We are sorry that accidents sometimes do occur. Marvin Scott broke his left leg between the knee and the ankle last Saturday night and had to be carried to the Hamilton sanitarium for treatment. We are glad to say that the fracture was a clean break, instead of a splintered bone. The accident occurred while Marvin was en route to the Gap. The doctors have promised that we will be able to bring Marvin home this week.

Mrs. Ferguson's Lawyers Win Court Battle

Judge W. F. Robertson Rules Travis County Court Without Jurisdiction to Hear Contest.

Mrs. Ferguson's name will go back on the election ticket as the Democratic nominee for governor, it appeared as a result of a court decision in Austin Wednesday.

Judge W. F. Robertson of 126th district court there ruled his court did not have jurisdiction in the Sterling-Ferguson election contest over the Democratic nomination for governor.

Judge Robertson sustained the defendant's plea in abatement and dismissed the contest petition filed by Gov. Ross S. Sterling.

The court held that only the legislature had the right to pass on qualifications for anyone for governor. One of the strong points of the Sterling election contest petition was that Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson was not qualified to serve as governor.

Judge Robertson further ruled that the primary election, or which the contest was based, is a part of the whole election system and that the contest was brought prematurely, before the election was completed. The election is not complete, he ruled, until the general election is held. He later overruled a motion by attorneys for Gov. Ross S. Sterling to keep in effect an injunction restraining the secretary of state from placing the name of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson on the general election ballot until action is taken to higher courts.

The action of Judge Robertson removes any existing legal bar against the name of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson being certified as the Democratic nominee for governor.

Sterling's attorneys were notified by Judge Robertson that if they wished an injunction against it, they would have to ask the court of civil appeals to issue one.

Diphtheria Immunization Campaign Opens

State Health Nurse Here to Assist in Health Program for Mills County.

Miss Beatrice Lott of the State Health Department, has been in the county this week and will remain until Oct. 31, visiting schools and assisting the county board of health in a campaign of immunization and health promotion among the school children. A meeting of the county board was held Wednesday morning in Judge Simpson's office and plans were inaugurated for the proposed campaign, which will be directed mainly toward immunizing the children against diphtheria. The plan, as far as outlined, is for a day to be set for the parents of the various communities to bring their children to Miss Lott for examination and advice as to treatment. The health nurse simply advises as to these needs and refers the parties to their local physicians and dentists.

In connection with Miss Lott's work the health board plans to provide the necessary immunization remedies for the children at a minimum cost, the full details of which will be made when all plans have been perfected.

Miss Lott, together with some members of the county health board, expects to visit as many of the schools in the county as the limited time allotted to the county will allow.

Eagles Defeat Lometa Hornets In First Game

Goldthwaite Downs Lometa 7-0 In Game Friday. Eagles Play Brownwood Today.

Last Friday afternoon saw the Eagles take the Hornets into camp by a 7 to 0 score. The game started with a bang, when Lometa ran the opening kick-off back for what was apparently a fouchdown. The man was called back for some reason and from there on the teams battled rather evenly with a possible edge to the Eagles.

Both teams were rather ragged in their play, as this was the opening game and under new rules. There were very few penalties and both teams were made up of good, clean sports. We advise the Class C to watch out for Coach Davis and his Hornets.

This afternoon at 4:00 the Eagles tangle with the Brownwood Lions at Brownwood. We hope to prove to them that Goldthwaite is more than a small town, whose teams can be walked over. Come along and see the Lions receive a surprise.

Homer Beckham Gets 10 Year Prison Sentence

OTHER COURT PROCEEDINGS

The district court has been pretty busy this week, but the indications were that an adjournment would be had last night until Monday, provided the civil case on trial was completed.

The grand jury reconvened Monday morning and adjourned that afternoon, after having returned one indictment.

Cases Tried

State vs. Homer Beckham, murder; verdict of guilty and punishment assessed at ten years in the penitentiary.

State vs. Lacy Horner, theft; plea of guilty and punishment assessed at 3 years, 7 months and 24 days in the penitentiary, with sentence suspended during good behavior.

State vs. Perry Cloud, burglary; plea of guilty and penalty assessed at 3 years in penitentiary, with sentence suspended during good behavior.

State vs. Veston Luster, burglary, plea of guilty; penalty assessed at 3 years in penitentiary, with sentence suspended during good behavior.

There was a special venire of 108 men summoned in the Beckham case.

The suit of J. C. Haralson vs. D. L. Wheeler et al. was on trial when the Eagle was put to press. This case was being tried without a jury.

The jury for the week was dismissed yesterday for the remainder of the week.

Case Transferred to Brown County

The case of E. T. Mayes, charged by complaint with the murder of F. T. Moreland in the Democrat community last week, was transferred this week to the Brown county court, and the papers in the case were sent to that county, by agreement of all parties. The reason for the transfer was that the parties were all residents of Brown county and the trouble from which the death of Mr. Moreland resulted took place in Brown county. The reason for bringing the case here in the first place was that Mr. Moreland died in this county and the Mills county officers held the inquest, took the complaint and filed the bond. As the matter now stands, Mills county has nothing further to do with the case, Mills county officers having only assisted the Brown county officers in the case.

LEGION AUXILIARY

Hiway Engineer Is Coming Here To Open Office

District Highway Engineer Ehlinger Has Orders to Start Preparations.

District Highway Engineer Leo Ehlinger of Brownwood was here Saturday and conferred with W. C. Dew, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and County Judge Roy Simpson about state highway work on highway 81 from the San Saba county line to Goldthwaite and on highway 74A from the Lampasas county line to Goldthwaite.

Mr. Ehlinger told Mr. Dew that he had orders to start work as soon as the county secured the additional right-of-way necessary to make each highway 100 feet wide and agreed to set the fences back. The highway department has decided to use the present Lampasas road, but it requires that it be widened and some of the curves reduced. Until this decision was made, the department had insisted that right-of-way be secured for an entirely new road to be located between the old and present Lampasas roads. As this would involve too much expense, the county could not agree to it. The present right-of-way will be used on the San Saba road, practically no straightening or grading being necessary.

Hard Surface Promised Both of these highways will be hard surfaced to Goldthwaite, Mr. Ehlinger stated. A state highway engineer will be sent here at once to supervise the work. An office in the courthouse has been reserved for him.

The commissioners court will take up the highway department's offer at its regular session Monday. Additional right-of-way for the San Saba road has practically all been donated by the land owners on each side and it is believed that work can be started on it as soon as the highway department is ready. Speedy action is also assured on the Lampasas highway.

Mullin Road Discussed

It is likely that action will be taken soon on a new highway from Mullin to the Brown county line to connect up with the new highway recently built thru Zephyr. If this is completed according to the highway department surveys, it is expected that the link from Goldthwaite to Mullin will be hard surfaced soon afterwards.

Big Local Pay Roll

As the expenditures for widening and topping the highway will average more than $10,000 per mile, the state will spend $240,000 in Mills county on the Lampasas and San Saba roads, if the projects go through. Most of the workers will be selected from residents of the county, so local business will be greatly benefitted, it is believed.

Present plans are for the Mills county highways to connect with similar hard-surfaced highways to Austin and to San Antonio via Lampasas and to San Antonio and to Brady via San Saba.

METHODIST CHURCH

The Methodist people are approaching the close of another conference year. There are but three more Sunday services before the meeting of the conference.

It would be a fine manifestation of loyalty and interest if every member of the church would attend all these services. Why not fill the house at all these services?

The service next Sunday morning will be appropriate to the occasion. Let's all be present.

Tell the merchants about having read their advertisements in the Eagle. It will help you as well as the paper and the dealers will be pleased.

W. J. Morris brought to the Eagle office last Saturday a bunch of rice grown at his farm, north of the city. The head resembles smooth wheat or barley, is well filled, and the grains are about the size of wheat grains. Only a few stalks of the rice were grown by Mr. Morris on ground kept constantly wet by the overflow from his tank. There is not enough rainfall here or means of irrigation that would make the growing of rice profitable.

With the World's Inventors

The latest electric range roasts meat without the housewife's attention, that is, it first sears the meat at a high browning temperature and then lowers the heat to complete the cooking.

After fourteen years of research, a British textile concern has succeeded in developing a method of treating cotton and silk fabrics used in dresses and neckties so that they will not crease or wrinkle. A synthetic condensation product is introduced inside of the cotton or artificial silk strands, thus giving them elasticity and life similar to the properties of wool.

Miniature diving equipment intended to insure the escape of the crew of a sunken submarine has been tested successfully in Germany, where the apparatus was invented. For the tests a U-boat was placed at the disposal of the inventor by the government. The device is known as a "counter lung" and fits over the face like a gas mask, while about the shoulders is a section that serves as a life belt, once the wearer has reached the surface. It is claimed that a crew can escape from a depth of sixty feet.

Persons telephoning a London phonograph company are provided with entertainment if there is delay in connecting them with the party called. The company has arranged phonographs so that the caller listens to music while he waits and is thus kept from growing restless.

For accurately determining the speed of automobiles traveling on highways a detector has been devised. The instrument consists of an L-shaped box in which a mirror is placed at an angle of forty-five degrees to each opening, one of which points directly across the road and the other is directed toward an observer stationed at a distance. An approaching automobile, as it passes the box, makes a distinct flash in the mirror that is readily seen by the observer. At the instant of the flash, the observer presses the starting button on a stop watch and as the car passes the observation station, the watch is stopped. Elapsed time over the marked distance reveals the auto's speed.

Nearer natural illumination than any light ever produced, rays from a new gas-electric lamp can be produced more cheaply than electric light. The inventor, Prof. Georges Claude, one of the world's foremost physicists, says that the new form of illumination gives a cold light that has no effect on color, whereas color effects change under lights now in use. The illumination is produced by passing an electric current thru a mixture of rare gases in a tube. Invention of the cold light closely follows Prof. Claude's production of the neon-gas light now widely used for advertising purposes.

Protection against fire is provided by an inexpensive electric alarm cartridge that is connected to the house doorbell circuit. When flames send the temperature above a predetermined danger point, the cartridge automatically closes the circuit and rings the bell or buzzer continuously until shut off. The device can be used to set off a siren or other form of alarm. Only one inch long, the cartridge can be hidden behind picture molding, if desired. The cost is so low that a number may be installed in various parts of the home or other building. The cartridge is sealed by a metal plug, which, when the heat reaches the device, melts and closes the circuit, sounding the alarm.

Accompanied by a thunderous crash, a man-made bolt of lightning with a ten-million volt has been produced in the General Electric company's laboratory at Pittsfield, Mass. This is the highest voltage lightning ever discharged by artificial means. If space allows, such a bolt will project an arc of 60 feet. As the 10,000,000-volt lightning spans the arc, a tremendous roar, like thunder resounds through the steel-lined laboratory.

Two Pennsylvania pottery makers have constructed a solar furnace ten feet in diameter, which they claim will produce a temperature of 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit at the focal point. When augmented by a magnifying glass between the furnace and its focal point, it is believed an even more intense heat can be produced. It was designed for experiments in fusing zirconia, with a melting point of 5,200 degrees, in making laboratory crucibles. RED PERIL IN CHINA

A year hence, if the Red peril has not been checked in the interval, a Communist China may have become a real possibility. This is the prediction of some English language editors in the Far East, who urge upon the Nationalist government of China the dire necessity of combating the inroads of Russian Red propaganda and conversion among China's 400 million. In May of this year a Russian influential monthly, published in Moscow, claimed that "200 out of 773 districts of Central and Southern China were under the control of the Soviet government of China." This publication, Moslodaya Gvardia, also declared that the population of these 200 districts is estimated at about 60 million. A distinguished authority on Chinese affairs, H. G. W. Woodhead, editorial associate of the Shanghai Evening Post, now speaks alarmingly of the fact that the Chinese-Japanese hostilities in Manchuria and Shanghai have resulted in the relaxation, if not the complete abandonment, of the central government's efforts to cope with the Red menace in China. "If another nine months be allowed to elapse without heroic efforts to deal with the Red peril," he writes, "the belt that now almost encircles the lower Yangtze will probably be completed and the rest of China will be completely isolated from Shanghai, so far as land and river communications are concerned."—Literary Digest.

The Texas Centennial Means The 100th Birthday of Texas

Sam Houston was inaugurated President of the Republic of Texas on October 22, 1836. As a symbol of his assumption of civil office, he presented his sword to the Speaker of the House.

Celebrated in Honor of the Immortal Heroes of Texas' Early History

"It now, sir, becomes my duty to make presentation of this sword . . . this emblem of my past office," said Houston at his inauguration. "I have worn it with some humble pretensions in defense of my country—and should the danger of my country again call for my services, I expect to resume it, and respond to that call, if needful, with my blood and with my life."

In this dramatic manner constitutional government began in Texas nearly a century ago. The centennial of that event, and of other events which marked the birth of Texan independence, will come in 1936. We should observe it with a Centennial Celebration worthy of Texas and the heroes who won and established Texan independence.

Such a Centennial Exposition can rival the foremost of such events ever held. Literally millions of people will pass the borders of Texas. They will not only see the glories of our illustrious past—but the golden opportunities of the present. Happily, such an Exposition will return revenue to the State far in excess of its cost . . . and individual Texans will see direct economic benefit.

Begin Taking Cardui Today If You Suffer Like This Lady Did

"WHEN I was a girl, I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Maggie Stanfield, of Crandall, Ga. "I was very irregular for twelve months. Nothing did me very much good until my mother began to give me this medicine. Then I got all right, stout and well. "After I was married, I was in bad health. I began taking Cardui again. I was troubled with my back a lot. Was awfully restless. I could not sleep well. I just weighed 90 pounds when I began taking Cardui. I improved rapidly. Before long I weighed 126 pounds. I felt fine. I was able to do a good day's work." Cardui is sold by druggists here.

WEATHER AND CROPS

The Santa Fe railroad bulletin on crop conditions says:

"Heavy to excessive rains over the entire state have caused major losses to Texas cotton, except in the Northwest, where conditions are more favorable. With cool weather and excessive moisture favoring increased insect activity much of the apparent crop may suffer further loss. Cotton is largely made in all areas. Picking and ginning have been slow. Moisture was mainly beneficial in Northwest Texas in increasing the size of bolls, although it also increased insect danger. Because of the low price of cotton few growers are practicing poisoning for control of insects. With the steady deterioration of the crop in the south, east, central and north areas there is little likelihood that the western and northwestern sections will improve sufficiently to absorb the losses in the other areas named, and in addition add the quarter million bales necessary to produce the estimated crop of 4,092,000 bales.

Unfavorable weather is causing further damage to the rice crop. Dry weather is needed to save that part of the crop that now is ready for harvest. Production now is estimated at slightly above 8,500,000 bushels. This will amount to a twenty per cent decrease compared to last season's crop.

Corn was made before the advent of rains so weather conditions had little effect on production. Increase over last year aggregates ten per cent. The acreage to be planted in winter wheat in the northwest will be around 4,000,000, close to that of last year, according to government figures.

With feed and water abundant turkeys are fattening fast and birds will be heavier and of better quality than those of last season.

Range conditions showed improvement during September, and now is well above the average. Outlook for the winter is favorable, feed supplies are good in feed producing areas, and moisture conditions almost ideal. Cattle have held up well and are in better condition than usual, for this season of the year. Sheep condition is also well above the average with little trading going on. Lamb movement for the year set a new record, but there still remains a large number of 1932 lambs to be disposed of at this time."

LONDON BANDIT HUNT

London, England, has been terrorized by motor gunmen, which is no novelty for any large city these days. "In recent months," says an Associated Press cablegram, "almost every day has brought fresh stories of brutal holdups and assaults by gunmen who cruise about in automobiles. It is not unique, either, that 'action was taken by Scotland Yard on the demands for drastic methods to cope with increasing criminal violence,' though one cannot imagine a city in this country putting up with the situation described for a period of time contemplated by the expression, 'recent months.' A couple of filling station hold-ups by the motorized bandits sets an American constituency by the ears. Possibly it takes the information of these events longer to percolate over there; it is their boast that their press doesn't specialize in crime news. But when their police 'take action,' they act. A blockade, a la His Majesty's navy, was established, covering every highway approach to London, all bridges and strategic traffic points in the city were posted and cruising cars and squadrons of motorcycle police were everywhere. The blockade began at 1 a. m. with orders to halt any automobile. Orders were carried out to the letter. Hundreds were stopped and searched while their drivers were questioned. The story doesn't relate whether the gunmen were among those stopped and searched or whether the suspicion is rife that they were tipped off. The method somewhat resembles the familiar simile of looking for a needle in a haystack. Scotland Yard may be just a little antiquated. In most of our larger American cities, if the police really wanted to capture the bandits, they would know exactly where to find them.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Treasure Hunters Wage Fight To Wrest Riches From Davy Jones' Locker

"Civilization is waiting for the discovery of new gold mines," said Lord Leverhulme, recently, in London. That challenge, in spirit, has taken up on the sea and land by salvors and treasure hunters who are trying to fish up some of the fabulous amounts of valuable metals shut up in Davy Jones' locker.

Engineer-inventors have reinforced their efforts with diving outfits, which enable men to walk fairly easily on the seabed at the great depth of 300 feet and more, lamps to light the pathway to treasure wrecks, warmed air from storage tanks regulated by small hand valves on the diver's suit, and ear protectors in the shape of tightly fitted telephone disks inside woolen skull caps.

Before many years have passed, we may also have underwater television to tell the men on the surface steamers what is taking place within the range of the diver's vision as he gropes in the murky ooze.

Steel stairways, leading to submarine chambers, opening like magic easements, with lights to guide the "iron men" toward the rotting wrecks have been built, writes Harold T. Wilkins in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A salvage syndicate started work, in May this year, beneath the waters of Table Bay, South Africa, where there are fifteen ships whose location and cargoes are approximately known. Divers already have gone down to the sea floor and located the rusted hulks.

In Irish waters an adventurous attempt to reach the "Lusitania's" cargo is planned by Captain Railey, an American, who is using an ingenious underwater stairway invented by Simon Lake. This tube is about 240 feet long and has an observation chamber with powerful electric lights for illuminating the seabed around the wreck of the liner.

OLD TRUNKS YIELD "POT OF GOLD"

Have you an old trunk upstairs crammed with odds and ends? Is there a corner in your cellar in which the junk of past years has accumulated? The chances are some of it can be sold for a good price.

A man in Detroit went thru an old trunk that had been lying around his attic for years, and sold the contents to an antique dealer for $1200. An old spoon alone brought $650. Some rare stamps, an old postcard, and a couple of old books were part of the treasure he didn't know he owned, writes Thomas E. Stimson in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

"Somewhere in every house is something that collectors would like to buy." That is the way one deals with it. Antiques of the highest value are often found in the most unsuspected places and usually the owner has no idea of their true worth. It pays to sort out your old things and take them to a dealer for appraisal.

"It is true that prices paid for antiques and rare objects have fallen in the last year or so," says Harry C. Brandon, through whose hands have passed several million dollars worth of art materials. "But it is still worth your while to sort out the things hidden away in trunks and closets."

Dealers often pick up for a long a valuable piece that has made its way to a second-hand store via the junkman's route. One junk dealer in Philadelphia found $75,000 worth of rare stamps in a mass of old papers he bought for $15.

"Everyone knows that good prices are paid for desirable old china, glass and silverware," says Mr. Brandon, "but not so many are aware that there is also a great demand for old fancy dishes, clocks, mirrors and bandboxes. Old toys are worth money. Even old valentines and theater bills are collected by people who can afford to pay good prices for them. The price that you will receive for an antique depends

Against Capital Punishment

Jesse Pomeroy is dead. The death of this 70 year old convict closes a chapter in American criminal history which marks the height of sentimental interference and adulated justice.

Jesse Pomeroy is dead. That means nothing to us today, but 55 years ago what relief those words would have brought to anxious fathers and frantic mothers in Boston, Massachusetts.

At thirteen he was sent to reform school for 17 months for attacking children. Within six months after his release he had horribly murdered a little boy of four and a little girl. He was convicted and sentenced to hang.

For 55 years Pomeroy served that sentence. For 40 years he was in solitary confinement, seeing only his guards and not being permitted to eat with other prisoners or to attend religious services.

Jesse Pomeroy was not idle in prison. He made no less than 12 desperate attempts to escape, nearly succeeding twice. He could not be kept at hard labor because it gave him the opportunity to make tools and weapons.

And, strange to say, hundreds of sympathetic men and women took his side. They bought his verses and his photographs and aided in his appeals for freedom.

Get Together

When the United States was engaged in the World War, the people of every community were so absorbed in the business of winning the war that petty bickerings were forgotten.

The young manhood of the nation was under arms, yet the farms were cultivated and business conducted just the same. There were wheatless and meatless days, but people did as much work as—if not more than—ever.

In many ways the present condition of our country resembles that of wartime. The enemy is no less real because he wears no uniform, carries no gun, and answers to no name but that of depression.

But there is too much dissension in our ranks. In every community petty squabbles are rising to divide families and friends. Questions that should be settled on a give and take basis are turned into burning issues.

More understanding, more tolerance, more friendliness are needed by us all. Differences of opinions there must be from the very nature of man. Different ideas about politics, about religion, about everything not a matter of bare fact, have always existed and always will.

Good Riddance

Soon after Herbert Hoover became Secretary of Commerce in the Harding administration that department's activity increased by leaps and bounds. Surveys and investigations, questionnaires by the millions, new publications galore poured forth from the Commerce Department without stint.

This writer has been on the mailing list, for several of them. Last year when the economy wave began to envelop the bureaus, those receiving these bulletins received inquiries as to whether they wanted to continue receiving them.

But that will soon be ended. We have received notice that no longer can these publications be distributed free and that a subscription price of $1 per year will be charged.

DRAFT HUNTER—NO!

A movement is said to be on foot to encourage the writing-in of Tom Hunter's name on the ticket in the November election in case neither Mrs. Ferguson's nor Ross Sterling's name is printed there.

In that primary and also in the August primary we pledged our support to the Democratic nominees. Tom Hunter was not nominated and is therefore not a nominee.

As matters now stand, Mrs. Ferguson is the nominee and is entitled to the support of every Democratic voter. If Governor Sterling can prove that Mrs. Ferguson is not the nominee, then the nomination must go to him.

THE REALM OF SCIENCE

The theory that the smell of articles such as dress goods affect unconsciously the preferences of intending purchasers often has been suggested but it remained for Prof. Donald A. Laird of Colgate University and 13 of his students actually to test it.

Selecting the town of Utica, N. Y., Professor Laird made up sets of four boxes of silk stockings, all exactly alike except that one box of each was perfumed slightly with a sachet odor, another box with a very faint fruity odor and a third box with flower odor resembling narcissus.

The three added odors were extremely faint, so that no one would be likely to recognize them or even to perceive consciously that they were present.

Professor Laird's students then took these four boxes of stockings to 250 housewives in Utica, asking each woman to select the pair of stockings which she thought were of the best quality. No mention was made of the matter of smell.

What the American public wants is theatre, good theatre. Plot and passion, not a clinical observation of a woman's soul or some such. Life is one thing, theatre another.

EARTH SHRINKING

Shrinking as it cools off, the world is growing smaller from year to year. Round-the-world fliers will have easy work in a new thousand years from now, according to Prof. Ernst Jaenecke of the Heidelberg University.

HEALTH HINT

That one's chance of getting cancer may be affected by the kind of rocks underneath the country where one lives, perhaps because these rocks control the kinds and quantities of mineral elements in the drinking water, is indicated by comparisons presented to the French Academy of Sciences in Paris, by MM. F. Blanchet and L. Bethoux.

Keeping Up With Texas TEXAS "FIRSTS"

The Blue Book, annual publication of the Manufacturers Record, publishes a list of the things in which Texas is first among the Southern States, as follows:

Area, productive power, agriculture, crop acreage, live stock value, number of farms, cotton gins, cottonseed products.

Mineral products, sulphur, petroleum, gas, carbon black, gypsum, sand and gravel, cement.

Railroad mileage, new railroad mileage, highway mileage, highway construction, motor registration, number of airplanes, airports and landing fields, Electric power production.

Paid-in bank capital, individual deposits in national banks.

Education, outlays for new school buildings, school enrollment.

New insurance business written in 1931.

But for the inclusion as "Southern States" of Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia, Texas would have been "first" in a number of other items, as the Dallas News editorially points out, among them total wealth, total manufacturing, total bank clearings and "a number of others."

Remarkable Remarks

"In Maryland we believe the government should mind its own business. We believe that the people who are least governed are best governed.—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

"I do not believe the church needs more members half as badly as we need to save those we have. We have been playing hide and seek with the devil."—Dr. Paul Henry Packard, Houston.

"Civilization can not go into reverse and retreat from the machine age. It would be utterly uneconomical to scrap a steamshovel and put one thousand men to work with teaspoons to accomplish its work."—Prof. H. H. Sheldon of New York University.

"What the American public wants is theatre, good theatre. Plot and passion, not a clinical observation of a woman's soul or some such. Life is one thing, theatre another. When I go to see a play I want to get away from the noise and clatter and realities of life. I want something to entertain and amuse me."—Walker Whiteside, actor.

ity, who has just figured out that since the days of Julius Caesar the diameter of the world has grown exactly six feet shorter.

"At the point where the earth's roughly sixty mile thick crust touches the molten part of the earth's interior, a temperature of approximately 3000 degrees centigrade prevails," Prof. Jaenecke declared. "As the heat is slowly absorbed by the hardened crust this slowly shrinks, contracting its surface incessantly towards the earth's central point."

What Other Editors Have to Say

TAX REDUCTION NO PARTISANSHIP BURLESQUE

Mr. Henning blazed the trail in pointing out where government expenditures could be slashed without loss to the nation. Bernard Baruch, who knows his government from the inside, has shown in the Nation's Business, where a billion dollars and more can and should be saved.

They say that necessity knows no laws. Neither does distress. Under the compulsion of serving distress even political partisanship is forgotten. For the greater part of the last session of Congress Democrats and Republicans worked together to find a solution of conditions that have produced three years of suffering in the land.

Mayor McKee insists that he is not a "reformer" of the theatre. The title matters little. His order closing two "burlesque" houses on Forty-Second street responds to elementary demands of public order and decency.

ROADSIDE NAPS

Tourists from other states, motoring in Connecticut, are sending home a pleasant tale of service rendered in course of duty by state police. A driver rolling along in Connecticut late at night is likely to have an officer pull up beside his car and signal him to stop.

ISLANDS FOR JAPANESE

In his survey of the islands of the Western Pacific, Dr. Warren S. Thompson found several practically undeveloped islands, now held by European powers. To him New Guinea appeared to be, in several ways, the island best suited for the experiment by which world society might furnish a peaceful solution to Japan's problem.

TAKING THE RUST OFF BUSINESS

Not long ago a respectable metallurgist estimated that rust is now consuming steel faster than the mills are producing it. That is bad enough. Worse still has been the gathering of what appears to be a similar coating of rust on American business courage.

JOB FOR MR. BORAH

More than a week has now passed and still the fate of the four white horses given by the Sultan of Muscat to President Fillmore in 1851 is unknown to official Washington. They were sent, it appears, but when the safe of the custodian of protocols was opened the other day no record of their arrival could be found.

Chairman Myron C. Taylor

"Big Steel" is cautious. He sets no time for the return of prosperity or even of an approach to normal business. He is wise. Many a prophet of high degree has burned his fingers because he didn't know when to stop talking, to use a metaphor as scrambled as some of the forecasts have been.

Even discounting the rust

There are signs that such a solvent is working. The best and latest is the announcement that the United States Steel Corporation is about to spend $5,000,000,000 on plant improvements, confident that the long vacation in steel buying is about over.

ITEMS FROM LOCAL PAPERS OF TOWNS MENTIONED

Lampasas

Cotton ginned up until Sept. 16 in Lampasas county was 422 bales. At the same date a year ago the ginnings for the county were 363 bales.

Saturday night, Sept. 24, at 8:30 o'clock, D. T. Briggs, Jr. of this city and Miss Carmen Smith of Fort Worth were united in marriage at the Boulevard Methodist church of the latter city.

The crop of native pecans is about one-fourth of normal, according to Mr. Baxter. Most of the pecans are on the lower limbs, there being very few in the tops of the trees. The lower the limb the heavier the crop is this year.

This week twelve additional men with their teams of four drawing fresnos were added to the working crew the first of the week. Besides these there were other men added to the force. Just as soon as a crushing machine can be secured many more teams will be added to the list and the work will go forward in a big way.

Some time Monday night the model T Ford belonging to F. J. Harris was driven away from his home. Next morning it was found in Hancock park by Nolan Word, who notified Mr. Harris. All the tires, tubes, the battery, the light bulbs, spark plugs and everything that could be taken were "stripped" from the car and gone.—Record.

Comanche

Miss Johnnie Cunningham of Stephenville spent the week end in Comanche with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cunningham.

One hundred and seventy bales of cotton had been weighed at the Comanche cotton yard Thursday, as compared to 1039 last year.

Rev. C. C. Henson of the Forest Hill Methodist church of Fort Worth, was last week appointed by Bishop Haye as pastor of the DeLeon Methodist church.

There had been ginned in Comanche county 58 bales of cotton prior to Sept. 16, as compared to 256 on the corresponding date last season, according to John H. Harris, special agent.

Gilbert Amos, said to be under a suspended sentence on a burglary charge, was arrested by Sheriff Dwight Brightman near the jail at midnight Wednesday and charged with attempting to aid prisoners to escape.

A slight increase in the turkey crop is expected for this fall over last, according to most of the Comanche poultry dealers, some placing the increase as high as 25 per cent. One dealer thought that the crop would not be as large.

The county tax rate was set Monday at 50 cents on the one hundred valuation for the ensuing year, as compared to 47 cents for the present year. The increase is 3 cents on the jury fund and 1 cent on the jail fund. A one cent tax for court house improvement was eliminated this year.

In a pistol duel fought in the outer lobby of the RKO Hollywood Theater, in Fort Worth, at 8:30 o'clock Friday night, Floyd L. Kelly, was shot to death by Alvin A. Heflin, 40. Heflin was reared in Comanche.—Chief.

Lometa

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Westerman of Goldthwaite were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shelton.

To date there have been 248 bales of cotton ginned in Lometa. If the rain holds off a good number should be added to this by next week.

Norman S. White, for the past four years employed by the Reporter, has purchased the Reisel Rustler.

Assisting in the publication of the Rustler will be Mrs. White, who, for the past two years, has been secretary to Mr. John A. Best, receiver for the First National Bank, Lometa.

On last Friday evening the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tippen was thrown open to the Minnie Alexander class of the First Baptist church.

San Saba

The tabulation shows there were 410 bales of cotton ginned in San Saba county from the crop of 1932 prior to Sept. 16, 1932, as compared to 570 bales ginned to Sept. 16, 1931.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Townsend have brought their son, Fred Jr., from Temple, where he had been for the last eight weeks. After having his left arm amputated above the elbow, he is convalescing. His arm was fractured when a truck sidwiped him on the road between here and Richland Springs.

The enrollment in the Richland Springs high school is 119, and is expected to reach 130 by the first of October. The elementary school at Richland Springs has 150 enrolled with 23 enrolled at Hall elementary school, which was recently consolidated with the Richland Springs district, the high school pupils being transferred there by bus. There are sixteen teachers employed in the system.

W. W. Wilkerson, layout engineer for the state highway department, has a force of men surveying, locating and platting the roadway for Pecan Belt highway 81 through San Saba county. Most of the work has been done through from the Llano county line to Buffalo Creek between San Saba and Cherokee. Actual construction will begin just as soon as the right-of-way can be secured from the landowners adjacent to the highway and the fences set back and re-built. Not only will the Pecan Belt highway which runs north and south through the county be hard surfaced by the state highway commission, but state highway 74, which is federal designation running east and west through San Saba county, will be improved in the same way.—Star.

Hamilton

Albert Hopper of Priddy conveyed his son, Albert, Jr., here to the sanitarium Monday for surgical attention to a broken arm sustained by accident while cranking a Ford car.

Miss Eulalie and Winifred Williams arrived at home late last week from Portland, Ore., where they had been to attend the annual National American Legion convention.

Harvey McKinley was here from Dallas last week visiting relatives and last week visiting inns. Accompanied by Mrs. McKinley he will return this week and they will make their home in Hamilton. Harvey has employment on the highway.

John L. Mullenix, veteran mail carrier on route three out of Hamilton, stated to a Herald-Record reporter a few days ago that he will be retired by the government with the coming in of October, in which month he celebrates his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary.

Mrs. W. D. Snell is suffering from a broken right arm, as the result of a fall on the sidewalk in Hamilton last Saturday afternoon. Rain had made the city slippery, and in making her way through the crowds that gathered here on Saturday Mrs. Snell lost her balance and fell on the concrete, catching her arm in such a position as to break the bones.—Record-Herald.

TEXAS EX-ES

When the forty-third Texas legislature convenes in January, there will be nine senators and 33 members of the lower house who are ex-students of the University of Texas, according to a compilation of the Texas Ex-Students' Association.

CALL BURCH

When you want a suit, dress or single garment cleaned or pressed, call Burch and he will please you.

About 7:45 the guests began to gather for this happy occasion. Mrs. John Shelton returned home last Sunday p. m. She was accompanied here by Mrs. B. Buvor, her sister and nurse, also Mr. Dan Westerman of Goldthwaite. Mrs. Shelton is still confined to her room, however. We wish for her a speedy recovery.—Reporter.

China's Imperial Summer Resort

Jehol, scene of recently reported Japanese campaigns in Manchuria (Manchukuo), is one of the four provinces that since 1929, when Jehol was clipped from inner Mongolia, make up the new Manchuria, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

Jehol perhaps was unknown to the average layman until it sprang into the spotlight recently in connection with the movement of Japanese troops. If modern newspapers had been printed two centuries ago, its happenings would have been frequently in the headlines. It was the summer place of Manchurian emperors. In thirty magnificent palace buildings some of the great Manchurian leaders were born, lived or died.

The province is about as long as New York state measured from New York city northward to its northern border, and about as wide. It also lies nearly in the same latitude as the empire state.

For the most part the province is hilly. The Great Khingan province is almost devoid of vegetation. Hungry cook stoves and fireplaces have even stripped trees, roots and bushes from the soil. In winter, it is a common sight to see natives raking the ground for bits of firewood.

Lack of transportation is, perhaps, one of the leading drawbacks of Jehol. No railroads enter the province; it has no seashore and no large rivers. Roads are hardly more than mere paths over which pack animals and crude carts pass. In some regions automobile trucks link towns. Wooden seats for passengers are placed around the sides of the trucks. After the traveler thinks the vehicle is full to capacity, more passengers enter the vehicle and occupy as small spaces as possible on the floor. Ten miles an hour is a high speed on Jehol roads. An automobile ride reminds the experienced traveler of a voyage on a rough sea in a small boat, for the way usually consists of a series of boulders and holes. When Jehol awakens, about 80,000,000 tons of anthracite and 850,000,000 tons of bituminous coals will be ready for modern transportation facilities.

Jehol city is reached after 144 miles of rough waveling from Peiping. On the route the traveler frequently passes through typical villages of southern Jehol, with their native inns of mud construction. A warm brick bed and a smoky lamp are all that the inn keeper provides. Millet cooked as rice, and buckwheat flour made into dough strings, bean curd and cabbage, are among the chief foods served to guests.

The Jehol district exports hides, sheep's wool for carpet-making, bristles, licorice root and furs. When crops are good, some millet, sorghum, beans, buckwheat, cotton, tobacco and melons find their way to outside markets.

Jehol city is but a skeleton of the city it once was. The six-mile wall that surrounded the imperial estate no longer protects magnificent palaces, but the ruins of them. The traveler may peer through a window of one of the buildings and enjoy vistas that once thrilled the imperial families. The palace buildings were carefully spread tier upon tier up the slopes of rolling hills. One of the principal features of the estate is a huge lake adorned with man-made islands. Brightly painted, gracefully arched bridges of wood and marble spanned creeks and canals. A labyrinth of walks traversed the grounds passing in the shadows of beautiful pagodas.

The summer palaces were built in the early part of the eighteenth century. The place was struck by lightning in 1830 and the emperor, believing the occurrence a bad omen, deserted it. It was not occupied again until 1860, when Emperor Hsien Fong fled there from Peiping. He lived less than a year after his arrival, completely demonstrating to the satisfaction of the imperial family that evil spirits inhabited the place. On two later occasions when Manchus rulers fled from Peiping, they found other sanctuaries than Jehol.

QUICKER, BETTER RELIEF from use of Black-Draught

"I have taken Black-Draught, off and on when needed, for twenty-five years, for it is easy to take," writes Mr. George T. Wharton, of Petersburg, Va. "I take it for constipation and when I have that dull, tired feeling. I take it for colds and other complaints where a good laxative is needed, and I believe it gives me quicker and better relief than any other medicine I know. It certainly has been a help to me."

P. S.—If you have CHILDREN, give them the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Theodor's Black-Draught.

GETTING A POSTOFFICE

Portlanders, who were irritated at the delay in getting the postoffice operations here under way apparently have been under a misapprehension. The government has exhibited speed as compared with its usual course. Not speed in any abstract sense, but in a comparative sense. Take the case of St. Louis. Only after strenuous exertions on the part of a united city was it possible to get the government to begin work of excavation for the foundations of St. Louis' new federal building, exactly six years, one month and 12 days after the building was authorized. The government quit kicking our dog around some time ago. Portland is fortunate. A three-year wait is but a trifle as compared with what some people get when the federal authorities are really trying. Either it was important to the administration to treat tenderly the as-goes-Maine tradition, or else Senator Hale and Representative Beedy are dear to the hearts of Washington. The spirit of St. Louis has been for more than six years one of watchful waiting. Portland never knew the worst.—Portland, Me., Evening News.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Color Ensembles For the Up-to-date Bathroom

THERE is no room in the house where one's love of color can be allowed to run riot so well as in the bathroom, and in fact, there is probably no room that needs so much color. In answer to this tendency, towel sets, giving the housewife a whole rainbow to play with, are now being used as decorations as well as for practical towel uses. It used to be enough for towels to be absorbent. They were useful but not ornamental, and always white. And there used to be a good deal of shopping around to find the proper cloth with wearing qualities and absorbency and, once in a long while, a little colored stripe at the ends. But those times have changed. Now it is to be assumed that a towel bearing a brand is all a towel ought to be and the purchaser is free to select from a viewpoint of decoration alone.

One may cling to one or two colors and change the combination weekly or oftener. Or each member of the family may have a special color and, for the guests, a full ensemble set, towel, wash cloth, and bath mat in the same tone and design.

All-over, reversible, fast dyed, colored towels, or cloths or mats, in matched sets are being used widely in tri-tone patterns from designs called miniflor, Canterbury bells, palmetta, carnival and background and in pastel shades of maize, jade, orchid, peach, rose and turquoise to harmonize with all colors in the room which may be dressed by other accessories such as soap, brushes, bottles, and porcelain specialties. A lovely primrose design is one of the most popular with young housekeepers and, in two colors with white, it gives a second accent to the decorative scheme. The designs and colorings also are to be had both in conservative and modernistic forms.
