for some years and no one had heard from him since he had gone away. One day the mail brought the father a letter, but he nor the daughter had ever been to school and couldn't read. The daughter suggested taking the letter to the baker, who was able to read. Then they would know all about it.

Now, the baker, while he meant well, was naturally gruff and blunt. In his worst spells, chopped off his words as tho they were bad things. When the father and daughter applied to him he was in one of his worst moods. He abruptly snatched the end off the envelope and read in loud, harsh voice, "Dear Father: I am very sick. Please send me some money. Yours, Tom." The father glanced around at his daughter, saying, "The rascal he is. He only wants to get some of my money." And then turned out at the door homeward. On the return and as they neared the place of the butcher, the daughter suggested that they turn in and have the butcher read the letter. The baker could have made some mistake. The butcher was a pleasant, courteous man, with soft voice. He took the letter and looked over it leisurely, then read with tremulous, sympathetic voice, "Dear Father: I am very sick. Please send me some money. Yours, Tom." The father glanced around at the daughter, but this time with a glint of tears saying, "Poor boy." Daughter how much shall we send him? Now, this awfully divergent, controlling influence, some call it psychology, others call it instinct or color, or tone, but call it what you may it influences more of human life than all externals. Here and now is a good place to write pages concerning stilted form and ornate ceremonies at church services, but we let that rest for a convenient time. Then, too, as the poor old church has had in all the past, knocks and thumps and kicks from without and shameful imposition from within, it tickles one to see it going on with its head up.

Isn't this law, or instinct in us that discovers things going on behind closed doors and valuing the spirit hid under nice clothes, an interesting, helpful thing? It's the law of the detective. Doesn't take long to decide whether the clerk is working for his salary or for his company. Not very long until you may see whether the teacher aims at himself or at strong, worthy character in others. Doesn't take always to decide whether the preacher is in love with himself or in love with his Lord. If you will, you can safely decide whether the politician is blowing his own horn or seeking to help his country. Really this self-horn-blowing has become suspicious. Wouldn't take much more of it to finish blowing up what little business we have left. Think we had better "Watch and Pray." I have seen the time when on certain legislative questions it would have been an elegant job of much grace if the politicians had done nothing nicer than to do something burdensome and muddling. It's a serious fact that the political phase of our great country has for recent years been reduced to a low plane for lack of leaders with constructive vision. One discovers only one thing in the average seeker for position, that is ability to oppose, object and decry something or somebody. But let us all be careful lest we become infected with the same monotonous qualification. You know why it is so much easier for us to say "let us object," or let us protest" than to say "let us do!" That's because we have no constructive thought and no creative plan. It requires neither brains nor strength of character to decry and censure. Those who try to make us think that the school or the church or the whole country must send for the doc-

AMERICAN LEGION PROMOTES SAFETY

The American Legion, with its 11,000 posts throughout the country, is aiding in the welfare activities of the nation. It has made safety one of its major activities; not National Safety, but individual safety in the home, in the school and particularly on the highways and streets of our land. Recent estimates show that 100,000 persons were killed in the United States by all accidents in 1931, of which approximately 35,000 were victims of the automobile.

This new Legion activity has received the warm endorsement of all agencies devoted to accident prevention and safety education. Substantial evidence of this is supplied by the fact that the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters in New York, in furtherance of its conservation campaign, has furnished the Legion with a comprehensive text book and guide. Under the title of "Community Safety Activities for American Legion Posts." The Bureau has not only outlined what the Legion might do in attacking the serious problem, but suggests how it may be done.

Every phase of the subject is clearly and definitely covered in this attractive pamphlet of 38 pages, which is now going to every post in the United States. The situation in industry, the home, the school and the street are all explained with suggestions for programs looking to improvement. Principal emphasis is laid on street and highway accidents. Legionaries are advised to get back of constructive legislation of all kinds and to co-operate with the authorities and other civic associations in working out definite and scientific traffic enforcement, to back the schools in safety education and to labor for improved conditions in homes. The Legion has under taken a great work and its efforts will make life a little safer for us all.

NEWS ODDITIES

Mayor James A. West of Paulsboro, N. J., who used to give a silver dollar to every couple at whose marriage he officiated, has adopted a new wedding gift. When he performed the wedding ceremony for Alfred Lukosavich and Agnes Kumba, he presented the bride with an oak rolling pin autographed by leading municipal officials and police officers.

George Jackson, an Oklahoma farmer, has been charged with first degree murder for killing a hog. According to testimony, the killing was willful, said an Oklahoma City assistant prosecutor, who filed the complaint for John Willingham, Jackson's neighbor. Willingham said his prize-winning Berkshire sow wandered into Jackson's field, where it was beaten to death.

Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma has been traveling over the country making speeches for a grass-roots candidate for the presidency. In Washington he had himself photographed on the steps of the capitol. He also called in the reporters and told them what was wrong with all the Democrats whose names have been mentioned as likely candidates.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Attractive Luncheon In Pink

An attractive luncheon table, and one which is delightfully feminine in mood, may be decorated with pink as the prevailing color. In the one illustrated, which was prepared by a woman with an experienced eye for the most engaging color harmonies, there is found pink crystal, rose quartz ash trays, rose cigarette holders, with a sparkling cellophane centerpiece and favors to carry out the general color scheme.

The shimmering distinctness of this table is aided by the use of blown glass ornaments, silver candlesticks with white candles, and gumdrops in the form of grapes colored pink, green and lavender. Sweet peas are used in the center basket which, being the piece of resistance of the luncheon decorations, will bear a more detailed description.

The centerpiece, which could easily be made at home, is built up on a cardboard foundation that is sectioned off into three parts, all of it covered with pink cellophane. Strips of the same material, two inches long and one inch wide, are crushed along the sides of the foundation like a sort of shimmering apron. The handle is attached to the sides of the centerpiece with bits of wire and is decorated with artificial sweet peas made of laminated. In the center are both candy and nuts.

Throughout the whole decoration, pink is the predominating color. With this in mind, table decorations, particularly successful for luncheons, can be arranged by making use either of light blue, dark blue or tango cellophane. In some cases, where darker colors are used, featuring both the transparent material with the colored, the whole giving, if carefully planned, a cheery, intimate touch to the luncheon.

Items From Local Papers of Towns Mentioned

BROWNWOOD

A complete program for the entertainment of the West Texas Sheriff's association here in February 11 and 12 has been completed.

Approximately 25 Brown county persons became members of the local Murray-Ford President club, when it was organized in the district court room Saturday afternoon.

The work of V. O. Ellis, engineer for the state highway department on the Colorado river bridge, is just about completed, he said Saturday.

For the first time in years, a deer this year was killed in Comanche county, according to Ernest Wells, taxidermist. The animal was killed by Sutton Dudley on the Dudley ranch near Democrat.

Examining trial for Good Woolridge, charged in Justice court with possession of intoxicating liquor, was held before Justice E. T. Perkinson Thursday. Woolridge was arrested by Sheriff M. H. Denman Wednesday afternoon, after his automobile crashed on the Bangs road. In the machine, Denman said, were 24 half gallon jars of liquor.—Record.

LAMPASAS

A most delightful party was given to the Junior pupils of the Baptist Sunday school Friday evening, by the officers and teachers of the department.

T. E. Harwell of Harlingen is in Lampasas for a few days greeting old friends. Mr. Harwell was in the jewelry business here for a number of years.

J. F. White, 71 years of age, passed away here Tuesday morning, Jan. 19, at the family home, after having been confined to his home for only a few days on account of illness.

Three car owners were fined $14.00 each, Wednesday for not having tail lights on their cars. Members of the state highway patrol were in here the past week and warned a number of car owners about their headlights and tail lights, and came back Wednesday and made three arrests. These men will be back in Lampasas within a short time and all car owners found without two headlights or a tail light will be arrested for this violation of the law. Check up on your car and save the price of a fine.—Leader.

SAN SABA

Miss Verna Lee Barker of Mullin is a guest this week of her aunt, Mrs. M. R. Horton, of the China community.

Group two of district A of Lions International met with the San Saba club as hosts Tuesday of this week. There were seven of the eleven clubs in the group represented.

State Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald, was faced with one of the largest crowds of farmers to gather here for a long time, when he spoke at the court house Tuesday afternoon.

Reuben Low arrived at home Monday, after a sea voyage to England, France and Belgium, on an ocean liner. He reports a wonderful trip and seeing lots of water, country and people.

One of the most delightful and perfectly appointed dinner parties to grace the social circles of town for many moons was that at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton DeWolfe last Sunday evening. This was Clinton DeWolfe's birthday, Jan. 17, and Mrs. DeWolfe invited a number of close friends in to celebrate the occasion.

Many News readers will be interested to learn of the death Saturday in San Antonio, of Rev. James A. King. Rev. King was pastor of the Methodist church in San Saba in the early days and lived a few years on Wallace Creek. The place on which Martin Harkey now lives is known as the old King place. He finished gathering the pecans.

Jim Hamrick and A.A. Gregg can crop of 1931 on the T. J. Burnham place on the Colorado river in the Shaw Bend community. They found one record tree far back in the bend of the river. This tree netted them 900 pounds. It was thrashed late in the season and if it had been thrashed in the early part they are sure it would have yielded 1000 pounds.—News.

COMANCHE

An appropriation of $28,000, from the state highway department has been made for the construction of a new bridge across the Paluxy, east of Bluffdale, according to news dispatches released from Austin Sunday.

When a car of grain was shipped out over the Cotton Belt Monday, the 200th car to be shipped out of Comanche over the two rails was reached since the 1931 crop was harvested and this is the heaviest shipment ever to be made from Comanche by about 75 cars according to information available at the two stations.

One of the proposed constitutional amendments which will be voted on at the general election in November, proposes that the office of county tax collector and county tax assessor be combined into one office and that the one officer together with his deputies shall perform all the duties, which now are performed by the two officials. Should the proposed amendment carry, the persons elected as assessors and collectors in the November election in 1932 would serve out their term and the first official to perform the combined functions of the two offices would be elected in 1934.—Chief.

LOMETA

Jesse Baxter had a very narrow escape from possibly being burned to death late Monday evening, when his Chevrolet car caught fire as he was driving gasoline from the gas tank. Mrs. Baxter had been suffering from rheumatism for the past few days and had been told that rubbing with gasoline would relieve the pain, so after supper Mr. Baxter went out to draw a small quantity from the tank of his car. He took a lighted lantern with him and placed it at what he thought was a safe distance. After getting his pliers he got under the car to draw the fluid in a can, but in removing the plug from the tank he had not anticipated the accumulation of vaporized gas, in the container, which when released, was sufficient to be ignited from the lantern. A sudden flash consumed the gas, but the gasoline caught from the explosion and the fire was well under way in a very few seconds. Fortunately the only place gasoline had gotten on Mr. Baxter was his right hand, which was very painfully burned. After scrambling from under the car he tried to start the motor to drive the car away from the flames of the gasoline, but it would not start and all other efforts to extinguish the blaze proved futile. The loss, according to Mr. Baxter, was between six and seven hundred dollars with no insurance.—Reporter.

HAMILTON

Mrs. Tom McKinley and children came in the latter part of last week to join Tom McKinley.

George S. Stifflemire, a pioneer barber of Hamilton, died Tuesday morning as the result of a stroke of paralysis, which he suffered Friday morning. He had plied his trade here for about half a century.

A collision occurred in front of the Fred Cafe Tuesday, when the cars of Cecil Nix and J. C. Ray ran together. Neither car was seriously injured nor the occupants hurt.

The Church of Christ here is to be remodelled and enlarged in the very near future, according to a report given this office early this week. The building is to be remodelled both on the outside and the inside and six or eight Sunday school rooms added to the structure.

A call meeting at the Hamilton National Bank Saturday afternoon was attended by fifteen business and professional men and women to discuss ways and means of caring for the needy of Hamilton. The purpose of the meeting was to devise a plan whereby money could be raised to care for the families who can not be helped by the Red Cross or other organizations. No definite plan was agreed upon though several were discussed. It was decided that a call for a mass meeting be made so that a large body of people could be represented.—News.

ALAMO PARK IS ASSURED AS STATE TAKES LAND TITLE

Realization of the long-cherished dream of an Alamo Park around the old shrine of Texas freedom, in San Antonio, was assured there Tuesday afternoon, when the state, through Assistant Attorney General J. A. Stanford, Jr., accepted title to two pieces of private property purchased for addition to the Texas owned Alamo grounds.

Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, Corpus Christi, chairman of the Alamo land acquisition board, who personally gave $65,000 of the $215,000 paid Dr. John B. Heff and E. J. Stevens for the property, was present as formal transfers were made.

HOOVER'S WEALTH IS SET AT LESS THAN MILLION BY SOLON

The private fortune of President Hoover was estimated at less than a million dollars Tuesday by Representative Wood, Hethelwill Charles, etoin etaa Republican, Indiana.

Opening debate on the $175,000,000 agriculture department supply bill, Wood advocated a slash in salaries of government employes.

Questioned by Representative Shannon, Democrat, Missouri, as to whether Mr. Hoover would allow a reduction in his salary and as to the amount of the president's fortune, Wood said:

"He has made a lot of money, but he has given it away. My information, from a reliable source, is that the president today is not worth a million dollars.

"I have faith enough to believe that if the salaries of the federal employes are reduced, President Hoover will reduce his own salary."

AS OLD AS THEY FEEL

The idea that elderly people are only as old as they feel and might be as alert and active as youngsters if they but made themselves believe so, receives unexpected scientific support in a report from Prof. Walter R. Miles of Stanford university, details of which are published by the National Academy of Sciences. Recognizing that most of the psychological data on human beings is defective because it deals chiefly with young people, Prof. Miles and his colleagues, aided by funds from the Carnegie Corporation made mental and physical tests of 863 California people of many occupations and both sexes and of all ages between 6 and 95 years. The only part of the data yet ready for publication deals with the speed and alertness of people of different ages in simple muscular tasks like turning a small crank or releasing a lever like the accelerator pedal of an automobile. As was expected, speed and accuracy in the majority of these tasks were found to be greatest in young people between 15 and 30, but the deterioration of people even over 70 years was found to be much less than might be expected. Many individuals over 70 proved to be quite as good as many not over 50. This and other details of the data lead Professor Miles to the tentative theory that the relatively small deterioration which does occur in old age might be called intentional on the part of the bodily machinery. Older human machines try to save themselves from using energy. The deterioration is not chiefly due, that is, to any inevitable defect in the bodily machinery, like the governors, which keep steam engines or automobile trucks from being driven too fast. This tendency is perhaps the chief cause, Prof. Miles adds, of the proverbial caution and good judgment of elderly people. In any event, the deterioration of old people, he concludes, "appears more in feeling than it exists in fact."

READ THE ADS

There are a number of advertisements in this issue that should interest every reader. It is a mighty good hint to form to read all the advertisements each issue.

THE BOYCOTT WEAPON

More sensitive than the flesh of soldiers pierced by the bayonet is the pocket book of a nation. More deadly than poison gas is the effective boycott of a nation's products.

Two examples of the effectiveness of the boycott are occurring now. In India Mahatma Gandhi's loin cloth clad cohorts are refusing to buy British goods, Eritish salt or pay British taxes. Thousands are being imprisoned, clubbed and even killed, but the strike of native buyers goes on. England's India government is desperate. Recently a magistrate sentenced a nine year old boy to four year's imprisonment in the reform school for picketing an English shop.

Over in China, the Japanese have been able to do as they pleased about Manchuria. The Chinese are too disorganized to fight back. But Chinese clubs, fomented by students, have effected a boycott of Japanese goods that is wreaking havoc in Japanese industry. Now Japan has landed troops in Shanghai and threatens to bring the war closer home to the Chinese if they persist in defending themselves in this peculiarly irritating way.

All this has its repercussions in our own country. And, as everything else in economics, a balance is being struck between the conflicting forces. English cotton mills had almost ceased buying American cotton because of the decline in their sales in India of finished fabrics. Japan last year bought tremendous quantities of American cotton because she was able to sell in India where England could not. Now Japanese purchases of cotton are declining from the loss of her Chinese market. England, having left the gold standard and so reducing her prices to oriental levels, is buying more from us to supply the new market for her goods in China.

America is Japan's best customer for silk. When Japanese soldiers beat up an American official in Manchuria recently, somebody whispered that America might place an embargo on imports of Japanese silk, and Japan broke all records in making apologies and reparations for the incident.

Embargoes are deadly weapons. Perhaps the next war of the United States may be waged by American women going barefoot or in cotton hose in order to enforce the boycott of Japanese silks. Perhaps not. But if the war crisis appears in this country again, embargoes of some kind will undoubtedly be resorted to again, just as they have so many times before.

WHY WORRY

Either you are successful or you are not successful. If you are successful there is nothing to worry about. If you are not successful there are only two things to worry about. Your health is either good or you are sick. If your health is good there is nothing to worry about. If you are sick there are only two things to worry about. You are either going to get well or you are going to die. If you are going to get well, there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to die, there are only two things to worry about. You are either going to heaven, or you are going to heaven, there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to the other place, you will be so busy shaking hands with old acquaintances and friends that you won't have anything to worry about. So why worry? — The Red Lion (Pa.) Sun.

HOW TELESCOPES ENLARGE THE EYE

One of the commonest mistakes about astronomical telescopes is to think that they are intended to magnify the planets or other astronomical objects and thus to make them appear closer to the earth. The truth, Dr. Frederick C. Leonard of the University of California explains in a recent statement for the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, is that even a very small telescope may be given just as great magnifying power as the giant instrument 200 inches in diameter now being planned for the California Institute of Technology. The real duty of a large telescope, he continues, is to gather more light so that the images of stars or other heavenly bodies will be brighter. Astronomers divide the stars according to brightness into classes called magnitudes. The brightest are first magnitude. Stars as faint as about the sixth magnitude are visible to a person with keen eyes. Stars fainter than this are invisible except thru telescopes, not because magnification is needed, but because not enough light can get thru the small hole at the front of the eye. The telescope really enlarges the eye, not the star. A small one with a lens about three inches across collects light like a three-inch eye, or about eighty times the light that the real eye collects. The 200-inch telescope will collect about 360,000 times as much light as an eye. This will make it possible, it is expected, to photograph about 1,500,000,000 stars, including those as faint as the twentieth magnitude. It is expected that objects on the moon no larger than a 30-foot house will be disclosed, not because of great magnification, but because the large instrument will catch so much light that the tiny amounts reflected by such an object will be strengthened so that they can be seen.

We are all anxious for the sun to shine so we can put the flag up at the school house again.

Very few pupils were at school Monday, due to the bad weather and those who did come were disappointed, as the primary students had planned to entertain the school with a ten minute program.

Jess Massey took eighty-one sheep to Fort Worth last week and got three and three-fourths cents per pound for them.

Mrs. Will Kelso spent Sunday and Monday night with her daughter, Mrs. Vernon Howington, near Indian Gap.

Brother I. A. Dyches passed through Ridge on his way to preach at Ebony Sunday. He will try to be at Ridge on second Sundays, after February 14.

With a total enrollment now of 75, Ridge Sunday school is doing some fine work. Everyone is interested and they come every Sunday.

Mose Smith, Bill Ketchum and Miss Gladys Holland visited Miss Zeldia Kelso Sunday evening.

J. A. Curtis, Jr., lost several sheep recently. He believes dogs are killing them.

Walton Keley spent the week end with Will Kelso.

Will Kelso and Everett Cummings worked on the road Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Ollene Williams came to visit Miss Zeldia Kelso Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Freeman and Mrs. Will Kelso were in Brownwood Wednesday.

"Cotton" Rause went to Hamilton Sunday.

J. D. Kight visited his mother near Hamilton Sunday night.

Mrs. K. M. Edmondson entertained the young people and friends Sunday with a splendid dinner. Those present were Miss Marietta and Jack Atkinson, Mrs. J. E. BIG VALLEY

This is quite a muddy time to ramble through the valley and gather news, like a candidate soliciting votes. But the omission last week urges me on, for my space will be taken by "Busy Bee" and the rest of the prompt reporters.

Things do happen here. We had three good services Sunday. Our pastor was here. Three took membership within the church.

Miss Conrad of Long Cove visited the Misses Hales Sunday.

Miss Helen Bartley spent the week end with Helen Thompson.

J. D. Ault of Los Angeles, Calif., is visiting his cousin, L. E. Dupuy, in Lower Valley.

The play given by local talent at the Big Valley school house Friday night, was a success. A large crowd enjoyed it.

Mat Kyle made a business trip to Gatesville last week.

Mesdames Homer and Floyd Weaver spent the week end at their homes.

Dee Hartman and family attended church at Big Valley Sunday.

Mrs. J. E. Swim visited in San Saba Sunday.

Bedford Renfro was shaking hands with the women voters in this part of the district, the first of the week. If the women just had time to go to town and sit on soap boxes and nail keys like the heads of the family do, this "seeing everybody" would be less a task.

For fear this drifts into politics I shall ring off. FARMER.

CEMETERY MEETING

The Cemetery Association will meet in the Rest Room in the court house next Monday afternoon at 4:30. Everybody interested in the keeping of the cemetery please come.

Election of officers for the association will take place at this time.

WISCONSIN LAW

SUBSIDIZES FARMER

From the alfalfa fields of Wisconsin, dirt farmer legislators have brought to the state capital what is perhaps the most direct plan of farm relief ever to gain the serious attention of an American legislature.

"Pay us," say the farmers, "out of the state treasury."

Asking that the state take the lead reather han wal for relief from he federal government, he farmers have frankly asked for a subsidy. There is $24,500,000 in the general fund of the state and spokesmen for the farmers say they are entitled to part of it.

The subsidy bill passed the assembly with a big majority. Although young Gov. Phillip F. LaFollette has declared in favor of "redistribution of wealth," he has expressed no definite opinion on the bill.

The subsidy plan rode into the legislature on the coat tails of a bill to provide an eight-hour day for Wisconsin laborers. Farmers were agreeable to the idea that city workers should labor only eight hours. But they insisted the farmers be included somehow.

As originally worked out, and as the assembly accepted it, 73 to 9, every farmer was to receive 30 cents an hour for an eight hour day and time and a half for overtime. He was to sell the products of his farm, and if the sum did not equal payment on the basis suggested by the bill, the state was to make up the difference. Under the plan, assemblymen insisted, farmers would be "singing in the rain" and "smiling in the drouth."

And if it were a good idea in Wisconsin, it should be through the nation, they added.

But the sober element began to figure, and calculated that the measure might mean paying as much as $300,000,000 annually to the state's 450,000 farmers. The measure is now amended so that the state may not expend more than $5,000,000 annually on the subsidy, and that amount shall be raised through dividend taxes and surtaxes on incomes.

The farmer is guaranteed a return of 2 per cent on the assessed valuation of his farm and enough more to assure at least the 30 cents an hour wage on the basis of an eight hour day.

The senate has yet to act on the amended measure.

Assemblymen John Fronek, Frank Panzer, Ray Lawton and L. S. Shauger introduced the bill—and they believe in it. Farmers, they said, have the same definite rights to profit as do manufacturers, whom they state are subsidized already by tariffs and whatnot.

"Guarantee the farmer a profit to enhance his buying power and the depression will be diminished greatly," said Lawton.

Such a plan would educate the farmer. He would not plant crops that are not profitable. The small amount of subsidy would not encourage him to lay down on the job. Eventually it would control farm production through discouraging planting of non-paying crops. The state, Panzer declared, sets up standards and tells the farmer just how he shall milk his cows, bottle the milk, pasteurize and market it. Why shouldn't it assume the responsibility of guaranteeing him a profit?

ELECTRIC MOTORS

LURE MOSQUITOES

At Lynn, Mass., Prof. Elihu Thompson, General Electric's "wizard," has found a death lure for mosquitoes that would be perfect if the female of the species were not more wary than the male.

An accidental discovery of a device that imitates the hum of the female mosquito lures millions of males to an untimely death, he says, but the female won't give it a glance.

And the sad part is—the female is the one that bites.

While experimenting with a large furnace electrically propelled, he found that the hum of the motor resembled the soprano voice of a cooing female. The sound lured millions of gallant males to the motor and the roar put them to death as they drew near.

He believes that mosquito exterminators could place a motor near the breeding place and get the same results.

BAKER STATEMENT SWELLS TALK OF HIS NOMINATION

Democratic leaders in Washington have professed some bewilderment as to whether Newton D. Baker is or is not a receptive candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Virtually all thought of Baker as a candidate has been dropped in recent weeks because of his advocacy of America's entering the League of Nations, the world court, cancellation of war debts and similar issues which are politically unpopular.

But his statement Wednesday that he would not favor a league plank in the party platform, and that he would not, if he could, put the United States in the league until convinced a majority of the American people approved such a step, revived speculation as to his candidacy.

"I think it would be a great misfortune to make a partisan issue of the league of nations," he said.

At one time it looked as tho Baker would get Ohio's vote in the convention. But after he had made several speeches in which he advocated America's entering the league, Ohio Democrats agreed that the state's votes shall go to Governor George White.

It was recalled that at the famous Madison Square garden convention in 1924, Baker brought in a minority report on the platform and pleaded eloquently and earnestly for inclusion of a plank committing the party to American entrance in the league. This was just four years after the "great and solemn referendum" of 1920, in which the Democrats went down to overwhelming defeat. Woodrow Wilson was dead, and the convention voted down Baker's plank, leaving him in tears on the platform.

ST. BERNARD MONKS TRANSFER WORK TO HIMALAYAN PEAKS

Railway tunnels under the Alps, motor highways through the passes — modern transport has largely done away with need for the romantic services of the Monks of St. Bernard.

So the monks have sought out the wildest mountains in the world—the Himalayas—wherein to extend their work of aiding lost travelers.

The decision to open a hospice high up among the snows that fringe northeast India all year was reached after an expedition by two St. Bernard monks, Father Molly and Coqoz.

The crossed Lunnan plateau in China to Lolo in Tibet, spending a whole month in the saddle among the ice and rocks of the "roof of the earth."

Finally they came to one terrible pass in which the humble wayfarers often find hardship and sometimes death. "Here," they said, "we shall do our work."

The work in Switzerland that the monks have been carrying on since 962 will be continued, as will the assistance given in other

PARIS MUSICIANS FIGHT FOR JOBS

In Paris it's the foreign fiddler who must pay for his supper in these days. French unemployed musicians are beginning to adopt force in their methods of creating jobs for themselves.

A number have recently entered the big cafes on the boulevards and interrupted orchestras composed of foreigners, these demonstrations being made in a quiet and orderly manner.

The musicians sit down and order drinks like ordinary customers, then one of them gets up to make a speech to the effect that out of 7,500 members of the Musicians Union in Paris, only 1000 are employed and 2000 have only a few hours work a week. They merely ask that the establishment employ French instead of foreign orchestras.

It is estimated over 70 per cent of the musicians in France are foreigners.

Some of the famous St. Bernard dogs with their little casks slung around their necks, will be taken to the Himalayas, the monks said.
