Bertha Weathers And J. Y. Tullos Have Announced For Re-Election

Mrs. Bertha Weathers, county treasurer, and J. Y. Tullos, justice of the peace, have authorized the Eagle to announce their candidacies for re-election to their respective office subject to the primary election.

This brings the total to three candidates who have entered the field in Mills county. First to announce last week was Walter A. "Toby" Bryant who announced for re-election to the office of county-district clerk.

In announcing for re-election to the office of county treasurer Mrs. Weathers made this statement: "I want to express my appreciation to the people of Mills county for their cooperation as I have tried to faithfully serve them as county treasurer. I have served in this office to the best of my ability and I shall continue to do so in the future. It is on that basis that I am soliciting their support during the coming primary election as I make my bid for re-election to the office."

Mr. Tullos issued the following statement: "To the people of precinct one and all of Mills county. I am writing you this letter and asking you to elect me for a second term as your justice of the peace. I am sure I have made mistakes for which I am sorry, but I really do appreciate your co-operation, and your friendship above all, and if elected I will do the best I can. With best wishes for you all and a good new year." Your friend, Jess Tullos.

There are seven offices to be filled during the coming election on a county, or precinct, basis in addition to school trustees and city mayor and councilmen. These offices are: county-district clerk, county treasurer, county judge, county commissioner in precincts two and four, county surveyor and justice of the peace, precinct one.

School trustees will be elected in each of the districts in the county and for the county school board.

In the city election three councilmen and the mayor are up for election.

Dr. M. A. Childress Re-Appointed City Health Officer

Dr. M. A. Childress was re-appointed city health officer for the year 1958 by the city council meeting in regular session Monday night. He had served in the same capacity during the past year.

Other matters to come before the council was approval to build a new entrance to the firemen's quarters in the north side of the city building. The door will be placed where there is now a window. This will give members of the volunteer fire department an entrance to their quarters without having to open the large overhead door at the fire station.

Regular bills were allowed and the treasurer's report was presented and approved.

John L. Patterson Announces For Re-Election To Office

John L. Patterson, county judge and ex-officio school superintendent, has authorized the Eagle to announce his candidacy for re-election subject to the primary election. He will have a statement in the next issue of the Eagle.

Mills County WCID Directors Hold Organizational Meeting

Directors of the Mills County Water Control and Improvement District Number 1 held their first organization meeting Tuesday, December 31, in the Commissioners' courtroom in Mills County courthouse. The first order of business was election of officers. The following were named, Jim Soules, chairman; Homer McCasland, vice-chairman; and Sherwood Owens, secretary. Directors took the oath of office and made bond.

The board discussed the watershed program in general and made plans for holding a number of community meetings to discuss the program with local land owners. If local interest develops as it now appears an election will be called by the board for sometime in February. The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Wednesday, January 15. If the board decides to call the election at that meeting it will be held within 30 days.

It was also agreed by board members and voted that should the election be called for confirmation or rejection of the action by the Commissioners' court to create the district, then the board will also include in the same election the matter of approving $5,000 in bonds for the district. This would save much time for the local district and would also eliminate an additional election for approving the bond issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Marshall of Lubbock were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laughlin. They also visited in the home of Walter Fairman.

SOLILOQUY

"Courage Mounteth With Occasion"

More than three hundred years ago the great Francis Bacon wrote: "The virtue of prosperity is temperance; the virtue of adversity is fortitude; which in morals is the more heroic virtue."

A few weeks ago the Vice President of the United States held a press conference, directly following the failure of this country's first attempt at launching an earth satellite. Mr. Nixon said: "Sure we failed. We have before and we will again. But we need to keep our sense of proportion. We haven't overnight lost our scientific know-how, our ability to get things done. . . Let's get away from our weeping walls and act like Americans. We've got work to do. Let's get on with it like Americans."

There is a great gulf of time and language between these two quotations. But both of them stem from the same attitude—the same outlook on life and the demands of life.

Some Americans met the Russian scientific success in ostentatious style—by trying to ignore them or by deprecating them. Some, at the other extreme, reacted with panic and despair—and all-is-lost attitude. They showed themselves lacking in "the virtue of adversity" of which Francis Bacon wrote. Or they went to the "weeping walls" of which Richard Nixon spoke.

But these people were very much in the minority. The great majority of Americans fully understand that there is work to do and we must get on with it.

Russia has been showing the world some of the fruits of a harsh materialistic system. Her achievements—and only a fool will now try to minimize them—have been brought about by force. The abilities of people are carefully, efficiently and rigorously channeled into whatever avenues best serve the purpose of the state. The rewards for success are often very great; the penalties for failure are often extremely severe. In any event, the individual has small command over his own destinies. The state makes the important decisions and provides the directions.

Can a free people rival and surpass the achievements of such a system—and still keep their freedom, their traditions, and their national heart and soul?

History tells us that we can. Time and time again the forces of freedom have defeated the forces of tyranny.

But the exact opposite also has occurred. Great civilizations have fallen to barbarian hordes. This has happened when those civilizations grew soft and sleek, contented and slack, immersed in luxury and degenerate in character. It has happened when faith was lost in principles and institutions that led to greatness—to be replaced by overwhelming cynicism. It has happened, in sum, when fortitude did not come out of adversity, when defeatism prevailed, and citizens turned to the "weeping walls."

We do not yet know the extent of the efforts that will be needed to build and to maintain the strength necessary for survival. But we do know that they will be great, and future events may demonstrate that they will be greater than anyone realizes now. The burden will fall upon all—on industry, labor, government. Restraint and wisdom will be needed by all—the national interest must come ahead of self-interest. But no one should look on this burden with distaste or fear. The times have brought challenge and opportunity—and a people which value freedom and honor will rise voluntarily and in full willingness to meet the challenge and exploit the opportunity.

Here another thing that was said many centuries ago is perfectly in keeping. Shakespeare put it into the mouth of one of his characters: "Courage mounteth with occasion." The occasion is at hand. We must now prove our courage.

Senator Johnson's Chances For Nomination Now Dead? | Plea for Scrapping 40-Hour Week Seen Fatal Boomerang

By HENRY CATHCART
Central Press Washington Writer

WASHINGTON—Political insiders say that Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson virtually killed any chances he may have had of winning the 1960 presidential nomination when he called for scrapping of the 40-hour week. While the Texan has never said he would seek the nomination, he had strong support in the South and was being prominently mentioned as a possibility to head the Democratic ticket in 1960.

Senator Johnson

However, Johnson's recent speech in Texas urging a step-up in the work week to meet Russia's missile challenge has brought down upon his head the wrath of organized labor. Political strategists point out that no Democrat has a chance of being the party's presidential candidate when he is opposed by labor, which in recent years has supported the Democratic nominee.

It was labor opposition that killed off the late Alben W. Barkley's presidential ambitions in 1952. Union leaders refused to accept him on the grounds he was too old, and Barkley withdrew from the picture.

RED AIMS—The formal signing of the big economic agreement between Russia and Syria was viewed in Washington as further evidence that the Middle East country is becoming a Red satellite. Officials feel that the words uttered by Syria's defense minister, Khaled El Azem, will backfire to his sorrow. He said the agreement "frees us from dependence on imperialist powers," a direct reference to the West. It is felt that it will not be too long before Russia will start putting the pressure on Syria for its "pound of flesh."

There are hundreds of Russian military technicians in Syria ostensibly to train the Syrian army in the use of Soviet weapons. Washington officials said, however, that their real purpose is to prepare the ground for subversive actions aimed at eventual control of Syria.

FEDERAL INFORMATION—Many long-time newsmen in Washington, who normally advocate the fullest measure of information from government agencies, are beginning to wonder privately if sometimes the federal press agents aren't working overtime. One case in point is the delay in the first American attempt to launch an earth satellite. Newsmen—as well as some politicians—felt that the United States took a beating from too much advance expectation of the event which had to be postponed for a short time.

Another example is Mr. Eisenhower's minor stroke. The confusion which resulted from the first partial information about his "chill" and the later announcement that he had suffered a cerebral occlusion could have been averted, they believe, if conscientious press agents had withheld information until the report was complete.

LITTLE ROCK AFTERMATH—The efforts of Rep. Brooks Hays (D), Arkansas, to ease the Little Rock school crisis has endangered the moderate southerner's seat in Congress.

Arkansas politicians report that emotions raised in the tense integration problem last autumn have made it almost impossible for southern middle-of-the-roads—such as Hays, Little Rock's congressman—to take any but the extremist white supremacy view. Hays was the go-between for Gov. Orval Faubus and President Eisenhower in the effort to solve the racial dispute. In the end, he failed and the President ordered federal troops to Little Rock. The congressman, one of the most respected members in the House of Representatives and a former delegate to the United Nations, is also being hurt politically by his close personal ties to members of the White House staff, particularly his friendship with former Congressman Sherman Adams, the President's chief aide.

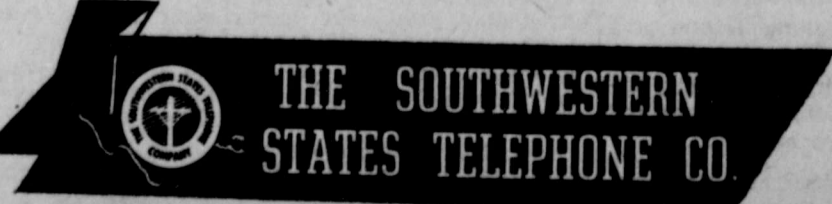

However, Hays is doing his best to prepare himself for what he expects to be a battle with an all-out segregationist by seeking White House help in getting politically-valuable flood control projects in his district.

Center City News By MRS. JOE GREEN (Delayed)

Christmas has come and gone but it did not seem like Christmas to us. My grandmother Yates passed away at 3 o'clock December 24 and our good friend and neighbor Joe Wild, was accidentally shot and killed while deer hunting. I attended his funeral at High Valley Church the 27th of December. Also Herman Collier's baby was buried during the Christmas Holidays. So all of our friends and family were attending funerals during the holidays. This is the first time in my life that we have had a death in our family on Christmas. Death is always sad and it seems more so at Christmas.
My sister, Mrs. Weldon Gatlin of San Antonio spent Christmas Eve night with us.
My step Dad, Luther Bailey hasn't been doing any good. He has had two bad heart attacks the last few days. We all hope he is better soon.
Floyd Green had a Christmas Eve supper at his house. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Green and family of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Green, Floy and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Sauers, Mr. and Mrs. Ace Kincheloe and girls, Llano; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green and Eva Pate; Mrs. Weldon

Services were conducted by Rev. Walter J. Cartwright, pastor of the church. Further services were held in the Robert Massie Funeral Chapel, San Angelo, Texas, January 2. Dr. B. O. Wood, Presbyterian minister and a former pastor of Mr. Hodges', conducting. Burial was in the Fairmont Cemetery, San Angelo, under the direction of the Roy Wilkins Funeral Home of Goldthwaite.

Mr. Hodges was born May 25, 1892 in Wingate, Texas, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Hodges. He passed away suddenly at his home in Goldthwaite December 30, 1957. He had been in ill health for some time. He was in the ranching business in San Angelo until 1921, when he became associated with Gulf Oil Corporation and was Gulf Distributor here until his death. He moved to Goldthwaite with his family from San Angelo in 1931. He had been a member of the Presbyterian Church since the age of 19.

On October 8, 1919 he was united in marriage with Miss Alma Albertal of San Angelo. Thomas, Fort Worth; also a multitude of friends.

About Your Social Security

QUESTION: I worked for a dozen or more different farmers last year. I was never paid over $25 to $50 by any one farmer and never worked over a week or ten days at one place. Is it possible for me to pay my own social security?

ANSWER: No. Only a self-employed person may report his earnings and pay his own social security tax. Since you worked for wages you were not self-employed. There is no way for you to get credit for these wages you earned from so many different farmers as these small amounts are not covered in the case of farm labor. To have farm wages count towards social security you must be paid as much as $150 cash wages by a farm employer in a year or work for him on 20 or more different days in a year for wages figured on a time basis.

QUESTION: I am 72 years old and am drawing social security benefits. I recently went back to work. I have good health and intend to keep on working if I can. The man I work for says he has to hold out social security tax from my pay, but I think I am too old to pay social security. Who is right about it?

ANSWER: Your employer is right. There is no "age limit" on social security coverage. The social security tax must be held out no matter how old the worker may be. Of course, you get credit for all this work, too.

ONE STAR Agriculture

By John C. White, Commissioner

20TH CENTURY GOAL—INSECT ERADICATION

Have you ever wondered what are the most significant advances made in agriculture during the century? If you were to make a list, chances are you might leave out the most outstanding scientific accomplishment. And that is our growing ability to completely wipe out major crop and livestock pests in a given area.

The 20th century marks the first time since the locusts plagued the Egyptians that man has dared to think it practical to eradicate major pests.

One such program now getting underway is against the screwworm in the Southeast. This insect causes $10 million to $20 million worth of damage to livestock in this area every year. When the campaign goes into full operation, some 50 million screwworm flies, sterilized by atomic radiation, will be released each week. Continued distribution of sterile male flies will gradually eliminate the natural screwworm population, scientists predict. A time goal for this project is a minimum of two years.

The imported fire ant, which damages a number of crops and is also harmful to animals, birds, and man, is the subject of another eradication effort. The gypsy moth, a destroyer of trees, is also on the list.

Recent successes against the Mediterranean fruit fly and the khapra beetle are cited as examples that complete eradication of some pests is possible.

The fruit fly, discovered in Florida in April 1956, was the subject of an 800,000-acre spray program covering 28 counties. The pest now is in the mop-up stage. The last fly found in the area was on November 26 of this year.

The $10 million spent on Med-fly eradication was well spent, considering it protected a $400 million annual fruit industry in Florida.

The khapra beetle, possibly the worst pest of stored grain products, has been responsible for the most spectacular and successful fumigation program ever conducted. About 140 million cubic feet of warehouse, elevators, barns, and ever residences, have been "wrapped" in plastic tarpaulins and fumigated to eliminate beetles—many of which were hidden in small inaccessible cracks.

Eradication work is just one phase of the progress made in control. Other measures include: quarantines to protect against damaging pests from abroad; a disease and insect reporting system; and state quarantine and regulator measures to contain and control some pests, when eradication programs are not considered.

REFINISHING AND RE-UPHOLSTERY WORKSHOP

Now that the holidays are over, we can settle down a little, get better organized, back our ears, roll up our sleeves and go to work.

The women of the county asked for a workshop in upholstery. Three women met with me in December and we measured their chairs and tore them to the frame ready for the rebuilding process which will begin January 14 at 10:00 a. m.

I feel that work, the Christmas rush, etc., prevented several ladies coming who otherwise would have been here. Do not let the fact that you missed the planning meeting in December keep you from attending.

Bring your chair, a tack hammer, a screw driver or other tool to remove tacks, a box to put your old covering and padding in, boxes or some other object to set your chair on to bring it up to a better working height and come on.

I am not sure where we will meet, but check at my office that morning and you will learn for sure.

For those who have already torn their chairs down, I will have everything you need the first day except tools to work with such as a tack hammer, screw driver, pliers, steel tape and boxes or something to set your chair on to bring it up to a better working height.

This will be hard work, but is a satisfying work. The workshop will meet also the 21 and 28 of January. The meetings are spaced a week apart so that the leaders can conduct their meetings with two women and bring them up as far as they have gone each time.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hill, Becky, Weldon and Kay of Dallas visited in the George Hill home New Year's Day. Becky remained for a longer visit.

BILLION-DOLLAR PROGRAM—Marion B. Household Hint
To remove oil and grease stains from leather, dab the spots with spirits of ammonia. Allow this to remain on for a short time, then wash with clean water. If necessary, repeat the process.
Be careful, however, not to injure the color of the leather. Experiment on a small, inconspicuous area before doing the job.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.
HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

Texas now has six stations operating in a transatlantic, east-to-coast air sampling network designed to measure the extent and type of air pollution at points of collection in American cities and towns.

There are now 110 stations located throughout the nation, 81 of them in comparatively remote non-urban areas, operating in cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service. The service provides the equipment, analyses, and reports on findings.

Texas stations are located in Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin, Houston, Port O'Conner, and Waco.

The stations work like this: Each is equipped with an improved, high-volume sampler, a device which works like a vacuum cleaner. It draws air through a special glass filter, which can easily be removed for analysis.

As air rushes through the filter pad, tiny particles of atmospheric matter adhere to it. After each 24 hours of operation, filters are removed and sent to network headquarters at the Robert A. Taft Engineering Center in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Analyses are made of chemical, physical, and radiological content of filters. State and local officials are informed of findings. Stations have a clearer picture of air pollution in collecting areas in their areas, and thus relate conditions to topography, population density, and industrial activities.

Stations are detecting radioactivity. "Fallout" is the term given to particles of matter, either from a bomb or from the building material, or rocks atomized and made radioactive by exploding super atomic energy and sucked skyward by winds. The particles eventually settle to earth, sometimes after having wafted great distances at tremendous speeds.

These air sampling stations have valuable experience in studying normal background radiation, such as that caused by cosmic and ultra-violet rays to which the whole earth is constantly subjected.

Primarily, however, stations serve as general indicators of man-made air pollution, becoming more acute as technology advances.

Texas' industrial growth in the past 15 years has aroused interest in the problem. Industry itself is hard at work on a solution. One industry has already spent $6 million to control pollution in and around its plants.

Before any state-wide effort can be made to finally end air pollution, we must know the type and extent of the threat. The air sampling stations are helping us find that answer.

Clementine Wilmeth Briley Writes From Temporary Home In El Paso

By CLEMENTINE WILMETH BRILEY

We've put away the Christmas lights and the star has gone from the mountain. We've had our Christmas dinner and our Christmas tree, and our hearts are still happy with our many nice presents. And perhaps the best of all were the many heart-warming little notes on the Christmas cards.

When I saw what a mad rush Grace and Ruth lived through right at the last, I thought perhaps it would be better not to take all that time to select presents for each member of each other's family. All that wrapping of gifts and getting packages ready and standing in line to get them mailed. It seemed too much. But when I saw how eagerly Johnny and Billy awaited the coming of "Aunt Ruth's package," and how we all perked up when, at last, the door bell rang and the parcel post man handed us a package from Beaumont, I thought perhaps after all it's worth all the work and the worry.

A belated Christmas card and letter came from Ruth the day before New Year's Eve. She assured Grace that her card and letter did arrive Christmas Eve, and the package several days earlier. She said she had ordered Jan's doll from a magazine, Nov. 27. She was frantic when Christmas Eve morning dawned and still no doll. But it came that day. O. R. is still working on the attic, and disappears into it as soon as he gets home from work. Robert said to her that morning, "Don't you wish you were Daddy? He doesn't have a care in the world. Just goes up into the attic and doesn't worry about the parcel post or anything."

Sunday afternoon I baby-sat five hours for people I had never met before. They heard of me through my friend, Mrs. Mapes, who used to live back of us. They and the Mapes went to Jaurez to the Bull Fight. Something I never want to see. For New Year's Eve I had a date with the Daniels. I went at 5:30 and got back about 3:20 New Year's morning.

New Year's Day is the biggest Day in the year for El Paso. It is the day for the Sun Carnival Parade, first instituted in 1936 for the Texas Centennial. Always before, no matter how late we had been up the night night before, we got up and went to the parade. But this time Grace and Bill were both sick with colds and did not feel equal to the ordeal. So we watched the parade over TV.

It is a brilliant affair. Bands and marching army units from Fort Bliss. High school bands from far and near. The queen and her many attendants. All this interspersed with immense, beautiful floats, representing the cities of the world. Washington, D. C., had a replica of the capitol and a statue of George Washington. The stripes of the large flag draped in waves over the front were made from red and white carnations. They couldn't get blue flowers for the blue space. It had to be painted. The last feature of the carnival was the football game that afternoon between Drake University of Des Moines, Iowa and the University of Louisville, Ky. The University of Louisville won.

TODAYS Menu Some Good Dressings For Various Dishes

By ALICE DENHOFF IT has become very fashionable to prepare salad dressing at the table, with a flourish, just as it is done in fine restaurants. As a result, cruetes are back on the festive board, filled with vinegar and healthful olive oil.

Cooked Dressing Of course, a good cooked dressing, has to be prepared in the kitchen.

Here's one to make up in quantity and what is left over can be stored for future use. When used again, it needs only to be reheated to add flavor to fillets or quickly heated poultry slices—the remains of that big turkey or capon, for instance. If it becomes too thick when reheating, dilute it with an ounce of cold water.

First Step In a bowl, combine 1 1/2 tbsps. honey, 1/2 tsp. mustard, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 c. olive oil, tsp. chopped chives and 1/4 c. vinegar. Set aside.

Beat slowly, 2 tbsps. cornstarch, 1 c. cold water until smooth and thick, about 1 min.

Remove from fire and add to ingredients in bowl. Beat well until smooth, adding 1 drop yellow vegetable food coloring during ing beating. Makes 1 1/2 c. of hot dressing.

For Cold Weather Here is a recipe for a hearty cold weather salad that makes an excellent luncheon or supper special. It's nice for dinner, too, with soup or fruit to start with and a light, sweet dessert.

Take 2 lbs. hot, sliced cooked potatoes, 1 c. diced celery, 1/4 c. olive oil, 1/2 c. minced onions, 1 tsp. chopped parsley, 1 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. black pepper, 1 tsp. chili sauce and 1/2 lb. cubed beef or lamb (leftover or quickly sautéed). Blend ingredients together, toss quickly. Serve immediately while potatoes are still hot.

With Fruit Salad To add a lift to fresh or canned fruit salads, here is a pleasing dressing.

Blend together until smooth, 3 tbsps. lemon juice, 2 tbsps. cold water, 2 tbsps. olive oil, 3 tbsps. strawberry jelly or strawberry preserve and a pinch of salt. Makes 4 generous servings. This dressing is not cloying or gooey. It is delicately rich and smooth, thanks to the olive oil, and a bit tart because of the low vegetable food coloring during

Right now most of us are putting our rifles away for a long time. We've been through a successful big game season, with more deer, antelope and javelinas killed in Texas than for many years. All have been in good condition.

Chances are you have a big bore rifle. It may be an ordinary lever action, a converted military model or a new model bolt or semi-automatic. Whatever it is, it deserves the best treatment you can give it.

If you've sacked it away without a good cleaning job, then for your gun's sake, stop reading right now and clean that fowling piece.

While it is true that today's ammunition is loaded with non-corrosive primers, there still is residue in the barrel, and sweat marks on the outside. All must be removed. Run a good oil patch through the barrel, then give the gun a rub down with a good gun oil, like Hoppe's, or with a silicon cloth.

If you store your gun in a case, be sure there is no moisture in the case, or that no sweating is possible. Otherwise you may come up with a ruined gun. Finding rust flecks on a favorite gun isn't a comfortable feeling.

Storage of your gun is just as important. Every man would like to have a good metal or even a knotty pine gun cabinet. But not every man can. Some keep their guns behind the bedroom door. Others keep them sitting in the corner. But mostly they are stored in closets.

All this is dangerous, especially where there are children.

If you are one who keeps a gun in your closet, then be sure it is cased, and that no ammunition is left around. A child simply cannot resist the temptation of playing with a gun, or trying to insert cartridges in one.

For safety's sake, it is best to give your child a good gun education. Take him (or her) out into the hills or onto the target range and let him learn just exactly what a gun is for and what it can do. Explain that children must not handle a gun themselves until they have had enough experience.

Most children, taken into your confidence, will respect your wishes.

There are thousands of homes where guns sit around the house or are thrown around in automobiles, and children pay little or no attention to them. Generally speaking, however, a little gun education for the child is very wise.

Crow Shooting Is Fun Ever try crow shooting? This is fine sport after the regular hunting season is over. These black rascals do lots of harm both in the field and to the young bird and animal life. They probably destroy more peacocks and peanuts every year than are eaten by people.

There are many interesting forms of crow shooting. One of the simplest is to hide in the brush around a known crow area, with a call. A good call can be bought for a dollar or so and very little practice is required to lure in the crows, fighting mad. As they soar in, blast away.

This is a mighty good way to use up old ammunition. Most hunters have a box or two of old shotgun shells. Why not burn yours up on crows this year?

Get a group of kindred souls together and contact some farmer who is pestered with crows. He'll be glad to let you shoot crows in the woods at the edge of his field. That is, if you'll assure him you won't shoot his livestock.

Many hunters like to kill off crows with scope-fitted, high speed rifles. This is fun. Also dangerous. Extreme care should be used in this type of shooting. These high-speed bullets fly to pieces easily upon contact with anything. But if they don't happen to hit the target at the right time, they may continue on to hit something they shouldn't.

Anyway, help the farmers get rid of crows this year with your spare ammunition. It's really fun. If you don't know where to find them, ask your game warden.

Game Warden Can Help You Incidentally, the game warden is a good friend of the outdoorsman. He can be of great help to you in finding good places to hunt and fish.

Usually he and your county agent will know landowners who don't object to reasonable shooting. They'll even let you fish on their places if you ask the right way. These game wardens are very human persons. They are good citizens of your community and will be glad to help you every way they can.

You can help them, too. If you know someone who is killing game illegally, tip off the warden. If you have a question about the game laws, talk with him about it. That way there will be a much better understanding all around.

Time for Trotlines If you are a catfisherman, now's the time to begin getting your lines ready.

If your line was used much during the last season, it may be pretty rotten by now. More than likely most of your stageons have become rust rotted. Perhaps your hooks also are dull or rusted. Clean them up, and put on new stageons.

There are now many new ways of attaching hooks to your trotlines. You may want to check on some of these. Anyway, get the lines ready. There should be good catfishing this spring.

REMINDER—Don't forget the suggestion made in this column a few weeks ago. Take out a package or two of flower seeds and scatter them on the banks of the creek. We can have a beautiful countryside this year, with millions of beautiful flowers in the great outdoors.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN, TEX.—January is poll tax month. Officially, poll tax sales begin in October. But nobody pays too much attention. However, after the first of the year, organized drives get under way, in a deadline-month appeal to induce citizens to protect their right to vote by payment of the poll tax. But a good percentage of potential voters ignore it all. Many, jolted at the last minute, flood into courthouses after knocking off work Jan. 31. Penalty for the putter-offers is usually a long wait in line. Many more never get there at all. Texas Almanac reports show that in past non-presidential election years, less than half the potential voters paid poll taxes or secured exemptions. Poll tax costs $1.75 and usually may be secured at several different places in every community. No charge for 21-year-olds getting their first vote and those 60 years and over, but an exemption certificate must be obtained. (Persons living outside cities of 10,000 or more may vote on affidavit without an exemption certificate.) Deadline for poll tax payment is midnight, Jan. 31. SAFETY PROGRAM PAYS OFF—Texas traffic deaths fell below the Department of Public Safety prediction for the Christmas-New Year holiday period, as a result of the concerted efforts of the Governor's Safety Program. DPS predicted that 113 persons would die on Texas highways. Final number probably will be 103. Both Governor Daniel and DPS Director Homer Garrison Jr. had high praise for Texas citizens, law enforcement officers and news media, for the success of the program. "Much of the credit should go to the newspapers, radio and TV which played a major role in aiding law enforcement and focusing public attention on the increased driving hazards of the holiday season," Garrison stated. And Governor Daniel stressed that one of the chief aims of his administration during 1958 will be "to reduce our traffic deaths and injuries even farther below the 1956 record. It can be done . . . this is best illustrated by the results of our efforts during the past holiday season when the nation's death total increased but the Texas total decreased." If the DPS figure of 103 proves accurate, it will be the lowest since 1952 when 98 persons were killed in the holiday traffic crush. TWICE AS MUCH WATER—New State Water Development Board has set up shop with the aim of doubling Texas' water storage space. Board members predict the program will bring the state an additional $600,000,000 in conservation projects—without cost to state tax payers. Board is authorized to raise $100,000,000 by selling bonds at four per cent interest—and another $100,000,000 later, on say-so of Legislature. This money can be lent at five per cent interest to help pay up to one-third of cost of local conservation projects. "I firmly believe the program will be self liquidating," said Board Vice-Chairman W. E. (Buck) Tinsley of Austin. Board hired Joe Carter as its $10,000-a-year executive secretary. Carter was legal counsel to the State Board of Water Engineers until animosity from two board members forced his resignation last spring. After that, Carter served on Gov. Price Daniel's staff, assisting with water legislation drafting. He is a former state senator from Sherman. BREATHING FOR SCHOOLS—Some 600 still - segregated school districts in Texas are more relaxed now. Many had feared that court-enforced integration in Texas would begin this winter in Dallas. Federal Judge A. T. Atwell of Dallas ruled last year that Dallas schools must integrate at mid-term (January, 1958). But a higher court (U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans) overruled. It said Dallas school officials should be given "a reasonable further opportunity" to plan for segregation. Decision leaves intact, for the time being, a state law passed last spring designed to delay desegregation. It prohibits school districts from integrating unless instructed to do so in a local election. Integration without a voter mandate would bring loss of state aid. For Dallas, this would have meant $1,500,000 a year. UNWANTED "EGGS"—Estate Life Insurance Co. of Amarillo is asking the state to take back some "rotten eggs" it bought at a bankruptcy sale. Last summer Estate took over some $11,000,000 worth of policies that had belonged to Physicians Life Insurance Co. Physicians had gone broke, and its affairs were being settled by the state liquidator. Estate's attorney charged at an Insurance Board hearing that the contract arranged by State Liquidator J. D. Wheeler was unfair to Estate. Same batch of business (mostly burial policies on older people) has passed through three companies—Southern Bankers, American Atlas and Physicians. It bankrupted all three, said the Estate attorney, who called the business "a bunch of rotten eggs." State Insurance Department officials charge that Estate presented a false statement of assets when it entered into the contract. Insurance Board forced the resignation of Estate's president, John L. McCarty, after it was revealed McCarty had given a State Insurance Department employee $2,000.

TWIN MASKS FOR TWINS—Identical twins Ellen and Alice Kessler, 25, of Berlin, hold life masks of themselves created by artist-sculptor Prof. Theodor Behr. According to Behr, the mask portraits express more of the "hidden" personality than the human being would ever admit, as demonstrated by variations in masks.

An administrative director, he says, could help in more efficient assigning of pending court business and equalizing of trial loads . . . Texas Rangers are now under the direct authority of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr. Transfer from regional commanders was announced by the Public Safety Commission. Change to a single command was said essential to efficiency. . . Present state land office employees will keep their jobs under new Land Commissioner Bill Allcorn when he takes office Feb. 1, he has announced. Allcorn said he will move his family to Austin but would not say whether he will run for election to the post. He was named by Governor Daniel to succeed Earl Rudder who has resigned to take an administrative job at Texas A&M.
