RECRUITING SHOWS PHYSICAL DEFICIENCIES

The army campaign for new recruits is showing up all too vividly how the years of depression have left their mark on American youth. Greatest difficulty in securing recruits is not the reluctance of young men to enlist, but their inability to pass physical examinations. In peacetime, the armed services get most of their recruits from lower-bracket families. Because of economic conditions it is now the lower-bracket families, with the most children, which lack sufficient nourishment, fresh air and exercise. This has been a particularly serious drawback to recruiting in the larger cities. During one recent drive to bring the marine corps up to full strength, recruiting officers left the cities and combed the smaller towns in farming communities. There they found a much huskier type of recruit, but many were rejected because of poor teeth. In the cities, the biggest drawbacks are bad eyesight and underweight.

WAR DOOMS CROP CONTROL?
Henry Wallace's program of crop curtailment and soil conservation is about to face its toughest year. Reason is the certain food shortage in Europe and the demand that American farmers use their surpluses to feed war-torn Europe.

There are two causes for the food shortage. One is the fact that many countries have been too busy fighting to plant sufficient crops, and their fields have been fought over. Second reason is lack of sufficient merchant shipping. Four countries—Norway, Holland, Denmark, and Belgium—have a total of 10,000,000 gross tons of merchant vessels which are immobilized, so far as supplying the home ports is concerned. Either they are bottled up at home, or they are in foreign ports, unable to reach home.

Vessels which a year ago were carrying U. S. fodder to Denmark, to feed Danish cattle, today are diverted to other trade or riding at anchor. Meantime, the cattle are eating up the existing supplies of fodder. When these are gone, the cattle will have to be killed. And the killing will be done by the Germans, who will consume the cattle. This is just one simplified illustration. No such restriction was known in the early days of the World War, because the United States, still neutral, insisted on maintaining its shipping to the neutral countries of Europe. But now its shipping is barred by the neutrality act from belligerent ports and combat zones.

Settle Farm Debt Problem Now, FSA Supervisor Says

Reminding that it is a lot easier to settle debt problems now than after foreclosure proceedings have been started, W. Roy Tisdale, Farm Security Administration supervisor, announced that the Mills county farm debt adjustment committee would meet on Tuesday, July 2, at Goldthwaite in the court house, at 2:00 p. m.

"Many farmers are far enough along with their work to figure pretty well what their income will be," Tisdale said. "Those who anticipate possibly losing their land, livestock, or equipment by foreclosure should come to the committee now while there is yet time to help them."

The farm debt adjustment committee, composed of local people, helps debt-distressed farmers by working out a voluntary agreement with their creditors providing for a fair, orderly repayment schedule that is within the farmer's ability to pay.

"Many mortgage-holders and other creditors have realized almost the face value of the debt by granting some concessions in principal and interest," the supervisor said, "where otherwise they would have sustained a big loss."

Directors Meeting of TWPA At Corsicana

"Responsibility — its Power" was the subject discussed by Mrs. Cleora J. Parchman, president of the Texas Woman's Press Association which held its annual executive board meeting here Tuesday, at the weekly luncheon session of the Corsicana Lions Club Tuesday noon at the Navarro Hotel.

Mrs. Parchman, who is associate editor of the Alvin Sun and an outstanding figure in educational, religious, and philanthropic activities, told the club that although she did not know what the next 25 or 50 years would bring, she had complete confidence in the future of America because she had confidence in the American business man who has proven himself in the past to be a master at overcoming difficult situations. She lauded the American free press for its untiring efforts in awakening the public to the ominous world events of the centuries. Mrs. Parchman predicted a hard and drastic fall for the leader of the German nation.

Thompson Presided.

The high noon luncheon was given by the Corsicana Lions Club with President Will Thompson presiding. Numerous members of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce also acting official host, were present and R. W. Knight, manager of the chamber of commerce welcomed the executive board in behalf of that organization.

James E. Taylor, Kerens publisher and county representative, welcomed the association in behalf of the county. J. F. Speedy Adams, president-elect of the Lions club, headed the reception committee of the club and welcomed the members of the association in a brief address.

Lowry Martin, chairman of the program, presented Mrs. Parchman who in turn presented the members of the association, many of whom made short talks.

Visitors Presented.

They included Mrs. Albert J. Buchanan of Bryan, first vice-president of the association, who is state publicity chairman of the National Federation of Press Women and a present member of the staff of the Bryan Daily Eagle; Mrs. Dona Coulter Carnes, also of Bryan, past president of the association and now regional director of the National Federation of Press Women; Mrs. Margaret Martin of Huntsville, immediate past president and now acting press editor of the association; Mrs. Ross Woodall of Huntsville, member of the ex-

Texas Automobiles Show Big Gain

Austin.—Figures compiled by the State Highway Department for the registration year ended March 31, 1940 show a total of 1,682,288 motor vehicles registered compared to 1,611,613 in the previous registration year. This is an increase of 70,675 vehicles, or 4.38 per cent.

The total net license fees collected amounted to $19,838,178.02, which was an increase of $927,290.94, over the preceding registration years. Of the total fees collected $11,903,148.74, or 60 per cent of the total was retained by the counties, while the State received $7,935,029.28, or 40 per cent.

Mills County Cows Found Healthy

Dr. A. M. Zubl of the Department of Agriculture has completed testing Mills county dairy cows for tuberculosis. He reported that not a single case was found in this county.

Census Report Confuses Three Candidates Here

Announcement last week that the 1940 census gave Mills county only 7,946 inhabitants has wrecked the plans of the three candidates for the office of District Clerk. Texas laws allow only counties with 8,000 or more population a separate district clerk. In those under 8,000 the office is combined with that of County Clerk.

The difference of only 54 in the count will result in abolishing this office for the next ten years. The Census Bureau is willing to correct its preliminary report if those not previously counted can be reported. It is considered quite likely that as many as 54 persons were overlooked by the enumerators in Mills county, but it doesn't seem likely that that many can be located now.

It appeared probable yesterday that all three of the candidates for the office would withdraw from the race. Mrs. Cora Keese is completing her first term in the office. She has been opposed by W. H. Venable and I. A. Dyches.

Monday Will Be July Trades Day

Plans for added attractions for the July Trades Day next Monday have been completed by Goldthwaite business men. Everyone living within this trade area will find it profitable to be on hand and share in the bargains offered.

Only 3 Counties Show Increase In District 21

Coleman, Texas.—Only three of the twelve counties in census supervisor's district 21 showed population gains in 1940 over 1930 figures, according to H. H. Jackson, district census supervisor.

Largest gain was shown by Tom Green county, which increased from 36,033 in 1930 to 39,296 in 1940, a gain of 3,263. San Saba county, with 10,773 persons in 1930, gained 712 for a 1940 total of 10,985. Lampasas county had an increase of 580 over the 1930 population of 8,677.

Runnels and Coleman county showed the greatest losses. Runnels county, which had a population of 21,821 in 1930, dropped to 18,907 in 1940, a loss of 3,914. Coleman county, with 23,699 in 1930, lost 3,112 residents for a 1940 total of 20,557.

Brown county lost 465 persons in the 1930-40 decade. The 1930 population was 26,382, compared with 25,917 in 1940.

Total population of the 12 counties decreased from 165,409 in 1930, to 160,230 in 1940, a loss of 5,179.

Population of counties in the district follow:

Make July Fourth Safe and Sane

Austin.—With Europe giving a display of its own brand of fireworks, there is more than ever a reason why the United States should attempt to celebrate the Fourth of July this year without the fire and noise which has been traditional. Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, said today.

American Medical Association reports show that 31 Texans were seriously injured last Fourth of July while playing with fireworks.

In cities prohibiting fireworks by local ordinance, firemen can materially aid the cause of safety by enforcing what laws they have, Hall declared. In locations where sale is allowed, departments can enforce safety measures for every fireworks stand. No stand should be allowed in front of a store, where it conceivably might cut off exit in case of fire, and firemen should enforce "No Smoking" rules and require fire extinguishers or water pails.

Non-thinking parents still permit thousands of children to use this dangerous method of celebrating the Fourth, with the inevitable result that some of them find their way to the hospital, and others to an undertaker's establishment. Tetanus always is in the shadow where high explosives are being handled for amusement by amateurs. Any person receiving a powder burn or wound, however superficial, should see a physician immediately. Anti-tetanus serum, in the majority of instances, will be administered to prevent the possibility of lockjaw. To treat an injury of this type unconcernedly is to run an unjustifiable risk. Moreover, the post-Fourth's casualty items are augmented by the carelessly operated automobile. Statistics show that not only in Texas, but throughout the nation, the misoperated motor vehicle is a real Fourth of July hazard. Again, the list of drownings is definitely increased on that day. And finally, snake bites, polluted drinking water, sunburn and poison ivy are always ready to meet the casualists half-way.

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING BILL EXPLAINED

Washington, June 22.—Legislation providing for universal compulsory military training was introduced in congress last week. Here are the answers to some of the questions concerning the bill:

What is its purpose?

To mobilize the nation's strength by fitting "every able-bodied man into his proper place under a fair system of selective compulsory military training and service."

Who would be called?

All male citizens, wherever residing, and all male aliens residing in the United States or its possessions who are aged 18 to 65.

When would it become effective?

Immediately upon enactment of the bill. The president would not have authority to induct registrants into the army or navy, however, until congress provided funds for that purpose. The law would be effective until May 15, 1945, unless extended.

When and where would eligible males register?

This is left to the discretion of the president, who would be empowered to prescribe regulations, establish a selective service system, appoint a director of the system and fix his salary, and call on any or all departments of the federal, state or territorial government to assist in the work.

Would all who register get the same training?

No. Men between the ages of 21 and 45 would be liable for training in the United States land and naval forces; those between the ages of 18 and 21 and 45 and 65 would be liable for training in the home defense units of the land and naval forces in or near the communities and areas in which they reside. Would this program be dependent upon declaration of war?

No. The president would be directed to select for training and service as many men as he deemed necessary for the national interest "whether a state of war exists or not."

How long a period of training would be provided?

During peacetime, training would be for eight consecutive months, and after training each man would be a member of the enlisted reserve corps for 10 years or until he reached 45, whichever came sooner. If an emergency developed, service would continue so long as national interest required.

Would there be additional training?

Yes. After the initial service, men in the reserve would be subject to one month's training a year, but not oftener than three years in any five-year period.

Where would they train?

The bill provides for training in the state or territory or residence, or within 200 miles of residence, except that students would be trained at their college or university.

What compensation would be provided?

The pay would be $5 monthly and travel expenses. The bill would leave to the president's discretion arrangements for maintenance of dependents.

How would the order of drafting be decided?

By lot. The director of selective service would prescribe regulations for doing it in an "impartial manner."

What age group would be most affected?

Those from 21 to 31. The bill provides that not more than 87 per cent nor less than 78 per cent of those selected shall be in that age group. Between 10 and 15 per cent would be in the 31 to 38 group, and between 3 and 7 per cent would be in the 38 to 45 group, this refers, of course, to those chosen for the regular military forces.

Who would be exempt?

In a general way, those now in the military and related service, diplomatic representatives and their families, members of congress, judges, governors, ministers, persons found to be physically, mentally or morally deficient, persons in industry, agriculture or other occupations whose work was deemed necessary to the national health, safety or interest.

What about so-called "conscientious objectors"?

Members of a "well recognized religious sect" whose creed or principles forbids participation in war would be exempt from training in a combatant capacity, but would be eligible for training or service in non-combatant capacities.

Who would decide the draftees?

This would be up to persons designated by the president. The decisions of local boards on the availability men would be final, except for such appeal as the president would prescribe.

What penalties does the bill propose?

Failure to register, false statements, evasion of service or aiding such violations would be punishable by up to five years imprisonment or $10,000 fine or both.

'Gone With the Wind'

Following is a review written by the editor of a Georgia newspaper and reprinted in the Western Newspaper Union's Publisher's Auxiliary.

Here is Editor Tarver's review: There was a land of cotton-fields and cavaliers called The Old South. A land of Lords and their Ladies, of Master and of Slave. Look not for them hereabouts for they are no longer to be found. Male and Female, Black and White, Youth and Age, they are all down to the picture show seeing "Gone With the Wind."

Katherine Scarlett O'Hara was our Shero. A winsome wench with a figger like a marble statue and a head as hard.

Gerald O'Hara was her pa. By nature he was most animal-like. Proud as a peacock, he roared like a lion and rode like a dog and pony show. After Sherman came he was crazy as a bedbug.

Anyhow Scarlett was in love with Ashley Wilkes, who was in love with his cousin, Melanie, who was in love with Ashley, and so they were married. (Ashley and Melanie in case you're getting confused.)

This irritated Scarlett no end and so, in quick succession she married, for spite and cash respectively, a couple of fellers whose names we didn't get. But then, neither did Scarlett for long.

The other major characters were Rhett Butler, Belle Watling and a colored lady exactly like the one on the flapjack box.

Rhett, who was somehow strangely reminiscent of Clark Gable, was a cross between Jesse James and Little Boy Blue.

Uncle Lum considered playing Rhett but turned it down when he found there wasn't anything but mint in the mint juleps.

If Rhett had joined the Lost Cause in the second reel instead of after intermission, the Confederacy would have won the war.

And Belle. You'd have loved Belle. Everybody did.

During the siege of Atlanta, only three things were running: Belle's place, Prissy's nose and the laundry that kept Rhett's white suits snow white.

Melanie's baby arrived about the same time Sherman did. Both were equally welcome to Scarlett.

It was, so far as our painstaking research has revealed, the first baby ever born in technicolor.

Any way, the South lost the war again in the picture. (What could you expect with a lot of Yankee producers?) and Scarlett married Rhett to get even with him.

Their married life was just like sitting in hell's fire and listening to heavenly choir.

Finally, after Melanie died Scarlett realized that she didn't love Ashley but Rhett. Scarlett was as changeable as a baby's underwear.

However, Rhett had enough of her foolishness and when she told him, he says, "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn."

Neither, by this time, did the audience. They were glad to see the end.

That's New in Cooking By Gertrude Dent

Variety In Vegetables

WE have been pretty thoroughly convinced that vegetables are a necessary and important part of the diet. But sometimes it's a struggle to get Junior to eat his carrots, or his spinach, and all too often Dad asserts that he's perfectly satisfied with meat, potatoes, gravy, and pie!

Perhaps just changing the method of preparing and serving them is all you need to do to arouse the family's interest in vegetables. The food value of vegetables may be sadly depleted and flavor and appearance spoiled by the method of cooking. Over-cooking destroys vitamins, causes strong vegetables to become bitter, mild ones insipid; strong vegetables darken and green ones lose their color with too long cooking. Cooking in a large amount of water means that precious minerals are poured away when this excess water is drained off.

To preserve food value, flavor, and appearance, vegetables should be cooked in the shortest possible time and in the smallest amount of water. The surface units of the modern electric range have been designed to fit that purpose. Five flexible speeds on each surface unit permit top-of-the-stove cooking on controlled heat; from very low heat for cooking custards or cheese, to the high we need for frying; intermediate heats provide for different cooking requirements and for utensils of various sizes.

For most vegetables, clean and cut the vegetables in pieces for serving. Place in saucepan with 1/2 cup water. Add salt and cover tightly. Turn switch to "high" and cook until vegetables steam freely. Then turn switch to "off" or "low" for balance of cooking time. Vegetables cooked like this retain their fresh color and flavor; no food value is lost, because there's no liquid to pour away, and it's an economical method of cooking, too. Actually, only a very little current is consumed; it can be turned off 10 or 15 minutes before cooking is completed.

If carrots have been none too popular at your house, they'll win a permanent place in the family esteem if they're served like this:

Toasted Carrots
Select carrots of uniform, medium size. Scrape and wash thoroughly. Place in saucepan and add 1/2 to 3/4 cup water. Season with salt, cover, turn switch to high until the carrots steam freely (about 5-7 minutes, depending on the quantity you're cooking). Turn off current and continue cooking on stored heat. Roll carrots in melted butter, then in crumbled cornflakes. Place in a moderately hot oven (400°) just long enough to brown the crumbs slightly.

There's a pleasant contrast in textures between the soft, cooked carrots and the crisp crumbs. When you serve them, give the carrots a touch of realism by inserting a sprig of parsley in the stem end.

For variety, roll the carrots in finely chopped mint leaves instead of crumbs and serve (without browning) with roast lamb.

BUSY STORK

(From The State Observer)

In only two other states in the union was the stork busier in 1939 than in Texas, according to a statistical summary presented by the State Department of Public Health.

Fifth in total population, the state placed third in total number of registered births. Texas' total of 121,034 was exceeded only by New York, where a population twice as great brought into the world only 65,826 more infants; and Pennsylvania, with 50 per cent greater population, listing 40,000 more births.

The 1939 birth rate represented one new Texan every four minutes, 336 per day, 10,086 per month.

The rate was 19.6 per 1,000 population, which is 2.2 above the national average, said State Health Officer George W. Cox.

Statistically, there were 2,999 more children born in Texas in 1939 than in the following states combined: Arizona, Delaware, Idaho, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Nevada, Wyoming, North Dakota, Rhode Island, and South Dakota.

WINNERS CHOSEN IN NATION-WIDE COMPETITION

Lowell Thomas, pioneer news commentator, is the first sponsored radio personality to combine sound broadcasting and television.

ELEVEN high school boys today are sitting on top of the world. They have just received word from David Sarnoff, President of the Radio Corporation of America, that they are the preliminary winners in the $4000 Opportunity Scholarship competition sponsored by that company.

The boys were selected from 2500 entrants in every State and Territory as being "most likely to succeed" in careers as radio scientists. Although the rules of the competition, offered to more than 17,000 high schools, specified ten preliminary winners, a tie for tenth place made it necessary to include one more boy in the list.

The future scientists, who have just been graduated from their high schools, will be brought to New York and Camden, N. J. in August for an entire month of inspection and study of RCA's engineering, laboratory and manufacturing facilities. During that period they will be under the eyes of the Judges, who are outstanding radio engineers. On September 1st, one of the eleven boys will be selected as the final winner, and he will be awarded the $4000 tuition and maintenance scholarship in electrical and radio engineering at a college selected by the boy himself from a list of approved institutions. Each of the other ten boys will receive a cash award of $100 in addition to the trip.

Restrictions in the competition were severe. Only those boys of high scholastic standing were permitted to enter. An unusually difficult examination in physics, mathematics and radio principles, prepared by Columbia University department heads and well-known radio engineers, was given to these students, and in addition a searching inquiry was made as to their characters and personalities. The Judging Board, composed of chief engineers and laboratory scientists of RCA companies, used all of this data in selecting the preliminary winners.

The young men who will receive the free trip to the East for final competition for the scholarship are in such widely scattered States as California, Pennsylvania, New Mexico and South Dakota. The complete list includes David S. Colburn, Fresno, California; Joseph Collins, Washington, D. C.; John DeWolf, Wayne, Pennsylvania; William C. Jakes, Jr., Evanston, Illinois; Gordon W. McClure, Oak Park, Illinois; John Moll, Wauseon, Ohio; Richard K. Moore, Kirkwood, Missouri; Francois N. Palmatier, Port Edwards, Wisconsin; Floyd D. Raasch, Watertown, South Dakota; George F. Smith, Roswell, New Mexico; and George W. Swenson, Houghton, Michigan.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Wildlife Valued at $94,350,394.

Texas continues to lead the nation in the value of its wildlife resources, according to figures assembled after surveys were made by the federal government and forwarded to the executive secretary of the State Game Commission. Not only does Texas lead the nation, but its wildlife resources are worth approximately three times as much as those of the second leading state.

Wildlife resources in Texas are valued at $94,350,394 by federal experts. This takes into consideration the value of insectivorous birds to the farmer, of game and the amount of money spent by hunters it brings the land owner, hotel owners, stores and tourist camps; the values of the fur crop in the state and a myriad of other ways in which game is of actual monetary value to the Lone Star State.

Detoured Traffic for Quail.

A mother quail and her nest of 21 eggs recently caused travelers to do a bit of detouring between Bracketville in Kinney county and Rock Springs in Edwards county. The state highway department's crew of engineers and construction gang, in building a road between those two communities, located a quail nest of 21 eggs. All traffic was detoured around that spot until Mama Quail hatched 19 of her 87 eggs and the little birds were able to leave the nest, it is reported to the State Game Department's executive secretary.

Got His Plug Back.

Not only did Will Baugh of Bonham, Texas, hook a nine-pound catfish on a plug twice, but the strikes came two days apart and he got back his first plug, which the heavy cat had smatched when he broke the angler's line, Bob Cantrell of the Bonham Favorite relates. Mr. Baugh was fishing on a recent Saturday when he felt a heavy tug on his plug. He hauled the nine-pound cat to within a few feet of the boat when the fish broke his line. Baugh went fishing again on Monday and it was not long before he again got a heavy tug on his line. He land-

Sunday was well attended, with dinner on the grounds and speakers and visitors coming from various and distant sections of the state.

First Baptist Church

E. E. DAWSON, Pastor

Rev. C. B. Jackson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Greenville, Texas, will do the preaching in our revival, which begins next Sunday. He was reared in this community, held a very successful revival here 13 years ago, and has been uniformly successful in pastorates and in revival meetings, in his native state, and in Kentucky where he served many years. He comes to us on Monday.

The Rev. Oliver Riley of Paducah, Texas, recent graduate of Howard Payne college, is on hand to direct the singing. He is a young man of exemplary life and devotion, and has a good voice for his work.

Fraternal invitation is given all the people of Mills county to attend our meetings. The evening services will be on the lawn.

Nazarene Church

We are glad to be at home once again, after attending the 10th General Assembly of the Church of the Nazarene. But we are more thankful for the privilege of being a child of God and to associate with such fine people.

There were people there from every state in the Union and 13 foreign nations. And we learned that some of them came through great danger (due to war) to get to be at the assembly, but all seemed so happy to be there, especially the missionaries.

Upon returning home we found no revival on and Miss Betty Ellis here with her mother and we asked her to preach for us each night this week and as so many had wanted to hear her we thought this would be a good time. She consented and will preach each night until Friday, as she plans to go home Saturday.

Come hear her. All the regular services Sunday.

"America's ideal and objective is still peace — peace at home and peace abroad. Our security is not a matter of weapons alone. The arm that wields them must be strong, the eye that guides them clear, the will that directs them indomitable.
 "These are the characteristics of a free people, a people devoted to the institutions they themselves have built, a people willing to defend a way of life that is precious to them all, a people who put their faith in God."
 —PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
 In his defense speech to Congress May 16, 1940.

LET'S DO OR DON'T!

Either America is facing the most critical period in her history since the War between the States or more people have been fooled and misled than even Barnum could have dreamed of.

Either our nation is confronted with the danger of having to fight for its very existence within one or two years at most, or the danger is not serious enough to justify all the shouting that is going on about us.

Either Great Britain, practically single-handed and alone, is going to defeat Herr Hitler's gigantic war machine or Britannia is going to be crushed like France and all the rest, leaving the United States as practically the sole representative of Democracy in the world.

If anyone has any evidence tending to indicate a British victory, now is the time to speak up. Nor is it sufficient to offer Hitler's statement that he has no intentions of harming America, for he has said the self-same thing about each one of the nations he later conquered and destroyed. Even though he means it this time, the United States would soon be stifled in a world dominated entirely by the autocracies of Germany, Italy, Russia and Japan.

Whether we fight or not is up to Hitler. Whether we are prepared to fight or not is up to us, and we have delegated our authority to Congress. If we are going to prepare at all, we must prepare to win. We must accomplish in one year what Germany with slave-driving methods took seven to do.

WE CAN DO IT, IF WE MEAN BUSINESS.

But let's face the music. We can't do it quick enough and big enough at the rate we have been going. We can't do it at all and keep on playing politics and doing everything else just as usual. Military preparedness must not only come first in our national life, it must come first in our personal lives—first and last!

The quicker we realize that we must sacrifice everything else, the quicker we will be

Discovering Ourselves

THE POET RILEY SAID: "When you awaken some morning and hear that somebody or other has been discovered, you can put it down as a fact that he discovered himself years ago — since which time he has been working, toiling and striving to make himself worthy of general discovery."
 The reason there are not more successful people in the world is because most of us sit around waiting for the unusual opportunity that never comes. The thing to do is to follow the ancient wisdom and advice which the seven wise men of Greece carved over the Delphic Temple: "Know Thyself!" We should study ourselves carefully, analyze our talents, discover our strongest and best qualities, and then apply ourselves in the work we seem best able to do.
 The best printers are those whose souls are afire with the desire to create beauty; the best aviators are those who enjoy playing with the clouds; the best engineers are those who get a kick out of building things; the great writers are those who love to write, and the great salesmen are those who like to sell. In other words, the men who succeed usually are those who have discovered themselves — those who have found the work they like to do. Blessed is the man who has found his work.

able to start. Here are a few things we might as well make up our minds now to do:

1. Speed up universal military training. We know it's coming sooner or later, why not let the men who will do the front line fighting get the benefit of a few months more invaluable training?
2. Put our WPA workers on jobs directly related to national defense such as additional flying fields, drill grounds and camp sites. Put the thousands of WPA sewing rooms to making uniforms.
3. Utilize our school buildings and court houses and even private homes as barracks instead of going to the expense of building barracks for our larger Army. Use overalls or similar inexpensive training uniforms for preliminary training.
4. Start rigid elimination tests to get rid of the dead timber that is cluttering up our armed forces. The officer or soldier who is not physically fit and mentally alert is a menace to his comrades. If there are any rocking chair generals and admirals, let's find it out before the shooting starts.
5. Eliminate the 50 per cent additional flying pay that is a relic of the days when flying was synonymous with suicide. Any flyer who is in it just for the extra pay lacks what it takes for a successful war-time pilot.
6. Tie our air force and artillery closer to the infantry so that each branch will know more about what the other can and wants to do. This silly 50 per cent flying pay bonus now keeps many excellent line officers from getting observer training the Army needs.
7. Put an embargo on the export of strategic military supplies except to England.
8. Ration the use of rubber, tin, silk and other materials we must import from overseas.
9. Stop the manufacture of all models of automobiles and trucks except those that can be immediately put into military service when and if the need arrives.
10. Put a group of our representative statesmen and historians to work formulating a statement of national policy. Are we going to fight if Great Britain is defeated? Are we going to fight if the Monroe Doctrine is violated? Are we going to fight if our agricultural and manufactured products are discriminated against? Are we going to fight if Japan takes the Dutch East Indies or the Philippines?

We're NOT going to fight to "make the world safe for Democracy" or to "Remember the Maine" or even the Alamo. Opinion now varies from that of Jehovah's Witnesses who say they won't fight anybody anytime to that of those who want us to start scrapping Hitler right now whether we've got anything to fight with or not. Somewhere there's a reasonable middle ground to which most Americans can subscribe. Let's decide on it now.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JONAH: THE OUTREACH OF GOD'S LOVE

LESSON TEXT—Jonah 3:1-10; 4:10, 11. GOLDEN TEXT—Salvation is of the Lord.—Jonah 2:9.

"There's a wideness in God's mercy Like the wideness of the sea; There's a kindness in His justice Which is more than liberty."

"For the love of God is broader Than the measure of man's mind; And the heart of the Eternal Is most wonderfully kind."

Such is the message of the book of Jonah. How appropriate it is to close our series of studies on the prophets with this declaration of God's love and mercy.

I. A Second Chance (3:1-3).
 Jonah had been sent to Nineveh with a message from God, but, secretly wishing in his heart that this great city which was the enemy of Israel should be destroyed rather than repent and receive God's blessing (see 4:2), Jonah made an attempt to run away from God's commission. We know how God patiently dealt with him and now gave him a second chance to do His will.

How gracious God is "to continue to us . . . the privilege of service even when we seem to have sinned away our first chance, misused our endowments, and have by our very failure embarrassed His plans." Dr. J. Stuart Holden goes on to point out that only God gives a second chance. Nature does not, man seldom, if ever, gives his fellow who has failed a second opportunity. But God does. Praise His name!

There was also a second chance extended to Nineveh. God was not willing to bring judgment upon the city without another warning. Quoting Dr. Holden again: "I care not what is the history of failure, of shame, of sin which is behind you, I tell you that Jesus Christ is here . . . to give you a second chance, and that everything depends upon your attitude of acceptance or rejection of His proffered grace and mercy."

II. A Stirring Revival (3:4-10).
 So great was the city that it would have taken Jonah three days to bring his message to the entire population (see v. 3). He had only begun when, at the end of the first day, the city, from the ruler down to the humblest inhabitant, was in deep mourning and repentance for its sin.

Jonah, the man who had been brought back from a living death as a sign (Luke 11:29-32) to Nineveh that God was gracious to repentant sinners, pointed to the fact that though his message was one of condemnation (v. 4), they might expect God to be entreated of them (v. 9). He was (v. 10).

God has sent times of revival when whole cities—and even whole nations—have been turned from their sin. Such revivals have been occurring in recent years in various mission fields. Thousands of earnest Christians are praying now that such a revival may come again in our own land. The writer knows where helpful literature along this line is available without cost. Let us pray and be faithful, and trust God to bring revival to the hearts of men.

III. A Selfish Reaction (4:10, 11).
 Jonah, instead of rejoicing in the repentance of Nineveh, showed his narrowness and selfishness by becoming angry (see 4:1). How petty and childish are the attitudes of men when contrasted with the mercy of God.

The Lord, dealing gently with Jonah, gave him a place of refuge and a gourd plant to shade him from the sun (4:5, 6). Then, to teach him a lesson, a worm was permitted to kill the gourd (v. 7). When Jonah was greatly concerned over the loss of the plant, God pointed out to him that it is wrong to be stirred up over the passing of material comfort and not to be concerned for the souls of men.

How many of those who poured out millions of dollars (and rightly so) for the relief of the harassed people of Finland, would give five cents to win them to Christ? Many who will give liberally of money, time and effort to the commendable work of flood or famine relief, will not so much as cross the road to talk to a neighbor about Christ. A farmer will sit up all night to care for a sick cow, but will spend an hour or two on Sunday or some evening of the week in an effort to win his neighbor's boy (or his own boy) to Christ? These are pertinent and serious questions. What is our answer? God will hold us responsible.

A Prayer

O God, who hast given to us the knowledge of right and wrong, and hast taught us that it is Thy will that we choose the right throughout our lives, give us grace to be loyal to the right as we see it, and faithful to the highest we know. Amen.

"While our navy and our airplanes and our guns may be our first line of defense, it is still clear that way down at the bottom, underlying them all, giving them their strength, sustenance and power, are the spirit and morale of a free people. For that reason we must make sure, in all that we do, that there be no break-down or cancellation of any of the great social gains which we have made in these past years."—President Roosevelt in fireside talk.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Long Engagements Have Their Advantages, Too

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Our girls of 18 and our boys of 21 are bound to fall in love.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

TODAY'S paper has the story of a boy of 21 and a girl of 19 who couldn't afford to get married and so decided to die. The boy couldn't earn enough to support a wife and the girl had to help out at home, where she had an invalid father, a hard-working mother and a small brother.

The sympathetic press adds that: "Here is one more tragedy of youth caught in today's tide of no job and no future." If this girl and boy were the only selfish young couple who took this course they mightn't be worth noticing. But there is a lot of this sort of thing. There is a lot of self-pity in youngsters who have caught up the modern jargon about conditions in America, and who use it to disguise weakness and inefficiency.

There are ALWAYS more than 40,000,000 jobs in America, and to say: "I can't get a job," means that there are 40,000,000 persons in the land who can do what you can't do.

But that doesn't mean that in any land under any conditions a boy of 21 can be started off at employment that will support a wife. And that doesn't mean that a girl whose $30 contribution to the home finances is badly needed is free to get married; free to start off with her boy husband on his $18 a week, and have him, burdened and worried and exhausted, lose even that job in a few years, when her second big, fat, hungry, exacting baby is four months old.

Flaming Youth.

When our girls of 18 and our boys of 21 fall in love the immediate question of everyone concerned is: "And when is the wedding to be?" And the sooner it is the better satisfied are both. They are burning up with young passion; their first and foremost consideration is physical possession of each other, and while her family borrows money for a modest wedding, the boy rashly commits himself to a long lease on an adorable bungalow.

Into it they ecstatically scramble, equally enchanted with the little rose-bowl her chum gave her, and the electric refrigerator for which they have to pay $11 a month. It is all such fun! Kisses and laughter send the burned omelette and the watery coffee; on Saturday and Sunday nights the college crowd come in, and smashed crackers and stepped-on cheese and sticky glasses and over-loaded ash-trays litter all four of the pretty little modern rooms.

Baby Brings Care, Worry.

But if a baby arrives at once, then suddenly all glamour disappears. Marge and Rob, if they are sweet-natured, fine persons, may still love each other. But it now becomes an anxious, a wearied love. The baby is a darling, but the baby's presence means that the old, young good times are forever over. Milk for the baby. Someone to sit with the baby. Bills. Worries over the baby's fever. Wakeful nights when the baby cries. And when Joe Smith and Mildred stop at the door with a car, on a broiling hot Sunday, with talk of the beach, and barbecue sandwiches, Marge and Rob of course can't go.

"I couldn't leave the baby in the car, Midge."

"No, I suppose you couldn't, you poor thing, you!"

No Babies—Headache Too.

Off go Joe and Mildred, and Rob and Marge turn back to the morning papers again. No hurry about beds or breakfast dishes. Now while the baby is asleep they can take it easy. Nothing to do all day. If there are no babies, curiously enough, the situation is worse. It doesn't seem so, at first. Marge's mother says firmly: "No babies until you can afford them," and Rob's mother warns him that a baby would be a calamity. They are free to go about with the old crowd, insofar as they are able to afford it, and Marge has nothing to do when the simple housework is over but to shop, have her hair done, fix flowers in vases.

But shopping is expensive, lunches downtown with the girls cost money, beauty parlors are ruinous to budgets. Marge sees frocks and hats she wants, and kitchen ware and a gorgeous bridge lamp. Also she hears the girls talking of the winter sports that week-end. Everyone is to give Connie $10 and Con and Fred will manage everything. Ten dollars, with Rob's whole salary only seven times that every month!

Nature's Protective Plan.

And the childless young marriage has an even deeper and much more serious handicap. It is this. The marital relation is a fragile and sacred thing; its physical aspects inseparable from the more subtle elements of mind and soul. Uncontrolled mating would destroy even animals, and animals are protected from it by Nature herself. Mating seasons are interrupted by the long periods of bearing and rearing the young.

When human beings interrupt this process, passion, here called love, soon burns itself out. The immature boy and girl, never trained for life at all, not developed in resources and interests and character, tire of each other, and the emotion that should extend itself through long and beautiful years, that should be only a part of a thousand other balanced elements in married life, is destroyed.

So what about the long engagement? In Italy and Germany and England and France, seven and eight and even ten years are not supposed to be too long for a man and a woman to maintain a dignified friendship before conditions permit them to marry. Certainly five years would not be too long. They must learn to control themselves in many ways if they are to be happily married; control extravagance, laziness, temper, selfishness, over-indulgence. Why not practice self-control in the most important matter of sex?

Sex Self-Control Essential.

Thousands of fine men and women achieve continence even in marriage for one reason or another; thousands of happily married folk, efficient and successful in their lives, know that that one thing will be always denied them. Why all this hullabaloo about the children not being able to wait? Of course they're able to wait, if they're properly trained to respect themselves and each other, and to regard marriage as a state some day to be entered upon with reverence, with an increased appreciation of its high privileges and an increased sense of its responsibilities.

To those who wait, who study the duties and cares of marriage seriously, who develop a fine and deep-rooted friendship and a congeniality of taste while waiting, marriage comes as an almost miraculous consummation of hope and desire and love. The long-anticipated home is a sacred place. Their community of tastes, their memories of long planning, make every hour together a fresh delight. The man has completed his professional training. The girl has discharged to the full her duty to her own people. They are a man and a woman, this husband and wife, not a pair of passionate children.

Statistics seem to indicate that one of our national dangers now is the young divorcee. More than half our divorcees are of persons under 24, and two-thirds of those after marriage periods of less than three years.

O'Daniel says that he will approve any tax law that the legislature will pass. He, therefore, surrenders his official liberty, and we then ask: What protection has the taxpayer against an extravagant legislature?

Does he mean that he will approve a 5 per cent sales tax? Or a 10 cent tax on oil; or does he mean he would approve the repeal of the homestead tax exemption law? Or does he mean that he will forget his veto powers and leave the people without a governor who is not afraid to protect them?

All of this is sure to bring heavy demands on the U. S. farmer, also on congress to appropriate relief money to help Europe's starving populations. And this, in turn, is sure to upset crop control. For it was high food prices during the World war which increased acreage and also sent many farmers heavily into debt to buy new land.

DIPLOMATS MAKE WARS?

John Q. Public thinks the diplomats make the wars—and could stop them.

Argentine Ambassador Espil has a letter saying, "Your country should submit itself to becoming a part of the United States." (No Latin American country is prouder of its independence than Argentina, less likely to become part of the U. S. A.)

Uruguayan Minister Richling gets so many letters he is working overtime to answer them. The tenor is: "You must get rid of the dangerous Germans."

FRENCH FLEET

The White House is not advertising it, but the disposition of the French fleet was one vital point which came up in secret discussion with the French just before their capitulation.

Roosevelt wanted to make sure that the French navy would not fall into Nazi hands. For France's warships could just about tip the balance of naval power and give the Nazis a powerful striking arm in the south Atlantic against Latin America.

The French have two brand-new 26,000-ton battleships, the Strasbourg and the Dunkerque, probably the fastest in the world; also two new 35,000-ton battleships, the Richelieu and the Jean Bart, the latter not quite completed. These, added to the German fleet, would give Hitler 10 battleships against 15 for the United States, all much older and slower.

When you consider that 12 U. S. battleships are kept in the Pacific, with only three in the Atlantic, you get a rough idea of how difficult it would be for this country to defend the Monroe Doctrine if Hitler got the French fleet. Another thing he might get which would add to our Monroe Doctrine problem is the French naval base at Dakar, on the bulge of Africa jutting out toward Brazil.

Note—The United States recently has launched two new war monsters, but it will take several months to complete them.

"Down South of the Border"

Hailed with delight by lovers of stage entertainment is the announcement that "Down South of the Border" company, presenting the famous play of the same name, will be in Goldthwaite for one night only, July 3, in a brand new tent theatre.

The actors appearing in this production are said to be some of the best in the amusement business, and the vaudeville numbers are said to be second to none.

One of the many features carried by this tent show organization is Henry, world famous artist and magician, whose sand paintings are said to rival masterpieces of art. Henry created a sensation last season through Texas while appearing with Harley Sadler's tent theatre as a featured vaudeville attraction.

A high class orchestra is carried, under the capable direction of Robert Siler. "Down South of the Border" is a story of the romantic country across the Rio Grande, has a good love story, an abundance of comedy, with special scenery and lighting effects. This attraction will be here one night only.

Pioneer Passes Away

Mrs. B. Frank Gholson, 93, died at her home in Evant, Texas, Saturday morning, June 15. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ace Langford, when Evant was known as Langford Cove. Ace Langford owned and operated the first store and Post Office there many years ago.

Her husband, Frank Gholson, was with the party and helped capture Cynthia Ann Parker from the Indians. A short time before Mrs. Gholson's death, two grandsons of Cynthia Ann Parker, came from Oklahoma and visited her to collect data of early Indian history.

Grandmother Gholson retained her clear memory of early Texas history and enjoyed rehearsing the experiences of her younger days. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the Christian Church at Evant, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The remains were laid to rest beside the grave of her mother, which is supposed to be the first made in that cemetery.

She leaves seven children and many grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Messrs. Joe and Bill Langford and Mrs. Monroe Geeslin of Center City are half-brothers and a half sister of hers. Also, Luther Arnold of Center City is a grand son.

Our deepest love and respect go to all pioneers who endured hardships and made our country what it is today. Our sympathy goes to her loved ones who know the long useful, Christian life she led and rest assured all is well and she is at peace.
