Hoover Describes Crime As Threat to Security FBI Head Says It's Time We Stage United Crusade

WASHINGTON—Crime has always been a major problem to the Federal Bureau of Investigation but now FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says it's "a distinct threat" to "the security and well-being of the United States."

Unfortunately, says Hoover, many robberies, burglaries and larceny cases are being committed by young people—"boys and girls who should be training to be our leaders of tomorrow."

Now the FBI chief warns: "The time has come for every American to stop and 'take stock' of this serious situation. Crime thrives on our mistakes, weaknesses and lack of interest."

"The challenge is before us—we as a nation must roll up our sleeves and work together in a united crusade. Crime is everybody's business. To think otherwise is to abet the evil we abhor."

EXIT HUGHES?—Budget Director Rowland Hughes may be the next Eisenhower administration bigwig to leave government service.

The President is said to be more than a little irritated by Hughes' role in connection with the now defunct Dixon-Yates power contract.

Mr. Eisenhower's irritation reportedly stems from the fact that on the basis of information he had at the time, he told a news conference that Adolphe Wenzell "was never called in or asked a single thing about the Dixon-Yates contract."

Obviously, the chief executive was ill-informed, for it later developed that Wenzell did play quite an active role in the Dixon-Yates deal.

Wenzell was a consultant to the government on the contract. His firm, the First Boston Corp., later became financial agent for the private power syndicate.

The President is described as feeling that Hughes should have briefed him more thoroughly on the Wenzell matter.

ELECTIONS—Democratic politicians are confident that their party can retain control of Congress in next year's election even if President Eisenhower seeks a second term and wins re-election.

The Democrats say that, barring some unexpected upswing in GOP strength, they should be able to increase their narrow margin in the Senate and at least hold their advantage in the House.

Behind this Democratic optimism is the thinking that while President Eisenhower himself is a popular figure, the Republican party doesn't have the nationwide popularity of the Democrats.

This, of course, is disputed by the Republicans. The GOP leaders say their rank-and-file are increasing each day with Mr. Eisenhower in the White House and expect to regain a majority in both the Senate and House.

AID TO TITO—The United States may stop aid to Marshal Tito's government until Yugoslavia permits full inspection of the use of American weapons.

Yugoslavia has continually refused to allow United States military inspectors in that country to make routine checks of American military aid.

Moreover, Yugoslavia seems to be pouring oil on the fire by letting it be known it might produce Russian MIG fighters unless the Western powers allow some of their planes to be built in Yugoslavia.

The Senate appropriations committee has already recommended that United States military and economic aid to Yugoslavia be suspended until the Yugoslavs permit "continuous observation and review" of military assistance as required by the 1951 aid agreement signed by Yugoslavia.

VIC'S . . . SOLILOQUY

We have a little squib this week we want to present to our readers, especially to those who get a bit discouraged, once in a while, to help bolster their spirit when the "Going Gets Tough". Or, maybe we should say when they "think" the going gets tough.

It is entitled "Don't Give Up" and was presented to us by Mayor William G. Yarborough. Here it is:

DON'T GIVE UP When things get tough, when the companies reject your business; when collections fall off and company balances are overdue; when your feet start to drag. . . . Just perk up. . . think of all the setbacks ABRAHAM LINCOLN had before he finally reached the top. . . . Here are some of them:

Table with 2 columns: Year and Event. Includes: Failed in business 1831, Defeated for Legislature 1832, Failed in business again 1833, Elected to Legislature 1834, His sweetheart died 1835, Had a nervous breakdown 1836, Defeated for Speaker 1838, Defeated for Elector 1840, Defeated for Land Officer 1843, Defeated for Congress 1843, Elected to Congress 1846, Defeated for Re-election 1848, Defeated for Senate 1855, Defeated for Vice President 1856, Defeated for Senate 1858, FINALLY ELECTED PRESIDENT 1860.

So keep plugging. . . Don't Let little adversities get the best of you.

A news story from Shawnee, Oklahoma, says: "Bobbie Jeanette Blackburn, junior, from Wilburton, is among the 125 Oklahoma Baptist University students who qualified for the Dean's Honor Roll for the spring semester, 1955, Dr. L. E. Solomon, dean and registrar, has announced.

To qualify for the Dean's Honor Roll, a student must have been enrolled in not less than 12 hours of academic work and have made at least an average of B on all work, with no grade below C."

Bobbie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Blackburn and finished high school here in Goldthwaite and then attended both Tarleton State College and Howard Payne before moving to Wilburton, Oklahoma.

There was a time when several men with their teams of horses, or span of mules, were kept busy in towns the size of ours. That time seems to have passed by. Brown-Mills Soil Conservation News

By CHARLES HAENISCH

Ranges that have been deferred in the summer and fall are showing signs of improvement even during the droughty conditions that have existed the past several years. V. C. Bradford, who owns farmland northeast of Goldthwaite, reports the grass in good condition in the pasture that has been resting for the past three months.

Several years ago when Bradford purchased this place, the grasses in all the pastures were in poor condition. A deferment program was started in the back pasture, it having the least amount of brush present. As a result of those deferments the grass has improved. Fifteen to twenty different kinds of the better grasses were found in the pasture. Some areas where extra protection was available, the grass was over waist high.

Mr. Bradford stated that at one time he had planned to do some pitting or build some small dikes to hold the water that fell. With the amount of grass cover present on the pasture now very little of the water that falls gets away.

This one pasture has shown Brad that with a little help from the landowner ranges can be brought back to a productive state.

During the past few years co-operators of the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District have seeded many acres of grass which have never produced a seedling. Lowell Burkes, near Caradan, tells of seeding King Ranch bluestem on his farm three years ago. During these three years he has been unable to find any K. R. plants in the seeded area. Since the spring and summer rains this year Lowell is noticing small seedlings appearing in the seeded area. Upon closer examination these plants are proving to be K. R. plants from the seed planted three years ago.

Burkes says that he has waited three years but looks as if he is now getting a stand of King Ranch bluestem on the area.

Last week technicians of the Soil Conservation Service laid out terraces on the Oran Carothers farm at Pleasant Grove, the C. A. Faulkner farm east of Goldthwaite, and the Ray Standley farm northeast of Goldthwaite. These terraces are being built on cultivated fields to protect the fields from sheet and gully erosion. These terraces are being built as a part of the conservation plan each of these co-operators with SCS technicians of the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District. County Sponsors O. H. Shaw, No. 1 and Fred Wallis, No. 2 are building the

Planting Of Winter Pastures Is Advised To Relieve Price-Squeeze

College Station.— Generally, moisture conditions are on the upgrade in most sections of the state and prospects for fall and winter pasture crops are good. This, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, should be all of the encouragement farmers and livestock producers need to get in a record acreage of winter crops.

Winter pastures, he says will help relieve the price-cost squeeze which continues to get tighter. Too, they provide minerals, vitamins and needed protein; make possible a rest period for permanent pastures; supply the green grazing needed when summer pastures are dormant and probably most important, cut the cost of wintering livestock.

Too, from the standpoint of soil protection and improvement, winter pastures are a paying proposition. The cover protects the soil from wind and water erosion and the roots and residue add organic matter to the soil.

When planting time rolls around, Trew says, plant earlier planting means earlier grazing even in the case of dry planting. The specialist recommends that soil samples be submitted to the soils testing lab from the fields to be planted and that the fertilizer use recommendations from the laboratory be followed.

Trew likes to use a combination of grasses and a legume.

The total production is often increased, the forage is higher in protein and minerals and the grazing season is frequently extended when a combination is used.

The small grains, oats, rye, barley and in some areas wheat are the best bets for winter grazing. Italian ryegrass does well in East Texas, the Gulf Coast region and in the Blackland and Grand Prairie areas. Vetch, crimson clover, Hubam and Madrid sweetclover are among the legumes which can be grown successfully in combination with the grasses. Trew suggest contacting the local county agent for information on the best combination for a particular area.

The legume seed should be inoculated before planting. The cost is small compared with the returns and benefits from good inoculation.

Finally, asks the specialist, why not use winter grazing crops to lower the production costs of meat and milk; cut labor requirements for handling livestock and for building and protecting the soil on your farm?

New Flavors For Punch

— ALICE DENHOFF —

TO the golden gift of packaged orange juice, that keeps all its healthful elements and flavor under refrigeration, has been added packaged fresh grapefruit juice. These two offer wonderful bases for cool, refreshing and healthful punches.

Spiced Version

Then there is that perennial favorite,iced coffee. And here is a sophisticated, spiced version of it for that special occasion.

To 6 c. double-strength, freshly made hot coffee, add 5 in. of stick cinnamon and 20 whole cloves. Hold just under the boiling point for 5 min. Strain. Pour over cracked ice and serve with sugar and cream as desired.

A spiced syrup with an orange juice base is an excellent standby to be kept handy in the refrigerator and used with orange juice and other fruit juices to make cooling beverages.

Ground Ginger

To make the spiced syrup, just boil together 1 c. sugar, a spice bag containing 1/2 tsp. each ground cloves, and ground ginger and 1 1/2 c. boiling water.

The syrup will keep indefinitely under refrigeration, by the way.

The tantalizing aroma and flavor of cloves adds something different to that old summer standby, lemonade. The syrup may be prepared in advance and refrigerated indefinitely.

Mix 1 pint water, 1 1/2 c. lemon juice, tsp. whole cloves and 2 c. sugar. Bring slowly to boiling point then boil for 2 min.

Add Mint

To prepare lemonade, use 3 tbsp. of this mixture to each tumbler, filling it up with water and ice. Mint or lemon slices may be added for individual service.

Spiced milk is something else that is a bit different. It is also something that youngsters enjoy.

Heat 2 c. sweet milk but do not let it boil. Add 2 tsp. sugar, tiniest dash of salt, and 1/2 tsp. each nutmeg and cinnamon. Beat until spices are blended with the milk.

This may be served cold or warm.

Highlights And Sidelights On The U. S. Development Of Atomic Energy

(The following is the last of a series of seven articles disclosing the highlights and sidelights which have accompanied the nation's development of atomic energy. Prepared at the Hanford atomic energy plant, the series deals with the human things which followed in the wake of the first historic announcement that man had harnessed the atom. It touches upon the things which lie ahead.)

BY BILL JURY
General Electric News Bureau
Hanford Atomic Plant

Industry has come a long way down the strange, fantastic new highway of the Atomic Age; down a route to which there may be no end; to the creation of a standard of living beyond comprehension in today's world.

On a national scale, the atomic energy industry has done a lot of maturing since its beginning during World War II. It has settled down from a "crash" project—full of unknowns, slated to last no longer than the war which gave birth to it—to a business, based on well-understood principles, operating on clearly defined long-range plans. The atomic energy plant at Hanford, Washington is a good illustration of the change.

Built in a life-and-death race with time, the first atomic reactors and separations plants at Hanford, though primitive by today's standards, have since been called an engineering marvel.

Much of the research and development work behind improvements revealed by the Atomic Energy Commission's semi-annual reports to Congress was performed in laboratories located at Hanford. The lab work still is in progress—aimed at finding further improvements.

Eventually, the production of electric power will be the economic basis of a strong privately owned and operated atomic industry, some experts believe. And it is expected that the rapidly growing atomic energy industry will grow still larger as private industry moves into it.

The atomic energy program now includes around $5 million worth of plant facilities and will, within a few years, represent an investment of more than $8 million. Hanford, the plutonium-producing plant operated by General Electric company for the Atomic Energy Commission, already has become a billion-dollar plant.

The atomic industry has been described as some of high investment per employee and low investment turnover. Its similarity in financial characteristics to the utility industry makes it necessary that it have a steady, predictable market for what it produces if it is to be run successfully by private companies.

Electric power is held as the only answer, for the weapons market is subject to too much fluctuation.

Because the nation is using electricity in ever-increasing quantities (the demand doubles about every 10 or 15 years), atomic power not only is regarded as the answer to the growth of a healthy, privately owned atomic industry, but as a welcome addition to the conventional sources of power.

From the point of view of world supply of energy, the utilization of atomic energy is becoming a "must."

GE's top atomic official has predicted that privately financed atomic power plants will compete successfully with conventional power plants in five to 10 years.

Francis K. McCune, general manager of the GE Atomic Products Division, recently fore-

Harry Smith Returns From Fifth Season Of Attending Camp Sweeney

Harry Smith son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith of Goldthwaite has been attending the most unique summer camp in the Southwest. This camp is located 9 miles east of Gainesville, Texas, and only children who have diabetes are accepted.

There are many popular misconceptions about diabetes, but the boys and girls who come to Camp Sweeney learn how to care for themselves through normal diet, proper exercise, and the user of insulin, to the point where they live normal healthy lives. No amount of medical care can replace the psychological value of the campers' association with other diabetic children. They are taught a philosophy of living. Campers who have spent several semesters at Camp Sweeney have little or no time lost from school because of diabetes, for in addition to knowing how to keep themselves properly regulated, they also know when to report to their physician to avert serious illness.

The Southwestern Diabetic Foundation, which sponsors Camp Sweeney, is a non-profit organization. It was formed six years ago, with Dr. J. Shirley Sweeney, of Dallas, Texas, as head of the medical staff and Mr. James V. Campbell as Camp Director.

During the months of June, July and August of the six years, the camp has cared for some 1000 diabetic children. Campers are not selected on their ability to pay, but on their need for the camp.

The Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce has been active in the support of the camp, and other service clubs have sponsored different individuals. No diabetic child is turned away from Camp Sweeney because of lack of funds.

In addition to diet classes, medical lectures, and personal counseling about diabetes, Harry had the benefit of Camp Sweeney's recreational facilities. The 400 acre camp area has a 23 acre lake, numerous horse trails with a string of 18 horses, instruction in riflery and archery, boating and fishing, swimming, water skiing, horse back riding, arts and crafts, photography and square dancing. In addition to a full complement of qualified counselors, there are two doctors and a nurse on duty at all times.

This is the fifth summer that Harry has attended Camp Sweeney, along with boys and girls from 22 states, Canada and Alaska. Any child, boy or girl, from the age of 6 to 18, who has diabetes may attend Camp Sweeney.

Mrs. Pearl Favens of Wood is visiting her sister, J. B. McCasland, Mr. McCasland and other relatives here.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

LIFE GUARD MARSHAL OTEY WALKER'S MIDSUMMER DREAM—AT THE ICE-HOUSE POND

News Of The Ebony Community

By CLEMENTINE WILMETH BRILEY

We went to town Wednesday morning, and went immediately to Medical Arts Hospital to find out about Mrs. Edna Dwyer. We were informed that she was in the operating room. Her daughter, Mrs. Austin Cawyer, and Mrs. Jim Wilmeth, nurse, were making her room immaculate. Flowers had already arrived from Austin Ave. Church of Christ and from friends. When we returned later Mrs. Dwyer was in her room, but the operation had been rather long and tedious and she was having a bad time. Her daughter was there with constant attention, and nurses were passing in and out doing everything possible to make her more comfortable. As we came home in the evening, at every place neighbors ran out to ask how she was. I thought in the language of Stephen C. Foster, "Kind hearts and gentle people."

Now that we are on the last lap of our summer at home, many things present themselves for accomplishment. I had planned a lot of sewing. And there was that cherished plan to make over the soil of my flower beds that I might grow the things I wanted. The nurseryman told me I needed sand, some barnyard manure, and nitrogen fertilizer to mix with my tight clay. I have plenty of sand near, but where was the strength to make it available? To haul it by tub full in the little wagon did not seem feasible. I decided to try the car. I did not dare tell John. He was cutting cockle burs on the creek. I waited till he was good gone. I got the car out. I tried the two extra keys to open the back of the car. Neither would fit. I tried the switch key. It worked. I loaded in the containers and gave the turtle a downward push with the key still in my hand. It went down with a bang, locked itself, and caught fast the end of the key folder. There I was with a locked turtle and no key. I pulled till I finally got it loose, but I had torn the leather folder and pulled out a rivet. I feared what the husband might say. I went to the chicken house and loaded with sand we had used for litter. The car was a vast improvement over the little wagon. I decided I might sew the key folder back together. One tiny piece was missing. I found it on the car. It seemed almost as good as before. When John came, he didn't scold, but unloaded the sand for me.

In spite of unfinished work, John and I suddenly decided we would take off for Beaumont Friday to see Ruth. A card from her urging us to come Thursday hurried us up. Wednesday night when I went to take my medicine, it couldn't be found. I had had it in town that day. Where could I have left it? John said, "I guess we had better make a trip to town after it tomorrow and not go to Beaumont till Friday." I said, "Why can't we go by Brownwood in the morning then we can see how Edna is, and we can go from there to Beaumont." This we did.

I was unhappy to find my watch stopped. I decided secretly I would go by Nathan's. John would hardly let me out. The man came to my rescue at once, and soon it was ticking merrily. There was no charge. I almost lost hopes of finding my medicine as I went from Renfro's to The Peerless, to Waisman's, to Penny's with no results. At last at the office at Woolworth's there it was. At the hospital we found Mrs. Dwyer better than she was the day before, but still suffering quite a bit. Mrs. Cecil Eger was with her. Daughter Opal is with her day and night.

Though we were rejoicing over rain at home Monday and Tuesday—about altogether 2.6 inches had fallen at Brownwood, but as we came in town that morning water was standing everywhere. When at 10:30 we left for Beaumont, the skies looked rainy. Showers fell before we reached Goldthwaite, and off and on throughout the day. Sometimes it poured. Twice the sun came out. It was a day to glorify the countryside. Its beauty was intoxicating. That country from Goldthwaite to Star and beyond with its level farms, distant hills, and wide expanse of view was more beautiful than I had remembered.

Then came the tall oaks country. Sometimes wooded jungles as uninhabitable as the desert on the way to El Paso. Then our road ran for miles and miles, a ribbon of concrete, between the beautiful, stately pines. We went the Waco-Woodville route. And following Daughter Ruth's card of explicit directions, we arrived at the Mitchell home in Beaumont about seven o'clock.

Goldthwaite visited Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Partridge and Juanita Monday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Jerry Griffin and Rev. Hagen were guests for lunch with Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Partridge and Juanita Wednesday.

Mrs. Preston Slaughter and Bobby visited Mrs. Alma Sutherland and children last Friday.

Miss Joan Featherston and Miss Alice Sparkman of Fort Worth also Mr. and Mrs. Coy Featherston and daughter were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Featherston.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Trotter, Mrs. Don Piper and Suzanne visited Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Partridge and Juanita late Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Partridge were business visitors in Brownwood Tuesday.

Mattie Casbeer of Brownwood spent last week with her sister, Mrs. E. L. Pass and Mr. Pass.

Mrs. R. B. Hannah of Junction is a guest of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Linkenhoger.

Social Security Information As Effecting Farmers And Farmhands

BY JAMES B. MARLEY
District Manager of the Austin, Texas social security office.

Today—and every day—more and more farmers and farmhands and people who earn a living in other kinds of agricultural activity are asking us whether they will get social security credits for their work.

In farming, just as in most other kinds of work, earnings can count toward old-age and survivors insurance benefits only if you are "employed" or "self-employed."

By and large, most persons whose living is derived from some kind of agricultural work are now covered by social security. They may be covered as "employed" or "self-employed" people. While it is fairly easy to tell whether a person engaged in commerce or industry, or one of the covered professions, works for himself or is a wage or salary earner, the arrangements under which farming is done are often more complicated. For this reason, I am going to devote this series of brief articles to the several conditions which apply to farm work in relation to social security.

In the articles to follow, I shall discuss separately the various arrangements under which farming is done. Right now, however, I want to make a general statement. You are building toward old-age and survivors insurance as a self-employed farmer if you work a farm as owner, lessee, or renter and have net earnings of $400 or more in a year.

In my next article, I shall discuss in detail the various farming arrangements under which a person gets social security credits as a self-employed farmer.

THE GOAT GAME: TEXAS' BIG MONEY MAKER

Some of the most interesting and vital work in the Texas Department of Agriculture is accomplished out of the capitol building in Austin and over the various parts of the state.

I had such a gratifying experience recently when departmental work took me to Kerrville for a conclave of one of our least recognized but most successful agricultural industries in Texas—the International Angora Goat Show and Auction.

Let me say right here that if you haven't been to a Texas goat auction, you've missed some real excitement. There's nothing more true-Texan than this industry.

Goats are a big business in our state. The industry actually originated here, and Texas today raises 95 per cent of the nation's commercial supply.

Why goats? Well, as you may not know, mohair—the clipping from the goat's back—is a big money product with a good demand on the market. Mohair is now bringing 85 to 95 cents a pound, somewhat below the peak of a few years ago, but still a real money-maker.

Also, the cost of raising these hollow-horned creatures is relatively low. In the Edwards Plateau and Rio Grande Plain of Southwest Texas where most Texas goats are concentrated, the brush affords ample browsing range. And goats are not averse to crowded conditions. Several can do well on the space required for a single cow.

But back to the Angoras—"queens" of the goat fleet. Two prize Angoras at the Kerrville show brought $1,000 each—a lot of money for a small animal. Those goat raisers showed me a phase of the livestock industry which I had thought was gone forever—real old-time stock trading. I stood around and watched with amazement as they swapped their animals just like youngsters trade marbles.

There were some three or four thousand people at the show, and all of them swelling with enthusiasm over their business. And well they might be! Because goat raisers, socially placed at the bottom of the livestock scale, are economically at the top alongside the sheep industry. The glamorous (and of course vital) cattle industry isn't paying off as well these days. A lot of cattle raisers are running sheep and goats to make up money losses in cattle.

And besides that, the queen of the industry, "Miss Angora" Nancy Hunt of Leakey is proof enough the goat raisers know what they're about. Personally, I think the livestock industry ought to erect a monument to goats. They're certainly keeping a lot of heads above the water.

Soil And Water Conservation Loans Available To Mills County Farmers

Soil and water conservation loans are available to eligible farmers in Mills County, Aston W. Cole, County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration said this week.

The loans may be made to carry out measures for soil conservation, water development, conservation, and use, and drainage. This will include the construction and repair of terraces, dikes, ditches, ponds and tanks, the establishment and improvement of permanent pastures, application of fertilizer, well drilling, and the purchase of pumps and other irrigation equipment.

Applications for Soil and Water Conservation loans will be made at the office of the Farmers Home Administration located in Lampasas, Texas, or at the Farmers Home Administration sub-office located in Goldthwaite, Texas.

The 3-member county committee of the Farmers Home Administration will certify the eligibility of applicants. Applications from veterans will receive preference in processing.

Loans will be made to carry out only the types of soil and conservation practices that are in accord with the recommendations made by the Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

Soil and Water loans will not be available for annual recurring costs that are generally considered as farm operating expense.

To be eligible for a soil and water conservation loan, a farmer must have sufficient experience or training to indicate that he has reasonable prospects of conducting successful farming operations and be unable to obtain the necessary credit on reasonable terms and conditions from private and cooperative sources.

The loans will be scheduled for repayment within the shortest period consistent with the ability of the borrower to repay. No loan will be scheduled for repayment over a period which exceeds the useful life of the improvement or the security, whichever is less. In no case will the repayment period on loans to individuals exceed 20 years. Each borrower will be required to refinance unpaid balance of his loan when he is able to obtain a loan at reasonable rates and terms from other services.

Individuals can borrow up to $25,000. It is expected that the average loan to a farmer will be less than $5,000. All loans will be secured by the best lien obtainable on chattels or real estate to the extent necessary to adequately protect the Government's interest.

Applicants will obtain whatever technical assistance they need from the Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, other agencies, individuals and firms. Technical assistance of this sort from the Farmers Home Administration will be limited to a review of the engineering and economic soundness of the improvement to be financed. The Farmers Home Administration will also take whatever steps are necessary to make sure that loans are used for authorized purposes and that the construction carried on with loan funds meets required standards.

When necessary, farmers who use loans funds to finance major land adjustments and extensive reorganization of their farm business will receive assistance from the county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration in the development and execution of sound farm and home plans.

Floyd Medfords Entertain Guests

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Yeager, Keith and Don of Levelland; Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Medford, Jackie, O'Daniel Tyson and Gary Gummelt of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. By VERN SANFORD Texas Press Association

Austin, Texas— Despite "go slow" warnings from top state officials, 28 or more Texas schools have announced plans for complete or partial racial intergration.

Gov. Allan Shivers, is setting up a statewide advisory committee, cautioned against "hasty, ill-advised action." Earlier Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd had warned schools against "rushing headlong" into desegregation ahead of legislative action.

Though the Texas Education Agency makes no recommendations to schools, it is keeping tab on locally-decided policies. Its file of newspaper clippings from over the state shows that about 36 schools have definite plans, either pro or con.

In numerous other districts studies are being made by bi-racial committees. Questionnaires are measuring sentiment in some areas.

Texas Citizens Councils, similar to an anti-integration organization in Mississippi, have sprung up in some East Texas areas. Dallas and Kilgore have councils pledged to "fight desegregation by every legal means."

Austin last week was the largest city with a high percentage of Negro students to plan intergration this fall. It will begin in the top three grades which are 15 per cent Negro. A liberal transfer policy is expected to ease adjustment.

San Antonio, with 7.7 per cent Negro students, is the largest school system to plan immediate intergration. All grades will be included here.

Other towns adopting immediate, across-the-board intergration include Corpus Christi, Lubbock, San Angelo, El Paso, Crystal City, Carrizo Springs, LaFeria, Mission and Brownsville.

More popular is a partial desegregation policy, such as Austin's. It begins usually on the high school level with a staggered schedule for lower grades.

Cities favoring this include San Marcos, Robstown, Bishop, Port Lavaca, Brownwood, Kerrville, Weslaco, Harlingen, Sinton, Amarillo, Kingsville, Friona, Rockport, Aransas Pass, Karnes City, Kenedy and Runge.

When it hears of a school planning to desegregate, the Education Agency writes local officials for a blueprint of the plan. These are made available

VACCINE SHIPMENT EXPECTED

Arrival of 50,838 shots of Salk polio vaccine was expected by the State Health Department this week.

This is part of Texas allotment of 1,177,069 shots is addition to the vaccine given free to first and second grade school children.

Under the "volunteer control" plan adopted by the State Polio Vaccine Committee, 83 per cent will be allocated for commercial use, 17 per cent for public agencies.

This week's shipment was to come from the Wyeth Laboratories in Marietta, Pa.

Meanwhile, Health Department's increase. Forth-five new cases were reported during the past week, bringing the 1955 total to 939.

Of the victims 45 had received Salk vaccine.

CROP PROSPECTS IMPROVE August predictions for 1955 Texas farm production, though improved since early summer, fell below 1954 figures.

US Department of Agriculture forecasts showed a probable cotton crop of 3.9 million bales—one per cent lower than 1954.

But the prospective 278-pound yield per acre is the highest since 1866. Improved soil moisture, irrigation and new yield-increasing practices by growers are credited for the high figure.

Texas cotton acreage is nearly one million acres less than for 1954.

Widespread summer rains have upped the estimated wheat crop by more than two million bushels. In June the U S D A forecast a total of 11,883,000 bushels; by August the figure was raised to 14,212,000.

Even with the improved outlook the 1955 crop will be less than half that in 1954.

High yields of hay also were foreseen as a result of showers. Sorghum, corn and peanuts were aided.

On the unfavorable side, rains delayed insect control programs and created a critical problem in cotton fields.
