He may be shortly expected here.

CONSIDERABLE excitement has been created in Norway by the nomination of the celebrated Norwegian actor, M. Johannes Brun, to be a Knight of the Order of St. Olavus-a decoration which is only conferred on very rare occasions. This is the first time a Norwegian actor has received this honor, and it is considered as being an official rebuke to the prevailing pietistic sentiment against theatres

A NUMBER of leading financiers and social high dignitaries of the Imperial Court of Berlin gave a banquet recently in honor of a Miss Leona Darc, a tight rope dancer, who has been creating a sensation in the Prussian capital. Word of the festivity reached the Kaiser and the Crown Prince, and the latter was so angered with two of the nobles present -one of them a prince, the other a Count and a relative of a certain great statesman of the kingdom, that he sent word of his wish not to see either at court

First, they keep their his whereabouts are now unknown. ears and engines standing over streets instead of in suitable depots. This nuisance depreciates property, and injures the clothing of citizens by the dropping of oil, dirty water, and coal. Next, they do not put lights on their pillars in intersecting streets. In response to argent appeals they promise to remedy the first wrong some time in the future, but regarding the second, according to Mr. Campbell, they do nothing.

THE Rev. Mr. Dinworth, who recently went to England from this country to officiate in the channel atChiselhurst during the illness of the venerable Abbe, is to accompany the empress to South Africa. The Duc de Rassano, the Marquis de Villemont, and Melle d' Aubisson daughter of a Zouave Colonel, killed at Woerh, and adopted by the Empress since the death of the Prince Imperial, will also attend her. Two hundred and fifty French ladies and gentlemen have chartered a consort steamer to accompany her on her pilgrimage.

The Senate Joint Resolution passed authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to em-ploy a naval vessel or charter a ship for the ploy a naval vessel or charter a snip for the purpose of transporting to the famishing poor of Ireland such contributions as may be made for their relief——Counsel for defendant, in the action for breach of promise brought by Miss Horton against Senator Morgan's son whom she shot some weeks since, having filed a number of Lucy's love letters written to Congressman Shelly wherein she accuses him of her seduction wherein she accuses him of her seduction and demands money with which to conceal her shame. Gen. Shelly deposition is also filed in which he pronounces them an attempt at blackmail. If the letters are genuine, of which there can be no doubt, it puts a new phase upon the scandal and transfer all sympathy from Miss Horton to young Morgan, against whom she is striving to get judgement for the same offens that she has charged Gen Shelly.

DOWN AMONG THE DEAD.

Are the Tay Divers Afraid of the Bodies They have to Handle?

London News. When the silence and loneliness ocean or river depths are added, to the blackness of darkness and the dread presence of death, the diver must needs have courage who boldly descends. In the operations not yet concluded at the Tay Bridge old hands and less experienced divers were by some suspected of succumbing to the terrors of the situation. If there were any human bodies there they were imprisoned in a double prison of carriages and cage-like girders. It was impossible for any diver quickly to clutch at the body, and, ere he had time to think of his ghastly work, to procure by signal the instant withdrawal of himself and solemn burden to the surface. The work involved patience and deliberate handling of the dead in the dark and silent deep, and few who suspected the divers, of shrinking from his task felt brave enough themselves to blame them seriously for it. The suspicion after all had probably but small foundation; at least two of the divers strongly declared that no "eerie feeling" would prevent them doing their duty, and said that if neces-sary they would be glad to bring up the dead even in their arms. Still, the very way in which these men talk of this subect seems to show that below water they can not face the dead with the callousness of men who are brought into contact have to reason with themselves against a natural timidity. "My duty," said one diver at the time, "is to the living. When I go down to find the dead, I feel that I am going down to do what I can for the people, they belong to, and that it is not the dead I have to be frightened of. I think of the friends to whom the bodies are to with bodies on shore; that, in fact, they have to reason with themselves against of the friends to whom the bodies are to he restored, and nothing would give me -Ex-Governor Seymour offers wine to his guests but takes none himself. It is related that at the time of the Maine law hardy men, it is sometimes more different in New York when the secretary in New York when the secr for the diver to go among the dead in the light of day. "The horrible conceit of death and night" is matched by the real-ity, as seen, for example, by the divers of the Princess Alice, when they met the cold stare of the group of cabin passen-gers who had clung together in agony as the ship went down; or as experienced by certain divers who refused to recover wrecked treasure at the Faroe Islands, because they saw dead sailors in the rig-ging and could not bear the sight.

The Late Mrs. Tweed.

New York Tribune.

Mrs. Tweed, the widow of Wm. M. Tweed, died yesterday at Paris. A telegram announcing her death was received by Mrs. Frederick W Douglas, her daughter, in whose house in East Seventy-seventh street the funeral of Wm. M. Tweed took place. At the time of Tweed's death in Ludlow Street jail, April 13, 1878, Mrs. Tweed and all her family, to Europe the autumn before her band died, owing to the critical condition of her health. She had been for several years before her departure a confirmed invalid. Her stay abroad did not improve her health, and at the time of Tweed's death she was not expected to live long. About four years ago the sight of one of her eyes was injured by a toy in the hands of one of her children. Her family consisted of eight children—four sons and four daughters. Three of the daughters are married and one has been an invalid from childhood. Two of the daughters married brothers named McGinnis, and live in New Orleans. The other married daughter is Mrs. Douglas. The two older sons are William M. and Richard, and the others are yet boys. It is said that before Tweed died he had made a partial division of his money and property Mrs. Tweed owned an estate at Greenwich, Conn., and the marriage portion of the three married daughters was from $25,-000 to $50,000. Mrs. Tweed is represented by those who knew her best as being a kind and estimable womanwho lived a do-mestic life, and who bestowed most of her time and attention on her family. Accumulating wealth did not change essentially her mode of life or alter her relations with her early friends. She took no part in business or politics.

CHEWING GUM.

What It Is, Where It Comes From and Hou It Is Prepared for Sale.

Cincinnati Commercial.

We have it upon common report that chewing gum is a substance well known to the youthful part of the community. The qualities which it possesses at the time that it comes from the confectioner are all familiar to the youngest of us. It a resolution directing any of the heads of Executive Departments, who have not yet odible. The reason for this is not so hard Executive Departments, who have requir-done so, to comply with the statute requir-ing such officers to annually report to Con-is in it in proportion to actual weight and cash value. But there is more in chewing gum than is dreamed of in ju-venile philosophy. One can easily com-mented the main ingredients of canter, but who, without being told, would suspect that chewing gum is often only a refined product of petroleum. The time was when the fragrant spruce furnished the most common material for the pur-pose. But this is no longer the case. The reader familiar with the processes of earth, at one stage of its manufacture, is strained through heavy linen cloths. The residium left after this operation, is a an accredited representative of the most dirty, brownish yellow wax that smells abominably. That unpromising substance, melted, bleached, deodorized and prepared for commerce, appears in masses that weigh about one hundred pounds, re-embling oblong blocks of clouded ice. It has no odor and no taste except what belongs to any wax in its purest state. It may be used for many purposes, but it is not necessary to describe them now. to the presidency have any difficulty in The manufacturer of chewing gum purchases these blocks ready made to his thrust out Tilden to make room for hand, and at once melts them down. To two hundred pounds of wax he adds Hayes? Was it ever before considered about thirtd pounds of sugar, and gives a recommendation for a presidential the mixture a flavor by the use of some candidate that he had a half-million essential oil, as lemon or vanilla, and perhaps adds some coloring matter. The melted mass is poured out upon a clean ed title? Were the American people marble slab and cut in the various shapes known to masticators.

The youthful epicure rarely becomes so luxurious as to demand balsam of tolu; but, if he does, the manufacturer is ready for him. This resin, which is obtained from South America, is at first in an almost fluid condition. It is the product of a tree known as—now hold your jaw, for the name is worse than a whole box of chewing gum-myraspermum tolu-ferum. This balsam is beiled by the manufacturer until finally it is brought to such a consistency that it can be run through rollers. It comes out in the shape of a little tender rod, of a brownish-yellow color, which is cut into pieces, each about two and a half inches long. The balsam may sometimes be mixed with a less costly wax, since its flavor is very marked.

The balsam of the "chicle" tree, from Central America, is used in making what is known as snapping gum. It is very ductile when worked and moistened, and the process of making is similar to that of pulling taffy. The original gum exudes from the tree and forms in a mass sometimes several pounds in weight. Even in this natural state it would be a very satisfactory substance to keep the teeth at work. It cannot be worn out.

British Bird Butchers London Telegraph

Those who would be glad to see our wild birds protected in the spirit of the law enacted for their preservation will read the following from a correspondent at St. Leonards-on-Sea with indignation: "Walking the other day along the Pevensey Marsh, towards St. Leonards, I saw some men, with the usual apparatus of baits and decoys, engaged in bird-catching. Finding I was doing no harm I stayed to watch them, and then saw that the men, while waiting for fresh victims to alight, were busy plucking the bodies of those already caught. Looking round I became aware that the ground was strewn thickly with the little birds' feathers, chiefly those of two of our very prettiest finches, the greenfinch and the chaffinch, with literally hundreds of little heads and wines lying about. The tle heads and wings lying about. The men had a bag with them, into which they threw the little bodies after plucking them and snatching off their heads and wings. Would a jury have given heavy damages against me if I had kick-ed these men out of the place?" It is impossible to say what a jury might do, but we think we are safe in saying that if our correspondent had assaulted the men he would have met with sufficient public sympathy to neutralize the effects of a conviction with damages and costs. At any rate, few residents of Highgate are with the exception of Mrs. Douglas, were in Europe. Since that time Mrs. Tweed has remained abroad. She went away the wild birds from the bird-catch-

THE GRANT PROGRAMME.

A Glance at it from the Standpoint of Pat riotism and Common Sense St. Louis Republican.

We published yesterday the suggestive emarks of ex-Gov. Smith of New Hampshire in regard to the necessity of Grant's nomination. Those who think that gentleman "out of line," and not in harmony with the present dominant sentiment of his party, may change their opinion after reading the following, from the Chicago Inter-Ocean, a leading organ of the "stalwarts:"

"We know, and the people know, that if Gen. Grant is chosen he will take the office, and all thought of conspiracy will melt away under the influences of a man whose simple word would call to his side a half million of veteran soldiers. * * *

"The Republican party needs something more than brilliancy, something more than personal magnetism, something more than financial ability, something more than simple availability, in the contest that is approaching. In case of trouble experience shows that the talkers generally retire to the rear, while men of action come to the front. The Deacon Smith's and the George William Curtises are beautiful to look upon in the bright sunshine, but when the clouds lower, dustier garments and less bewitching forms must appear. What we need now is bravery, strength, firmness and honesty in a candidate; the daintier trials will answer for fairer periods and less stormy skies." Putting party considerations aside entirely, let us look at the matter from the standpoint of patriotism and commonsense. The country is at peace; such peace as it has not enjoyed for twenty years. The country is prosperous; such prosperity as it has not enjoyed for twenty years. No foreign or domestic foe threatens that peace. No industrial commercial or financial disturbance threatens that prosperity. The national machine refining coal is aware that the thick is working smoothly and satisfactorily, brown liquid which comes from the and there is no reason to and there is no reason to suppose that, if let alone, it will get out of order. Yet powerful wing of a most powerful party deliberately urges the nomination of a certain presidential candidate because his "simple word would call to his side a half-million of veteran soldiers," who would help him to "take the office." Did any man fairly elected obtaining it, until Republican trickery soldiers at his disposal to settle a disputever told before that the man who sought their votes for the chief magistracy would "take the office?" Has the United States already sunk to the level of Mexico, that bayonets are to supplement ballots? Is the greatest republic in the world no better than the meanest, that military force is to override all forms of law and crush public liberty into the dust?

The Grant gang begin their "bulldozing" tactics early, for which honest citizens will be duly grateful. All this talk about "conspiracy," "lowering clouds," and "stormy skies," when there is no conspiracy, no clouds, no storm, is intended to frighten the anti-Grant Republicans into the third-term traces. But it will serve a more important purpose. It will open the eyes, of every patriot, of whatever politics, to the desperate and utterly unscrupulous character of the men who are engineering the Grant movement. It will show the infamous character of the influences upon which the success of that movement depends. It is a solemn warning, which none but knaves or fools will despise. As for Democrats, they know now, if they aid not before, what is in store for them in case Grant is nominated. They know now, if they did not before, that should the contest be at all close and their candidate elected by a small ma-jority, as in 1876, Grant will "take the office" and keep it by the aid of "a half-million of veteran soldiers." If this information, boldly and defiantly proclaimed, does not bring unity to the Demo-eratic ranks and wisdom into Democratic councils, then nothing can.

Royal Italian Scandal. Parisian.

The Queen's position, writes a friend in Rome, is very curious. She refuses to receive Mr. Crispi's present wife. He has another wife living, who supported him ten years in his poverty, and who was formerly received at the Turin Court with honor, on account of her patriotism, The Queen refused to come to Rome; the Ministry obliged her to. Now that she is here she will not receive any one, and the excuse of ill health is given. to this, her husband has resumed the old relation with the Princess Giannotto (the Marquis of Caux's sister). This lady insists on going to Court, and the tyranny she is said to exercise over the King is very powerful. THE HANNIBAL AND ST. JOE.

Elegant Day Coaches, Furnished with the Horton Reclining Chair, will be Run Hereafter Between this City and Chicago.

The "Old Reliable" Hannibal run magnificent day coaches, furmished with the Horton reclining chairs, between this city and Chi-Cago, without change, by way of Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway. This is one of the most direct and safe routes to the East, and this step places it in the very first rank in point of elegance and perfection of accommodations. Without doubt it will early become the most popular line in the West with the traveling public. The Horton reclining chair is immeasurably superior in point of comfort and ease of management to all others now in use, and those placed in the Hannibal and St. Joe cars are of the finest workmanship and materials; but to the traveling pub lic it is useless to speak of the excellence of these chairs. They have proved so entirely successful, and so fully meet the wants of the traveling community, that they have become a necessity. Mr. H D. Price, the efficient passenger agent of the Hannibal and St. Joe road, in this city, furnishes the information that these day coaches will be placed on the road, this week. We commend this route to those going east, who wish to secure comfort, safety and expedition. - Kansas City Journal, Feb. 9

In its comments on mea and affairs, The UN believes that the only guide of pelicy should be common sense, in-pited by genuine American principles and backed by honesty of purpose. For this reason it is, and will continue to be, absolutely independent of party, class, clique, organization, or interest. It is for all, but of none. It will continue to praise what is good and to reprobate what is evil, taking care that its language is to the point and plain, beyond the possibility of being misunderstood. It is uninfluenced by motives that do not appear on the surface; it has no opinions to sell, save those which may be had by any purchaser for two cents. It hates injustice and rascality even more than it hates unnecessary words. It abhaes frauds, pittes fools, and deplores and compoops of every species. It will continue throughout the year 1889 to chastise the first class, instruct the second, and In its comments on mea and affairs, THI the first class, instruct the second, and discountenance the third. Physicians recommend Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, when all other medicines fail, as a certain cure for Bronchitis, Sore Throat, and Coughs or Colds, of long standing. For sale by all druggists.

How they Grow Trees on the Prairies. St. Paul Pioneer Press. During the winter time cut cotton wood poles, trimming them up and then saw-ing them into pieces about a foot long. In the spring as soon as the frost will permit plowing draw a deep furrow where the row of trees is wanted, lay in the pieces, using none less than two inches in diameter, as fanapart as desired, turn a furrow on the pieces, then a third furrow as in plowing land, harrow a little—that is all. The trees will come up from the pieces and grow steadily and much faster than cuttings or young trees set out. They should when planted this way, never be cultivated, as they grow so swiftly and tall the first year or two that the wind will break some of them off unless they have weeds as a protection. The piece of pole forms a root and possesses sufficient sap to make the trees grow even on high gravel soil. I have seen trees planted in this way live and thrive, though eaten off by the hoppers the first season close to the ground.

When the disorders of babyhood attack your baby, use at once Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup and notice its rapid and beneficial effect. Price 25 cents.

The Invalid's Home.

Yesterday we called at the Kansas City Surrical & Medical Institute, situated at the north-east corner of Fifth and Delaware streets, and we were astonished to see so many afflicted congregated there from the Western States and Territories. We talked with a great many of the patients and we found them all highly encouraged with their treatment.

One bright little child we observed comfortably seated in a chair who had just been operated on for double club-feet. She is the daughter of Professor Pitman, Vice-President of Trinity University, Tehancana,

Passing along we met Corena, the grand-child of J. G. Brown, of Walde, Texas. This sweet child was afflicted with paralysis of the muscles of the ankle joint, and we were glad to observe that she was rapidly improving.

Next patient we met was Mrs. Col. E. I.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day, it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your house for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill and perhaps death by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the throat or Lungs its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. German Syrup is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Sampl5 bottles for trial 10 cents; regular size 75

Halis Balsam Cures Colds, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all diseases of the breathing organs. It soothes and heals the membrane of the Lungs inflamed and poisoned by the disease, and prevents the night sweats and tightness across the chest which accompany it. Consumption is not an incurable malady. Don't despair of relief, for Hall's Balsam will cure you, even though professional aid falls.

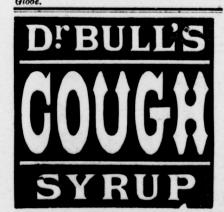

Henry's Carbolic Salve is used extensively in Hospitals, and is found to be not only a thoruogh purifier and disinfectant, but also the most wonderful and speedy healing remedy known. Heals cuts, burns, sores, pimples and all skin diseases. Ask for Henry's and take no other.

Those who may unfortunately be afflicted with a disease that baffles the skill of the physician at home, or that requires secrecy, and desire advice from the leading institu-tion in the United States, are requested to address the Medical and Surgical Institute, 147 East Fifth street, New York City. The physicians have a system of treatment by correspondence which is very successful. They make a specialty of Consumption, Catarrh, Heart, Liver Complaints, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Impotency, Nervous Debility and Weakness, Cancer, Skin diseases, Rupture, etc., and will send pamphlet and advice in reference to the disease, if particulars are sent them.

Making Artificial Rain Washington Cor. New York Sun.

General Daniel Ruggles, of Virginia, at the request of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, appeared before them today and briefly explained his method of precipitating rainfalls by scientific means. His method—for which he has been granted a patent-is to send up the cloud realm cartridges of dynamite or smaller explosive materials, in skeleton balloons, and to explode them either by means of time fuses, or by magnetic elec-tricity through light metalic wires connecting the balloons with the earth General Ruggles, as the result of many years' study and investigation of this subject, claims that the diffused mists passing over arid regions, or regions suf-fering from unusual drought, may be consolidated readily into rainfalls by concussions and vibrations, thus artifici ally produced; and he has, therefore, suggested to the committee that Congress may provide a small appropriation to make tests. The Committee were so interested in General Ruggles' plan that they asked him to give him more information, which he is to do.
