Boy Scout News

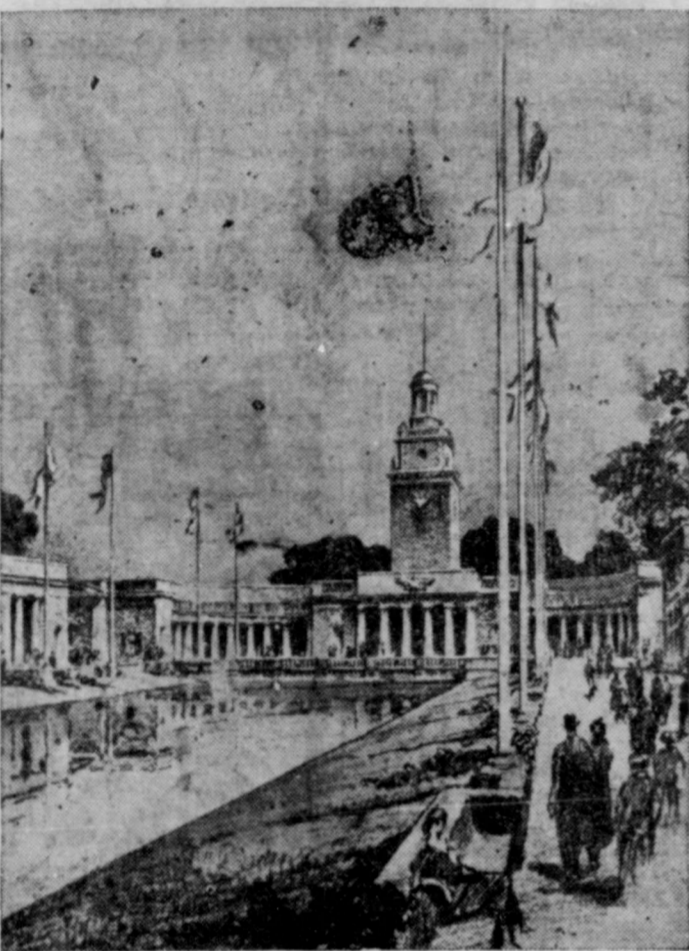

Thursday, June 29, Scout Troop 45 of Goldthwaite journeyed to Lampasas to attend one of the largest Courts of Honor ever held in this district.

The Scouts assembled at the Church of Christ at 2:30 and after the truck arrived, proceeded to Lometa where they stopped for a short time. After arriving at Lampasas the Scouts went directly to Hancock Park where they enjoyed a nice swim. As soon as the other Scout Troop had arrived the swimming contests were held. The contests held are as follows:

25-yard backstroke, 50-yard free style, 25-yard free style, jack knife dive, clown dive, and any dive the contestant wanted to do. Although Troop 45's swimmers were greatly out classed, they enjoyed it as it was all in fun. Lampasas easily won in both swimming and diving contests, taking an early lead in the contests between the troops which were finished later in the evening.

The Scouts left the swimming pool and crossed the creek to the park where they enjoyed their supper and strolled around until time to leave for the Court of Honor.

States' Buildings at New York Fair

NEW YORK—This sketch was made from final plans for the Court of the State Buildings at the New York World's Fair 1939. Here the various states of the union, most of which have taken space for their displays, will exhibit their natural advantages and industrial accomplishments. The English section is shown above. There will also be French and Spanish areas.

The Court of Honor was held in the High School Gym with the visitors in the spectators seats. The Court being performed on the floor. After speeches by the leader the Scouts were called forward to receive their badges for promotion. Out of the 27 scouts from Troop 45 of Goldthwaite attending, the Rally nearly all, if not all, received advancement or merit badges with some receiving both. When the presentation of badges was completed the scouts entered several contests against each other with Lampasas winning first. Altho Troop 45 only placed third it was first in attendance.

Visitors from Goldthwaite included L. B. Porter and family Mrs. Hope Shulze, Dr. Graves and wife, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hunt, and Mr. Davis and family. The Scouts appreciated their presence and wish to thank them for their interest in the Scout Movement.

Spinks Oil Well Down 1000 Feet

After a brief shutdown the first part of the week, the Spinks oil well resumed drilling and yesterday had reached a depth of over 1000 feet.

The shutdown was to install a new 1200-foot cable as the sharp sand through which most of the well has been drilled so far had worn the cable to where it was too risky to proceed.

Brown County Man Contracts Anthrax

Lois Miller, 35, stock farmer of Brooksmith was stricken Wednesday morning with what Dr. H. L. Lobstein, Brown county health officer, has announced is anthrax. Miller was taken to Brownwood immediately for treatment. According to Dr. Lobstein the disease when it affects humans is very infectious and dangerous. According to The Brownwood Bulletin:

"Miller became ill after dehid-ing an animal that died of anthrax on his farm last week.

Dr. T. O. Booth, state veterinarian, rushed to Brownwood from Fort Worth Tuesday and made laboratory tests which definitely established that the virulent outbreak at Brooksmith is anthrax. The tests were made of blood smears with laboratory equipment of C. M. Hallum, Brownwood druggist and expert in diseases of animals.

H. D. Clothing Rally A Huge Success

Mills County Home Demonstration Club members and guests representing 11 clubs assembled at Goldthwaite Grammar School Auditorium Friday, June 30th, 1939, at 10 a. m., for the Clothing Rally. Mrs. Marvin Laughlin, Council Chairman, presided. The "Woman's Creed," by Mary Stewart was read in unison, led by Mrs. Fred Reynolds, president of the Goldthwaite H. D. Club. The assembly enjoyed group singing led by Loraine Bledsoe, Madeline and L. B. Porter sang two religious selections. Miss Scott, county home demonstration agent, gave a resume of Home Demonstration progress in Mills County. She stated that 2800 women had attended regular club and council meetings. An interesting phase of the program was the introductions. Club presidents were introduced and they in turn introduced their members and guests. The Scallorn Club responded with the largest number in attendance—13 of their club members being present. Pleasant Grove and Big Valley tied for second place with 12 representatives from these clubs. A large number of representatives registered from Center City, Mullin, Mt. Olive, Star, Lake Merritt, Goldthwaite, South Bennett and Center Point.

Lunch was spread in the Home Economics Building and served buffet style.

At 2 p. m., a style revue was held at the Melba Theatre, wherein the garments entered were modeled by the contestants. Winners in the first division which consisted of an all occasion dress, a house dress, and a slip were:

- 2nd place—Mrs. Ora Black, Scallorn.
- 3rd place—Mrs. Carothers, Pleasant Grove.
- 4th place—Mrs. Joe Langford, Center City.
- 5th place—Mrs. Vernon Perkins, Star.

Please note that Mrs. Sykes, Mrs. Black and Mrs. Perkins placed in all three divisions. The county places were based on this. Mrs. Sykes scored highest—she will receive a trip to the short course July 12, 13 and 14. Mrs. Ora Black scored second highest. She was awarded a pair of pink-ing shears. Mrs. Vernon Perkins scored third highest. She was awarded a pair of fine cutting shears.

Delegation Asks That Work Be Done On No. 81

A delegation of thirteen men headed by Judge R. J. Gerald, went to Austin Friday, June 30, to appear before the State Highway Commission concerning the grading and draining of highway 81 from Goldthwaite to Comanche. The delegation asked that this work be done so that all Unit 1 or grading and drainage work would be concluded from Goldthwaite to San Antonio. This section of road under consideration connects with the Ft. Worth Highway, No. 10, at Comanche.

While the commission appeared sympathetic with the request, it did not commit itself on the proposal. Any work that was planned would have to await the completion of a survey of the road. Several months ago this survey was begun under the direction of a State Engineer in Comanche. So far it has not been completed and, according to report, has been discontinued for the present.

Representatives from Comanche county and from Graham and Strawn also attended the hearing.

Local Post Office Sets New Record

One of the best indications that business is good in Goldthwaite is the fact that postal receipts at the local post office showed an increase of 18 per cent in June over June, 1938. For the first six months of 1939, the increase is 9 per cent over last year. June was the third consecutive month to pass all previous records.

Goldthwaite Band Stars at Hamilton

Many compliments have been passed on both the appearance and the playing of the Goldthwaite Band at the Fourth of July celebration in Hamilton Tuesday.

After taking part in the parade and playing frequently, the band also gave a concert on the square just before leaving for home. This was well attended and applauded.

H. D. Council To Meet on July 9th

Mills County Home Demonstration Council will meet Saturday, July 9th, 1939, at 2:30 o'clock in the County Home Demonstration Agent's office. This is a call meeting and it is important that each club be represented. Council members be prepared to present your club delegate as a possible candidate to attend the Annual Texas Home Demonstration at Lubbock in September. Additional instructions will be given to the delegates attending the short course.

EMMA SCOTT, C. H. D. A., of Mills County.

PIONEER PREACHER VISITS EAGLE OFFICE

Rev. Joseph Davee, a minister of the Protestant Methodist Church, made The Eagle a pleasant call this week. He is a pioneer preacher of this section and has to his credit 54 years of active service in his church. He is 83 years of age, but still is active and interested in his work and while he is superannuated, he answers any and all calls made upon him. The writer asked him what he thought of the uniting of the three Methodist churches. His reply was that if it was done for the glory of God and to promote His work, it would be a fine thing, but if done just to have the biggest church and largest membership that it wouldn't accomplish much.

All of his children but a son, who lives at Dumas, were with him each day. Two of his step children were with him for several days. We extend our sympathy to Mrs. McClary and children and grand children. May God's richest blessings rest on each of you is our prayer. Regency
By Community Reporter

The heavy rains that fell over the state missed Regency. The Colorado flood waters kept Flat Rock Creek to a depth of almost ten feet for five days, we are still badly in need of rain.

Art Acers and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Acers, of Fort Worth, spent the week end with Mrs. S. M. Jones. Mrs. Acers was reared in this community and is the daughter of Mrs. Mattie Vernon.

A number of friends and relatives gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jones Saturday night for a fish fry. Out-of-county visitors were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Acers, and Mrs. Mattie Vernon of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fry and daughter, Barbara Jo of Elkin; Jack Moore of Abilene; Jo Beth Taylor of Sonora, and J. Bill Wood, Regency, and Miss Chlorine Langford, Ratler, were united in marriage last Sunday with Bro. Bedford Renfro officiating. This young couple left for a short honeymoon, and are now with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wood.

Mills county is badly in need of more bridges. I know of no better place for one, than here over Flat Rock Creek. For five days last week the mail carrier could not make his route, the club members could not meet with Mrs. Suella Jones, and no one could go to Goldthwaite without driving fifteen miles around.

Wilbur Fairman is having his ranch house, occupied by Tom Dennis, remodeled, and adding improvements to the one occupied by Alvin Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dennis and children attended to business in Goldthwaite, Monday.

When the fish are sick, it's a good time to go fishing. Alvin Brown caught a 15-lb. yellow cat and R. D. Egger reports an 18-lb. cat, also a number of smaller ones.

Some varmint, probably a fox, caught and killed 36 young turkeys, frying size, belonging to Ed Jones, last week. Can you tell us how to catch the fox?

To Whom It May Concern: Notice is hereby given that the sons of Alvin Brown, Alvin Brown, Jr., and Alvin Brown, III, are in possession of the Petal Creek Texas and other lands. All claims for full extent of the same should be filed with the Sheriff of Tarrant County, Texas.

SAVE FEED AT ITS BEST

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Associate Editor
Farm and Ranch
Breeder-Feeder Association

This is the season when the weather tells the story—will there be a corn crop on not? As everyone knows there is a critical period in which corn either "makes" or it doesn't. We have been in the habit of taking crop of nubbins with the best grace possible, but few tasks are more thankless than gathering a nubbin crop.

Fortunately it is easy to escape that discouraging job—driving over an acre to fill the wagon box with corn that is mostly cob and shuck. Besides, when corn matures in the field the nubbins is about all we get, while the stalks themselves—at the right stage—contain as much digestible nutrients for livestock as a crop of half-filled, short ears of dry corn.

When drouth threatens to cut the corn crop short, when the lower leaves begin to "burn," when it is plain that the grain harvest will be light—then it is time to save stalk and all while it is still green enough to make good ensilage. The trench silo is the answer. It can be dug in a hurry, and cheaply, and the ensilaged corn will retain all the nutritive value in had when cut. Instead of permitting the corn to stand in the field and completely dry up, why not save stalk, foliage, grain and all in one operation?

The trench silo is not only emergency crop insurance, however—it is life insurance for the livestock. It is "production credit" to keep up the milk flow, fatten the lean kine, or merely hold normal health and vigor in the growing animals through the months of drouth or cold. As such it is becoming as common on Southwestern farms as barns and corn-cribs. It is the cheapest storage known, and retains more of the digestible nutrients in the fed than any other form or method of curing and storing.

Now that the peak of crop cultivation is passing, there will be time in the next few weeks to get the trench silos ready.

The best ensilage is made by cutting the corn or sorghum after the grain hardens but before much of the foliage dries up—while the stalks themselves are still green and succulent, but not before the grain is well matured.

This is one of the things we have learned since the silo boom of forty years ago—that the best ensilage is not made from immature crops, as used to be recommended. That we can make ensilage from even dry stalks by supplying enough water to saturate them and facilitate fermentation; but the natural juices of the plants are better, and the crop should be ensilaged at its best.

Some other things we have learned about trench silos: The walls should not be perpendicular. The ensilage packs and keeps better in a trench with sloping walls because in setting downward it is wedged into narrower space and thus avoids shrinking away from the walls, which permits air to enter and spoil the outside of the mass. Also, sloping walls are easier maintained.

The walls should be as smooth as possible in any case. Old silos in which the walls have sloughed off in places should be smoothed up before filling. This will widen the trench, and increase the area of the "face" from which the daily supply is cut. The relative width and depth are not as important considerations as keeping the square footage of the face in proportion to the number of animals to be fed. Talk it over with the county agent, or your neighbor who has one, follow proven recommendations.

Ireland's Ould Sod

New York, July 6th—Hundreds of native Irish and Irish-Americans who haven't seen the "ould sod" for many years are attracted to the Irish Free State Exhibit at the New York World's Fair. There they look with misty eyes on an island which is an exact duplicate in relief of Ireland. The island is built up of soil from the counties of Eire and the lakes and rivers filled with waters from the River Shannon and the Lakes of Killarney.

Good Roads Decrease Crime

Crime doesn't pay in 1939. A few decades ago the professional bad man robbed, killed and escaped with comparative impunity. Jesse James might have continued his lawless activities for many years if a "friend" had not betrayed him. Outlaws today are fortunate if they evade law-and-order forces for even a few months. The James brothers had the whole West to hide in. John Dillinger, Alvin Karpis and their fellow felons found the entire United States too small to conceal them from their pursuers.

Modern methods and materials are mainly responsible for the obstacles which today make the way of the transgressor particularly hard. Modern roads and radios are twin foes of the 20th century public enemy. Constant improvements in these two weapons of righteousness are making it more and more difficult for the robber or kidnapper to successfully ply his "trade."

The most important part of any crime is the getaway. Not so long ago, gunmen found the perfect answer to this problem in certain rural sections of the nation. High-powered automobiles brought metropolitan crime to the American countryside. The comparative isolation of these sections made them ideal for quick "jobs," easy getaways and safe hideouts.

But times have changed. Federal agents and state police are now matching the fast automobiles of criminals with equally speedy vehicles manned by drivers trained in pursuit tactics. The continued construction of a network of good secondary roads joined to main highways is making it possible for the country dweller to enjoy as adequate police protection as his city cousin. Sections of the United States in which the lawbreaker can feel safe from pursuit are steadily becoming fewer.

Last summer, according to Chief Walter Williams, superintendent of the Illinois State Highway Police, the Middle West saw its greatest blockade. The Easton brothers, two Idaho youths, shot a police officer in Indiana and fled into Illinois in a stolen car. Immediately the state highway police of Illinois went into action. Radio kept them advised of the pair's progress. The shooting took place at 6:20 p. m., on June 26. At 8:52 the next morning, the police closed their records on the case. One brother had been shot down and the other placed under arrest.

Hitchhikers In Colorado To Be Arrested

DENVER.—Secretary of State George E. Saunders, in an avowed attempt to prevent slayings such as that of John T. Gray, Jr., ordered highway patrolmen today to arrest all hitchhikers.

Ellsworth E. Medberry, who was given a ride by Gray, was convicted of first degree murder late yesterday at Akron. He was accused of shooting Gray to death when the Colorado Springs salesman ordered him from his car.

Patrol Supervisor J. J. Marsh said the Colorado law provides a fine of $5 to $100 or a 10-day jail term for the first hitch-hiking offense, and stiffer penalties for subsequent offenses.

"A motorist faces the possibility of being robbed or murdered every time he picks up someone," Marsh declared.

Trinkets on exhibition in the House of Jewels at the New York World's Fair are valued at $5,000,000.00.

Prevent Farm Fires

Austin, Texas, July 6—"Nearly two million dollars property loss is suffered each year on the farms of Texas," according to Fire Insurance Commissioner Hall, "and a very substantial reduction can be made in this figure if farmers generally will observe a few simple rules of fire protection and prevention."

Of the many sources of barn fires, spontaneous combustion is perhaps the most dangerous. Moisture, bacterial activity, germination and storage in large heaps may be listed as the main causes of spontaneous combustion.

Because hay is subject to spontaneous combustion it should be thoroughly dried before being put in the barn. The use of common table salt is recommended when storing loose hay which is not thoroughly cured, since a sprinkling of salt reduces the moisture and thereby lowers the danger of fire. From three to ten pounds of salt to each ton of hay will be sufficient for hay stored in hot weather.

To allow air circulation underneath in storing baled hay, start with a few planks or logs on the floor. Then give some space between bales for ventilation by stacking it so there is air space around each bale. If heating sets up, the air will carry the heat away, cooling the hay and thereby preventing a fire and saving the quality of the hay.

Says Cotton Exports To Reach New Low

Austin, Texas, July 6th.—Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton expert, today predicted a 50 year low for United States cotton exports this year.

Dr. Cox, director of the University Bureau of Business Research, estimated exports this year at less than three and a third million bales, compared with an average predepression total of nearly eight and a half million.

"The big reason why the U. S. has lost foreign markets for cotton is that it has not been willing to sell at world market prices," he declared.

pipe down the center so that the hot gases may escape.

All foodstuffs should be well cured and dried before being stored. Even then, feed should be examined occasionally during the periods it is stored to see that it is not becoming heated and ready for spontaneous combustion.

Do you really know the house you live in? Have you climbed up on the roof, for instance?

Probably not. It takes a roofer's equipment and a trained eye to spot needed repairs. You may not learn about a loose shingle or leaky flashing until the wall-paper inside has been damaged. Or you may not suspect a faulty chimney until sparks touch off a fire.

It's sound business for you — it can save you both money and peace of mind — to have an occasional check-up made on your home. And this is an excellent time of year to let us give it a "going over."

If repairs are necessary, you can pay for them on the FHA Plan. A small amount each month can take care of the cost of both labor and materials.

No charge for our estimate. And, you'll be satisfied with our prices.

Science Helps Solve Traffic Problems

Detroit's recent decision to provide one-way streets to speed vehicle flow was made after extensive study of traffic. Modern science contributed to the survey with the Trafficcounter, an electrical recorder registering each car that passes it. A hose filled with compressed air extends halfway across the street. As each car drives over it, an impulse is conveyed to the Trafficcounter, which automatically divides the impulses by two (in order to record each car as a unit) and prints a reading each half-hour. Shown here discussing the equipment are M. W. Cochran, Detroit city traffic engineer (right), and John Wood, assistant chief engineer of Chevrolet.

Bro. E. L. Green of Owens preached for us Sunday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Green and the children and Miss Gaines of their community.

Only one week until our summer meeting begins. Bro. Edgar Furr of Goldthwaite will do the preaching. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Though it is reported that rains have fallen in most places, the drouth continues with us, burning our corn, withering our gardens, twisting our maize, and parching our pastures.

Jim Wilmetth, John Briley, Gene Wilmetth, Austin Cawyer and Ernest Malone put in two days this week with teams and tools trying to make their road from the river to the school-house passable. One thing heartening comes to us of the bad roads country. The Farm Journal says, "Leading the list of legislative problems to be discussed by the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association at Portland, Oregon, August 15-18 is the improvement of America's 1,950,000 miles of weather-torn dirt roads." "It is our determination," says President Raymond M. Combs, Churchville, N. Y., "to work relentlessly in State legislatures and in Congress until an all-weather road leads to every farm in America."

Our club was well represented at the H. D. County meeting last Friday, June 30th, at Goldthwaite. Those who attended were Mrs. Tom McArthur, Mrs. Orville Harris, Mrs. Bill Chatman, Mrs. H. B. AAA Will Pay More To Small Farmers

College Station, July 6th—The AAA expects to use more than $5,000,000 in Texas this year to increase payments to small farmers who, according to the regular schedule of grants, would not earn more than $200 by taking part in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

The ACP feature of the AAA program provides for conservation payments to reward soil and water conservation accomplished through confinement of soil-depleting crops to acreage allotments and adaptation of soil-building and range conservation practices. When total payments to a farm or ranch are less than $200, the checks are increased on a graduating scale. For example, a payment of $50 calculated under regular terms of the program would be hiked by $13, and a payment of $186 would have $14 added to it.

"This is another reason why our program has been called 'a small farmer's program,'" Donald Cothran, of Caviness, Lamar county farmer and member of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, observed. "In adopting the provision for the increase of small payments, Congress intended to make the program as profitable as could be for the many families trying to make a go of it on small plots of land."

Conservation Districts Require Study

College Station, Texas, July 6th—Any group of farmers who contemplate organizing under the soil conservation district act recently passed by the Texas Legislature should appoint a committee to visit and observe similar districts in other states.

This is the observation made here by C. (Dutch) Hohn, soil and water conservation specialist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service, who has just returned from a tour of soil conservation districts in Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

"Many of our Texas people apparently have the idea that all they have to do to receive machinery, materials, and labor from federal sources is to organize a district," Hohn pointed out. "On the contrary, nothing in the Texas act can be so interpreted. We found that some people in other states had the same idea, and that they were disappointed."

He added that technical aid would be available to districts to the extent permitted by the present set-up of state and federal agencies.

"The real value of the soil conservation district act is that it makes available to farmers and ranchmen a procedure whereby they can band together for cooperative action on a united basis, and whereby they can utilize to the best advantage such help as is offered," the specialist stated.

Are There Any Questions?

This information service on education is presented by special arrangement with Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. Questions on education may be submitted to the University in care of The Goldthwaite Eagle.

Question: How does one get children to eat who refuse to eat or dawdle over their food and need constant coaxing?

Reply: A child may refuse to eat because of physical reasons; he may not be feeling well, may be coming down with a cold, may be overtired; his diet may have long been an unbalanced one causing poor health. Or the trouble may be because of psychological factors. If a child feels neglected, he may take this way of drawing attention to himself. He may refuse to eat as a gesture of self-assertion against too much insistence and nagging.

Certain general principles, however, have been found useful in developing good eating habits. Becoming familiar with the problem beforehand, ignoring it to some extent by giving the child too little rather than too much attention, encouraging the child from time to time by an occasional smile, occasional assistance, or occasional encouraging reminders or praise. A pleasant atmosphere and a certain amount of conversation and table-talk helped. Other effective techniques are giving the child small portions and expecting him to eat it all, speaking in a moderately encouraging and matter-of-fact tone of voice, never discussing the child's eating habits while at the table except sometimes to praise him if he behaves unusually well.

Detrimental to the development of good eating habits are constant prodding and attention to the child, commanding him or reprimanding him, speaking in a loud voice, fussing at his general behaviour when he begins dawdling or playing with his food.

Question: What percentage of public school teachers in the U.

S. serve in rural areas, estimated in your towns of less than 2000?

Reply: According to the recently published white teacher survey, approximately a million teachers receive $340. In certain areas of white teachers there are more than 2000.

Question: How are schools required to be required in schools?

Reply: The educational process towards the continuation of the elementary and secondary schools has been found in schools where children learn more in other hands than that some knowledge is required in schools because of the the student has at home as the continued in the Yearbook of the national Board of Educational Supervisors says "Generally speaking and especially against the conventional work. An All-Electric All-Wave Set Adds Value to Radio on Farm

Radio plays an important part in the business of modern farming.

By IRA MILLER
Rural Electrification Bureau

In a recent article, we mentioned the fact that, when the high line comes, a radio is second only to good and ample light in the electrical wants of the average farmer. True, a large percentage of the farms of this country have had radios for many years—but by far the greater number have been battery-operated sets of one kind or another. It is not our intention to belittle such receivers in the least, for they have given and continue to give excellent service in areas remote from power lines.

However, no one will deny that the frequent replacement of batteries is a decided inconvenience as well as an appreciable expense. Nor does the comparatively limited volume and range of the battery-operated set enable one to obtain the maximum pleasure and benefit from radio.

It is surprising to find many farmers with high-line service still using obsolete battery sets, especially when a modern all-electric all-wave receiver now can be purchased at remarkably low cost. In a very real sense, they are practicing false economy, in addition to providing far better reception, a modern set is much cheaper to operate—requiring from 4 to 12, with an average of 8, kw-hr. per month. At a five-cent rate, this amounts to from 0.6 to 2.0 cents per day with an average of 1.3 cents.

A good radio on the farm is far more than just an instrument of pleasure and entertainment, important though these be on long winter evenings. In numerous ways, it is a distinct farm tool as well. For, through frequent daily weather, crop and market reports, the farmer is enabled to improve his bargaining power by changing his marketing and harvesting plans to meet shifting conditions. By listening to foreign as well as domestic news broadcasts, it often is possible for him to forecast price trends long before the effects of national and international developments are actually reflected in the principal marketing centers.

There is no single gift that will bring greater joy, comfort and profit to each and every member of the farm family than that of a modern all-electric all-wave radio—be it for Christmas, a birthday, a wedding anniversary or, simply, to make everyone happy.

A Happy Home-Coming

The students of what was once the West Texas Normal & Business College had a reunion at Gray's Mill Pond a few miles west from Cherokee July 1.

There were well above a hundred students present, and a goodly number brought their wives or husbands and the children, and several visitors, and all seemed to enjoy the day to the fullest extent possible.

There were pupils from various parts of Texas and some from other states, and all were anxious to meet their old classmates and the beloved head of the College, Prof. F. M. Behrns.

The crowd began gathering about ten o'clock and spent the time until noon meeting those whom they once knew, and many times we would get the hand of some one whom we had not met before; but there was no resentment manifest because we stared at each other, for we were expected to try to recognize the ones we had not met for 30 to 40 years, and it took close scrutiny to find the resemblances of old time friends; and then many times they would have to tell who they were.

Shortly after 12, noon, we were called together and each requested to mount an improvised platform and introduce themselves to the crowd, in order that they might be located by some who had not already formed their acquaintance anew, and all were requested to give their names, who they married, where they live, number of children and grandchildren, and their age (most of the ladies overlooked this point).

The next important part of the program was the barbecue dinner which was served to all, along with an abundance of salads of various kinds and cake galore that were brought by those in attendance, as we were requested to bring basket lunch.

es with us. It looked like there was sufficient barbecue to have fed as many more, as well other food.

Prof. Behrns, who is now retired aged, did not come until a ternoon, but we were all very glad to have him with us for the hour or two he was there.

Senator Holbrook of Galveston a former student, was master of ceremonies for a little speech-making of the leading men and women among the former students, and each one expressed the greatest pleasure over the meeting, and also said many appreciative words about the beloved Prof. Behrns.

We then organized the former students association of the West Texas Normal and Business College and elected J. A. (Allen) Walker, who was the promoter of the meeting July first, president and the last Saturday in May set as the meeting time for 1940. The former students from Goldthwaite who were in attendance were O. H. Yarborough and this scribe.

CLIMB DOWN, GOVERNOR

Dear Governor O'Daniel:

This is a letter from the goat country. We used to think right smart of you up here. Fact is we gave you one of our fine goats for an inauguration present last January.

We liked your hill billy music and your hill billy speeches mighty fine, especially that part where you said you were against a sales tax and were going to pay everybody over 65 a $30 pension without raising any taxes.

We kinda got a jolt when you reneged and explained you didn't really mean $30 for everybody over 65; and when you said you was still against a sales tax but was for a transaction tax, that didn't sound very business like to us, and it shore didn't sound like it wasn't going to raise our taxes. But we stayed with you.

Then first thing we knew, you'd come straight out for the sales tax you talked against all last summer. Seems like you told us these professional politicians would promise us anything to get elected and then turn round when they got in office and do the opposite. And some of the fellows said it was beginning to look like you was turning professional on us.

Then you got sot on having the House of Representatives pass this here SJR-12. And when some of 'em balked, you got up on Sunday morning and cut loose on 'em over the radio while we was trying to get the kids ready for Sunday School and gave 'em Hail Columbia and then some.

We Texans, in case you hadn't noticed it, shore do like to hear speeches where somebody gets roasted. We specially liked the way Ole Jim could pour it on 'em. It's real entertaining. But first thing you know we get kinda sorry for the fellow that's catching it, and then we vote for him instead of for the fellow we're hollering for. That seems to kinda even things up.

Then too there's a lot of old time Texans up thisaway who think of the Alamo, not just as something to put in a hillbilly song, but as the place where the few stood out against the many because they thought they was right.

And so when those roll calls kept piling up and those 56 representatives stood hitched it made us think of that little bunch of Texans in the Alamo. And when you turned on the heat, and they didn't budge, we said maybe they're wrong, but, by golly, they act like they thought they was right.

We noticed they was nearly all country boys from little towns or farms while some of them city slickers who always has voted against the old folks was a whooping it up on your side.

Last Sunday we heard you say you wasn't going to call a special session because they couldn't pass anything but a statutory tax measure, and you still want dear old SJR-12.

Now looka here, Governo; you ain't stalling are you? Some folks say the reason you wanted that SJR-12 was so the people would have to take the blame for voting for it when it turned out unsatisfactory. You didn't tell us how SJR-12 set a limit on the amount of taxes that could be raised for old age pensions and how it set a limit on the taxes on oil and gas, even though most of it was going clear out of Texas. Now, while you're all swelled up because 56 legislators

The Cost of War

Those economists who are wondering just how much longer the world can go on building up its armaments without entering bankruptcy are getting more and more food for sober thought and argument.

We are the richest country in the world, and our $1,126,000,000 national defense bill for the next fiscal year is the largest in our peace time history. Yet this is hardly a drop in the bucket compared to what Europe and Asia are spending. Great Britain's budget is close to $3,000,000,000. Japan's is over $1,500,000,000. France's is about the same as ours. Italy's is $611,000,000 and will probably be increased. Germany doesn't publish figures of this nature, but her arms expense is huge.

Lastly—hold your breath here—the U. S. S. R. has announced a defense budget running to the almost unbelievable sum of $7,700,000,000. That is creating plenty of headaches among Russia's potential enemies. And it comes as encouraging news to the European democracies, which hope to enlist, "the bear that walks like a man" as an ally.

These figures show why the standard of living abroad is steadily dropping. In Germany, it is said, one-fourth of the entire national income goes for arms and public works, neither of which is edible. — Industrial News Review.

wouldn't vote your way, your $1000 a month salary is going to keep right on being paid. But our old folks are going to see their pensions play out, if you don't call a special session.

Now we don't want to hurt your feelings, governor, but you promised us a business administration.

Suppose instead of being governor, you was managing a store where the stockholders did the hiring and firing and you just drew a fat salary and did the broadcasting over the radio. And suppose a lot of our old folks needed flour to make bread to live on. And suppose our town voted to pay for the flour and sent the old folks to your store to get a sack apiece. And suppose your clerks got to arguing about what brand of flour to give 'em, and you up and told 'em to give 'em SJR-12 brand. But that brand was way off in a mill in Kansas or somewhere and part of the clerks wanted to give the old folks that old fashioned statutory brand just like they'd been using. And so suppose they kept on arguing until closing time.

And so they closed the store with the old folks still hanging round empty handed, and you were the only one who had a key to the door. Then suppose you climbed on a high, high horse with a microphone in one hand and a sack of SJR-12 flour in the other and broadcast to the old folks that you ain't going to unlock the door to the store until the stockholders fires your clerks and hires the kind that will order SJR-12 flour like you want 'em to.

But you don't tell the old folks what to eat while they're waiting 18 months for you to unlock the door to the store.

Governor O'Daniel, we're still your friends out here, and we've got one goat and 1145 Mills County votes invested in you. So we're just going to tell you plain that you'd better climb down offn that high horse and open the door, and that means call a special session of the Texas legislature and let them fix up a statutory tax bill that will take care of our old folks between now and 1941.

Good-bye, Governor, and every time you draw your pay check, think of us

Sec. Wallace Explains How to Eat Cake And Have It Too

College Station, July 6th, 1939. — Secretary Wallace's widely-discussed Arkansas speech on the proposed cotton export subsidy, when summed up and stripped of its trimmings, meant that an export subsidy would be the cheapest way to stimulate foreign demand for American cotton without knocking the props from under the cotton farmer's income.

At least that is how George Slaughter, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, interpreted the Secretary's remarks.

One of 18 Texas Agricultural leaders who attended the Little Rock conference at which Wallace spoke, Slaughter said cotton farmers cannot afford to give up the commodity loan program which has kept the bottom from falling out of cotton prices, but that the loan has "put the skids under our export trade" by pegging the price of American lint slightly above the world level.

If it were not for the government loan, cotton which has been selling for around 8 cents this year probably would have dropped to 6 cents, Slaughter surmised, adding that the foreign grown staple consequently has undersold Uncle Sam's product by about 2 cents.

"We can't stand to give up the loan," he said. "We must uphold the price so far as practical at which the farmer sells his cotton, and continue to get maximum returns from the domestic market."

"But we must let foreign buyers have our cotton for the same price that our competitors quote, or we will lose export markets."

The farmer would get the same price for his cotton whether it was used in this country or exported, according to the plan. The government simply would make up the difference between the domestic price and the world price, by paying exporters a bounty to place the staple on world markets at competitive prices.

"This would not contradict the reciprocal trade agreements program," Slaughter thought. "The plan is not to undersell foreign staple, but is merely to erase the disadvantage under which we have operated in world markets, and put our cotton on an equal footing with that of the rest of the world."

J. O. McClary Called Home

Mr. Julius O. McClary, a typical Texan, a well known stockman and rancher of Mills County, died at his home last Wednesday morning, June 28, at 4:17 o'clock.

Mr. McClary had been sick some five or six weeks and was thought to be improving until Friday before his death, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis, which crept slowly over his body and stopped the action of the heart that throbbled in sympathetic interest with all mankind and Mr. McClary will walk earth's pathway no more. He was born in Tennessee on March 15, 1862, having reached the age of 77 years, 3 months and 13 days.

He came to Texas when a small boy, living in the northern portion of the state and in Lubbock, from which place he moved to the Rock Springs community and spent the last 27 years of his life here as a highly respected citizen and neighbor.

He was converted at the age of 13 and united with the Presbyterian Church. In later life he united with the Baptist church in Goldthwaite, later moving his membership to Rock Springs Baptist Church, which he attended and supported freely until his death.

He is sadly missed in many avenues of life and his place will be affectionately held in the memory of not only those near and dear to him, but by all those who knew him as a citizen and friend.

On February 6, 1886, he was united in marriage to Miss Dora Foster, who passed to her reward March 2, 1910. The survivors of this union are Jack McClary, of Dumas, Texas, and Fred and Hardy McClary, of Goldthwaite, Mrs. A. R. Kauhs, of Goldthwaite, and Mrs. Donald Edwards, of Denton.

CARD OF THANKS

Until the opportunity comes, we take this method of expressing our sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness and love shown us during the brief illness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. David Morris. We especially thank Rev. Dawson, the choir and those who sent the lovely flowers. May God bless each of you.

Her Children,

waite, and Mrs. Donald Edwards, of Denton.
On June 26, 1923, Mr. McClary and Mrs. Pearl Hill were united in marriage. Besides the children mentioned above, he is survived by Mrs. McClary and the following stepchildren: Mrs. A. B. Meek, Ft. Worth, Mrs. Gordon Salters, also of Ft. Worth, Rev. Earl Hill, of Yoakum, Texas; one sister, Mrs. Harry Hardy, Bridgeport, Texas; 19 grandchildren and a host of friends.

Funeral services, conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. C. Wade, assisted by Rev. Earl Hill and Rev. E. E. Dawson, were held at the Baptist Church in Goldthwaite at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning. The floral tributes were beautiful and an attestation to the esteem in which he was held by our people.
