MILLS COUNTY PICNIC SUNDAY AT ARLINGTON TO BE BIG EVENT

U. S. AND THE WAR

WASHINGTON .- A group of farm leaders went to the White House to urge Roosevelt to support the Jones bill, which would cut interest rates on government farm loans. And while they got the President's support, they also got an earful on another subject-why the U. S. will not get involved in the European

The discussion began when one of the farmers asked Roosevelt whether propaganda and the loss of foreign markets would affect U. S. neutrality. This brought an emphatic negative from the President.

"I don't think the American people will lose their heads to the extent of being drawn into the European conflict," he said in ef-"It is true that the emotions of people can be quickly aroused, but reason and logic always triumph in the end. That's why our democratic form of government has survived so long.

"Take, for example, the arms embargo fight. There was a lot of talk from certain elements during that controversy, that if we lifted the embargo it would drag us into the war. Well, all that talk has died down and you don't hear it eny more. There was no truth in it and it evaporated.

"The same happened during the debate over extending the reciprocal trade treaties. There was a lot of unfounded talk then, but it has all blown over unless political opportunists inject the issue into this year's campaign.'

"What about the Nazi invasion of Denmark and Norway?" asked another of the farm visitors. "Will that endanger our neutrality?"

Again Roosevelt shook his head. "As long," he replied, "as we keep a level head, our feet on the ground and maintain a liberal government, we have nothing to worry about."

Continental Oil Co. Host at Banquet In San Angelo

Monday evening, April 29, at 7:00 p. m. in San Angelo, the Continental Oil Company was host to their dealers and newspaper friends of the San Angelo district, at a banquet given at the Hotel Cactus.

Upon arrival, the guests were ushered to the banquet table, where a delicious three-course dinner was served to about 95 Conoco dealers and newspaper

After the banquet, C. L. Oden, assistant division manager of the Fort Worth Office of Continental Oil Company, spoke to the guests about a new advertising campaign which the company expects to start during the latter part of this month.

This new advertising campaign will stress the importance of the oline used. All dealers will be furnished with "Mile Dials," a miles received from each gallon of gasoline. These devices will gram. be installed free, on the dash of Conoco users cars.

Mr. Oden explained the manipulation of the "Mile Dial" and Meet May 4th explained the value of these devices as sales boosters.

Those from Mills county attending this banquet were:

W. C. Frazier, Conoco agent and O. O. Lester, Caradan; R. C. Atchison, W. J. Jeffery, Pete Frazier and V. C. Bradford.

Jack McCarty accompanied the group as representative of The attend. Visitors are welcome.

SAYLOR CHEVROLET CO.

Two phenomenal kids, two youth-ful prodigies of the sporting world got their starts along practically the same type of road. They might be called the Twins of Dawn. Their names are Bobby Feller and Bobby Jones.

They were almost exactly alike in this vital respect—Bobby Jones seven - Bobby Feller started throwing a baseball at the age of six. The main point is that each started building up and developing the muscles needed for the big act—Jones as a golfer-Feller as a

Bobby Jones was a phenomenon at the age of 14-good enough then to travel to the final eight in the National Amateur where only inexperience stopped him. At that age he was the best golfer in the big field.

From seven years on Bobby Jones only developed the muscles needed for a golf swing. There were no contradictory or outside muscles that might have come from baseball, football or some other sport. His working muscles all belonged exclusively to golf. He never even played checkers or dominoes.

Feller the Same

Bob Feller followed the same Starting at the age of six, Feller's sporting activity consisted of throwing a baseball. Every muscular development in his right arm and back was concentrated on this act.

Against this we might take up the case of Schoolboy Rowe, the Tiger entry, Rowe was a young ball player. But he was also a football star, a shotputter, a golfer, a tennis player and basketball luminary-extremely good at each of these games.

He had well-developed but conflicting muscles to handle, and these in time left him muscle-bound.

There can be too much muscle for any smooth, flowing action. If Rows had concentrated on baseball alone in his younger days he might have been one of the greats of all

As it was the Tiger giant was a two until too many of his muscular habitats in the back and shoulders began to tie him up.

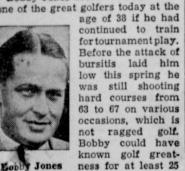

Bob Feller, spoiled, fresh or swellheaded, might have been almost as great a pitcher as he is. But he the height he holds today in public favor. Especially in the favor of his mates and his opponents.

If the kids of this country care to pick out someone to follow in every respect, they could make no mistake in following the methods and manners of this Iowa farm boy, who, I am quite sure, will remain unspoiled to the last ball he throws.

Lasting Qualities

Bobby Jones was a star competito 28. He had known 15 years of tournament action when he retired at his peak, or just as he was coming to his peak.

Bobby Jones could have remained one of the great golfers today at the age of 38 if he had

The same is true of Bob Feller. The 21-year-old Van Meter sensation is only getting under way. With only a fair share of luck Feller has at least 15 big years left-years during which he might easily turn out be the same thing to baseball that Bobby Jones was to golf. In many other ways the two are both were and are highly and their opponents. Both have always belonged to the upper branches of sportsmanship.

A Close-Up on Feller

I had breakfast with Bobby Feller in Tampa the morning of the allstar game for the Finnish fund. He was as unspoiled as any prominent athlete I have ever known.

I noticed another leading point. or example, as Joe Cronin, boss the Boston Red Sox, came into the dining room he came well out of his way to slap Feller on the back and say, "Hello, slug." As other vet-erans came by they'd all stop by Feller's table with "Hello, butch"— "Howya, kid"-"Hello, Bob."

SENIOR CLASS REPORT

Friday morning at 6:30, about 30 members of the Senior Class started with their sponsor, Mrs. Barnett, on the bus for San Antonio. The bus reached San Anclass spent the time from then until 1:30 in Brackenridge Park Mission San Jose was the next stop, where the seniors admired the famous Rose Window. From watch the parade or be entertained in other ways. Seventhirty was the time for a delicious repast at the Gunter Hotel, after which the class disbandedsome to the show, some to the carnival, and still others to the streets for "window shopping."

Saturday morning the class breakfasted in the Traveler's Hotel dining room at 7:30, then visited the Buckhorn Saloon, San Fernando Mission, the old Spanish Governor's Palace and the Alamo, spending about 30 minutes at each. The next several hours were free for the different brilliant performer for a year or persons' own likes, and 1:00 pus. 'clock found everyone eating lunch at the Traveler's Hotel.

The bus left San Antonio about 2:00 o'clock, and made the where he thinks he might done as quickly as possible to rounds of Fort Sam Houston and squeeze in some additional task, pay the just debts voted by the Randolph Field before starting for Austin. About five the bus arrived in Austin and the class visited the Governor's mansion, and the University campus came next, then the class had dinner in the University cafeteria. Leav ing Austin and the greater part of the trip behind, the bus proceeded to Goldthwaite, where a tor and player from the age of 13 load of weary travelers disbanded and went home.

0 FRESHMAN REPORT

Last Monday evening at 6:00 o'clock, the May Day program was seen by many proud parents who came to the Grammar School Auditorium to see their children perform.

Although the Freshman reporter was not fortunate enough to witness this remarkable performance personally, he has been informed that this was one of the cleverest programs ever to be given, mainly by members of the primary grades, in this town. Perhaps you haven't looked at your calendar lately and so you don't know how close we are coming to the time of the year when we must take the final examinations. To be sure, the date is not far off (only 9 school days, to be exact). Many of the Freshmen seem to be worrying about these examinations, but they smile again when you tell them that soon after the tests, the school term ends and there is three months of vacation waiting them. Last Wednesday afternoon about 5:00 o'clock, the Freshman Class left to have their annual picnic. The refreshments were very appetizing and everyone from the movies, when they hear that America's ace reporter, Damon Runyon, won't take a drink. He not only won't take a drink, he hasn't for thirty years, and he'll fight for his privilege to retain a seat on the water-wagon.

Runyon, the son of a journeyman printer, reporter, editor and general printer, reporter, editor and general man-about-a-newspaper, "our old man" of Runyon's daily and widely read column, is probably the most popular reporter and short story writer in the country today. What will surprise many of his colleagues is the news that he is a veteran of the Spanish-American War. This, and other data were supplied by Lowell Thomas who makes Damon Runyon the Cosmopolite of the Month in the June issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine.

THE WAR OF WORDS

Two notable contributions appeared last week to the war of words that is being waged in Europe alongside that of shot and shell. England's offering was a speech by Duff-Cooper, former navy official in which he poured forth the vials of English wrath and scorn upon the German people as well as I would feel it my duty to do so. upon their leader. Hitler.

While Duff-Cooper's speech was spectacular and, in a sense, appealing, it is doubtful whether it furthered the Allied cause in neutral nations. That the German people are ion. The factory says it will do in large measure responsible as a nation for ager has been heard to claim twenthe acts of their Nazi rulers is undeniable, but ty-four and we have customers who that they should be treated as individually ington thinks nineteen is a better

England's role of the shining knight unselfishly championing small have to be very careful about annations in distress including the persecuted minority of Germans themselves is likely to become progressively more difficult to sus tain. And Duff-Cooper's diatribe most certainly does not sustain it. Germany's answer was the revelation on Saturday by Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop that England and France had conspired to violate the neutrality of Norway by landing troops there, and that Norway had tacitly agreed to the violation. In effect Germany's statement was the same as the once popular murder defense that the victim was reaching for his hip pocket. Germany admittedly learned of the Allied plans for occupying Norway AFTER German troops had already invaded that nation. Now Germany offers the information thus belatedly gained as justification for her prior act.

That this will have the slightest effect upon the neutral nations is doubtful. Germany has already invaded and absorbed Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Poland, accompanying each act with excuses that made up in volubility what they lacked in plausibility. The actions in each case, however, still drown | CLEAR CONSCIENCES! out the words that attempt to justify them.

Granting that the revelations of Allied intentions to shift the battle area to Norway are true, the fact remains that Germany is the one who actually made the invasion of Denmark and Norway and who now occupies them. This feat offsets any ascribed intention, whether real or fancied. Taken together these two actions on the diplomatic front, while failing in their purpose, clearly indicate the extent to which the belligerents are going to influence the neutral world, and, for that very reason, show how carefully the neutrals must assay the propaganda that is offered them.

The New York Times has taken the Republican party to task for an apparent lack of a definite foreign policy which is imperative in the light of critical world conditions. The Times asserts that "the most disappointing aspect of the Republican primary campaign has been the failure of its most politically available candidates to propose a foreign policy which can command the respect of voters."-Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Getting Things Done using it.

HENRY WARD BEECHER once was asked how he managed to get through so much work in a day. He replied: "By never doing anything twice. I never anticipate my work and never worry about it. When the time comes to do a thing I do it, and that's the end of it."

The fussy, hurried, worried man is the chap who tries to do everything at once. He dabbles in this and dabbles in that - finishing nothing. He picks up a letter to answer it and lays it down to pick up another letter and fuss with that. He puts the hard work at the bottom of the pile. He leaves a hard job on his desk day after day until it absolutely has to be done and then he rushes it out in such a hurry that it seldom is done right. This man goes home in the evening with frayed nerves. In imagination he drags his desk and papers home with him and worries about them there.

The big things of life are never done by a fussy man. When one is worrying about half a dozen tasks that must be done in the future, he fails to do the present task as it should be done. One task at a time, finished and started on its way before tackling the next task, is a rule that makes for poise and power.

II. Compare (vv. 2-5).

A good shopper compares values lest he make a bad bargain or buy that for which he has no real need. What is the situation of the one who is invited to buy what God offers? He is a sinner who has been foolago was urged by Sam Houston ishly seeking to satisfy himself with what the world has to offer. With money he has tried to buy happiness, contentment, recognition. The bread of this world will never satisfy and the water of this world only increases one's thirst. (See John 4:

13, 14.) of One who made an "everlasting covenant," with David, assuring him of His "sure mercies." It results in

The one who honestly makes such a comparison is quickly satisfied that the time has come to

III. Buy (vv. 6-9).

Penniless, the sinner may "buy" without money. He may call upon God, for God has already called him. He may seek God, because He like the good shepherd has been out seeking the lost sheep (Matt. 18:12).

While man can certainly not save himself, there are things which God expects the sinner to do. First, he is to "seek the Lord." Where? Right at your side, sinner, for "he is near" (v. 6). Then when the sinner meets the Lord he is at once conscious of his sin. What shall he do with it? Forsake it in both thought and deed (v. 7) and God will "abundantly pardon." Observe that men may by their sinful rejection of Him bring themselves to the place where they not only do not listen to God's call, but actually do not want to hear it. "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found" (v. 6).

IV. Enjoy (vv. 10, 11). Some foolish folk buy things and put them away where neither they nor anyone else can enjoy them. Some worry so much about the price they paid or are so concerned about the preciousness of the thing purchased that they find no pleasure in Salvation is not a thing to be hidden or put on a shelf. In fact, it is not a thing at all, but a life. It is to grow, to bud, to blossom and to bear fruit. How? By being ready to receive God's Word which comes down like the rain from the heavens, refreshing, encouraging, and fructi-fying the life of the believer.

God's Word never returns to Him void. He prospers it to accomplish His own purpose. But pray tell me, if we never study it or even read it, how can it help our lives? We "grow in grace" only as we grow "in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ" (II Pet. 3:18). We grow in knowledge as we study God's Word. Thus we come to enjoy our Christian life.

war, is advocating something new in raising armies. He wants us to stop sending our kids first to war. He says that the only excuse for it was that they have greater endurance in a sudden spurt of speed, though not in long steady pulls. Since soldiers are, to a continuously greater extent, going to war on wheels and pulling mechanical levers instead of clubbing muskets, he thinks men up to 500-and even older-could do just Seriously, Bill's got something there. Boys scarcely more than children fight wars. There are more reasons for this than Colonel Donovan gives. One is that, where there is any element of volunteering, they are more impulsive and rush first to the recruiting sergeant. A youth has fewer responsibilities -to a family, a farm, a business, or a job.

Men in actual combat service are only a fraction of the troops used in war. Supply and other auxiliary services require more soldiers than does fighting. There is no sense in culling out a physically perfect kid and setting him to rolling pills in a medical supply department in Kalamazoo. If we relaxed physical requirements to run-of-mill standard and created classes for "special and limited military service" for greatly reduce the drain on the best of our youth crop with no loss in military energy. We tried that toward the close of the World war and it worked.

Furthermore, if we impose no arbitrary age limits, but only limits of physical fitness, even for com bat service, we shall be using greater common sense and be getting far greater economy in the use of our national manpower.

ALASKAN FRONT

A glance at the map of the North Pacific will show that we are closer to Russia than any other good neighbor except Canada and Mexico. At Bering straits, Siberia and Alaska almost touch. That is under the Arctic circle and is not a dangerous menace. But, far to the south of that, our Aleutian islands lie like stepping stones on the way to Kamchatka. The outlying Rus sian islands of Komandorski and Bering seem to be a mere extension of the Aleutian archipelago and are within a few miles of the American Near islands.

We have no fortification or air bases in the Aleutians, notwithstanding that they skirt the shortest of the Great Circle route between Seattle and either Japan or the Siberian coasts and that enem air bases there could threaten the whole North Pacific and our main defensive line-Alaska, Hawaii and Pan-writes a man who signs himself "Bothered," "what can a man do with a wife who is always in the blues?

"My wife is 34; we've been married eleven years and have three fine children; girls of 8 and 2, and a boy of 5. Two years ago, just before my littlest sweetheart was born, we had a sad winter. My wife's mother died, and our boy was ill for weeks with mastoiditis. Lucie was up nightswe both were, and my loss of my job at the same time did not help matters. We got over a thousand dollars in debt, and as little Diana was delicate and Lucie is not a robust woman, she got tired and depressed.

"Being a splendid manager and conscientious spender, my wife did her share, perhaps more than her share, in extricating us from all this trouble. With careful spending and eliminating her parttime maid, and with a little luck in business for me, we have paid off every cent, bought a new stove and radio, and have kept the car in repair. I am a real estate salesman, in business with a brother, and in good times averaging more than $300 a month.

'Everything's Wrong,' Theme Song.

"Now, but by all rights, we ought to be happy! The children are in splendid health, the older girl exceptionally advanced and attractive. the boy still slight, but gaining, and my little rosebud the darling of us all. Lucie, too, eats well and sleeps well, but she cannot throw off her dismal moods. Everything is wrong; everyone else has what she wants; the atmosphere of the house is beginning to be affected by it, and the children murmur to me about Mother's dreariness.

"If I bring home office work, Lucie complains that we never do anything social. If I suggest a movie she says that Ethel's husband works most nights, and Ethel has a new fur coat. If we make her join us on a picnic, damp ground, mosquitoes, flies, fear the children are eating too much-everything upsets her. If we leave her at home she is in tears all day. When the youngsters are hungry she will watch them eating and say that heavy, fatty food will give them bad dreams. If they don't eat she is herself with anxiety and tonics and vitamin pills for

When I come in at night I call to her, but she rarely answers. I go to the kitchen doorway and say something, and she sighs and says, Well, I wish I could feel as cheerful as you do about it. But the way anyone can laugh.' At dinner she sits perfectly silent, sometimes with er eyes filling with tears. If one the children gets off a joke, she n't listening, has to have it reated. 'Poor people can't do this or that,' she says. Or 'If Papa loses his job again' and so on.

"Have you ever handled a case like this before, and if so what did you advise and did it work?" Cure Up to Patient.

Poor "Bothered," I can only say in answer that I HAVE "handled cases" like this before, and whether t works or not is entirely up to the victim of this miserable psychosis, this dreary state of mind, and not at all to the actions of those about er. Many women have an attitude omewhat like this woman's, only perhaps a little less extreme. I nean that they are quiet, dismal, inresponsible, martyred during the drum hours of everyday living.

For Wives Only

It's up to the little wife to sup-y the optimism around the family It's up to the little wife to sup-ply the optimism around the family fireside, for the man of the house has trouble enough in this modern business world and when he comes home he needs a little cheering up. At any rate that's what Kathleen Norris says in her current article written to help one family in their particular problem and intended as a lesson to others headed in the same direction.

And don't think that men don't like to hear a little good news when they come home—for they do. Good news is comforting and comfort is important to happy married life.

They make no effort to be helpful or cheerful in mood. They will spend mournful hours over the construction of an ice-box cake or the knitting of a baby blanket, and then produce these things with a subdued gloom that robs them of all charm.

Any woman with a home, a good husband, three fine children, an income that would be wealth in ninetenths of the countries of the globe, who talks of her family as "poor people," and envies other women their fur coats, is, to begin with, a stupid woman. She lives in a narrow, anxious uncomfortable groove. She has built a jail for her soul, and only she can unlock it and let the soul fly free.

There may be a physical base for this unnecessary glumness, but very likely there isn't. It is really a bad habit, a custom into which some women fall, of sighing and mourning, growing tearful over their own depressed thoughts, sinking into long silences, making no effort to contribute their share to the family's happiness. They will make beds, even hang fresh curtains and put flowers about, but they do it all with a smouldering sense of resentment and weariness, never thinking that the old words are as true now as when they were written: "The letter killeth, but in the spirit there is life." He Likes Good News.

Even when he knows it isn't true. even when he knows it is a flight of imagination and optimism, a man loves to hear good news when he gets home at night. No matter what the events of the day have signified, he is comforted, is given fresh confidence, when his wife laughs at worries, reminds him of other evil promises that never came to anything, and assures him that as long as he and she are well, and the children well, nothing can come along that they can't face and conquer. They'll get along somehow: they can rent this house and move to smaller quarters, and it will all

Some years ago a young husband and wife of my acquaintance were in desperate fear for the life of a tiny baby. The baby had been rushed to a hospital; the mother, still weak from her confinement two weeks earlier, was with her mother. When the husband went to the hospital for a conference of physicians he was told to see that his wife got what rest she might in the night.

"For we will have sad news for her in the morning," the head doctor said.

The young man carried this mes-
