VOLUME VII.

COTTONWOOD FALLS, KANSAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1881.

NUMBER 34.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Opium smokers in Victoria, B. C. pay $5 for a license good for six months.

DR. TANNER is operating in Chicago with a patent for painless tooth pulling.

A FRENCH motto: The orange flower is an ironical emblem of marriage. The blossoms are white, the fruits are yellow.

A MAN has been discovered in New York who lives without lungs. He probably waltzes around on his liver and gall.

OLD JOHN BROWN's widow has been presented with $3,000, which sum was contributed by the people of the Pacific Coast through the newspapers.

VANDERBILT the elder, is not forgotten by the students of Vanderbilt University, Tennessee. They celebrate each one of his birthday anniversaries.

MR. JESSE GRANT, with his wife (nee Chapman) and her brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Chapman, are in London and will remain there for a year or more.

The appraisers of the estate of the late Mark Hopkins, of the Central Pacific Railroad, have filed in San Francisco their account, which foots up a total of $20,700,000.

DURING the last 120 years the only statesmen who have had memorials to them put up in Westminster Abbey have been the two Pitts, Mr. Perceval, Sir Robert Peel and Lord Palmerston.

GEN. SHERMAN will contribute one or more pieces of bronze ordnance, captured from the enemy during the Mexican war with which to cast a statue of the late Gen. John A. Sutter, from Golden Gate Park, San Francisco.

The new road to San Francisco through Arizona runs for 250 miles along a basin that is 250 feet below the level of the ocean. This region has two to four feet of salt and alkali covering its surface. The ground is perfectly white.

CAPTAIN H. H. PARR, an English officer, says that infantry officers, when in uniform, dress shabbily. Sir Garnet Wolseley says that the better you dress a soldier the more highly he will be thought of by women, and consequently by himself.

SECRETARY WINDOM has a trade. He is a tailor, and partly supported himself while at the Martinsburg (Ohio) Academy, by making coats for the village tailors. He is also a Son of Temperance, and was grand worthy patriarch of the order in 1854.

SOPHIE MENTER, a favorite German drawing-room performer on the piano, is spoken of by London Truth as one whose playing is light, gay, sweet and thrilling as a concert of small birds in spring, yet impressive enough to do justice to Beethoven.

A FEMALE miser died at Cornwallville, N. Y., a few days ago. The neighbors took care of her, supporting her an object of charity. After her death $2,600 in money was found, one hundred dresses, forty shawls and a large collection of furniture and pictures.

The statement that ex-Queen Isabella is the owner of thirty acres on Capitol Hill, Washington, and a row of brick houses, is said by the Deputy Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia to be purely imaginary. He has had to answer inquiry on this point more than once in the past twelve years.

That the Princess Louise is "fanatical per la musica" may be guessed from the fact of her telegraphing at the station, immediately on her arrival in London, for the attendance of Prof. Goldberg early on the following day, in order to resume the singing lessons which had been interrupted by her visit to Italy.

The merchant thought the young man wouldn't be up to the business, and so the young man turned to go, and in a dreamy sort of a way quite unconsciously took the merchant's silk umbrella, and the merchant said: "Hold on, young man; I guess you can sell goods. I'll try you anyway." And that clerk was a honest boy, but he understood human nature and knew how to get a job.

In the London Court of Common Council, it was resolved that a bust of Lord Beaconsfield be executed in marble, in lasting memory of the deceased statesman, at an expense not exceeding £250, and that it be referred to the City Lands committee to carry the resolution into effect. A similar motion with respect to a bust of Earl Russell, who represented the City of London in the House of Commons for twenty years, was carried.

Washington.

The Readjusters are meeting in Washington to settle factional disputes in Virginia. PRESIDENT GARFIELD appointed Volney N. Smith of Arkansas, United States Consul at St. Thomas.

INVESTIGATION of the affairs of O. L. Piny, custodian of the Treasury department, shows that criminal extravagance has been practiced in necessary purchases, and that even ex-Cabinet officers have been benefited at the government's expense.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

Col. Scott's funeral takes place Tuesday at 5 p. m.

It is asserted that Conkling relies on Democratic votes.

CONKLING's friends are now eagerly looking for the arrival of Grant.

COMMISSIONER WILLIAMSON, of the General Land Office, has resigned.

COL. THOMAS A. SCOTT was buried at Woodland cemetery, Philadelphia, Tuesday.

SEBERGANT AT-ARMS THOMPSON is short in his accounts with members of the House. It is claimed he can pay up.

INFORMATION from the Virginia county elections, held Thursday, so far as received, are adverse to the Readjusters.

CONKLING and Platt have consented to become candidates for re-election and will go to Albany to personally superintend the campaign.

The Grant contracts are approved by the Senate. Grant and Eads left for the United States Thursday night and will sail Friday for New Orleans.

Mrs. GARFIELD is slowly improving. Her fever still continues but in a much milder form. She rested well Wednesday night and is very comfortable.

MOSES COIT TAYLOR, of the Michigan University, has been appointed to succeed Wm. C. Russell as professor of history at Cornell, and has telegraphed his acceptance.

Mrs. GARFIELD's condition remained unchanged Monday. Her physicians, while confident of her ultimate recovery, do not legally advise any decided improvement for some days.

JEFFERSON DAVIS has gone to Canada, in order to be on British soil when his history of the rebellion is published in England, and thus secure an English copyright. This plan is said to be feasible, because he is not legally a citizen of the United States.

GENERAL FOREIGN NOTES.

BRENNAN, secretary of the Land league, has been arrested.

HEREAFTER only native Mexicans can sit in the Mexican congress.

FRANZ FERRARI has taken umbrage at the French treaty with Tunis.

A NEW coin is being struck in France for presentation to the monetary conference on its resumption. It is composed of gold and silver in equal proportions, and is to circulate as a five franc piece.

The first electric railway now working in the vicinity of Berlin, is so satisfactory that a second is projected, to run to another district of the suburbs. The cost of construction is only £5,500 per kilometer.

The Empress Eugenie has definitely decided upon the final resting place of her late husband and son. She intends to build a church on the estate which she has bought, some fourteen miles from Chislehurst, and thither the two tombs are to be transferred.

The report that Austria had refused to join the conference proposed by Russia on the right of asylum is contradicted, but whether Austria refused or consented is of little consequence now. The St. Petersburg Golos states that no attempt will be made to secure the joint action of the three Northern Powers, as it would lead to no practical result.

gatherers comfort from the fact that "the number of fatal cases of smallpox, which in the six preceding weeks, was only seventy last week. A decrease is also shown in the number of smallpox patients in the Metropolitan Asylums Hospitals, the number standing at 948 last Saturday, as against 963 the Saturday preceding."

THE EAST.

At Mountain Home, Ark., a band of mounted and armed men broke into Mr. Latell's store, robbed the safe of several thousand dollars, set fire to the store and blew it up with gunpowder. This aroused the citizens, who saved the balance of the town from burning up. The robbers escaped.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

Some Suggestions for the Farmer to Consider in the Care of Cows.

Cows are generally milked twice a day—sometimes oftener; but the latter is unnecessary, unless the cow sheds her milk, or the udder be found of insufficient capacity to hold her milk. The time required to milk a cow will vary according to circumstances. When and where milking is done for transportation to some distant market, early milking in the morning must be done. It should be done regularly, whether it be done earlier or later. As a rule, no milk should be required to milk more than twelve cows morning and evening; some can milk fifteen, but generally one's arms and hands get pretty tired by the time twelve cows are milked. The time for milking varies several days according to conditions; one cow may be milked in four minutes, while another may require fifteen or twenty minutes, in order to be milked thoroughly clean. If milking is not carefully, regularly and thoroughly done the quantity of milk produced will be largely diminished. Incomplete and imperfect milking in view of the fact that the milk first drawn is of inferior quality as compared with the "strippings" or "strookings," terms well understood by dairymen and good milkers; if any be left in the udder it tends to dry the cow or shrink her daily yield of milk. Great care must therefore be exercised in this regard. The strippings increase the quantity of cream not only, but the flavor and quality of the butter also. Read this statement:

"Having taken several large teacups of the same size," says Dr. Anderson, of Bath, England, commencing with the milk at the beginning of the milking and others at regular intervals during the milking, till the last, which was filled with the strippings or strookings. These were severally weighed, so as to ascertain that the quantity of it was the same, after repeating this experiment a number of times with different cows, the results were stated as follows: "The quantity of cream always from the first-drawn cup was in every case much inferior and smaller than that from the last cup drawn, and those between giving less or more as they were nearer the beginning or the end. In the case of some cows the variation of cream from the first cup to the last was in the proportion of 16 to 1, and in no case was it less than 8 to 1. The difference in quality was much greater than in quantity. In the first cup the cream was thin and in the last cup the cream was thicker and richer in color, more so than of any other. The difference in the quality of the milk that remained after the cream was separated was still greater than that in respect to the quantity and quality of the cream. The milk of the first cup was thin and bluish, as if a large proportion were water, while that of the last cup was of a thick consistency and of yellow color, more like that of cream than milk, both in appearance and taste."

From this interesting statement the necessity of skillful and thorough milking is manifest to any observer. Good milkers are essential to every dairyman. There are what are called "hard" cows to milk, and cows that milk "easy." Much also depends upon the milker. If he be rough and boisterous the cow will hold up part of her milk. Some cows do not stand still and quiet while milking; such cows require a little indulgence and humoring. The temper of such cows is often made by kind and rough treatment of an unskillful, rough milker. A little mess fed to a cow while milking often has a good effect, and she, meanwhile, yields her milk more freely. As nearly as possible observe twelve hours, between milking, a rule of more importance than that at first seems to a careless milker. The beating of a cow with a milking stool, or kicking with your feet, protected by a heavy pair of double-soled cow-hide boots, should never be allowed. Such milkers or herdsmen should be discharged as soon as such disqualifying traits or habits are discovered.

LIME ON SOILS.

Am. Soc. Agr. Chemist.

Lime as it comes from the kiln is known as caustic or quicklime—the heat having expelled the carbonic acid gas of the carbonate of lime or limestone. Upon exposure to the air and moisture this caustic lime absorbs water and carbonic acid gas, and again returns to the carbonate. During this revision it decomposes vegetable matter and sets the elements of plant food free. It is in this power to prepare food for the growing crop from the vegetable matter in the soil that the chief value of lime resides. The greater the per cent of lime that is in the caustic state, the more valuable it is for this work. The quicker the lime can be applied after burning the better.

"I Don't Want That Stuff"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia, which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter it was administered to her with such good results that she continued its use until cured, and was made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.—Standard.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

he Girl of the Period as She Entertains Callers.

An east side belle had just finished reading a dainty note from a gentleman admirer, which requested permission to call with a friend on the following Sunday afternoon. Consent? Of course she would, and the bearer of the missive returned with compliments and the lady's permission to visit her.

The young lady was of that class which is exceedingly popular with the young men. She was handsome and possessed of moderate wealth. The summer before she had returned from an Eastern seminary, where several years had been spent in becoming accomplishment. Her admirer was an aspiring young lawyer, who, a few months previous, had formed her acquaintance, and who now sought to introduce a companion. Sabbath afternoon found the two gentlemen seeking admittance at the lady's home.

"Pro vous jour monstrieux," exclaimed the accomplished maiden, as she greeted her callers.

"Comment vous partez vous?" Come in.

"Miss Blank, my friend," answered the legal light to the rather unexpected salutation of the lady.

"Comment vous partez vous? Jour monstrieux. Nihil est melior procul fararie," was her response.

"Not familiar with the jargon uttered, the visitors were somewhat embarrassed, but the stranger, desiring to create an impression that he too was a linguist, ventured "Pro bono publico."

"Parlez vous Francais?" came from the young lady with great rapidity.

"You understand French, I see," said the representative of the bar, "no doubt learned while you were attending school."

"Yes, you know it is considered an accomplishment. Papa was anxious that I become accomplished in everything. I wouldn't give anything for my French, now that I learned it. Comment vous e pluribus unum terra colta."

"And how long were you studying French, Miss Nellie?"

"Oh, about three years, comment vous partez vous," answered the person interrogated; "besides, we studied Latin for some time. I think Latin is just splendid, but of course it ain't like French. Parlez vous comment vous. Your friend speaks French admirably."

"I suppose French was exceedingly popular at the seminary, Miss Blank," spoke the stranger, who since his attempt at speaking the language, had remained silent.

"The language was studied by all the girls. Our professor was not one of those mean old teachers that is always making the girls study dry, old grammar and geography, and spelling and history. No, indeed, he believed in making us accomplished."

"What, Miss Nellie, was studied besides the French and Latin?"

"Well, there was music and drawing, and we did a great deal of reading. I think Waverly is a splendid author, don't you? He is my favorite. What a grand character Rob Roy is in Ivanhoe. I don't like Shakespeare; there is nothing in his works. They are so dry and uninteresting."

"Many think differently."

"Oh, I know; but his Kitchener is so porky."

"How about the poets? I suppose you have one whose writings are eagerly perused by yourself. Young ladies generally pass their spare time with some favorite book of poems."

"Yes, we all have a favorite poet. There is something so charming, so exquisite, so sentimental in verse, that every girl will read poetry. I think a great deal of Longfellow. His 'Snow Bunch' is charming, and his 'Much Ado About Nothing' is grand. Many an afternoon I have passed in reading both."

"Oh, no doubt, you can quote poetry?"

"Ah, some little. I took a great fancy to the sonnet.

There's a letter from your sire, Baby mine, baby mine, when first it was published, and learned it entire. But I never cared as much for reading as I did for music and drawing."

The young lady had not gotten over her mania for decorating. Everything that could be gaudied had received the touch of her brush. There were pictures on silk, on old china, on mugs, and all were used as ornaments.

But the call was concluded, and as the visitors arose to leave, their lady friend exclaimed, "Comment vous partez vous?"

As they passed through the doorway she uttered, "Parlez vous comment vous." As they walked along the path to the gate, her voice was sounding "Vous partez comment vous." Through the gate "Parlez vous comment vous" greeted their ears; and when the corner was reached there echoed along the thoroughfares, in angelic tones, "Comment vous partez vous."

Prohibition in this Country.

An English journal, descending on the progress of prohibition liquor legislation in the United States, declares that the satisfaction with which men regard the progress of the temperance movement across the Atlantic would be seriously impaired if it were found, as some assert, that opium gains all that alcohol loses. That, of course, is too sweeping a statement; but it is unfortunately too true that, side by side with the crusade against drink, the Americans have to show a rapid increase in the consumption of opium. The import of opium in 1870 into the United States showed an increase of 30 per cent. over that of 1876; but the import of 1880 was 140 per cent. in excess of that of 1876. Four years ago the American opium eaters were believed to number 200,000, but since then their numbers have doubled, and it is now calculated that they consume five million grains per annum. West of the Mississippi the Chinese have almost a monopoly of the drug, but in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky there are said to be three opium eaters to every 100 of population. Physicians, druggists and traders all report that the use of opium is alarmingly on the increase, and they attribute it chiefly not to the disease of intoxicants, but to the increased use of the hypodermic syringe for injections of morphia. It is noteworthy that women are said to supply four-fifths of the victims of opium.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Short Story and Poem for Young Readers to Enjoy.

Pink Hunter writes to the little folks and says: Come with me, and I will show you some fun. Hark! what is that? Turkeys in the wood? Yes, but not like the tame flock at home in the yard. These are darker in color, and so wild that they will not let you come near them. Look at that curious pen in the clearing. It is made of pine logs, and covered over with earth and brush. One side has an opening large enough for the turkeys to go in, and corn is scattered inside to tempt them. They are foolish birds, and once inside keep their heads up, and never see low to get out again. We will creep up, and see if any have been trapped. Yes; see what a fine large gobble with his bronze plumage! We will catch him, and have a fine Christmas dinner. Wild turkeys cannot be tamed, and when cooped up will not eat, but pine away and die. They are very good to eat,—much nicer than tame ones. I once knew two boys who had turkey-traps, but one had his trap in the best place, and caught more game.

One day Mat, the lucky boy, went to his trap and found it empty, but there were one or two feathers inside, and some turkey-tracks around. "I know the turkeys have been here," he said to himself, "and somebody has been before me, and robbed my trap. To-morrow I will watch."

Early in the morning, long before it was light, Mat hid himself in the bushes near his trap. There was nothing there yet, but he would wait and see. Presently he heard a rustling in the bushes, but it was not the turkeys. No, it was Dick, his fellow-trapper, a boy about Mat's size, who had been so unlucky.

He hid himself as Mat had done, and both waited. Hiss! that was the peculiar note of the wild turkey, well known to both boys. Then a gentle patter on the leaves, and two or three birds were in sight. They came up timidly, and picked up a scattered grain or two outside the trap. Then they went back a little but one bolder than the rest put his head through the opening. He saw so much corn inside that he went fully in, and was trapped. Dick did not wait to see if any more would follow, but rushed out of his hiding place. "I have got him, I have got him!" but a hand was on his shoulder.

"Whose trap is this?" asked Mat. "Now I know who took my turkey yesterday!"

Every rogue is a coward, and Dick turned pale and trembled. He begged Mat not to tell him—his father would be so angry, and he promised never to do such a thing again. Mat was sorry for him and let him off, and even gave him part of his turkey when it was cooked next day.

The Little Peasant Boy.

Such a merry little chap!
Just the boy one likes, you know,
And boasting something of a name
Pedro San Antonio.

Ragged jacket, brimless cap,
Boots yawning at the toes,
Curly hair and bright black eyes,
And cheeks as red as any rose.

Behind his little peasant-stead,
At the corner of the street,
All day long he smiles and waits,
In the sunshine, snow, or sleet.

Here a pint, and there a quart!
How the paper bags do fly!
And how fast in Pedro's box
Fly the nickels high and dry!

"Fifty cents a quart!" he calls;
But one sorry fact you note—
Pedro's quarants are very apt
Into a pint bag to go.

The first ballot for U. S. Senator from New York was taken by the Legislature of that State, on Tuesday, and Conkling received but 35 votes out of 159, to fill the short term, and Platt received but 29 votes out of 160, to fill the long term.

Kansas has seventy-two towns and cities with over 500 inhabitants. Three of them have over 15,000, four between 5,000 and 10,000, three between 3,000 and 5,000, fourteen between 2,000 and 3,000, and twenty-four between 1,000 and 2,000 inhabitants.

Husband and wife should no more struggle to get the last word than they should struggle for the possession of a lighted bomb shell. Married people should study each other's weak points, as skaters look after the weak parts of the ice, in order to keep off them. By attention to this apparently small matter the course of wedded life would run more smoothly, and thus insure happiness.

The strongest proof that could be given that the Democratic Senators were not making a fight against the Mahone-Republican Riddle barger combination for factious purposes, is the fact that after Conkling and Platt resigned, leaving the Democrats a clear majority of the Senate, no effort was made by them to re-organize the Senate; but as the business was accomplished for which they had been called together—to act on the Presidents nominations—they adjourned. Does anyone suppose that the Republicans would have done likewise? We answer plainly, no!

Among the many on dits in relation to the Star Route scandal is one which connects the name of William Windom, formerly Senator, now Secretary of the Treasury, with applications for "expedition," or, in other words for increased expenditures on routes in Dakota and Nebraska. It is positively asserted that Mr. Windom was a frequent and persistent applicant for these suspicious, and as is now alleged, illegal extensions of the elastic Star Route contracts, and that his personal influence was exerted on Brady to "expedito" the service on the routes and the profits of the contractors.

If the play of little children is in itself innocent, and not of a nature to disturb others (I mean seriously, for some people are much too easily disturbed), why not let them play on the Sabbath? But the example, says one. The example! It is just what it should be. It is an example of "sweet reasonableness" worthy of imitation. It is not an example of worldly buying and selling, or of reveling, or unseemly rioting. So far from conflicting with the grand old fundamental rule of love to God and our neighbor, it may and should be the means of promoting both. The plays of the children are the best opportunities of learning the Golden Rule; while on the other hand, let the parent strictly forbid playing of any sort, and enforce an unnatural quietness, of conduct, "because it is God's holy day," and the unreasonably little soul straightway rises in rebellion. "O, I wish it was Monday! I hate Sunday because I can't do anything I like on Sunday!" In polemics when an argument proves too much, it proves nothing and falls to the ground. So in the settlement of the Sunday question, a Jewish or Puritan interpretation in behalf of the little ones is only a stone of stumbling and rock of offense, a bar to all real settlement of this momentous question. Who that ponders this subject does not feel forebodings as to the Sunday of the future? And as the children of to-day will to-morrow hold in their hands the power over these questions of the morals of America, let us be wise enough to implant in their hearts a genuine love and therefore true reverence for that pearl of all days. Let us "take heed that we offend not one of these little ones."—Independent.

A POEM ON PAPER. Don't spend your cash for beer and wine, Buy your girl a valentine.

And if you would do the "proper paper," Send her a first-class weekly paper.

And the proper paper if you have the dimes To send her is the Boston Times.

If she is a girl of brain and fervor, She'd rather have our old Observer.

Why should the wrangling lines too far go? He long since sent the girl the Argo.

The Argo for her was not a match, So she sent $2 for the Dispatch.

But the Dispatch could only worry her, And now she takes the Winfield Courier.

And out of that no news could she get, So she sent for the Augusta Gazette.

And found the foregoing to be only cant, And quickly sent for the Chase County Courant.

ADVERTISE. Ye men of business, step this way,— Please notice what I have to say; 'Tis simply this, I would advise, Don't you forget to advertise. Suppose the cost is rather high, 'Twill bring good interest by and by; And all the world can but do please The man who will not advertise. Why should you wait? It will not pay, Send in your orders right away; For the COURANT man, with eager eyes, Is waiting for you to advertise. The COURANT, friends, is just the thing, It can not fail success to bring; If you would be accorded wise, Then in the COURANT advertise.

PROHIBITION IN LEAVENWORTH.

Four cases were brought before the District Court of Leavenworth county on the 27th ultimo, involving a construction of the Prohibitory Amendment to the Constitution, and the act of the Legislature to carry it into effect. Mr. Holmes a druggist of that city was charged with four violations of the law, to wit:

First—Selling bay rum for toilet purposes.

Second—In selling tincture of gentian compound for medical purposes.

Third—In selling McLean's Cordial for medicinal purposes.

Fourth—In selling essence of lemon for culinary purposes.

The information filed by the County Attorney charged that the articles sold would produce intoxication, and that Holmes had a permit to sell the same from the Probate Judge.

The defendant moved to quash the information, claiming that it did not state that he had been guilty of a public offense.

Judge Crezier, in sustaining the motion to quash, delivered an elaborate opinion, the points of which are as follows:

That under the amendment the Constitution can not prohibit, but only regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors for mechanical, medicinal and scientific purposes, but in attempting to define the meaning of intoxicating liquors, he says that any kind of liquor or mixture thereof that will produce intoxication shall be considered intoxicating liquor in the meaning of the act and it shall be prohibited, and hence the allegation that the articles sold were intoxicating liquors in the meaning of the law and must be taken as true. Therefore the court held that inasmuch as the law undertook to prohibit the sale of articles which, under the amendment, it could only regulate, it is unconstitutional, and that the act is further in contravention of the Constitution, because it undertakes to confer judiciary powers upon the Probate Court. The gist of the decision is that articles such as cologne and tinctures are prohibited by law, but that the law itself is unconstitutional.

HOW THEY PARTED.

A year ago this spring a Detroit and a Missourian became acquainted with each other in Leadville. Having decided they could better themselves outside the city they journeyed away over the hills and founded the present town of Twin Lakes. They built a shanty, stored their things in it, and Sunday came around. Before the Missourian was awake the Detroit had shaved, washed and put on a clean shirt. Indeed he also changed his socks and greased his boots. When the other awoke he looked at the Detroit for a long time without speaking. Then he got up and walked around him, and finally asked:

"Going to church anywhere to-day?" "No." "Any funeral around here?" "No." "Expect Queen Victoria here to visit you to-day?" "No." The Pike county man turned away and prepared his breakfast without another word. When he had finished it he went out and sat down on a rock and looked straight at the hills for an hour. Then he went back to the shanty and said:

"Jim are you going to do this regularly every Sunday?" "Why, I like to clean up a little at the end of every week, 'I spose you wouldnt help get up a mule race on Sunday?" "Well, hardly." "Nor a dog fight?" "No." "And you wouldnt make it a day for old sledge and poker?" "Not if I could do better." "Jim; you and me must part quietly observed the Missourian, as he began picking up his things.

"No! Whats the matter?" "You aint no such man as I can tie to. We'd quarrel in no time. 'About what?"

"About biled shirts and clean clothes, and churches, and lots of other things, Jim." "Yes." "Gimme $25 for my share of the Lakes, and I'll walk."

"I wouldn't." "But I must. I wasn't brung up in your way, and I can't tumble to it. We can part friends now, but if I was here next Sunday and you refused to play a game of old sledge with me we should part enemies."

He got his things ready, and the two walked up the Leadville trail together for a mile. Then they halted, and the Detroit said:

"Old pard it makes me feel lonesome. 'And here, too. 'And you wont go back?" "I can't. I can tie to most anything but a man who puts on Sunday clothes. Pardner, good-by!" "Good-by, old boy, and luck go with you."

And they turned their backs on each other and walked away without another word, one to build up his lone town and the other to find exemption from white shirts and a clean shave.

LOCAL SHORT STOPS.

Green peas in the market. Mallberries are beginning to get ripe. It has rained every day for the last week. Mr. H. Ranford has rented Mr. J. P. Caldwell's residence. Mr. J. P. Cantrall is repairing the Congregational church. Mrs. W. G. Patten left for Galesburg, Ill., yesterday morning. The Fourth of July will come whether we celebrate it or not. Small boys will take notice that ripe cherries can be found on several trees in this city. Mrs. Julia A. Reeve left, on Thursday last week, for an extended visit in Pennsylvania. Mr. David Berry shipped a car load of thoroughbred bulls worth $3,000, to Colorado, last week. It rained on Easter Sunday and on the seven Sundays following, so the old saying has been fulfilled. The net proceeds of the festival at the Congregational church, Tuesday night, amounted to $37. Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Cartter's infant daughter that was born on the 22d instant, died on 26th inst. Mr. J. N. Nye's Newfoundland dog left town, last Friday, in a farmer's wagon, and now Nick is disconsolate. The lock of Postmaster Porriro's safe got out of fix, last week, and the gunsmith had to be called in to drill the safe open. Mr. Null, of Butler county, father of Mrs. S. F. Kendall, is here visiting his daughter, who has been sick for several weeks past. Master Edgar Jones, son of the Hon. T. S. Jones, left, Tuesday morning, for Dodge City, where he will remain with his father. Messrs. John Woodman, Frank Oogood and Kerney Ots have opened up a rustic chair factory on the lot north of Mrs. Woodman's. Messrs. R. A. Walsh, J. D. Minnick, W. S. Smith, F. P. Cochran, M. Redford, Geo. Babb and Dr. W. H. Cartter went down to Emporia, Tuesday. Mr. J. C. Seroggin's father and mother, from Illinois, are visiting at that gentleman's house, on the Cottonwood, about three miles west of town. There will be a strawberry festival at the Methodist church, next Wednesday night, June 8, to which everybody is invited. A good time is expected. The township officers of Bazaar township will meet at Mitchell's school-house, in School District No. 8, at 1 o'clock, p. m., on the last Saturday in July. Mr. M. M. Young has sold his beer cooler to Mr. J. M. Tuttle and turned the old saloon into a residence for himself and family. He will soon go to Colorado. The Rev. Mr. Smith, of Wisconsin, having taken charge of the Congregational church, the Rev. Harvey Jones has returned to his home in Waubesa county. Mrs. J. P. Caldwell having bought Mr. M. M. Young's confectionary, Mr. Caldwell and family will move into the upper story of the building, and he will run the stand. Mr. H. von Langen, architect, and editor of the Atchison Telegraph, called at this office, Monday morning. He had the plans of a school-house with him, which will, in all probability, be adopted for the new school-house in this city. The trials of Messrs. S. N. Word and W. A. Morgan, for disturbing the peace and quiet of the city, will come off in the Police Court, this (Friday) morning, and that of Mr. Morgan, for assault and battery, will come off to-day, also, before Squire Wagoner. Ehrich's Fashion Quarterly for the summer of 1881 is on our table. It is filled with good interesting reading, besides telling all about the fashions. It is published on the corner of Eighth Avenue and 4th street; New York, and the price of it is only 50 cents a year. We are informed that while Mr. Wm. Flickinger was digging a well on his farm, near Toi do, one day last week, he discovered a large bone, supposed to be the remains of a mastodon, measuring two feet in length, and twenty six inches in circumference. A tooth was also found about eight inches long.—Americus Herald.

Dr. N. A. McCallum has returned from New York city whither he and his brother John and his youngest brother went to see two of their brothers who were sick with smallpox, and who died. John returned some time ago, and the youngest brother remained in the East. The Doctor visited Canada before returning. Now is the best time to make preparation for agricultural products to be exhibited at our fair this fall. Farm animals should also be selected and given due care, to render a premium probable. We hope a large number will give their attention to this matter, and help make this, our first fair, a success.

The Duke of Southerland, who passed through this county, over the A. T. & S. F. railroad, last Friday evening, is inspecting the American system of railroads, and is the guest of the A. T. & S. F. Company. The nobleman was accompanied by W. F. White, General Passenger Agent, and T. J. Anderson and Sup't. Chas.

Last Friday, just about dusk, as Dr. N. A. McCallum was getting into his buggy which was standing in front of M. M. Young's confectionary store his foot slipped right onto the horse, which started to run, knocking the Doctor down and dragging him across Broadway, when the animal was stopped by the firm grip the Doctor had upon the line. No further damage was done. James Ellis, colored, who was arrested some time ago on a charge of assault and battery and taken before Squire Kinne, a trial had, the jury failing to agree, and who was set at liberty upon his own recognizance, to appear in thirty days, and who has been in New Mexico ever since, returned, last Wednesday, and was re-arrested and taken before Squire Wagoner, when he paid one-half the costs, and the case was dismissed.

At a regular meeting of the City Council, held Wednesday night, at which all the members and His Honor Mayor Kuhl were present, the resignation of Police Judge E. A. Kinne was accepted, and Squire A. B. Wagoner was appointed to fill the vacancy. The Mayor was authorized to employ some one to take a census of the city. Ed Pratt was elected President of the Council. The City Marshal's salary was made equal in amount to the fines collected in the Police Court. The following bills were allowed: N. A. Dobbins, Marshal's salary, $20; E. A. Hildebrand, lumber, $1.07; P. J. Norton, Clerk's salary, $23.90. The Council then adjourned to meet at 7:30 o'clock, Saturday night.

L. M. Byers, a drummer for a Kansas City house, was arrested and taken before Squire Wagoner, last Tuesday, on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. M. A. Sallee, charging him with having gone into her place of business on the day previous, and in a threatening manner, by insinuations and innuendoes, and by placing his hand upon his pocket, saying to her that he had letters in his pocket derogatory and detrimental to her character and reputation threatening to expose such letter and defame her character if she did not pay him a certain bill, and saying that he had a United States Marshal with him and would put her under arrest if she did not pay him the amount of his claim. Upon examining the evidence in the case, the Squire decided that it was not sufficient to hold Mr. Byers for trial before the District Court, and the case was dismissed. We understand that this case may yet get into the District Court.

We were up South Fork, last Sunday, as far as Mr. A. Z. Scribner's, and we found the corn, wheat, rye and oats crops to be booming, though in a few instances the corn, which is the principal crop on the creek, is a little weedy, owing to the almost continuous rains. Traveling along the road up South Fork reminds a person a great deal of the country in the East, as the dwellings are mostly good, substantial buildings, and are surrounded by good barns and other out buildings; as also by good orchards and shrubbery, which make them look neat and cozy. There is but one really bad looking thing on the creek, and that is the graveyard at Bazaar, which looks like a great many little portable pig pens set down near each other on the prairie; and some of them so dilapidated that the cattle can go into them and graze on the graves of the buried dead. It seems to us that it would not cost a great amount to fence in the entire burying ground and to plant some trees in the enclosure; and we are sure it would look as though those who are still in the flesh had some love and respect for their departed friends and kinsmen. However, we do not believe these are the attributes that are needed with the people near Bazaar; but it is only thoughtlessness; and when their attention is drawn to the condition of their graveyard they will come together and devise means to enclose and beautify their little cemetery.

WHAT DO OUR FARMERS SAY TO IT?

The following letter from the Secretary of the Atchison Exposition, which will be held during the week beginning September 26, 1881, will explain itself:

ATCHISON, KAS., May 21, '81.

To the Editor of the Courant:

DEAR SIR, Among the premiums for 1881, in Class "D" Department of Agriculture is one for editors or publishers of newspapers in Kansas, as follows: For the best and largest display of products of any county, Atchison county excepted, within the State of Kansas, collected by an editor or publisher of a newspaper—First premium, $75; second premium, $50; third premium, $25. The Association would be pleased to have you compete for this premium; and every facility in our power will be granted to you to make a good display. The Superintendent of this department will take pleasure to assist you, or arrange and take charge of your display. Should you favor us with a display notify me, to enable me to make arrangements for free transportation for your display. We issue 50,000 circulars to Eastern manufacturers to visit our Exposition, and desire to show Kansas products from all sections of the State. Respectfully yours, EDWARD FLEISHER, Secy.

A BLOODY MYSTERY.

Yesterday morning a startling discovery was made, showing that blood had been shed; but the subject is still shrouded in mystery and doubt. On Wednesday evening, Mr. R. O. Oster, for some time a resident of this city, and the head of a respectable family, retired at the usual hour, but yesterday morning his usual cherry voice was not heard. On search being made his head, entirely severed from his body, was found in an old ash barrel at the back of certain premises. It was a ghastly and bloody sight. In a wood pile near by was found an ax, the blade smeared with gore, and undoubtedly the weapon with which the bloody deed was done. The place of deposit of the rest of the remains has not yet been discovered; and as the whole case is involved in mystery, we shall refrain from further comment at present. Our feelings are exercised in behalf of the bereaved family.

WELL WORTH ITS PRICE.

The Illustrated Scientific News has again reached our editorial table, and right glad we are to welcome the June number which is unusually full of handsome engravings and interesting and valuable reading matter.

Under the management of its new publishers—Messrs. Munn & Co.—the Illustrated Scientific News has risen to the front rank of journalism published in this country, and being issued at a very low price, is within the reach of all who are interested in novelties, science, the useful arts and natural history. The June number contains handsome illustrated articles on the Chimpanzee and Gorilla, Ostrich Farming, New Fireless Locomotive, The Maxim Fire Boat, Perforating Machine, a new and novel Embroidering Frame, the Electric Mouldings Purifier, and a number of other handsome illustrations, besides a large number of interesting articles not accompanied by engravings.

The subscription price of this handsome paper is $1.50 per annum, or 15 cents per copy, and can be had of all news-dealers or from publishers, Messrs. Munn & Co., 37 Park Row, New York.

THE WALTER A. WOOD NEW Enclosed-Gear Mower.

Manufactured by the WALTER A. WOOD MOWING & REAPING MACHINE CO., HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y. Weight, 558 Pounds.—From 40 to 100 pounds lighter than any other Two-Horse Mower. Width of Tread, 3 feet 7 1/2 in.—From three to six inches wider than other Mowers. Height of Driving Wheels 31 inches.—From two to four inches higher than other Mowers. Wheel at each end of Finger-Bar.—Most other Mowers have but one, and none at either end of bar. Gearing Enclosed, excluding all Dust and Dirt.—Nearly all other Mowers have the gearing exposed. Draft from the Frame direct, Whiffletrees under the Pole.—Most other Mowers have the Whiffletrees on top of the Pole, and push the bar instead of pulling it. Bearings made of Best Composition Metal, easily replaced.—All other Mowers use either Machine metal or simply cast iron, generally the latter. Weight of Machine largely on the Left-Hand Drive-Wheel.—Some manufacturers construct their machines so that the weight is largely on the right-hand wheel. Purchasers should avoid such machines. Cutter-Bar of Cold-Rolled Iron.—All small castings are malleable, insuring great strength and durability. Machine Perfectly Balanced on the Axle.—Finger-Bar easily raised and folded.—Easy to ride—No weight on horses' necks. It is the lightest-draft Mower in the world. A Beauty in Design and Finish.—Fully warranted. Call and see. For sale by Campbell & Gillett.
