LET'S PLANT A GARDEN IS SLOGAN

Now that we are at war, it is the duty of all rural people to produce more food. Food is just as important as machine guns and bombers, because these war materials can be used efficiently only by well-fed men. How can we in Mills County do our part to put more steam in the production of food? The raising of a garden is one answer to the situation.

Mr. Rosborough, Extension Specialist in Horticulture, says: "No other plot of ground of similar size contributes more to the production of wholesome, economical food than the garden. When farming conditions are favorable, the garden should produce from $75 to $100 worth of food a year. Thus a definite cash saving in the year-around food budget may be made in the garden."

Vegetables that have been shipped long distances lose their flavor; so the home gardener has the advantage of securing the best quality of vegetables for the family. According to the Texas Food Standard, vegetables must be included in each day's diet. Children grow better and have more resistance to infection, and adults keep in better health when the diet contains an abundance of vegetables, fruit and milk. Hence, let's all make plans for a bigger and better garden than we ever had before.

In our planning, we must first decide on the location. The garden should be close to the house, if possible, so that the housewife can save time and energy in securing her vegetables. Choose a place that has slope enough to be well drained and where there is sufficient air drainage to prevent possible pocketing of frost. Practically any type of soil can be used for a home garden; loam soils are more easily worked, warm up more quickly in the spring, respond more readily to fertilizers and are not injured by tramping when wet. Heavier clay and black land soils are usually more fertile but are harder to work and crops growing on them do not respond to commercial fertilizer as readily as on sandy soils. Gravelly soil types are usually deficient in organic matter but when supplemented with stable manure or green manure crops to increase fertility and water holding capacity become satisfactory garden soils.

Heavier soils that do not wash badly should be broken in the fall not less than eight inches deep and lighter ones that are subject to washing should be plowed the same depth as soon after January first as possible. It is important to cover all weeds and plant refuse completely so this material will decay quickly and not interfere with planting or cultivating. The garden soil should be harrowed until thoroughly pulverized and level for planting. Freshly broken and harrowed soil should be allowed to settle for at least five to ten days before seeds are planted.

Now is the time to get the soil ready for that garden if you have not done it already, because English peas need to be planted now.

State Department Health Notes

Recommendations to pharmacists concerning the part they can play in National Defense have been released from the United States Office of Civilian Defense, according to Doctor Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, who is serving as state chairman for health and emergency medical service.

The Office of Civilian Defense urges every pharmacist to register with the chief of the emergency medical service in his community, indicating what supplies he has available; register with the transport office of the local defense corps any delivery trucks available for emergency transport; register his pharmacy with his air raid warden indicating the telephone and refuge facilities he has available.

Every pharmacist should place his services at the disposal of the local defense council for distributing literature and information on civilian defense; inform himself of the location, and character of protection facilities in his neighborhood so that he can direct citizens to shelters, warden posts, casualty stations, and first aid posts; review and extend his own training in first aid and prepare himself to instruct his employees.

Large pharmacies should establish a first aid detachment among their employees which can be immediately available as a stretcher team to assist rescue squads. They should be equipped with a stretcher and with first aid supplies.

Doctor Cox pointed out that the office of Civilian Defense urged all pharmacies to keep their stocks of drugs, medical, surgical, and sickroom supplies constantly replenished.

"Already thousands of pharmacists have inquired of this office how they can best serve in this emergency," Doctor Cox said. "Dean W. F. Gidley, of The University of Texas School of Pharmacy, together with other representatives of the pharmaceutical profession, have indicated that their profession desires to serve in every way possible."

SAN SABA PRODUCTION CREDIT MEETING

The San Saba Production Credit Association annual stockholders' meeting will be held February 6, 1942, at 10 o'clock at the High School Gymnasium in San Saba, Texas.

"Attendance of members and their participation in the discussion, in the election of directors and study of association business reports and plans are of primary importance in this cooperative credit organization," said R. C. Duren, Field Office Representative.

He reported that while the PCA is making loans only on sound business operation, the national defense goals are "sound business" for the individual farmer or livestock man. The San Saba PCA "feels it is good business to shift production aims to suit the general outlook as much as practicable, to plan business a year ahead, to steadily increase equity in your business, and it is good business as well as patriotic duty to produce certain particular items where you can do it efficiently and without expanding your plant too much.

Mr. Duren said. "The 'live at home' program is nothing new, but is important to the national welfare and to the individual family. Every dollar of your living you make at home is just as big a dollar as the one you might get from a cash crop. The milk, pork, poultry, and garden produced at home offer the supplemental values of a better home living as well as aiding the Food for Defense Program."
