

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME THIRTY-SEVEN.

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1932.

NUMBER FIFTY-ONE

DEMONSTRATION TRAIN

The Santa Fe and A. & M. College special train, carrying exhibits of various kinds in the interest of better farming and a more prosperous citizenship, reached Goldthwaite Wednesday at 1:30 and remained until 4 o'clock. It carried livestock, farm products, home canned exhibits of fruits and vegetables and many other displays of interest. More than 1200 people passed through the cars at this place, inspected the exhibits and heard the lectures of the specialists on the various lines. The report of those in charge of the train stated that more people visited the train here than at any other stop that had been made up to that time.

Supt. E. D. Stringer of the Goldthwaite schools dismissed the faculty and pupils for the afternoon, in order that they might visit the train and receive the benefits of the lectures and exhibits. A similar action was taken by most of the schools in this part of the county and there is no doubt great benefit will result from it.

The train was moving west and the first stop after leaving Goldthwaite was at Zephyr and it was then carried to Brownwood to spend the night, exhibition being made there Thursday morning, after which it continued its westward journey.

WELCOMED AT WELCOME INN

A few days ago, when we received our invitations to come to a bridge party at "Welcome Inn," on Friday at 12:30 o'clock, given by Mrs. Walter Fairman, stated "you'll get a hand if you come."

We knew, judging from the past, an enjoyable affair was awaiting us, and on arriving we were extended that cordial, warm friendly welcome, which is always existing with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fairman.

Turkey, pineapple salad and cherry pie topped with whipped cream and all the goodies to go with them were artistically placed and beautifully served in the dining room.

Mrs. Sullivan gave thanks to the Father for the nourishments and the friendship of friends, who are ever ready and willing to honor and serve their friends.

After the luncheon we were accompanied to the Lake Merritt club house, which was in readiness for this occasion, and each one given a "ship at sea" score card, on which was full instructions as to how to reach the harbor and light-hearted, carefree and sails a gale we anchored with our partners for a few enjoyable games of bridge.

Mmes. Frank Taylor, L. E. Miller, G. H. Frizzell, C. A. Eacott, Foster Brim, Homer C. DeWolfe and Miss Lucile Conroy won prizes. Others present were Mmes. Marvin Hodges, Will H. Trent, Mark Fairman, Walter Summy, C. M. Burch, Earl Summy, Robert Steen, Jr., Kelly Saylor, D. A. Trent, T. F. Toland and Misses Adeline Little and Nita Cockrum.

Mmes. Jake Saylor, S. P. Sullivan and John Berry, Jr., were out for the luncheon.

The scenes were aglow with freshness and charm and with which colored every act and so that sublime, cheerful hospitality, beautifully rendered that again caused the name Fairman to add new luster to their friends.

Young men who desire to go to the Citizens Training Camp at San Antonio next summer should make their applications right away, as the indications are that the ranks will be full. Judge L. E. Judge Simpson announces that trustees are to be elected for the various common schools of the county on the first Saturday in April, to take the places of those trustees whose terms will expire at that time. Judge Simpson has the election supplies for the various districts, which the trustees can procure in plenty of time to hold the election.

SOCIAL

On Monday of last week the Circles 1 and 3 of the Baptist W. M. S. entertained with a George Washington program and social in the lovely suburban home of Mrs. C. L. Stephens.

Mrs. W. P. McCullough opened the program by reading the "Love" scripture. This she interspersed with explanatory comments of truth and beauty.

Mrs. Eula Stephens' eulogy on Washington; his America cleverly contrasted with this same America of today, caused highly favorable comment from her listeners.

The next on the program was a trio of colonial days, "Spinning Song" sung by Mmes. Littlepage, Martin and Bowman, which was followed by a quartette "Annie Laurie," sung by the same trio and Mrs. R. L. Armstrong.

Our out of town guest and co-worker, Mrs. Jim Hays, very ably read a paper on "Saving Our Nation," preceding a talk on "Other Washingtons," by Mrs. Flora Jackson.

"The Strength of our Nation" by Mrs. R. L. Armstrong.

This program, which was led by Mrs. C. D. Bledsoe, who in her gracious manner made all the guests feel at home and those participating feel at ease, was concluded by a prayer by Mrs. Anderson.

Circles 1 and 3, assisted by Mmes. Littlepage and Bowman, in colonial costume, passed a refreshment plate of cream and cake garnished with a diminutive nosegay of violets.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Mr. Trussell and his wife and daughter of Brownwood just happened in on our services Sunday night and Mr. Trussell, who is one of our leading evangelistic singers, had charge of the choir and rendered two special numbers. He paid our people a compliment, when he said that we had "the largest and most appreciative crowd and the best choir that he had been privileged to worship with on similar occasions." The pastor replied by saying that "we always have the best."

We had a letter from Dr. J. Howard Williams, secretary of our convention, commending our church for the method we have adopted in giving to our co-operative program. Dr. Williams will be with us one Sunday during the month of May.

Much has been said pro and con in regard to our denominational affairs. We wish to give some information that we believe most of the readers of the Eagle will read with interest. On June 1, 1928, the executive board of our convention owed direct and indirect more than two million dollars. The direct indebtedness is what the board is directly responsible for. The indirect is that money they have helped to obtain in order that our different boards of various institutions might be able to carry on their work and meet their obligations. Since June, 1928, up until the convention met at Waco last November we had paid on our direct debts the sum $415,794.48. On the indirect the sum of $379,864.94, or a total of $795,659.42.

In the past three convention years we have given to south-wide causes $608,299.88, to foreign missions $336,197.18, for work done in Texas $467,522.80. Our current running expenses from June, 1928, have been reduced from $47,286.25 to $22,500 for 1932. Our budget for this year calls for $508,000, to be divided on a fifty-fifty basis, that is, half of this will go to pay debts and half will go to help carry on our missionary enterprises, $75,000 will go to associational mission work, while $169,000 will go to south-wide causes. Our monthly budget calls for $42,333.00.

One can very easily see from the above figures that Baptists of Texas are still doing mission work, regardless of the depression and the critics. It has always been a mystery to me why some people like to magnify the faults of denominations and individuals, and never say one word about the good they have done. As long as men are human mistakes will be made, and some of them will be made purposely, but not many. Regardless of how they are made, our enemies will magnify them and overlook the good. This certainly applies to individuals as well as institutions. Certainly folk have the right to express their opinions. No one will deny any individual that right, but why don't we see the good as well as the bad. Just remember that "there is a little bad in the best of us, and a little good in the worst of us." No man has a monopoly on goodness. Just remember that the man you do not like and criticize may be a good man, and the public may think that he is a better man than you are, and the reason you can not see any good in him is because you are so self conceited and so narrow minded that you can not see anything except that which is bad.

There are people all over this world who know Christ as their Savior as a result of money given to our mission cause. There are men and women, boys and girls, who have taken their places among the rank and file of mankind who were educated in Christian schools. Many hold places of responsible leadership, and this has been made possible by money given by people in support of Christian education. Take the "Anderson Memorial Fund" in Howard Payne for an example. Many girls are teaching and helping in different

Hardin of Burkburnett? Does it mean anything to poor girls of this country who are yearning for an education? Selah. Let's turn over our slate, begin to put down the good traits of mankind and study them. If you will do that you will cease to be a grumbler and griper and instead be a helper.

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 10 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days, but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat, too."

To take off fat—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at Hudson Bros. or any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.

FREE-FOR-ALL

A candidate for congressman at large has filed with the Democratic executive committee a protest against designation of places and against requiring a second primary. The claim is made that the committee is without precedent or authority to require a double primary or to designate places. According to the protest, the only law on the subject is the federal law, and that congress has no voice in regulating party nominations within a state, and such a rule would result in a different plan of selection of candidates for each political party, some by primary and others by convention. The protest also says that when the legislature refused to redistrict the state a bill was introduced in the senate providing for a second primary and the designation of places and that by its refusal to pass this bill the senate indicated that no danger or emergency existed and put itself on record as favoring a free-for-all race without designated places.

DELUSIONS

This enlightened age is very like its unenlightened predecessors. Our age is still populated by human beings given to credulity and easily inflamed by deluded or designing leaders. Human nature is so heavily endowed with the capacity for prejudice it finds no difficulty in believing the people on the other side of the hill are all rascals, and that the salvation of the righteous depends upon their unwillingness to run amuck once in a while and act unrighteously. It is that impulse that leads to wars, feuds and the whole catalogue of evils. What to do? Why, the remedy is simple. Just refuse to believe nine-tenths of the gossip, discount by 80 per cent the scandals alleged by those who hope to profit by destruction. Certainly we have no perfect society. Certainly the civilized peoples are only partly civilized. No truly civilized country endures kidnapers, just as no country adequately served by its public servants fails to apprehend kidnapers. Delusion is not always of bad effect, however. Some of us are happily deluded by the belief that we are strangers to delusion. We bask in the glow of self-governed fantasy. It should be said in our favor that we are harmless as long as our fantasy takes the form of self-satisfaction. It is when it gathers momentum and transforms itself into a mania for interference in the affairs of others that our delusions become dangerous.—State Press in Dallas News.

GRASSHOPPER SURVEY

A careful survey to determine the condition of the overwintering eggs of grasshoppers is being made throughout the state according to Leonard Haseman chairman of department of entomology of the Missouri College of Agriculture. This survey is being made by the extension entomologist of the college in co-operation with county extension agents.

Due to the abundance of grasshoppers last fall and the mild winter, it is realized that the pest may do much damage again next summer. The United States department of agriculture is considering plans for extensive work on grasshopper control in the areas devastated last year, and this survey is being made by the college of agriculture in order that it may co-operate more effectively with the work of the Federal department.

Two Chicago Bankers Prominent In Drive Against Depression

AN IMPROVED OUTLOOK

A better feeling is getting abroad in the land, and there is beginning to be some basis for the oft-repeated declaration that "the tide has turned." Talk is more confidently optimistic and price trends are showing a tendency to turn upward. This last is true of cotton, in which Texas is chiefly interested. A new high since Sept. 1 for spot cotton was reached on the New York market on March 2, Texas Independence Day, middling selling for 7.20 a pound. This was not only the highest price paid for cotton in six months, but it marked a gain of 170 points, or $8.50 a bale, since Oct. 5. At the same time there was a rising tendency apparent in the stock market, though nothing of a sensational character, a bullish sentiment ruled in the wheat market, and bond prices made substantial gains. Cotton exports to Great Britain and the Continent reached totals for the season within hailing distance of the totals for the corresponding period last year, and cotton exports to the Orient continued to increase their record-breaking total. Cotton exports to Great Britain for the season are now only 11,000 bales below the total for the corresponding period last year, and those to the Continent, which includes Germany, are only 22,000 bales behind. The next thirty days should see both Great Britain and the Continent ahead of last season, but both will still be far below normal. Exports to Japan and China are now 1,500,000 bales ahead of last season, and total exports are just about 1,000,000 bales ahead of last season with five months still to go. Only France has failed to show improvement, cotton exports to that country being more than 500,000 bales off from last season. All of this, it should be understood, is the situation expressed in number of bales; in dollars the situation is much different. An improving price during the remaining five months of the season should help in this respect, however. What will happen in the cotton market during the next five months depends upon two things: One, whether the financial situation in Europe continues to improve. Two, how much cotton acreage is reduced in the South.—Texas Weekly.

BANKRUPTCY LAW FAILED

There will be fewer bankruptcy cases in the United States if the solicitor general of the justice department at Washington has his way. The solicitor general, after an intensive eighteen-month probe, has convinced himself the sudden soaring of bankruptcy liabilities annually into the billion-dollar class is resulting not from world-wide economic strain, but from far-flung laxity, waste and fraud under bankruptcy law and practice. In fact, the solicitor general believes, emphatically the present law has failed. After peering personally or through the eyes of his assistants into sixteenth state, examining thousands of cases, and reading reports of the United States Chamber of Commerce and other national organizations which assisted, he has scattered these conclusions through a 400-page report.

PAYING THE PENALTY

When bad boys violate the law and commit depredations for which they are fined in court, the penalty is usually of no consequence to them as "Dad pays," but a district judge at Waxahachie a few days ago found a way to forebode remind a couple of young fellows that they had violated the law. These two 16-year-old Dallas boys were sorer, but wiser, after having been given an old-time frailing in court for having taken automobiles without the owners' consent on a lark to San Antonio. A 14 year old Dallas girl, who had gone with them on the South Texas trip, which was nipped at Waco, had not been billed by the grand jury and escaped penalty. The boys' fathers officiated at the strapping.

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The had spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."

UNEMPLOYMENT

It is said by what is reliable authority that there are about eight million people out of employment. Just think what a vast army this is without a job. We take for granted that most of these people are factory workers of one kind or another. Now the great problem is to get these people back on the pay roll. The wage worker is practically our consumer and without a job he cannot buy our produce. The farmer can not find a living market for his produce until the wage worker gets a job and how are we to make jobs for this vast army of wage workers? I do not know.

One thing is certain, the farmer cannot use all this surplus. He can not consume it all. He can't get the cost of production for his produce, and he can consume but very little of the products of the factory, for he has not the wherewith to buy this stuff.

We will have to find a market for the products of farm and factory before this wage worker can get a job, and we will have to look to foreign nations for this market, but foreign nations cannot buy from us because they do not have the gold to buy with. We all know that this nation is on a gold standard, so their money is not worth a continental with us. Someone said in last week's Eagle that we had plenty of gold. We may have, but I do not know where it is "at." All I know, is the average man has not got any. We grant there is plenty of gold, but not plenty of money or medium of exchange. If you and I were playing marbles and I win all the marbles you have, how are you going to play any more without a law? I say that I am going to have to stake you to a law. Think about these things.

THOSE WHO TRUST YOU

Some people have great faith in you. It may be only your wife or your mother stands back of you.

If all others distrust you, your mother excuses your weakness or sin.

She never believes you to be as bad as you are.

You may be under temptation in a position of trust.

You may not entertain a thought of being dishonest, not really.

But sometimes you play with an idea for getting money and you call it a loan that you can repay.

Don't take a chance with anything that does not belong to you.

Many others have done so with serious consequences.

The mental torture afterward is worse than going without what that money would buy and you never could get away from it.

Think of the disgrace to mother or other dear ones if you should fail.

Your faithful wife — your loved and loving wife, your boys and girls,—they are the ones who would suffer most.

Be faithful to those who trust you.

An untoupled conscience is the best possession to have.

Pleasure gained at the expense of the loss of your self-respect is too dearly bought.—Houston Chronicle.

TEXAS POET LAUREATE

Born in New York and educated in Ohio, but for many years a newspaper man in Texas, Judd Mortimer Lewis has been named Poet Laureate of Texas by a committee appointed by the state legislature. Numerous native sons and daughters of Texas had been suggested for the place. The committee in announcing its selection stated that its members "didn't know much about poetry."

His first poem written after his selection and entitled "Acknowledgment" follows:

First laureate of the state I love!

Today it seems to me,
With my heart such a mixture of

Pride and humility,
There is no medium—no way—

In which I may express,
In word or deed my conscious

need
Of her great kindness.

IT "CAN'T BE DONE"

The world has always been in need of men to do the things that could not be done. The need is more pressing today than ever.

When Columbus started out to sail around the globe men laughed at him and told him it could not be done. Columbus did not succeed in the attempt, but he proved that the thing could be done.

When Samuel Morse started to transmit messages between distant points by means of a tiny wire, people said it could not be done, but Morse soon proved differently. Fifty years later Marconi showed the people how to talk through the air without even the use of wire.

Edison achieved two things that most people declared to be impossible, when he used electric current to produce light and when he recored the sound of the human voice. Motion pictures are another of the "impossible."

There are other achievements, seemingly impossible today, awaiting accomplishment. They stand as a challenge to the ingenuity of mankind. The need of the world is for men who can do these things. — Paris Morning News.

DRUNKENNESS IN JERUSALEM

Increasing drunkenness in the Holy Land, as revealed in the report issued by the United Committee on Native Races, is causing a good deal of discussion. The statement that intoxicated men walked unashamed through the streets of Jerusalem, where under the Turkish regime no one dreamed of doing so, has come as a shock to some people.

Miss Agnes Slack, an English woman who has recently been living in Palestine and who gave evidence before the committee, has some interesting things to say about the changing conditions in the land that has had such a stormy history since the days when Christ preached His gospel of peace there and children met Him at the gates of Jerusalem with palms in their hands.

"I was very interested to know if Palestine was prosperous under our mandate," she told a correspondent, "so during my visit there I took every opportunity of observing conditions. Naturally, as a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, I was interested in everything connected with the sale and consumption of liquor, though, as I did not go in an official capacity, I had only ordinary facilities for making my observations.

"I think that the trouble is not so much the actual increase in drinking, though that is definitely so, as the changing attitude toward drunkenness and the growing facilities for obtaining all kinds of drinks. More licenses are being issued all over the country. The Mohammedan religion forbids its followers to drink or deal in spirituous liquors, so that these licenses are mostly in the hands of Jews.

"The Jew is not a total abstainer, but as far as I could see the Jew in Palestine, even the saloon keeping Jew, does very little drinking. Most of this drinking is still done by Christians, but the Moslems are learning."

MORE WOMEN AT WORK

A larger proportion of the total population is working for its living now than was the case ten years ago, with the proportion of women gainfully employed increasing more rapidly than is the case with men, a breakdown of census reports released last week show.

The increase in the number of males 10 years and over who are gainfully employed was only 4 of 1 per cent, while the increase of females in that bracket was 1.1 per cent.

The growing importance of woman in industry and her encroachment on the man wage earner also are illustrated by the fact that of the seventy-two occupations listed by the census, in only eight are women not engaged, and one of these is soldiers, sailors and marines. Other occupations into which the female has not persuaded herself are brick and stone masons, electricians, stationary engineers, automobile mechanics, plumbers and gas fitters, locomotive engineers, machinists.

The figures compiled before the beginning of the current East Texas oil activity, showed 23,369 men and three women employed as oil and gas well operatives.

There are three women carpenters in Texas against 38,134 men, thirty-nine women drive trucks, taxis or tractors against 34,430 men. Woman's real supremacy in industry shows up in the profession of teaching, where there are 39,695 women and but 9,756 men. She also has a strong position in the job of telephone operator, with 8,308 women and 507 men.

Farming, which gives employment to a far greater number of persons in Texas than any other occupation has 841,547 workers, of whom 761,719 are men and 79,828 are women.

Farm owners and tenants total 468,930 men and 18,267 women. Paid farm laborers total 183,706 men and 15,374 women. Unpaid farm laborers, including principally members of farm families, total 104,880 men and 46,151 women.

HOW TO GET IN THE AIR SERVICE

It is not as easy as it once was to get into the army air school. Scholastic requirements are higher. Air corps officers prefer cadets who are college graduates, and one must have had at least the equivalent of two years in college. The candidate's past military affiliations, if any, will give him preference as a rule, says the Houston Chronicle.

A candidate for entrance as a cadet at Randolph field applies in writing to the chief of the air corps. He must give his age, scholastic attainments and other pertinent facts about himself. If it appears he could "make the grade," and if there is a place for him, he is notified to appear before the nearest flight surgeon for physical examination. Then if scholastic examination also is deemed necessary, the candidate, having qualified physically, is directed to the nearest air board conducting such examinations. If the applicant passes the examination, or examinations, he is told to report at the field.

There he again is checked for physical defects and if none is found the candidate is enrolled. He is fitted with clothing, given quarters and assigned to a company in the cadet battalion.

The new student within a week after his arrival is in the air with an instructor. Usually the flying instruction takes place during the morning, with ground school work in the afternoon. There is plenty to learn besides how to handle the "stick." Among the subjects are meteorology, maps, personal equipping, hygiene, engines and several others.

While a student should be able to fly alone after 10 hours in the air with an instructor, it does not mean that he does the remainder of his school flying without a teacher.

The first four months of the student's training is called the primary course; then follows the basic course of similar duration. Completing these, the student tops his training with the advanced and specialist course at Kelly Field, which requires another four months and makes a total of one year of air schooling.

If, during the training period, a cadet under the three-year contract fails to qualify, he is discharged. Quite often, regular army officers, even West Point graduates, from some other arm of the service, fail to meet the qualifications for military aviators and are transferred to the other arm.

When a cadet is accepted he contracts for three years training, however. Upon graduating at Kelly Field he is commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Corps Reserve and is assigned to active duty with some tactical organization of the air corps. Such active duty is supposed to be for two years, which, with the year in the Randolph and Kelly schools, makes the total of three. Recently appropriations have been so limited, though, that actually little more than a year of active duty for the reserve lieutenants has been possible.

GO 50 MILES TO MAKE 15 MILES IN KENTUCKY

Illustrative of the transportation of problem faced by the Kentucky mountaineers is the experience of Deputy Sheriff George Jackson of Manchester, Ky.

He arrested 18 men on riot charges at the Leatherwood Lumber company plant on Red Bird creek. This is only 15 miles from Manchester, but the officer and his prisoners had to journey 50 miles on foot, muleback, bus and auto through three counties before he could lodge them in jail. The 15-mile strip between the jail and the scene of the arrests happens to be all mountain, impassable.

After Jackson and his three assistants arrested the lumberjacks they walked several miles down the mountainside, rode on muleback for a few more miles, caught a bus to Pineville in Bell county. From there they went by bus to Barbourville in Knox county, where the prisoners stayed in the county jail overnight. The next morning the party proceeded in automobiles to Manchester. The arrests grew out of a strike at the lumber camp.

WEST POINT OF AIR NEAR SAN ANTONIO

To a stranger traveling along the Houston highway near the village of Schertz, the gleaming checkerboard roofs of Randolph Field structures might be puzzling, but for the inevitable swarms of planes overhead. That sight refutes what otherwise might be his natural assumption that the more than 300 buildings erected on about 450 acres of the field's total of 2368 represent a city of itself, or at least some gigantic industrial center. The checkerboard roofs are a guide to fliers. As a matter of fact, the hundreds of permanently constructed buildings of hollow tile and stucco of Spanish architecture, do house a population of community proportions. A recent tabulation, according to Maj. F. L. Martin, commandant of the field, revealed that 1538 enlisted men, including cadets, and 250 flying officers, some of whom are students, were stationed at Randolph. The families of many of them reside on the reservation. At the same time, the number of airplanes at Randolph field was 279, says the Houston Chronicle.

Texans generally are familiar by this time with the magnitude of the great airport. They have been informed that an estimated 300 planes could take off within a period of five minutes from its 1900 acres of landing fields sloping away from the building area, which is laid out in streets like spokes of a giant wheel. They have been told that the government has spent nearly $11,000,000 for buildings and other improvements on land which, until the city of San Antonio bought it at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars and donated it to the war department, comprised a score or more of farms and pastures. They know that the field was named for a Texan, Capt. William Randolph, who was adjutant at Kelly Field there before his death in a 1928 crash at Gorman. But many, perhaps, are not so familiar with the inner workings of this great military establishment, where henceforth all members of what many consider the most important branch of the country's fighting forces must get their first training as army airplane pilots. The conflict in the Far East centered attention upon battleships, but today navies also are prepared to fight from the air as well as in and from the water. Recent events have emphasized rather than detracted from the importance of the airman in wartime, the latter assert.

MULE HAS COLTS

An authentic and unquestionable case of a mule giving birth not merely to one foal, but to two, contrary to assertions of horse breeders and biologists for many years, is reported in a recent issue of the London scientific periodical, Nature, by Ernest Warren of the Natal Museum, South Africa. In 1924, Mr. Warren writes, this mule gave birth to her first foal, which was raised successfully and proved to resemble its stallion father more closely than its mule mother, being almost indistinguishable from an ordinary horse. In 1931, the same mule produced a second foal, which Mr. Warren reports as also more like a horse than a mule, but with distinct signs of its mixed ancestry. The mother is described as a typical mule in every respect, with a considerable preponderance of the characteristics of the ass over those of the horse. Instances of supposed fertility in mules have been reported, Mr. Warren admits, but never before have the facts been authentic or complete enough to refute the conviction of biologists that continued fertility of the offspring is impossible in crosses of species as different as the ass and the horse. It is possible, Mr. Warren also suggests, that some unknown condition in South Africa is especially favorable to the continuance of fertility in mules, although less completely authenticated, is said to have been reported about thirty years ago.

CAPONE STILL RULES CHICAGO VICE WORLD

While Cleveland, New York, Detroit, among other cities, still struggle with gang wars, Chicago—original habitat of the gangster—looks back on its period of turbulence as a mere memory.

The long period of quiet there, new extended over a period of more than a year, leads observers to believe the city finally has found the key to peace. It is believed to include monopoly organization of liquor distribution and gambling, with tacit official acquiescence so long as the underworld keeps the peace.

Even though Alphonse Capone remains in jail, pending final determination of his fate by the federal circuit court of appeals, he continues to dominate the scene. His organization has control of liquor, gambling and vice. There is little police interference noted and almost no opposition in sight from any aspiring rivals.

It still is otherwise in many other population centers of the country. Cleveland with her five year old corn sugar war, has just had four killings this week in a massacre that somewhat compared with the Valentine Day massacre here in 1929.

In New York rival gangs continue to do their killing while Detroit has its gang difficulties.

Collinson Owens, an English writer, after an investigation of the underworld situation of this country has concluded that 25,000 persons have been killed in gang wars during the past decade. Of this number about 500 have fallen in the Chicago fights. He believes 1,000,000 men are in the nation's criminal armies.

Capone, in jail, continues to be the nation's leading gangster. His activities have so confused federal agents, who have him cooped up in the Cook county hoosegow, that Friday they ordered a 24-hour guard by a deputy United States Marshal, to keep out gangster visitors.

Previously the marshal had ordered that only individuals bearing passes signed by this federal official or his first deputy could visit the redoubtable Alphonse. Then they found that his lieutenants were coming in with passes to visit other prisoners, utilizing the visit to communicate with Capone. — Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

GLEANINGS

Opportunity comes to all who set opportunity as their goal; for opportunity is the reward of tedious preparation — and there is no opportunity so uplifting as the opportunity to serve our fellowmen.

To realize that every man is a magnet drawing his fellowmen unto himself, imparting each to the other his virtues and his faults, makes every man his brother's keeper.

"For want of a nail the battle was lost," so for want of human kindness can the battle of life be lost.

Greater than the art itself is the stick-to-it-iveness of the artist.

Love is the substance behind the shadows, pushing, pushing towards the light.

The reward for work well done is the work itself.

Only should we reject the old truth when the new truth is a better truth that makes for a clearer, better and more illumined way.

Omnipotence will be yours when you realize that you are a live wire waiting for the proper connection in the proper place — and that it is up to you to find the proper place.

One never knows the kernel of a nut until the shell is broken; so with life—when the outer crust is pierced by some sorrow, how often is the heart so different from what one expected.

DOBBIN BACK AGAIN

RIDING AND ROPING TAUGHT IN SCHOOL

It used to be just reading, writing and arithmetic for the boys in school, but two new "R's", riding and roping, have been added to the curriculum by West Texas' unique institution—the Circle—Ranch school, the "cowboy college."

Established by two outstanding former athletes at Texas Christian University, Homer and Otho Adams, on their 21,000 acre ranch in Pecos county, the school is believed to be the only one of its kind in the country. Not only does the limited student body delve into the mysteries of calculus, psychology and other academic subjects, but they spend many hours in the open learning riding, roping, cattle judging, how to use firearms and many other phases of plainscraft, says a writer in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Among the outdoor work is included horsemanship, handling and judging of livestock, management and care of a ranch, hunting and trapping, use of firearms, camping, trailing and how to take care of oneself in the open. Trips to the Rio Grande Valley through the mountains will be made horseback. No automobiles are allowed and the boys will have to make all trips on horseback.

SAN SABA COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The San Saba county singing convention (quarterly) will meet at San Saba Sunday, March 13, 1932, at 10 a. m., with usual program.

The last convention was at San Saba and was one of the best ever had in the county. The Stamps Quartette, singers from Brady, Brownwood and other towns and communities were there with plenty of pep that made the program interesting from first to last. Lots of fun and life and again there were numbers of inspirational songs.

These singers said they were coming back and we are looking for them. Everybody invited. Bring your lunchbasket and stay all day. J. H. HART, Chrm.

JAPANESE PREPARED FOR WAR OR PEACE

Working for peace with one hand and preparing for a continuation of the war with the other, Japanese authorities on Thursday offered their plan for a truce, while at Woosung two transports of fresh troops were being landed.

Meanwhile, with the Chinese forces pushed back several miles from Shanghai and the city quiet and apparently free from danger at present, Colonel Gasser commanding the 31st U. S. Infantry has asked that his shivering doughboys be sent back to warm Manila, which they left six weeks ago.

Japanese officials have stated they would punish the two Japanese civilians, who severely beat Miss Rose Marlowe, Southern Baptist missionary, when she attempted to visit the ruins of the school, where she had been teaching.

LINDBERGH BABY STILL MISSING

Despite persistent rumors that Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., 20-months-old son of the famous flyer, had been returned to his parents last Sunday, representatives of the family said yesterday that the child was still in the hands of the kidnapers.

After exhausting every legal means placed at his disposal by willing authorities, Lindbergh has had to turn to known criminals of the underworld as his emissaries to the kidnapers of his son.

Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the baby's mother, is said to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

CONDITIONS IN TEXAS

Texas cotton growers are confronted by an unusual situation. The legislature enacted a law for a fifty per cent reduction of the state's cotton acreage. A district judge has declared the law unconstitutional. His decision has not been reviewed by the supreme court, although notice of appeal has been served. Most cotton growers say they will follow the decision of the lower court, and plant such acreages as in their judgment are warranted by market demands.

The Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college is conducting a state-wide campaign for the purpose of bringing to the attention of farmers the importance of a more diversified farming program to include beef cattle, milk cows, hogs, poultry, fruits and vegetables. The college is carrying its course of study to the farmers direct, with its best specialists and several car loads of exhibits of the class of those usually found at state fairs. The Santa Fe railway is co-operating with the college by furnishing a nine-car train for a tour of seven weeks including 151 stops. Large crowds of farmers are attending the meetings, showing that they are interested in any program which will help them in making their operations more profitable and their living more comfortable.

Excessive rains over most of Texas has retarded crop planting, little progress in that line having been made except in the western counties, where work is well advanced. Feed crops in the northwest will take up the slack caused by wheat acreage reduction. Wherever a reduction in the cotton acreage is made, more corn and other feed crops will be planted.

Potatoes in the Cane belt, following the record production in 1931, will show further increase in acreage. The potato acreage in East Texas will be reduced, but the area devoted to truck crops generally will be increased, particularly tomatoes.

The watermelon acreage is uncertain, due to wet weather. Onions will be grown in the Cane belt for the first time.

Pastures continue to improve due to mild weather and abundant rainfall.—Santa Fe Bulletin.

AMERICA ASSUMES WORLD LEADERSHIP

At a time when the guns of war flame ominously on the Shanghai battle front, at a time when the nations of the world hesitate and are temporarily bewildered by that turn of events in the Far East, which has upset the international machinery of world peace, America assumes a position of leadership which should have been ours during the past decade, but which we voluntarily relinquished when Woodrow Wilson's aims and peace policies were frustrated. That emergence of America from a position of selfish, not splendid, isolation is the most heartening development which could come to a universe baffled by the swift and deadly reversal to the primitive law of claw and talon in Asia.

The last Stimson note to Japan is the most concrete evidence of America's determination to once more assert her leadership in world affairs. Perhaps it is because we see our own interests so directly affected by the wholesale slaughter and destruction in the Far East. Perhaps the people of this nation have been shocked out of their normal placidity by the sudden swoop of the Four Horsemen across the shattered ruins of Shanghai. Perhaps America realizes as never before that we can not permit any one nation to "get away with it," else all will be swept into the holocaust of hate at some future date.

It is, no doubt, America's duty in this hour of supreme crisis to keep Woodrow Wilson's lamp of international idealism burning more brightly than ever before. It is America's chance to redeem herself once and for all from the stigma which attached to us when we permitted the isolationists to separate us from those nations which could help us and which needed our help.

If the league today can render America only nominal assistance in the fight to force Japan's military clique to respect the sanctity of international treaties, it is because that league in the past has been rendered impotent by the failure of this nation to co-operate in former years. The league, of course, is no stronger than the will to co-operation among the nations which compose it. The league in itself can not blockade or boycott or blackball any country in the world except by united action. Its members must participate, must present a solid front against the offender.

In addressing a solemn warning to Japan that the United States does not now and never will admit the international legality of the Manchurian invasion and the Shanghai attack, America has solidified the world behind her, at least that part of it which feels that civilization will suffer greatly if the militarists of Japan are permitted to have their way with China.

There will be those who laugh at such efforts to shake an admonishing finger in the direction of the war god. Yet such have laughed since the dawn of time at every effort to substitute the law of reason for the rule of force. Such will ever laugh at all attempts to banish battle from the world's vocabulary. Such will advance the shopworn theory that what will be will be, that man was born to kill and be killed.

Because the militarist rulers of one nation run amuck, the world does not goose step to the music of the drum, but it will pause and ponder the realities. And if it does, it will realize that the peoples of the world can not have peace unless they are united to protect themselves from each other. The League of Nations is not perfect. Nothing here on earth is. But the league does furnish a foundation upon which to build. That foundation can and must be strengthened by the United States. Otherwise, we will stand alone and that is dangerous. Japan has discovered that fact during the past six months, which have seen all nations express disapproval of the excesses committed by her military leaders in China.

After ten years of selfish and shortsighted dallying we have asserted world leadership. The instant and favorable reaction caused in Europe by this bold yet politic move proves that those large and important elements in every land who want

SUNKEN TREASURE

If you knew you were within 120 or 500 feet of a fortune of millions, which no one was making an effort to possess, what would you feel like doing? Would not the first impulse be to advance that 120 to 500 feet and claim that wealth? Naturally. And this "profession" is open to you with comparatively little competition. And, more encouraging still, millions have been recovered in just this manner, says a writer in the Dallas News.

Five million dollars — five tons of gold and forty-five tons of silver — lie 400 feet beneath the surface of the water in the bullion room of the Egypt of the Peninsular and Oriental line. It was rammed in a fog near Brest, France, by the Seine, a French tramp freighter. But Italians are establishing a new diving record in an effort to recover this treasure. They appear to have beaten the American diving record for deep salt water work, which was 306 feet in salvaging the F-4 submarine, sunk off Honolulu. However, there are other fortunes awaiting adjustment of your diving helmet.

The English Channel holds what might be termed the submerged isle of lost ships. Marine wrecks lie almost on top of each other. Masses of wealth greater than most of the big fortunes of reputedly rich America lie undisturbed for want of exploration at the bottom of this treacherous waterway. Eight thousand vessels sunk during the World War have an estimated value of $6,000,000,000. Locations of most of these vessels can be learned from the admiralty or other marine officials.

Many richly laden wrecks await your enterprise, if you care to embark upon this novel business—and likely profitable one. Fifteen "cool million" dollars are represented in bullion held in the rooms of the Florencian, which nosed downward in the Bay of Tobermory. This is hardly more than the fifth of the value of the cargo of gold awaiting divers in the wreck of the Lizard, sunk near Cornwall, for its gold shipment is valued at $70,000,000.

When the ill-fated Lusitania, carrying Elbert Hubbard and other notables to their death, went down, it buried off the Irish coast $13,000,000 in gold and valuables. The Arabic holds $5,000,000. Utopia is at the bottom of the sea, for did not Sir Thomas Moore pave his ideal city with gold? Calculation fails in estimating the value of marine wrecks along the shelves of America and Continental Europe. We know of the Merida off the Virginia coast. A sunken pirate fleet is said to lie in Navarino Bay, Greece, worth $50,000,000, but this would be worth verifying before starting out on an expensive deep sea diving expedition. Successes have been recovered in this hazardous work. British divers have succeeded in recovering all but $12,000 of a $30,000,000 shipment of bullion, which failed to reach Canada during the war. The Italians appear near success on the Egypt's $5,000,000 cargo, but they occasionally encounter waves capable of moving a 700-pound man.

STERLING AND ROADS

Governor Sterling has learned something. It took him many years to make the discovery that the counties of Texas should not be forced to bond themselves in order to help build state highways. In an authorized interview last Sunday he urged counties to stop going into debt in order to secure expenditure of state funds in their districts.

Time and time again the Press has protested against the methods of the State Highway Department and their emissaries. Orators and boosters for good roads have gone into various counties, called public meetings and urged the taxpayers to burden themselves in order to get part of the state pie. As a result we have a patchwork of road building and many counties are suffering from high taxes because they voted bonds.

Had the State Highway Department used state funds to build a connected system, regardless of county appeals and payments, we would have more through highways and less tax burdens.

Furthermore, had Gov. Sterling permitted that bill passed by the last legislature to become effective, our counties would today be getting some needed relief. He vetoed an act that appropriated one-fourth of all gasoline tax collections for the purpose of reimbursing counties which had voted money for state highways.

Our state highway work has been a mixture of favoritism and penalization for years. We have spent over $300,000,000 and yet there is not one complete state road in all Texas. It costs $30,000,000 to build 1000 miles of concrete highway. We should have secured at least 10 roads crossing the state, each 800 miles to 1000 miles in length all solid concrete, but we have only patches of road work from the Panhandle to the Gulf. The highway department uses only one system—put a road wherever you

GRUMBLING AT TAXES

Grumbling at taxes continues and statisticians compile impressive figures to show that the expense per capita of Federal government is now $34.37 and that the average per capita expense of state government is in excess of $15. The per capita for city and local rule can not be figured, but it is greater than state and national government combined.

But grumbling at taxation is the most foolish thing imaginable. The thing to grumble at is appropriation. Once the spending power appropriates, the jig is up with the taxpayer's purse and the fiddler must be paid.

Figures don't mean a thing in this fight on taxation. You might as well fight death and keep on eating what will kill you. Taxes that are not stopped before they are spent will never be stopped. Economy is a part of it, honesty in expenditure is a part of it. But the real cause of taxation is expenditure itself, whether it be honest or dishonest, whether it be carefully and well done or not. You do not get something for nothing—not even by solemn legislative action intended in that absurd spirit. Too much government costs too much money and we shall either have to dispense with some of the inspecting and regulating and educating and controlling and preventing and demonstrating and tabulating and propagating and investigating that we call government, or else we will keep on paying for it.—Dallas News.

can induce some county to pay one-third to one-half the cost.

When it is too late to do any good, Gov. Sterling has discovered that the system is all wrong. Many counties are facing default on their bonds. Our governor wants to lock the stable door, after the horse has disappeared—he wants to stop the spending, after all the money has been spent.—Houston Press.

BUTTERFLY CLUBS

When life becomes too hectic for the harassed butterfly, he can drop in at the "puddle club" and find peace and quiet "with the boys."

"Clubs," where bachelor butterflies congregate and form close friendships are a feature of butterfly life described in a new study of the insects issued by Austin H. Clark, of the United States National Museum in Washington.

He tells, too, of fierce butterfly wars, caused like many human wars by the pressure of over-population, and of butterfly heart-throbs that come to the bachelors, when lady butterflies appear.

Clark pictures butterflies, not as museum specimens stuck on a pin or as creatures that spend all their time flying from flower to flower, but as busy insects whose instincts lead them to many acts comparable to the reasoned doings of humans.

There are good and bad mixers among butterflies, too. The good mixers, well-liked, gather at the puddle clubs, but the poor mixers, who can't get along with anybody, go off by themselves to roadsides.

AIRMAN HEARS DOGS BARK AT 4,000 FEET

For the first time in the history of aeronautics a glider has flown over the French capital, Georges Abrial, experienced in gliding for many years, took off from Etampes, his machine being towed into the air by a powerful airplane, to which it was attached by a long rope. When he had attained 4,000 feet in the air, he released the rope and soared over Paris, then made a wide circle over Versailles and landing at Villacoublay. He was particularly interested in the fact that he could hear the city's noises at such a great height the hum of motor cars, the barking of dogs and even the sound of human voices being audible, he said.

LAMPASAS

Rev. A. F. Avant was among those who went to Cameron to attend the district Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. meeting held there on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Lampasas city schools are feeding about forty children each day at the school building. The children they are feeding are those who do not have enough to eat at home and would have to come to school hungry if they were not cared for in this manner.

Four negro women were placed in jail here Friday by Sheriff Harvey. They were arrested in Georgetown and it was found that they had stolen merchandise from Stokes Bros. & Co., and the Economy Store of Lampasas and the goods were found in their possession. There were two men also wanted on the same offense and Sheriff Harvey went to Georgetown and Austin for them Saturday.

The general mercantile store of Ed Trussell at Kempner was entered last Tuesday night and the safe pried open and some merchandise taken from the store. It was first thought without close examination, that the safe had been blown, but after the arrival of a finger print expert from Austin it was examined closely and they found that the knobs had been broken off and the safe turned on its side in order to gain entrance. There were finger prints, but the parties had used gloves. About $3 in money, a pistol and eight or ten dollars worth of work clothing were taken from the store. There were checks and papers in the safe, but they were not disturbed.—Leader.

HAMILTON
Monday morning District Judge Joe Eidson convened the regular spring term of the district court, impaneled the grand jury and delivered his charge to the jurors.

Wednesday, shortly after noon, Miss Veva Vlauch, a former Hamilton girl, was robbed of $181.45, while attending to her duties as cashier for the Aeme Loan company, in the Dan Waggoner building at Fort Worth. The robber failed to get $250 hidden in the office.

Friends here will regret to hear that John Clark, who was traveling for the Alta Vista Creamery company, dropped dead at Rhome, Wise county, Thursday of last week. He was known to many Hamilton people, as he has made this place while serving this territory. Mr. Roberts was notified of his demise Monday. Mr. Clark was a son of Rev. Randolph Clark, for ten years pastor of the Church of Christ here.

Newspaper are rejoicing with the farmers on the excellent season in the ground for spring crops. Now since this section failed to receive the freezing weather necessary to crystallize the water, the fruit trees are preparing to put on a floral display, and there is promise of an abundance of work for the canners later on. Some of the peach trees have already risked their crimson beauty in a flowery plume, daving the frost, which prophets of evil omens tell us will come in April.—News.

LOMETA
Miss Juanita Mayberry is visiting home folks here this week. Jack Berry of Goldthwaite and Ross of Fort Worth, were in this section buying mules the last of the week.

Miss Rena Bell Townsend has returned from an extensive visit to Ozona and Brady. Miss Townsend will return to Ozona in a few days to accept a position there.

Announcement has been received of the marriage of Miss Gladys Thompson of San Saba and Mr. Arthur Rayzor of Dallas. The wedding took place in the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. F. Kirby in Waco, Wednesday at seven-thirty p. m.

The many friends and acquaintances of Miss Dell Walker and R. S. Rogers were pleasantly surprised to learn that on last Saturday morning they drove over to San Saba, where they were united in marriage. Rev. E. E. Thompson performing the ceremony.—Reporter.

COMANCHE

Tom Stark, Jr., five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stark, was bitten by a dog believed to have been affected with rabies Saturday and was taken to Austin Sunday for treatment at the state hospital.

Fire insurance companies doing business in Comanche have paid out in losses during the last three years in Comanche, $1.75 for every dollar they have collected in premiums, according to the State Fire Insurance Department, which again assessed the maximum 15 per cent penalty on fire insurance policies carried on Comanche property.

An automobile can hardly pass another upon the state highways or any public road without violating a state law, which provides that a motor vehicle when passing another on the highway must not be driven at a speed greater than fifteen miles per hour. This is the substance of a law as read by state highway patrolmen, who were in Comanche Friday in the interest of enforcing the different highway laws.

Early Saturday night J. D. Cloud and Clyde Brownlee escaped from the run-about of the Comanche county jail on the second floor through a hole in the wall, made by removing a stone, after they had pried the mortar loose with an iron window bar, which they had torn loose. Cloud was captured at a Comanche residence within less than an hour after the break was discovered and again placed in custody, but Brownlee is still at large.

A ten thousand dollar fire, which at one time threatened even a greater damage, early Friday morning destroyed the Erwin Pinkard, one-story brick building off the northwest corner of the square, ruining the stock of groceries carried by E. H. Jones, the furniture and fixtures of Cox & Moody, including valuable refrigeration machinery, the meat market and cafe of Claude Dunlap, and the produce equipment of the McDonald Produce company. The fire, which was discovered about three o'clock, is believed to have originated from defective wiring between the roof and the ceiling in the part of the building occupied by the cafe.—Chief.

SAN SABA

Attorney Jas. H. Baker and R. S. Crain were in San Antonio the first of the week attending district court.

L. A. Skaggs closed a deal last week by which he bought the Renfro Drug Store No. 2 in Brownwood. The family is moving to Brownwood this week to make their new home.

The final check and report of tax collector, A. E. Moore, will show the state, county and school taxes in San Saba county are a shade over 50 per cent paid for 1931. The school taxes for the common school districts of the county are a little less than half paid.

Elder Bela L. Watson of Cordell, Okla., has accepted the election as minister of the Church of Christ in San Saba. Trucks are moving the household goods to San Saba this week and Elder Watson and family will be domiciled in the Bourland cottage adjoining the church property on Wallace street. This church has been without a regular minister since the resignation of Elder Clem W. Hoover last year.

The first work was started Monday on the construction of the beautiful new pastorium for the First Baptist church. The men did the work of digging and hauling sand from the pit a few miles out. The women went to the pit and served lunch and assisted in every way they could. The new pastorium will occupy the same place as the old one and will be a beautiful fieldstone structure of seven rooms with all the modern conveniences.—News.

BROWNWOOD

Small damage was done to fruit in Brown county Friday afternoon and night by hail and cold weather, according to County Farm Agent O. P. Griffin.

A MILLION TO START WITH

"I used to be a merchant, then became a broker and had a good business till the crash came—wasn't rich of course, but pretty well to do; lost everything. But I didn't go out and commit suicide—lots of folks are doing it, but I think the world's better off to lose towards like that. I just said to my wife: 'I'm going to find work at something, no matter what it is—and I'm going to come back! I've got my health—that's worth $1,000,000 to start with—and I've got you and three fine children.' I'll drive a taxi as long as I can't do better, and when I can do better than that I'll do it. Too many folks are whining, who ought to be working. Things will get better sometime and a man can come back yet, if he keeps hustling all the time."

This bit of philosophy from the driver of a 20-cent taxi in Washington City is quoted in the current issue of The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist with the following comment:

"We commend this man's spirit to discouraged farmers. Most of them can win out by the same spirit this man showed—at least all who have health and strength. That's $1,000,000 to start with," as this taxi driver said. And on the farm there is never a day when a man need be 'unemployed.' There is always something one can be doing. We can improve or enrich or beautify the barns or home or outbuildings or fences. Where we can't paint, maybe we can whitewash. We can repair terraces, sprout fields, stop gullies. We can haul a year's supply of leaves or pine straw and so increase the manure crop—and we would repeat that this is the best way to celebrate the Washington Bicentennial this month. We can cut an abundance of wood—enough to last till winter. And we can do still other things at this season to improve the timber crop—our most neglected crop—by thinning out crowded trees or less valuable trees and raking fire lanes to stop fires.

"Surely every farmer who has '$1,000,000 to start with can come back sometime!'"

A diamond brooch valued at approximately $300 was recovered by members of the police and sheriff's departments Friday when Bob Dowty, one of a trio arrested in connection with the robbery of the Economy store, led officers to a shack in the city. Suit for $88,684 against the International Harvester Company of America was filed in 35th Judicial District Court Saturday by W. T. Thurmond. Thurmond alleges that on March 5, 1930, while riding with Alvis Taylor, the machine overturned as a result of which he received a broken neck. He alleges Taylor was in the employ of the company and both of them had been to a meeting of company salesmen at Sweetwater.

Dr. W. R. Hornburg, pastor of the Coggin Avenue Baptist church, plans to leave March 22 for Klamath Falls, Ore., where he will conduct revival services. CONSIDER THE CHILDREN

All economies are not necessarily the best economies. Quite often they turn out to be very costly, and therefore cease to be profitable. "It is expensive economy to cripple the schools by dismissing faithful teachers, who have spent a lifetime in preparation, or by reducing salaries of those who are retained until they become utterly discouraged and turn to some other fields of activity," the Denison Herald points out in an editorial dealing with economies in the educational system.

The need for curtailment of public expenditures is no longer questioned. Quite to the contrary, the demand seems to be universal. No doubt there are too many offices or departments and perhaps they should be merged or done away with entirely. But when we enter the classroom to practice our frugality, we tread dangerous waters.

During the World War, we are reminded, the Minister of Public Instruction in France, who was then M. Viviani, ordered that "the schools everywhere must be kept open." And they were kept open—even in the face of cannon and bomb. At times the teachers and pupils were forced to wear gas masks. At other times, when school buildings were demolished the classes were moved into cellars and caves. But always the schools were kept open. The "scholastic front" in France during a period of great sacrifice was as impenetrable as the military front.

In this country today, although our stress is not new so great as was the strain of the people of France, we find our scholastic front has been penetrated by Demon Economy, who has closed schools in some instances, and otherwise enforced "economies" that may deprive the children of that which is their heritage.

Perhaps the better way would be to endure taxation and privation, to the extent that our children and their children may be privileged to live in a world that is both safe and happy.—Editorial Digest.

THE SCANDAL MONGER

In nearly all establishments there are employees who carry tales to those in charge of the business or the department heads.

Usually such people don't confine themselves to matters pertaining to the business which the bosses ought to know. Often there are personal matters with certain employees, which are apt to have a bad effect on their chances for promotion or retaining their jobs.

The tale carrier hopes to make his position more secure and gain for him favorable consideration in future. The wise superintendent may listen, but he will not be favorably impressed by the one who tells tales derogatory to his fellow employees.

It is safe to say that the person who will bear tales about those working with him would also peddle information about the firm to those outside. And the superintendent knows that such a one would not hesitate to say things about him to the men above him.

Such a person is not a safe employe for a responsible position, and responsible positions hold much inside information that it would not do to talk about outside the establishment. The scandal monger of any degree is most unsafe anywhere, in any business.—Houston Chronicle.

GREATEST INVENTION

What is the world's most important invention? Each inventor to his own invention, of course, but this is a question which invites a popular answer. Nations and geographical sections of the same nation hold divergent views on the subject and individuals are little nearer in agreement.

Does not the process of elimination confer this honor upon the wheel, a pair of which, connected by an axle, furnish transportation and motive power for most everything?

Without the wheel, modern civilization would be unable to utilize the power by means of the mill wheel, there would be no pulley, wheelbarrow, trucks, carriages, bicycles, railroads, automobiles, drive shafts nor power plants.

Had this simple and commonplace contrivance known as the wheel never been evolved all transportation would be by the back of man and beast, except where the sled could be used on ice and snow.

It is difficult for modern man to conceive of a wheelless world and yet one sometimes wonders who was the first man to discover the principle of the wheel and in what crude manner he first made use of that principle.

Perhaps some primitive man was led into the secret by accident, through seeing a tree felled by his stone axe, carried down the mountainside by another rolling trunk. It is possible that a round stone was the Rosetta stone of the wheel.

In some manner was born an idea to which civilization is indebted for much of its progress and comfort and elegance.—Paris Morning News.

POULTRY GIVES QUICK RETURNS

Chickens give the quickest return and call for the smallest investment of any kind of farm livestock, points out the current issue of The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist, and breaks into verse:

"Hens cackle and roosters crow,
All so happy to help grow
That $500 extra dough!"

"More cackling hens, pay days, and chicken dinners in 1932! Sounds good to me!" says Editor L. H. McKay, and adds the following bit of sound advice:

No other farm products bring in cash as often as chickens and eggs. And what fits in better with a "live-at-home" program than fried chicken, baked chicken, and smothered chicken, with lots of gravy, to say nothing of eggs straight up, scrambled or whatever way you like them best.

A farm flock must have a place where they can be kept dry. A 50-layer flock can be housed in a shed against the barn or in any place where they can be kept dry, have light to see by, and which is tight enough to prevent drafts. They need a 10 x 15 or 12 x 15 foot floor space, 8 to 10 nests, and 40 feet of roost poles. Drop boards should be built under the roosts, and covered with chicken wire to keep hens out of the droppings. The floor should be covered with straw, shucks, or some kind of litter.

Laying hens should not be let out on the ground when it is wet or cold, and they will produce better if turned out only for a few hours in the late afternoon on fair, warm, sunny days.

If our layers are not housed properly they will not produce in the fall and winter when eggs bring the highest price. To increase our farm income from chickens, we farmers must give them a comfortable place to "live and lay."

Drop boards ought to be cleaned once a week and the litter on the floor cleaned out and changed each month. Watch the increase in eggs for the week following cleaning out and relittering laying house. You'll be surprised.

Being regular in feeding, collecting the eggs, and keeping fresh, clean water before hens all the time gives more eggs per hen and per flock.

RIGID MARRIAGE RULES FOR HITLER'S TROOPS

In an attempt to benefit the Germanic race, Adolph Hitler's National Socialists have introduced a marriage license system for members of their "SS" formations, that is, the shock troops.

Under these new rules and regulations issued by the reich chief no member of an SS formation is allowed to marry before he produces proof that his prospective bride's pedigree is good from a racial standpoint.

At least three months before his marriage every brigadier must submit to the "racial board" of his troop an application for a marriage license, together with his pedigree and that of his bride to be, a doctor's health certificate, testimonials as to the character and reputation of the bride. The application is passed on to the reich chief and only after

There was quite a bit of excitement in our community last week over a mad dog. It came into the western part of the community early Tuesday morning and stayed around the creeks until shortly after sundown. The dog came down to L. W. French's and bit one dog at the house and wandered on over to the field where Verne was plowing and bit another one. It was not found until almost dark Tuesday night, when it again came back to Mr. French's house and bit a little puppy. Verne French, Lois Williams and John and Marvin Hughtitt took guns and immediately took after the dog and in only a few minutes Marvin shot the dog down. The bitten dogs were killed the next day. There is a continued watch out for other dogs and stock to go mad from bites received from the affected dogs. There is a search out as to who the dog belonged to, so the territory covered by the dog's travels could be determined. It was a long bodied, short legged dog with rather shaggy brown fur.
