Makes Farce of Evolution Theory

Clear, forceful language is employed by J. L. Martin, publisher of The McCamey News, weekly newspaper, in writing "Monkey Mileage From Amoeba to Man," just published by the Wm. B. Erdmans Publishing Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

The West Texas author is a veteran newspaper man, having owned nearly a score of newspapers in this state, though also is well known as a student of the Bible and of science, as well as having established an enviable record of conducting Sunday School classes in cities where he has operated newspapers.

In "Monkey Mileage," which retails at $1 and has been sent by the publishers to book counters throughout the nation, Mr. Martin bases his story on the assumed evolutionary steps taken by man from a one-celled amoeba, floating around in the protoplasmic ooze of ancient seas, to his present status as a complex mechanism of "organic" matter. Illustrations throughout the volume are the work of Mr. Martin's son and associate in the newspaper business, Jimmie Martin, who made the pen and ink sketches between times of working on the McCamey newspaper and attending to civic duties.

The elder Mr. Martin's brilliant satire on evolution, as presented in the book, takes one through the earliest stages to the fish-worm, amphioxus, fish, amphibian reptile, reptilian-primate, duality, and common ancestor stages.

After evidencing his knowledge of science, Mr. Martin then refers to the Bible and other sources to forcibly point out the fallacy of the whole "Godless, planless" theory known as evolution, concluding with the thought that only an infinite mind could make man and keep the world running in harmony with other planets.

Before submitting the manuscript to publishers, Mr. Martin received much encouragement from some of the Southwest's most outstanding ministers and Bible teachers, one of whom was influential in seeing the thoughts finally published.

Quotations from writers such as H. G. Wells, Hendrick Van Loon and Dr. Dorsey ("Why We Behave Like Human Beings") are compared with statements of scientists challenging evolutionary theory. It is the author's contention that "Pithecanthropus erectus," "Sianthropus Pekinensis," the "Piltdown man," "Cro-Magnon" man, etc., are creatures only of imagination. "The writer feels fully confident," he says, "that his exposition of the rank falsities of the foregoing 'restorations' will suffice to confine his reader's

Texans in Lead At Randolph Field

FORT SAM HOUSTON, TEXAS.—Native Texans have regained their customary majority of candidates enrolled at the United States Army Air Corps Primary Flying School, Randolph Field, Texas, according to information made available at Eighth Corps Area headquarters, Fort Sam Houston, today.

About a month ago, when a count was taken of the candidates who had up to that time been selected for the class, it was found that West Virginia with 21 students was in the lead in the matter of State representation of native sons in that class, followed by Texas with 15 and California with 11. Since that time, however, Texas, heretofore usually in keen competition with California for top honors in State representation in entering classes at the Air Corps Training Center, has overtaken West Virginia and now has a comfortable lead over all other states with 35 students, followed by West Virginia with 22, California with 15; Ohio and Illinois with 14 each; New York with 12; Massachusetts with 9 and Arkansas and Oklahoma with 8 each.

Among the various cities represented in the new class, Chicago has the largest delegation with 9 students, followed by Cleveland, Ohio, with 6; Washington, D. C. with 5; San Antonio, Columbus, Ohio and Lubbock, Texas, with 4 each; and Austin, Texas, Seattle, Detroit and Boston with 3 each.

The 232 students thus far selected for the March, 1938, class at Randolph Field marks the largest entering class at this school since it was established seven years ago. Applications from candidates for admission to the March class are still coming in, the dead-line set for March 9, when it is anticipated that the class would exceed 250.

English Newspaper Received Here

Dr. J. E. Brooking has received from relatives in Canada a recent copy of the weekly edition of The London Times and kindly turned it over to The Eagle for inspection. No better idea of the vastness of England's widespread dominions could be gained than to glance through the news items published in this paper.

The paper proper is covered with a colored jacket, the front and back of which are solid with advertisements. The editorials are termed "leading articles." The news from the United States is given considerable space and prominence. Several differences in spelling are apparent—"tyres" for tires, "gramophone" for phonograph, and "programme" for program.

Among the editorials one discusses the agitation for a change in the traditional English pronunciation of Latin words, while another entitled "Hands Off the Blackboard" derides the proposal to substitute blue chalk and yellow boards for the usual black and white.

Talking Newspapers

Children of the next generation who are too young to read, illiterates and blind persons may be able to unfold a newspaper and have it talk to them. It was reported last week that the Finch Tele-communications Laboratories had patented a method of producing a sound track on ordinary newspaper and of reproducing sound from the track by means of a simple, inexpensive device in the home. It is the cheapest sound recording system yet discovered, says the inventor. Newspaper, he says, could buy a master recording machine for $1,000 or

Utecht Lists Promising Business Factors

Despite national recession, Texas business looks to the spring for continued recovery.

Byron C. Utecht, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's capitol correspondent, names 20 "potent factors" to indicate that the "more abundant life" will be ushered in as a reality.

Not the least important were (1) Texas shows up better than any other state on the monthly, Washington-prepared business map, (2) There are no serious labor troubles, (3) the general revenue deficit has dropped from $18,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Other factors: A large increase in state revenues, with prospects that the gasoline tax alone this year will bring in $43,000,000.

Texas' one billion dollar oil industry, employing a quarter million men, is now stabilized.

Plants to manufacture paper from East Texas timber, others in South Texas to produce chemicals, will soon be under way.

No bank failures have been reported.

$50,000,000 in the hundred state funds showing cash balances.

Highway construction continues. No severe droughts. No legislature in session, nor in prospect for spring.

Farming in Ancient Israel

In ancient Canaan farms were assigned to the Hebrew families in perpetuity. The owner could rent or lease the homestead for not to exceed 50 years, but "the land shall not be sold for ever."

Every 50th year was designated a "year of jubilee," when the owners or their rightful heirs could return and regain possession of their farms. The Hebrews took great pride in the ownership of real estate. Wooden plows broke the surface of the ground but did not turn it over. Hence after the plowing the men took mattocks and broke the large clods which had been loosened. "Judah shall plow, Jacob shall break his clods," wrote one of the minor prophets.

The plowing and seeding were done during the winter. "The sluggard will not plow by reason of the winter; therefore he shall be in harvest and have nothing."

During their 40 years in the wilderness the Hebrews had accumulated large numbers of donkeys, fat-tailed sheep, rams of the breed of Bashan, goats, neat cattle, and camels. Horses were possessed by the Egyptians and the native Palestine tribes, but they appear to have been used only by soldiers. If the Hebrews had any horses prior to 1100 B. C. the Bible is silent regarding them.

The fields of Canaan were plowed with cattle and donkeys. One of the laws of Moses stipulates, "Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together." Frequent mention is made of oxen. It was also customary to use helpers for plowing and to draw carts.—The Progressive Farmer.

Gypsies are believed to have entered Europe early in the 15th century.

Speed Limit Signs to Be placed on Texas Highways

Texas will advertise its maximum speed law.

Within a few days the Highway Department plans to erect signs at ports of entry and along sectors of cardinal thoroughfares listing the maximum speeds for various vehicles.

The 21,000-mile state road system never has been marked with a speed limit sign, except those giving the 20-mile limit within incorporated cities.

All that will change shortly. The department, acceding a request of L. G. Phares of the highway patrol, plans placing yellow and black signs listing various limits—45 miles per hour for passenger cars, 40 for buses and light trucks and 25 for heavy trucks.

MID-TEX STARTER contains MANAMAR, which has proved to be a real "boon" to poultry men not only because chicks are growing off better with less loss from disease, but because they can save at least 25 per cent of the cost. ARE WE LEMMINGS?

In the bleak mountains of Northern Scandinavia, there is a queer little rodent called the lemming. Ordinarily it lives to itself, about like a ground squirrel. But ever so often some mysterious urge comes to these creatures to leave their mountain homes and travel to the sea.

Perhaps it was such an exodus that gave rise to the fable of the Pied Piper of Hamelin. But without a piper, the lemmings march by the millions towards the blue Atlantic.

Everything edible in their path is devoured. Countless thousands of the lemmings fall an easy prey to birds and animals. But nothing can turn them from their path. On and on they go, until finally they reach the sea. Even that does not stop them, for they plunge boldly in and swim until, exhausted at last, they sink forever beneath the restless waves.

Sometimes it appears there is a strain of the lemming in humanity. For ever so often the urge seems to come to go to war. Then despite the warnings of those who know of a better way, despite the pleadings of mothers and little children, the fatal die is cast, and the nation plunges, perhaps to rise no more, beneath the crimson tides of war.

The lemming has no human intelligence. It has no imagination. It knows nothing of the cruel depths of the ocean. It plunges in and on, blindly, without reason and without fear.

But man is endowed with a mind. He has the gift of memory. Recorded in history are the fatal missteps of countless other peoples who have lived and have died by the sword. For these reasons the tragedy is all the greater, when man blindly, impetuously rushes on to war.

Such a mad rush towards war seems to be beginning in central Europe today. Unheeded warnings by the score are carried away by the restless wind. Scheming leaders, avaricious demagogues, precarious dictators are piping the tunes that arouse the lust for conquest. Nothing seems able to stop them. And the rest of civilization, like the poor Norwegian peasant who sees his grain devoured as though by locusts when the lemmings are on the march, must suffer and perhaps die.

ONCE MORE, TAXES

Significant figures are being published these days that tell of the sky-rocketing of taxes and government expenditures. In Texas, for example, federal taxes jumped from $75,738,485 in 1936 to $102,092,625 in 1937, while state taxes were climbing from $127,092,235 to $154,120,031. Counting unemployment levies, the tax-gatherers, state and national, took seventy million MORE from Texas taxpayers in 1937 than they did the year before. The Eagle are taxpayers on real estate and But for the benefit of the man or woman who signs that because he doesn't sign a check for taxes any, the following figures quoted by the Texas are significant:

On every dollar's worth of tooth paste or soap, taxes. On a $35 suit of clothes 63 different taxes must be before it can be sold to you, and these amount to $6.86. A loaf of bread has contributed to no less than 58 different taxes, and an automobile contributes 345 taxes.

No matter where you turn, taxes will touch you. And yet the lawmakers who are responsible for saddling this tremendous burden on agriculture and industry, this dead weight on progress, everyone ran on a program of lower taxes.

Think it over. Then talk it over with the candidate who seeks your vote between now and July.

GERMANY CONTROLS AUSTRIA

The change in the government that has taken place in Austria is a great victory for those in Germany, who have been working for "Anschluss" since the end of the war, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. It is quite clear now that German influence over Austria will increase, and that it is only a matter of time before a customs union will be created and the Austrian army will become, for all practical purposes, a part of the German military forces. Austria was forced to adopt this policy because it was abandoned by the western democracies and could receive no support from Italy.

The Austrian problem is part of the general political situation

Birth Certificates

If unexpectedly faced with the necessity of legally establishing the date of their birth, their age, their American citizenship, thousands of Texans would not know whether or not their births were registered with the proper authorities. Great embarrassment, inconvenience, or even serious loss of property could conceivably result from either an absence of registration or an error made in filling it with the State.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, cited an unnamed, but prominent Texas citizen, who upon investigation, found that his son had been registered for more than 20 years as illegitimate. Another instance the health official related concerned a Veteran of the World War who, after rearing a family of three children, found that he had been registered at birth as a girl baby. The experiences of workers with vital statistics are rich with stories of persons vainly seeking to establish their rights to property because of neglect of their parents or attending physicians to register them properly at time of birth.

The law requires the births of all Texas babies to be registered with the local registrar, who is the Justice of Peace in rural areas, and City Secretary in incorporated towns, within five days after the blessed event takes place, and forms are furnished physicians and midwives for this purpose. A copy of the registration is returned for permanent filing. These records are "vital" not only to the individual from a legal standpoint, Dr. Cox said, but to the State as well.

"We must know how many babies are born, how many die and from what causes mortality occurs if we are to accomplish the best results from a public health standpoint. Such a program obviously needs the interested support of every Texan.

in Europe. Since the western democratic powers and notably Great Britain are apparently unwilling to intervene, the Reich will continue its attempts at expansion so that it will be but a question of time before Germany is the leading power of the entire Continent. The broader political effects are, of course, difficult to predict. British statesmen believe that once Germany's demands on the Continent are satisfied, a general solution of the European problem will be possible. Others, however, believe that once Germany has obtained free access to the large natural resources of the Danubian Basin, her demands will increase until they reach a point where war becomes inevitable.

Poets' Impresario

A treasury of American literary history will become available Tuesday with the publication of "A Poet's Life," the autobiography of Harriet Monroe, who died in the fall of 1936, after a remarkable career that spanned more than three-quarters of a century. Miss Monroe came into wide notice in 1893 when, after being chosen over the aged Whitier and other well-known poets, she read the "Columbian Ode" at the opening of the exposition in Chicago. But her lasting reputation was made, of course, as the editor of Poetry, the magazine she founded in 1912.

From its inception, this little Chicago monthly became the outstanding periodical for the publication of significant American verse. In its pages many of the most famous poems of a generation first saw the light: Carl Sandburg's "Chicago," Vachel Lindsay's "General William Booth Enters Into Heaven," Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" and much of the early work of Edgar Lee Masters, Robert Frost and a host of others. The magazine was ever receptive to serious experiments in new verse forms.

Though known largely as a vehicle of the Midwestern poetry movement of the years immediately preceding the World War, Poetry enjoyed an international influence in its field. There will be many readers for Miss Monroe's carefully written narrative story of the magazine—a narrative whose scope is wide enough to include a chapter on literary New York in the eighties and one on her correspondence and her disillusion on meeting the invalid Scot.—Dallas News.

There is not much to see in a small town, but what you hear makes up for it, says The Putnam News.

Our Bureau of Vital Statistics is only too glad to co-operate in "getting the record straight."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEW OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST

Idle and Malicious Gossip

"They say" and "I heard" are preambles to the slaughter of more reputations than all the actual wrong-doing in a lifetime.

"They say she did this or that," or "I heard that So-and-So was" are repeated more often by certain types of persons than the Lord's Prayer and comments on the state of the weather combined.

Sometimes we think the urge to gossip is a form of insidious disease that not only is incurable, but gradually eats away at the vitals of the gossiper, until finally, it devours its perpetrator in its own accumulated venom. Be that as it may, gossip has destroyed more good names, besmirched the reputations of more innocent persons than all the actual wrong deeds ever done by any target of gossip.

Gossip is the most prolific form of "insect" life we know. Start it by a whisper "They say," and without further cultivation or specific effort on the part of anyone, it grows from a tiny and usually more or less harmless germ to a vicious monster that sears the reputation of several people.

In trying to analyze the reason for gossip, we come to several valuable conclusions. One is that we believe some of the most persistent peddlers of gossip carry out their part of the vicious whisperings with a certain degree of joy and exultation because they feel that by gossiping about others they throw the spotlight off their own wrongdoings.

Others gossip with a certain fatalistic glee because their minds are too shallow to entertain any really serious or uplifting thought. They merely are taking the line of least thought in their daily round of idle gossip, for certainly it takes no high form of mentality to whisper a "they say" story about some neighbor or acquaintance.

If there are degrees of hell, as some theologians contend, for the various forms of sin, then certainly there will be a place far down in the sub-basement reserved especially for the peddlers of idle and reputation-smearing gossip. We hope so.—The Me-nard News.

Steer Hides Involved

West Texans, in recent months have been somewhat alarmed over the pending trade tariff agreements with the United Kingdom, fearful of a reduced tariff on raw wool and manufactured woolen products which might directly affect wool growers.

The cattlemen, too, have something at stake, in the forthcoming trade agreement with Czechoslovakia, in which shoe manufacturers are vitally interested.

It is imperative that, in discussion of the trade agreement with the United Kingdom, this evidence should be kept in mind, as benefits of any reduction of tariff rates on boots and shoes will be taken advantage of by Czechoslovakia.

The little country does not loom so brightly on the map of the world, but its position as one of this nation's chief competi-

Texas Stake in China

How an ultimate Japanese victory in China might pinch the pocketbooks of Texans was brought home to a Dallas audience in the address of Dr. Ch'ao-tung Chi Thursday evening. Japan's leading agricultural economist, he pointed out, already had mapped a plan by which cotton will displace wheat and other crops in five provinces of North China, provided Japan is able to conquer them. By utilizing this land for cotton, grown with forced Chinese labor, Japan might compete even more advantageously with Lancashire and New England in the world market for cotton goods.

Loss of one of the best of recent customers for Texas cotton would mean a severe jolt for the southwest. But this gloomy prospect will not lead the majority of Americans to assent to the plea of the eminent Chinese professor for a boycott of Japanese silk and an embargo against shipments of American oil to Japan. It is obvious that either of these actions would be a heavy blow to Japan in her aggressive war against China, yet there is a danger that either might embroil this country in the war and thus lead to even greater blood-

The war in China, the most severe of any since the armistice of 1918, already has involved the slaughter of an estimated one million people. The Chinese, more than any other people, would like to see the conflict brought to a prompt end. But the longer the war lasts, the better chance China will have for final victory. China is greatly superior in manpower and is much more nearly self-sufficient economically than is Japan. If China can continue to receive supplies of foreign munitions, she can carry on guerrilla warfare for years and can do much to demoralize the Japanese forces by cutting their thin lines of communication and by making sudden forays behind the Japanese front.

Japan's financial weakness is another factor favoring China in case of a prolonged war. The Japanese Government already is having difficulty in floating war loans and the danger of money inflation is said to be almost imminent. Inflation would hamper Japan's foreign trade and thus weaken her military strength. However the war turns out, both China and Japan will lose; and a clear Japanese victory might bring loss to Texas as well.—Dallas News.

A good office woman is more useful than any man, but no wonder. Her job is just house-keeping down town.

Any action tending to permit entrance into this country of leather products means just that much more profit for the exporting nation and that much less for American manufacturers.

After all, the hide of a West Texas steer is taken into consideration when a price is paid for the animal. As a hide declines in value in this country, the price for the animal from which it is taken drops correspondingly.—San Angelo Standard.

Comanche

A five-year-old ewe, owned by Keith Lane, local ranchman, gave birth to a peculiar monstrosity Saturday afternoon, in the form of a lamb or two lambs of normal size.

The freak, which died at birth in the form of two heads, on separate necks which joined at the one set of shoulder blades, and had only one breast bone, and only two front legs. The body or bodies, separated into two distinct hind quarters, perfect in every detail with the four rear legs. Both were males.

Lane is having the freak mounted by a taxidermist.

Mrs. Lois Laverne Edwards, wife of J. C. Edwards, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kendall in Graham, Texas, March 7, following an illness of several months, she having been stricken at her home in Comanche last summer.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Johnson, 78, wife of W. R. (Bill) Johnson, of Gustine Route 1, died at her home Tuesday, March 8, following an illness. Funeral services were held at the Union Cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Johnson had been a resident of Comanche County for 56 years. She was born in Alabama March 23, 1860.

Wearing the same shoes he did in March, 1898, when he was initiated into the I. O. O. F. Lodge here, Ben J. Pittman, of De Leon was honor guest of the Comanche lodge Tuesday night.

When Pittman was initiated he had on a $40.00 pair of custom-made shoes which he has worn occasionally ever since. A story concerning the shoes recently appeared in Ripley's "Believe It or Not."

Another large crowd was in Comanche First Monday. A paper salesman from Waco who has been making Comanche for years, but had never been here on First Monday, was astonished at the crowd and said he had never seen anything like it. He has never been in Comanche on Saturday, and if he should, another surprise would likely be in store for him.—Chief Charlie Galingo, 24-year-old Mexican employed on the A. M. Baskin farm, beyond Harkeyville, was killed instantly and a friend Magarito Martinez, lies unconscious, near the point of death in a Brady hospital, as the result of a head-on auto crash at the sharp turn east of the San Saba River bridge near Mrs. McCarty's place west of town. The other car, driven by Calvin Deeds, was going West. Deeds, who was alone, received only a few scratches. The accident occurred shortly after sun-up Friday morning.

Late Saturday night, burglars broke into the McLaughlin Boot and Shoe Shop, Commerce St. and stole 6 pairs of expensive hand-made boots valued at from $30 to $50 per pair. Entrance was effected through the back way. The boots were on display in the show cases.

Friday, William Kuykendall, Wallace Creek rancher and expert snake hunter, came to town and got Minister Hulen Jackson and Dr. R. C. Felts to give them a thrill at rattle snake hunting.

The trio armed with 22 rifles and knee-high boots drove down to the Manley ranch and chose a group of caves to begin the hunt. Due to the warm sun, they soon found several big rattlers coiled up on the rocks, sunning themselves after their long winter hibernation. Before the hunt was over, the three marksmen accounted for 24 of the big rattlers. Only one was as short as 3 feet, the rest ranged up from 4 to 5½ feet. The largest measuring 5½ feet.

This winter it is estimated that there have been about 400-acres of new orchards put in in the Northwest part of the county. This is said to be the heaviest planting of fruit trees for many years. It is estimated that there are now about 1200 acres under peaches in that section of San Saba County.—News

The Volunteer Fire Department was called to the homes of Sam Goodman, Mrs. A. J. Perry and Warren Patterson, Sunday afternoon. The first alarm called the department to the home of Sam Goodman to extinguish a fire started in his garage. The garage was destroyed. The garage at the home of Mrs. Perry then caught fire from sparks from the other fire, but the blaze was extinguished before much damage was done. The home of Warren Patterson also caught from sparks but very little damage was done.

Poorly Nourished Women— They Just Can't Hold Up

Are you getting proper nourishment from your food, and restful sleep?

A poorly nourished body just can't hold up. And as for that run-down feeling, that nervous fatigue,—don't neglect it!

Cardul, for lack of appetite, poor digestion and nervous fatigue, has been recommended by mothers to daughters—women to women—for over fifty years.

Try it! Thousands of women testify Cardul helped them. Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

MEN because they are men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness for three weeks of the month—but a hell-out the fourth.

And make up your mind never will understand. There are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

No matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood into womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and go "smiling through." Over a million women have written in reporting benefit. Why not give this world-famous medicine a chance to help YOU?

According to authoritative information the Hamilton territory is due to have in the immediate future, a renewal of activities in search of an oil field, which for years has been said by reputable geologists to lie somewhere underneath the "floor" of Hamilton County.

Senior Play

The Seniors of Goldthwaite high school presented their annual play last week and set a record for attendance for senior plays. The auditorium was filled to capacity before time for curtain to rise.

The play showed much preparation and work. All characters presented their parts so as to show meaning in action as well as word. This play proved some real talent in our high school. The stage manager, Hubert Shaw, had the stage arranged perfectly and was alert in changes, between acts. His efforts are greatly appreciated.

The profit of the play was $65, which will go to the seating project for grammar school auditorium. This has been the project that seniors classes have chosen for the past few years. The Parent-Teacher Association makes an annual donation to this project and their donation benefits greatly.

Supt. Smith stated that the senior play this year was better and more successful than any he had seen in his teaching career. The Senior Class appreciates the co-operation Mr. Smith has shown in all its undertakings. Mrs. Barnett directed the play and was faithful to her task throughout rehearsal.

As special attractions, the Grammar school Rhythm band played and the Senior Class Trio sang. The Goldthwaite High School Band played, also. The seniors want to thank these groups for their offerings.
