Don't Treat Good Seeds Like a Stepchild
By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

At this time of the year seed for fall crops demand consideration. Whether for fall garden, or field crops, it is easier and usually cheaper to buy seed ahead of the main planting season. It is just too bad, with the ground all ready and the season right, the seed are not on hand and local seed stores have sold out. One or two days difference in planting under the erratic weather and soil moisture conditions of the Southwest, often means the difference between a good stand and a poor one, and a poor stand means a poor yield. In the fall, when approaching winter limits growth, planting at the proper time and under the best possible conditions, is even more important than in spring.

Getting the land ready—making a good seed-bed is (next to good seed) the best insurance of getting a good stand and giving the seedlings a healthy start in life. It is not too much to say that, of all things within the farmer's control, good seed and a good seed-bed are the most important factors in production. It is too late to materially improve the condition of the soil by tillage after the crop is growing, and seed worth planting deserve something better than the treatment of a step-child.

Different crops require different seed-bed preparation, but no preparation fit for planting can be done after planting time is upon us. Crops which need a firm seed-bed must be anticipated by plowing long enough in advance to permit the soil to settle, or else extra work must be done with cultipacker or some substitute to firm the sub-surface and pulverize the surface soil.

The fall garden is the most important piece of ground on the farm, and will amply repay all the work put into it before planting time. In a large measure the same is true of field crops, with especial emphasis on alfalfa, sweet clover, vetch and small grass seeds which must be covered lightly by fine soil, and yet require a firm subsoil.

The Southwest is planting more oats, barley, wheat, rye grass and clovers for winter grazing than ever before, and the earlier they are sown the more grazing may be expected. Where they are grown primarily for the grain, the small grains will often pay a profit from grazing alone. In the colder sections of the Southwest wheat and rye grass, which are more resistant to cold than oats or barley, furnish most winter grazing. Rye grass is also increasing in popularity in the Gulf Coast region where rust often shortens the grazing period of oats or barley.

The Texas Experiment Station

(Bulletin No. 539) reports that barley furnished more fall and early winter grazing than other crops, but Italian rye grass supplied by far the greatest amount of grazing in March, April and May. The two on the same farm give a much longer grazing season than any one crop, and the rye grass is at its best after livestock must be removed from fields which are expected to produce a grain crop.

Green winter pastures supply the all-important vitamins which dry feed lacks, and contribute greatly to the health and growth of livestock and poultry. The time is fast approaching when every good farmer will sow his winter pastures as regularly as the seasons come around.

It is already a common practice to graze wheat, oats and barley where they are grown for grain and if judiciously practiced, does not reduce the grain crop. In fact under some conditions the yield of grain is increased by grazing.

Dairy cows, sheep and laying hens probably respond most profitably to green winter pastures, but all kinds of livestock thrive better and cost less to produce through the use of pastures, winter or summer.

Miss Lois Stoneham Honored at Farewell Party Friday Evening

Tables were spread on the grounds overlooking the lake with places for over thirty friends of the honoree. A delicious picnic supper was served after which popular and old-time melodies were sung.

After supper the guests retired to the club house and joined in games of ping-pong, dominoes, checker checks and other games.

Included in the personnel were Misses Virginia Bowman, Grace Patterson, Lou Ella Patterson, Lillie Martin, Gwendolyn Hill, Nettie Ruth Brucks and the honoree Miss Lois Stoneham, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Walters Hester, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. F. ### Drive Safe During Holiday Period

AUSTIN—Unless motorists follow safe driving rules during the Labor Day holiday period, September 3, 4 and 5, Texas streets and highways will be marked with the mangled bodies of 17 traffic crash victims, state police warned today.

Using last year's Labor Day death figures as a guide, state safety officials predicted that at least 26 persons will lose their lives in Labor Day violence. In addition to 17 traffic deaths, five are expected to drown, two will be accidentally shot and two will die from other types of accidents.

In spite of precautions planned to forestall many tragic crashes, state police are forecasting that approximately 125 persons will be injured in accidents of all types—many to be maimed for life. State patrolmen will guard all highways closely, working double shifts with very little rest until the holiday period has passed, Chief Hickman said. Special attention will be given to drinking drivers and those who violate the 45 mile-an-hour speed law, and weave in and out of traffic lanes.

"Fast driving means death in collisions when reasonable speed would cause slight injury," Chief Hickman admonished. State officers will join with local police in preventing as many casualties as possible.

To the Voters Of Mills County

I desire to extend to my friends my most sincere appreciation for the support given me in Saturday's election. Although one may not win, it is a sincere satisfaction to know that those who know you best are supporting you.

Convocation Service

The opening of the city schools next Monday moves the religious leaders of the community to desire a special religious service to inaugurate the work for the year. In keeping with that desire, such a service has been arranged for next Sunday night, to be held in the school auditorium at 8:00 o'clock.

Judge Gerald has been asked to preside, Superintendent Smith to introduce all the teachers, and three pastors will deliver ten minute addresses, and a male quartet will sing. The people of the whole community are invited to attend, and it is hoped that representatives of school districts from the whole county will honor the occasion with their presence.

The following program has been arranged and will be carried out substantially as shown here.

- Hymn, "America."
- Invocation, Fred J. Brucks.
- Hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers."
- Scripture reading, E. E. Furr.
- Male Quartet.
- Addresses:
  1. "From Gilgal to Gerizim," E. E. Dawson.
  2. "Education Plus Religion Equals Good Citizenship," E. E. Furr.
  3. "The Place of Example in Education," Fred J. Brucks.
- Hymn, "America the Beautiful."

The crowd departed at late evening, hoping to see each other and many more next year at this same time.

Those present were: Mrs. Frank Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Rob York and family, Moline; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. White

SO THAT'S OVER—

Most citizens have breathed a sigh of relief at the close for a while of the frenzied political season that has kept Texas astir for most of 1938. The run-off is over and we know now who will be elected in the general election in November. Now we can all go back to our businesses and try to make up for the time we have wasted on politics this summer.

The significant thing about the run-off primary, of course, is the fact that it has shown that it is the principle of "turning the professional politicians out" that is actuating the voters this year rather than that of giving W. Lee O'Daniel a free hand. While he makes much of securing the nomination of two-thirds of the candidates he campaigned for, he really only won half of the offices that would do him any good. No one seriously believes that the two judges whom O'Daniel recommended will have any influence on his program, but the offices of attorney-general, railroad commissioner, land commissioner and lieutenant governor are extremely powerful.

That of lieutenant-governor is undoubtedly the most important of the four, and the nomination of Coke Stevenson, although by a narrow margin, assures the governor a strong hand in the senate—that is, of course, if Stevenson reverses his previous attitude towards such important matters as liberalizing old age pensions, for instance.

Loss of the attorney-general's office to Gerald Mann, who led the run-off ticket by a substantial margin, is a hard blow to O'Daniel's prestige. It proves conclusively that the people were sold on Mann's ability and sincerity and a great many loyal O'Daniel supporters must have bolted to support him. However, this is a good thing for the state, first because Mann is not the kind of official who will betray the people, and secondly because it will not permit the formation of a powerful machine controlled by the new governor. A reasonable amount of independence on the part of the other officers is a good thing in the state government, and it is certain that Mann will not be a rubber stamp official.

Sadler's nomination is less of a blow to O'Daniel than it is a threat to the pets of the railroad commission. Unless the legislature quickly takes away from the commission the powers now held by it, it appears certain that Lon Smith and Sadler will run the commission henceforth just as Ernest Thompson and C. V. Terrell have been running it up till now. That will probably mean a lot of new names on the state payroll next January and entirely new oil and truck regulations.

O'Daniel's campaign against professional politicians came home to roost last Saturday, for of the four major state officers nominated, three have had little if any political experience, and the sole surviving veteran, Coke Stevenson, would undoubtedly have gone down had his opponent had a stronger business record back of him.

But it's over now. The State Convention at Beaumont will probably produce a lot of fireworks but no casualties, so about the only thing left to argue about is whether W. Lee O'Daniel will pay his poll tax next year.

GOING TO THE DOGS

Over in England, where they are teaching the civilians how to wear gas masks, and the constant threat of war is giving everyone a bad case of nerves, some very pessimistic doctrines have recently appeared. Professor Joad of the University of London, for instance, has proposed that a committee be formed to pass on the desirability of new inventions with power to suppress those that threaten more harm than good to the race. Such a committee in England right now would very likely suppress the airplane and its constant threat to England's security, but would that suppression counterbalance the possibilities for good that the airplane possesses? We think not.

Should such a committee have been in existence at the time of England's industrial revolution, it is likely that the spinning jenny and the power loom—both of which were at first opposed in high and low places—would never have been developed. When the automobile was first introduced in this country a popular vote would have banished it forever.

Perhaps some modern inventions have caused more harm than good. But instead of suppressing them, let us accept the challenge to suppress their harmful uses and magnify their good. That is one way to keep the world from going to the dogs.

Stuart Chase, Economist, Says America Must Attend Own Affairs

LET'S stay in our own back yard. Continental Europe munitions plants are working 24 hours a day. Huge fleets of airplanes are turned out monthly only to be obsolete before they are scarcely broken in and thousands of spies roam the land in search of the secrets of other nations.

In the October issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, Stuart Chase, noted author, has analyzed America. "We have our problems, but thank God we do not have their problems," Mr. Chase says. "This article is an appeal to my fellow-countrymen to concentrate on urgent domestic problems instead of identifying themselves with problems across the sea."

"Now look at the United States. What a difference," he says. "It is a clean band, one thousand miles broad, straight across the continent of North America. The waves of the Atlantic come tumbling in on one side, the long rollers of the Pacific on the other. To the South is a big muddy river, and beyond it a brown people of a very ancient culture. This boundary makes plenty of sense. To the north lies some more United States in the territory of Alaska, and an imaginary line beyond which is Canada. It doesn't make much sense, but fortunately it doesn't cause much trouble."

Pointing out that this band is larger than England, Germany, France, Italy and Japan combined, and that any one of these nations could be comfortably tucked into the state of Texas, Mr. Chase maintains it is our vastness that is our salvation. This integration which makes us so different and so fortunate is not a Jew of nature, according to the writer. America has had to work for it and three times we have had to fight for it, and more than once we have come near losing it.

"In 1776, thirteen provinces, decided to go it alone," he says. "They defeated the British army and became independent. After

Behind the Scenes in American Business

—By John Craddock—

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—BUSINESS—Progress is still being made, though slowly, in the nation's fight for economic recovery. Operations in America's huge steel mills last week rose to 40 per cent of capacity for the first time since November. An estimated 24,000 men were returned to work in the Ford River Rouge plant. PWA predicted that work will begin at early dates on about $800,000,000 of non-federal construction activity. Plenty of jobs there. Inventories of automobile dealers, according to Secretary of Commerce Roper, are now at the lowest point in four years. AAA officials believe that loans are now mandatory on the current cotton crop inasmuch as the price on 10 designated spot markets has fallen to 8.20 cents a pound. Such loans would halt any further decline in the purchasing power of cotton growers. Looking ahead, experts of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics foresee a gradual improvement for business during the fall and winter months.

WASHINGTON—The new Civil Aeronautics Authority begins to function here this week. Airline executives are looking for this agency to help iron out some of the problems confronting their industry. Though the airlines have experienced an amazing traffic growth, they still serve only a relatively small percentage of the people who travel around the country every day. Last year, for example, while the airlines carried 1,100,000 passengers, the railroads transported 497,300,000. Much larger planes than the present 21-passenger ships in general use on major airlines are now available. The new Douglas DC-4 now undergoing test flights on the west coast can carry 40 passengers. It is the world's largest land transport plane, having a wing spread of 135 feet. Much of its equipment too qualifies as the world's "largest." Its tires, for instance, stand five feet five inches, weigh 360 pounds each and contain 45 miles of tire cord. If traffic can be boosted sufficiently to warrant the use of these larger planes, real operating economies probably could be effected by the airlines.

THE SHOEMAKER—Today very few "shoemakers" actually make shoes. They repair them. The name simply is a carryover from the pre-machine age when the shoe repair-man also was the man who made the shoes. In America there are some 85,000 shoe repair shops, owned largely by men of Italian or Greek extraction. This is more than were in 1929, the reason being that in good times people often throw away shoes without bothering to have them re-soled, or re-heeled. The demand for shoe repair work therefore improves when general business gets worse and vice versa. It is estimated that the annual business done by shoe repair shops in America amounts to approximately $125,000,000, making an exceptionally low average of only $1,500 per store. About 35 per cent of what the shoe repairer charges for fixing a pair of shoes goes for leather, rubber and other materials. Total business done 20 years ago was $550,000,000 and 15 years ago $375,000,000. In those days new shoes were more expensive than nowadays, and people had their shoes repaired over and over before discarding them.

HERE AND THERE—If every American ate one more slice of bread daily, farmers could sell 50,000,000 more bushels of wheat a year. There are 15,240,000 work animals on U. S. farms, or approximately 2.2 per farm. . . . Laying hens need a diet with 16 to 17 percent protein in the summer, poultry husbandmen of the A&M College Extension Service say.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEW OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST

Hot-Weather Horrors

In other years this silly season of midsummer heat plus humidity was wont to bring forth tall tales concerning sea serpents. So far this season we have not heard about any sea serpents, except that permanent one over in Loch Ness which, like Scotch thrift, seems to go on forever.

But if sea serpents are lacking there are other sources of the creepy and horrific. Witness the yarns being dished out by Representative Martin Dies and his special House committee engaged in the study of "un-American activities."

The Dies committee, like the fat boy in Pickwick Papers, loves to make 'em shudder. So out of the bag it pulls a horror story concerning Communism in movie-land. This time the details are not in the form of testimony, but a sort of "build-up" from the advance report of an agent of the committee.

Fancy meeting the Red menace in Hollywood! But, says the Dies agent, "all phases of radical and Communist activities are rampant among the studios of Hollywood," adding that some film celebrities "are using their large salaries to finance subversive activities." He asserts that other stars are opposed to these machinations but are afraid to speak out, one explaining that if he did so he would soon be ditched by the studios.

Inasmuch as one of the chief criticisms which intelligent observers make against the American cinema concerns its conservatism and timidity in dealing with controversial issues, this picture of a Red film land is more amusing than convincing. Our own movie editor has a term for the pretty fairy tales about the film boys and girls which flow from the studio publicity offices. It is "press agent piffle." In the present instance we do not know about the press agency, but are sure about the piffle.

We have no reason to question Congressman Dies' sincerity. When the present hearings opened he promised they would be conducted on a "dignified plane." plane. But one fears the very nature of their aim will make this difficult if not impossible. Dies is probing the political belief and activities of private citizens, any of whom seems to us to have the right to tell him to run along and mind his business. American ideals are to be cherished and protected. Fortunately Communism, Nazism and Fascism are abhorrent to most Americans. We believe they will continue to be, without any assistance from a congressional committee authorized to do plain and fancy snooping, and armed with power to examine the income tax returns of "any individual, any corporation or any private organization" from 1932 to date. We have enough faith in Americanism to feel convinced that it does not need this sort of a crutch.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

History's Lesson

By an ironic twist France's navy minister, Cesar Campinchi, made the dedication of a monument to Napoleon at Ajaccio, Corsica, the occasion for some philosophical observations on dictators. "It is a danger for a state to rest upon a single man," the navy minister said. And quoted Napoleon: "In time the sword will always be beaten." That, of course, is the irrefutable lesson of history. It is a French saying that the more things change the more they are the same. Napoleon bestrode the continent in his day and had Britain by the throat. Today another dictator has the peace or destruction of Europe in the palm of his hand. "Certainly," said the navy minister, "a democratic regime may have its weaknesses. But what are they compared with the dangers of uncontrolled power?" But the dedication of the monument to Napoleon was not all. The French navy minister was there for another purpose also. He was inaugurating a mighty French naval base at Aspreto. This is on the west coast of Corsica. The picture, the dedication and the speech are all significant. For the base is intended to bring up France's naval power in the Mediterranean somewhat on a par with that of Italy.

Glaring Headlights

The growing number of persons who confess to a dread of night driving, particularly because of the nerve strain attendant on seeing the way clear amid a recurrent bewilderment of oncoming headlights, may be cheered by the prospect of a mitigation of that menace by the prospective introduction of a new and special type of glass both fore lights and for windshield visors, according to Bert H. White, director of a research advisory service of a local bank. It is forecast that cars may be fitted with windshield visors and headlights crossed with such lenses; the effect being that light emanating from the headlights will strike the roadway and be reflected back through the visor to the driver—in such a way that the approaching car will seem to be equipped with a pair of purple discs. Thus, it is said, the new glass will illumine the road ahead without blinding the eyes of oncoming motorists; and the implication is that the visor will not cause the driver's outlook to be more shadowy than does ordinary windshield glass. Doubtless it will be considerable time, in any case, before the automotive use of the new device will have become standard; but any practical approach to safer automobile illumination of roadways at night will be welcomed with observant interest. Meanwhile, much of the headache of night driving will be mitigated by motorists' consideration in the use of dimmers, in guarded steering and in more general attention to the condition of headlights. It may well be borne in mind that the number of drivers handicapped by some visual defect is apt to be comparatively greater in night-driving traffic.—Charleston News and Courier.

Comanche

The family have re-located to Lubbock where the late Mr. and Mrs. ...

The Rural Electrification Association movement got underway in real earnest in Comanche county during the early part of the week.

A. C. Thomas of Dallas, who is the United States Government representative in charge of the REA movement.

Miss La Verle Moseley, bride-to-be of Bob Burton of Comanche, was honored Thursday evening, August 11, with a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. George Blackwell at her home in Gorman.

It pays to trade at home for we have proved by an experiment that a dollar spent in Comanche will return to you. On August 8, we spent $1.00 with a local grocery store for lard. Attached to the dollar bill was a note asking each person into whose possession the dollar passed to spend the dollar in Comanche and write on the attached paper for what the money was spent. The dollar bill was handed back to us Monday by N. N. Durham, proprietor of the William Reese Drug store, with a request that his subscription to The Chief be renewed. In the two weeks that bill was circulating it changed hands 23 times, all in Comanche.

Last rites for Mrs. W. T. Huggins, 63, were held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, August 12, at Mercer's Gap with Rev. Herbert Christian of Blanket conducting the service. Interment was in Mercer's Gap Cemetery.

Miss Mattie Chambers and Edwin Lemons were married Tuesday, August 16, at the home of Elder and Mrs. S. W. Short. Elder Short performed the ceremony.—Chief.

Hamilton

The State Highway Commission is advertising for bids for grading, structures and surfacing of 5.888 miles on Highway 36 from the Coryell county line to the new pavement in Hamilton county. This will complete the gap and give Hamilton an outlet to the east.

Oscar Graves, age 40, son of the late Bethel Graves and Ellen Graves, was found dead in a water tank near their home in Jonesboro Saturday evening. After eating he went to the tank for the purpose of bathing and it is presumed that he had an attack of acute indigestion or heart failure while in the water.

Mrs. Loy R. Jones of Hamilton is ill in Stephenville, confined to her bed upon orders of a doctor. She will be sent to the Sanitarium in San Angelo in a week or so, where she will probably remain for four or five months.

Walter Koen, druggist of Clovis, N. M., was taken to a Dallas hospital a few days ago and is in a serious condition. He is a brother of Lawrence, John and Dr. Jack Koen, of Hamilton.

The home of C. L. West in northwest Hamilton was practically destroyed by fire Monday morning at 11 o'clock. Very little of the contents were saved, except a wash of clothes hanging on the lines outside.

On Wednesday evening, Aug. 17, at his home, Rev. L. C. Matthis united in marriage, Mr. E. G. Gregory and Miss Margaret Linnet Lowe. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Lowe.

We knew it was going to happen because they were so long about it. The Highway maintenance crew Tuesday completed paving West Main street from the Barnes corner to the city limits.

C. G. Brown of Temple, employee of the Santa Fe Railroad, was fatally injured in an automobile accident which occurred early Wednesday morning on Highway 74 between Lampasas and Lometa. The accident occurred when the car which Mr. Brown was driving struck a concrete bridge and was completely wrecked.—Leader.

Simple Improvement Makes Floor Cleaning Much Easier

Kitchen floors that are covered with linoleum sometimes cause the housewife considerable unnecessary work because of the difficulty in cleaning the surface where it joins with the base of the wall.

A simple modernization project that will put an end to such bother is the installation of a curved base. To apply a cove base, as it is called, a cove stick is nailed to the base of the wall and both wall base and stick are covered with linoleum paste. The covering is then fitted to the base and stick.

The Property Improvement Credit Plan makes funds available for modernization work on liberal terms. The funds are loaned by banks, building and loan associations, insurance companies, and other private lending institutions that are insured by the FHA.

Howard Hughes 'Unpredictable' Says Uncle Rupert

THE man who flew around the world in three days, nineteen hours, and seventeen minutes saw very little of it.

Howard Hughes was in the air only seventy-odd flying hours but he has said that over two hundred thousand hours were spent in preparing for it.

In the October issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, Rupert Hughes, famous novelist, tells the story of his brilliant nephew.

"It was a pitiful thing that neither his father nor his mother lived long enough even to dream of his career as an aviator," Mr. Hughes writes. "They had the highest confidence in his mechanical and scientific genius, but he had not given a hint then of his aerial future."

The father of Howard Hughes, and a brother of the writer, was a fearless adventurer from his cradle, the noted writer relates. Young Hughes shows those traits, too.

"I am asked what Howard is going to do next. Even if he were disposed to tell me his secrets, it is difficult to take into one's confidence an ignoramus who doesn't even speak the same language. The things Howard does and plans are hard to put in words of one syllable—particularly such monosyllables as would mean anything to me," Hughes says.

Wayne Baker returned home last week from a visit with his sister, Mrs. Fredda Marshall, in West Texas.

Mrs. Iza House and Mrs. Clara Emdy went to Temple last week to see Mrs. Carlyn Wall who underwent an appendectomy.

Jones Valley

By Mrs. Geo. D. Brooks

We have just returned from a trip to our old homes in Snyder, Texas. The entire week was spent in visiting relatives and friends and also visiting childhood haunts. The Thompson's, (Mrs. Brooks family) held a reunion. All of the family was present. Feed crops in that section are extra good and prospects for cotton are unusually good until about two weeks ago. The insects have cleaned the stalks since then and many say there will not be a sack put in the fields. The horses in that country are dying of sleeping sickness caused by mosquitos. On our return, we found that a disease had broken out among the stock in this country. A number of people have lost cattle and horses. Everyone is vaccinating for it and we hope to have control of it soon.

Our meeting closed Sunday night. It was very successful. Tip Roberts visited relatives in James this week Robert Roberts went with his as far as San Angelo and visited his sister at that place.

Mrs. W. B. Wilcox attended a birthday dinner Sunday, at Mullin, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Scrivner.

Mrs. Arthur Wilcox and boys attended a reunion of the Ledbetter family held Sunday, at the Goldthwaite Fair Grounds. Mr. Wilcox did not get to be with them because some of his stock had Anthrax and he was trying to save them.

Mr. and Mrs. Odin Renfro visited in the Luther Jernigan home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Powell and family visited her parents at Ridge, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyd have moved to his father's home at Rock Springs. We will miss them in our community.

"Few conquests of science have been so spectacular and complete as those relating to diphtheria. Science has firmly established the value of serum treatment in both its preventative and curative phases. However, toxin-antitoxin or its successor toxoid for immunization and antitoxin for cure, are serums of which the general public is even yet not fully aware," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"As indicated, toxoid is the immunizing or preventative agent now usually employed. However, three or four months are required for the body to develop immunity. At that time the Schick test can be applied to determine the results of the preventative treatment.

"Children should receive diphtheria immunization as early as possible, preferably as soon as they are six months old. The necessity for this immunization is recognized when it is known that two-thirds of all deaths from diphtheria occur in the age group under six years.

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized that to deprive children of this protection science has made possible is to subject them to unwarranted and unnecessary hazards that can easily turn into a tragedy. Parental interest in immunization must be more widespread, if the Texas death rate from this disease is to be decreased from the 1937 total of 257.

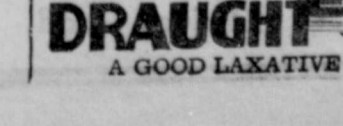

"When a child has been taken ill with diphtheria, antitoxin is the only treatment that will save its life. Also, to be effective, it must be given early in the illness and in large doses. Delay is usually caused by parents failing to realize that any sore throat may actually be diphtheria.

Hearty Salads For Warm Days

Cool and crisp salads which are substantial enough to make one feel well-fed have a definite place on summer menus. And meat salads do just that! But it is important that one observe a few simple precautions in making meat salads the delightful food they can be. Here are a few suggestions given by Inez S. Willson, home economist:

1. All ingredients for salads should be thoroughly chilled before combining them.
2. Any kind of cold cooked meat may be used for salad. Cold roast veal, pork, ham or lamb make excellent meat salads. If no cold cooked meat is on hand, frankfurters or other of the ready-to-serve meats may be used for excellent salad combinations.
3. The addition of diced celery, cucumber, or lettuce adds crispness to any salad.
4. Cut meat and vegetables for the toss-up kind of a meat salad into pieces about 1-2 inch in size. The pieces should be large enough so that they can be identified, but small enough to make an attractive appearance.
5. Moisten the ingredients with salad dressing. Use just enough salad dressing to moisten. A tart dressing is better for a meat salad. The addition of a little seasoning, such as Worcestershire sauce, or grated onion, gives the salad extra zest and piquancy. If desired, meat may be marinated in a French dressing before combining in the salad.
6. Vary the greens used for salad. Lettuce, chicory, endive, watercress, romaine, and escarole are all at home on the salad plate.
