Red Sox Have Saturday Night And Sunday Afternoon Games Coming Up

By CHARLES CONRADT
 There is very little baseball news in our favor this week as the Red Sox suffered the first loss of the year in league play Sunday at the hands of Boerne. Of course, as the manager, Clyde Estep said "I knew that this was going to happen but did not expect it Sunday".

The score was not bad, could have been a lot worse. The Red Sox had played outstanding ball all year and had a number of errors in their system that they had to dispose of and they did that against Boerne, so the next games should be error free.

I have been unable to look over the records, and I would not dare write some hear-say about who did the best hitting or best fielding on the game but will carry a complete report next week. It is said that outstanding fielding plays were made by Stacey and Doggett.

This leaves Goldthwaite in first place by one full game and the season half over. In case you have not heard the score was Boerne 5-Goldthwaite 1.

GAME HERE SATURDAY NIGHT
 The Red Sox will play a colored team from Austin here Saturday night at 8:00. This should be a good game and full of comedy. Come out and have a big time.

ALL-STAR GAME SUNDAY JUNE 5
 The all-star game will be played at Comfort Sunday at 3 in the evening. This all star team is made up of the outstanding players of the league. A team picked from the four North teams will play a team picked from the four South teams. Players chosen to represent the Red Sox will be, McCasland, catcher; Owen, first base; McLean, 2nd base; Campbell, short stop; Westerfield, 3rd base and Red Winners, pitcher.

Congress Adjournment Achieved by July 15? Capitol Hill Leaders Hope for Earlier Close

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The House and Senate progress on appropriate bills indicates that adjournment is quite possible this year by mid-July. Leaders have set a July 1 deadline but Capitol Hill observers point out that usual last-minute hitches in the legislative schedule make July 15 a more likely date.

The schedule of appropriation bills is the indicator of the length of a session. When these measures get bogged down, then a long session is certain; a fast clean-up means a relatively short one.

Many controversial problems remain. And several of them will, in all probability, be continued to next year. There is no tax fight—and that, too, will help pave the way for earlier adjournment.

The administration health insurance bill, the highway program, increasing the minimum wage, Taft-Hartley Act amendments and aid to schools are all bogged down in committees. The administration, aided by a committee of citizens, is pushing for action on the long-range road building program and chances are good that legislation will be enacted.

DRAFT—The nation's businessmen are plugging for revision of the draft law to assure deferment of persons with exceptional ability in technical, scientific and engineering fields. This position is being presented to Congress by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Specifically, the Chamber is against a proposal to set up a "Scientific Specialists board" to handle requests for suspension of military service for scientists, technicians or engineers upon application.

The Chamber, reflecting the views of businessmen, said it believes the proper approach to a solution of the occupational deferment question is to perfect the basic legislation needed to write such provisions into the draft law itself.

SECURITY AND POLITICS—The Democrats are getting ready to capitalize on new political issue handed to them on a silver platter by—of all people—President Eisenhower.

The issue is that while the Pentagon was clamping down in the name of security the information they can give newsmen, it had okayed use of previously secret military data for use of GOP campaigners for Congress. The material was prepared to answer Democratic charges that Republicans have weakened defense through too drastic spending cuts.

The GOP pamphlet gave out information on several new rockets and rocket engines which newsmen had not been allowed to talk about.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's new information-security assistant, Robert T. Ross, said there were some slips in the document but they were "minor" and did not "amount to a breach of security." He said the document was "on the whole reassuring."

However, President Eisenhower said it was a blunder and contained information he would not have given out. Thus, the Democrats now will contend that Wilson and Ross are acting as over-tough censors of news but not tough enough on censoring internal documents.

BORDER PATROL—The federal government, presumably alarmed over wide open border stretches between the United States and Mexico, is planning a tightening of its border patrol. The Immigration and Naturalization service is seeking at least 400 more patrolmen, and calls the need urgent.

The FBI warned recently that it is possible that Communists can illegally enter the United States by posing as "Wet-backs" sneaking across the Mexican border.

However, the Mexican government, which is working with the United States in preventing illegal immigration, reports that fewer people are now trying to cross over. However, the problem of Communists possibly moving in remains as an administration headache.

It just doesn't seem right, but, that's the way it happens, sometimes.

Last week when a group of local citizens took part in the annual Salvation Army fund drive for the Mills County Unit it was pointed out that a number of times during the past year folks, who were strangers to this area, called on local business houses for donations while wearing uniforms either just like or similar to, the Salvation Army dress. This is certainly misleading to local citizens who have been in the habit of supporting the local drive because they believe in the project. Some contributed thinking they were giving to the Salvation Army.

Dan Johnston, Abilene, field representative of the Salvation Army for West Texas, was in Goldthwaite for the kick-off breakfast before the drive got underway. Mr. Johnston and W. P. Duren, chairman of the Mills County Service Unit of the Salvation Army, would like for local folks to know that the Salvation Army drive for funds is carried on only one time each year and it is then done by local committees who make the calls and receive the contributions.

As was pointed out in detail in the last issue of the paper many needy cases were given help through the local Salvation Army Service Unit during the past year. Cases that came right to the door steps of Goldthwaite and cases that really needed help. Because of that the committee appreciates the fine support from local business firms and individuals in main-

When returned she found her business establishment with a new coat of paint and new linoleum. It was almost more than she could take gracefully when she saw it, and commented as follows: "I never lived by a lovedly neighbors. We should have expected something to happen when I left the keys with Ed Dearson."

ALMOST every locality has a "little French place" these days, a restaurant where modest prices and a restricted but good menu prevail, the dishes on the homey, simple side, but nicely flavored.

Traditional Stew
One such restaurant dish, easily duplicated at home, is the traditional French meat stew, glorified by the piquant touch of stuffed olives. Serve it with green salad with an oil-and-vinegar dressing, and a crisp-crust Flavor Loaf, with fresh fruit or fruited gelatine for dessert.

To serve 4-5, have 1 lb. chuck or round of beef cut into 1-in. cubes, and brown in 2 tsp. shortening. Add 1 c. chopped onions, cook until golden brown. Add 1 c. each chopped green pepper and chopped celery; cook until tender.

Mix in Soup
Mix in 1 can condensed cream of tomato soup diluted with an equal amount of water, 1/2 c. sliced stuffed olives, tsp. salt and 1/2 tsp. pepper. Simmer in covered pan for 1 hr.; stir occasionally. Serve over boiled new potatoes.

For the bread, a fine escort for any soups, stews or goulashes, mix 1/4 c. butter or margarine with tsp. yellow mustard. Add garlic salt to taste.

Slice down a loaf of French bread in 1-in. slices, not cutting through bottom, so that loaf shape remains. Spread seasoned butter generously between bread slices.

Tie string around bread to keep intact, place on cookie sheet and warm in 350° F. oven for 5-10 min. or until thoroughly heated.

From the Near East
Here is a good recipe that makes use of leftover chicken or turkey.

Chicken Pilaf: Melt 1/2 c. butter or margarine in skillet, add 2 c. cooked rice and brown lightly. Add an undiluted can of cream of tomato soup, 1 c. diced cooked chicken or turkey, 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce, tsp. salt and 1/4 tsp. pepper. Simmer for 5 min.

Hillside Mission

By LIDA BYRNE
During distress, how many times have you said, or heard some one say: "I do not know what I am going to do?" How marvelous to realize one coming out or already emerged from that serious trouble, whether mentally, physically, financially or morally! All caused from misguided thoughts of somebody, but having endured hardships, and faith having been tested, that individual can say: "For Thou, O God, hast proved us: Thou hast tried us as silver is tried" Psalms 66:10. "But verily God hath heard me; he hath attended to the voice of my prayer, Blessed be God, which hath not turned away my prayer nor his mercy from me. Psalms 66:19, 20.

ONE STAR Agriculture

By John C. White, Commissioner

JUNE DAIRY MONTH

The world's most nearly perfect food—milk—takes the spotlight of the nation's attention during June.

Milk, which will be in abundant supply this month, can be rightfully called one of the most valuable products of the farm.

It offers some 100 different nutrients—a long list of vitamins and minerals, fats, sugar and high quality protein. In addition, milk and its many products have great taste appeal for the American public.

June is traditionally observed as "Dairy Month." It is the time of peak milk production and his year it is expected to reach near record high levels. There will be plenty for consumers to use liberally.

Milk is the basis for a whole family of dairy goods. Its family tree includes cream, buttermilk, evaporated and condensed milk products, nonfat dry milk solids, dry whole milk, ice cream, numberless varieties of cheese and butter. It has infinite variety and countless thousands of uses.

The nation's dairy industry has organized a mammoth celebration of June Dairy Month again this year. It is joined by the Texas and U. S. Departments of Agriculture in promoting consumption of this healthful food. Advantage to the consumer will be in the form of large quantities of dairy products at an economical price.

Liberal amounts of other good farm products will be promoted this month, also. Broilers and fryers may fit well into the family budget in addition to being appropriate in warm weather menus.

Citrus and citrus products such as lemons, processed orange and grapefruit products are expected to be abundant. Beef supplies continue heavy and the price should be attractive.

Others on the list include fish and related products, small prunes, raisins, rice and vegetable fats and oils.

FORMER GOLDTHWAITE RESIDENT REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

Word has been received here this week of the serious illness of Mrs. Jake Brown at her home in Weslaco. The Browns are former residents of Goldthwaite and Mills County. Mrs. Brown will be remembered as the former Russle Cornelius. Her mother, Mrs. C. F. Cornelius of the Ridge Community has gone to Weslaco to be with her daughter and family.

Josiah Keeps the Passover

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—II Chronicles 35; II Kings 23.

Josiah kept the Passover unto the Lord. They killed the Passover on the 14th day of the first month. The king set the priests to their offices and encouraged them to the service of the house of the Lord.

Josiah gave to his people thirty thousand lambs and three thousand bullocks for the sacrifice. The princes also gave the priests, Levites and the people small cattle and oxen; and the chief Levites gave Passover offerings to the Levites.

So the service was prepared and they killed the Passover. The priests sprinkled the blood from their hands, and the Levites slayed them. Then they removed the burnt offerings in pots and pans and gave them to the people.

This was the greatest Passover celebrated in Judah. Later the Egyptian king came in battle against the Assyrians. Josiah went to help the Assyrians, was shot at and wounded by Egyptian archers and died in battle. MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 122:1.

Vaccinate Chicks Via Drinking Water

COLLEGE STATION, (Spec)—Protecting chicks against Newcastle and infectious bronchitis disease is made easier when vaccines are added to the drinking water, poultry scientists at Texas A. & M. College, report.

This method of vaccination gives effective results and can mean big savings for producers. Inoculation against these common respiratory ailments usually is given by placing a drop of vaccine in the eye or nostril of each chick.

A suggested vaccination program using the drinking water method is contained in a new bulletin on the subject by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Titled "Control Poultry Diseases — A Suggested Vaccination Program For Chickens," the publication makes recommendations on vaccinating chicks for market egg or hatching flock replacement and for broiler production.

Copies of the bulletin, L-241, are available from offices of local county agents.

Deep Creek Stream Flow After Heavy Storm

Shown here is stream flow in Deep Creek following 1/2 inch rain. Same storm on adjacent Richland Creek watershed which has no flood detention structures caused some flood damage. Flood being observed here by Bob Rothe, Engineer with the Soil Conservation Service at Brady, is coming through the drawdown tube on Site 1, Deep Creek. This bridge is six miles below the flood detention structures. Flood detention structures will prolong stream flow. This picture was made twelve hours after the storm. At the time this picture was made a stream this size was still coming through the drawdown tube on site. Water continued to flow through the drawdown tube for four days.

Brown-Mills Soil Conservation News

By CHARLES HAENISCH

Flood detention structures prolong stream flow. Deep Creek in the San Saba-Brady Soil Conservation District, flowed for 4 days following a 1/2-inch rain on April 20. Large rains will discharge from flood detention structures at a much faster rate. For example, a 6-inch rain on May 17, 1955 caused Deep Creek to flow for nearly two weeks.

There was a heavy flow in the creek for several days but the creek did not get out of banks. If the flood detention structures had not been on the creek, this 6 inches of rain would have passed off down the creek in a few hours. The creek would have been out of banks and many bottom land fields would have been badly washed and a huge silt load would have been carried down the creek to be deposited down the river whenever the water slowed down.

A similar 8-inch rain on Deep Creek in 1938 did cause heavy damage to bottom land along the creek. Some fields were washed off to the depth that they had been plowed. Mr. Thorman of Mercury reported that a cultivator was washed out of his field.

What is water conservation? Water conservation is making the most effective use of water in the interest of the national economy. It means using the water that is needed for a profitable agriculture and at the same time meeting the needs of municipalities and others. It means the orderly discharge of waters from flood producing rains down the creeks and rivers in such a way that the water will not damage bottom land fields and that downstream storage reservoirs and river channels will be protected from excessive siltation.

An upstream flood prevention program coupled with a sound soil, water and plant conservation program provides for the orderly conservation of water. A soil conservation program on the land insures that rainfall will not rush off from the land in such a way that it will cause erosion damage and pick up a silt load. A conservation program will provide for the orderly disposal of excess water from fields and pastures. Detention structures will provide a temporary storage of excess rainfall until it can be released down the creeks without causing damage.

How much water will flood detention structures store? Floodwater is not stored in a flood detention structure. Its flow down the creek is just slowed down. The sediment basin of a flood detention structure will store some water. In most cases the sediment pool is designed so that 1/4-inch of runoff from the watershed will fill it. After a sediment pool has once been filled it will be very seldom that it will be completely drained. In most cases it will take but a small fraction of an inch of runoff to refill a sediment pool to capacity and cause water to be discharged through the drawdown tube.

More usable water is made available for municipalities and industries downstream by discharging water, in excess of agricultural needs, in an orderly manner. One of the greatest dangers to any water storage lake or reservoir is silt. Many storage reservoirs throughout the United States have been made completely useless by silt. An example near at home is Lake Waco. Built for municipal water supply, Lake Waco lost 20 per cent of its storage capacity to silt in 20 years time.

Holding the soil on the land where it belongs through a conservation program and controlling the flow of water in the creeks following heavy rains reduce silt loads may be a very important factor in extending the life of important water storage structures.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Weathers and Cheryl spent Memorial Holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holyfield and children in Fort Worth.

Loafing Hens Are Expensive

COLLEGE STATION, (Spec.)—A hen that lays 250 eggs a year eats only 25 to 26 pounds of feed more than one that doesn't lay an egg.

That's evidence enough why producers can't afford to feed a non-producer, says E. D. Parnell, professor of poultry husbandry at Texas A. & M. College. A four pound non-laying hen will eat about 56 pounds of feed a year, while the same bird that lays 250 eggs yearly will consume about 81 pounds.

Feed costs make up 60 per cent or more of the total cost of producing eggs, says Parnell. By culling closely, producers can cut feed costs per dozen eggs and help maintain their profits, he adds.

Go along the Roost at night with a flashlight and check the health signs of hens in production. Look for enlarged combs and wattles with a bright red color. They feel soft and waxy.

The hen's abdomen should be enlarged, but still soft and pliable. And, her pubic bones should be wide apart, with the vent, loose, moist and dilated. A good layer has loose, soft and pliable skin.

If a bird fails to meet these standards, put her in a crate and examine her again in the daylight. If she doesn't pass the test, cull her.

PARENT PROBLEMS

When Youth Refuses To Help Out at Home

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

AS nearly as I can ascertain, the typical American youth from 13 to 21, who is employed full time and lives at home, does not pay board, contribute to the family budget or help with the home drudgeries. Moreover, he rarely saves his money.

In many cases, his parents buy some or all of his clothes and cigarettes and even maintain a car for him. If they sense the injustice of his ways and tell him so, their objections only anger him. The major issue, however, is not the injustice to the parents but to the child, who is being robbed of the chance to develop self-reliance and responsibility.

Early Training

Parents, who begin in the early years to train their child to help at home and handle money wisely, may prevent these problems from arising later on.

An Ohio farmer writes: "I wonder if you would have advice for us concerning our 18-year-old son. He wants to go somewhere almost every night, and often stays out till three or four A.M. He lives at home, but refuses to pay anything for board. In the morning, he has just enough time to get to work and expects a packed lunch to be ready to take with him. If I object, he only gets cross and refuses to do anything at all for us at home."

Don't Use Force

To this letter I replied as follows: Since your son is pretty well grown, I doubt whether you can, at his age, use force to control his going out at night.

However, he should pay board or contribute in money or services to the family. And he should save money. If you are sure you can get away with it, just require him to do so; but, of course, you won't want to make him feel that he must leave home.

Talk Things Over

I believe that if you could manage to be very calm and serene, when you talk to him, he might realize that he should do his share in helping the family.

No doubt he is a very fine lad and has many good qualities that have been overlooked.

Clementine Wilmeth Briley Writes From Temporary Home In El Paso

By CLEMENTINE WILMETH BRILEY

I was so tired and sleepy last night that I went to bed at ten without writing any of the letters I had planned to write. I awoke this morning frightened at the shortness of time and resolved that today I would do some of these long-planned things. These I enumerated: I must see Edna Durham; I must get that pattern from Guanda; I must go by Bill's store and get boxes for packing. To do this I must remember to have Billy take a quarter to get his uncles at school; John must take Grace to school that we may have the car; I must get the Wednesday wash out of the way; I must call Edna and Guanda; and I must consult the city map for our routes. Johnny complicated things by deciding he didn't want to go to town. But he afterward reversed his decision which made things much easier.

We got rather a late start, but we found our way easily and we were soon at Edna Durham's on Altura Blvd. She has a nice brick home in a good part of town not far from Mount Franklin. She is a lovely person to meet. I saw no gray in her dark hair, and her complexion is smooth and creamy. I wondered how one kept so lovely through the years, for after all I remember that Chester wasn't so many years younger than I. It wasn't long till Johnny wanted to get in "Grandad's pickup caya." John went with him. Johnny kept appearing at the door and saying, "Come on, Ganny. I want to go to me Dad's Stoah."

Edna showed me her grandson's picture, who at 23 is working on his Ph.D. in science at Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa. He looks so much like Chester I could almost imagine it was he.

Not long after we came here last fall, I noticed one night at church a couple with a little girl dressed in a beautiful little blue dress. I thought, "I hope Grace knows them so I can get that pattern to make a dress for Jill." When I described them to her she said, "They are Floyd and Guanda Merritt. They were friends to Dutch and Polly when Dutch was stationed at Mineral Wells." They are lovely people to know and are doubly dear to us because they knew Dutch and Polly. We found their place all right and got the pattern. We got to Bill's store in time to get our lunch at the nearby cafe where he so often eats, but as it was Wednesday, Bill was gone to dinner at the Lion's Club. He came soon, and we got our boxes.

Down town John and Johnny went to the Plaza to see the alligators while I did a little shopping. There was quite a display of bombs in the Plaza. Some of them weighing as much as 5000 lbs. These and many other things are to be in the Armed Forces display at Fort Bliss and Biggs Air Force Base Saturday, May 21, to which the public is invited. The day's theme is "Power for Peace!" Visitors will see the Nike, the Corporal, and the Honest John guided missiles; radio-controlled aerial target planes; and protective equipment in case of atomic attack. At 9 a. m. there will be an air-to-air refueling hookup over El Paso. The demonstration will involve one of the flying service stations assigned to Briggs—the 500th KC-7 tanker and the 100th new,

I have been hearing over radio and television of rain all over Texas. Saturday I searched the Banner for news of rain. "Now that it has rained," in Mrs. Amanda Hughes's letter from Salt Creek was the only phrase I saw that gave me any hope. A friend at church Sunday night said she was at Abilene Thursday and it rained an inch and a half at Brownwood. The radio said this morning that tanks and creeks were full and running over from big rains in West Texas. John said he heard tonight (May 18) over TV that 5 inches of rain fell today in Abilene in an hour's time. Monday the Goldthwaite Eagle reported 2.05 in. at Goldthwaite and from one to two inches all over Mills County. Every newscast now reports more and more rain for Texas (We have had none in El Paso). Today a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meek near Brownwood said they had had about 2.75 in. the past week and it was still raining that night (May 17) a nice, slow rain. Verily my cup runneth over.

On the front page of the Eagle I was very sad to read of the passing of Mrs. Luther Jernigan. Luther stayed at our house so much when he was a boy that he seemed like one of the family. We have always counted him and Barbee and their wonderful family among our most beloved friends. Her passing leaves a terrible vacant place.

Goldthwaite High School Seniors Make 1955 Trip To Corpus Christi

By "CRICKET" HORTON
Twenty-seven seniors, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones, Mrs. John Elliot, and their sponsor, Mrs. George Reese, left Goldthwaite at 4:30 Friday morning, May 20, for their trip to Corpus Christi.

The bus stopped in San Antonio, where the group spent several hours touring Brackenridge Park, taking snapshots, and just relaxing. Each student had brought a food item, so the component parts were laid out and the seniors enjoyed a first class picnic for lunch.

They reached Corpus late that afternoon and checked into their hotel, the Breakers, which had a private beach and pier on the bay. The entire class went to Shopp's Grill for a seafood supper, then divided into groups for the night's activities, which included movies, miniature golf, and a tour of the amusement park.

The next morning part of the students took advantage of the chance to shop in the city while others took a swim at the hotel beach. Saturday noon found the seniors leaving the Peoples Street T-head on the excursion boat, Gulf Clipper, for an hour's ride in the bay. After lunch the seniors enjoyed a cool plunge in the swimming pool at the University of Corpus Christi and immediately departed for Padre Island, a 300-mile ribbon of sand reaching to Brownsville. It was late in the afternoon and just cool enough for riding the waves or wading in the edge of the water, looking for shells in the white sand. The group ate their picnic supper under one of the pavilions and returned to the hotel. They later enjoyed dancing at the youth center in Corpus.

Sunday morning found most of our seniors sleeping late, others enjoying an early swim before church. A large group then attended services at the Second Baptist Church and First Methodist Church. Immediately afterward the bus was packed for the return trip. Lunch was eaten at Taft and supper at the Picadilly Cafeteria in Austin.

I think most of our seniors had difficulties in getting up the next morning in time for school, but they will probably tell you that the week-end was worth the long trip and hard work.

AUSTIN, Tex. — Beer was tapped for the big pay-off as the Senate rolled out a new tax bill—expected to pour $108,000,000 in new money into the treasury in two years.

On the 137th day of an overtime session, the Senate passed a many-changed version of the House tax bill. It left the last say to the House and hoped for a quick wind up.

The bill is expected to produce $62,000,000 during the next two years, for the general revenue fund. It carried a book-keeping re-allocation feature which will give this fund $3,000,000 more from current taxes.

Thus it offered the House $9,000,000 more than the $56,000,000 required to unblock the record billion and a half dollar appropriation bill. It provides about $44,000,000 in the biennium for highway purposes.

Three round pennies will carry the brunt of the burden of the new tax structure—one cent more on gasoline and cigarettes and a new levy of a penny a bottle on beer.

In this, the sixth main version of a money bill, the Senate swung back to the House's proposal of one cent on gasoline and cigarettes. But the Senate substituted a whopping $16,000,000 a year additional tax on beer for the House's $1,000,000 a year increase on beer and wine dealers' license fees.

Final passage was voted 18 to 13. Stripped out of the Senate passed tax bill were House proposals for a levy on cigars, snuff and tobacco. Added was a token one-20th of a cent levy on "dedicated" natural gas—long-term exclusive contracts, payable by the long pipelines — and expected to produce $2,000,000. Gas pipelines were put under the intangible assets tax.

Dropped were Senate proposals for manufacturing taxes and gross receipts taxes on department stores, hotels and motels. Rejected by the Senate was a gross receipts tax on the metals and chemicals industries.

Sen. Grady Hazlewood, slender, graying member from Amarillo, emerged with the winning combination to unblock the long and confused Senate fight for new revenues.

At Friday's session, Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin, who termed himself the "coerced sponsor" of the tax measure, offered a new "in between" plan which salvaged part of Governor Allan Shivers' original recommendations and made concessions to an obdurate House.

Lock proposed a 1½ cent increase on gasoline, halfway between the two cents the governor wanted and the one cent the House voted; and 1½ cents on cigarettes; along with a 25c per $1,000 franchise tax levy on corporate stocks. It would bring in the needed $56,000,000 to the general revenue fund, he said.

Wheat Marketing Quotas For Nation Farmers Will Vote June 25 On

But Senator Hazlewood came up with his substitute and it was favored, 22 to 9, over the Lock plan.

The final vote put both House and Senate on record for a one-cent-only increase on gasoline, making the entire bill more palatable for House concurrence.

Beer industry leaders, who had successfully fought off a proposed $1.30 per barrel increase in the House and also in Senate committee (which would have raised the total rate to $3.30, or to 1c per bottle) suddenly found their industry saddled with a tax of $5.30 a barrel—or an additional 1c per bottle-tax.

VETERANS LAND
New batches of indictments against former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles were returned in Travis County. Five indictments charging theft linked B. R. Sheffield of Brady with Giles. Eight charges of forgery were made against Sheffield. Then five more indictments against Giles and Sheffield charged theft and conspiracy of theft.

A court of inquiry on Land Office affairs droned on, questioning all employees of the land office.

Giles' scheduled first trial at San Antonio, on a bribe charge, was postponed until August. Postponement was granted on an affidavit that a House member, Rep. Cecil Storey of Longview, had been employed as one of his lawyers. This was statutory grounds for postponement until 30 days after the end of a session.

Both the trial judge and the district attorney criticized the law forcing such postponement.

Rep. Dolph Briscoe, Jr. of Uvalde, author of a series of bills to clean up the veterans' land administration, immediately put in a bill to restrict employment of legislators. Briscoe's bill would limit the automatic postponement privilege to legislators hired within one week after a case or indictment was filed—or to cases where the legislator was the only attorney representing a defendant.

SHORT SNORTS

Governor Shivers vetoed a bill raising speed limits on all highways from 60 to 65 miles an hour and to 70 miles on four-lane divided highways. It would increase traffic deaths and accidents, he ruled.

In all the turmoil of the tax deadlock the House took time out to pass a constitutional amendment resolution to create mosquito tax districts.

A badly slashed Trinity River Authority bill passed the Senate. A feature was inserted to allow downriver users additional water above their old "normal flow" rights, without paying for COLLEGE STATION (Spec.)—Texas wheat farmers will join with the nation's growers June 25 to decide in a national referendum whether marketing quotas will continue in effect for their 1956 crop. The State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee urges Texas producers to participate in the vote.

"Under the present surplus situation, we are required to proclaim marketing quotas," Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson said.

"We will have almost as much wheat in the total supply after harvest this year as we had a year ago. In other words, we will have enough wheat to take care of all our domestic and export needs for two full years."

Benson has said that wheat is one of the major problems facing the Department of Agriculture this year.

Any producer in commercial areas who will plant more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in '56 is eligible to vote in the referendum. Two-thirds of the vote must favor marketing quotas before they can be put into effect.

Local voting places for the June 25 balloting will be announced for each county.

The available supply of wheat for the 1955-56 marketing year is 66 percent above the considered "normal supply." The Secretary must call for marketing quotas when the normal supply exceeds 20 percent.

In the referendum last summer, 73.3 percent of the farmers voting approved the quotas.

it.

Rep. J. O. Gillham of Brownfield won House passage of his bill to raise college registration fees from $25 to $50 a semester. But it was modified to exempt students working 20 hours or more a week. Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton promised to fight it until adjournment if taken up in the Senate.

Sen. William H. Shireman of Corpus Christi abandoned his bill requiring lobbyists to register. Opponents amended it until he said it affected public officials more than lobbyists.

Rep. J. E. Cox's "unfair sales" bill passed the Senate after it had been watered down until opponents said it was unconstitutional—but meaningless even if valid. The Conroe representative's bill was restricted to grocery stores. Its prohibition against selling below cost also prohibited a merchant from limiting sales or refusing to sell his entire stock to competitors at the advertised price. This would enable competitors to buy the bargain merchandise before housewives had an opportunity to take advantage of the advertiser's specials.

James Gilliam Honored With Party

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gilliam Jr., honored their son, James with a graduation party last Saturday night at the Hangar. All of the Juniors and Seniors in High School were invited in addition to Ex-students back for the occasion.

Rainbow garlands, Japanese lanterns and striped balloons decorated the ceiling. Large diplomas tied in the class colors, royal blue and white, and mortar board caps decorated the walls. The tea table carried out the theme of the party—"Sitting On Top Of The World" as it was centered by a graduate doll sitting on top of a globe surrounded by red roses, the class flower.

The Highlanders furnished music for the evening. About one hundred guests were present.
