

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME FORTY

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 15, 1934

NUMBER FORTY-TWO

Highway Work Under Way

Work was started on highway No. 81 this week and good progress has been made. A number of men and teams are on the work, superintended by John G. Berry, who is in charge of highway work in this county. Several tractors with scrapers and fresas are being used and an immense amount of dirt has already been moved.

Work started Tuesday morning on South Fisher street and the grading on the east side of the square and in front of the Eagle office has made quite a difference in the appearance of things.

Now that the work has started we are all hopeful it will be continued until all the designated and state maintained highways are put in first class condition.

The grading on highway No. 7 has been completed from Mullin to the Brown county line and the highway department is advertising for bids on a section of that highway that has not been improved. This will complete the work of grading from Goldthwaite to Mullin.

The bids on the work under way does not provide for hard surfacing, but it is hoped that contract will be offered in the very near future and Mills county will get some much needed road improvement.

DROUTH RELIEF PLAN FOR CATTLE ADJUSTMENT

A hint as to what the much debated cattle adjustment plan may be like has been found in the relief offered farmers and ranchers, in six Texas primary drouth counties, by the agricultural adjustment administration and federal emergency relief administration. As outlined by O. B. Martin, extension service director of Texas A and M College, distressed beef and dairy cattle are to be bought on a definite price schedule, with stated shares divided between owner and mortgage holder. Cattle purchased are to be destroyed if diseased or processed for relief purposes if sound.

Those who accept the government offer are to sign contracts with the agricultural adjustment administration in which they agree to co-operate in any future adjustment program for cattle. Producers also agree not to allow the females in their herds to exceed by January 1, 1936, more than 80 per cent of the average number for 1932-33.

To families needing a few cows for home food supply, particularly milk, the federal emergency relief administration will lend the cows and finance the necessary feed purchase on notes. The same is true of the rancher who wishes to keep a few head for foundation stock. The limit of such loans is three cows for home food supply and 30 cows for breeding purposes.

The buying schedule calls for a price of $12 per head for condemned cattle two years old and over and $13 to $20 per head for sound cattle of this age. Owners would receive $6 per head and mortgage holder from $6 to $14. For cattle one to two years of age the rate is $10 for diseased animals and $11 to $15 per head for sound ones. In this class the owners will get $5 per head and mortgage holder from $5 to $10 per head for sound stuff. For cattle under one year of age $4 per head will be paid for condemned stock and $5 to $8 per head for sound stuff. Owner will receive $3 per head and mortgage holder from $1 to $5 per head.

THRASHING IN PROGRESS

Thrashing of small grain is in progress in all parts of the county and while the grain is not heavy, neither is the acreage large, it will be of vast benefit in the aggregate. Some farmers report a good turnout and it is hoped the crop throughout the county will prove up to the average.

Methodist Notes

Methodist circles have been rather quiet this past week. One would have supposed that there were but few of that faith in this county, were he to judge from appearances. The pastor was in Georgetown attending the pastors' summer school and he even carried the family away, so that the neighborhood was not disturbed by the laughter of the young Highsmiths.

The pastor was supposed to return for Sunday services, but took advantage of the fact that he was already away, and remained away I rather think that he expounded the gospel to the Methodist folks at Killeen Sunday. At any rate he did not return, but Saturday evening wired the writer of these notes to hold services for him Sunday morning. This invitation was gladly accepted, as there is still enough of the Adamic nature in him to desire to afflict some of his enemies, which he did in a manner acceptable to himself.

By the way, as one grows older, from the very nature of things he learns things to which he was possibly a stranger in his callow youth. This is, as it should be. The thing that I have in mind is the length of a sermon. Much of the length, I suppose, should depend upon the thickness of the sermon. Of this latter quality I prefer to say nothing; it is the length that I am now speaking about. I have learned to believe that a long sermon on a hot summer day is not conducive to the spiritual uplift of those who hear it, and that in the long sermons there is no special appeal to an audience to repeat hearing the preacher. It just simply will not work on the modern mind. Just here I should say, for fear of being thought personal, or inclined to be critical, that our pastor has very fine terminal facilities when it comes to dealing in sermonic matters. He rarely goes over thirty minutes and many times not that long. So what I am here saying is in no sense to be thought of as a local application. But the thing that I have been trying to say is that last Sunday morning this scribe broke all records known in these parts, in that from the reading of the text, to the singing of the doxology, he occupied just seventeen minutes of a hot summer's morning. I think the people really enjoyed it from the standpoint of abbreviation.

Sunday evening our people had the pleasure of a service conducted by Mr. McMurry Richie of Lampasas. Mr. Richie is a young layman, working as opportunity offers, among the young people of this section, and among the laymen who may not, according to years, be so young.

Mr. Richie shows just how laymen may be useful to the church. Get a message on your mind and heart, and go out and tell it to the people. People may talk about an ordained ministry and I believe in all that, but one of the finest evidences of a man's call to do things in the kingdom of Christ is ability to do it, and a readiness to try. Some of the most successful of soul winners have been laymen. Moody has often been thought of as a mighty preacher, and a great soul-winner, but the only au-

AN OLD SUIT
Thos. J. Harrison, the book agent and fruit farmer of South Bennett, received a request this week from Robt. L. Ripley for a photograph of the 40-year-old suit of clothes owned and sometimes worn by Mr. Harrison, who stated he had been photographed in the suit and would send the picture to Mr. Ripley to be placed in his "Believe It Or Not" display.

Few people here knew that Mr. Harrison was possessor of such a suit. It is said to be well preserved and is of material that would be highly expensive at this time.

Commissioners In Session

Commissioners court was in regular monthly session Monday, with all members present. A considerable amount of routine business was transacted.

The highway license money was divided to the precincts from which it was collected. No. 1 received $260.17; No. 2, $59.45; No. 3, $105.52; No. 4, $60.34.

The insurance on the court house was extended five years. Official reports were examined and approved and accounts against the county were audited and ordered paid.

The court only remained in session one day.

KEEP THE ROLL CLEAR

Another appeal is made by the local relief office to the citizens of Mills county to report to the relief office those persons on the relief rolls, who are offered employment and refuse to take it.

The rules and regulations as promulgated by the Texas Relief Commission provide that where a man or woman on relief rolls is offered work at a living wage and refuses to take same such person shall be stricken from the roll. Various rumors come to the local office from time to time in this regard. In some instances people are quoted as saying that a certain man won't work. If you are one who has made such statements, the proper place for such a report is to the relief office and not to the general public. It is your duty as a citizen to report such and when you report it be in a position to make it stick.

The relief office has no desire to grant relief to persons who have a means of support or to persons who refuse to work, but unless and until the general public report to the office such cases with such facts as will support their contention to this office then it behooves those who are so free with their criticism of those on the relief rolls to keep their thoughts to themselves. The relief office at all times is anxious to secure all the available information on all clients and makes an investigation of each case every thirty days. However, there are many things that will not be revealed by such investigation and it is this information that the office seeks from the general citizenship of the county. The next time you are prompted to say such a man won't work because the government is feeding him, walk up to the relief office and tell it and if such be a fact, results can be effected in a quick and fair manner, both to the client and to the government.

MILLS CO. RELIEF OFFICE
MARRIED IN BROWNWOOD
Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Zana Brown to Mr. Paul Hayes in Brownwood on Monday, June 11. The bride is a daughter of the late Dr. M. L. Brown and Mrs. Brown and spent her early childhood in Goldthwaite, where the family is kindly remembered by many friends.

The young people will make their home in Gladewater, in east Texas.

Goldthwaite friends join in extending congratulations and good wishes.

PICNIC AT RIDGE
A great many people and all of the candidates expect to attend the barbecue and picnic at Ridge tonight and tomorrow. The entertainment was to begin last night with a home talent play and tonight there will be a dance with special music; Saturday will be the day of rodeo, goat roping and various kinds of amusement, as well as speaking by the candidates. The festivities will close with a dance Saturday night.

Political Pot Still Boiling

There has not been much doing in a political way in the county this week, but the picnic at Ridge Saturday and the one at Caradan next week are attracting the attention of county candidates and some of the district candidates will also be in attendance, where speech-making will be made.

Saturday night is the latest date on which candidates for county and precinct offices can file for places on the primary tickets, while the time for state and district candidates to file has already passed.

County Chairman Roberts has called his committee together to arrange for the forthcoming primary election, which makes the nominations and reduces the number of candidates to "one in a hill," except in cases where there are three or more candidates and no one of them secures a clear majority of all votes. In case where there is no majority by any candidate a second or "run-off" primary must be held in August.

Attorney General Allred is scheduled for a speech here Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and it is possible some of the other state and district candidates will be here at that time.

Only one candidate for a county office has made an announcement this week and as the time for filing is practically at an end (Continued on page 4)

GRASSHOPPERS ARE DEPREDATING

Reports have come in from Rock Springs, Center Point, Sealhorn and other communities in the county that grasshoppers are depredating on the crops to a considerable extent. In order to check the work of the hoppers County Agent W. P. Weaver has sent out a formula for compounding poison to destroy them. A copy can be secured at Mr. Weaver's office and it is here given:

Formula
Wheat bran 25 lbs., white arsenic or paris green 1 lb., lemon or oranges 6 fruits, low grade cane or sorghum molasses 2 quarts, water 2 gallons.

Mix the bran and poison thoroughly while dry. Dilute the molasses with the amount of water as named. Squeeze the lemon juice into this diluted molasses, then grind the rind of the lemons with a meat chopper and add this to the liquid. Now mix the liquid thoroughly with the poison bran mixture. After an even mixture has been obtained, add more water and mix until a mash is obtained, so that after being squeezed in the hand, it readily falls apart. This amount given should cover about five acres. Grasshoppers feed in the morning and as the bait loses its attractiveness when dry, it should be applied so as to be moist as possible at this time. It will, therefore, be best to put it out about sunrise. Provided the ground is not so hot and dry as to remove the moisture during the night, it may be put out late in the evening in case the area to be treated is too extensive to be quickly covered in the early morning. The mixture should be scattered, as if sowing seed, by hand, or any type of seeder capable of distributing it.

The mixture should be made exactly as directed, leaving out no part. Do not place in piles or in lines. Do not substitute calcium arsenate or lead arsenate for the poisons mentioned.

BARGAINS IN DAILIES

Several bargains in daily papers are announced in another column and attention is directed to the list. These rates are only good through June, but the time limit will carry the subscriber to the usual Bargain Days in the fall.

City School Faculty Filled

The Goldthwaite school board held a meeting Saturday night and completed the faculty for the next term of school, which is to begin the second Monday in September, that being September 10.

Supt. Smith and several of the teachers were elected at previous meetings, but the full faculty is here given, together with some of the assignments:

A. H. Smith, superintendent; S. E. Cloninger, principal; C. B. Ramsey of Denton, principal grammar school; W. W. Watson of Colorado, Texas, mathematics; Miss Maurine Risinger, Sweetwater, English and home economics; Miss Rena Elizabeth McQuary, public school music; Mrs. Delton Barnett; Mrs. Sparks Bigham, Mrs. Claud Saylor, Miss Louella Patterson, Miss Love Gatlin, Miss Vivian Campbell, Miss Martha Louise Allen of Lometa; Miss Myrna Miller, Miss Greta Little, Miss Irma Harrison. Will Bird was re-elected janitor.

DR. BROOKING RESTING WELL

Dr. J. E. Brooking was carried to the hospital in Temple last Sunday, suffering with an infection in his foot. Dr. Chas. K. Mills accompanied him to the hospital Sunday morning and remained with him several hours. Mrs. Brooking is also at his bedside.

The progress of the infection was such as to require the amputation of his right leg above the knee and the operation was performed Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Late reports say he is resting well, cheerful and strong hopes are entertained for his early recovery.

Dr. Brooking has practiced his profession in this county for many years, first at Star and of late years in Goldthwaite. He is a physician of skill and has the confidence and friendship of all who know him. The seriousness of his condition was not known to many of his friends until the announcement was made that the operation would be necessary.

Everybody is interested in his condition and hoping for his recovery and early return home.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. A. C. Weatherby on Monday evening was hostess to the Philathea class of the Methodist church in their business session, led by Mrs. Dan Yates, president after which the members and guests enjoyed a social hour of conversation, made more pleasant by the delicious iced fruit punch and cake served by Mrs. Weatherby, assisted by Mrs. Walter Weatherby.

The meetings in this home are always delightful and highly appreciated by the class.

COPPER WATER PIPE IS LAID BY CITY

When, as and if Fisher street is ever paved, it will not be necessary to disturb the city water pipes at the intersection of Fisher and Fifth streets. A crew of workmen under Harry Allen has been laying copper water pipe this week to replace the iron pipe that has been in use for the past 14 years. The pipe is being laid 24 inches deep, so that no matter what type of paving is eventually used, there will be no necessity for moving it.

A PAINFUL INJURY

R. L. Armstrong and Jake Kirby made an auto trip to Lampasas one day this week and while driving through the streets in that city ran their car into a telephone post, in attempting to avoid another car driven by a negro. Mr. Kirby was thrown through the windshield and his face was pretty badly cut, while Mr. Armstrong, who was at the wheel, was not injured.

Baptist Reminder

We will begin our Sunday school enlargement campaign Sunday afternoon. We will work about three hours on our religious census Sunday afternoon. We will appreciate everybody in town co-operating with us in this respect. In order to do effective church work you must know what you are working on. Rev. Tilson F. Manard of Fort Worth will direct our campaign.

There will be several rural churches co-operating in this campaign. We will have a worker in each of these churches that desires one. Bro. Manard will give general direction to all the work. Class work will start Monday evening. We will meet at 7:30. There will be a class for all ages from the primaries through the adult age. If you are a member or prefer some other church and would like to profit by this training we will gladly invite you to come.

We will have our regular church services Sunday, Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11. I will discuss the subject, "Tests of Impartation of spiritual truth."

Sunday evening B. T. S. at 7 and preaching at 8. Bro. Manard will preach for us Sunday evening. He will bring a message of unusual interest.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mrs. M. M. Fox celebrated her 77th birthday on Sunday, June 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fox.

The celebration came as a complete surprise to her and was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. All of the children were present except one.

Among the guests who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Otho Lewis of Knoxville, Tenn. Mr. Lewis is a nephew of Mrs. Fox and this is his first time to ever see her. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis have been to Texas before, so they are enjoying the trip very much.

The luncheon was served with a two-tiered birthday cake decorated with 77 candles as centerpiece.

Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bennett and family, San Saba; Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Wheat and family, Holland, Texas; Mrs. F. A. Lane, Cross Plains; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wheat, Holland, Texas; Mrs. Joe Taff, Cleburne; Mr. and Mrs. Otho Lewis, Knoxville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Loys Davidson and son, Cross Plains; Marshall Fox and family, San Saba; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Long and son, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Fox, Misses Lou and Minnie Fox, Velma Fox and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fox of this city.

Late in the afternoon those present returned to their homes wishing Mrs. Fox many, many, more happy birthdays.

RENTED ACRES AND FEED CROPS

Restrictions on use of contracted acres have been modified to permit the planting of all forage crops except corn and grain sorghums, and to permit pasturing these contracted acres and harvesting forage from them. This applies to corn-hog and wheat contracts.

No permission from the allotment committee is necessary if farmers desire to plant, graze or harvest forage crops.

The county agent's office has not received tags for carried over cotton nor quotas for individual farms under the Bankhead law. Corn-hog contracts have been sent to the state review board at College Station for approval. Cotton checks are expected at an early date.

Farmers should consider the building of trench silos to store surplus feed. Call on this office for plans and instructions.

W. P. WEAVER, Co. Agt.

Scholastic Census Shows Loss

The scholastic census of the county has been completed and shows a considerable decrease from last year. While the decrease is not enough in any individual school district to make any considerable difference in the school term, in the aggregate there will be a loss to the county in the public free school funds received.

In Goldthwaite district the census shows 456 scholastics, as against 471 last year.

In Mullin, according to this census, there are 211, but last year's figures are not available. There are 222 boys and 234 girls in Goldthwaite district this year, as compared with 246 boys and 225 girls last year.

Mullin district shows 93 boys and 118 girls this year. The county total, outside of the independent districts here given, there are 1492 scholastics, as compared with 1538 last year.

FAMILY REUNION

June 10 a large crowd of relatives and friends gathered at the old reunion grounds at Georgetown to celebrate with Mrs. Georgie Scott on her 82nd birthday. A very pleasant morning was spent visiting with old relatives and meeting new ones. At 12 o'clock the large tables were spread with lots of good eats, which were enjoyed by everyone.

In the afternoon the crowd was entertained with plenty of good music and other entertainment. Six nieces were present. They were Mrs. Mant Smith and son, Carl, and daughter, Gerald Dean. Mrs. Jim Pruitt, her husband and daughter, Jimmy, all of Corpus Christi, Mrs. Arliss Berry and daughter, Ila. Mrs. Willie Lewis and three children of Oklahoma, Mrs. Albert Harbour, her husband and daughters, Myrtle, L.V. Mary Lillian and Mrs. Willie Bloffitt and husband and daughter of Lometa. Other relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Miller and daughter, Sybille, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miller and family, Jack Duncan, Mrs. A. M. Rose, all of Goldthwaite. There were about 125 present whose names I can't recall.

About 5 o'clock everyone left, wishing for Mrs. Scott many more happy birthday celebrations.

ONE PRESENT
MORNING PARTY
Mrs. L. E. Miller entertained some of the recent high school graduates Thursday, June 7, with a morning party, naming as special honorees Miss Billie Weatherby of this city and Miss Johnnie Weatherby of San Saba.

The girls presented a charming picture as they arrived in their airy summer frocks.

High score was awarded to Miss Elizabeth Cupple of Dallas, a guest of Miss Gertrude Johnson. The prize was a dainty handmade tea apron, as were the gifts for the honorees.

Favors of sweet peas and a most alluring refreshment plate were passed to the following: Johnnie Weatherby, Elizabeth Cupple, Billie Weatherby, Elizabeth Dalton, Virginia Bowman, Josephine Ligon, Gertrude Johnson, Ima Lois Bayley, Evelyn Fay Gartman, Ruth Florence Mullan, Floyce Aileen Dickerson, Charline Brim, Mary Ellen Trent, Daphne Evans, Jerry Hester, Geraldine Burnett. PICNIC AT CARADAN
Plans have been made for a picnic and free barbecue at Caradan next Friday and Saturday, June 22 and 23. There will be a rodeo, ball games, a free picture show each night and a platform dance. Assurance is given that a good time will be enjoyed by all who attend and a general invitation is extended. Of course the candidates will be invited to speak, which will add to the interest of the occasion.

STATE COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING

Repeal will have no place on the Democratic primary ballot in Texas in July, and negroes will not be officially barred from voting.

These two "policy" questions were decided Monday by a subcommittee of the state Democratic executive committee, which met in Austin to certify the ballot. The subcommittee was led by James E. Ferguson, who held a proxy vote.

Members of the committee stated they decided they had no legal authority to place repeal on the ballot.

Neither will the committee put on the ballot the proposition that women be given representation on the state committee.

The Democratic pledge this year, which each voter must take, will read:

"I am a Democrat and pledge myself to support the nominees of this primary."

The word "white" has been eliminated, leaving the primary open to negroes except where barred by local committees.

The committee also voted to hold the state convention in Galveston September 11.

NEWS BRIEFS

Bitten by a woman prisoner, a police corporal is dead in San Francisco. Infection, necessitating amputation of the policeman's index finger, spread and caused his death.

A bunch of keys lost in Medina Lake near Kerrville was recovered from a four pound bass a few days ago. An attorney considered them lost. Another fisherman hooked the fish and while dressing it discovered the keys and a nameplate. He returned them to the owner.

The bill providing for a nation-wide census of the unemployed as of November 12, was passed by the house last week as Republicans charged a "political plot" to place 104,000 election workers on the pay roll. Hawaii and Alaska were included in the bill. Representative Lozier, Democrat, of Missouri, chairman of the census committee, defended the measure, declaring that it was necessary to enable the government to intelligently deal with the problem of the unemployed.

SCIENCE WONDER STORIES

What Chemistry Did for Books

If modern scientists had been available when Gutenberg was getting ready to issue his famous bible in the middle of the 15th century, he would have escaped a lot of worry and many of those who procured copies would have escaped a lot of loss. Books have always been perishable. Worms and bugs eat the starch in their bindings, they are easily stained, the edges scuff off, and their backs end to crack from constant opening. But when the chemists were turned loose on this problem recently they brought into being the material that many leading publishers of America are now using. They call it PX cloth.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

New York In Nautical

Dress Grooms Fleet
The arrival in New York waters of the United States Fleet—that powerful armada of eighty-seven men-of-war—for the first fleet review since 1918, brought New York out in nautical dress, setting a sea-going fashion trend that promises to be stressed in the mode throughout the summer season. Not one detail of the uniform of the 35,000 officers and men of the vessels seems to have been overlooked in its possibilities for style inspiration. In fact, the U. S. navy has simply taken New York.

Skipper fashions without doubt lead the fashion parade—marine frocks, coat, hats and accessories for day and evening. Beachwear shops are simply afloat with anchors, pilot wheels, stars, stripes, rope belts and sailor collars—but that's not all. Navy styles have invaded the entire mode. Among these nautically new ensembles with something of the sailor and something of the sea is the white dull crepe dress noted in silk and rayon, with fishnet collar of blue, yellow and red, and accented further by a crisp navy taffeta bow and a two-tone belt. There is also the white crepe dress with matching sailor collar with star and anchor trims, the same motif often carried out also in buttons of the dress and in hat and handbag trims. One notes flattering youthful dresses in angelskin crepe-white with navy collars and star buttons.

Nautical Influence In

Summer Accessories

Among the nautical styles so saucy and smart just now are the new "navy" hats including white stitched rayon crepe sailors with long back streamers, chic and flattering as can be. There are also white pique middy hats as flat as a pancake with black velvet band and sailor streamers on the side. Particularly smart is a new knit sailor beret—a chic adaptation of the gay little bob. Among the newer nautical beachwear accessories are sandals made of kidskin to resemble rope. There are new rope belts with life preservers for fastenings, and no end of new scarfs and kerchiefs with nautical motifs and beach jewelry of cork, wood and composition in novel sea-going designs.

Prints Important

In Summer Mode
Summer has gone into print with two and three-tone rayon print dresses decidedly important—most models are in jacket styling—just the type of dress you can live in all summer. White grounds with all-over massed floral motifs in blues, browns, greens and reds are favored. Very youthful and chic are the little separate summer jackets in these prints. They are often worn over plain white crepe frocks and over the new ribbed acetate dresses. Very new among these ribbed frocks—dull and uncrushable—are those with spaghetti loopy finishing rever collars. Fan pleated sleeves are noted on some, and many are shown with the colorful print jackets. With several of these jackets you can have several frocks in one.

All-White Bridal

Gown Favored
The all-white bridal gown is favored by couturiers for the 1934 June bride—and pastel frocks for attendants. White satin, of course, is the classic fabric. This season, it is noted in delightfully soft and supple versions in both silk and rayon. There are bridal gowns also in tulle, net, lace organdie and mousseline de soie—these often favored for garden weddings—and point d'esprit for bridesmaids, the latter fashioned over taffeta. When pastels are chosen for attendants one notes that often the frocks of the maids of honor are in a deeper tint of pastel than those of the bridesmaids. Long taffeta sashes are new for bridesmaids' dresses. New influences in the bridal gown this season are staircase flounces on the skirt as done by Augustabernard—also the new calla lily collar as sponsored by Lelong. While the long veil is generally favored, finger-length veils of marquisette are favored by some. A very lovely bridal gown designed recently by Francis Rivoli of New York features an angelskin satin in ivory, worn without veil but with spray of orange blossoms encircling the head like a bandeau, and matching an orange blossom spray carried in the hand with prayer book. Cartwheel hats and capelines of stiffened fabrics are important in bridal parties.

Style Flashes

Among the smart new beach suits that fairly put you in the swim this summer are those in new acetates, including the gay checks with front pleats and shoulder bows—also those with flattering bow-twist bodices in solid colors.

Gingham, which was accepted last season for sports, goes a step farther into style importance—now being noted in smart tailleurs. Just plain checked gingham—but decidedly smart with touches of white, and worn with a tipped sailor, which is often trimmed with a band of matching gingham.

Wide wale corduroy is new and distinctive and for the summer topcoat. One notes it in New York's smartest shops and eating places.

Important among new summer gloves are the crisp organdy cuffed models. New York shops are featuring them in no end of new stylings. There are gloves, too, in string, pique and a new "Sansheen" fabric in various colors.

Among the new cotton novelties noted in coats, hats and frocks for sportswear are the regular bedspread candlewicks.

Coiffures for summer are on the up and up—no rolls, curls and buns on the back of the neck. Little flower sprays attached to combs are favored for the evening coiffure—these always accenting the general coiffure effect.

MRS. BURKS PASSED AWAY

A message from Los Angeles, Cal., Tuesday morning brought the sad news to the friends here of Mrs. S. M. Burks that her death occurred that morning at 8 o'clock.

The Burks family lived in Goldthwaite a good many years ago, when Mr. Burks was engaged in the dry goods business. They have made their home in California a long time, but are still kindly remembered here. No information was given in the message as to funeral arrangements, but it is supposed burial was made in the cemetery at Los Angeles.

NEW RULES FOR CONTRACTED ACRES

Modification of restrictions on the use of contracted acres in the corn-hog and wheat programs to permit the planting and grazing or harvesting for hay of all forage crops, except corn and grain sorghums, has been announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. This modification, made first for official drought counties, has been extended to include all corn-hog and wheat contract signers.

As interpreted the new ruling means that corn-hog and wheat contract signers may plant their contracted or rented acres for grazing or for hay to any crop except corn and grain sorghums. For instance, sudan grass or cowpeas, previously prohibited on these acres, may now be planted on rented acres and used as roughness or grazed.

Attention is specifically called to the fact that these modifications permitting wider plantings and use of forage and pasture crops do not apply to the cotton program. Rented cotton acres can not be used except as needed for living at home, other land not being available, or for soil enriching crops, or for reforestation, or for wild life refuges.

Things Worth Knowing

GOSH, WHAT NEXT?

LEGISLATION introduced in Congress and several state legislatures is designed to require the blending of alcohol made from domestic farm crops with gasoline motor fuel. These bills, if passed, would impose heavy taxes upon gasoline unless it be blended with 2% to 10% alcohol.

Imagine diluting gasoline selling for 5c a gallon, at the refineries, with an inferior fuel costing five times as much! The reason? Why, it's to help the farmer.

These proposals are bad enough in themselves but the real danger lies in the extremes to which un-sound movements are carried unless a halt is called. "If it doesn't work in one industry let's try it in some other field," seems to be the attitude of proponents of such measures. I know a chap who sells shellac. Why not a proposal to mix shellac with hair tonic?

Legislation designed to help one group at the expense of others, not only is fundamentally unsound, but eventually proves decidedly harmful to the group it is intended to benefit.

REALLY AN OBLIGATION
When the farmer can produce at a profit, and every citizen, who wants to work, can make a living at a gainful occupation, then we will enjoy a condition that is fundamentally sound and prosperity that is lasting.

Sooner or later the inequity of men, NOT IN PUBLIC OFFICE, will have to construct such an economic structure. The obviousness of this fact should stir to action every thinking man in our country who has been blessed with the quality of leadership.

running up the taxes and running down the jobs.

HAZARDOUS OCCUPATIONS

A recent survey made by leading life insurance companies, showed the greatest number of accidental industrial fatalities occurred last year, not in the so-called hazardous occupations, but on farms by careless use of agricultural machinery.

Ellsworth Gale, Director of the Red Cross Products of Johnson and Johnson, claims: "Every year at this time, when the farmer starts his spring activity, the sale of such first aid equipment as cotton, gauze, 'Z' and drybak adhesive tape in rural communities mounts rapidly. Most of the accidents are caused by carelessness with working tools rather than familiarity with tractors and other farm machinery."

The very familiarity with machinery breeds contempt of its dangers and results in accidents.

INTERNATIONAL GRAND JURY.

An International Grand Jury, composed of cross sections of the citizenry of every civilized nation to act between the World Court and offending nations has been proposed by Lloyd N. Scott, well-known New York attorney. The substance of his proposal follows: "As the Grand Jury is the only remaining point of contact between the average citizen and his government and its officials, so an International Grand Jury, made up of average citizens of the world, offers the only direct and practicable means of contact between the World Court and the citizenry of the various nations."

UNFAIR COMPETITION
At least 225 items of trade are suffering from government competition. The government uses the citizens' money to establish ruinous competition against him.

No particular Administration is responsible for this unfavorable condition. It is a bureaucratic form of government which has grown at an alarming rate in recent years.

LEST WE FORGET

Government should remain an instrument of man and not a master over him. As Daniel Webster aptly put it: "A day—an hour—of virtuous liberty is worth a whole eternity of bondage."

UNCLE SAM TAKES SLICE

Uncle Sam will take a big slice of approximately $1,901,855 won by American holders of Irish sweepstakes tickets on the English derby. The size of the treasury's share will depend — like most tax matters — on many complicated factors. Official estimates ranged from $100,000 to several times that amount.

"Pains Gone," Says Lady, After She Had Taken CARDUI

In describing how her health improved after she had taken Cardui, Mrs. Ralph R. Courtney, of Wytheville, Va., said: "I was run-down and suffered from pain in my side. I wanted to feel well and get rid of the pain in my side, so I sent for Cardui and began taking it. By the time I had taken three bottles of Cardui, I was feeling much better. The pains had gone. I am very glad to recommend Cardui to other young women." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. $1 a bottle, at drug stores.

Operates for less— THAN ANY FORD EVER BUILT

THE SMART FORD V8
The smartest car that Ford has ever built is the smartest buy your budget has ever seen. The new Ford V-8 is the most economical car that Ford has yet produced. That big Ford V-8 engine, which is capable of a generous 80 per, is miserly when it comes to fuel. It consumes less gasoline than many engines with less cylinders and less power. Aluminum-alloy pistons minimize carbon formation. Tungsten steel valve seat inserts virtually let you say "good-bye forever" to valve grinding. The Ford V-8's dependable springs—which give you free action on all four wheels—have shackles that require no lubrication. And the whole car is so reliably built that you will never be plagued with repair bills. Before you buy any car at any price, drive the Ford V-8. AUTHORIZED FORD DEALERS OF THE SOUTHWEST $515 and up F. O. B. Detroit. Easy terms through Universal Credit Company—the Authorized Ford Finance Plan.

The V-type engine holds every record for speed on land, water and in the air.

end, it is not likely there will be any new announcements.

ED B. GILLIAM, JR.

The announcement of Mr. Ed B. Gilliam, Jr., as a candidate for county attorney, appears in the proper column. Mr. Gilliam is known personally to most Mills county people, because of his administration of the RFC and Public Relief in the county and his connection with other activities. He is associated in the practice of law with Judge E. B. Anderson, one of the foremost citizens of the county and a leading lawyer in this part of Texas. Mr. Gilliam graduated in the literary as well as legal department of the state university and is well qualified to fill the office of county attorney or a much higher position if he should desire it. He is a courteous and pleasant gentleman, an enterprising and valuable citizen of the county. During his residence here he has shown himself to be interested in everything that is for the benefit of Mills county and its citizens. Many of the best people of the county are supporting him for county attorney, and his circle of friendship extends to all portions of the county.

YARD COST OF LANDSCAPING

A $1,592,800 increase in the value of farm homes is calculated as the result of a cash expenditure of $28,189.35 on 15,926 farm yard landscaping demonstrations completed by Texas home demonstration club members in 1931, 1932 and 1933, according to a report issued by Miss Onah Jacks, extension specialist in landscape gardening at Texas A and M college. The figure is based on an estimate that a properly landscaped place can be sold for 10 per cent more than an unplanted one. Real estate men estimate a 20 per cent increase in value. The estimate assumes a low valuation of $1000 per farm.

The low cash cost of this landscaping—an average of $1.77 per yard—was due to the free use of native shrubs and trees transplanted from nearby woods and creek bottoms, to plant exchanges and to cutting beds. Women grew 132,492 cuttings of ornamental shrubs in the 6257 cutting beds operated. Plant exchanges extended even beyond the county lines. One case was reported of an exchange of native shrubs between women of Wilbarger county and women of San Augustine and Upshur counties. Mrs. F. L. Wallace of Falls county traded canned meat for balled and burlapped youpon trees. A woman from Hidalgo county traded board to a man for her house pickets to underpin her house.

Native materials such as stone, gravel, pine slabs, logs and sand were used for construction of walks, drives, underpinning for houses, outhouses, trellises, gates and fences.

In 1933 there were 23,394 farm homes enrolled in landscaping of some kind, and much of it is to be completed in the next two years. Detailed plans worked out with home demonstration agents were used in 4205 of these demonstrations.

WIDOW OF CALVIN COOLIDGE GIVEN FREE MAIL PRIVILEGE

'Grace Coolidge' written in the upper right hand corner of an envelope will soon be just as good as a postage stamp, provided the former first lady and widow of President Coolidge does the writing. Congress has just given her the privilege of free mail, following a precedent previously established. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson also have this right.

The United States senate this week passed without debate, but later reconsidered and restored to its calendar, the Dill bill authorizing an annual appropriation of $10,000,000 for apportionment to the states and territories for old age pensions.

An evident plot of two convicted murderers to emulate John Dillinger and escape from the county jail in Lufkin, thru use of a wooden pistol was frustrated this week. Sheriff H. C. Billingsley removed a blackjack, a hacksaw, a file and a dummy pistol, an excellent imitation, from the cells of the two youths, who have been sentenced to death.

Purported irregularities in public works administration payrolls in construction of two dormitories at Texas Technological college led to filing of federal charges against two men. The complaints culminated a three-weeks investigation by interior department officials. An investigator for the department signed the complaints, which specifically alleged offenses May 26 and June 2.

A rosebush imported from England in 1788 and planted by Abigail Adams, wife of John Adams, second president of the United States, bloomed this week for the 146th time. The bush, in the rear of the Adams family mansion in Quincy, Mass., bears white flowers with a yellow center, which will last a week or ten days, according to caretakers of the estate. It has bloomed each year since it was planted by Mrs. Adams.

With the official first day of winter only one week away, snow, rain, winds and earthquakes swept Argentina Wednesday. A violent snowstorm was howling over the south territories with a record cold, while fog and rain falls predominated elsewhere. At Mendoza slight earthquakes were felt. A hailstorm hit Rosario, breaking show windows and signs. The worst snowstorm in two years was raging in the Andes, blocking highways and isolating communities in the mountains.

The United States has invited war debtors to pay their obligations in goods and services. The invitation was extended specifically to Great Britain in a forceful note from Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the British ambassador. But it was believed applicable to all other debtors. It may open the way for discussion of compromise settlements under which the United States gets great quantities of rubber, tin, radium and other needed products in payments of Europe's $10,000,000,000 obligation.

Charles K. Boettcher of Denver, Colo., has obtained a $50,000 default judgment against the estate of the late Verne Sankey in circuit court for repayment of ransom paid Sankey's gang for the release of his son, Charles Boettcher, II, Denver broker. His attorneys said the judgment would be filed as a claim against the estate being probated at Gann Valley. A garnishment proceeding to lay claim to $3400 left by Sankey is pending. A $60,000 ransom was paid for Boettcher's release and $10,000 was recovered on the Sankey ranch near Gann Valley.

Lee Simmon general manager of the Texas prison system, revealed Wednesday the discovery of three home-made but effective guns and some ammunition, intended for a prison delivery two weeks ago at the state penitentiary. He said the weapons were manufactured in the prison machine shop from ordinary plumbing supplies. One was a five barrel gun designed to fire 12-gauge shotgun shells. The other two were pistols, also built to fire 12 gauge shells. Five convicts, whose names Simmons did not disclose, were given from 9 to 13 lashes for complicity in the plot. Each weapon was tested by prison officials and was found capable of discharging shells.

A Black And White Bathroom

THIS more than usually attractive bathroom designed by George Sakier, illustrates the effective use of white in the most modern ensemble and what really smart effects can be gained, either when building or remodeling, by the use of a black and white color combination. It also suggests easy conversion of the average bathroom to a scheme which is distinctly modern. The lower half of the wall is in black tile, the upper half in white tile. The floor, too, is a black and white pattern. The unit panel lavatory which can be installed without tearing down the walls—as the unit is complete in itself—and the dressing table of black glass and chromium, further carry out the black and white modern note.

In remodeling a bathroom to conform to the returned vogue of white, it is important to plan for a wall finish that will stand hard washing. The new household finishes, which stay white and do not turn yellow or grey with age, are especially well adapted to bathroom use because of their exceptional durability under hard wear, and their pure whiteness which has distinct decorative value.

A Tribute to Loyalty

In no better way could the loyalty of the American people to their government's policies have been demonstrated than the way in which business institutions, organized industries and individual business men have endeavored to carry out the demands of the code authorities. The fact that some of the codes are showing evidence of weakening and some have given away, or have practically been abandoned is not a reflection on those made subservient to the code authorities, but simply proves that the undertaking was so vast that every detail could not be worked out in advance and every obstacle avoided. At the outset there was a general misunderstanding of the administrator's intentions and desires and some opposition to the adoption of the plan resulted as a consequence. Even some of the administrators of the codes did not entirely understand the ultimate end to be attained and certainly did not grasp the seriousness of the situation or the temper of the people who were expected to abide by the requirements. An effort toward securing the co-operation of those affected by the change in business systems and government requirements would have doubtless been a better policy than to make hard and fast demands. The administrators' efforts were believed to be for the help of the people as a whole and had the policies been carried through as expected, or at least desired, much greater benefit would have resulted than have been secured. The entire plan was an experiment, as the president frequently stated. There was no precedent to go by, but the plan had to be worked out as it progressed. The fact that some phases of the undertaking have undergone a change or been abandoned does not prove the entire plan was a mistake, for some benefits have resulted that will be lasting and in the future changes and additions can be made that will help to vindicate the system and intentions of the administration.

Planning Home Building

The campaign being inspired for home building throughout America seems to be destined to bring about a wonderful improvement in residences and to take from the rolls of the unemployed thousands of carpenters and other builders who have been out of employment because of the cessation of building at the beginning of the depression, when finances could not be secured for the undertakings. Some authorities estimate that two million men would be put to work in the building industry alone and this would have a helpful influence in all lines. One of the announced phases of the government's plan for a revival of the building industry is the insurance of loans for home repairs and new buildings. It is estimated that many millions of dollars of private capital will go into housing developments during 1934, if present plans have the hoped for result. Close to 70 per cent of that would find its way into the pockets of workers and it would go a long way toward solving unemployment and relief problems. It would provide hundreds of thousands of much needed dwellings, and represent a substantial beginning toward eliminating the extreme housing shortage that now exists.

Celebrating the Centennial

In every county in Texas there are those who are interested in making the Texas Centennial celebration a success in 1936. The full outline of the plan has not yet been announced, neither indeed can be at this time, but progress is being made by the state committee and the various subordinate committees. The idea of preparing exhibits of the resources and developments of this great state at various places, with one grand central exhibit, seems to be a good one and is at least popular, but there is much more benefit than simply to make exhibitions similar to a state fair. There is room for development, improvement and exhibitions in every community and along every highway. The patriotic spirit of the people is to be aroused and the greatest benefit to be derived from this centennial is the arousing of the patriotic spirit in every citizen and inspiring them to use their utmost to make a good showing for the state before the hordes of visitors who are sure to pass through the state during the months of the centennial celebration.

Political Platforms

The statement that political platforms are for the purpose of securing votes, but are not intended to be observed, has been repeated so often that most people have come to believe it true. There is no good reason for the statement and certainly there is every reason for desiring and expecting the platform pledges of candidates to be lived up to by those who make or accept them. The fact is that most candidates are sincere in their pledges to the voters and in a majority of cases will carry out their promises, if they are able to do so. Sometimes, to be sure, pledges that are impossible of fulfillment are made, but in the main the candidate who makes pledges to the voters intends to abide by them in his official acts. The great majority of candidates are honorable and worthy, while almost all of them make campaigns for office at the behest of their friends who know of their ability and believe in their integrity. A political platform is nothing less than a promise to the voters and most candidates are sincere in advocating the principles laid down in their platforms.

A Fair Rule

The Eagle's oft repeated determination to disregard all applications for free publicity by candidates and their supporters must undoubtedly be recognized as fair. If the Eagle used its columns to advocate the cause of some candidate supported by the editor and denied free space to others there would be just cause for criticism and even complaint, but this policy certainly can not be charged in fairness. No cause has been advocated and no candidate endorsed in these columns. A number of paid articles have appeared during the campaign, but they were either plainly marked as advertising or so constructed as to be understood as coming under the head of paid matter. The Eagle intends to be fair to all and since it would be impossible to give publicity to all the articles and platforms submitted without doubling the size of the paper and largely increasing the cost of its publication, the plan must be adhered to without favoritism to require payment for all political advertising.

Health Hint

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

"Infantile paralysis can be expected to occur more frequently during the next three or four months," declared Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. "This disease is always more frequent during the hot months."

The germ responsible for infantile paralysis is so small that it escapes detection even with the most powerful microscopes. The first symptoms are usually vomiting, headache, fever, stiffness of the neck, pain in the legs, irritability and drowsiness. Complete recovery may follow such an illness. In more severe cases the germ penetrates the nervous system, resulting in paralysis of nerves controlling one or more groups of muscles. Some remarkable recoveries have been noted.

"Flies or other insects have not been demonstrated to play a part in the spread of this disease. Infection spreads from person to person with the droplets attending coughing and sneezing. Children and grown people that are healthy may be carriers of the germs. When present in the mouth, about one child in each hundred is apt to suffer an attack."

"Early recognition and diagnosis are essential. The use of immune serum may be a factor in preventing paralysis. A period of complete rest is essential for muscles that are affected. If parents note any symptoms of illness in their children, the family doctor should be consulted at once."

CONDITIONS IN TEXAS

A special report by the federal department of agriculture on drouth conditions in Texas declared that the situation in the Lone Star State "is not as yet unusually serious and prospects are fair to good."

Although conditions in the state as a whole were not regarded as menacing, the report described the drouth in seven Panhandle counties as "very bad," with chances for relief being "extremely poor" unless heavy rains fall during the next weeks.

The seven counties named are Dallam, Hartley, Moore, Potter, Deaf Smith, Sherman and Oldham.

"In this area," the report stated, "there is no feed, no wheat, little stock water, and poor prospects for any crops. The pastures are brown and livestock is emaciated. The area raises very little hay or oats, and therefore, will be dependent upon rain for sorghums and sudan for feed."

Heavy rainfall is needed because there is no subsoil moisture, owing to shortage of rainfall during the last year and a half.

"Counties bordering this seven-county drouth area are in bad condition in spots," it was found. "The South Plains area is getting dry. Edwards Plateau and the Trans-Pecos areas have been dry since last fall and ranges are generally poor. Feed supplies are short in all sections of the state and there is no feed in the severe drouth area except for a few individual holdings of sorghum roughage."

The picture of general drouth conditions throughout the state however, is considerably brighter.

"With the exception of the Northwest and portions of West Texas, the report declared, "conditions are not unusually serious and prospects are fair to good. In the eastern and southern edges of the severely-stricken area there are fair planting prospects and pastures are starting to green up as a result of recent rains, but there must be more rain soon for planting and germination and for carrying pastures along."

FARM LOANS ARRANGED

Advice from Washington says that over 6600 Texas farmers and stockmen have arranged to borrow $2,100,000 from production credit associations to finance the marketing of crops and livestock, the farm credit administration announced.

Jesse R. Grant, 79, mining engineer and last surviving son of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, died Saturday at Los Altos, Cal., where he had made his residence since 1921.

Highpowered, bullet proof riot cars have been ordered for the Massachusetts state police as aid in the suppression of crime. The cars will be protected by armor plate so as to withstand machine gun fire.

Arkansas state agricultural extension officials announce more than 300,000 acres of pasture have been pledged to feed the cattle the federal government is shipping to that state from drouth stricken states.

To his great surprise, William A. Roberts, peoples counsel for the District of Columbia, finds that he was a candidate for vice president in 1932. Ross E. Black, chairman of the executive committee on nominations of the National Association Opposed to Blue Laws, Inc., apologized in a letter.

The state highway patrol has announced that only the six officers who participated in the ambush slaying of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker would share in a $1000 reward posted by the patrol chief, for the apprehension of slayers of two highway patrolmen of last Easter Sunday.

Department stores in this, the Dallas Federal Reserve District, showed a 22% increase for May last year it was announced by the Federal Reserve Board. In only two other federal reserve districts was a greater increase reported. The Cleveland and St. Louis districts both reported an increase in May, 1934, over May, 1933, of 24 per cent.

The French government has definitely decided to default on its foreign debt payment due the United States. The decision was taken at a meeting of the cabinet and in the absence of the foreign minister, who was attending the disarmament conference at Geneva. The cabinet, it was learned, agreed to adopt the British attitude, as disclosed in the text of the British note to the United States.

Designed to "defend man against the temptation of marriage, which only serves to poison his existence" a bachelors club has been organized in Madrid, Spain. One article of the agreement reads: "If one of the members is unable to withstand this temptation, the club, at an extraordinary meeting, shall bring all its influence to bear in an attempt to lead the delinquent back to the straight and narrow way. The said delinquent shall be liable to a fine of $20."

Jenny Dolly, of the famed dancing sisters, has disappeared from Paris. She has a reason, friends say, and "maybe is hunting around among old acquaintances for small change to pay her fines and luxury taxes." Although a three-day jail sentence was suspended over her the matter of a small fine totaling only eleven million four hundred seventy thousand and ninety-seven francs—that is something like $500,000 American money even if we are off the gold standard. And the fine was not suspended. Jenny was found guilty of evading her luxury taxes on her diamond rings. The decision was upheld.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's proclamation terminating the life sentence of Bob Silver July 11, 1936, is being attacked as to its validity. The termination of the sentence is beyond the tenure of the present governor, whose term expires in January 1935. A former governor in Austin said he knew of no law that empowered a governor to fix a future date to end the sentence of a convict. He said there was no doubt a pardon could be issued on a fixed date by the governor in office, but that no authority exists for designating a date ahead and beyond the term of the chief executive. Another point made against the proclamation is that the next governor can file his own proclamation revoking that of a predecessor which has not become effective.

—EDITORIAL COMMENT—

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

REDUCING ARMAMENT

The outright pacifistic attitude is impossible of acceptance in this country. Excessive building of armaments can not protect us against such combinations of power as may easily be formed in the world. Rather we must determinedly commit ourselves to the proposition that we will have no part in the squarrels or conflicts of other nations, that we will sacrifice certain rights and privileges under international law in areas affected by combat rather than become embroiled.

Having made such a decision we must not allow ourselves to be warped out of it by propagandists for any nation or faction, we must not allow collectivists in this country to drag us into war on the side of Russia, we must not allow fascists to drag us into war on the side of Germany or Italy, and we must not allow traders or bankers to drag us into war on the side of Britain or Japan. We must be ever on guard against the subtle pleadings, the subtle stirrings of feelings and sympathies and passions, by the agents for any of these. Unless we are so determined we will eventually be swept off our feet.

It is a far retreat from the League of Nations and the Kellogg pact to this stern and sacrificial aloofness from all the world's troubles and affairs—but it is the retreat that the American friends of peace must make if they are to avoid complete defeat, if they are to hold anything back from the bloody maw of war.—Houston Chronicle

NEED OF THE TIME

People who lived at the time of the founding of this government, and those who lived thru the trying period in the early sixties in the last century to see it preserved, could not have foreseen another critical juncture, when all the forces of civilization would be engaged in a titanic struggle to re-establish economic order. This country's founders built on principles that guaranteed individual rights not accorded in the old world, and encouraged exercise of individual initiative which gave spirit to the task of taming a wilderness. After nearly a century, it took armed conflict to keep the nation together. Now we are in the toils of another major crisis—this time recovering from the effects of a war that we finished fourteen years ago. If our forefathers could establish orderly society in the face of a foreign foe and of hostile Indians, if the north and south could be united after bitter sectional strife, we can, with developed resources, and everything to do with, bring back prosperity on fundamental principles. Qualities inherited from courageous antecedents are certain to be reflected in stalwart mastery of present difficulties. We need fortitude and patience, and we may feel certain that out of the crucible of trial will come a stronger nation and an advanced civilization.—Wayne, Neb., Herald.

COUNTY BUDGET

The uniform budget law has made it possible for taxpayers to have a part in planning what their tax money shall be expended for. The best way for the taxpayer to function is through public expenditure committees Regional Chambers of Commerce in Texas, acting through local chambers of commerce, have set up public expenditure committees in many cities and counties. Where these committees are now organized, they should immediately become active; where no committees exist, individual citizens should assume the initiative to see that these committees are formed. And these committees should make a careful study of the budget filed by the county judge between the date of filing, which is August 1, and the date of the public hearing, which will be some time after August 15, such committees, and in fact any citizen, should respond to an invitation from the county judge to sit with him in the preparation of the budget.—Industrial Conference.

THE OPTIMISM OF SCIENCE

The world depression has failed to leave its mark of discouragement and pessimism upon American scientists. This is amply proved by the addresses made by 130 speakers at the previews of industrial progress in the next century, made at the re-opened Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

It was common before 1930 for most people to regard material progress in this country as proceeding at an accelerating pace. This was reflected in the financial markets by the theory that common stocks would increase in value over a period of years in a manner corresponding to the compound interest curve, as Edgar Lawrence Smith concluded in his book, very popular at the time, on "Common Stocks as Long Term Investments." The great majority of our industries were regarded as being on the threshold of Herculean technical advances, which were to be reflected, many believed, in enormous increases in output, reductions in prices and expansion of profits.

In both business and political circles, it has become much more popular to talk about stabilization around the existing level rather than further technical progress, as the desideratum for the future. Perusal of the addresses made at the Chicago exposition indicates, however, that scientists generally still live in the pre-depression era as far as their optimism concerning the future of industrial technology is concerned.

It is interesting to note that many of the speakers outlined the possibilities of immediate enormous technical advances in the production of both consumers' and producers' goods which would require large additional investments of capital. This is particularly true of spokesmen for the housing, aviation and transportation industries. The enactment of regulatory legislation of the kind which tends to cut off the flow of capital into industry, such as the federal securities act, bids fair to delay for a considerable period the achievement of progress in these fields, because of the resulting partial disintegration of the American capital market.—New York Journal of Commerce.

NO BACKWARD STEPS

America has only one thought—that of going ahead. The country has never gone backward and few Americans desire to go backward. There is unanimous determination to go ahead.

The only question before us today is which path leads forward. The European way is bureaucracy and dictatorships. The American way has been complete individual liberty compatible with life in a free society.

That sounds simple. But the question of what best serves the public good is unsolved. License to do as one pleases does not work. An automobile driver whipping around as he pleases is a menace to every other person. He must obey certain laws for the public protection.

That illustrates business. Monopolies and combines damage the individuals and the public. Cut-throat competition of little competitors plays havoc. Just where is the line of distinction?—Temple News.

BEGINNING AT THE GRASS ROOTS

The government, as a matter of fact, has sought to begin at the grass roots in pursuing its recovery program. Its efforts have certainly not been completely successful—nor have they been utterly a failure. Farm prices have risen—but not so rapidly as have prices for manufactured products. And where prices for industrial products are above the pre-war level, farm prices are substantially under it.

In the work of agricultural rehabilitation, the farmer himself must intensify his efforts in his own behalf. He can best do that through strong, faithfully-backed co-operatives. One of the most difficult problems faced by government in aiding the farmer was lack of organization—and lack of a common viewpoint and purpose.—Industrial Review.

BRAINLESS BANDITRY

Even the criminals admit that crime doesn't pay, but their ranks are recruited from year to year by joiners who are willing to take the first chance in the hope that they may profit by the venture. And those who make a haul and get away are thenceforth committed to crime as a profession. One successful robbery makes the robber think himself smarter than the others so he immediately begins planning another adventure. After his second success, he begins to regard himself as not only smart, but bad. He has taken on pride as a partner and seeks association with others of his ilk. His necessary expenses and his women associates require a frequent replenishment of capital, so he doesn't allow himself to be idle for long at a time. And pretty soon he gets caught or gets shot and one more bandit has passed to his unenviable reward. No bandit is in fact smart, although some of them possess a sort of cunning that may be defined as shrewdness. In his highpower car he can make tracks at a great rate, but he can't cover them. The bandit has the idea that speed is his protection. Usually it is his ruin. The speeding car attracts attention and thereby leaves a track for the laws to follow. They do follow. Always they are following and inevitably they catch up. But there is little use in telling the would-be criminal he can't win. He hasn't the mental processes needed for reasoning him out of the project or career he has in mind. In short, the criminal has not sense enough to know he can't prosper in crime. This applies to the desk-and-office criminal as well as to the crude fellow who goes about his work with guns and stolen cars.—State Press in Dallas News.

EDUCATION AND MATERIAL WEALTH

It is by means of an educated people that material wealth is increased. The natural resources of our country are no greater today than they were a hundred years ago. As a matter of fact, they are much less. Quantities of the gold, silver, coal and iron have been mined, and to a considerable extent our oil has been exploited and our forests cut down. Probably our native ability as a people is little, if any, greater than it was a hundred years ago. Yet none will deny that the value of the people to the nation is vastly greater than it was a century ago. This increased value is due to the fact that they have become universally intelligent as the result of education. Of the three factors in the production of material wealth, namely, natural resources, native ability of the people, and general education is the only one that varies to any considerable extent. And it should be borne in mind that education can vary in either direction. If our production and accumulation of material wealth is greater in the degree that our education is more universal and of higher quality, it goes without saying that with a falling off in education our material prosperity would diminish correspondingly.—Alabama Education Association.

SAFETY FIRST

Screen your open fires in summer; stop, look and listen at every grade crossing; don't start the kitchen fire with gasoline; never kiss anyone without using an antiseptic gauze screen; avoid all places where crowds collect; don't go into the water without first learning to swim; always walk as if you were expecting to step on a banana skin; stay out of slippery bathtubs; never walk under a ladder, let a black cat cross your path or stay in a room numbered 13; never sit at table with 12 other people; always avoid lightning; never cross a street without waiting for all the traffic to pass; never sit at table firearms unless they are loaded; never speak to strangers; don't drink queer concoctions; keep your nose out of other people's business—and then maybe you will live to be run over by a drunken joyrider in one of those new 100-mile an hour autos.—Pathfinder.

The school census of Comanche county shows a decrease in scholastics of 137 since the enrollment a year ago, according to figures on file in the county superintendent's office. The enrollment this year was 4691 as compared to 4827 a year ago.

Thirty bottles of beer and a small quantity of whiskey are said to have been found at the residence of Doc Short near Gorman Saturday. Mr. Short was brought to Comanche and waived the right of an examining trial and was later released on a $1000 bond, to await the action of the grand jury.

A total of $168,200 of Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner's farm mortgage loans was made in Comanche county from June 7, 1933 to May 1, 1934, according to the farm credit administration. Of this total, farmers in Comanche county used approximately $163,700 or 97.3 per cent to refinance their indebtedness.—Chief.

Lampasas

Judge H. F. Lewis returned Monday from Denton, where he had been since Saturday. He attended the graduating exercises of the Texas State College for Women, formerly called C. I. A., his daughter, Miss Ferrell Maye, receiving the B. S. degree at that time.

Judge J. Tom Higgins and Supt. Albert Conradt of Lometa were in Austin Wednesday to see about the payment of the transportation money for the term of school just ended. In Lampasas county only Lampasas, Lometa and Moline are affected by this fund as they are the only schools where transportation cost is allowed on transferred children to the high school near them. While it is not thought all information is in, yet from all three schools, approximately $800 was allotted for this purpose, added to the $395 already paid for the first half year. Each pupil transferred to an adjoining independent district to do work above that taught in his own school is allowed $2 per month for transportation. The various school districts pay this where they have the money; if they do not the money is taken from the state funds. All for Lampasas county will come from the latter source.—Record.

Several ladies of Lampasas county are interested in securing a home demonstration agent for the county. They have sent out blanks to different parts of the county to get the views of the ladies on this question.

Two engineers, representing a large Milwaukee brewing company, have completed a survey of conditions in and around Brownwood, and have filed a report with their company on the advisability of establishing a brewery near Brownwood, it became known this week.—Banner.

Lometa

Miss Pearl and Raymond Casbeer of Center City spent Sunday in Lometa.

Stargas Company of San Saba are this week installing for Lonnie Hill a gas refrigerator. Mr. Hill has had the lights for some time and is now preparing to cut the ice man off, except in winter time.

H. P. Stockton, Jr., assistant to State Highway Engineer Gib Gilchrist, was here Friday, consulting with the local highway engineer, T. H. Dillon, regarding plans for 74A in Mills county. At the request of Mr. Dillon and the force, he allowed them to continue to make headquarters in Lometa, while they make plans and take soil tests, etc., for 74A from Goldthwaite to Mills county line. The local force went to work in Mills county Saturday and it is expected that within a short time work will be started. We hope Mills county will not get downhearted and think the road will stop at the county line, as we have not given up, and before the birds fly again, we expect to have the right of way and be working on the road to Lometa. Then if Lampasas wants to play with us they will have to build the line on up here. — Reporter

Constipation Symptoms Soon Go Away After Use of Black-Draught
