

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME FORTY

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1934

NUMBER FIFTY-ONE

Commissioners Hold Session

Commissioners court was in regular monthly session Monday and transacted considerable business.

The tax collector's annual report was examined and approved.

The matter of securing a right of way for highway 74 to the Lampasas county line was postponed to a later meeting.

The payment of approved claims for right of way on the Mullin and Goldthwaite highway was arranged.

The county tax rate was fixed at the same as last year, i. e. 70 cents on the $100 valuation. The state rate has already been fixed at 77 cents. The county rate was divided to the various funds: Jury fund 10c, road and bridge fund 15c, court house fund 20c, general fund 25.

The court approved the annual budget for the county.

A bounty of 5 cents was placed on rattlesnakes, the presentation of the rattles being the required proof of killing the snake.

W. L. Steinmann resigned as constable of Priddy precinct and T. R. Priddy was appointed to the position and at once took the oath of office. This action made it necessary for Mr. Priddy to resign as a member of the county executive committee.

The appointment of deputy district and county clerks for the various gins in the county, to carry out the requirements of the Bankhead law, was approved by the court. J. E. Greathouse was named deputy for the district clerk.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Miss Billie Joe House celebrated her fifth birthday with a party at her home last Friday. Interesting games were played by the little folk, supervised by Miss Wynonne Welch. After the games, the table was spread, where refreshing drinks and cakes were served. Her mother baked a birthday cake, which contained the candles. Mrs. Roy Simpson baked a lovely cake, which contained all the symbols of birthday times. Much amusement was caused, as each received a slice and got a token.

Those present were Garland and Mary Leigh Aldredge, James and Mary Joe Carter, Oran Wright, Junior Oglesby, Charles Edward and Carlos Welch, Chas. Eugene Featherston, two little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simpson, Charles Royce Head and three children of Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson of Live Oak community, Jim Tom House and the little honoree, Billie Joe House.

This was a delightful occasion. She received a number of nice gifts. All wish for her many more happy birthdays. XX

STAR GIRL LEAVES FOR MONTEREY, O. M.

Miss Billie Jo Williams of Star, who has been visiting in Dallas for the past six weeks, will leave Sunday for Old Mexico. She plans to stop in San Antonio and Austin on her way down. She will spend several days in the old city of Monterey, studying the habits and customs of the people. She also plans to fish a few days in the Dan Martin lake.

Miss Williams' friends are looking forward to the wonderful stories she will tell on her return. She will be in company with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Wisely.

RUNGE TO SPEAK

Judge Carl Runge, candidate for congress, is to speak on the square in this city this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the interest of his candidacy.

Methodist Notes

It is with pleasure that I note that my suggestions in these notes from time to time are bearing fruit. For some time now I have been suggesting that our preachers aid one another in their revival work. For this, or some other reason, our pastor is getting out to the aid of his brethren. This week he is at Pleasant Grove, this county, aiding the Rev. L. D. Brown, pastor of Center City circuit. Next week he is to render the same kind of a service for Rev. L. C. Mathis of Lometa. This is a real brotherly act and one that merits the praise of all thoughtful people. Most certainly a man who will go outside his own field to aid a neighboring pastor, with the mercury hovering around 100, has a heart of the right kind.

Last Thursday the ladies of the Methodist church had a fine social on the church lawn. A most splendid program was rendered and light refreshments were served. This was the first occasion of the kind for the season and was greatly enjoyed by those present.

Next Sunday morning Rev. J. E. Lovett, presiding elder of this district, will fill the pulpit at the 11 o'clock hour. Bro. Lovett is always welcome among us, and should have a fine hearing. We never know just what may happen at an annual conference, so it may be possible that this will be the last time Bro. Lovett will preach for us. While it is not a sure guess that he may be removed from the district at the approaching annual conference, which meets in October, yet one never knows, and he might be changed to other fields. This makes it the more important that he have a good audience Sunday.

Our pastor and family had the pleasure of a visit from his parents a couple of days last week. They drove through from their home in El Paso to Taylor and stopped here to visit on their return. Some of us who have long lost our parents know how to appreciate visitors of this kind and almost envy those whose parents are still living.

Two of our congregation received college degrees last week. Miss Myrna Miller received an A. B. degree from Howard Payne college, while Miss Love Gatlin received a B. A. degree from Daniel Baker college. They are to be congratulated on their faithfulness in pursuing their course to this end. I am sure that they have labored under circumstances that were not easy. For several years both have taught in our schools during the term, and then spent the long warm summers in pursuing their studies for the degrees they each received. Many who started with them have doubtless dropped out of the fight. Such courage is a mighty asset in life's battles. We congratulate them and admire them for such a course.

I noted in one of the church papers a few days ago where one of our conferences set a goal that each congregation should reach. One part of this goal was to keep a list of the names of those who indicated marked possibilities of leadership, and use every means to draw out and cultivate this leadership. This struck me as one of the most

KEEP THE PAPER

Next week will be the last time the full text of the eight constitutional amendments to be voted on in November will appear in this paper. Every voter should preserve his copy of the Eagle of one of the four issues containing the amendments, in order that they may be re-read carefully before the time for voting.

SINGING AT BETHEL

William B. Huggins, who is conducting a singing class at Bethel, will close the term with a supper and singing at that place tonight. He invites all singers to be present.

Race Meet With Rodeo

The race meet and rodeo last Friday and Saturday attracted a large attendance and there was much praise for those who had the enterprise to foster the undertaking.

Some fast horses were on the track and some of the best races ever seen on the Goldthwaite track were run at this meet. The rodeo events were interesting and the other features of entertainment attracted large audiences.

This race meet and rodeo was a reminder of the benefits of an annual fair and it is hoped the next year's events will be on a larger scale than those of this year.

DAVIS REUNION

The annual Davis reunion was held Aug. 11 and 12 in J. D. Priddy's pasture, three miles below town, in a beautiful pecan grove, cleared and made presentable for the occasion. Two days of real hospitality and reunion of old friends and relatives from far and near made the occasion one never to be forgotten.

Those in attendance including guests and relatives were: Mrs. J. T. Sims and two children, Joe and Jene, Tolar; T. J. Davis and wife, Post; Mrs. Carrie Line and four children, Fred Davis, wife and baby, Snyder; W. H. Tate, wife and son, Comanche; E. H. Tate, wife and two children, Throckmorton; E. C. Tate, wife and baby, Brownwood; Luther Williams and wife, Comanche; Cullen Banner and wife, Comanche; Mrs. C. J. Lowrie and son, Jeff; Corpus Christi; J. D. Priddy and wife, Miss Lula Davis, E. O. Priddy and wife, Earl Clements and wife of this city; J. D. Allen and wife, Mrs. Una Rieger and son, Albert, T. R. Priddy and son, all from Priddy; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Ferguson, Dallas; Filmore Davis, Priddy; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hartman and daughter, Ballinger; Owen Clements of this city and Miss Dorothy Mathis of Kingsville; Jess Harris and wife, Newburg, Will Wilhelm, Comanche.

A GUEST

PROFITING BANNED

The president Wednesday sternly warned profiteers and speculators that the government would step in if they attempted to take advantage of the drought situation.

Talking to newspaper men, Mr. Roosevelt said he thought existing legislation gave Federal authorities ample power to protect the nation against unwarranted increases in the price of food. He followed this by summoning to the White House Secretaries Wallace, Ickes and Perkins and others to discuss what additional steps are necessary to provide relief for those hardest hit by the dry siege.

Within the scope of that parley were crop plans for next year and methods to prevent gouging of the nation's consumers.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not anticipate emergencies beyond those existing; that there was plenty of food, despite declamation of crops in wide areas, but that if a crisis arose, due to the maneuvering of selfish interests, he was prepared to meet it.

A FIXED RULE

The Eagle has long observed the rule of refusing political matter for the last issue before an election where a reply would be necessary or an explanation require. There has been ample time during the campaign for the publication of all such articles, if they were needed, hence no "last minute" articles are accepted. Of course, this does not refer to the ordinary announcements or statements by candidates or their friends, but applies to articles of a controversial nature.

Cattle Checks Distributed

Seventeen cattle checks, aggregating $2606, are being disbursed by the county agent today. This quick action is gratifying to the producers.

Up to the 8th 1698 head of cattle had been sold to the government. Of this number 423 were condemned and slaughtered. It is not known when buying will be resumed.

Tom Hufstutler has been appointed advance agent to arrange concentrations, where convenient and to locate herds without water. These distress herds will be passed on first. It is not known when buying will be resumed.

Sheep buying will start about Sept. 1. No definite information as to method of handling or prices to be paid has been sent to the county agent's office.

Due notice will be given the opening date for making applications.

DISTRICT COURT

District court will convene in Goldthwaite Monday, Sept. 24, which will be the last Monday in next month. The jury lists will be opened August 24, which will be next Friday and after that time the sheriff's department will begin summoning those named for the grand and petit jurors.

PLANNING RELIEF APPROPRIATIONS

Relief officials in all counties of Texas Wednesday were requested by the state citizen's relief committee to convene county-wide meetings within a week to survey relief needs this winter. Members of the legislature will be invited to attend the meetings.

County relief officials were urged to impress upon the legislators necessity for immediate issuance of relief bonds at a special session. Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson called.

The committee instructed Adam Johnson, state relief director, to draft recommendations to the legislature which would urge quick action in issuing the bonds of $20,000,000 state relief bonds authorized by the electorate, $10,500,000 have been sold and the proceeds used.

SPEAKING FOR HUNTER

Judge J. J. Byrne of Lampasas is scheduled to speak in Goldthwaite Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the interest of Hon. Tom F. Hunter for governor. Several speakers are to address the voters Saturday in the interest of different candidates and it is likely there will be a good crowd to hear them.

MOUNT OLIVE ASSOCIATION

The Mount Olive Ex-Teachers' and Ex-Students' association will be held at the Mount Olive school house Sunday, August 19, from 10:30 to 4 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to attend. Especially do we urge all Ex-Teachers and Ex-Students to be present. There will be dinner on the grounds and a program in the morning and afternoon.

MEMBER

A SMALL BLAZE

Fire in the roof of a garage at the old Sexton residence, corner of Front and First streets, caused an alarm to be sent in at noon Monday. The fire fighters responded promptly and soon had the fire checked, before any serious damage was done. The property belongs to Mrs. Mollie Sexton of Dallas.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Travelers and visitors report that conditions in Goldthwaite and throughout Mills county are far better than they find elsewhere.

Annual Meeting Begins Today

The Mills County Baptist Association will hold its annual meeting with the Baptist church in this city, beginning today and continuing through tomorrow.

Delegates from the various churches in the county are expected to attend and, of course, all of the Baptist pastors will be here. An interesting program has been arranged and the reports of the various activities of the churches of the association will be given at this time.

Dinner will be served to the delegates and other visitors both days and a cordial invitation is extended the pastors of other churches to attend the sessions and especially the dinner.

AN URGENT DUTY

It is customary for many voters to remain away from the polls in the second primary and the general election, but this year should prove an exception to the rule, for certainly there was never a more important duty upon the voters to help in selecting officers to have charge of the public business. The fact that there are few local contests should not cause the citizens to lose interest in public matters. August 25 is not far away—one week from Saturday—and citizens should remember the date and go to the polls and vote. Those who will not be at home on election day should prepare an absentee ballot, but by all means vote.

MCCRAW SPEAKS HERE

Confident of leading the ticket for attorney general in the second primary, as he did in the first, William McCraw of Dallas, was a campaign visitor in Goldthwaite yesterday and spoke to a large crowd. The vigorous, red-headed Irishman, who enjoys the distinction of being the only man that his county ever elected to a third term as district attorney, made a good impression here with his message: "I'll make you a good attorney general."

NAZARENE REVIVAL

The Nazarene revival starts tonight, and will continue thru Sunday, August 26.

Rev. D. C. Palmore will do the preaching for us. The general public is cordially invited to attend and worship with us thru out the meeting.

MEMBER

BUDGET MAKING TIME

Trustees for all rural schools are requested to come in and make out budgets for their respective schools. This should be done soon, as the law requires that such budgets be made by August 20, or as soon thereafter as the information can be obtained. JOHN L. PATTERSON, Ex-Officio County Supt.

Baptist Reminder

Sunday school 10 a. m. Sunday morning.

Preaching 11 a. m. Sunday morning.

B. T. S. 7:15 p. m. Sunday evening.

Preaching 8:15 p. m. Sunday evening.

I have just closed one of the most successful meetings I have ever held in Mills county. The people at Cretter City of both churches, co-operated in a fine way. Bro. Sparkman is doing a fine work and is well loved by his people. There were twenty-three decisions made during the meeting. Sixteen for baptism, two by letter, two came who will join the Methodist church, and three grown women reconsecrated their lives. The remarkable thing about the meeting was the part that most decisions were made by grown people.

I am very well pleased with our report from the Goldthwaite church to our association. The report shows 28 have come into our church for baptism. We now have a member of 367. Our report also shows that we have averaged over $2 per member to outside causes. We have given nearly $500 to outside causes. Last year our gifts to outside causes averaged less than 75c per member. Last year the church raised for all causes $1245.61. This year our gifts for all causes have totaled $3413. This gain should inspire the church to do better next year. I suggest that the word depression be changed.

The B. T. S. had quite a pick-up Sunday night. There were 87 present. We are delighted with the good work of our director, Mrs. T. F. Sanson.

I will preach Sunday morning on the subject "Drifting." Sunday night my subject will be "He Must Reign."

You are welcome at all our services.

FRANKLIN E. SWANNER

VISITORS IN AIRPLANE

Capt. M. Y. Stokes, Jr., and Lieut. Carl B. McDaniel came over from San Antonio Wednesday afternoon in a government airplane for a visit to Capt. Stokes' family. They arrived at 3 o'clock and landed in Otto Simpson's field, a short distance north of the city, on the Comanche road. A number of friends of Capt. Stokes and family were present to welcome them as they left the plane. After spending a few hours here they left after 6 o'clock dinner for Randolph flying field and Fort San Houston, where they are both on duty in the government service. Leaving Goldthwaite at 7:30 in the evening they flew east to Waco and thence to San Antonio, arriving at the latter place at 9:15, covering approximately 300 miles in one hour and forty-five minutes.

Lieut. McDaniel is a flying instructor at Randolph field and has next to the highest number of flying hours of any aviator in the army; being second only to one aviator in the service as to hours in the air.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

The Goldthwaite school board held a meeting Monday night, at which time the budget for the coming year of school was adopted and some routine matters were given attention.

There is yet one vacancy in the faculty, but it was not filled at this time.

Supt. A. H. Smith was here from Austin to attend the meeting.

LAST CALL

E. R. Eudy, chairman state allotment board, has fixed August 20, as the last day to apply for cotton exemption certificates.

Committeemen are meeting producers at school houses this week to expedite the sign up. No applications will be received after the twentieth. W. P. WEAVER, County Agent

School Meeting Well Attended

The meeting last Saturday called by Judge Patterson to confer with State Supt. L. A. Woods and hear his address on school matters, was well attended by teachers, trustees and school patrons of the county. A good number of persons interested in educational matters were here from elsewhere as well. Assistant State Supt. O. L. Davis of Brownwood was one of the most prominent of the attendants. He introduced Supt. Woods and gave some very helpful information to those interested in school work. County Supt. E. G. Hillman of San Saba, County Supt. O. R. Williams of Hamilton and Supt. N. W. Prentice of Richland Springs were among the out-county educators who took advantage of the opportunity to meet with the state superintendent and confer with him and other school authorities on school matters.

The convention was quite interesting and no doubt all who attended were well pleased and benefited.

MEMORIAL COINS

TO BE ISSUED

Plans being made for the issuance of 1,500,000 memorial 50-cent pieces for the American Legion of Texas are nearing completion.

Models for the coin, authorized by the Connally-Patman bill, have been completed by Pompeo Coppini, noted sculptor of San Antonio and New York, and have been approved by the Fine Arts Commission of Washington, as well as the design units of the American Legion Texas Centennial committee.

The models are scheduled to go to the United States mint at Philadelphia within the next month or so. If accepted by authorities of the mint, they will be sent to the treasury department for final approval.

Making of the master die to be used in producing the coins will be finished within another week, according to advices received by the committee.

Coppini donated his services in designing the models. On one side of the coin appears the goddess of progress and liberty. Her left arm encircles the Alamo, under which are the words "Remember the Alamo" and the numerals 1836-1936.

The reverse side of the coin contains the American eagle and other requirements for silver money, superimposed over a large lone star.

The 50 cent pieces will sell for $1 each and the premium will go into a fund for the construction of a museum devoted to history and natural history, and dedicated to Texas pioneers and their ancestors and their descendants, who have followed the six flags of Texas in the various wars fought by her people.

Many requests for the coins already have been received from scattered points in the United States and abroad.

Funds for the museum are being raised at present through the sale of seals by the American Legion Auxiliary and the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. It is hoped that the museum will be ready for the Texas Centennial celebration in 1936.

CENTER POINT

If the community would listen to Uncle Ed (E. T.) Davis, it would feel more proud of its mowers, row binder and reapers. Uncle Ed was telling recently how he used to help harvest grain about 58 years ago in south eastern Missouri. He said that they used a reaper, but it was a funny looking thing compared with what we have today, probably and was a forerunner. The machine he described must have been a half brother to the modern mower. "It wouldn't tie out bundles itself," he said. "A man had to stand up behind the thing and mash down on a pedal when a bundle was ready to be thrown out. But the bundles were thrown out untied, no strings on them. There were five of us tying up the loose grain. I was only thirteen then, but had to keep up with the men. We didn't exactly follow the reaper, but stationed ourselves about over the field. Each man had his station. He would tie so far, until he got to the next man's tying place, then then the next man tied until he got to the fellow on below him and so on. So that is the way we cut our grain in those days and nobody had to kill himself working."

Mrs. Will Spinks visited her son, Frank, in the Duren community the latter part of the week.

Smart, who executed the baptizing, and his family from Mullin. Also other friends were present.

4-H Club Notes

Last Friday the 4-H club staged a picnic down on the Allen place. About 61 were present, which included both parents and young folks. Before noon most of the entertainment was put on by the boys in the form of boxing. Some good sportsmanship was displayed. When 12 o'clock came the boys moved around the boulders in the creek bed so the ladies could spread down the lunch, which appeared a miracle during these days of depression. All those fancy pies, cakes and sandwiches were extremely appetizing, not to mention chicken. However, for what we have just mentioned, the girls and their mothers get all praise. The boys, from all accounts, either fell down their sandwiches or with them. We don't know which, but anyway, they supplied a few melons, through the kindness of C. C. Wesson. And, too, the boys supplied iced tea for the crew. In the afternoon the crowd moved off down to a barren field and there the boys staged a rodeo, which consisted mostly of cow "busting". Following the cow riding came some sack races and toad races down near the creek. Then the boys had a rifle match down on the creek, which climaxed the picnic. The sponsors of the club are sorry that Mr. Weaver could not be present, that it was impossible for more of the community to be there, that the heat wave was disagreeable and the creek had nearly gone dry. But what about it? Wasn't it worthwhile after all? Remember, next Friday night, August 17 the club will meet at the school house to decide on some future activity.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 16.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 1 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to hereinafter read as follows:

Section 1. Taxation to be equal and uniform as to real estate and to be equal and uniform as to all reasonable classifications of property; and occupation and income taxes; exemptions; limitations upon counties, cities, etc.

"Taxation of real property shall be equal and uniform. All property in this state, whether owned by natural persons or corporations, other than municipal, shall be taxed in proportion to its value, which shall be ascertained as may be provided by law. The legislature may by general laws make reasonable classifications of all property other than real property for the purpose of taxation, and may impose different rates thereon; provided that the taxation of all property in any class shall be equal and uniform. The legislature may impose a poll tax. It may also impose occupation taxes, both upon natural persons and upon corporations, other than municipal, doing business in this state. It may also tax incomes of both natural persons and corporations other than municipal, except that persons engaged in mechanical and agricultural pursuits shall never be required to pay an occupation tax; provided that two hundred and fifty ($250.00) Dollars worth of household and kitchen furniture, belonging to each family in the state, shall be exempt from taxation, and provided further that the occupation tax levied by any county, city or town for any year on persons or corporations pursuing any profession or business, shall not exceed one-half of the tax levied by the state for the same period of such profession or business."

Section 2. The foregoing amendment to the Constitution of Texas shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held throughout the state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1934. At this election, all voters favoring said amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas providing that taxation of real property shall be equal and uniform; and that all property in this state, other than that owned by municipal corporations, shall be taxed in proportion to its value as ascertained as may be provided by law; and providing that the Legislature may make reasonable classifications of all property, other than real property, for the purpose of taxation, and that the taxation of all property in any class shall be equal and uniform; and providing further that the Legislature may impose poll tax and occupation tax and income tax and exempting from occupation tax persons engaged in mechanical and agricultural pursuits, and exempting from taxation Two Hundred and Fifty ($250.00) Dollars worth of household and kitchen furniture belonging to each family; and providing that the occupation tax levied by any county, city or town shall not exceed one-half that levied by the State for the same period."

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Costume Jewelry Accents Vacation Wardrobe.

With simplicity the keynote of the summer vacation wardrobe, costume jewelry has become more important than ever. Cleverly selected, it converts the simplest frock into one of chic and charm. With the favored white costume, New York shops are displaying bright composition ensembles—matching bracelets, necklaces, rings and earrings in various new designs. Beads in novel shapes as well as round—large and small—are strung together and are extremely effective in the vivid shades as well as in these bright colors spaced with white. Silver metal is noted in smart contrast with bright reds, rich browns, blues, yellow and green. There are ropes of flowers and fruit motifs in composition fashioning bracelets, as well as necklaces of varying lengths. Pearls are decidedly important and particularly now against black satin so stressed in the style picture. They are featured not only in single, double and multiple strand necklaces, often with pendants in pearl arrangements, but in choker stylings and in wide bracelets—in both plain band style and in flaring cuffs.

Dance Sponsors "Profile Hat."

The profile hat in discreet and dashing versions, accenting the coiffure at side and back is an outstanding feature of the collection of fall millinery. This effect is achieved by lifting the hat at the back on a bandeau, or the brim is thrust forward, which hugs the head, the front shading the eyes. Berets, brims and turbans are all stressed in this collection, as are tricornees, which are unusually shallow and narrow. An interesting new model is an adjustable hat, which has a brim that may be detached from the cap-toque crown. The beret stylings are all very large, soft and drapy, and so manipulated as to give the very definite feeling for line. Feather trimmings are important, as are wings, ostrich tips, little veils and cocardes of grosgrain ribbon—these as well as other trims often in accenting color.

Alpaca Favored for Travel

Decidedly important among travel clothes this season are the new rayon alpaca—soft, supple and uncrushable. One New York shop is featuring this practical lightweight fabric in a smart two-piece frock called the butcher boy—an adaptation with tunic-like top, finger length, in a loose-flowing back gathered in at the yoke and with casual pockets—the design being inspired by smocks worn by Paris butcher boys. The skirt is straight and slim—not tight, but just easy. A very smart travel costume in Vivonne red, Chanel blue or black.

Bows and Buttons Mark Children's Shoes.

Cool cotton dresses with smart little bows and plenty of buttons is the style edict for children this summer. One notes them not only in gingham, linens, muslins and lawns—crisp and in fast dyed colors in the favored checked and narrow striped patterns—but in the old fashioned calicoes with little all over floral patterns. Stylings are very simple—with little shoulder bows featured on many and colorful composition buttons adding a bright, youthful and practical style note.

Style Briefs.

Knitted and crocheted gloves are important this season as are gloves with fancy cuffs. Rayon organdie cuffs are featured, also rayon taffetas.

The black satin handbag is being featured in New York shops as a late summer and early fall number. They are noted in flat pouch and envelope stylings—many with composition clasp closing. Tufts and floral motifs in applique effects distinguish some smart models.

The slit skirt is with us again. It is noted in some of the newest evening gowns of satin—worn over the lace petticoat.

Although black is the style standby for both coats and dresses, dark rich tapestry colors are favored.

Back buttoning is new and smart now in sportswear styles. One notes it in over blouses and in the back buttoned cardigan.

CHALLENGE TO PATRIOTISM

The Centennial News says the Texas Centennial, a challenge to the patriotism and common sense of every Texan, is meeting with an almost unanimous response of approval from all sections of the state.

As the intensive publicity campaign progresses the momentum is gaining, comparable to the increasing size of a snowball as it goes down the hill.

From all walks of life and from all kinds and classes of people are coming assurances of hearty support and statements that the Texas Centennial must be the biggest thing of its kind ever staged on the American continent.

Kept Taking Cardui Until She Got Rid of the Severe Pains

When Mrs. Ida Hege, of Edinburg, Ind., was in a painful, rundown condition, she took Cardui, with the results she describes below: "I had just been what one might say dragging around, feeling miserable and all out of sorts. I remembered how Cardui helped my aunt. I sent for six bottles of Cardui and when I had taken them, I was much better and stronger. I did not suffer so much pain. I continued taking Cardui until I had taken nine bottles. I do not have the severe pains." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Obituary

Thomas Pensin Reed, a devoted husband, an affectionate father, a loyal friend and an esteemed citizen, was, at the family home in Big Valley, beckoned by the pallid messenger with the inverted torch to depart July 31, 1934.

His combat with death was protracted and tragic, but in the long struggle against the inexorable advances of an insidious and mortal malady, he did not falter nor repine. He retreated with the aspect of a victor, and though he succumbed he seemed to conquer. His sun went down in the evening, but it sank amid the prophetic splendor of a gorgeous, golden dawn eternal. With more than a hero's courage, with more than a martyr's fortitude, he courageously waited the approach of the inevitable hour and went to the Great Beyond, knowing that a world where death is shall be retrieved by a world where death is no more. Life's work was well done; life's race was well run; rest enduring and never ending came.

He was theologically sound, honorable, honest, unselfish; moral character of the highest; ideals lofty; an omniverous reader; a lover of good and a constant doer of good deeds, benevolent, manifested a deep and abiding interest in civic and political affairs and was ever conversant with current events. Sparks of wisdom flew from his brain for more than half a century.

He was born in Gadsden, Ala., 69 years ago. In early youth his father moved to Washington county, Ark., where he grew to vigorous manhood and married Florence Privett, Oct. 3, 1886. Later they came to Texas, resided in Hunt county four years and then moved to Mills county in 1901. His widow and seven children survive him. Two of his loved ones preceded him in death.

Telegrams of condolence, letters conveying sympathy to the bereaved in their colossal and irreparable loss, and beautiful floral offerings symbolizing love and affectionate regard came from many points in Texas, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Illinois. The incessant solicitude for his comfort and the unceasing interest in his welfare during his lingering illness eloquently attested to the universal esteem in which he was held by neighbors and friends among whom he had lived and dipped deeply into the bright waters of the stream of life for more than three decades.

All of his surviving children, Ralph H., Mrs. Wm. Forehand, Fay, Mrs. O. C. Sykes, Mrs. L. O. Sykes, Barton and Clell, their wives, husbands and all of his grandchildren were in attendance at the last sad rites. All of his children, except Clell, who had submitted to a major operation, visited him during the last few weeks of his life—a life that was exemplificative of the transcendent love of a husband and father. Father love! The golden cord that reaches from the throne of God, uniting all animate creation to divinity. Its light gleams down the path of time from all ages. It is equalled only by mother love. Its holy flame glows brightly. It is a great universal passion—the sinless passion of sacrifice, incomparable in its sublimity, except by the love of a mother. With indescribable solicitude he would watch over his beloved. Even when his body slumbered, his soul kept vigil and his hands in unison with his spirit would stretch forth to soothe his babies back to sleep. His tenderness was ineffable, unspeakable. His soul will keep the eternal vigil of a deathless love. When he approached the portals of death there was no solace so sweet as the presence of those whom he loved. While the sorrowing ones wept bitter tears about the flower-strewn casket of their own beloved and looked upon his face the last time in this world and heard friends sing those sacred songs that have come ringing down the ages laden with love, replete with tears, and fraught with hope, peace that passeth understanding came with thanks to Jesus Christ that there is the resurrection of the body, glorious and immortal. The emptiness of His grave is to Christians more eloquent than all the rhetoric of living logicians. The warmth of springtime, which kisses into bloom the rose; which revives the song of Section 1. That Section 3 of Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Texas be so amended as to hereinafter read as follows:

Section 3. Taxes shall be levied and collected by general laws and for public purposes only; and the total amount of revenue which the state shall be authorized to collect during such biennium from taxes, licenses, permits and fees, (except fees paid by students to state educational institutions, and except rentals, bonuses and royalties obtained from public lands and other public property) shall not exceed a sum reasonably estimated to equal the product obtained by multiplying the number of the inhabitants of this state by the sum of Twenty-two and 50/100 ($22.50) Dollars; provided, however, the total amount of such revenue which may be so collected, shall be reduced by the amount of any surplus funds or unexpended appropriations remaining at the close of the preceding biennium.

The expenditures of the state government of funds derived from the sources above referred to shall never exceed during any biennium, a sum equal to the product obtained by multiplying the number of inhabitants of this state by the sum of Twenty-two and 50/100 ($22.50) Dollars, provided, however, that the population of the state (in determining the amount of revenue which may be collected from licenses, permits and fee or expended from the revenue thus obtained) shall be determined by the then last preceding Federal census, to which population shall be added or deducted, as the case may be, for each year that has lapsed since the last preceding Federal census, the average yearly increase or decrease of the population as shown by said Federal census which immediately preceded said last Federal census. Provided, further, that in case of war, riots, or insurrection, or a state wide calamity caused by earthquake, fire, flood or an epidemic, which seriously threatens the health of the citizens of this state, the legislature shall have authority, by a two-thirds vote of both Houses, to suspend for a definite period this constitutional limitation as to the amount of money which may be collected and expended during the biennium.

In the territory of the state exterior to all counties now existing, no new counties shall be created with a less area than nine hundred square miles, in a square form, unless prevented by the pre-existing boundary lines. Should the state lines render this impracticable in border counties, the area may be less. The territory referred to may, at any time, in whole or in part, be divided into counties in advance of population and attached for judicial and land surveying purposes, to the most convenient organized county or counties. Second. Within the territory of any county or counties now existing, the Legislature may by a two-thirds vote of both houses, create new counties, combine existing counties and parts of counties and abolish existing counties and change county boundaries at will, provided that no new county shall be created with an area of less than nine hundred square miles nor shall any existing county be reduced in area so as to contain less than nine hundred square miles, unless such new county or such remaining county and both shall have a population of not less than fifty thousand, according to the last United States census prior to the date of the creation or change of such county. Advance Guard of Summer's Parade Of 30 Fruits Ready Now for Jelly

HOW many kinds of jam and jelly do you plan to make this summer?

If you started at the beginning of the fresh fruit season, you might have at least thirty varieties on your pantry shelf by the time frost came. Did you realize that?

Berries Now On Market

Of course, the only way to attain such a goal is to begin right away to make jam and jelly from the fruits as they come on the market. Strawberries, cherries, and raspberries come first, begging to be made into jellies. Blackberries follow in and very soon after them the whole berry family—huckleberries, blueberries, loganberries—can be added to the row of gleaming glasses.

If you take advantage of each fruit as it comes on the market, there really isn't much work to acquiring a jam closet which will be the pride of the house when cold weather comes. The best idea is to make a batch at a time—ten or twelve glasses—using the modern methods which require only a few minutes' effort. Use these recipes for fruits available now, and you will have a running start toward the jam cupboard complete:

Red or Black Currant Jelly
5 cups (2 1/2 lbs.) Juice
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
1/4 bottle fruit pectin

With red currants, crush about 4 pounds fully ripe fruit and add 1 cup water.

With black currants, crush about 3 pounds fully ripe fruit and add 3 cups water.

To prepare juice, bring mixture to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

Measure sugar and mix. Bring to large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.)

Red Raspberry Jam
4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
1/4 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, crush or grind about 2 quarts fully ripe berries. Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent foaming fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.)

Herbert was straw-boss of this job and he kept us working all day in the hot sun. After working us hard all day, he left out for his home in the Rock Springs community, and then it dawned on us. This reporter went to the school ground working Friday. Not to work, mind you, but to gather news. Going near a bunch of men, he overheard the words, "too hot." Not being interested in that conversation, he moved near a group of women. There he heard the words, "nine jars," and moved on. In desperation, he overheard the words, "party tonight." Then he turned away in utter disgust, and did like the fellow in the song, he went off down the road feeling bad. This reporter utterly refuses to report anyone's observation on the weather, or any woman's gossip about canning, or any girl's chatter about a party. This reporter wants news that is news; news with a capital "N." This is written to show how hard it is to get news.

SCIENCE WONDER STORIES

Science's Gift To Game Hunters

PROGRESS in the development and improvement of powders for guns is of interest to 8,999,000 sportsmen in the United States. The chemist, in recent years, has sought successfully to improve these powders, and a new powder for shotgun ammunition has now been developed.

In the old days the hunter spent a lot of time cleaning his gun. Every charge that was shot left a sediment that tended to foul the barrel, was somewhat corrosive and often interfered with the action of the gun.

After a great deal of experiment and research, a powder was devised that not only did not leave unburned grains and other sediment in the barrel, but was unimpaired so far as its ballistic stability was concerned even under severe storage conditions. It could be loaded very uniformly.

Here was science's contribution to sport. The gunner of today has available a powder for his ammunition that he can just take and shoot, worrying little about dampness and not at all about the barrels of his gun. The modern hunter need only be a good shot. He does not need to be a mechanic.

The Second Primary

There are several contests in the second primary for state offices and in a number of cases the defeated candidates in the first primary have advised their friends and supporters regarding the remaining candidates and have expressed a choice between them. In no case have these defeated candidates attempted to dictate to those who voted for them in the first primary. Such a course would be foolish in the extreme and in no case could it be beneficial, for the voter who cast his ballot for a candidate in the first primary is under no obligation to vote for the same candidate a second time and much less to vote for one he designates. However, a candidate who was favored with the support of a voter in the first primary is proving his appreciation when he advises that voter as to the best man for the place, in his judgment. He has had a more or less intimate acquaintance with those on the ticket for the same office for which he was a candidate and he has had occasion to give more study to the ability and qualifications of an opponent than has an average voter. Those defeated candidates, therefore, who advise their friends as to their choice of candidates are entirely within the proprieties and certainly are not nearly so much in the line of attempting to dictate to the voter as is the stump speaker who tries to dissuade said voter from supporting the candidates of his choice or persuade him to support the speaker's selection, especially when said speaker is probably on the payroll of the candidate he advocates or is expecting favors of one kind or another if the one he advocates is elected. Every voter is free to support the candidate of his choice and certainly those for whom he voted in the first primary are only acting in the advisory capacity of a friend, when they tell him of their choice.

A Square Deal

The president gave assurance, while on his westward trip, that the principles of the New Deal had come to stay and the country would learn more of its provisions as time moved on. There is no doubt that the intention of the plan was good, but many of the details went wrong. In the outset, some of those temporarily clothed with authority became over anxious to demonstrate such authority. Some of them attempted to use ruthless and oppressive methods, which were calculated to engender opposition and incite a rebellious spirit among those it was expected to govern. Sheer force can produce results for a time, but co-operation and a willingness to work in harmony has a more lasting effect. The threat to "crack down" on free people was never accepted with good grace from an underling, who really had no power except that delegated by a superior. Very little has been heard along this line for some time and doubtless will not be so much in the sounding in future. The American people can be depended upon for patriotic and intelligent co-operation, but the "big stick" application has never excited as much fear as it has opposition. What the people want is a square deal and an opportunity to have a part in working out their recovery. The great mass of people have not been willing to co-operate in the management of their affairs with overseers in whom they have no reason to have confidence and in whose ability they have no reason to trust. The new plans for the new deal are better than those used in the earlier days of the recovery program and are undoubtedly receiving far better co-operation.

Looking Ahead

The Bankhead law governing the growing, ginning and marketing of cotton has not had a full trial this year, owing to the drought and acreage reduction, but some of its provisions have proven of benefit in the drought districts and with a full crop the benefits would doubtless be more apparent in raising the price of the staple. The Texas Weekly, which has made a careful study of the cotton situation and the provisions of the law, says in part: "If there is not to be a different basis—one that will give Texas and Oklahoma a chance to recover their losses next year, then we are in favor of repealing the Bankhead law as soon as congress assembles again. The government cannot guarantee to any state that its quota will be produced, though it can prevent the state from selling more than its quota tax free. Neither Texas nor Oklahoma will produce their quotas this year. They will fall far short of producing their quotas. Presumably some other states will be permitted to sell in excess of their quotas tax free. Ought not Texas and Oklahoma be allowed a proportionately larger quota next year? If not, why not?"

Backing the Centennial

The Eagle has believed in the plan for celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the political organization of Texas, with an exhibition of the resources and developments of this great state, from the time such celebration was first suggested. The idea is still firmly held by this newspaper that every Texan should be enthusiastic in assisting in making the centennial celebration outclass every similar effort by other states and that every section should co-operate in the undertaking. The fact, therefore, that one of the Eagle's recent editorials was adopted as worthy of circulation through the commission's literature, advocating the celebration in a befitting style, can but cause this newspaper to feel that its efforts are appreciated and possibly may result in some good to an undertaking that should appeal to the good business judgment as well as the patriotism of every citizen—especially every native born citizen — of the Lone Star state.

A Changed Campaign

The first primary of the present campaign was characterized by its freedom from bitterness and strife. Candidates, in almost every instance, kept to their own political plans and platforms, without giving any considerable attention to their opponents, but the same condition can not be claimed for the second primary. In this second campaign personalities have developed in some of the races, which is to be regretted. The fact that an opposing candidate has some weakplaces in his chain of life is not proof that his rival would make a good and acceptable officer, neither is such a campaign convincing to people who think and in reality know more about the aspirants for their suffrage than many appear to think. This plan of campaign has not been adopted by all candidates and their advocates, but with some of them the practice has become so common as to hark back to early day campaigns in Texas.

VACCINATION

The school throughout Texas will soon be opening for another term and the Texas state department of health urges the parents of school children to see that they are protected against disease in so far as possible. Vaccination against typhoid, diphtheria and smallpox should be done at once.

School children are exposed to much infection so that where a definite preventive is known, parents should take advantage of it. These vaccinations may save many days out of school, doctor fees, and maybe life itself. More than six hundred children die each year in Texas from diphtheria.

The child should be taken to his family physician at this time for a physical examination to determine if he has any remedial defects. A child with subnormal eyesight or hearing can not be expected to do as well in his studies as one that has normal sight and hearing. A dentist should be consulted in regard to the teeth. Any defect found and corrected before school opens will mean much to the child and will have its effect on his school work as well as his physical well being.

Some physical defects of children, such as underweight or malnutrition, show no appreciable present effect. If such a condition is not corrected it may result seriously in later years. No hard and fast rules as to a child weight at a certain age are available, but parents should see whether or not the child shows some gain each month.

ODD ACCIDENTS

Desiring to make sure his sea food was fresh a Washington man asked to inspect it first. The waiter brought in a tray of lobsters, one of which nipped the diner on the end of his nose.

Tony, a 15-year-old leopard, met his death in a Wisconsin zoo because of unrestrained love. When he tried to lick the neck of a lioness in the next cage she seized his tongue. His own jaws snapped shut severing his tongue. Despite efforts at feeding him he died of starvation.

While taking his dog to a veterinary for treatment a California man, Peter Clement, had to be patched up himself, after he control of his car when the dog jumped into his face and became entangled in the steering wheel of the car. He suffered severe cuts and bruises.

Death in a grave he had dug with his own hands was the fate of Mr. Rossback of Minnesota. While digging away he was stricken with a heart attack and toppled into the excavation. He was buried in the same cemetery.

While driving along a Georgia road after sundown, John Waddell was surprised when a huge owl crashed into his car. The bird fell dead and released a wriggling young water moccasin in his lap. He killed it before it had a chance to bite him.

Charles Dunnigan, who was quite alone in his Montana home was more than surprised when he heard a shotgun discharged behind him and felt a half dozen bird shot strike his leg. A kitten had knocked over a gun left standing on the floor.

A series of accidents caused by a low-flying crane resulted in the death of an Alabama man. The bird struck a high tension wire, which snapped and set fire to an outbuilding and charged a wire fence. In putting out the fire the man came in contact with the fence and was electrocuted.—Pathfinder.

CUT OUT FROM HERD

A spectacular mountain amid the wilds of the Davis mountains is coming into world prominence. Recently given the name of Mount Locke, once untamed and seldom annoyed by man, this old mountain has been cut out of the herd like a wild stallion and is now being branded by the stamp of science.

Mount Locke is the site for the great McDonald observatory. A wide highway has been built from Fort Davis to the very top of the mountain, which reaches an altitude of almost 7000 feet.—Fort Davis Dispatch.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

DOLLARS AT HOME AND ABROAD

Last week's announcement of the forthcoming issue of new silver certificates was the signal for a sharp decline in the exchange value of the dollar. Apparently it was feared that the new money marked the advent of inflation, and foreigners proceeded to sell dollars accordingly. Since the silver purchase act created very little excitement abroad at the time of its passage, the flurry over the issue of certificates authorized by that act was probably due to lack of understanding of this latest move. Nevertheless, this episode shows how little confidence Europeans have in the continued stability of the dollar. In some respects they are better able to pass judgment upon our policies than we are, because they have first-hand knowledge of the preliminary stages of monetary inflation, which has given them a kind of second sight. Furthermore, foreigners can not be expected to feel much confidence in the future of the dollar when they read of the drives that are being launched to speed inflation.

Senator Thomas has just completed plans for a nation-wide campaign to force issuance of silver certificates up to $500,000,000, along with further devaluation of the dollar and currency issues against devaluation profits. If prices should fail to rise to the 1926 level as a result of these measures, he would then advocate resort to treasury notes—that is, fiat money.

In view of the influence which the senator has exercised upon the country's monetary policies he can not be regarded as a lone crusader setting out upon a hopeless quest. The so-called Thomas amendment to the agricultural adjustment act authorizing devaluation of the gold dollar, unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio to be fixed by presidential proclamation, and the permissive use of $3,000,000,000 of treasury notes. The senator likewise played an active part in securing passage of the silver purchase legislation which makes possible another variety of inflation. His success to date has been sufficient to encourage further assault upon an administration that has so often shown a willingness to compromise with inflationist demands.—Washington Post.

CHANGING HUMAN NATURE

One of the amazing and foreboding changes that has been laid to the business depression of the last three years has been the change in human nature. Business men usually stable and conservative have, under the lash of adverse conditions, turned distinctly radical. The necessary work of providing food and work for unemployed last winter has left an impression among many that the government can continue indefinitely to feel, clothe and house those who are not working.

An outstanding example of how haywire human nature can become occurred in Kohler, Wisconsin, last week, where troops were called in to maintain peace in the little industrial town that has received nation wide prominence because of the model conditions under which employees worked and lived. The management of the Kohler company has long been pointed out as an example of enlightened industrial management and efforts of the company to provide for the happiness, health and contentment of its employees were considered a model for other companies to follow.

But something happened. Whether it was the management who changed, due to decreased business, which couldn't allow the continuance of many of the activities for the welfare of the employees changed to a point where they demanded still further consideration when business conditions didn't justify, the newspaper stories haven't made clear. But anyway, something has happened to the erstwhile model industrial community, or rather something has affected the attitude of its citizens.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

SILVER NATIONALIZED

The erratic and contradictory movements of the commodity, stock and bond markets following the President's new order calling in all silver shows plainly that there is a good deal of guessing even in high financial circles. The president would undoubtedly take this step in preparation for a program of inflation through the use of silver. On the other hand, the president has before him obvious reasons for taking this step in order to carry out the provisions of the recent silver act without too great profits to speculators in silver. Results of this step toward silver nationalization will depend on what is done after the silver has been nationalized.

Judging from the president's former policy in monetary matters, there will be no radical inflationary process. A good guess is that Roosevelt wishes to carry out the provisions of the silver act, which requires silver as backing for one-fourth of the country's currency, within the obstacle of a rising silver market. Of course, Roosevelt may have in mind the possibility of need of future inflation through use of silver. In this event, the present action would be taking time by the forelock, to assure an orderly process of inflation if, in the opinion of the President, it became necessary to maintain price levels later.

The announcement comes with dramatic effect. It had to be made that way. There is little reason for business becoming disturbed.—Dallas News.

PLENTY OF WIND

You know that rains come and go, that floods succeed droughts, and vice versa, but the wind always stays put. There is never a wind drought. Then why not dig, bore or drill a deep well and hitch a windmill to it? The mill will raise the water from the well. It can be spread thereafter over garden, orchard and goober patch, to the end that always there will be plenty of vegetables, some fruits and oodles of goobers. There is plenty water underground. Plenty at least to irrigate a couple of acres around the house. Getting to it is some trouble and costs some money. Also the windmilled water is some trouble to scatter after it is made available. But we should think it would be a profitable operation. Not for everybody, maybe, but for some. A hydrographic engineer stated recently that in some sections the water table had been lowered perceptibly by the drought. That is no doubt true. But if the table were tapped by a thousand new wells, wouldn't the subterranean moisture rise? Snows in the mountains, underground rivers, perhaps melting icebergs in the Arctic, put their liquid resources on the water table. They can be depended on to keep doing what they have done since the glacial age. In older times no settler expected to have water convenient to his house without digging for it. Possibly we of a more intense generation have depended too much on luck and not enough on the spade and drill.—State Press in Dallas News.

PLANS BENEFIT SOUTHWEST

No matter what one may think of the ultimate wisdom of the government's plan of renting cotton land, there should be no division of sentiment as to the benefits that will accrue to the farmers of the drought stricken states of the southwest. Not only has the farmer rented his lands for more money than he could hope to receive if he had planted them to cotton, but the plan also assures him of a much better price for the cotton he will gather. Except for the rental plan and the Bankhead bill, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma would be facing a major disaster this year, at least. Whether all these crop control plans will be of an ultimate benefit to the cotton farmers is yet to be proven.—Marshall News.

GOVERNMENT MUST WIN

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, takes an appropriate moment to preach a sound and appropriate sermon to America's organized workers.

It was known throughout the short period of the San Francisco general strike that the head of the federation, officer of high rank in labor, was convinced the strategy was wrong, and lent no support to the move to tie up the coast cities. Now that the general strike has collapsed, Green condemns the policy of ordering the strike, and commends those who called it off. Now, he says, attention may be turned to the original disputes out of which the general sympathetic strike grew.

It is "dangerous experimentation fraught with grave consequences," Green declares, for workers to engage in sympathetic strikes when such action calls for the "violation of contracts arrived at through collective bargaining and involves the possibility of losing all the economic gains they have secured through years of sacrifice and effort."

Just how dangerous the experimentation was in the case of the west coast strike can not be told at once. The determined, though short lived, effort to put populous communities under siege is certain to leave an aftermath of public resentment costly to the prestige of those responsible for the attempt.

A sympathetic strike, Green further points out, if it becomes important enough to attract wide attention, is soon accepted as a challenge to government. It loses its normal character as a conflict between employer and employe and becomes an issue between employe and the state. Sometimes the employe is thus permitted to back gracefully out of the picture; he may, indeed, profit by a conflict inaugurated for his discomfiture.

And when the conflict takes this turn, Mr. Green declares, "everyone must know and understand that the government must win; it can not surrender. It must establish its supremacy."

It is timely reassurance which the head of the federation gives the American people that noisy extremists, not infrequently inspired from abroad, will not be allowed to dictate labor policies here. The new deal gives to organized workers the finest opportunity that ever came their way. They can not afford to sacrifice the chance by hasty, ill-considered and dangerous policies.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 41

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That there be added to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas a new section to be numbered Section 2-A and to have five (5) lettered subdivisions and which section shall read as follows:

"Section 2-A.

"(a) General management and control of the affairs of the county shall hereafter be vested in the Commissioners Court, provided that in the exercise of powers not specifically granted to the Commissioners Court by the Constitution and Amendments thereto, the court shall be subject to the authority of the Legislature of the state and the court shall also be subject to all general laws of the state now in force not in conflict with the provisions of this amendment until such laws are modified or repealed.

"(b) All duties heretofore performed by the Clerk of the District Court and the County Clerk shall hereafter be performed by an officer to be known as Record Clerk; all duties heretofore performed by the County Tax Assessor and the County Tax Collector shall hereafter be performed by one officer known as Tax Clerk; and in the counties where the sheriff performs the duties of the Tax Collector he may hereafter perform the duties of the Tax Clerk. The Record Clerk and the Tax Clerk shall be elected to hold office for a term of two (2) years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. The Commissioners Court shall have authority to combine the office of County Treasurer and the office of County Surveyor, or to combine either, or both, of said offices with any county officer. The Commissioners Court shall fix the compensation of deputy assistants and clerical personnel of all precinct officers and county officers except the county auditor.

"(c) City and county officers and employees may, in addition to their duties as such city and county officers or employees, be required to perform such other similar duties for cities, towns and districts within the county, or for the county, as may be mutually agreed upon and contracted for between the Commissioners Court of said county and the governing board, or boards, of such cities, towns and districts; and the cost of such service shall be provided for in said contracts and paid by such county, cities, towns or districts into the treasury of the county or city, town or district, as provided for in said contract. All such contracts shall be approved by the Attorney General of this State and such contracts shall not cover a period longer than two (2) years.

"(d) The Legislature shall have authority, by general law, to provide for complete forms of county government and organizations different from that provided for in this Constitution to become effective in any county when submitted in such manner as may be prescribed by the Legislature to the qualified voters of such county in an election held for such purpose and approved by a majority of the qualified voters of such county in an election held for such purpose and approved by a majority of the qualified voters in said election. Provided, however, that no such law shall impair the authority of the Commissioners Court to determine the compensation of county and precinct officers other than the county auditor, to fix the number of assistants, deputies and clerical personnel which said officers may employ; nor shall such general law change the present constitutional limitations as to particular and total tax levies for any or all county purposes; nor shall such general law change the present constitutional limitations on counties to incur public debts.

"(e) In any and all cases where provisions of the Constitution of this State are in conflict with the provisions of this Amendment, the provision of this Amendment (Section 2-A, Article IX) shall control; provided, however, should any county adopt a Home Rule Charter under authority of any provision of the State Constitution or Amendment thereto, this amendment shall not be applicable to such county."

Fine Pruning For A Fine Garden

BERRY BUSH

To have a successful garden, fruit orchard, berry patch or shrub garden, one of the most vitally important things is to know how, when and where to prune. And the how is a very necessary point because plant life is delicate and whenever one prunes, grafts or buds one is actually performing a real surgical operation.

There are four principal objects in pruning: viz., the encouragement of future sturdy growth, the building up to a desired form or dimension and the maintaining of branches open to light and air by the removal of all dead or diseased parts. Roughly, it may be said that shrubs that bloom before June are best pruned after flowering. Those that bloom later should be pruned the following February. Summer pruning plays a big part in the cultivation of peaches, cherries and the like. Logan, black and raspberries should have the canes that have borne fruit cut as soon as the berries are gathered. Moderate pruning is best for a home garden of roses, all the principal shoots being shortened four to six buds and the laterals being left with from one to three buds. Rambler roses and climbers are thinned of old wood. This can be done late in the fall or in the winter.

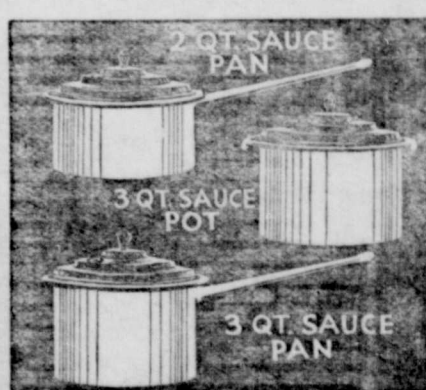

Proper pruning knives come with stag or cocobola handles, are generally single-bladed and capable of taking a high degree of sharpness. The ones for home use usually have folding blades. They must be kept sharp and the cut they make should be oblique across the wood when the knife is drawn with an upward stroke. Cut just above a bud. If there seems danger of the stem bleeding, a touch of liquid tar or even a thumbtack stuck into the cut will stop it and also stop the attack of beetles. Proper steel in the knife, a well shaped handle that will not cramp the hand, and a little careful practice will do a lot for the health and luxuriance of any home garden.

sensible suggestions I had seen lately. If this were carried out by every congregation we would soon have a leadership in both the pulpit and in the church and laity that would bring things to pass. Many a young man or woman with wonderful possibilities have been lost to the leadership of the church through a failure upon the part of the church to realize and cultivate their possibilities. The papers a few days ago told us that possibly one of the really greatest preachers of America, possibly of the world, was thrust out of a spirit of backwardness, when a small village church discovered his possibilities, and over his protest, ordained him to the ministry and put him to work. But for this, Texas, America and the world, might have lost one of her really great preachers, Geo. W. Truett. It was Garfield, I believe, who said, "No one knew the possibilities hidden by a ragged jacket." J. S. BOWLES
