VOLUME V

It's astonishing how well the country gets along without any administration.

MR. BLAINE will go to Ohio next week to explain to the people of that State how he and Uncle Hannibal Hamlin have managed to whittle down to a to pay outgold and giver comfreely upon all minority the Republican majority of government obligations. minority the Republican majority of more than thirty thousand. In that way Mr. Blaine hopes to compensate Mr. Sherman for refrigerating Maine.

Good men are sometimes strangely inconsistent in this wicked world of ours. Here is Deacon McKee, for instance, who couldn't be persuaded to serve out his first term, demanding that Grant shall have a third and a fourth, Is it-but no, it cannot be that the good deacon is afraid he may be sentenced to a second term.

It is said that Gen. Butler has become an accomplished linguist. In his campaign speeches he is able to employ not only "the rich Irish brogue," but "the sweet German accent," with thrilling effect. In addressing the Chinese at North Adams, he expects to succeed so well that the Celestials will be convinced he is no "Melican man."

FULLER returns from California show the Republican candidate for Governor to have received 65,093 votes, the Democratic 44,336, and the Kearneyite 43,-914. Mr. Perkins goes into office on the strength of a plurality of 20,000, but with a real majority of 23,000 against him. As in Maine and elsewhere, it is the same old story of Radical minority AND MCCORMICKS ...

THE campaign speakers and organs of the Republican party devote more time and space to two or three crimes in as many counties of a single Southern State than to all the national and local issues on which the people are to pass judgment. The argument is that Cornell and Foster ought to be elected because two or three men have been killed in Mississippi.

MR . Rogers, the able assistant President of the United States, has gone to Ohio with his family for a little respite around during his Western tour, and no matter if the government helm is left swinging loose for a few days, he is entitled to his rest along with the rest of 'em.

THE relief committees of Kansas are calling aloud for somebody to turn the expected fall exodus into some of the older States, where there is more money to relieve the wants of the negroes. We do not anticipate a cordial response to this request. The colored brother is not desired by his Radical brothern in the North, especially since he has got it into his head that he ought to get an office occasionally.

COL. FORNEY finds the Grant boom immense out West. The inconsiderate and insane conduct of the South, he says, has done it. Col. Forney thinks if Grant would be a candidate, and pronounce in favor of a policy of forgiveness and magnanimity toward the South, he would be elected to a third term by a unanimous vote North and South. Col. Forney evidently wants another era of corruption.

REPUBLICANS are not so confident about Ohio as they were a week or ten days ago. Congressman Neal, a Republican of knowledge and experience in the southern part of the State, has been in Washington recently expressing the opinion that the contest will be close. When a partisan Republican comes down from a majority of 30,000 to say that the contest will be close, the general public can make up its mind that Gen. Ewing's majority will not be much less than 10,000 tross bunist work turns

THE remark of Mr. Evarts that the South, in the rebellion, "lost all but her honor." is indorsed as truth by the olis Journals, acknowledged organs of Republicanism in their respective States. Now, then, if the South kept her honor, and came out of the war with that as her only possession, why has she been so persistently abused, villipload wronged and outraged for submit-Illinois State Journal and the Indianapting a dispute to the court of last resort—the arbitrament of war. "OLD BRIN."

Career of the Grizzly Monarch of the Sierras.

San Francisco Chronicle The following particulars concerning the big grizzly bear, "Old Brin," for the capture of whose scalp an expedition is now Brewster, Secretary of the Sierra Valley Sporting Club: I will give you points in the history of the big bear, so far as I can. George Dayls, who formerly lived in the range of Old Brin, is good authority. He trapped and shot him. It was while the bear was escaping from Davis' trap that he injured his foot in such a way as to make his track now so readily known. Mr. Davis says that when he first came across his track, in 1865, he was then a monster. He has measured his track often, and at the date spoken of it measured fourteen inches across. He caught him in a trap that had caught and safely held very large bears, but Old Brin seized hold of a tree with his fore paws and tore the trap to pieces. Davis then followed him up, came across him where he had lain down, and at fifty yards shot him with buckshot. But he did not mind it at all, though he got away as soon as possible. Davis has seen him often and caught him several times, but never had a trap that would hold him. Old Brin is undoubtedly a very large bear. Men of good judgment think he will weigh 2,000 pounds. Cattle are his prey, and he is often followed by smaller bears. Davis says the other enes go with him to share in the spoils. He has been shot many times, but the bear seems to bear a charmed life. Many stories are told by those who have hunted him and met him. The one that amused me most was told by a Mr. F., who has hunted and killed many bears. He was once hunting grouse in the vicinity of Weber Lake and came across the track of Old Brin. He had but one wire cartridge with him, but as he always goes for bear with a shotgun, he thought he would try him. He followed the track and came on Old Brin just as he passed through a thicket of firs. The old water and bring it to a boil. A REMARKABLE RISE.

Significant Advance in the Price of Iron -Trade in That Metal and in Lumber Booming Beautifully.-The Unmistakable Evidence of "Flush Times."

St. Louis Post-Dispatch. There has been a most wonderful advance in both iron and lumber in the last few weeks. The advance in iron was pointed out in some articles in the Post-Dispatch some time ago when the first indications of an increase in price began to show themselves. Since that time there has been a complete revolution in both the lumber and iron trade. and the prices in both lines are in A MOST FEVERISH AND EXCITED CONDI-

Iron ore has advanced one dollar a ton, pig iron about $12 a ton. Pig iron is the basis of the iron trade, and when it moves then everything dependent upon it moves. Standard pig iron was yes-erday selling for $32 a ton. The ruling price last year was about $19 a ton. Steel rails are now selling for $50 and $52 a ton; last year and the first part of this year, they were purchased at from $42 to $45 a ton. Common flat bar iron 1½ to 4 by 3.8 to 1 inch, was selling yesterday morning at $3.20 per hundred. Up to the last of July the price was about $1.90. All last spring nails were ranging along about $1.90 a keg in large lots; to-day they are selling for $3.25. So that there has been an advance of $1 per ton in iron ore, $12 per ton in pig iron, $8 per ton in steel rails, $1.30 per hundred in bar iron and $1.35 per keg in nails. Most all this has occurred since the last of July. Most of it has occurred in the last six weeks. There is every reason to believe that the advance will continue. So rapid is the rise that iron dealers refuse to make any quotations.

The gradual increase in the consumption of pig iron became apparent in the latter part of 1878. Iron men felt that there was a stronger demand. There was a slight advance in prices about the first of this year. It was quite an insignificant increase, only about fifty cents a ton, but it was enough to give some encouragement and vigor to the trade. Since then the progress upward has been regular and rapid. It is a matter of some interest to know what

THE CAUSES are that have induced such a remarkable change and produced so much activity in a trade that has been in a drooping condition for over five years. About thirty days ago consumers discovered that iron was short. The mill men were among the first to realize this. They being arranged by the hunters of this state and Nevada, are furnished by S. T. from old rails, a large quantity of which were on the market on account of the fact that most of the road, of the country were being relaid with steel rails. It was easier to make bar iron out of old rails than of pig iron, for the fact that in the use of rails puddling was saved, which costs about six dollars a ton. A mill that could turn out twenty-five tons a day from pig iron could turn out seventy-five tons a day from old rails. It appears that the supply of old rails has been suddenly cut short, and the consequence is that the mill men had to go back to pig iron; but, when they went. to purchase their supplies they found the quantity short, and then the prices began to jump up. This is the secret of the present agitation. The mills of St. Louis are totally inadequate to supply the demands upon them, although they are running day and night. On account of the great activity among the furnaces, there is a prospect of a scarcity of ore, but be this as it may, there is promise of the greatest activity in the iron trade for a year to come and perhaps longer. In speaking of the activity of THE LUMBER TRADE

here the Minneapolis Lumberman and Manufacturer of last week says: St. Louis is doing more than double the business of last year, and more than she ever did. The receipts are light and the shipments approximate 1,000,-000 a day. During the week all "special price lists" have been withdrawn, and all hands stiff at the regular $13.50 list.

There was not in the good times in 1866 a greater activity in the lumber trade here than there is at the present time. In the last six weeks common grades have advanced $2.50 per 1,000 feet, and upper grades as much as $8 per 1,000 feet. Shingles have advanced about 20 per cent. There is a heavy local demand for lumber, and a strong demand from points in the Southwest. There can be no doubt of a great increase of building throughout the entire country. A few days ago Mr. Thomas Allen contracted for the lumber to be used in the construction of the Southern Hotel. If he had waited three days longer his bill would have been just about $5,000 larger. The predictions of the Post-Dispatch to the effect that St. Louis is just entering upon an era of remarkable prosperity are certainly being verified.

Throat and Sungs such as Coughs, Colds Whooping Cough

The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvellous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. In almost every section of country there are persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it, acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one besitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. CHERRY PECTORAL always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of brouchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued and restored to health.

This medicine gains friends at every trial, as the cures it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it

- It is hearsay evidence—nothing more!
 Once on a time, the legends say,
 A girl was born and that girl was I.
 How can I vouch for the truth, I pray?
- I know I am here; but when I came, Let some one wiser than I am toll? Do you think this flower you pluck d for me Know when its bud began to swell?
- How old am I? You ought to know Without any telling of mine, my dear! For when I came to this happy earth Were you not waiting for me here?
- A dark-eyed boy on the northern hills, Chasing the hours with flying feet, Did you not know your wife was born, By a subtle prescience, faint yet sweet?
- Did never a breath from the southland come, With sunshine laden, and rare perfume, To lift your hair with a soft caress, And waken your heart to richer bloom?
- Not one? O mystery strange as life!— To think that we who are now so dear Were once in our dreams so far apart, Nor cared if the other were far or near!
- But-how old am I? You must tell. Just as old as I seem to you!

 Nor shall I a day older be
 While life remaineth, and love is true.

THE PARIS COMMUNE.

An Epoch of Murder, Incendiarism, and Sacrilege-Massacre of Priests and How a Varmiot from Bitter Creek was Slaughter of Prisoners-Confiscation of Capita and Gagging of the Press.

The elegant capital of France still exhibits in its ruined public buildings traces of the horrors of the reign of the Commune of 1871. The graves of murnounced that this was his night to howl, not only cruel, but it was cowardly as The Germans were still upon the soil, foe on many a bloody field; the country was exhausted by its sacrifice, and patriots were anxiously devising means to meet the enormous indemnity imposed on the retire. At this dark period the Commune struck its blow. Calling ittown Marshal, who loved him not wisely the iron work for a new court house at

Their presented thick and furious, but was soon like a jug handle, and the menagerie took up its march for Castle Wilson, storping at There are eleven Bessemer Steel Works fit emblem of the reign of blood then inaugurated. The payment of rents and other debts was at once suspended, factories were confiscated and capital was covering, the afflicted party sent in a ton, Mass., nearly a thousand more men aries, and several rich men for Marshals cease from troubling and the the crime of being wealthy, were weary are at rest. arrested and their property was confiscated. Monsignor Darboy, the saintly Archbishop, and a number of other ecclesiastics and prominent persons were placed under arrest on the plea of being hostages. It was but the prelude to their murder. They were not combatants; they had taken no part in the struggle; but the fact that they were teachers of religion and ministers of the Gospel was sufficient for their condemnation with three wretches, whose mainspring of action was hatred to Christianity and morality and a thievish desire to obtain the savings of those who had been more industrious than themselves. A commission was established to decide upon the fate of prisoners and so-called hostages, and it was decided that three hostages, chosen by lot, should be put to death for each traitor or deserter executed by the government. Three innocent persons were to suffer for the fate of one guilty man, and this was decreed in advance of any punitive action on the part of the authorities. The next act of the Com-mune was the suppression of that portion of the press hostile to the reign of blood. The Journal des Debats, Constitutionnel, Journal Siecle, and other papers were suspended. In their place sprang up a crowd of prints devoted to inflaming the passions of the lowest of the rabble. About the same time the distinctly remember that the horses walked occupants of the prisons were turned along in front. loose in the city to murder, rob and commit every species of enormity. Neither life nor property was longer safe. The Bank of France was compelled to advance the funds committed to its care, and the leading railway companies were obliged to contribute

2,000,000 francs to the treasury of the Commune. In the meantime, while robbery, murder and crime were rampant in the city, the Republican army was fast driving in the insurgent forces. The rage and desperation of the Communists passed all bounds. Fury prevailed, all quarters of the city. Organized incendiarism prevailed, and fires broke out on every side. The Tuileries, the Palais Royal, the Hotel de Ville, the Palais de Justice, the Prefecture of Police, the Palace of the Legion of How.

p:ivate dwellings were fired by pouring petroleum upon them and then lighting the ignitible fluid. It was on May 24th that this carnival of conflagration occurred, and the day was supplemented by a most terrible, sacrilegious and wanton massacre. The national troops by that time were in possession of the greater part of Paris. That night the Archbishop, several of his clergy and other hostages were, by order of the Commune, taken from the prison of La Roquette and shot by a file of soldiers in the courtyard of the prison. This was the culminating act of the Communists They still held out for a day or two, fighting, firing buildings, and compelling their prisoners to take part in the struggle and coolly slaughtering them afterward. So fell the Paris Commune, which has well earned the exe-cration of civilized mankind. The Communists proved themselves traitors to their country, enemies to the Republic, thieves, murderers, atheists and incendiaries. France and Paris yet suffer from their excesses, and to-day, though repressed at the expense of much valuable life, they constitute the greatest menace to the Republic, far more to be dreaded than Bourbon or Bonapartist pretenders.

A TALK WITH ARTEMUS WARD. A Young Editor's Experience with the Humorist.

Detroit Free Press. I met Artemus Ward but once. I was quite young at the time and was acting as city editor of the Star, published at Schenectady, N. Y. While I was city editor of that sheet I met Artemus. I was standing on a bridge at the time, and in talking about newspaper work was about to say something in regard to my heavy editorial responsibility, but Ward checked me by "What creek is this?" "Creek!" I exclaimed, "why, this is the Eric canal,"

"How far is it navigable?" "Why, of course it is navigable from one end to the other." "Well," solemnly replied Ward, "that beats all the streams I ever heard of. By the way, I think I can make out some large boats anchored up the stream there -what are they, propellers or side wheel-ers?"

I replied that they were merely canal boats, and were moved by horse power. "Ah! I didn't think the stream was as shallow as that," said Artemus.
"As shallow as what?"

"Why, you say that those boats are pulled along by horses. Now, of course, they must walk along in front of the boat, mustn't they? I used to run a stone boat on my lamented Uncle John's farm, and I

American Oyster Statistics. Philadelphia Times.

Philadelphia Times.

Oysters are planted and gr. wn in the bays, deltas and river inlets of more than 2,000 miles of our Atlantic coast. Three thousand aeres are so occupied in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. These Chesapeake beds yield to our commerce over 25,000,000 bashels annually.

In the one city of Philadelphia, I estimate, there are over 4,000 places where oysters are sold for consumption on the premises. One Philadelphia oyster cellar, three years ago, sold 7,000 oysters ou the first day of September. Twenty dollars would be a moderate average for the sale of all these 4,000 oyster frestaurants, saloons and cellars. This would bring the total daily sales up to $120,000 a day. Multiplying the daily sales by 240 days would swell the yearly aggregate to $30.000,000 a year for oysters in Philadelphia. And yet this estimate is probably considerably below the actual fact.

New York city probably sells twice as many as Philadelphia; and Boston and Baltimore together more than New York again. Aside from the home consumption, shipments to our inland, Western and even Pacific States are enormous. The appetite of all inland and mountain men for all Pacific States are enormous. The appetite of all inland and mountain men for all sorts of shell fish is something huse. Baltimore employs more than $15,000,000 in the cauning of oysters. More than 20,000. 000 bushels of oysters are canned a year in that city.

On account of their superior excellence, some time in explaining the peculiarities of the big ditch, and just as I had begun to think that at last I had set the stranger right on the subject, he knocked my hopes into kindling wood by remarking:

"I suppose that when the stream dries up in summer they put boats on wheels, don't they?"

Then I began again and explained every feature in the canal, from New Yo k to Erie. How attentively he listened to my words! I can still see that melancholy face, lit by the light of the stars, and those trade approaches much nearer our annual crop of cotton and wheat than any one who does not make these things a special

The St. Joseph Inter-State Exposition opens on the 29th and continues until the 4th of October. Great improvements have been made, and the association have secured sixty acres of the most beautiful woodland where they have erected new and commodicus buildings for the display of horticultural and agricultural products, as also of everything that tends to make a fair attractive. All the noted horses are secured, and the racing promises to be a very attractive feature. They ofter a liberal premium list of $20,000, covering every department. Address the Secretary J. F. Imbries for particulars.

The best liver invigorator, blood purifier, system renovator, and malaria preventive is Maguiro's Cundurango Bitters. It purges the bowels well and removes all feculent matter. For sale by J. W. Wood & Co., and Woodward, Faxon & Co., Kansas City, N.O.

TERMIBLY EXHAUSTING ARE THE NIGHT SWEATS which accompany consumption. But they, as well as the paroxysms of coughing, are invariably broken up by DR WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, which conquers the deadly malady, as well as bronchitis, pacumonia, pleurisy, asthma, diptheria, and ail other affections of the throat, lungs and chest. It saves thousands from untimely graves, and is invaluable in rescuing children from the croup, whooping cough and quinzy. It is sold by all Druggists.

Maguire's Benne Plant has been used for a number of years in our Asylum, and has proved a most valuable remedy for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera Marbins, etc.

Gendement—from surer months ago I began the use of DB. Habrier's Inon Tonic, and the solving of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such at extent that my labor was exceedingly burdesome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chile. At this time I negan the use of your Iron Tripie, from without realized aimost immediate and woncertal reaches the old energy returned and a fraund that my nextural force was not permanently abated. I have used three boddles of the Tonic. Iskus using it allows done twice the labor that I everdld in the same time during my filmess, and with double the case. With the tranquil serve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic — not done the work, I know not what I give it the sredit.
