

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1935

NUMBER TWENTY-NINE

40th Rain Mills County

The month of May has brought us a total of 40.1 inches of rain, according to the official records of the government observation station at Goldthwaite. This is the most rain in the history of the county since the records were first kept in 1882. The rainfall for the month of May is 40.1 inches, for the year to date 117.8 inches. The rainfall for the month of May is 40.1 inches, for the year to date 117.8 inches.

Application Returns Returned

Applications for cotton reduction have been returned to the College Station to the agent's office and all required by the board have been returned to the county committee. The committee has returned the applications to the State Allotment Office. The committee has returned the applications to the State Allotment Office.

Friday Party

Afternoon, May 18, the Mills celebrated their birthday by entertaining her small friends. About twenty-four were present and, as usual, were met by Carolyn. They were given paper hats and different colors of the after the small guests assembled, they played the yard and Mrs. Mills presided over the group. Then, Carolyn took the children in the house and read all of her gifts. They were taken to the parlor and were given pink brick ice cream and angel food cake with pink and blue punch. The children had eaten, gave each child a balloon after they had admired the balloons, the little hostess sang "On the Ship Lollypop" and a close a very delightful party.

Methodist Notes

The commencement sermon for our public schools last Sunday morning was heard by a large and interested congregation. Bro. Duke, as formerly announced, preached the sermon. He used as a text Esther 4:14, and chose the subject: "Some of the things which develop personality." Many spoke in the highest terms of the sermon.

In the absence of the pastor of the Baptist church many of that congregation attended services at the Methodist church Sunday night. This was appreciated by the Methodist people, and I think enjoyed by the Baptist people. One of the tendencies of the times is for a greater spirit of fraternity among Christian people than in the past. More and more people are growing to recognize the fact that there is a great degree of unity in the belief of people so far as the great essentials are concerned. If this be true, why should people be so inconsiderate when it comes to dealing with non-essentials?

Let our people keep in mind the fact that it is only a short time, June 16, till our meeting begins. I am sure that Dr. Wells, who is to lead in the meeting and his helper, Dr. Nance, are both capable and, from all reports, successful men in carrying on a meeting. Let us all enter into the spirit of the occasion, and have a great meeting.

If one may judge by the reports coming to us through the Dallas papers that city is becoming awake to the necessity of some preparation for the great centennial to be held next year other than mere physical equipment. The courts seem to be awaking to the fact that the bootlegger is not an essential to the well-being of the city. As a consequence they are making use of the padlock as never before. Places of business that have not been observing the liquor laws are being closed, and the jails are being made homes for the law violators. It is also notable that the new city council is taking a great step forward in that they have announced that the odor of strong drink upon the breath of those employed by the city will warrant the discharge of that person.

This awakening has been long overdue in most of our cities and towns. If a city of two hundred thousand can kill fifty people in six months in its streets, it might be well to ask how many it could kill in one year with millions of visitors within the same city. The answer might well be made August 24.

Now that the public schools are closing and the usual irregularity caused by the commencement exercises is over, let us look more carefully to the church interests. Let all be in their respective places next Sunday with a determination to attend every service, and be ever ready to discharge any duty needful to the best interest of the church.

S. E. Q. Picnic

The members of the S. E. Q. club, together with their husbands, friends and children, enjoyed a picnic on Monday night. A large crowd gathered for this outing. Sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, cookies and iced lemonade were certainly plentiful. Games of Snap, Flying Dutchman and others were enjoyed.

Our guests for the occasion were Austin Cooke and Rudolph Mildred and Mary Ellen Tyson. Mr. and Mrs. Arla Shirley and Mr. and Mrs. Clem Shirley of Lebanon, Ind. Everyone had a great time and are looking forward to the next quarterly social.

The S. E. Q. club met with Mrs. V. D. Tyson Tuesday and quilted on the Snake quilt. Ten members were present and we did lots of work. Elizabeth and Janece Doggett spent the day, so of course, they did more eating than quilting. The president being absent, the place for the next meeting was not stated.

R. L. Steen Co. Store Is Burglarized

Burglars broke into the hardware store of R. L. Steen & Co. sometime Sunday night and took four pistols valued at $80 and a small amount of cash from the cash register. They squeezed through a window 15 by 20 inches in order to enter the store. The loss was discovered when the store was opened for business Monday morning and local officers notified. On Thursday night of last week sneak thieves stole several automobile wheels and tires. In several instances the thefts were from the same car owners who suffered similar losses several weeks ago.

A Disagreeable Experience

Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Mills had a very disagreeable experience last Friday night, while en route home in their car from Temple. As they drove into a small creek south of town on the Lometa road, a washout caused them to kill the engine and before it could be pushed out, a wall of water came sweeping down the creek and they just had time to get out of the creek when the water swept their car several miles.

Mrs. Mills had left her purse, containing some money, a ring, her watch and several other valuables in the car, which was lost.

They tried to locate a house near by, but found they were between two creeks. While endeavoring to get to higher ground Mrs. Mills felt a snake wriggle beneath her foot and made haste to get farther. Fortunately the snake did her no injury. They were forced to remain in the woods, sheltered from the heavy rain by only a tree until daylight next morning. Their friends are glad to know that they have suffered no ill effects so far.

CCC Enrollment Starts June 15th

Information has been received by the Mills county relief board from the CCC enrollment supervisor relative to the selection and certification of applicants for the civilian conservation corps.

From present indications the next enrollment will be conducted in two phases. The first phase from June 15 to June 30, which will bring the existing companies to full strength, under the previous authorization. During the second phase, July 1 to August 31, enrollment will primarily be controlled by the availability of completed new camp sites.

Final quotas are to be released from the state office during the period between May 27 and June 1, and from the authorized county quotas selectees will be called to be sent forward for the completion of enrollment as rapidly as facilities will permit. Definite and complete movement instructions are to be issued the relief office at a later date.

Further instructions state that only ten per cent of the selectees from the counties can come from non-relief families, at least 90 per cent of the selectees must be from families on the relief rolls. These are new orders as previously it was only recommended that the bulk come from the relief rolls. An active campaign is now being carried on among those on the relief rolls to secure as many relief applicants as possible so that this county will be able to fill its quota.

Rock Springs Workers

The Workers met with Mrs. Collier last Friday afternoon, with 11 present. Some of the ladies said something about it being damp, so guess the rain kept the others away.

The big 11 had a pleasant evening together and helped Mrs. Collier quilt a quilt. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. R. Davis the last day of May, Friday the thirty-first. So don't forget the date and be with us if it isn't hailing. REPORTER

Graduation exercises for the high school senior class were held Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Dean J. Thomas Davis of Stephenville delivered the commencement address.

Mrs. Earl Pearce In Auto Wreck

While on their way to attend a son who had been critically injured in an automobile accident near Fort Smith, Arkansas, the automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Johnson of Austin and their daughter, Mrs. Earl Pearce of Goldthwaite, were traveling was wrecked, and the trip interrupted.

The son, Melvin Johnson, 30, was injured early Saturday morning, and his parents came from Austin to Goldthwaite for Mrs. Pearce and proceeded on towards Fort Smith Saturday evening. High water on the highway between Dublin and Stephenville caused Mrs. Johnson to lose control of the car which skidded into a bridge and was badly damaged. The occupants fortunately escaped serious injury, but the ladies were too badly bruised and shaken up to continue the trip.

Mr. Johnson proceeded to Fort Smith by bus and train to discover that his son had died at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, the exact hour at which his car had been wrecked.

Higher Wool Prices Make Brisk Market

With wool selling at 23 to 23 1/2c here, the market is active and a number of clips have been reported sold. Approximately 100,000 pounds have been sold or stored here this spring, and considerable more is expected to be received. Last week's top was around 22c, and the market opened several weeks ago at only 16 to 17c. Goldthwaite's reputation as one of the leading wool and mohair markets in the state is being maintained, prices here equalling the top reported anywhere for same grades.

The quality of the local clips is reported excellent, though a little light, especially in fleeces sheared early in the spring.

Lake Merritt Bridge Burned Sunday Night

Fire of unknown origin Sunday night destroyed the bridge over an arm of Lake Merritt on the road connecting the Brownwood and Comanche highways. The bridge was a substantial double floored bridge, which had been constructed by the Santa Fe railroad when the lake was completed.

Traffic on this road is being detoured around the lake for the present.

No Tuberculosis In Cattle Here

With only a few of approximately 12,000 cattle in Mills county not yet inspected, not a single case of tuberculosis had been detected by the government veterinarians up to yesterday. Dr. Daniel M. Purdy of the Department of Agriculture is in charge of the crews which have been making the tests in this county for the past three weeks. Six crews worked out of Goldthwaite, two at Priddy and two at Mullin.

Work has already commenced in Lampasas county, and all of the government veterinarians will have completed their work here by the end of this week. Local men who assisted in the work are: J. Bruce Burnett, Chester Head, M. L. Lindsey, Vernon Perkins, A. H. Pickets, A. G. Weston, Joe Barnett, Grady Tullos, Malcolm Jernigan and Ross Wheeler.

Local Officials Confer In Austin

County Judge R. J. Gerald, Mayor Hammond Bogkin and City Attorney F. P. Bowman went to Austin yesterday to confer with State Highway Department regarding the city well that is located in the proposed right of way for highway 74A from Lampasas. Judge Gerald has already turned over to the department deeds to every tract in the new right of way with the exception of the city property. The conference yesterday was arranged to secure some acceptable method of granting right of way without losing the well, which is needed by the city as an auxiliary water supply.

President's Veto Ignored by House

Congressman Chas. L. South, representative from this district, was one of the 14 Texas congressmen who voted Wednesday to override President Roosevelt's veto of the Patman Soldier Bonus Bill.

Although President Roosevelt had broken all precedents to come to the House to read his veto message in person, three more congressmen voted in support of the bill on reconsideration than had originally voted for it.

Scarcely had Roosevelt's voice ceased echoing in the crowded house chamber where he hammered objection after objection into the $2,200,000,000 bill, than the representatives voted 322 to 98 to override his veto the first personally delivered in history. It was many more than the two-thirds majority needed.

More deliberately, the senate decided to wait until Thursday to consider the presidential message which, with the House, it heard flay "printing press money" as an invitation of "an ultimate reckoning in uncontrollable prices and in the destruction of the value of savings."

Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, leader of the Senate Patman inflammatory forces, gained the delay on grounds the message needed more study. Siding with President Roosevelt in his warning of "disastrous consequences" a band of forty senators Thursday killed the inflationary Patman bonus bill.

Church of Christ Announcement

He will be assisted in this meeting by W. A. Stark of Valley Springs as song leader. Come one and all and be with us. You have a cordial invitation and hearty welcome awaiting you. Evening services are to begin at 8 p. m. each evening. The time for day services will be announced later. A MEMBER

Lions Club Elects

All officers and directors of the Goldthwaite Lions Club, headed by A. H. Smith, president, were re-elected for another year at an enthusiastic meeting Tuesday night at the Saylor Hotel. The meeting was preceded by the annual banquet.

Interesting talks were made on the status of the civic projects which the club is sponsoring, and a report was rendered on the participation of representatives of the local club in the charter meeting of the Gatesville club last week.

President Smith summarized the accomplishments of the club during the past twelve months and outlined briefly a program for the coming year. He emphasized the importance of continuing the county's highway program. Several other brief talks completed the meeting.

School of Instruction

Tuesday last the Woman's Missionary Union of Mills county, held an all day meeting with the Mullin Baptist church. Mrs. J. E. Leigh, state corresponding secretary, conducted a school of instruction. She is holding these all day meetings in every association in the district, during which she also holds conferences on W. M. U. work. It is always a joy to have her come. Her wide experience and deep interest in every phase of the work is very helpful to every one who attends these meetings.

The Mullin women made us feel very welcome. We registered at the door, where a committee met and welcomed us, and took charge of our lunches, and seated us in the auditorium. Between forty and fifty visitors attended the meeting, and seemed to have had a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. Flora Jackson led the devotional reading and discussed the parable of the talents in a most interesting manner. It was enjoyed by every one. Mrs. Leigh made the happy comment that Mrs. Jackson was evidently led by Divine power to say the needed things to start the meeting in a beautiful way.

Mrs. Byler, our efficient and talented associational president led the song service, followed by a short business session.

Mrs. Sivells gave us a short talk on the progress of the work in the district, which was quite inspirational and encouraging.

Mrs. Leigh's explanation of the three books studied, was very instructive and enjoyable. It will make taking the examinations on these books, and obtaining our seals, so much easier for each of us, in our home churches.

The lunch served was excellent and enjoyed by all. The fellowship was most delightful. The Mullin church is growing in a fine way, under the leadership of their pastor, Bro. Cooper, and his charming and consecrated wife.

The Mullin people have always been noted for their hospitality, but we feel that they "out-did" themselves this time. It was indeed a most enjoyable and profitable meeting, thanks to the good women of the Mullin church. REPORTER

The commissioners court met Monday and Tuesday of this week as a Board of Equalization and ordered notices sent out to notify those whose renditions should be changed to appear and show cause why such change should not be made.

Colorado River Flood Subsides

All roads but one were reported open in Mills county yesterday after almost a week of rain.

After being out of its banks since Saturday and most of that time at the highest stage since 1931, the Colorado river is now falling rapidly and is expected to reach a normal flow in a short time. Highway 81 to San Saba was opened Wednesday, after being closed for a week by overflows, first by the San Saba river and later by the Colorado river. Backwater from the Colorado inundated two separate stretches of highway between Prescott creek and the bridge.

Crews of state highway workmen have been busy filling in washed out places in the highway and repairing damaged bridges and culverts. Work on the new bridge over Prescott creek has been delayed by the overflow, but except for the loss of a few timbers, no damage resulted there.

The bridge over the Bayou at Slack's crossing has been condemned and closed to traffic after being carefully inspected by J. G. Egger, commissioner of precinct 3. Work had started yesterday on a small concrete bridge on Reed's Lane in Big Valley which had been washed out by the high water.

In the eastern edge of the county the Boykin crossing over Bennett creek southwest of Star was reported impassible because of the quantity of gravel and loose sand washed in by the high rise there.

A Pleasant Outing

Circle No. 1 of the First Baptist church gathered at the home of Mrs. E. B. Anderson last Thursday afternoon to await the arrival of all the members, then to proceed to the fair park to have our farewell gathering for the year. Each one carried a well filled basket and, needless to say, it was well enjoyed.

The day was very dreary, but each one was filled with the same spirit that had prevailed throughout the year, and as the association of each other had been so pleasant and profitable, the rainy weather was soon forgotten and a merry time was enjoyed by all.

Upon arriving, we built a fire and then spread lunch. We had everything good to eat, even to the "Johnson cornbread cake" was perfectly delicious.

After everyone had eaten—entirely too much—we gathered around the fire and each one told the most important things they had learned during our series of Bible study.

Each talk was very good, as they brought out the things that had impressed them most.

We want to thank our chairman and teacher for their untiring efforts and feel like the time had been well spent.

The time came all too soon to go, but as the evening sun began to fade away, we realized it was time to depart, each one expressing themselves as having the best time they had had, in a long time. REPORTER

Commencement Exercises

Last night, thirty-three proud, happy seniors of the Goldthwaite high school marched down the aisle of the school auditorium and took their places on the stage.

Dean Davis of John Tarleton Agriculture College was the principal speaker of the evening, and he delivered an address that will never be forgotten by the graduating class of 1935.

The program for the evening was well planned and carried out to a perfection. The diplomas were presented to the members of the senior class by Dean Davis. Many of the seniors did not realize just how much they were going to miss Goldthwaite high school until they marched forward to receive their diplomas, which marked the last page in their high school history.

The seniors wish to extend appreciation to all who helped in making the exercise a successful and enjoyable occasion. The seniors, especially wish to thank Supt. A. H. Smith, who has worked so diligently in their behalf this year.

Appreciation to Mrs. Sullivan

By Naomi Langford

The Girl's Glee club of Goldthwaite high school wishes to express their appreciation to Mrs. Sam Sullivan, who has worked so consistently for their welfare during this past year.

We are sure that we could not have had a better or more agreeable instructor, and we are pleased that we had the opportunity to work with and to study under the tutorage of Mrs. Sullivan.

In enumerating some of the specific things which Mrs. Sullivan did for us, we might mention the trip to Belton, where we entered the Texas Annual Musical Meet, and were good enough to win second place. Also, the trip to Brady, where we sang for the Brady P. T. A. Mrs. Sullivan provided transportation and was solicitous of our every desire during the entire journey. In addition, she was good enough to spend two evenings a week in practice and would give us private instruction at any time we desired.

To repeat, Mrs. Sullivan is our ideal of an instructor and associate, and the Girl's Glee club will always remember her as a staunch and loyal friend.

Thirty Million Miles of Ford Economy

MORE MILES. Faster miles. Greater economy . . . that is the story of the Ford V-8. There are conclusive figures from owners to show that it is the most economical Ford car ever built.

A particularly interesting and complete report of costs comes from a national fleet owner who has owned 854 Ford cars which have run more than thirty million miles in business use.

175 were Model T Fords which were run 5,017,075 miles. 599 were Model A Ford cars which were run 24,041,632 miles. 80 are Ford V-8 cars which have been run 2,982,896 miles.

This owner's cost records show that Ford V-8 cars cost 12% less to operate than the Model A Fords and 31% less than the Model T Fords. And they covered more miles per month! The monthly average for the Model T Fords was 1509 miles. . . . For the Model A Fords, 1856 miles. . . . And 2571 miles for the Ford V-8.

Each year the Ford car gives you more in value and performance and costs you less to operate.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theodor's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theodor's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

NATURAL GAS WASTAGE STOPPED

The end of an era which can be described as one of the most disgraceful in the history of the state has now fortunately materialized in the passage by the legislature of a bill to stop the appalling waste of natural gas, chiefly in the world's largest gas field in the Panhandle. After two years of perhaps the most wanton dissipation of a natural resource known to mankind, the consummate political folly of two years ago—a harmless appearing measure which, when passed, began to wreck incalculable havoc with posterity—has been corrected. No longer will stripping plants and carbon black plants be permitted to blow irretrievably into the air natural gas of far greater value than the meagre gasoline recovered and the carbon black manufactured. Three thousand cubic feet of gas were wasted to produce one gallon of gasoline; 94c worth of gas was blown into the air to return 6c worth of gasoline. One thousand cubic feet of gas were burned to produce one pound of carbon black, which in turn sold for only three to five cents. Less than 3 per cent of the heat energy of the gas was saved for public use, and over 97 per cent was wasted. Wastage in 1933 of 275,000,000,000 cubic feet grew in 1934 to the astounding figure of 483,000,000,000. By January of this year the total wastage daily in the Panhandle field had amounted to 1,600,000,000 cubic feet, far greater than the quantity utilized in Texas for all purposes and about 60 per cent higher than the average domestic and commercial consumption in the entire United States. The natural gas wasted each year was equal to 62,534,000 barrels of fuel oil, enough barrels to form a solid belt around the world. So staggering were these statistics that a public accustomed to wrestling with the modest figures of personal budgets found it difficult to comprehend their significance. Yet during the ten minutes the reader requires to read these comments here, enough gas is being wasted in the Panhandle field to supply his needs for a hundred years. Because the waste still goes on. Only about 10 per cent of the billion cubic feet of daily waste was stopped immediately by enactment of the bill. So wide had become the ramifications of the industry created by the bill that periods varying from three to five months were allowed to permit the industrial adjustment thought necessary by the legislature. But at least the end is now in sight. Irreparable damage has been done, of course. A bountiful natural gas field whose life was measured in decades has now become measured in years. Prodigal waste of this precious resource was so rapidly depleting the field that the people not only of West Texas, but of the dozen or more Southwestern and Middle Western states served by the field would have suffered the distress of scarcity in a very few years. Whether remedial action has been taken promptly enough to escape the righteous accusations of posterity is a question which posterity alone can decide.—Texas Weekly.

BIG VALLEY

Rain! Rain! It seems that rain is the order of the day. It has rained so much around us and above us that the Colorado river has been unable to take care of its large supply of water and, as a result, it has flooded the bottoms and fields. Many fields of corn and oats have been damaged by the water. As I am writing this letter, it is still out of banks, but is falling slowly.

Even though last week was a bad, rainy week, there has been quite a bit of visiting.

Mrs. Hugh Nelson and little daughter visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Knowles, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Weaver last Wednesday night.

Mohler Oelshy and family of Center City visited in the home of Mrs. Sena Ezzell Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hale and little daughter and Miss Piper, spent Sunday in the Harvey Hale home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dewbre and little daughter of Maytown visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Knowles, over the week end.

Miss Laura Nelson, who has been teaching school at Melvin, is at home now.

John Burnett has been real sick. He is some better at this writing and we hope he will soon be better.

Miss Nell Miller, who has been attending Wayland college at Plainview, is at home for the summer.

Joe Peck and family of near Goldthwaite attended church Sunday. Mr. Peck and family used to live in Big Valley and we are always glad to have them with us. They visited a short while in the Cockrell home Sunday evening.

Little John Cooke has been ill. We hope he will soon be better.

Mr. and Mrs. Delton Barnett and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Brim made a short visit in the Cockrell home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Long attended the baccalaureate services in Goldthwaite Sunday.

Several of the young folks enjoyed a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hale Monday night. All report a fine time.

Mr. Burns' brother-in-law from Ballinger, visited him Friday night.

Miss Loraine Dusey is at home. She has been teaching school at Center Point.

Miss Flora Weaver spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Weaver.

Last Saturday morning Mrs. Cockrell and her sister, Miss Lucy Smith, received a severe fall. Mrs. Cockrell received a wrenched back and is unable to be up. Miss Lucy Smith is getting along nicely.

Word has been received that Bro. Jarrett is dead. Bro. Jarrett is an old citizen of Big Valley. He was pastor for several years of this church here. His many friends here join the bereaved in their hour of sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Turner and little daughter have moved back into our community. Mr. Turner has been teaching at Algeria, in San Saba county. We are glad to have them with us again.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Nelson and little daughter visited in the valley Sunday.

There was quite a few of the people who lived right on the river who had to move out on account of high water.

I'm sure they are getting anxious for the river to go down.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Burnett visited his father, John Burnett, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sykes attended services at town Sunday. Little James Burns is on the sick list this week. We hope he is better soon.

Mrs. Homer Weaver has been staying with her father, Mr. Cockrell, helping with the sick folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Miller attended services in Goldthwaite Sunday.

School was out here Monday. Some were glad and some sad. The close of school always brings a touch of sadness, even though we are glad it is vacation time, for we may not all meet in the classes next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doggett and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Yates stopped a short while at Riverside Fruit farm Sunday.

BLUEJAY

EBONY

Almost a cloud burst of rain fell here Friday afternoon. It was followed by a rainy, stormy night. Corn was damaged by hail and by being washed down with water.

In spite of the heavy rain, the picnic came off Saturday, though there was not such a large crowd as there probably would have been had the weather been more favorable.

It was the first time in the history of our annual picnic that there had been a dancing platform on the grounds. We were surprised that so many, who might have thought little about seeing it at other places, expressed regret at seeing it here. Perhaps this sentiment was the result of the high moral and spiritual standards of some of our leaders who now sleep in the cemetery near by. Or, perhaps most of us, from some influence in our lives, just subconsciously feel that the public dance, drunken boys and girls flaunting cigarettes are a sign of lowered standards and moral and spiritual decay.

School closed Friday. The closing program took place Thursday night. Though it was raining some, a good audience attended and the conduct was highly commendable.

John Lewis Singleton of Indian Creek attended the play here Thursday night and spent the night with Gene Wilmethe.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Roberts and children of Brownwood attended the picnic here Saturday and spent the night with Mr. Roberts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wood Roberts.

Mrs. J. M. Ketchum went to San Angelo last week to attend the funeral of her brother-in-law, J. V. Ketchum.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Briley took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Dwyer Sunday after church.

Jodie Caldwell of Brownwood preached here Sunday. He does not expect to be here the first Sunday in June as he will be visiting his parents, and teaching a training class at his home in Amarillo at that time, but he will try to send some one to fill his appointment.

Herman Glen Egger, who has been staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Egger, and attending school here, has returned to his home at Ridge.

Mrs. Mildred Roberts returned to her work in San Antonio Wednesday. She was accompanied by her little son, Charles Stanley Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lovelace and Joyce, from near Bangs, attended the picnic here Saturday afternoon. They were welcomed by many friends as this was their home until a just a few months ago. They spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Clements.

Mr. Wharton, minister of the Church of Christ at Brownwood, will preach here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

TEXLAHOMA

The plan to form a new State out of sixty-nine counties, taken partly from Texas and partly from Oklahoma, will, of course, fall flat. Presumably the counties themselves, let alone the two states and the federal government would never give consent. But what an attractive name was selected for the unborn baby!

The promoters of the plan give as their reason an alleged "rank discrimination by present states against the counties within the described territories by those in official authority." So far as Texas is concerned, similar complaints are not uncommon. The area of the state is large and the state government is really unable properly to legislate wisely for the many-sided interests within the state. Hence, from time to time there have been suggestions that Texas be divided into several states so as to permit of greater attention to regional interests. State pride and the dread of a shocking multiplication of politicians and taxes would surely oppose formidable barriers to any such proposal.

Yet the situation complained of is real and should be met whenever our much bepatched Constitution is revised. It would be easily possible to apply the theory of the federation to conditions in Texas, dividing the area of the state into its several natural regions and arranging that each have its own autonomous government in local affairs. Each would send representatives to the state legislature, following somewhat closely the analogy of our own American system, or those of the English country-shires, or the French departments.

The essential point is that there are in Texas real grievances due to legislative neglect, grievances that can not be removed under the present cumbersome system contained in the state constitution. It is time for our political leaders to give careful attention to the situation, so as to devise a plan that will satisfy the several regions of the state. This would head off any tendency for the splitting of Texas into several petty states. Dallas News.

LOS ANGELES GET GASOLINE WITH BUCKETS

An Associated Press dispatch says that in Los Angeles hundreds of persons started a wild stampede to the harbor district Wednesday, after an underground lake, said by Fire Chief Scott to consist of pure gasoline, was discovered.

The rush was started when persons found that by digging shallow wells at Anaheim Road and Badger avenue in the Wilmington district, they could bale out gasoline in buckets.

The fire chief stated the underground deposit of gasoline was too great to be accounted for by seepage from the "oil farms" where numerous companies store gasoline in metal tanks. The oilfield is the only other source of the liquid.

The First 500 Miles Are the Sanest

Every ten automobile accidents which in 1934 involved errors resulted from too fast, it is shown by reports by the Travelers Insurance Co. This fact is brought out in ways by the statistics on accidents, among which mount factor is rural territories than in urban districts. In 1933, the latest year that such statistics are available, the death rate from automobile accidents increased 6.4 per cent compared to 1932. In urban districts it increased 4.5 per cent while in rural territories it increased 10.1 per cent. From 1925 to 1933 inclusive, the total death rate from automobile accidents increased 58.7 per cent, although in urban districts it increased only 32.8 per cent. In rural territories, however, the rate of death jumped 101.9 per cent.

Many motorists fail to appreciate the fact that "the person who always drives at a reasonable rate of speed saves gasoline, trouble, money and human life." Don Herold in his cartoon above hits the nail on the head. He wonders why drivers usually are so careful breaking in new cars but are so careless with their own lives and the lives of others just as soon as the "breaking-in" distance has been traveled.

Factory Expansion Promised

The most encouraging business report that has come from a responsible source in many months was issued by the National Association of Manufacturers, forecasting expenditure of 20 billion dollars in factory expansion, renovation and rehabilitation, and an outlay of other billions for durable goods—if congress and the administration co-operate to remove legislative obstacles.

The association, basing its conclusions upon an extensive study of the economic situation, said, "Careful analysis of the business outlook indicates that this country today is closer to breaking the back of the depression than at any time since the forces of recovery began working through the world in 1932."

The manufacturers asked congress and the federal government to co-operate by eliminating uncertainties as to future legislation, and said, "This means the laying aside temporarily of any legislation which is not aimed directly and positively at ending the depression and restoring the millions of idle persons to work within private industry, and the adjournment of congress as soon as possible."

Lawrence of Arabia

With the death Sunday in England of Col. T. E. Lawrence a legendary figure passes from the stage of modern history. Although there are already those who claim that Lawrence's claims to fame for his exploits in Arabia during the World War have been grossly exaggerated, it is still too early to pass final judgment on his place in history.

Certain it is that no man ever tried harder to escape the praise of the public. While every Allied nation sought to heap honors upon him, Lawrence endeavored to slip out of sight by changing his name to Shaw and enlisting in the English Air Force as a simple soldier.

A few weeks ago he completed his enlistment period and retired to a secluded cottage in Dorsetshire. It was there that he received the accident that caused his death.

Lawrence, the man, is dead, but Lawrence, the crusading echevalier of Araby, passed out with the Armistice. It seems reasonable to believe that he realized then that no matter what he did or tried to do thereafter, it would follow his war record as an anti-climax.

Kill Mosquitoes Now

A sure sequel to the bountiful rains that have recently fallen here is a bumper crop of mosquitoes. The unusual quantity of stagnant water that is now standing provides an ideal place for the wigglers to grow up in and start their nefarious careers.

Fortunately for thin-skinned folks, mosquitoes rarely travel far from the places in which they hatch. If you will make sure that there are no hatching places within 100 yards of your home, you can escape at least 90 per cent of the marauders.

But it takes sharp eyes to cope with Old Lady Mosquito. A few drops of water, if they do not evaporate promptly, will serve her purpose as well as a tub. Some of the places she is most likely to use are tin cans, roof gutters, old auto casings, bottles, drains from ice boxes, sinks and bath tubs, cess pools and the like. Where it is not practicable to drain off the water entirely a little kerosene will form a film over the water that will smother the wiggle-tails before they graduate into stingers. And every wiggler stopped now will save thousands, perhaps millions, later on.

Kill the mosquitoes now.

Bigger Purchases or Smaller Sales

All of the furore that is being raised over the increasing shipments of cotton goods from Japan to the United States reminds us that Japan is one of the best if not the best customer of Texas cotton raisers. She naturally wants to know why she should be upbraided because she is shipping some of this same cotton back to this country in the form of finished goods.

And the cotton producer who, even with the benefit of the processing taxes, is not making any money out of cotton raising, naturally wants to know why he should not be allowed to buy cotton goods at low prices once more.

It seems to us that the Texas Weekly is on the right track in its campaign to open up the restricted lanes of international commerce and let raw materials and finished goods circulate naturally without the restraining influence of tariffs and embargoes. Approving such a program is one thing, but working out a practical means of achieving it without wrecking American industry is something else. But surely nothing should be done now to curtail Japan's purchases of American cotton.

Better Lateral Roads

Now that the program for state highways is well under way in Mills county, it is time that more attention be given to the lateral and connecting roads of the county. The recent rainy weather has shown exactly where these lateral roads need most attention. In most cases the county commissioners are giving them prompt treatment.

But the limited amount of road funds at the disposal of the commissioners means that in most cases the benefit is only temporary and will disappear with the next heavy rain. Stream crossings need more than an occasional scraping out if they are to be serviceable in bad weather. Muddy roads need to be plated with gravel and in some cases graded up with crushed rock.

It is now possible to secure Federal Aid for improving these lateral roads and the sooner Mills county secures such assistance, the sooner can her "feeder" roads be put in shape.

Water Worth Billions

Figured at 25c per thousand gallons, the rains that have recently fallen in Texas are worth one and one-third billion dollars according to the Texas Board of Water Engineers. That sounds a good deal like the figuring of those chain-letter enthusiasts, but at any rate Texas has the water while most of the chain letter fans are still waiting for their dimes.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

After a brief respite from the strenuous four-months' session of the legislature, just ended, Texas politicians will gird their loins and sail into another fight—the battle over repeal of the state constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor in Texas. The legislature adopted a double barreled prohibition repeal amendment which will be submitted to the voters. The first section, to be passed upon by the people August 24, 1935, simply provides for outright repeal of the prohibition amendment, leaving the matter of regulation of the sale of liquor to the legislature, if the amendment is adopted.

The second section provides that in the general election of 1936, the people shall pass upon the question of whether the sale of liquor exclusively by the state shall be permitted. Thus the wets are actually given two chances. If repeal should fail in August, it might carry, under the state monopoly system, in November, 1936. If repeal carries in August, it is safe to say the state monopoly system probably will not be adopted by the legislature until the people pass upon that issue the following year. Probably a high license system, with possibly no sale except in unbroken packages will be preferred by the lawmakers for a year's tryout.

Hotel operators and others interested in profiting from the retail sale of liquor by the drink, will doubtless make a terrific fight against the unbroken package system, if the people sanction legal sale of liquor again in Texas. The first called session of the 44th legislature, which will be held in September—as predicted in this column more than a month ago—will be the scene of a memorable battle of lobbyists, as was the regular session.

The legislature, despite widespread criticism of its dilatory tactics, passed oil legislation that will undoubtedly yield considerable additional revenue, and will aid the fight on "hot" oil, thus combatting attempts to impose federal control upon Texas' oil resources. In the closing hours, the tax on crude oil was slightly increased and additional funds were allocated to the railroad commission for enforcement purposes, thus insuring more efficiency and a better pay standard for grossly underpaid employees of the commission's oil and gas division.

It also stopped forever the senseless waste of a great natural resource by making casing-head gasoline from "sweet" gas, and blowing the gas—amounting to a billion feet a day—into the air.

Tremendously important was final passage of the bill advocated by the attorney general to permit the state to confiscate and sell "hot" or illegal oil in the possession of owners and transporters. The state has been under a handicap heretofore. Its officials might know of the presence of millions of barrels of illegal oil, and know that this oil would be illegally put into the channels of commerce at the first opportunity by the owners, but they could do nothing about it, except try to prevent its movement. Now they can seize such oil, sell it, and appropriate the proceeds to the state. Trucks being used for movement of "hot" oil and its products are also subject to seizure and confiscation.

With over 200 bills and resolutions, rushed through during the closing hours, on his desk to be acted upon during the next 20 days, Gov. Allred this week is facing one of the hardest tasks of his career. He will endeavor to pass upon the most important bills this week, and then, with Mrs. Allred, will seek respite from the tremendous pressure under which he has been working for weeks, by taking the tour of the south with the Texas Press Association's Centennial Special train. The train will leave from Houston with 125 Texans boosting the Centennial. The governor will present to President Roosevelt in Washington on behalf of Texas, the joint resolution adopted by the legislature, inviting the president and other Washington notables to the centennial celebration in 1936.

The legislature apparently still believes that a new constitution

Health Hint

The call of the open spaces is with us again, the old swimming hole, lake, river and shore all have their devotees, but in the contemplation of the good times we are going to have on the water, let us pause a moment to resolve that we will not be one of the unfortunate victims that each year is added to the toll of those drowned.

If you expect to spend some time near the water, learn to swim. It is not difficult; you will soon learn to keep afloat, and better still, lose that dreadful fear and panic into which a person is thrown who knows nothing about swimming when he finds himself beyond his depth. Just the ability to keep afloat a few minutes, may mean life. Those of you who can swim! Remember, it is not always the non-swimmer who is drowned. Don't let the knowledge that you are a good swimmer make you foolhardy; you can have just as much fun swimming parallel to the shore as trying to make the other side, and it is much safer. It is much more fun to swim with a companion than alone. Don't dive unless you know where you are "heading."

Have you ever stood helplessly by and seen a bungling attempt to resuscitate a drowning person, minutes lost when seconds are precious? The prone pressure method should be started at once. You can learn the proper method in a few minutes yourself.

Swimming is one of the best of sports from a health standpoint, but needs to be indulged in with a proper respect for the possible hazards involved. Incidentally, middle aged and older persons should be physically checked up before engaging too strenuously in this form of activity.

DO YOU KNOW

Ship building in the United States represents only one per cent of the world's total output. Slightly more than half of the land in the United States is in farms.

Older Indians in the Grand Coulee Dam districts blame accidents to workmen at the dam on the ire of the "Great Spirit." for Texas is not necessary, but that the people can rewrite the basic law by voting yes or no on a patchwork of amendments, from year to year. This time nine amendments were submitted. The voters have demonstrated their lack of confidence in this method of writing fundamental law by voting "no" on other long slates of amendments several times. Eventually, a constitutional convention will be convoked, and Texans will write a new basic law for governing the state in an orderly, efficient manner. Meanwhile, the glaring deficiencies of the present outmoded constitution continue to hamper efficiency in state government, and attract many incompetent candidates for state offices. Some of them are successful in the elections.

The drivers' license law, the governor's bill to create a state authority for the Detroit-St. Louis gas pipeline project, the public utility regulation bill, and race track repeal were important measures that went down to defeat. These are certain to be issues before the special session, as will the matter of funds to continue state participation in relief work, as well as the general subject of the state deficit and taxation to wipe it out.

Views of the Nation's Press on Topics of Interest and Importance

ILLCONSIDERED LEGISLATION

A bill with amazing provisions (house bill No. 187) is now before the governor for his signature or veto. With almost no publicity it was speeded through both houses of the legislature.

It would tax premium payments on all insurance policies, save life policies, 2 per cent, the funds to go into a firemen's disability and pension fund in all towns having fire fighting equipment of value of more than $1000, and having a "regularly organized fire department whether paid, partly paid, or voluntary."

The purpose is, of course, good, but the method is unwise and highly unjust. It would tax all policy holders—for the cost would necessarily be passed on to them—regardless of whether they benefit from fire protection. The country home owner, the ginners, warehousemen and the like would all be required to pay into a fund from which they could get no benefit whatsoever.

The man who carries no insurance and is more dependent than anyone else on the efficiency and faithfulness of fire fighters, would pay nothing, while the person who purchases fire insurance protection, undertakes to live up to all the safety regulations, and stands to lose least if the fire fighters fail him, is loaded with the entire burden of firemen's pensions.

This sort of public expenditures obviously should be on a taxation basis, and the burden prorated among those who receive the benefit of fire department protection. Under bill 187 it becomes another burden on all improved real estate.

The measure would provide disability allowances and pensions for members of voluntary companies, as well as firemen who have been regularly employed all their lives. A case can be made for disability or accident payments to volunteers, but certainly these volunteers—often far more numerous than need be—do not sacrifice economic opportunities because of their occasional service in a fire department. There is surely no reason why such slight service, costing the volunteer nothing, should be rewarded with a retirement pension.

There are many other questionable provisions in the bill, but these obvious and glaring injustices and inequities should be sufficient to condemn it in the sight of all fair-minded and common sense persons. The governor should speedily veto it.—Houston Chronicle.

BETTER RURAL ROADS

This is the season of the year when it becomes most apparent that great strides are still to be made in the improvement of farm to market roads—roads that mean much to every merchant and resident in a community, where farming is the principal business.

While highways of which we are justly proud have been obtained to connect metropolitan centers, every spring brings unpleasant reminders that country roads for the most part are still of the type that becomes rutted and muddy—probably impassable at times—for several days or weeks each spring, depending on the season. Increased use of trucks to transport farm produce makes the need for better roads more pressing.

Fortunately, progress in science of road building brings the vision of a complete network of hard-surfaced rural roads within the realm of possibilities. Stable all-weather roads developed through soil studies by the U. S. bureau of public roads, and constructed by the proper mixture of local materials and calcium chloride, are inexpensive in first cost and greatly reduce the cost of maintenance.

Hundreds of miles of such roads have already been constructed, principally in Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota and Ohio, and the method of construction is rapidly becoming standardized.

As with every other community improvement project, the goal can not be reached at once.

SUSPICIOUS LICENSE PLATES

Automobile license plates which are displayed so prominently fore and aft on every car are more than acknowledgement by the state that the required tax has been paid. The plates' most important function in support of law and order and safety is the identification they offer.

For that reason, knowledge that at least 2000 automobile licenses have been issued in Saint Louis during the current year to persons who gave fictitious names or addresses or both is disturbing and the police are to be encouraged in their efforts to trace out the plates and learn what is back of such misrepresentations.

In the regular order of business the licensing bureau mails receipts for automobile license purchases to the name and address given by the purchaser, when he pays his fee and carries away his license plates. If this seems to be cumbersome and a waste of time and postage, facts now coming to the attention of the public prove that it has value in spite of the extra cost in time and postage. It serves as a very excellent check on the integrity of licensee, giving a measure of substance to the honesty of the licensee in cases where receipts are deliverable by the mailman and creating doubt of the honesty and purposes of those who have given their right to operate cars.

While it is conceivable that a few of the persons whose license receipts have not been delivered because of fictitious name or address have misled the licensing authorities through honest inadvertence, in the majority of cases the persons who took out their licenses and gave false names or addresses did so with the sole purpose of avoiding identification in case of accident or crime, or with the possible purpose of avoiding personal property taxes.

It is to be hoped that all of these license plates are traced back to their undercover owners, if for no other reason than that of getting the records straight so we can follow an automobile number to its owner in any of the many cases we have reason for such a step. In the meantime the police no doubt have reference lists of these alias numbers and are on the lookout that owners may be halted and questioned.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

AIR HEROISM

Our prayer was once against the perils that confront those who go down to the sea in ships. It must be lifted now for those who face the risks of the air. There is no safety guarantee even for the skilled pilot and the proven plane, just as there is none for the finest deluxe liner afloat. The thrilling experience and fortunate escape from death of Kingsford-Smith and Taylor, jubilee flyers in the veteran Southern Cross, are not isolated instances.

But flying skill and human courage and resource indorse once more the truism that the valiant taste of death but once. Navigator P. C. Taylor joins the ranks of those of all ages who have confronted and beaten extreme peril because he would not quit in the face of disaster. The picture that Kingsford-Smith draws of Taylor, crawling out six times on the wings of the threatened plane in order to siphon oil from the damaged motor to recruit the supply of those still working, needs no imagination to indicate the sheer daring of the move.

Death strikes when man hides his face against the blow. He sometimes spares the brave who look him in the eye unafraid.—Dallas News.

But "Better Rural Roads" is an aim which every civic and farm organization should include in its program for community improvement, and is an objective which should have the support of every resident of a rural community or village. Safe, hard-surfaced rural roads are a definite business asset to every community.—Liberty, Ind., Herald.

FUTURE OF S...

Trying to figure out the future is going to be always good clean fun, especially attractive if more or less dissatisfied present. And when you are your figuring, you can better than get a chemist you.

For an imaginative can see things that would a Jules Verne or an H. He can show us a future like a magic wonderland which is more to the can also persuade a knows what he is talking.

Thomas Midgley, Jr., of the board of the Chemical Society, was filer into the future at a convention of chemists in New York. He foresaw some things.

A century from now, predicted, the discovery sources of energy will be inter-planetary travel. It will also have industry to such extent hours will be the length of the working malades as cancer and epidemic diseases will be abolished.

This, he added, was a starter. He shall be chickens the size of pig and will be laying eggs the footballs. People won't any more, because defecations will be strong make an offensive impact.

Television will be per such an extent that national conventions will be staying right in homes—which ought to break in several ways.

All this adds up to a remarkably like a pig. But the odd thing about that none of these are impossible. A century Mr. Midgley may look exceedingly conservative a tious prophet. In the world, the race is able to about anything that line.

And that emphasizes strange new conditions which the race is laboring days. Its greatest problem no longer connected struggle to master the environment; they have with intangibles—the economics, social organization and internal relations.

We know, now, eventually we shall ease and hunger and of scarcity, and that equip ourselves with the kind of mechanical power seems desirable. The is what we are going ourselves after we advances.

Shall we learn how along together so that make the life of the man being happier, richer? Can we adjust to an age in which the problem will be the human relationship?—S. J. Gelo Times.

RELIEF FROM

In a little story from light is thrown on just relief problem means—patience is going to be to work it out.

In London, one Fred unemployed father of three, was sentenced to a month at hard labor to learn a trade in the ment training classes. British regulations provide a relief beneficiary that he has made an effort to get work.

But the interesting is that Head had been about $8.50 a week in since 1923. For 12 years he had paid this money because it had been given him a chance to after 12 years of that refused to go to the because he said it was of time."

It is to avoid this that an effort is now to substitute work for in this country.—Moklahoma, News-Capital.

BOY'S BI-COLORED HAIR AND EYES GIVE GENETIC PUZZLE TO SCIENTISTS

Mildford Price, 3 1-2, of Los Angeles, Calif., half of whose face is light, with blond hair and a blue eye, while the other side is dark with red hair and brown eye, may be quite literally partly his mother and partly his father. Or the explanation may be a different sort of streak of heredity. Three well-known scientists in genetics, who studied his photographs, enumerated several hereditary possibilities. Only study of his family history, they said, might show which explanation applies to Wilford.

If he is literally partly mother and partly father, it means that not merely appearance, such as pigment, but the texture of one side of his face is his mother's and the other side is his father's.

Dr. Harry H. Laughlin of the genetics record office of the Carnegie institution of Washington, who mentions this identity possibility, adds:

"It does not look like that to me, but simply a case of a white lock of hair. (Indeed, I presume that the Whitlock family originated from such a trait.) We have a number of pedigrees and photographs of the 'Whitlocks' in the files of this office."

Dr. Albert F. Blakeslee, acting director of the department of genetics of the same institution says such combinations as Wilford shows are fairly common in the jimson weed, an unusually versatile plant.

Wilford's case, he says, might indicate a linkage between eye color and hair, something which has not been determined definitely in human beings yet.

Dr. C. H. Danforth of the department of anatomy, Stanford University, writes: "It is true that white spots in the hair or patches of hair of two colors, are not very uncommon. This kind of spotting in human beings is generally hereditary, often extending through many generations."

"Another condition which also might be called spotting affects the eye color, without necessarily involving the hair. At the present time I have a strain of cats in which the disposition to have one blue eye and one brown eye, appears to be definitely hereditary. But the blue or the brown eye may be on either the right or the left."

Another possibility for Wilford mentioned by Dr. Danforth is a "chromosomal nondisjunction." This would result in a somewhat different constitution of one part of the body, as compared with another. In that case, if Wilford has brothers and sisters, some of them might be expected to be light and others dark.

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—My first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all of the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now feel like a new man."

BLOOD WASHED AND RETURNED

Russian scientists are predicting, says Dr. E. E. Free, that in the future medical science will be able to draw off human blood, cleanse it of poisons or disease germs and then return it to the body of the patient. There are still problems to be solved, but the Russians claim such an experiment has already been performed on a monkey. Half of the animal's blood was removed and kept outside the body for an hour. When it was returned it is claimed that the monkey recovered. Similar experiments with small amounts of blood have also been performed on humans. According to the experimenters the poisons or germs could be absorbed or dissolved by agents harmless to the blood.—Pathfinder.

IS IT A LOSING BATTLE?

The recent renewed weakness in the quotation of the French franc on the foreign exchange markets again reflects the now familiar phenomenon of the disturbance in currencies which has been shifting from one member of the gold bloc to another for some time past. At the moment, nervousness concerning the outlook for the franc appears to reflect chiefly concern over the increased French military expenditures, which come at a time when the French budget already shows a substantial deficit.

The exact size of the French budgetary deficit is not a fundamental factor affecting the monetary policy of the country, however. The fact of the matter is that the Bank of France, with its gold reserve of more than $5,300,000,000 at the current rate of exchange, is amply able both to support the franc abroad through gold exports and to aid the government in financing its borrowing needs at home. Only an internal popular demand for depreciation that is strong enough to influence governmental policy is likely to effect a change in the present French program of maintaining the gold standard at all costs. Each new flurry in the franc, however, raises anew the issue of devaluation within the country, and the reiterated British position that the gold bloc countries should devalue encourages the advocates of such action within France.

The remaining members of the gold bloc at the moment appear determined to maintain the parity of their currencies at least until such time as a world-wide stabilization should be attempted. Their ability to do this definitely is predicated upon popular support. This in turn will depend largely upon the course of internal business conditions. Should the depression and deflation in these countries be intensified, then advocates of maintenance of the gold standard may find that they are fighting a losing battle.—New York Journal of Commerce.

To prevent motor damage when you

...you must have oil of high film strength!

DID YOU know that idling along at 10 miles an hour or picking up suddenly can cause as much motor wear as high-speed driving?

All three put extreme pressure on your connecting rod and crankshaft bearings. If your oil does not have enough oiliness and film strength to withstand these high pressures, your motor parts suffer damaging wear. That's why you need oil with the greatest possible oiliness and film strength.

Straight mineral oils have no more oiliness and film strength than they had 10 years ago. Some, because of over-refining, have less!

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has more oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than straight mineral oils! The Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly-refined, paraffin-base oil—puts into this oil more film strength and oiliness than any oil possesses naturally, no matter what crude oil it is made from!

That extra film strength and oiliness enable Germ Processed Oil to stay on the job and prevent wear under the most extreme pressure and heat. It helps Germ Processed Oil give long mileage with greater motor protection, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Germ Processed Oil protects your motor another way. Because it penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, it forms a "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and cuts down wear during the starting period.

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil is the oil you need in this day of slow city driving, speed on the highway and sudden acceleration everywhere. It protects your motor and saves you money!

DRAMATIC SCHOOL

Beginning June 3 the National Junior Shakespeare Club will form a chapter here, and as Mrs. O. L. Allen has been selected as supervisor by the club's state representative, Mrs. Lucille Vinson, because of her special qualifications in music and expression and her interest in children, the chapter is sure to be a success. The sessions will be held each morning from 8 until 9 o'clock during the week.

The club is educational in purpose and is designed to give grade and junior high school children a combination course in expression, dramatics and story telling, based on the works of the famous bard, in simplified form and in such a way that it will appear like play to them. At the same time it prepares them for their high school English studies.

Until the number of members enrolled is ascertained, the plan is to have one club. If, however, there is sufficient number, the children will be divided by ages or grades. An appropriate Shakespearean name will be given each chapter or club.

Prizes will be offered at various stages and diplomas in elementary dramatic arts will be awarded each child who has finished the prescribed course.

The National Club now reaches into practically every state and has been immensely successful. Aside from the fact that members of the club are improving their education and mastery of English, the social feature is thoroughly enjoyed by the children. Parents and teachers have endorsed the plan with enthusiasm.

ROCK SPRINGS

There was Sunday school Sunday morning at the usual hour.

Several from here attended the graduating services Sunday. It was all mighty nice. Bro. Duke's sermon was fine. The choir sang several beautiful numbers. It was a fine group of boys and girls. I am very proud of Miss Robbins, who lives at Center Point. It does not take a large person to be smart. She is very intelligent, as we all know, or she couldn't have been valedictorian. I am also proud of my nephew, Bentley Clements, as he was salutatorian. I wish for each one in the class, as I know most of all of them, the best of success in future life.

This place, Big Valley and Rabbit Ridge were well represented on the Ellis farm Sunday morning and afternoon. They were watching the overflow. There was lots of water to be seen.

Earl Fairman and family, Hammond Bodkin and wife, and Mr. Owen and wife from town, were watching the overflow Sunday afternoon on the Ellis farm.

Clark Davis spent Saturday night with Haskell Gatlin at Rabbit Ridge.

Every pupil was promoted except two. They were small and young or they would have passed. I will miss the teacher and pupils. I wish for each one a cool summer.

Mmes. Ben Davis and Nickols helped Mrs. R. E. Collier to put her quilt in Thursday afternoon, so it would be ready for the R. S. Workers Friday afternoon. Mrs. J. R. Davis got there in time to help start the quilting.

Loy Long and family from town, Richard Souders and wife ate dinner and supper in the Ellis home Sunday.

Mrs. Homer Doggett and Janiece spent Saturday night in the Nickols home.

Marion Robertson and family from Rabbit Ridge and J. O. McClary and wife dined in the J.T. Robertson home Sunday.

August Kauchs and wife enjoyed ice cream in the McClary home Saturday night.

James and Shirley Nickols helped Oscar Gatlin Sunday afternoon with his cattle.

Marvin Spinks from Rabbit Ridge sat until bed time in the Nickols home one night last week.

Rudolph Cooke and August Kauchs and wife sat until bed time in the Nickols home Thursday night. Rudolph also spent the day Friday. He needed some barber work done.

Beryl Lee Robertson visited his grandparents the first of the week.

Gus Roush, Jr., spent Saturday and Sunday in town with Cecil Denson and family.

Miss Kathleen Cockrum and her sister, Melba, and husband from Austin, visited in the Kauchs home Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. R. Davis spent last Friday in town with Mmes. Dewbre and Bohannon.

It is tough when you can't get central. My, how we do puff and ring and it won't do any good. Joe Roberts took it upon himself Sunday morning, with the help of his wife and James Nicklos, to work on the line and Sunday afternoon we could get better service.

Jesse Massey and wife and sons spent Sunday afternoon with Joe Roberts and family.

Beryl Turner and family visited Sunday in the Traylor home.

During the hard rains some had turkeys and chickens drown. A. D. Shirley and wife and O.C. Shirley and wife from Indiana spent Monday night with their cousin, Mrs. Nickols, and boys. Tuesday, Mrs. Nickols and cousins spent the day with Otis and Besse Hutchings at Center Point. Monday, they all dined in the C. H. Ford home in town.

We are enjoying the sunshine now. We are glad to know that the river is falling. BUSY BEE

AN IMPARTIAL INDICTMENT

Open resentment against the American silver purchase program has been expressed repeatedly by nations which have been adversely affected. Now the Bank of International Settlements, which has no direct interest in the matter, adds its criticism in its annual report. As the unbiased judgment of an impartial body, the comments contained therein are significant.

The Bank for International Settlements finds that the silver policy has disturbed both the internal monetary and the foreign exchange position of nations whose currencies are on the silver standard. It also finds that the policy has brought no benefits of a monetary nature.

Nevertheless, no modification of the American silver policy is in sight. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau restated, in his broadcast on American monetary policy, our silver program as follows:

"We are also endeavoring to restore silver to greater usefulness as a monetary metal. It is the money of a large part of the world's population."

In view of the fact that China and Mexico are being forced off the silver standard by our buying program, that other countries are melting down silver coins to sell the bullion at high prevailing prices and the demonetization of silver is evidently being rapidly accelerated, Mr. Morgenthau's statement can only cause gasps of amazement. However, when we remember that "restoring silver to greater usefulness" also means placating the senatorial silver bloc, the nonsensical expression of the silver policy does take on some meaning, although of a dubious variety. At any rate, the B. I. S. apparently may conclude that its views will not affect the silver program of the United States in the slightest degree. — New York Journal of Commerce.

Brushing Up For Spring

by Gloria Lane

Spring days are here—and thoughts of that new permanent wave are in the air. But for your hair to take a good, lasting wave, it needs reconditioning to erase the mark that cold, hard winter has left on many a head of hair. After being bottled up under tight hats, your hair is drab and lifeless, to say nothing of the drying effect that over-heated rooms have had on it. The simplest and most highly effective home treatment is correct brushing the hair. A brush with wave-five bristles is especially fine for it penetrates to the scalp, thoroughly massaging and freeing it of surface accumulations. Brushing stirs up the circulation and brings out the natural oil, softening and polishing every strand from the shortest to the longest hair.

You can best give yourself a vibrating treatment when you use a light-weight brush with wave-like bristles. This makes your waves and ringlets snap back with greater buoyancy. Instead of stretching your waves, brushing reinforces them.
