The following article was taken from the March 1992, issue of the Texas Highways Magazine.

Near the intersection of US highways 70 and 84 in downtown Muleshoe stands a life-size fiber glass statue of the maligned but enduring Mule. Unveiled in the summer of 1965, the monument is apparently the only memorial to the mule in the world.

The story of how it came to be is the story of the tenacious efforts of a few people who believed that such a monument should exist and that its rightful place was in Muleshoe, Teacs, Maggie Rennels of Muleshoe says that her late father, Gil Lamb, told the story this way.

The out-of-school examinee registration packets for the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) and the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) exit level tests are now available at Muleshoe High

During each regular exit level test administration, individuals who are no longer enrolled in school and have not previously passed all sections of the TEAMS/TAAS test, but have met all other graduation requirements, may retake the section (s) not passed.

During the March/April administration, the TAAS writing test will be administered on Tuesday, March 31, the TEAMS/TAAS English/reading test on Wednesday, April 1, and the TEAMS/TAAS mathematics on Thursday, April 2, 1992.

Individuals who are no longer enrolled in a Texas public school and wish to register to retake the exit level mathematics and/or Engish language arts test(s) may pick up a registration packet at any high school campus, district central office, or education service center.

Registration forms must be completed and returned in the preaddressed envelope and are to be received in Iowa City, Iowa, no later than 5:00 p.m. March 11, 1992

The Texas Education Agency and National Computer Systems will not be responsible for registration forms that are delayed or lost in the mail. It is suggested that individuals registering for the test make arrangements with the appropriate postal agent for a proof of delivery

School finance is the issue and the future is once again undetermined. Bill Moore, Superintendent of Schools for Muleshoe ISD spoke to the Lions Club group recently in the Bailey County Civic Center at a noon luncheon.

As a preliminary comment, Moore said the Supreme Court has ruled for the third time in four years that the state's process for funding education is unconstitutional. At the same time the Court has said that lawmakers have until June 1, 1993 to develop a new plan.

Governor Ann Richards has indicated that a special session may be called this spring to address the school finance issue. Those up for re-election may not be pleased with this prospect because not only will they be pulled off the campaign trail, but they will once again have to wrestle with a way to provide funding for public education.

At the same time, the Lt. Governor, Bob Bullock, has stated that he will not favor any new taxes in the next legislative session. State agencies will have to "make do" with the funds that are available.

According to Moore, there are a limited number of options available to legislators. And it seems the best way to gain acceptance approval from the Court is to have approval from the legislature and from the voters in the form of the Constitutional amendment.

One option that has received a lot of attention in the past is the state income tax. This seems to have little support now, however, according to Moore.

Another option would be a statewide property tax. Since it is forbidden in the State constitution, an amendment would required to implement it.

Legislation could also take the current County Education District plan to the voters for their approval.

Still another option would be consolidation of school districts to cut costs. "This is a very sensitive issue here and all over Texas," Moore says.

"The problem we find in school funding based on property wealth is the wide variety in property values across the state," says Moore.

Across the state the values range from over $10 million per student in the richest district to about $21,000 per student in the poorest.

The County Education Districts were set up with a budget of Adams To Judge News Writing

Joyce Adams, Society Editor for The Muleshoe Journal, was By Anne Camp recently honored by being selected to serve as the judge in the feature article, profile and special interest categories of a writing contest. The Media Women's organization and Deborah McLean of Freeport, Maine, chose Ms. Adams for the work at the suggestion of Marilis Hornidge, reporter for The Courier-Gazette, a newspaper serving the Rockland, Maine region. Hornidge has succeeded with several books and writes a regular column and a book review section for the Gazette. Her newest project is the writing of a biography on a New England author. Hornidge was invited to compile it at the request of the writer's family.

Opera Scenes

Mila Beth Gibson, a former voice teacher here, now at Amaillo College and founder-director of Amarillo Opera is interested in producing short, comic, one-act folk operas to be staged here in Muleshoe.

In suggesting that these would be of interest to the Muleshoe audience, Gibson believes that clubs, schools and other surroundings communities would be happy to have the performance available.

"Two of the happiest years of my life were spent in Muleshoe. We have now several good supporters, such as Elaine Damron and Jo Jinks in the Muleshoe community," Gibson notes.

Kerry Moore's "excellent theatre program" is one that Gibson has great respect for. Gibson hopes to bring a small troupe from Amarillo for such a performance.

Former Society Editor Returns

The Muleshoe Journal office was honored to have a visit from Dorothy Giles recently. Giles was Society Editor from 1952 to 1957, serving in that capacity under the leadership of former publisher J. M.

The former editor said that her work at the newspaper was one of her first jobs and believes that it helped her considerably in building her confidence and directing her life.

According to Giles, Forbes was a quite colorful character who once wrote her a news story using big words to show he could do it after cautioning her to use the simple, more direct method of newswriting. Giles commented that he emphasized good writing and attention to accuracy.

She was interested to see the. computer system that has recently been installed at the newspaper and to view other changes that have occurred in the office since the time of her work here.

Ms. Giles, a 1950 graduate of Muleshoe High School, now works as Administrative Assistant for the Vice President of Operations of Cummins-Southern Plains, a distributor for Cummins Engine Company, headquartered in Indiana. Giles works in the company's Arlington location.

She traveled here on a vacation from her present work with Amarillo natives Lavonna and Doug Morris. Lavonna's brother is a resident of Muleshoe--Ricky Jay and JoAnn Herington of Muleshoe announce the birth of a boy. Jake Andrew, weighed 8 lbs., 3 oz. and was 20". The child was born February 15 at 12:20 p.m. in Methodist Hospital, Lubbock. He has two sisters, Terrell, 7, and Tristen, 5, and one brother Wes, 4. Grandparents are J.W. and Gloria Herington of Muleshoe and Lofton and Lillie Stelter of Troup.

Ballet Delights Audience

Ballet Austin performed at the Amarillo Civic Center Friday, February 14 to a delighted audience of over 1,000. Among the highlights of the evening were two sterling executions of choreography by leading ladies of the pointe shoe. These two stars were Mariane Beausejour in the pas de deux from "Romeo and Juliet" and Yolonda Jordon in " Carmen.'

Ballet Austin Artistic Director Lambros Lambrou led the company to a well-executed performance that taught West Texans that their home state produces classical dance that can be just as effective as New York or West Coast ballet.

One of the most entertaining parts of the Valentine Day program was a selection of comic ballet from Stephen Mill's "Red Roses." Exaggerated movements that made fun of the traditional leaps and lifts brought spectators to the edge of laughter and beyond.

David Anderson's ballet, "Fiesta," was performed to the lively score Beanfield War."

One of the most riveting moments of the evening occurred during "Carmen" when the stage was darkened except for a death bed effect with a lone dancer reclining on a raised platform. This dancer, Edward Moffat, moved as poetry itself, lending an aura of mystery and fascination to the hall. The dancer succeeded in grasping and holding the attention of Amarillo's ballet goers and triumphed in the final stages of this movement.

"Ballet Austin's performance in Amarillo was our Valentine's Day gift to the region. We really enjoyed dancing here and hope to return soon," says Lambros Lambrou, artistic director.

Your society editor would like to thank Ballet Austin company and crew for responding so cordially and cooperatively to The Journal's request for photos following the performance. Presented by the Lone Star Ballet, Ballet Austin is well worth viewing any time you see a schedule of upcoming dates from the film, "The Milagro for performances. By Joyce Adams"

Extracurricular Activities Praised

By Bill Moore, Superintendent of Schools

As we start our fifth six weeks • f school we are entering one of the busiest times of the year. While schools are in the business of teaching academic skills to students, it is sometimes forgotten that learning certain skills basic to success and happiness in life--self respect, leadership, and responsibility among others-- is not confined to the classoom. But that doesn't mean that schools cannot be involved in nurturing skills like those in students. In fact, there is a strong system in place for developing such crucial life skills to students. It is called extracurricular activities.

To some people, extracurricular activities are a "frill" that a school offers to few or to help students pass time in a safe and positive way. Extracurricular activities do much more than that, however, They are designed to help children and teenagers along a path of healthy physical, emotional and psychological growth.

Being actively involved in athetics, music, or academic competition, stock shows, student government, or any of the other clubs and organizations available yields benefits that cannot be gained through the regular curriculum.

Involvement in such activities helps students develop leadership and organizational skills as well as promoting a sense of pride, selfrespect, and friendship that grows out of team work and cooperative effort. Many activities also often help students find special interests and hobbies that will provide satisfaction throughout their lives.

Sampling a variety of activities and trying out different roles within an organization or a team helps a herself and better be able to answer questions like: What do I like to kind of friends do I like to associate with? How can I contribute to a group effort to make a differene? Self-knowledge is a key to lifelong happiness and contentment.

By stretching one's wings in extracurricular activities, students often learn they are capable of more than they realized.

Another very valuable lesson to be learned is to cope with the frustration and disappointment of losing a game, not getting the part in a play he or she wanted, or not being elected to the office he or she was seeking. What adult has not had to deal with disappointment or frustration? That is why it is so important to remember that the measure of success for extracurricular activities should not just be measured by wins vs. losses.

Theodore Roosevelt said it best when he said: "It's not the critic that counts, not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust, and sweat; who strives valiantly, who errs and comes short again and again because there is no effort without error and shortcomings; but who actually strives to do the deed, who knows the great devotion; who spends himself in a worthy cause, who at the best knows in the end the high achievement of triumph and who at worst, if he fails while daring greatly knows his place shall never be with those timid and cold souls who know neither victory or defeat.

I have been most impressed with the high quality of young men and women who are willing to community. They are to be ap-

As I mentioned at the first, the spring is one of the busiest times of the year. Literally hundreds of students will be involved in one or more of the many extracurricular activities available. I hope you will take the opportunity to thank them for their efforts and encourage them to "strive valiantly" in whatever endeavor they have chosen. They deserve your support.

Lazbuddie Students Qualify For Talent Search

Three students from Lazbuddie Junior High School have qualified and participated in this year's Talent Search for mathematically and verbally advanced students sponsored by Duke University's Talented Identification Program (TIP). The program identifies highly able seventh-graders from a 16 state region in the south, southwest and mid-

To be eligible, students must have scored at the 97th percentile or better on an in-school achievement or ability measure. They took the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), normally taken only by collegebound juniors and seniors, on January 25. Many of these students score as well as or better than the average college-bound senior on these measures. All participants receive Certificates of Merit and some become eligible for state-wide recognition ceremonies or a variety of educational programs.

TIP, established in 1980, has provided thousands of students with information about their abilities and educational options. The purposes of the program are to help academically bright students develop their special abilities, to assist schools in working with their brightest students, and to understand the nature of exceptional mathematical and verbal ability.

The following seventh-grade students from Lazbuddie participated in the talent search: Heath Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Brown; Janis Hernandez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hernandez; and Blake Mimms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Mimms.

proper place for such a monument festivities and publicity boosted was the town whose name and Muleshoe's economy, and the annual football team, among other things, honored the mule.

Lamb was, according to his daughter, something of a promoter as well as an active member of the Associated Press Broadcasters Association, so the news spread that Muleshoe was collecting donations for a national mule memorial. It spread even faster when a picture of Gil Lamb's secretary talking into the ear of a mule went out on the AP wires and appeared in the armed forces newspaper, Stars and Stripes.

Donations, always in small amounts, began to come in from all over the nation. Retired servicemen, remembering the 5,000 mules that helped them during wartime wrote, I worked alongside the mule in World War I." Crumpled dollar bills arrived from farmers, along with testimonies such as, "The mule kept me alive during the Depression." One young boy carved a mule and sent it along with a donation in its saddlebag and map that traced the route from his house in Putnam. Texas to Muleshoe. Reveren J. Frank Perry of Muleshoe made a trip to Russia and came back with a Carolyn Johnson, manager of donation from a mule driver in the Chamber of Commerce, said, Samarkand, Uzbekistan, that "The directors for the chamber along amounted to 21 cents in American

Twelve Kiwanians, five honorary Kiwanians and Sweetheart Tiffany Angeley met this morning (Friday) at 6:30 a.m. at the Dairy Queen for Honorary Kiwanians present were Dee Morris, Bekki Bowen, Stacey Langfitt, Jon Keith Turner and Chad Johnson. It is always good to see all of our Onery Kiwanians. It really makes our day. We always look forward to Friday to get to see Sweetheart Tiff.

President Larry Parker called the meeting to order. Chad Johnson led the club in the pledge to our flag. Hugh Young gave the invocation.

No show Randy Lewis is still out looking for a friend. Randy, hurry up and find a friend and get back to Kiwanis. Randy, I guess you know that you lost your bet with Glen Morris. Glen will be after you day and night to collect his bet. Randy bet Glen that he would be at Kiwanis five Fridays in a row. I do not know what the wager was about but Randy you lost.

Reggie Johnson had the program this morning. Reggie showed a video that Dr. Robert Lepard has about his uncle. Robert's uncle showed and told how to make different Turkey calls with different kinds of equipment an he took us on a real turkey hunt with his 10 year old son. The young man got his first turkey, a big beautiful gobbler. It was a trophy and they had him

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY. MARCH 10 (EARLY VOTING BEGINS FEB. 19)

PAID FOR BY LUTHER THOMPSON-HCR 5, BOX 259, MULESHOE, TX 79347

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION AUSTIN - The Texas Supreme

Court struck down the Legislature's plan to hike school property taxes, but left the illegal tax structure in place until next year. By giving lawmakers - including those who will be elected to the next Legislature - a long deadline, justices dodged the task of writing the controversial law themselves. Somewhat defusing the politics for now, the court did not shut down state funding of public schools, but it probably catapulted the issue to the top of voter shopping lists for 1992

This marks the third time in as many years the High Court has rejected the Legislature's remedy, despite Gov. Ann Richards' pointed warning that frustrated awmakers may just let the justices write the new law themselves.

March 2-6 Texas Public

School Week

March 2 through the 6 has been designated as Texas Public Schools Week. Because education plays a vital role in today's society, it is important for every citizen of the Lazbuddie Independent School District to take the opportunity during Public Schools Week to visit the local school.

Lazbuddie ISD is inviting parents to eat lunch at school during this week. Please call the school office in advance at (806) 965-2156 if you plan to eat with your child. Grandparents and Senior Citizens are invited to eat lunch at school on Thursday, March 5, free of charge.

Open House will also be Thursday night, March 5. Parents and Patrons are encouraged to visit the school on that night at 7 p.m.

Reacting last week, the governor accused the GOP-dominated court of "calling for an income tax."

"What's happening in all this Mickey Mouse is that the administrators, the teachers cannot plan because they never know how much money they're going to have," she said.

Conservative Victory?

But conservatives hailed the 7-2 decision as a victory over liberals, pointing as evidence to the fact that only liberals reacted angrily to the ruling.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, sponsor of the now-dead measure, accused the court of "posturing politically."

"Republicans, who are on the court who participated in the first double-tough opinion, caught a lot of flack from their constituents...and they started looking for a way to backpedal," Parker

Attorney General Dan Morales did not criticize the justices and said he didn't think the decision was political.

"We believe there is ample opportunity and ample time over the course of 1992 to prepare for a situation where the Legislature can hit the ground running," Morales said of the 1993 regular legislative session.

Redistricting Aftermath In the aftermath of the redistricting battle, Federal Judge James Nowlin reopened court records which were sealed amid Democrat cries of foul play. Meanwhile, Morales angered ing two attorneys chosen by lawmakers to help the Texas Democratic Party with redistricting. Departing were Austin lawyers Richard Gray and David Richards, some Democratic senators by fir-former husband of Gov. Ann Richards. Morales hired Paul Coggins of Dallas to probe whether State Rep.

George Pierce, R-San Antonio, helped federal judges draw new districts. Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, was critical: "Morales could well be the father of Republicans taking over the Texas Senate." In a peripheral issue, Republican lawyers criticized Democrat lawyers representing minority groups for billing the state for more than $750,000 in fees.

But Jim Herrington, of the Texas Civil Rights Project, said the fees were "cheap" compared to previous redistricting lawsuits, and predicted Texas taxpayers will probably pay more than $6 million in attorneys' fees to lawyers suing the state over redistricting. This doesn't include the $1 million it cost taxpayers to finance the recent special session which produced the plan rejected by the Conflict of Interest?

Wise County Appraisal District officials criticized Texas Supreme Court Justice Jack Hightower for () not recusing himself from a case for conflict of interest. They maintain that his daughter, Amy Hightower Brees of Austin, was a lobbyist for a company that benefitted from the court's 5-4 decision on a case involving property taxes on limestone deposits.

Legal Action Threatened

Trade groups for out-of-state utility companies asked U.S. Secretary of Energy James Watkins to take legal action to stop the Texas Railroad Commission from putting caps on production.

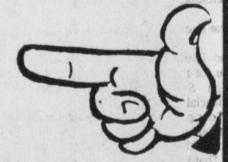

Several Texas officials have in the past two years called for more use of natural gas, a cheaper fuel. The utilities say the commission's caps will drive up prices and utility

TDA Announces Grant

More than $180,000 in grants is available through the Texas Department of Agriculture for pest control programs that rely on the least amount of chemicals possible, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said today.

The department is now accepting proposals for the funds, $47,870 of which will go toward boll weevil diapause programs, and $133,500 of which will be awarded to projects that expand the use of integrated pest management (IPM) methods in agricultural pest control.

"Integrated pest management techniques encourage producers to find safe, effective strategies that are non-chemical or will minimize • the use of chemicals," Perry said.

IPM is an interdisciplinary, cooperative approach to pest control. IPM involves the development and maintenance of ecologically sound pest control systems by integrating information from the fields of biology, ecology, sociology, agronomy and economics.

"IPM's goal is to develop and use pest management alternatives that do not harm humans or the environment, but still allow producers to prosper," Perry said. "The basic goal of IPM is to use pesticides only after all other alternatives have been exhausted."

Farmers who practice IPM principles rely on carefully researched combinations of methods that manage-not eliminate-the densities of pests and their subsequent damage to crops and livestock. These methods include planting diverse crops, rotating crops from year to year, raising pest-resistant varieties, maximizing benefits of biological control, and controlling weeds by mechanical cultivation instead of relying only on costly herbicides.

"It is our policy to promote IPM in both rural and urban environments," Perry said. "Diapause is an extremely complex dates, stalk destruction, cotton plow-up and spraying is extremely effective in controlling pink bollworm and boll weevils.

TDA enforces Texas' pesticide laws and certain IPM practices such as the stalk destruction project for pink bollworm and boll weevil control. Texas has four boll weevil pest management zones encompassing the Lower Rio Grande Valley, Lower Coastal Bend, Upper Coastal Bend and the El Paso area.

"A successful eradication plan for eliminating the boll weevil could eventually eliminate the need for insecticides to combat this pest," Perry said.

Proposals for diapause should include a one-page project summary; a review of previous diapause programs conducted by the producer; a detailed project description including a general work plan and rationale; project duration: a statement showing need for state funding with a financial statement of current and available assets; and a detailed project budget, including funds from other sources to be used for the diapause program. A full program report will be due four weeks after the project is completed.

IPM proposals should propose methods for implementing and conducting biologically intensive integrated pest management programs for farmer groups, onfarm demonstration trials, and educations programs developed from state-of-the-art technology. Hispanics Greater Risk For Diabetes

Adult onset diabetes is attacking Hispanics at an earlier age and more often than other ethnic groups.

"Adult onset diabetes typically strikes people who are in their 30's, 40's or 50's," said Dr. Carlos Vallbona, chairman of community medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. among Hispanics the disorder appears more frequently among people starting in their 30's."

Vallbona suggests that Hispanics past age 35 be tested for diabetes, since complications and even deaths caused by the disease can be prevented through early detection.

Diabetes occurs in adult Hispanics at a rate two to three times greater than that of whites. Overall, thirteen percent of adult Hispanics are estimated to have diabetes, many of the undiagnosed.

"There are several risk factors associated with diabetes," Vallbona said. "Simply being Hispanic, particularly Mexican-American, appears to be an important risk factor."

Studies conducted in South Texas, where the Mexican-American population draws much of its genetic make-up from native American genes, show rates for diabetes to be even greater than in other Hispanic groups.

"We do not know exactly what the genetic link is that makes Mexican-Americans more susceptible than other Hispanics to diabetes. But, Hispanics who know their family heritage includes native American ancestry, should consider themselves at increased risk for diabetes," Vallbona said.

In addition to testing for the disease, Vallbona recommends exercise and a healthy diet for young Hispanics as a preventive measure.

"Obesity is another risk factor associated with diabetes. Regular exercise and a low-calorie, low-fat diet can help lower the risk for diabetes by controlling weight" Vallbona said.

Even those who have tested negatively for diabetes should learn the symptoms of diabetes should they appear later in life. They include an insatiable thirst, voracious appetite, frequent urination, unexplained weight loss. feeling of weakness, mood swings and a prickly feeling in the ball of the feet and toes.

Diabetes is caused by improper levels of glucose (the body's main fuel) in the blood. When glucose levels are too high over a long period of time, the result can be blindness, heart and kidney failure. high blood pressure and painful inflammation of nerves.

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry today launched a new marketing initiative to increase worldwide awareness of Texas livestock.

Speaking at the Fort Worth Stockyards, Perry said that with the slogan, "Texas Livestock. . . Best in Any Language," the Texas Department of Agriculture is promoting the state of Texas as the The Classifieds!! place to buy high quality cattle, horses, sheep, goats, swine and exotic animals from a wide breed selection. "Texas has been the livestock supermarket to the world because of its premier beef and dairy cattle," Perry said. "Through this initiative, we are capitalizing on that reputation to include all livestock and livestock technology."

Perry stood at the historic stockyards where thousands of head of livestock have passed in the 90 years since it opened.

"Historically, livestock sales have had an extraordinary impact on the Texas economy," Perry said. "The stockyards' long success as a marketing center proves that. But today, livestock raisers are providing good stock for more than the neighbor next door."

TDA Launches Marketing Campaign

"As Texas livestock show season approaches, we'll see many of these foreign visitors attending and buying breeding livestock," Perry said. "Our marketing specialists will be working with breed associations and show personnel to connect foreign and local buyers with sellers, because these shows buyers to see the best stock.' Perry noted that TDA marketing specialists have been hard at work, helping facilitate livestock sales to domestic and foreign buyers.

offer an excellent opportunity for

During 1991, total exports through TDA pens reached an alltime high of 1,295,552 head of livestock, valued at nearly $200 million--more than a 220 percent increase compared to the dollar value of livestock exports for 1990. Last year, 621,713 head, valued at $90 million, were exported through the pens.

TDA estimates that 79 percent of the livestock were from Texas last year. Export destinations included Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Belize, Colombia, Ecuador, Venezuela, Peru, Paraguay, Uruguay, Argentina, Brazil, India, Thailand, Australia, Zimbabwe, Botswana, South Africa, the Philippines, France, Luxembourg, German, Italy, Austria and Switzerland.

"Soaring exports of beef cattle, sheep and hogs comprised the bulk of the increase," Perry said, "but the numbers are also up for dairy animals, breeding stock, goats and

"These high numbers are just another example of the vast, worldwide appeal of Texas livestock," Perry said.

"Our new initiative is a unique marketing effort that adds another dimension to the outstanding promotional activities of the breed associations," Perry said. "It will also serve as a marketing umbrella for small and individual livestock raisers who are new to the export market. We are targeting an international audience that is often beyond their reach."

TDA operates six export facilities--five along the Texas-Mexico border at Del Rio, Eagle Pass, El Paso, Brownsville and Laredo and a sixth at Houston Intercontinental Airport.

"For the first time, $400,000 in federal funds are on their way to Texas to help repair these pens," Perry announced. "The renovations will bring the pens up to their original conditions, enabling us to better serve Texas ranchers and our foreign buyers."

A special logo was designed to highlight the new campaign. Gate and fence signs will carry this logo as a way of identifying those ranches with quality Texas livestock genetics for sale. The logo will also be posted at the entrance of the livestock export

"Even though Mexico remains the main international customer for Texas livestock, other markets are developing in South America, the Caribbean and Asia," Perry said. 'In the coming year, TDA will be in these regions promoting Texas livestock under the "Texas Livestock . . Best in Any Language" banner.

"Poets" Enter Your Poems

Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum Inc. is offering a grand prize of $500 in its new "Awards of Poetic Excellence" poetry contest. Thirtyfour other cash awards are also being offered. The contest is free to Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, on any subject, in any style. Contest closes March 31, 1992, but poets are encouraged to submit their work as soon as possible, since poems entered in the contest also will be considered for publication in Poetic Voices of America, a hardcover anthology. Prizes will be awarded by May 31,

"We are looking for sincerity and originality in a wide variety of styles and themes," says Jerome P. Welch, Publisher. "You do not nave to be an experienced poet to enter or win."

Poems should be sent to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum Inc., Dept. CG, 203 Diamond Street, Sisterville, West Virginia 26175.

Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum sponsors six free poetry contests and publishes six hardcover poetry anthologies each year. We are dedicated to encouraging and rewarding the many "undiscovered" poets across America.

Train Project store at room temperature, Van On Track

The Texas Bullet Train project has successfully passed two more performance milestones mandated by the state in development of the Officials of the Texas High-Speed Rail Corporation have delivered two key requirements to Texas High-Speed Rail Authority offices in Austin:

A document certifying that capitalization for the Corporation of $10 million in cash is in place.

A check for $290,384 for the final payment on the annual budget of the Authority for fiscal 1992. (Under legislation which created the Authority, the franchise holder is responsible for funding its operations.)

Corporation Chief Operating Officer David Rece presented the certificate of capitalization and the check to Authority Executive Director Bob Neely on behalf of chairman Glenn Biggs, who signed the document of certification. "We are very pleased to be able to meet these performance benchmarks in response to the Authority's direction," Rece said.

"We view these actions as another encouraging sign of progress on this important project," Neely said. "The Authority is pleased that these scheduled milestones have been met. This is the fourth mandated deadline under the order, and they (the franchisee) have met all four on or before the required deadline." Rece noted that corporate headquarters for the Texas Bullet Train are now operation at 1100 N. E. Loop 410 in San Antonio, telephone (512) 805-8406. The venture faces a series of other performance benchmarks during the year ahead which are part of the agreement signed between the Authority and the Corporation here January 31, officially granting a 50-year franchise to build and operate a high-speed rail system in

Make Food Gift Safe

Last-minute shoppers may find food baskets to be perfect gifts this holiday. However, food safety should be a main ingredient, according to a nutritionist with the Texas Agriculture Extension

"Whether a person plans to buy a basket that's already prepared or fill one with home-cooked treats, taking precautions will prevent gifts from harboring bacteria that can cause foodborne illness," said Dr. Peggy Van Laanen, food safety specialist. «

Always read product labels or ask the vendor for proper storage instructions when selecting food gifts, she said. Most protein foods are perishable and need to be stored at refrigerator temperatures, while some specially processed foods are safe at room temperatures.

"Hams, turkeys and other meats, for example, are smoked for flavor, not preservation, and must be stored at refrigeration temperatures, "Van Laanen said. "However, country hams are an exception because their high-salt content and dryness prevent bacterial growth. They can be stored at room temperatures until

Whether foods such as canned meats, vacuum-packed steaks, sausage and cheese assortments need refrigeration depends on how they were processed. Vacuum packaging itself does not make a food safe to Laanen said. Some sausages and cheeses in gift assortments don't need refrigeration due to brining, drying and food additives. These additives together with processing, help prevent spoilage and protect

Those who plan ' nail food gifts should consider the length of shipping time, she said. Also, check to be sure that someone will be home to accept the package and store it properly.

If sending mail-order food gifts, check for proper storage and delivery procedures, she said, by asking these questions:

*What kind of cold source will be used with perishable food and how long will the package be in transit? The cold source should ensure that food arrives still frozen or firm and cold. Canned or processed foods labeled "Keep refrigerated" should be shipped with a cold source.

*Can the vendor deliver the gift by a certain date? Once you know how long the mailing takes, call to find a date someone can be home to receive the gift. Then call the mailorder house back and set up delivery. The company should guarantee proper delivery.

"People who receive food gifts should check the items for signs of food deterioration and for proper storage and delivery conditions before accepting them," Van Laanen

For example, fresh or cooked meat, poultry or fish should arrive frozen, still hard in the middle, or cold if they have never been frozen, she said. Cheesecake should arrive fully frozen. Also, baked hams and most canned hams need refrigeration and should arrive cold.

"Some hard, dry sausages like pepperoni and hard salamis don't need refrigeration," Van Laanen said, "but other types such as summer sausage, Lebanon bologna and Thuringer do."

Van Laanen said never accept sausages that have molds. The same goes for cheese unless it's natural such as blue mold in blue cheese. "Runny" cheeses could harbor bacteria and are not suitable.

Those marketing items for gift baskets need to consider the proper storage conditions necessary, according to Van Laanen. For example, any canned product must be properly processed to be shelf-

"Items that need refrigeration are probably not the best choices for gift baskets," Van Laanen said. However, regardless of what you send, labeling all items as to storage requirements is a good idea."

For more information on food gifts, contact the home economics blouses to up-date solid agent in the local office of the colored suits of last Texas Agricultural Extension spring.
