Two missionaries, Miss Taylor of China and Miss Wilcox of South America. Another pleasant speaker representing missions was Miss Lydia Morelos of Del Rio, Texas. A new dormitory for boys at Howard Payne College at Brownwood was the theme of a talk made by Capt. Shelton of that school. In a business meeting following his address, the women present pledged $10,000 toward the construction of the building. The meeting was represented by more than 125 out of town guests representing 17 different towns over the district.

AN OLD TIMER RETURNS TO VISIT IN MILLS CO.

A pleasant caller at the Eagle office this week was T. H. House of the Center City community. He was accompanied by his twin brother, Jim House, now living in Palo Pinto county. The House twins are 67 years of age and were born in Williamson county, coming to this section of Texas and settling in Hamilton county in 1877, later that part of Hamilton county was cut off to form a part of Mills county. They have many interesting things to talk over with each other as they have been separated for many years. The latter having lived in Coke, Sterling, Tom Green and Palo Pinto counties. He was also in a auto wreck in the latter county recently and the Palo Pinto County Star has the following to say: "Uncle Jim House, cowboy philosopher of the Dotson Prairie community, who was severely injured several weeks ago in a car wreck was taken to the hospital for treatment and when he awakened at four the next morning he demanded his boots and said "I am going home" and nothing stopped him, not even the doctor."

Texas' local boards have been requested by State Headquarters to encourage all eligible registrants to apply for appointment in this reserve.

Tenant Farmers Have Chance To Purchase Farms

Tenant farmers of Mills county have another chance to become farm owners, for Edward E. Bravenec, Farm Security Administration supervisor, has announced that he will begin taking applications on April 15 for long-term, low-interest loans which tenants may buy farms. "Most farm families have ownership of a family-size farm as their goal," Mr. Bravenec said, "and it is for these people that the FSA's tenant purchase program is designed." Sharecroppers and farm laborers as well as tenants are eligible for these loans, but preference is given to families which have adequate livestock and equipment. These loans are repayable over a 40-year period and bear three percent interest. A beautiful feature is the variable payment plan, under which farmers pay more in good years and less in poor ones. Farmers to whom these loans are made choose the farm they wish to buy, which is valued both by the local tenant purchase committee, composed of county farmers who know local land values, and by outside appraisers. Borrowers are not restricted to fully-improved farms, for the loan may be made to include funds to build or repair the home, barn, and for other improvements. Application for these loans may be obtained each Thursday at the Farm Security office located in the courthouse in Goldthwaite. They are being taken in anticipation of funds being made available for this program by Congress.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

F. D. Webb had the pleasure of celebrating his 83rd birthday at his home Sunday. Those who were present were his children and grandchildren, Mrs. Ruby Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Marl Steele all of San Angelo, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frizzelle.

A general military maneuvering field, having more than 100,000 soldiers in sham battle play, will cover practically all of Mills county this summer is the plans of military officials from Camp Bowie and San Antonio who spent sometime here this week going over plans and arranging for a wholesale leasing program to use Mills county ranch land for a period of some forty to sixty days beginning May 25. A group of officers composed of Major M. B. Barrigan, Capt. A. J. Parks and Mr. J. R. Holly, the latter representing the businessmen of Brownwood, spent some time here Tuesday afternoon and met with a representative number of farmers, ranchers and business men that night at the court house. The general plan for use of the ranch property of Mills county will be for the government to lease the land desired, which will be all of Mills county west and north of a line extending from Priddy to one mile east of Goldthwaite on a line to the Colorado river intersecting the river about two miles below the San Saba bridge. The government proposes to use approximately 100,000 acres in addition to the present 91,000 acres held in lease for artillery range, and will pay 15c per acre for the first month and if needed, 12 1/2c for the second month. The government agrees to pay all damages done to fences, gates, fields, land, etc. There will be no firing of live shells anywhere outside of the artillery range. Traveling or passing over farm land where crops are growing will be avoided as near as possible but where any damage is done, owners will be compensated for same. A number of meetings have been held with the land owners and there seems to be an unanimous approval of all to thoroughly cooperate with the government in this undertaking. In addition to using Mills county land the maneuvering field will extend into San Saba and McCullough counties. A local committee headed by O. H. Yarborough in company with Capt. Padgett of Camp Bowie went to Mullin Wednesday night and conferred with land owners there. A committee of Mullin men was appointed which consisted of Geo. Fletcher, A. G. Weston, W. H. G. Chambers, J. A. Holland, D. A. Hamilton, Walter Barker, Rex Mahan and Francis Kyle to confer with land owners of that section and arrange the leases. Meetings were held in other communities and all report a feeling of intense interest to loyally cooperate with the government in securing these leases. It is said that there is no opposition to the move anywhere and it is expected that all leases will be completed with another week.

ART COLLECTION

The other morning I spent an hour at the National Gallery of Art looking at the early Italian primitives. What a marvelous collection! It seemed to me I had never seen so many priceless treasures gathered together in one place. Mr. David Finley and his staff are particularly happy over the fact that they have had between eight and nine thousand visitors daily. So, beauty does appeal to the American public.

In the afternoon, I went to the concert at the Library of Congress to hear the Budapest String Quartette, which was a joy.

On the next afternoon, I went to tea at Mrs. Florence Kerr's with the regional directors for the WPA community service projects. As usual, I was impressed with the amount of valuable service which the bulk of the WPA projects render in every field of community life.

FUND APPEAL

There seems to be one more fund appeal which cannot be ignored. It is the Royal Air Force Benevolent Fund of the U. S. A. Inc. Their offices are at 515 Madison Avenue, New York city and they are helping the needy dependents of RAF pilots, punners and observers, who are killed or disabled in the performance of their duty.

I think all of us have been stirred by the extraordinary services of the RAF, and you will perhaps be interested to know that the royalties from the books written by Lawrence of Arabia, were willed by him some time before his death to this fund, which was founded in 1919. He, himself, enlisted as a mechanic in the RAF and was known in the service as Aircraftman Shaw.

One interesting thing about the fund is that neither in England nor in the United States, does a penny raised go to overhead. The necessary administrative expense is carried on by the small group of people who were instrumental in setting up the fund.

Perhaps, because I like flying so much, I often think of that particular branch of the military services. I know that even in peace time pilots worry about the care of their families in case they "go west." The men who fly daily and nightly across the enemy lines may meet death almost any time. All we can do is to give them the assurance that those they leave behind will be cared for.

DOCK THEATER

In driving around the City of Charleston, S. C., I passed the Dock Street theater, which is one of the interesting buildings erected by WPA. The theater is charming and a real effort has been made, I understand, by certain people to revive and present old plays. I have been told that they have been charmingly done, but that the support is not really sufficient to warrant continuation of the effort. Audiences just do not attend, and so it may be necessary to close the doors of the Dock Street theater. This seems a sad waste. It is hard to understand why, in this city of great culture and taste, such a program as has been carried on is not successful financially.

MIDDLETON GARDENS

The sun has not been very kind to us. The other day Miss Thompson and I walked around Middleton Gardens in Valdosta, Ga., in the early morning bemoaning the fact that no sunlight danced upon the water, or played through the leaves of the trees. However, nothing can really spoil the beauty of those gardens and we enjoyed our walk and came back to thank Mrs. Smith, who had invited us into her house.

I always think that it must seem very odd to have strangers wandering around your garden. But she told us that though they marked with care "private residence" outside the house, people come in if they leave the doors unlocked. One morning the maid heard some people in the dining room and, on coming in, found them examining some silver.

Of course, in Europe certain houses with wonderful collections of paintings, prints and furniture were open to the public at certain times, but never do I remember the families' living quarters open while they were at home. When one owns works of art, there is an obligation to let the public see them. But it seems to me, that the public has a certain obligation in return to respect the privacy of the owners.

Mrs. George Huntington drove with us well on the road to Savannah, and then we pulled up under some trees and ate a delicious picnic lunch. She feels as I do, that food eaten out of doors always has a better flavor. I always rejoice when the time comes when we can have breakfast and lunch on the porch at the White House.

We practically always eat on the porch of my cottage at Hyde Park. The President likes to go even one step further and has the table put right out on the lawn. It may be a trifle disconcerting if it begins to rain or, if towards evening, the mosquitoes begin to bite.

From Savannah to Valdosta, we went through the turpentine country. I can not help feeling that the big slashes made in the trees must be harmful to them, but they tell me that the same trees are used for a number of years.

In Memory of John Hetchler Burnett

On April 2, 1941, John Hetchler Burnett entered into the presence of his heavenly father, there to reap the reward of a good Christian life here on earth.

Mr. Burnett came to Mills county as a boy of twenty-two from Marshall County, Kentucky, where he was born July 22, 1865. From that time until the day of his death, he resided in this community, conducting his life and affairs in a manner as befitted one who held to high christian principles, a fact which gained for him the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

He served his community as sheriff and district commissioner, and until recently, was connected with the Federal Farmer's Bureau. He was an active member of the Baptist church and the Odd Fellows' Lodge.

On December 11, 1890, Mr. Burnett was united in marriage to Miss Emma Gladys Nowell. This union was blessed with three children, two of whom survive him, Mrs. Marvin Weatherby of Fort Worth and Mr. John Bruce Burnett of Goldthwaite.

Although his loved ones deeply mourn his passing, they reconcile themselves with the blessed thought that their loss is his gain, for he has entered into the Haven of Rest.

SCRIPTURE VERSE FOR THE WEEK

"Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul." Matt. 10:28. (Read Matt. 10:16-28.)

AMERICA'S ECONOMIC STEP-CHILD—THE SOUTH

By George C. Hester

This column has previously referred to the fact that the Southern States are not getting their share of the defense money. It is now more apparent than ever that such is the case. Up to March of this year, over $12,000,000,000 in defense contracts had been let. More than 80 percent of this entire amount has gone to ten states, while four states have received over 40 percent of the total. But, actual figures will better portray the situation.

Below are listed the ten leading states in receiving defense contracts. The figures in the right hand column show the per capita amount of such contracts.

Table with 3 columns: STATE, Total allotment, Per Capita Allot. Rows include Washington, Connecticut, Virginia, New Jersey, California, Massachusetts, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, Missouri, and TEXAS.

While the other Southern States are not listed, it may be of interest to know that the small state of New Jersey has received a larger total than all the Southern States combined, with the exception of Virginia.

It is now evident that the Government's spending for the armament program will do much to shape the course of economic development in this country for many years. It may mean a permanent allocation of wealth and industrial activity. The South has long been the poor man's section of the Union, and over 60 percent of its wealth today is owned north of the Mason and Dixon Line. The profits from its most lucrative industries go to non-resident owners.

This situation has come about over a period of nearly three-fourths of a century since the Civil War. High tariffs, which subsidized northern industries, discriminatory freight rates that still favor northern shippers, and the whole system of outside ownership of its basic resources and industries, have combined to reduce the South to a status almost approaching economic servitude. In fact it is little more than a foreign colony, a poor relative, an economic step-child of the Eastern States. The annual per capita income in the South, for example, is little more than one-third of that in the North. A family of five persons living in New York, has over $1300 more income to spend annually than has a similar family in Texas, although a Texas family has twice the income of a family in Mississippi.

And now the great defense program is pouring multiplied billions into the very states that are already the wealthiest. It is probably inevitable, to a large measure, since those states have the major industries. On the other hand, there are many industrial concerns in Texas that could well handle many more contracts, while the larger factories in the industrial states are months behind with their orders. The intensely congested labor conditions, resulting now in wide-spread strikes, only tend to further intensify the unbalanced situation.

Moreover, Texas and the other Southern states will have to pay their share of the national debt now pyramiding upon us, whether or not they get their share of the money now being spent.

The whole policy is tending toward a further aggravation of the conditions which have so long haunted the economy of this country—those pertaining to an unbalanced economic order, the concentration of wealth and control, the further impoverishment of the farm debt, with all the social and political repercussions that will trail along in the years ahead.

Six Yellow Roses

In the home of a famous man, there stands a vase which each day is filled with six yellow roses. To that man and his family these six roses have a special significance. The roses represent six great qualities: Love, Romance, Faith, Hope, Peace-of-Mind and Prosperity. These roses are a daily reminder of ideals which create a beautiful home life. Glancing at them one is inspired to live nobly.

Flowers, it seems to me, are especially suitable as reminders of life's higher purposes. Fresh from garden or greenhouse, they have a newness that suggests beginning again. They suggest a renewing of our resolves to live better lives. Their color and beauty make the qualities they symbolize highly desirable. They are like trumpets sounding from mountain tops, making us lift our eyes and march joyously along life's highway.

Why not emulate this beautiful habit in your own plucked from your own garden, or sent daily from four flor-homes? The kind of flowers doesn't matter—they may be ist. Have each flower stand for something in your home and, in the radiance of their beauty, let the whole family strive toward those things.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRIST SHOWS HIMSELF ALIVE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:13-17, 25-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—I am he that liveth, and was dead; and behold, I am alive for evermore.—Revelation 1:18.

Certainty and assurance—these are at the heart of our observance of Easter. We declare with Paul, "Now is Christ risen from the dead" (I Cor. 15:20), and that He is "declared to be the Son of God with power... by the resurrection from the dead" (Rom. 1:4). We would join the apostles who "with great power gave... witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus" (Acts 4:33).

Someone may say, "That's well enough for you who have faith in God, but I'm bewildered, uncertain, fearful, in a disordered world. What shall I do?" Come with us as, in our lesson, we join two men who had become bewildered, who felt that all their hopes had been crushed, that the future was only to be feared.

We join them as they walk wearily along the road from Jerusalem to Emmaus. Suddenly there is Another with the little group. Let us listen to their conversation. First we find:

I. Holden Eyes and Slow Hearts (vv. 13-17, 25, 26).

The two sad men who had left Jerusalem to go to Emmaus were disciples of our Lord who had just been through the crushing experience of seeing Him crucified. Now, as the jeering mob held triumphant sway in the city, they left the dead Christ (as they supposed) in the tomb and went their way. True, there had been some reports on the morning of the third day that the women had seen Jesus alive (vv. 23, 24), but their hope and faith was at such low ebb that they could not—or did not—believe. Even when Jesus appeared to walk with them and question them, they did not know Him.

Eyes closed by unbelief; faith hindered by doubt and fear; a despondent heart slow to believe God—how very effectively these shut out the blessing of God and of His Word, even to the believer. Even deeper is the darkness in which the unbeliever finds himself. But all is not lost; there is One here who can open unseeing eyes and warm cold hearts—even Jesus.

II. Burning Hearts and Opened Eyes (vv. 26-32).

Although they did not realize it (how slow we are to appreciate our blessings!) until after He was gone (v. 32), their hearts began to burn within them as soon as He began to expound the Scriptures to them.

What a Bible exposition that was, as Christ Himself opened all that the Scriptures taught concerning Him! Bible teachers have talked about, and it makes one's heart burn just to read their suggestions (see for example Morgan on Luke, page 278). Little wonder that these men were "strangely warmed" as they listened.

The way to have a burning heart is to read God's Word or to have it expounded by a Spirit-filled teacher or preacher. Especially is there blessing in reading and studying what the sacred Book teaches about our blessed Lord.

With the heart "strangely warmed," as John Wesley described his Aldersgate experience, comes the opened eye. "They knew him" (v. 31) in the breaking of the bread. Perhaps they saw the scar in His hand, or possibly they identified a familiar gesture or something in His voice; but until their hearts were warmed they did not see. Paul knew that truth when he declared: "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned" (I Cor. 2:14).

Some reader who has trouble believing in the resurrection will find the problem solved when he meets Christ and has his heart changed in regeneration. What follows?

III. Quickened Feet and Glad Testimony (vv. 33-35).

The seven miles (sixty furlongs, v. 13) which had passed so slowly were now quickly retraced. They had glorious good news to bring to the disciples at Jerusalem. How swift are the feet of the one who has good tidings to bear (see Rom. 10:15). One wonders why so many professed Christians are so slow about carrying His message. Can it be that they do not yet know the risen Christ? For if we know Him, surely "we do not will" to keep silent in a day of good tidings (II Kings 7:9).

Note in verse 34 that before they could speak, the others gave them the good news of the resurrection. It is proper and delightful that believers share spiritual blessings (Rom. 1:11, 12). That's why we come together in God's house.

Brother in the Lord, Christian sister, how long is it since you had a new and stirring experience of the presence of Christ? Not necessarily spectacular or exciting, but a real spiritual experience. Let's ask Him for it!

More Information About Cotton Stamps

This is the second and final article of a series of questions and answers about the government cotton stamp program, as furnished to us by G. R. Goosby, Administrative Officer for AAA in Mills County.

Q. Is it necessary for every farmer to give advance notice of his intention to participate in the program?

A. Only the operator of a farm, on behalf of himself and all others interested in the cotton crop, must sign a prescribed form before June 15, 1941, showing the number of acres he intends to take out of cotton production as well as other pertinent information.

Q. What will be the result if the 1941 cotton acreage is reduced by more than the amount set forth in the intentions?

A. Stamp payments will be made only for the amount of reduction set forth in the statement of intentions.

Q. What will be the result if the 1941 cotton acreage is reduced by less than the amount set forth in the statement of intentions?

A. Stamp payments will be made only for the amount actually reduced.

J. Will there be any penalty for failure to carry out expressed intentions of acreage reduction?

A. No. The Supplementary Cotton Program is entirely voluntary.

Q. What is the basis of payment for voluntary reduction of cotton acreage?

A. A farm payment in cotton stamps will be computed at the rate of ten cents a pound times the normal cotton yield determined for the farm under the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program times the acreage reduced for stamp payment.

Q. How would the cotton stamp plan work in the case of a farm operator with no tenants who planted ten acres of cotton in 1940, has a 10-acre allotment in 1941, and has a normal yield, as determined under the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program, of 250 pounds per acre?

A. This farmer, if he wished to participate in the supplementary program, could reduce his cotton plantings by one acre, leaving him a total of 9 acres. For the acre voluntarily reduced, he would receive cotton order stamps at the rate of 10 cents per pound for the 250-pound normal yield, or $25 worth.

Q. If this same farmer had

...warnings had gone unheeded. The President was killed when Washington was bombed. General Brill, commander of the U. S. army in Texas, was opposed by greatly superior forces led by Van Hasek. In spite of Brill's desperate resistance, Van Hasek's troops pushed relentlessly forward. Returning to Washington, Benning met Fincke who had come there to do espionage work for his government. Benning continued to pose as a friend, and proceeded to investigate a mysterious gold mining company operating in New York. He believed it was a "front" for a vast spy ring.

Now continue with the story.

to him that in the heart of a great city, with its teeming millions, he was as completely sealed away as a dead man in a tomb.

Out in the offices of the Andes Gold Mining and Milling Company a blunt new crew had taken over, headed by Lieutenant Colonel Wallace, corps area intelligence officer. Three of Wallace's officers were checking through the company records, three others were standing guard over four glum prisoners.

This sharp transfer of authority had been accompanied by a brief, tragic violence. In a corner of the office, covered by a rug, lay the body of Backropp. A bullet from Wallace's pistol had been needed to end Backropp's resistance.

"All right, Oldfer," Wallace threatened the cowering fat man who sat in front of him. "I'll give you one more chance to remember the combination to that safe. If you do remember, I'll make it an internment camp, if you don't I'll have you hanged inside a week!"

He lifted his wrist to his eyes and glanced at the time. "I'll give you exactly thirty seconds more to decide whether you live or hang."

Ten seconds had passed when the office door opened. Safe experts reported in to tackle the job of opening the vault. Oldfer was jolted into decision by knowledge that if the man in the vault emerged alive, the jig was up with him.

"I'll open it!" he cried, leaping to his feet. "Ja, I'll open the safe, if you promise me I don't hang for it!"

Oldfer fairly raced to the steel doors and nervously fingered the combination. In his excitement three trials were necessary to complete the combination. Colonel Wallace seized the door and pulled it open. Benning was lying on the floor, his right hand clutching a small pocket notebook.

Wallace lifted the unconscious man to a sofa in the Salvatore room. A medical officer, who had been hurried in from Governor's Island, took pulse and temperature and applied stimulants. In a minute Benning opened his eyes and, on orienting his mind to the whirling gray world about him, attempted to sit up.

"The captain will be all right shortly," the doctor predicted. "It's just as well, however, you got him out of there without much more delay."

Half an hour later Benning insisted on getting to his feet. His legs were wobbly under him, the slow, steady throb of his pulse reverberated in aching temples. But he waved the medico aside and went into the office where Wallace and his men were working.

"Here, Benning, you'd better take it easy," the corps area G-2 chief admonished.

"I'm feeling better," Benning answered. "What's the score now, Colonel?"

Colonel Wallace was effervescent. "The Andes Gold Mining and Milling Company," he exclaimed, "is the most valuable mine in the world right now. No question about it, we're headed for the biggest spy roundup in history."

"Where's Backropp?" Benning wanted to know. "Bravot, alias Salvatore."

The glow of Wallace's face vanished into gloom. "Pretty bad luck, Benning," he said heavily. "He managed to slip out his private door as we entered. I had Lieutenant Crane guarding the hall. Salvatore killed him with a small automatic and was lucky enough to catch a cage down before we could get out there. By the way, Benning, when you feel up to it, Colonel Flagwill wishes you to call him at the War Department."

Benning checked through the haul of records. There was no need of cryptographers on the job. In a false bottom of Bravot's desk, Wallace had unearthed a code book which unlocked the symbols.

The first estimates showed seventeen thousand cards of stockholders. Many of these were innocent purchasers, Wallace thought from the first results of his check, but there was evidence of thousands of enemy agents, scattered in important posts and positions throughout the United States.

An hour later Benning went to the McAlpin. His legs still lacked strength and he took a cab for the short ride. Upstairs in his room he called Flagwill, who was on the line promptly.

"Glad you're all right, Benning, you had us worried!" Flagwill exclaimed. "A great piece of work, simply great! Report back as soon as you feel like traveling, Benning."

Flagwill's voice trailed into gravity. "Things are looking pretty black right now—and we've got to find out what's ahead of us. General Hague suggested—well, if you think you've a chance at it—thought you might learn something—in Mexico. Of course, we'll let you decide."

"Very good, sir," Benning assented. "I'll report in Washington on the next available plane."

His ears strained for sound, but there was only silence. He tried kicking at the foot-thick steel doors, but there was no response. It came

He knew that rescue depended largely upon that phosgene cigarette he had tossed out the window as a signal to intelligence operatives below. He argued that they had caught the signal; it must have been G-2 men who invaded the Andes office at the critical instant of his imprisonment.

I am a farmer who knows what oil means to West Central Texas.

All of us who live in this section share in one way or another in the income which oil creates.

Nearly three and one-half million acres of our land are now under lease. Each year our lease and royalty income is an extra cash crop of over 6 million dollars.

Almost 30,000 residents of this area, including oil workers and their families, get their entire living from the petroleum industry. All told, this industry spends nearly 28 million dollars a year in West Central Texas.

This money is spent and respend until every farmer, merchant, business and professional man... in fact everyone... in our section gets his share of it.

Everyone living in West Central Texas today has an important stake in the oil industry and its future in Texas.

Howington Explains Natural Resources Revenue Bill

Due to the fact that some of you have signed petitions asking me to vote for the Governor's Appropriation Bill, Number 222, which appropriates $46,820,000.00 and I do not know your addresses, I am answering through the newspaper and giving you some of the facts. I am sure you are sincere in your belief, but you are a long way from Austin and only hear one side. None of you gave me any reason why you thought I should have voted for this appropriation.

I am going to give you some of the reasons why I think it is all wrong. (1) To appropriate $26,820,000.00 out of the General Fund, which is now over drawn $27,000,000.00, and which Fund only receives $31,000,000.00 a year, which means just this: that if we did not pass a Tax Bill it would stop every rural school and every state institution in this State, and State warrants would not be worth 50c on the dollar; and I don't think any of you want to do this.

(2) The Social Security Program is never going to be settled by any appropriation. There is going to have to be a Tax Bill passed to settle it, and the Governor has been telling you that until recently.

(3) The Governor ran on the platform of paying as you go, and so did I, and I can't back up that easily; you certainly would not say this is a pay-as-you-go program. He also asked us in his address to pass a Bill requiring the State Treasury to attach a certificate to every appropriation certifying the money was in the Treasury to pay the appropriation before it could be passed and become effective; I was the third signer to the Bill, it being the third Bill field, and again I can't back up that easily.

(4) The House has passed an Omnibus Tax Bill taxing oil at the well, gas at the well, and gasoline at the refineries, and all natural resources and utilities; this is the very Bill many of you have talked to me about and have asked me to support. It is, I think, the best Tax Bill ever passed and will raise approximately $31,000,000.00. We, I mean the House, passed that Bill about four weeks ago, and it has been over in the Senate all this time; the Bill allocates the money to the Social Security, so why put an appropriation ahead of a Tax Bill.

There is a nigger in the woodpile. Why haven't you people been asked to write the Senate to pass that Natural Resources Bill? If an appropriation was passed it would have to be passed by every Legislature at every session. If this Tax Bill passes, it is settled for good. Here is the nigger in the woodpile. All utilities and oil companies are for a Sales Tax or Transactions Tax, for then there would never be any need to tax them any more; therefore, the Governor knows that if this Natural Resources Tax passes, and he signs it, the Natural Resources people and Utilities people will never use him any more. If he fails to sign it, the common citizens would be through with him. Therefore, he is trying to force the passage of the Appropriation Bill by the House; then the Senate would pass it; then the Senate would substitute a 2 percent Sales Tax for that Bill over in the Senate and send it back to the House. Then the oil companies and utilities companies would think this a great piece of handy work, which it would be. We would be burned down if we failed to pass that 2 percent Sales Tax.

So I say, if the Governor is sincere about raising this money, why doesn't he ask you folks to write the Senate to pass that Bill we passed? I am going to be frank with you. If you want this problem solved, you had better write him and the Senate, to pass H. B. No. 8, which will raise $31,000,000.00.

Many of us lose sight of the fact that it is the duty of the Legislature to finance all phases of our State Government—schools, colleges, highways, insane asylums, penitentiaries, courts. We are obligated under oath to represent all alike—the rich and the poor.

As I see it, and as many of you would see you here where I am, this is the worst thing that could happen to this State, and a thing that is wholly uncalled for. I am not going to be a party to any such tricks. Again I remind you that we members of the House have passed a Bill that will raise plenty of money. It goes to the Social Security Program. You write the Governor and the Senate to get busy and pass it, and the question will be settled.

Frank Howington

LEGISLATIVE ACTIVITIES

This week the Legislature passed several important acts and made good progress on a number of other measures.

One of these was the so-called anti-strike bill. It was passed by both houses and signed by the Governor. This law is not designed to curtail labor's rights to organize, but is meant to avoid violence in strikes and to prevent slowing down of national defense work.

My Senate bill revising license fees on trucks to conform to the increases carried in the load limit bill recently passed is now in the hands of a conference committee for adjustment. This measure affects all the commercial motor vehicles in the State. It is being worked out carefully so that proper fees will be charged and at the same time revenues to the counties and the State will be protected. The conference report will probably be adopted by April 10 so that truck operators can obtain new licenses for this year under its provisions.

The Senate Committee on State Affairs has concluded hearings on the omnibus tax bill and has referred it to a subcommittee for re-drafting. This bill probably will be reported to the Senate within a week or ten days and is the measure to provide additional revenue for the social security program, teacher retirement and the other needs of the State.

The Senate passed and sent to the House and eleemosynary appropriation bill for state institutions. This measure makes provisions for some twelve hundred additional patients, and will relieve the present condition where there are some 800 persons who have been adjudged insane confined in jails waiting for room in the hospitals. The measure also provides additional facilities for epileptics and tuberculars.

Penrose B. Metfalcon, State Senate.

Waco Young Man Drives Ancient Automobile

Back when automobiles were rare in central Texas, John Tolbert of China Spring used his new 1907 model Reo automobile to transport his two daughters to the Baylor campus in Waco in the year of 1908.

Now, in 1941, it is a proud H. D. (Jack) Bennett who sits erectly behind the right-hand drive and waves to the coeds. The "merry automobile" which was the pride of China Spring had only two years of active life before being parked almost for eternity in a barn. Its large license "222" is painted on the rear. It was cranked in 1913 but no use was made of it. Then last summer, Bennett took the car and at an expense of $100 turned over several parts on a metal lathe and put the car again in first class (?) condition.

"Although the price seemed high," Jack calculates, "I have made it all back in advertising schemes and political campaigns."

Running Gun Battle Fails To Halt Automobile Thieves

In an exciting gun battle up and down San Saba streets shortly before midnight Monday in which a State Highway Patrolman, Sheriff Doran and Alvin Dean, night watchman, attempted to halt a trio of two young men and a woman, the chase ended when the culprits finally made their getaway east on the Lometa road.

Word had come by phone to be on the look-out for the trio who had stolen a 1937 V-8 Coupe from a Brady man and were headed this way. A car answering that description was noted by the Sheriff here in front of George Nalls Store-Station and the chase began, in which the Sheriff was joined later by a State Highway Patrolman and Nightwatchman Alvin Dean. After careening up and down alleys and streets, with 4 shots after them, the trio finally took out east on the Lometa road. After crossing the river they headed into a wire fence, smashed the front of the car and took to the woods. The Brady man came and identified the abandoned car and took it back to Brady.

Tuesday night Walton Dickason's 1940 V-8 Sedan was stolen from in front of his home, presumably by the same trio, and to date has not been recovered.

In the Brady car the trio left a small overnight bag containing clothes for both a woman and man and some bedding. They previously had cut a section of air hose of the W. H. Lightfoot Station to us in siphoning gas from other cars and had cut George Nalls' gas hose. —San Saba News.

Chevrolet Builds 60 Models Of Trucks

"At no time in the history of this country has the motor truck played the vital role for which it is destined in the spring of 1941." This is the statement of W. E. Fish, manager, Chevrolet commercial car department, whose organization, through the more than 8,500 Chevrolet dealers, has sold more than 1,000,000 trucks in the past six years.

This prediction is based upon two factors now operating in the American business scene, Mr. Fish said. First is the normal advance in activity among commercial car users with the advent of spring. Second, he said, is the increasing industrial and manufacturing output induced by national defense work.

"Spring is the season when all truck users, from the farmer to the retail deliveryman, review their transport equipment with an eye toward doing a more effective job in the new year. Designed to promote efficiency and at the same time low costs are the 60 models Chevrolet offers for 1941 on nine different wheel-base lengths.

"This wide variety of transport equipment includes trucks for every business. There are commercial cars especially adaptable to heavy hauling needs; there are trucks designed specifically
