NEW YORK AIR DEFENSE

Washington, D. C. The army is not anxious to publicize the fact, but as of today there are only 39 anti-aircraft guns in the whole New York city defense area.

Six months ago not even the most cautious generals would have worried about this. But after watching German air operations in the past month, and after doing a little figuring with paper and pencil on the flight performances of German planes, the army is rushing more aircraft guns to the nation's biggest city.

Twenty-two battalions with 264 additional guns will be sent to New

York as soon as the army can get them, but that will not be before the end of the year.

Note—The arithmetic which worried the army was this: Norway to Iceland, 733 miles; Iceland to Newfoundland, 1,500 miles; Newfoundland to New England, 800 miles.

More arithmetic: German Messerschmitt No. 110s have a flying range of 1,700 miles; German bombers have a minimum range of 1,230 miles, most of them more; and Germany has between 8,000 and 10,000 of them.

NAZI STRATEGY When Sumner Welles was in Berlin on his peace pilgrimage, the Hitler entourage told him flatly that if Britain wanted to continue the war, Germany was ready to lose 9,000 planes—if necessary—in raining the greatest barrage of bombs in history on England.

With Dutch air bases, plus new submarine bases in Norway, the Nazis plan to put the greatest squeeze in history on England, subject her to a terrific air bombardment, and land invading forces for the first time since the triumphal march of William the Conqueror in 1066.

The military strategy of the Nazis is the old Schlieffen plan used by the Kaiser's troops in the last war.

ALL U. S. ARMY PLANES SENT TO LOUISIANA FOR MANEUVERS

Published below is a letter received here this week from Capt. M. Y. Stokes, Jr., Goldthwaite postmaster who is now at Barksdale Field, La., participating in the United States Army maneuvers. Captain Stokes will return to Goldthwaite about June 1.

Barksdale Field, La. May 21, 1940.

Yesterday before I had a chance to change into uniform I was in an airplane on a reconnaissance flight. We flew south from here over the "battle" area, but although there were 70,000 troops engaged I didn't see one. The explanation is that we were flying about 3500 feet, or above range of machine guns. We covered an area equivalent in size to that from Goldthwaite to Blanco about 20 miles wide.

We could see trucks and tanks and guns, and at one point the combat cars were scurrying cross country over a hill to attack. We flew over two blimps and an autogyro which were out on other reconnaissance missions.

In order to see as much as possible, we throttled down to 150 miles an hour, and as we were out 3 1/2 hours, we covered over 500 miles. Our observer sent a continuous stream of messages back to headquarters, and these were relayed to Army headquarters.

After making this flight, I felt that there was no danger of the supply of pine timber ever giving out. Square mile after mile of Louisiana is covered with pines. Here and there a sawmill is doing its best to chew up the logs, but they have hardly made a dent in the forests.

Today I have been working in headquarters. As you will probably read in the papers, every Army airplane in the United States is on its way here—the biggest airfield in the world. The first will arrive this afternoon and all will be here by tomorrow. It will be a unique experience to see such a collection of fighting planes. Then multiply that by 200 and imagine what it will look like after the aviation increases recommended by President Roosevelt have started.

It is interesting to compare airplanes now with the ones I flew in the World War. Our two-engined plane yesterday had a crew of eight including two pilots and a radio operator. I sat with the observer out in the glass nose of the big ship where our view was unrestricted on three sides. Whenever we needed to see something better, he would telephone the pilot to bank or turn or change course as required.

I was in my shirt sleeves and quite comfortable as the plane was entirely enclosed. No one wore goggles or helmets as we used to do. It was as comfortable as in your car, but a lot roomier as you could walk around and change seats as desired. Down below the movements were largely limited to roads. There were many forests and swamps and streams which would hold up mechanized troops but of course we could fly in any direction. If we had been over Goldthwaite, we could have seen both Brownwood and Lampasas at the same time, and we would have flown from Goldthwaite to Brownwood in about 10 minutes.

Don't expect much from me this week in the way of news. There's too much to do and see to find time to write letters.

"Mystery" Bird Is Chickenyard Visitor

A carrier pigeon bearing leg bands with strange legends grounded itself in a Goldthwaite chicken yard this week obviously in want of food and supplying a minor note of mystery to the household duties of Mrs. Lynn Nix, the bird's unexpected hostess.

When she went to feed her chickens Monday the pigeon was there waiting for rations along with the regular flock. On the right leg was a band bearing the legend AU-38-OC0 226. On the left leg was the number 32-32. Inquiry as to the significance of the feathered visitor's mission have so far revealed nothing, although it is thought probable that the bird is property of some owner of racing pigeons, or the U. S. biological survey.

There is nothing particularly sinister in the appearance of the bird or its markings, the temporary hostess states.

Out-of-Town Teachers Leave

All the out-of-town teachers of the Goldthwaite schools have left for the summer vacation, following commencement and the close of school last week, except Miss Evelyn Hoting, home economics teacher. Included in the list of those leaving were Misses Lily Mae Ely of Bonham, Margaret Freeland of Dallas, Doris Hill of Albany, Lela Mae Sivells of Brownwood, Margaret Kingsbury of Denton, Howard Onstot of Austin, H. D. Crow of Alvarado, and A. L. Layton of Winnsboro.

Mattress Program Starts May 22

Five hundred mattress applications have been certified by the Mills County AAA Committee.

Thirty-six bales of cotton, 3600 yards of mattress ticking have been ordered and received by the AAA Committee. Mattress centers will begin operating in Mills county after May 27th. June 15, 1940, is the "deadline" date set for taking applications for surplus cotton and mattress ticking. When this deadline date comes, every eligible family in the county should have had an opportunity to file an application if the family wishes to do so.

This information comes from the Washington office, "The rules eligibility for participation in the cotton mattress project are being revised so that any bona fide farm family, as determined by the county committee, may receive mattress material if its normal annual income is not in excess of $400.00." For example, an applicant is eligible to receive material if he received sixty five dollars income in 1939 from agricultural occupations and one hundred and sixty dollars from Texas Old Age Pension, etc. All clients of the Farm Security Administration will secure their mattress material through the F. S. A. These mattresses will be made under the direct supervision of the F. S. A. supervisors.

Star Gym Is Scene Of Graduation

Ten members of the Star High School senior class received their diplomas in exercises held Friday night in the school gymnasium. The spacious building was completely filled for the program.

The principal address was delivered by Capt. M. Y. Stokes, Jr., of Goldthwaite. The invocation and benediction were offered by Rev. Estes, of Lampasas.

The valedictorian of the Senior Class was Miss Ima Beth Soules, who gave a splendid address and the salutatorian, Miss Lula Mae Neighbors, also made an interesting address. Miss Reha Vee Chappell gave the Class Will, Miss Dora Bell Roe, the Class History, and Miss Pansy Woods, the Class Prophecy.

The class roll included Vance Booker, Gerald Head, Russell Hill, Vernon McCasland, R. C. McCollum, Jr., and the Misses Soules, Neighbors, Chappell, Roe, and Woods.

Mrs. Charles Sheldon was pianist, and Mrs. Jack Kirby vocal director.

The building was occupied by Mrs. Jackson, and Mrs. Cora Keese and two sons. It was said that the building was insured and will be repaired soon.

INTENSE CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS HELD BY RED CROSS WEDNESDAY

For Representative

SETH MOORE who this week announces in The Goldthwaite Eagle as a candidate for Representative, 104th Legislative District.

MR. MOORE'S STATEMENT

To my Friends who read The Goldthwaite Eagle:

I was very much surprised and encouraged when I found I had so many friends who want me to run for Representative of the 104th District. I want to extend to those who have already written me cards and letters asking me to run, my thanks. I have already received many more than I expected. Some of these letters have more than one signature and one letter had over 20 names of voters signed to it. Thanks for the encouragement. I intend to use these letters and cards in my campaign and I want everyone else who is interested in me to do likewise, because your letters and cards will help elect me as your Representative. There you will be helping, not only yourself, but the people of this 104th District of Texas.

My friends, it is time for the people of this district to do something. Unless something is done this next term, we will have (Continued on Page Eight)

A mass meeting was called on the court house lawn Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of collecting funds for the Red Cross in the war-stricken countries.

A committee of townsmen organized into six separate units to cover the town and solicit funds for the drive. The fire truck was decked with flags and driven through the business section of town to rally the people at the Court House and Elder E. E. Furr spoke through the loud-speaking system from the Methodist Church in an appeal to the people for donations. Rev. M. P. Burton, Mayor Bodkin, Judge Gerald, and F. P. Bowman spoke from the court house lawn. Mrs. John Berry and L. B. Porter led in singing patriotic songs.

The goal of the Mills county drive is a fund of $280. The intensive drive Wednesday brought in $117.05, and with the previously donated sum of $120, the county has a total of $247.05 at present. Judge Gerald states that the drive will be continued until the remaining $43 is brought in.

In the nation-wide Red Cross War Relief Fund Campaign now in progress individual subscriptions ranging from $10,000 down to a days profits of a newsboy—all contributions large or small are received with equal gratitude. For example, one child has turned over his Christmas savings bank to the cause.

CIVILIZATION ON TWO FRONTS

Two major drives headline the news of the week. In Europe armed hordes have been pushing through neutral borders dealing death and destruction among civilians and defending forces alike, violating every fundamental principle of civilization. In America another drive pushes forward, also occasioned by war, but expressing the highest ideals which hold men together—the unselfish willingness to help our fellow-men in distress. The American Red Cross has made an appeal for $10,000,000 to relieve the appalling conditions existing in the wake of Europe's debacle. And if we know the American people, it will get that and more.

The fact that we have an organization that is appealing for funds to help impartially the stricken of another continent is perhaps the one heartening note in world affairs today. The Red Cross, as an international society, stands unique in that its treaty between the governments of 61 nations of the world has never been questioned. Neither has it ever been abrogated or broken.

Thus, while differences still can cause some nations to lose almost every vestige of decency and conscience, there still remains the common bond, the Red Cross Treaty of Geneva, which promises neutrality and mutual assistance between all the 61 Red Cross societies of the world for the aid of the sick and wounded in time of great emergency.

Still relatively young, the idea of the Red Cross has taken root throughout the world. In America alone there are now 3,700 local chapters with more than 7-

Mills County Farmers and Ranchers Hear Conservation Program Discussed

On Thursday afternoon, May 16, 77 farmers of Mills county of whom 57 were actual land owners, interested in the organization of a Soil Conservation District, met in the District Court room at Goldthwaite for public hearing on the organization of a Soil Conservation Board, and E. C. Johnson, Supervisor of the Dublin and Brown County Soil Conservation District, were present and gave an explanation of the Soil Conservation Law as passed by the Texas Legislature.

W. A. Hill, Chairman of the Mills County Soil Conservation Board, presided at the meeting. County Agent Sam von Rosenberg introduced the different officials present and explained the purpose of the meeting. Following this, he explained the part that the Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture would play in aiding the farmers and land owners of the county in learning more about the possibilities of the Soil Conservation District for the county. He explained that the Extension Service would conduct meetings in all communities with the land owners to discuss the matter. He also explained that in the event of the land owners getting a District in Mills county, there would be very little likelihood of getting the work done without cost, but it would be likely that land owners could get some help in the way of running lines, planning, and possibly extra machinery, all of which would be a benefit towards accomplishing more soil conservation work in the county.

Mr. Caraway briefly explained the State Soil Conservation Law in which he pointed out that this law provides a way for the land owners to plan their own soil conservation program and at the same time get the help of governmental agencies in the program. He also pointed out that land owners should not confuse this program with the Triple A program, as it has nothing whatsoever to do with the Triple A program. However, he also explained that the Triple A, being a governmental agency, would be of much help to the farmers in aiding them with their work through the benefit payments. Mr. Gosby, Administrative assistant for the Triple A, also explained that the Triple A would aid the farmers in their work so far as the services of the Triple A and the soil-building payments would permit. Mr. Johnson explained that the Soil Conservation Service would aid farmers in planning their soil conservation plans for their farms and would assist them in the work so far as possible.

Following these preliminary discussions, the main purpose of the meeting, a discussion of the land owners was entered.

The following statements were made by the land owners present:

E. A. Ohlenbusch, Rt. 2, Goldthwaite: I am opposed to the creation of the proposed Soil Conservation District for the following reasons: (1) It is a duplication of the AAA and range program, (2) Under section 9 of this bill it is an infringement of the rights of the farmers when by a nine-tenths of the farmers vote it can be made compulsory to carry out soil-building practices and further provides that judgement can be levied against the property. I do approve of soil conservation practices but am opposed to the creation of a Soil Conservation District since the same work can be accomplished under AAA and Range Program without any additional expense.

J. M. Petsick, Rt. 3, Goldthwaite: I wish to ask the following question: If a Soil Conservation District is created does the State Board or District have any right to levy taxes or issue bonds on the District. If it has no right to levy taxes or issue bonds to do this work how is it to be paid for. Will we be allowed to do our own work? I am in favor of soil conservation but am opposed to any compulsion. (Questions answered by C. M. Caraway).

T. B. Graves, Rt. 1, Mullin: I am in favor of the creation of a Soil Conservation District since it is a program that enables the farmer to take care of his soil. It is my opinion that if we take proper care of our pastures we could run two or three head of livestock where we are running one. If we take care of our tillable land we can grow more on one acre than we now grow on four. As an illustration I produced more maize on five acres of good soil than I did on 18 acres of land on which the soil was badly eroded. If we can benefit our soil it is our interest to do so. The creation of a Soil Conservation District in this county would enable the farmer to secure plans on suggested improvement which could be carried on through a period of years and in connection with AAA program he will secure financial assistance which would enable him to Overlooking Real Sport.

Texas anglers are overlooking a good bet for some of the finest fishing in the world!

You have the word of the chief aquatic biologist of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission for that. He is referring to the sport of fishing for those large, red-eared bream often called Georgia or Georgia blue gill bream on light tackle. Believe it or not, foot-long bream are not uncommon in Texas waters.

Many lakes in Texas are overrun with Georgia bream because so few people fish for them and so few know the proper method of snagging them. Once for once, there is twice as much fight in those red-ears than there are in bass, but Lone Star State fishermen have run riot over bass and have neglected the scrappy bream. As a result, according to the chief aquatic biologist, the lakes are over-run with bream, bass have too much to eat in the way of natural food and the bass fisherman, with his artificial lures, often is just like a man offering spinach to a person full of cake.

The chief aquatic biologist of the Game Department is urging bass fishermen to take a day off now and then and go after the battling red-ears. If a sufficient number of anglers catch bream, they'll have better bass fishing as a result, and he can cite instances to prove his point.

There are many species of fish carrying the broad label of bream but most of them are shore feeders and do not grow as large as the Georgia red-ear, which is almost entirely a bottom feeder. Consequently few people know how large the Georgia bream grows and few have fished for it. Red-ears reach a weight of more than a pound in Texas waters and a foot-long red-ear, taken on light tackle is more sport than the most ardent bass angler realizes.

There are several methods of fishing for red-ears which can be used successfully. It makes no difference whether the angler prefers artificial or natural bait. Remembering that these scrappy little fish are bottom feeders, the artificial lure addict rigs up his fly rod with light line, a small leader, a tiny trout fly and to this he attaches a piece of pork rind more narrow than a paper match and approximately a half inch long. This is split in the middle. A small split shot is attached to the line as a weight. After the cast, the bait is allowed to sink to the bottom of the lake and the wiggling pork rind attracts the big red ears. Once he is hooked the man who is using light tackle is guaranteed plenty of thrills before landing Mr. Bream.

If the fisherman prefers natural bait, he can use either an ordinary pole and line or a fly rod, but the lighter the tackle the more sport the angler will have. Attach a leader to the line and use either a small fly or narrow crappie hook. Put on as many angleworms as you can and leave an inch or two of the worms wiggling. Cast or drop your bait into the water and let it sink to the bottom. Leave it there for a few minutes and it is likely the wiggling worms will attract your fish. If not, try again in a location two or three feet away.

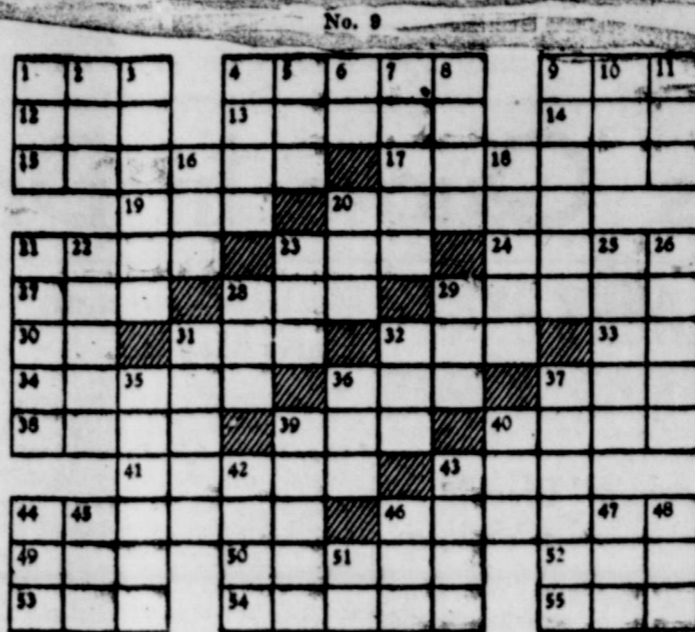

The only baits ordinarily good for bream are worms and flies, which is consistent with their natural bill of fare. Only the green perch eats other fish, most bream making their meals of worms, flies and grubs.

Bream are one source of food for bass, but with few persons fishing for them, lakes are becoming overcrowded with them, bass have plenty of natural food and when you drop your plug or fly in front of ol' John Bass he naturally turns up his nose at it nine times out of ten.

While hundreds of his fellow San Antonians traveled fifty to 100 miles to fish opening day, A. Cavozos pulled ten bass out of the San Antonio River the open-

How to Eat Well On 16c A Day

Belton.—A family of five can be fed healthily on 80c a day!

And home economic students at Mary Hardin-Baylor college present carefully wrought charts and budgets to prove it. Informed that persons who are seemingly healthy may actually be dying of malnutrition, and knowing that many American families need to economize on food costs, members of the Meal Planning and Table Service class planned and cooked menus by which, at 80c a day or $25 a month, the average family of five can be given all the vitamins and minerals necessary for an adequate diet. As a class project, students worked out to the fraction of a cent the cost of these meals.

For example, a breakfast consisting of oranges, poached eggs, toast, butter, syrup, milk and coffee may be served to the five for 30½c, and the lunch of macaroni, cheese, baked beans, cabbage slaw, bread, butter, stewed fruit and buttermilk may be served for 20 4-5c. Dinner consisting of chuck roast, baked rice, gravy, diced carrots, cornbread, butter and milk costs a little over 28c, making the day's meals cost 79.67c.

Miss Rowena Anderson, class instructor, explains that the greatest part of the week's supply of food consists of Saturday specials and vegetables which may be quickly freshened. Bread made with dried yeast reduces bread cost to about 2½c a loaf. Water is used instead of milk in the preparation.

Cracked wheat and milo maize which ground at home costs about 1c a pound, are used for cereals. The budget includes two quarts of whole milk a day and also a quart of buttermilk. Fresh fruit and dried fruit are alternated according to the price and also the season. Oleomargarine is substituted part of the time for butter.

Although the most tender meat cuts are often not within this price range, Miss Anderson explains that chuck, soup bones and the neck have just as much food value and flavor if they are cooked properly. Salt pork and jowl meat are used for seasoning. Left overs from roast are used in salads and in stew. Provision is made for meat at least once a day in the menus.

HISTORY OF 1940 GOLDTHWAITE HIGH SENIOR CLASS

Mrs. Euna V. Barnett, a romantic-looking lady, now known as a romance breaker, is at present sponsor of the 1940 Senior Class of Goldthwaite High. She attended school at Liberty three years and Goldthwaite eight, as her high school education. Her college career includes Baylor University, Howard Payne College, Daniel Baker College, and Texas University.

Harriet Allen, "the hardest to conquer of all debs," has obtained all her education at Goldthwaite—just Goldthwaite. How will she feel away from it?

Wanda Bledsoe, one of the twins, has also secured her education at Goldthwaite; that is, book "Iarnin'".

Wilda Bledsoe, twin of Wanda, has received her education right along with her sister. We who aren't twins wonder if it's fun, or if you have to watch about being "told on."

Grenetta Bell, that "tall, good-looking" girl, attended school at Ratler four years, De Leon four, and Goldthwaite 3. She is easily recognized by a "kee-hee" laugh.

Louise Booker, one who especially likes to go somewhere on April Fool's Day, was at Lake Merritt for three years and Goldthwaite eight years.

Odell Casbeer, noted for her blue eyes and baseball talent, attended school at South Bennett one year, Pleasant Grove one year, Anson three years, Kelley three year, and Goldthwaite 3 years.

Pat Chandler, "the boy of boys" who's wondering where to wander now, went to school at Hico one year and Goldthwaite 10 years.

D. L. Cummings, who makes a rather good grandpa (in plays), is a boy that is little heard of. He attended school at Ridge for eight years and Goldthwaite five.

Glynn Collier, the one among singers who is forever wanting someone to "come over here" because "eggs won't bounce across the Chile Divide," has received all his education in Goldthwaite.

Rex Collier, who thought he never could "be got," was fairly swept off his feet in his senior year after going to school at Brownwood six years and Goldthwaite five.

Veona Denton, one of our cute little seniors, keeps her mouth shut and her nose out of other people's business. She has attended Goldthwaite High for the last four years, before which she was educated at Midway.

Karl Doggett, with an artistic genius beyond us, went to school at Mexia two years, Center City one year and Goldthwaite eight years.

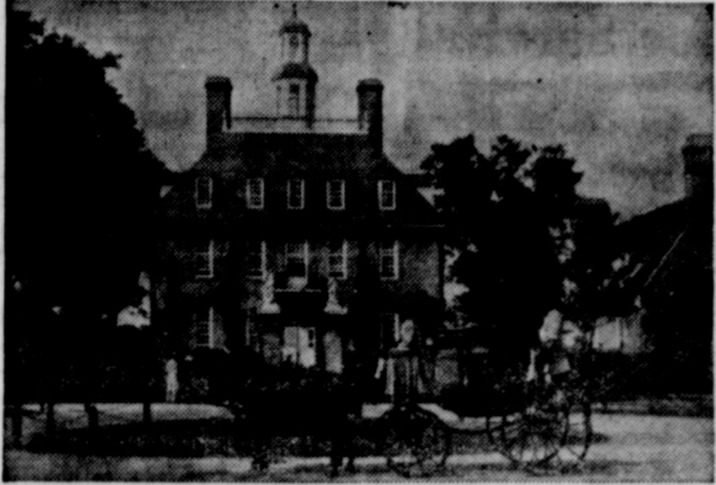

Mark Fairman has gone to school at Goldthwaite ever since he started, way back in '28. He is a friendly fellow who likes to help anyone most any time.

Elmo Fallon is noted for his rosy complexion and interest in Mullin. His education includes schooling at Center Point for nine years and at Goldthwaite for four years.

Opal Faulkner, who can make most everyone like her, attended school at Goldthwaite during all her school days.

Sam Graves, a dark complexioned boy who has almost abandoned the idea that "everyone

In Historic Williamsburg

The Palace of the Royal Governors at Williamsburg, Virginia, is one of the high spots of a tour of that historic town. Mary Margaret McBride describes the joys to be found in weekend history hunts, in an article in April Cosmopolitan, Virginia Garden Week, April 22 to April 27, offers its lovely hospitality and beautiful buildings reconstructed exactly as they stood in the days of Washington and Jefferson.

likes him," attended school at Lake Merritt four years and Goldthwaite seven years.

Ann House has had experience exhorting people for grabbing her letters. She must have acquired the ability during her six years divided equally among McGirk, Live Oak, and Center City—or was it during the last five years at "ye olde GHS?"

Cleta Huckabee is incognito, or something. She can go to parties and never be seen. She attended school at Midway for six years and Goldthwaite the last five.

Elvin Head can easily be recognized by his deep bass voice, which he trained during his 7 years at Midway and 4 years at Goldthwaite.

Six years of Christine Hill's happy school days were spent at Lake Merritt, another one at Priddy, and the last four at Goldthwaite. She has sparkling eyes and a ready smile.

Orville Huffman, who is a boy good-looking and attended school at Goldthwaite all of his days.

Jerome Kirby is noted for his application of "high fluting" to all his friends (ding dong). He attended school at Big Valley four years and Goldthwaite seven.

Joyce Knight, whose education consists of three year's schooling at Live Oak, and four at Goldthwaite, is recognized by her smiling eyes and voice. She is ambitious, especially to gain a business education.

Magdalene Long is known for her secrecy in love affairs. Anybody need any information in the subject? Then we'll tell you that she has gone to the Goldthwaite schools and that's all.

Mary Louise McGirk, who likes to take off the last period to help with mother-daughter banquets, has spent all her school days at dear old Goldthwaite High.

Alene Jackson, noted for her ability at the candy selling profession, has gone to school at Midway for six years and Goldthwaite High the last four.

Cartwright Oglesby, commonly called Cartwheel or Cartwrong, has an ability to study only at noon, and that happens to be "fighting period." He attended school at Big Valley the first nine years, while Goldthwaite has been honored by his presence since then.

Edward Eugene Palmer is expected to be a professional an-noyer if he continues to practice on some of his fellow seniors. He has always gone to Goldthwaite High, so we wonder where he acquired the idea that you can't act your age.

Earl Poer has quite a musical voice and understanding of physics. He attended school at North Bennett one year, Rollo two years, Lasara five years, Mt. Olive one year, and Goldthwaite two years. He's something of a traveller, eh what?

J. D. Robertson is the boy with the smile all the while—even when he makes a flat 100 in geometry. He attended school at Lake Merritt seven years and Goldthwaite four years.

Alton Rose has no reason for not becoming a teacher of dramatics, since he knows how to direct already. He has gone to school at Goldthwaite for a total of eight years, with one year each at Kelly, Pleasant Grove and two years at Prairie interspersed between.

Darwin Denson has one favorite hobby, devoted to "being quiet in American history." He received all his education at Goldthwaite. Is that why he's so bashful (or is he?) when in a group?

Morris Yell Sellers is the possessor of blushes. He's sure to change color if anyone "gets off" with him. He attended school at Big Valley for nine years and Goldthwaite for two more.

Evelyn Sheppard is a girl of wonders with pretty red hair. Her hobby is riding the merry mix-up. She received her entire education at Goldthwaite High.

Aubrey Smith should know how to manage flat-fixing, if practice makes perfect. His education includes four years at Winters and seven years here.

Meredith Stewart must like Goldthwaite or somebody in this fair city. Midway claimed him six years, then gave him up in favor of Bangs one year, Goldthwaite three years, Cooper one year, and GHS again the last year.

Lucille Taylor plans on going to a school of nursing, but she is designed to be an actress. She was given to Center Point the first nine years, though Goldthwaite had the honor of the last three.

Lacy Thompson, our best actor, is wandering in search of another place on the stage. He has spent 10 years of study in Big Valley and two in Goldthwaite.

Norma Tyson is a heart breaker of men, and of the women who want the men. The first nine years were spent at G. H. S., then came a year at Floresville, and Goldthwaite obtained the last word on the senior year.

Weldon Withers knows how to say poetry before English class, that is, get it over (with). He attended school at Comanche the first 10 years and Goldthwaite his senior year.

Raymond Wilcox, who's always talking too much, has gone to school at Ratler for four years, Catclaw two years, San Saba one year, and Goldthwaite four.

Ovella Wesson is going to make a really good cook. If you don't think so, look at her H. E. grades. She attended school at Center Point nine years and Goldthwaite two years.

J. C. Wesson was once heard to say, "You'd better watch these sisters." We wonder if it's for his or her protection. His schooling was made upon nine years at Center Point and two at Goldthwaite.

Elvin Wells just talks entirely too much. Why, he can't even

Kindness Comes From Example

College Station.—Although it is necessary that everything be done for a tiny baby, as a child grows older it is important that he be taught to do things for himself and gradually learn to enjoy doing things for others, according to Dosca Hale, specialist in parent education and child development for the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College.

She points out that often times adults and older children enjoy having others dependent upon them and rob children of the opportunity of learning to be thoughtful and considerate. Gradually these children become more and more self-centered until finally as adults they care little or nothing for the wants and feelings of family, neighbors and associates.

It helps for adults to be considerate and thoughtful as an example for the child, the specialist explains, but the child needs to be led wisely into the doing of concrete acts that will give him the pleasure which comes from doing kind things for others. This training, however, must begin very early, and usually a suggestion or reminder in normal situations is sufficient. Even adults appreciate being reminded of little things they can do to show their appreciation of others.

Consideration or thoughtfulness of others is not a natural trait, Miss Hale says, but it is one which comes from practice and from learning to enjoy doing services for others.

Refugee Children, Innocent War Victims, Appeal to America's Heart for Survival

"DEATH-DEALING airplanes ride the skies. The carnage of their creation sweeps many lands. Armored tanks and motorized artillery roll across whole countries destroying, as in a blight, all standing in their way. Cattle, crops, homes, people—innocent and defenseless children—stand in fear, then in despair, only to fall into destruction. Some will live. They must be aided to endure, to struggle on, to survive."

This was the message directed to America's generous heart by Chairman Norman H. Davis of the American Red Cross, in asking prompt contributions to a $10,000,000 war relief fund to be spent by the Red Cross for help to military and civilian wounded, and the homeless people of the warring nations.

"We must send relief as needed and not too late to be of use," Mr. Davis said. "We must send clothing, bedding, shoes, medications, surgical dressings and food."

Before the most recent devastation of neutral countries by aerial blitzkriegs was begun, the American Red Cross had sent 320,000 garments, knitted sweaters and hospital clothes for the women and children victims in England, Finland, France, Germany-occupied Poland and for Polish refugees in other countries. To the Red Cross societies of the nations engaged in battle, the Red Cross sent 933,000 surgical dressings. These garments and surgical dressings were made in 1,500 Red Cross Chapters throughout America. In addition, the American Red Cross purchased medicines, shoes, blankets, knitted underwear and almost a thousand other items at a cost of $1,500,000 for shipment to the Red Cross societies of belligerent nations.

But with destruction, suffering, and thousands of wounded added each day to the frightful toll of war as new nations became involved, the American Red Cross appealed to the nation for at least a ten million dollar relief fund. Contributions can be made to the local Red Cross Chapter in any community in America, Mr. Davis said.

Attendance Record Of Local High School

For the first semester we had a total of 656 absentees and 155 tardies; the enrollment was approximately 308 students.

The second semester we had an enrollment of 288 students. The second semester we had a total of 767 absentees and 81 tardies.

For this school year, 1939-40 we had a total of 1423 absentees and 236 tardies.

It is estimated that if a High School student is absent one day from school he loses $10 earning power for later life. If this be true, students in Goldthwaite High School in 1939-40, lost a total of $14,230. Most failures in school are caused by absence from school and physical defects.

During this school year a total of 2,008 text books have been issued to high school students. Fines paid for damage on books and lost books totaled $3.82.

The last four years I have a study of causes for failures in school.

In 1936-37, 91 students made up my science classes. That year three per cent of those students failed. All of this three per cent had weak eyes, bad teeth, and were under or over weight.

In 1937-38, 89 students made up my classes and two per cent failed. All of this two per cent had weak eyes, bad teeth, were over or under weight, and were absent more than one-third of the time.

In 1938-39, 100 students made up my classes, and 10 per cent failed. Eight per cent dropped out of school before the term was over. The actual two per cent that failed had weak eyes, bad teeth, were over or under weight and were absent from school more than a third of the time.

This year, 1939-40, 81 students made up my classes and three per cent failed. All of this three per cent have weak eyes, are under weight and have been absent from school more than one-third of the term.

Summary of this year's statistics. These statistics were taken from 81 students. Students with correct weight

House Agrees on Farm Tenant Plan

Washington, May 23.—Keen satisfaction that the House has concurred with the Senate amendment to the 1941 Agriculture Appropriation bill, continuing and increasing the farm tenant program, was expressed by Congressman Charles L. South today.

The amendment provides for the appropriation of $50,000,000, to be borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at an interest rate of 3 percent per annum, and is in effect a continuation of the farm purchase program which has been in operation for the past three years.

It will be remembered that Congressman South favored continuing this program when the original farm bill was being considered in the House some weeks ago.

"This is one instance in which the government can render substantial aid to a limited number of farmers without increasing deficit, or paying a direct subsidy," Congressman South pointed out today.

"Money lent by the government for this purpose is not a gift, but a loan bearing three per cent interest. This is sensible and constructive farm legislation, and we cannot afford to abandon it until farm tenancy has been greatly reduced," he added.

Kathleen Norris Says:

There's Deadly Boredom in Being Too Lucky

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

After dinner we listen to any good radio program and then Leonard goes to bed and reads for two or even three hours.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE truth is, most of us American women live under unnatural conditions. Our lives are so easy that it is very hard for us! We have to keep thinking up artificial ways of keeping busy. There are great necessities all around us, bitter needs of hunger, housing, unemployment, mothering of the motherless, comforting the hopeless, solving any tiny one of the millions of problems that our civilization leaves in its wake. But these are uninviting subjects.

What to Do?

So we support matinees, afternoon movies, bridge clubs, amusement clubs, language and book-binding lessons, tea shops, beauty parlors, cultural and pseudo-political lectures; we encourage smart middle-aged women to talk new book and new movement and new thought to us; we gather in big department stores to learn how to make lampshades and book rugs; we attend the club when the dramatic section or the musical section or the domestic science section is putting on a program, and we live within sound of the radio.

Added to these are unnecessary shopping, and unnecessary fussing over meals. Our meals! Foreign women look in complete bewilderment at the countless menus that are published in this country, thousands and thousands of meals printed every month, and consider we have spoiled appetites. Chopped nuts and whipped cream, larded this and breaded that, jellied soup and stuffed celery, desserts that are beaten and creamed and set and surrounded with walls of lady-fingers and soaked with rum; even the simple old cellar vegetables of our forefathers are minced and rolled in crumbs and fried and puffed and embellished with raisins.

Nothing REAL to Accomplish.

And all this means that we haven't enough REAL things to do. It sounds so fortunate, so much as if we were to be envied! Electric lights, gas stoves, linoleum that needs only a wipe with a damp cloth; everything canned and packaged and convenient — even the humble appleauce, the unpretentious new potato, the familiar biscuit. One can buy shelled peas and lima beans, shelled crabs and shrimp, ready made pie-crust and party shells. Fifty years ago housework was all-absorbing. No permanents and painted finger-nails then! The kitchen was a place of ashes, coal, yeast rising, mops, scrubbing brushes, peeling apples, chopping and stringing and skinning, cleaning fowls, handling great pots of soup bones, rolling out square yards of pastry. Women did all the family laundry, they did all the sewing, they cared for the children in health and for everyone in illness.

Frightened at Boredom.

And that's what women are doing in nine tenths of the world today. When they are doing anything else, although they may be free and rested and groomed and lovely as to hair and skin and fingernails, and up on the latest lunch dishes and bridge points of The Four Aces, they are also apt to be bored frightfully, as their more hard-working sisters never were bored, and sometimes they get frightened, as realer women never are.

For example, here is a letter from an Arkansas woman who lives in a four-room city apartment, loves her husband, fears she's losing him. "Leonard is always kind to me," she writes, "but he doesn't need me! His breakfast is only orange juice, which I leave in the ice-box overnight. He lunches at the factory 13 miles out of town. He comes home after a late afternoon stop at the club, where he plays a few games of dominoes or bridge, and has a tomato juice. His taste at supper is simple, nothing fussy or elaborate; in fact, he often has only a bowl of rice, cereal or crackers and milk, and a cookie. He likes the packaged cookies better than home made.

An Empty Existence.

"I get up after he goes in the morning, wash his orange-juice glass, my coffee cup and spoon, and make the beds. It is now about quarter past nine. And Leonard gets home at six. "We are among the many," the letter goes on, "who decided early in married life that we could not afford a family. I would not want a child unless I could give that child every advantage of raising and education, and the experience of the few couples we know who have taken the risk does not tempt me.

"Perhaps I am critical, but this life does not seem satisfying to me, and I feel that my husband and I are drifting apart. It is in vain that I occasionally try to interest him in cards, some outstanding movie, or an effort to widen our circle of friends. He seems to need very little, and it is not imagination that I am not included in that little, after 14 years of wedded life. If I am away for a few summer weeks, he keeps the house quite as well as I do, getting his own breakfast and supper and washing up after them."

Misses Joy of Being Needed.

Poor woman, 14 years a wife, and trying to interest a man in cards, movies, or new acquaintances! She is not really needed anywhere; she never feels the glorious necessity of doing things, deciding things, trying to crowd in a little extra service for someone, trying to squeeze out time for an hour's delicious leisure. I have known women whose hands were always full of cooking utensils, or swiftly busy with blankets and sheets, or burdened with heavy, exacting babyhood, had more actual joy in living in five minutes than this woman knows in as many years!

The woman who wrote me that letter doesn't know it, but she is a coward. She has been made a coward by her own nature, that is unimaginative, lazy, easily influenced. These are minor faults, perhaps, but we pay for them more highly than for more serious ones.

Just Isn't Living.

To live in one dull apartment, year in and year out; to agree that having children is too much of a risk to run; to follow the example of other stupid women blindly, wondering all the while why life tastes so flat, is to grow gradually less and less aware of the amazing opportunities all about her, to forget what freedom and independence are, to sink gradually into an atrophied condition from which nothing can arouse her!

Science and civilization have taken away from us women many of our old royal rights of service and usefulness. But it's a poor heart that doesn't find a latter day substitute in a world as needy as this one.

Natural Resources In All Counties to Be Surveyed

DALLAS — For the first time in history, Texas' natural resources, those which are being exploited and the countless other ones in which lie this state's hopes for an industrialized, progressive future, will be catalogued county by county and published in book form, under a plan announced this week by Judge John M. Spellman of Dallas, who is president of the Texas Institute of Natural Resources and Industrialization.

Under terms of a contract made by Judge Spellman for the institute with Newspaper Features of Texas, a special newspaper advertising and news gathering organization with offices in Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, a trained personnel will be placed in the field immediately and Texas' 254 counties will be surveyed with a fine-toothed "scientific comb."

Working in close cooperation with Chambers of Commerce, city and county government officials and schools and colleges, the data compilers will expend exhaustive efforts in assembling for the first time in history a definitive, accurate list of the Lone Star state's natural resources and the roles they are capable of playing in the "Texas of tomorrow."

Findings for each county will be published in a newspaper in that county and the institute will retain them as a permanent file for the information of those interested in inspecting this state's possibilities as site for great plants, manufacturing concerns or supply bases.

The institute will be furnished with 50,000 copies of each survey printed in each of the county newspapers. The reports from the various counties will be compiled into a large volume and, according to Judge Spellman, will be placed in college and university libraries throughout the nation. Also, he said, they will be put into the hands of great industrialists and financiers who have expressed interest in Texas.

Advertising Boosts Chevrolet Sales

Detroit.—Continuation of the intensive sales and advertising activities which have contributed so largely to the sharp sales gains registered by Chevrolet's 1940 models was announced by W. E. Holler, general sales manager, at the meeting of the company's nine regional managers, held in Detroit this week.

Sales and registration figures for the current model year to date reveal a series of new sales records for Chevrolet. March sales of 106,091 were the highest of any month since April, 1937, and rounded out the first-quarter period 33 per cent ahead of 1939. They brought total sales in the 1940 model year to an all-time high for the period that has elapsed since the current car was introduced.

Women May Dress On $25 A Year

College Sta.—An attractive wardrobe costing $25 a year!

That's what advanced students at the Texas State College for Women, Denton, have planned for the 1940 farm woman of Texas. And not only planned, for they've actually purchased accessories and underwear, made inexpensive dresses, and secured necessary cosmetics, all within the slim $25 budget. The work was done under the direction of Miss Gladys McGill, associate professor of the department of home economics.

More than a thousand home demonstration club women from North, Central and East Texas viewed articles in this phenomenal wardrobe during the recent home demonstration women's short course held on the TSCW campus in cooperation with the Extension Service of A&M College.

In addition to modeling these attractive clothes which they had either made or purchased, the students told how many of the articles or piece goods had been purchased at end-of-the-season sales. The wardrobe included such diverse articles as cotton anklets for garden or household wear, a sunbonnet, galoshes, three pairs of work gloves, three house dresses, and lipstick from the five-and-ten-cent store.

The budget included a list of "necessities" which have to be added to the wardrobe each year plus special purchases for the first, second, and third years during which the plan is followed. In addition to listing the cosmetic purchases, the students distributed information telling how farm women can make their own hand lotions, deodorants, and toothpouders at minimum costs.
