Rye in Corn.

Iowa Register.

Mr. W. P. Belknap, of Goldfield, Iowa, makes a good suggestion relative to sowing rye in corn before the last plow-We have tried the plan and can ing. endorse Mr. Belknap's idea: "If farmers will now sow one-half bushel of winter rye to the acre in their corn and plow it in the last time, it will not only have a tendency to choke out the weeds that start up afterward, but there will cattle from eating too freely of dry stalks, as the rye will remain green through the winter and will be eaten by the stock in preference to corn fodder. It makes a desirable feed for all kinds of stock, and adds materially in the quality

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The amount of labor performed by bees in collecting honey may be seen from certain calculations made by Mr. Andrew Wilson. He finds that 125 heads of clover yield approximately one gramme of sugar (about 15 1-2 grains,) and that 125,000 head yield approximately one gramme of sugar (about 15 1-2 grains,) and that 125,000 head yield one kilogramme (2.2 pounds). Now, as each head of clover contains about 60 florets, it follows that the bees must suck 7,500,000 distinct florets in order to obtain 2 I-5 pounds of sugar. And as honey roughly may be said to centain 75 per cent. of sugar, we have one kilogramme, equivalent to 5,000,000 flowers in round numbers. or say 2,500,000 visits for one pound of

A new belting, made of wire, is sail to possess many advantages for driving ma-chinery. All the wires run parallel only across the width in such a manner that one wire catches into the other like a spiral, a continuous densely-woven chain being thus produced, the mobility of which is so great as to enable it to go round the smallest pulicy. The straps are also made with leather or elastic thing, or bordered with leather or elastic, hemp, hair tape, or any other material, also its interstices filled with gutta percha, to prevent their stretching. When large and broad belts are employed, the lining of leather or other material may be omitted.

Bending hard wood, especially beech, by means of hot water or steam, is known to be somewhat costly as regards fuel, and, moreover, requires a long time. But an invention has recently been brought from Germany, it appears, for making sieve hoops and similar objects by a dry process, more cheaply and in less time, from simple cut wood. Two rollers are employed in the operation, one above the other, and having less velocity, so that the upper acts by helding back, while the lower extends the wood fibers. When the board, thus bent, leaves the rollers it is fastened in the mouth of the sieve; the upper roller is fluted, the under one smooth. If two smooth rollers were used a very much greater pressure would, of course, be required.

Mr. A. R. Wallace calls attention to an interesting observation made by Charles Waterton, which throws some light on the origin of one of the superstitions of natural history. Ever since the time of Aristotle, at least, the belief has prevailed that the bird known as the "goat-sucker" (Caprimulgus) actually sucks goats or cows. According to Piny, the goat-sucker "enters the fold and flies to the udders of the goats in order to suck the milk." The fact that the birds "fly to the udders" of the animal is confirmed by Waterton, but at the same time he shows how erroneous is the inference that they suck the milk. "I am fully persuaded," writes that ingenious observer, "that these innocent little birds never suck the herds, for when they approach them, and jump at their udders, it is to catch the flies and insects there. A very remarkable collection of ancient American pottery, now on exhibition in New York, is the fruit of explorations con- with our stage ever since. She has ducted by Mr. A. J. McNiel in an ancient cemetery at Chiriqui, Panama. The graves in which these articles of pottery were found lie scattered along the Pacific slope of the foot hills of Mt. Chiriqui, and the "cemetery" covers thousands of known. She has not retired from the square miles. The graves are found at varying depths, sometimes being as much as fifteen feet below the surface, and sometimes not more than two or three feet. Many of them appear to have been opened again and again for successive interments. They are walled up at the sides and ends with round stones, which are plainly water worn, and are covered over the top with flat stones, some of them weighing three hundred pounds. The articles of pottery found in these graves are principally jars and tripods, with a few small objects, toys and whis-tles, and certain small discs, pierced with a hole in the centre, which may have served as the wheels to toy carts.—Popular Science Monthly. Colonel Henry Flad, President of the Board of Public Works of St. Louis, writ-ing of Captain Eads' project to substitute railroad transfer for a canal across the Isthmus of Darien, thinks there is a better plan. He says that a large caisson, or tank, could be constructed on the trucks and cars, which could be run right into the water in a lock built for the purpose and the ship floated in at the end, which could be made adjustable, or like the gates of a canal lock. The whole thing could then be drawn out on the incline, the vessel having first been made fast on all sides to prevent her swaying or moving from side to side. The incline would have to be built of a very slight grade out of the lock. The caisson, or tank, could be built in sections, each section having its own wheels. When the vessel to be transferred is only 150 feet long, only sufficient sections need be put together to accommodate her. If 400 feet, then it would be adjusted accordingly. To accommodate all classes of vessels, the tank ought to be 400 feet long, 40 feet wide and 30 feet high. It would be like a lake on wheels, traveling two miles an hour and not leaking very much.

CALIFORNIA'S PET ACTRESS.

A Brief Sketch of Mrs. Judah-Her Sufferings and Escape From Death. San Francisco Chronicle

Mrs. Judah, the dear old lady who takes precedence of all others in point of age, is now in a very critical condition, suffering from a severe attack of dyspepsia, in her charming little cot-tage on Capp street, around which are flowers and vines that struggle with one another to reach the roof. The interior be no danger of dry murrain among the is tastefully and artistically furnished cattle from eating too freely of dry and is a fitting retreat for the lady who has studied so hard to please the public. Mrs. Judah has resided in California twenty-eight years. She was born in Orange county, New York, and as far as she knows she has not a relative and quantity of milk produced, besides living. Her early history is one of proving a saving of from one to two tons many trials and vicissitudes. young she married Mr. Judah, and with him traveled over the South.

In 1838 they started from Appalachicola on a small trading vessel bound for Cuba. There was no other lady on board. It was in the season of the year when storms were frequent, and very violent, and she was told of the difficulties that lay in her way, and how badly she would fare on the ship since no preparations were made for the accommodation of passengers. Undaunted by these drawbacks, she, with her husband, took passage in the vessel—the George Washington. They were out but three days when a storm arose and the vessel suddenly capsized. All on board were lost except herself and three sailors. She was saved by being lashed to a spar by her husband, and that was the last she ever saw of him. He was drowned together with the captain, mate and Mrs. Judah and picked her up. The others soon floated near them and with the whole lot of timber a raft was improvised, the sailors tearing their jackets in strips to lash the spars together. This was in the night, and the lady had nothing on but a thin night-dress. Nothing was saved from the vessel, not even a morsel of food. They floated for three days. The tropical sun burned them, and at night the cold chilled them to the bone. On the third day, when in the last stages of despair and in an exhausted condition, they were pick ed up by a vessel heavily loaded with lumber and bound for Portland, Maine.

On this vessel there were no women. and Mrs. Judah had to content herself with the clothes the sailors gave her. After a six-weeks' voyage she at last reached Portland. In the wreck Mrs. Judah lost all her jewels and money as well as wardrode. Through friends she was enabled to travel South in the hope of finding some property which had be-longed to her husband, but after two years of hard struggling she finally gave up the search and went on the stage, making her debut at Russel's theatre, New Orleans, in 1840. The proprietor of the theatre, Mr. Russel, was a brother of Mrs. Farren, the lady who was lately connected with the Baldwin Theatre Company. Before coming to California Mrs. Judah married John Torrence, the late machinist of the California theatre. They came to this country in 1852 with a small theatrical company, and played through the interior of the state, visiting all the mining camps, which were then in a flourishing condition. They returned to San Francisco and dishanded with our stage ever since. Never Offend.

If a man possesses the faculty of never offending his neighbors he is pretty sure to please them. But nothing is mere difficult than to avoid offending. Most people are offended by trifles. For instance, persons generally take umbrage at superior brilliancy of conversation. "The man who talks for fame will never please." Even he who talks to unburden his mind will please only some old and solitary friend. Large experience and great learning, however quietly carried, are very offensive to those who have them not. Clever things cannot be said unobtrusively enough. A man so brilliant as to make others feel that his efforts are above theirs will be detested. He who is too anxious to please rarely attains his object. The confident expectation of pleasing is an infallible means of pleasing. Characters pleased with themselves please others, for they are joyous and natural in mien, and at liberty from thinking of themselves to pay successful attention to others. Still, the self-conceited and the bragging are never attractive, self being the topic on which all are fluent and none interesting. They who dwell on self in any way-the self-deniers, the self improvers—are hateful to the heart of civilized man. The Chinese, who knew everything beforehand are perfect in self-abnegation of manner. "How are your noble and princely son and your beautiful and angelic daughter?" says Mandarin Number One. "Dog of a son have I none, but my cat of a daughter is well," says prettily laid-out grounds, and beautiful Number Two. And then both men vie flowers and vines that struggle with one with each other in depreciation of self and selfish interests.

estimate that there will have been disbursed on account of pension arrears the respectable sum of $28, 000,000.

The gross earnings of the A., T & S. F. railroad company for the month of July were $456,000-an increase of $126.441 over the earnings for the corresponding month of last year. The land sales of the company aggregate $27,500-a decrease of $52,074 below the aggregate sales of the corresponding month of last year.

Congressman Kelley, of Pennsylvania, properly known as "Pig Groceries, Iron" Kelley, is summering in Germany, and had lately a prolonged interview with Priene Bismarck The most significant expresion of the Chancellor was one concerning the financial policy of the German Government, in which he candidly admitted that the attempt of Germany to demonetize silver was a grave and costly error.

The Republicans of Cincinnati by some mistake-of course it was a mistake-nominated one George W. Williams, colored, for the Leg islature. Ever since the nomina tion the managers have been industriously at work to get him off the ticket. They even had the papers to make the announcement that he would withdraw, and that the Executive Committee would fill the vacancy. Williams, however, will not withdraw. He proposes, much to their disappointment, to stick it out.

AYER'S PILLS have been known for nore than a quarter of a century, and have obtained a world-wide reputation for their virtues. They correct diseased action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so composed that obstructions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every-body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they gripe much less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not inflamed. They reach the vital fountains of the blood, and strengthen the system by freeing from the elements of weakness. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomet nor any deleterious drug, these Pills may be taken with safety by anybody. Their rugar-coating preserves them ever most. and makes them bleasant to take; while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. AYER & CO , Lowell, Mass., SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE. The Eloquent Greenbacker Sounds His Key-Note in the Ohio Campaign

In Favor of Ewing and the Democratic Ticket.

Speech of Gen. S. Cary, Belivered at Sinebenville, Thursday Evening, August 21, 1879.

FELLOW CITIZENS: We are on the threshold of another political conflict. The representative men of the different parties are presenting the claims of their representative candidates to the consideration of the voting masses. Last evening the honest Financial Minister of this Administration, an acknowledged leader of the Republican party, presented to you the reason why that party should be continued in power. Before many days, doubtless, some representative man from the Democratic party will endeavor to show you why his party should have the control of the machinery of the government.

government. There is in this country a third organiza-tion known as the National Greenback Labor party, which claims to be a candidate for popular favor. It has been insignificant in numbers but has been so earnest and persistent in the sclvoescy of its doctrines that it has been me an important factor in the politics of the country. Thoroughly impressed with the belief that the principles of the National Party must provide the factor in the political party must provide the factor in the party must provide the factor in the party must provide the factor in the party must provide the same party must be forced by the laboring the party must provide the party must be forced by the party must provide the party must be party must be forced by the party must be party must be party must be party and the party must be party must be party must be party and the party must be party must be party and the party and the party must be party and the party and the party must be party and the party must be party and the party tional party must prevail before the laboring and producing classes can be emancipated from slavery, it will be my purpose to-night to discuss these principals that every inde-pendent voter may intelligently exercise the right of suffrage and deposit his ballot right of suffrage and deposit his ballot where it will do the most good.

I beg the partisans of both the old parties that while I am speaking, if you cannot lay your armor off, you will loosen it so that the truths I may utter may reach your understanding and hearts. The Republican orators find it necessary, in order to prevent desertion from their ranks, to rekindle the passions of the war and have a solid North against a solid South. You are told that the old rebels are getting back into place and power, and that the halls of Congress swarm with rebel Colonels and Brigadiers who led the Confederate forces to battle against our the Confederate forces to battle against our brave boys who poured their blood upon their country's altar to preserve the Union and give freedom to the enslaved. They would have us infer from this that the spirit of rebellion and secession is still unsub-

This proves that bayonet and carpet-bag rule in the South has given place to self-gov-ernment. The truth is, that every man and ernment. The truth is, that every man and dog and mule and jackass in the South were in the Confederate army. The man of commanding talents and ability won his way to the rank of Colonel or Brigadier, and when the Union was restored who else could they send to Congress but their representative men? The National party know no North and no South, but recognize all as alike loyal to the Constitution and the Union, and denounce as a crime all efforts to keep alive denounce as a crime all efforts to keep alive sectional animosities. In this, as in all their action, the Republican leaders show their determination to perpetuate their power, and that they are unscrupulous in the means they employ to effect the end. Among the many proofs of the truth of this charge, I would refer to the developments made in the late investigation by a committee of Congress; into the last Congress; into tee of Congress into the last Congressional elections in Cincinnati.

It appears that seventy two United States Marshals were appointed to see that the elec-tion was properly conducted and illegal voting prevented. These Marshals were all Republicans, assigned to duty only in Democratic precincts. Not one was allowed to go into a Republican ward. The reason given for this was that the Republicans were given for this was that the Republicans were honest and only the Democrats needed watching.

Suppose the Democratic party controlled the machinery of government and had appointed seventy-two bummers of their own party, placed them only in Republican wards, leaving Democrats to practice all the franks they pleased, it would have raised a wards, leaving Democrats to practice all the frauds they pleased, it would have raised a howl of discontent in which fair minded howl of discontent in which fair minded men of all parties would have united. Men are alike and integrity and fairness are not are alike and integrity and fairness are not are alike and integrity and party. These while I give my attention to the questions which outranks all others in importance.

which outranks all others in importance. Mr. Sherman last evening pronounced a glowing eulogy upon the Republican party, and especially upon its financial achievements, its resumption policy, and the resulting success. With all his assumed fairness in statement and plausibility in argument, which were well calculated to mislead and deceive, those familiar with history, and which were well calculated to mislead and deceive, those familiar with history, and who have watched the current events of the last fitteen years will be able to detect a want of fairness and candor in his statements and of soundness in his arguments. He alluded with a vein of irony to the predictions of the professedly wise of the drecalamities which would befall the country by the contractien and resumption policy, and pictured in roseate colors the success which had followed every step taken by the Republican party, showing that the prophets had been false. He could not have sludded to me, as I was one of the lesser prophets and overshadowed by the greater. In my humble way I had some twelve years ago taken a horoscope of the future, and given an outline of the probable results of the financial policy of my old party, for at that time I was dwelling in the Republican household.

I expressed then the opinion that this police and the state of the provides of the state of the state of the provides of the state of the state of the provides of the state of

I expressed then the opinion that this policy would bring ruin and disaster. I said to the machanics, "you are now receiving $4 a 1d$5 per day for your work; in less than ten years you will be glad to get half that. You fellows who are receiving $2 and $3 per day for earrying the brick and mortar up these buildings in less than ten years will be glad to find anything to do. In less than ten years our highways will be crowded with tramps; your station houses will be filled with lodgers, your jails with criminals and poor houses with paupers." My remarks were printed at the time, and I was denounced as a croaker, a blather-kite and demagogue.

There were among the greater prophets those whom John Sherman now denounces those whom John Sherman now denounces as false.

The prophet Berjamin Wade, whose honesty and integrity are attested by the fact that, although eighteen years in the Senate, with abundant opportunities to join a syndidate of thieves, died poor, said this policy would be as disastrous as a universal fire.

But I have time to refer to but one other of these birds of ill-omen, and that is John Sherman himself, the man who now comes before you to rejoice with you in the success of the resumption policy. In a speech made in the United States Senate in January, 1869, among other fearful forebodings of evil to come, predicted that the voyage to resumption would be attended with sore distress. tion would be attended with sore distress. Said he: "To every person except a capital-ist out of debt, or the salaried officer or the prostrated business, wishes to place it where it will not be lost, and where he can get a small interest for it, and puts it into a gov-ernment bond. He won't put it into merchandise, or manufacturing, or real estate, because that will not pay a profit, and he runs a risk of losing the principal. I ven-ture that nine-tenths of the merchants of this city would sell out their stocks to-day, take in pay four per cent bonds and quit busi-

Does any sane man here believe that the Does any same man nere believe that the small volume of money in this great country would go into four per cent bonds if business was in a normal condition? When the milenium of prosperity comes, the gray dawn of which this old seer sees in the distance, it of which this old seer sees in the distance, it will be manifested by a depreciation of four per cent bonds. Business looking to a larger return of profit will make four per cents a most undesirable investment. It is not then the elevation of the public credit, but the destruction of private credit and the paralysts of business. Over which Sherman has occasive the seed of the profit of the p ais of business, over which Sherman has oc-casion to rejoice.

But Mr. Sherman now claims that tramps

But Mr. Sherman now claims that tramps and all the business disasters and ruin, of which we have had such a bountiful harvest were the product of inflation, and not of contraction. Is this true in theory or in fact? When and where did panic, disaster and ruin ever come when there was a full volume of reliable circulating mediums? Even an inflation of wild cat money, so long as its safety was undoubted, never produced a paralysis of business. When its worthless character was ascertained and the circulating medium was discredited, the financial ing medium was discredited, the financial earthquake came!

But Mr. Sherman knocks the brains out of his own argument, the stuffing out of his own proposition, by denying that there has been a contraction of the circulating medium. He gives the figures (which I will not repeat) to show that the circulating medium.

the exclusive virtues of any party. These evils will bring about their own appropriate remedies. No party will be allowed unfair advantages. I leave all these subjects to be discussed by those men familiar with them, backs. He said that the compound interest notes had matured rapidly and had been paid off, and that $40,000,000 more would mature in the next six months, and that "all these notes were a part of the currency."

He might have added over $200,000 000 more of certificates of indebtedness, which were a part of the currency. General Grant in his message in 1873, said that there had been such a conviction of the currency that been such a contraction of the currency that there was 13 cely enough to transact the business in 1 e dullest season of the year. business in 'e dullest season of the year. He said there had been an enormous contraction of the currency by the withdrawal of the seven-thirty Treasury notes. There were $830,000,000 of these, which Treasurer Spinner said were priated in form and designed to circulate and did compose a part of the circulation. As a matter of fact, we know that they were paid out to contractors and to soldiers as currency. Did Sherman misrepresent? Was Grant mistakee? Did Shipner apeak falsely?

Spinner speak falsely?
There was an enormous contraction, and this has resulted in the shrinkage of conmercial values, and atranded high and dry upon the beach the debtor class, which composed the large majority of our men of business enterprise. But what is there in this wonderful achievement of bringing green-backs to a par with coin, over which there is such self-gratulation! We see at what fear ful cost the end has been reached. May it not have been effected with such wide-speed bankruptcy and ruie! The Greenback-are jest that any time within the last terms. speed bankruptcy and ruin! The Greenbackers insist that any time within the last ten years if the government had not discredited its own paper by refusing to receive it for custom duties it would have been at par with gold. With all the preparation for the great event of the 1stof January, 1819, with all the sale of bonds for gold to pile up in the treasury, the Secretary found it necessary, without law and in volation of law to orry, without law and in violation of law to or-der the Custom-house officers to receive greenbacks for custom duties the same as gold; There was no other use for gold, and the occupation of gold gamblers was gone the moment the government received green-bicks as gold. Is not this resumption a

If with a fine-tooth comb you could gather in the prairies of the West or the cotton fields of the South $1,000 in the notes of the National Bank of Steubenville, and present them at the bank counter for redemption, you could not demand the gold, but would be paid in greenbacks. By paying express charges on them to New York you can get coin in return. Of course you have no need of gold, and will not go to that treuble and expense. If the time comes, as come it surely will, when gold may be in demand, it will not be there. It never is near when it is wanted, but alwas plenty when it is not wanted.

will not be there. It never is near when it is wanted, but alwas plenty when it is not said he: "To every person except a capitalist out of debt, or the salaried officer or the annuitant, it is a period of loss, danger, lassitude of trade, fall of wages, suspension of enterprise, bankruptcy or disaster."

He characterized the attempt as "an each of folly, without example of evil in modern times."

I submit to you, my fellow-citizens, whether John Sherman in 1869 was a true or a false prophet. Has there been a fall of wages, a lassitude of trade, a suspension of enterprise, bankruptcy and disaster? The hundreds of thousands of tramps, the hundreds of thousands of tramps, the hundreds of thousands of half-employed, half-fed and half-clothed workingmen and their families, the army of ruined merchants, the idle furnaces and factories, the tens of thousands of men whose homes were half paid for, who have been sold out by the Sheriff without a dollar left from the wreck, the

those who disagree with me as to the path of duty. I leave it to those who think their judgments infallible to excommunicate and deneunce as traitors all who do not arrive As a National Greenbacker I can not sup-port the Party platform and ticket for the following reasons, tersely and distinctly

First—The platform is not in accord with the previously promulgated doctrines of the National Greenback Labor party. Its leading proposition is to call in immediately all the government bonded indebtedness and pay it off without regard to the laws under which the bonds were issued, or the terms of the bonds themselves. This is indefensible, unwise and revolutionary, it is a cowardly way of violating the public faith. It may be that the avarice of the money power will force repudiation; but let it come, if it must, of necessity and not of choice. In advance of the necessity I would not proclaim myself a repudiator. Congress has repeated acted by in bad faithlight the people at the instance of the money power, but this is no reason why we should imitate their bad example, especially as the people have indorsed the action of their representatives by keeping them in power. If the proposition in the First-The platform is not in accord with them in power. If the proposition in the Columbus platform were lawfully and practicable, its inforcement would ruin the debtor class and give to the bondholder an debtor class and give to the bondholder an advantage greater than has ever yet been accorded to him by any subsidized Congress. It would place in the hands of the bondholders the means of buying up all the incumbered property of the country at the present depressed prices, and enable them to riot unmolested upon the honest accumulations of years of self-denying toil Not only the real estate. But the mining.

The policy of the National party is to revive the industry, give employment to labor, restore the price of real estate to its normal condition, infuse new life into every department of business. not repeat) to show that the circulating medium is now larger in volume than ever before; that there has been inflation instead of contraction. He said figures would not lie; but they might be so arranged as to make them lie, and charged Mr. Ewing with doing that thing. There is an old adage that people who live in glass houses should not throw stones. Let us see if Sherman is not guilty of the offense which he attributes to others, whether he has not made a false impression by withholding a part of the truth. After giving us the amount of greenbacks, national bank notes, gold and silver, he leaves us to infer that these embrace all the circulating medium we have had in fifteen years, and therefore there had been no contraction. We are again induced to call trade, where more than four per cent might be reslized. We would inaugurate a state of things which would make four per cents a very bad investment, without in the slightest degree infringing upon the public faith. John Sherman & Co. have made four per cents desirable by paraly zing business. We would make them most jundesirable by given cents desirable by paraly 2 log business. We would make them most undesirable by giving business a new and more vigorous life. Second—A. Saunders Platt, the nomine of the Columbus convention, was never known as a National Greenbacker, and if he ever voted our ticket the evidence of the fact has not transpired. We are informed and believe that as late as 1875 he voted for Governor Allen, under protest, because of his soft money and greenback heresies.

Hugo Preyer, who holds the second place on the ticket, declared in the convention before he received the nomination that he was fore he received the nomination that he was not a National Greenbacker, and he is the advertised head of an organization in Ohio which is openly and avowedly hostile to that

As the accredited head of this hostile organization, this man Preyer called a convention at Columbus of his clubs at the same time with that of the National party, with the design of either capturing the National Convention or antagonizing it. The following is a copy of a letter sent to one of the faithful:

"CANTON, OHIO, March 18, 1879." "CANTON. OHIO, March 18, 1879."
"DEAR SIR: The Convention is called the simon-pure Greenback Chubs. I have called it the same day the Nationals have their Convention so if they desire to unite and work in haim my with us, all right; if not, we go ahead alone. Yours.

"HUGO PREYER."

"Let me know how many delegates you have, and who they are."

The results of the convention show that these clubs collected enough delegates to take possession of the convention, make a Brick Pomeroy platform, and put anti Na-tionals at the head of their ticket. I de-nounce the whole thing as a fraud. Neither nource the whole thing as a fraud. Neither the platform not ticket is entitled to the support of any true National.

On this account the Toledo convention was called. At this meeting many of the substantial men of the party were present, and after full and free discussion, the Columbus action was repudiated, and the principles of the National party were reasserted. It was thought unwise under all the circumstances to nominate a regular National ticket.

thought unwise under all the circumstances to nominate a regular National ticket.

The Republican party is the avowed champion of the National Basks, and its platform and ticket were the inspiration of John Sherman, the willing tool of the money power of Europe and the United States.

No 'National' can vote that ticket without becoming an apostate to principle, and basely surrendering to the common enemy.

The Democratic State platform declares 'that the issue of money in any form and the regulation thereof belong to the general government alone, and ought not to be delegated or intrusted to individuals or corporations; that we therefore, oppose the perpetuation of the present National banking system as a means of control over the cur-

A Drover's Flame Dimmed by Marriage [and Revived by Separation. New York Herald.

A romantic story was told in the Harlem police court yesterday. The complainant in the case, Mrs. James McEvoy, was a well preserved lady of forty-five, and the defendant, her husband, a gentleman five years her senior. From the statement of the former it would appear that she herself is the proprietress of a milk route, employing several teams and a number of assistants. Yet, though she has amassed a competence, she still serves with her own hands a few favored customers, holding the reins behind her favorite pony with no little skill. The lady was a widow with five children up to October last, when during her rounds she first met Mr. McEvoy and with true feminine instict, it is said, managed to draw from him an avowal of love. On November 2, 1878, they were married, and everything at the time pointed to a long and happy union. But daily intercourse seemed to chill the affections of the newly wedded pair, and total alienation was the final result. One month after marriage articles of separation were signed. Although blessed with fortune and good health, Mr. McEvoy, who is a well-to-do cattle drover, could not easily forget his first love, and separation from the idol of his affections seemed to revive the old flame. He did his best to extinguish it, but in vain. The dreary winter wore away, and the gentle robin and tuneful frog betokened the approach of spring, and when at last summer came Mr. McEvoy hied him to Saratoga, and, it is said, added to his own wealth by diminishing that of a faro bank. Then he returned to New York, and on the 11th day of August, as the sun was beginning to peep from over the tallest trees at Mount Morris square, he took a standing position at the corner of Second avenue and Twenty-eighth street. The thoroughfare was quite deit soon he heard a rolling of wheels followed by the appearance of Mrs. McEvoy's little pony, drawing its gentle mistress and a couple of cans of milk. Stopping the docile beast the lover leaped into the wagon, and on bended knee poured into the astonished occupant's ear the story of his revived affection. Mrs. McEvoy, however, refused to listen and insisted upon driving on. Then, as the story goes, Mr. McEvoy drew, or made a pretence of drawing, a revolver, and threatened the woman with instant death. Matters were beginning to assume a serious aspect when the pony, who had become somewhat restive, sprang forward, leaving the gentleman in the street. Yesterday Mrs. McEvoy had her husband arrested and arraigned. He did not make a very clear statement in reply to the questionings of Justice Wheeler and intimated that "he wanted to forget the past and resume his former relations with his wife." A fine of $10 was imposed and the prisoner committed in default of the usual bond for good behavior. INSPIRATION THROUGH INSANITY. Wonderful Transition from Ignorance to Wisdom.

Albany (Ga) News. Albany (Ga) News.

The following particulars we get from Mr. George C. Watson, living near the subject of the sketch. A lady of the Seventh District of Worth county has become insane on the subject of religion. Her dementation was first noticed about a month ago, soon after the close of a protracted meeting at Union Baptist Church, near her home. She attended the different services very regularly, and seemed deeply impressedland troubled from their first commencement. A short time before the pressedand troubled from their first commencement. A short time before the meeting closed she joined the church. Going back home her incoherent, maddened and rambling conduct was noticed by her husband and children, and they became terribly excited and wrought up about it. She went raving about the house and yard with a bucket of water, beating eventhing in her patherer. She about it. She went raving about the house and yard with a bucket of water, baptising everything in her pathway. She baptised her husband and each of her children, and while doing this sang the most beautiful songs—songs that she had heard but once or twice. Although an unlettered woman (her husband will swear this), reads any chapter in the Bible readily, pronouncing correctly and distinctly, paying attention to punctuation points, etc. She preaches rearly all the while, and our informant says uses the choicest words, and displays great wisdom and knowledge in the handling of different subjects. Although not a Mason, she knows all the mysteries of that mysterious craft by heart. Dozens of Masons have gone to see her, and they all come away dumbfounded. Her husband has come to the conclusion that she is a witch. She has attempted acts of violence, but as yet done no harm. He, without assistance, at one time tried to incarcerate her in one of the rooms of the house, but the doors became unmanageable and wouldn't stay locked. She hasn't slept in eighteen days and nights, and during that time has taken but a few morsels of food.

This is one of the strangest cases we

a few morsels of food.

This is one of the strangest cases we have heard of. Hundreds are flocking to see the frenzied woman.

Gendlement—Some three months ago I began the use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use deport of the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use deport in the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use different enderly from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the laber that I everdid in the same time during my illness, and with double the case. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the Mostgratefully yours.

FACETIOUS IDLE-TALK.

From a Somerset county paper we learn that hugging sociables are soon to be held in various parts of that county. It is proposed to charge ten cents to hug any young lady between fifteen and twenty ive cents for any one between twenty and thirty; twenty-five cents for young wid-ows; one dollar to hug anothers man's wife; old maids, two for a cent; while female lecturers are free, with a chromo

A life insurance agent, at Cincinnati, exhausted his eloquence upon a victim who finally threatened to kick him down stairs. The agent promptly replied that if the victim really meant to attempt that sort of thing that was another reason why he should get his life insured, but the victim didn't take a policy.

The average small boy's ambition is to be a trapper, a pirate, or a song-and-dance man. "When I with a little boy," lisped a very stupid society man to a young lady, "all my ideath in life were thentered on being a clown." "Well, there is at least one case of gratified ambition," was the sharp reply.

An old weman who was crossing the street had a narrow escape from being run over by a hearse. "I am not at all superstitious," she said to her rescuer, "but it has always seemed to me that it would be unlucky to be killed by a hearse.'

"Do you mean to call me a liar?" asks a ferocious old gentleman. "Well, no, not exactly," temporizes his young friend; "but if I saw you in the company of Ananias and Sapphira, I should say you were in the bosom of your family." "Minnie has been to see me, to-day, said a little five-year-old, "and she be-haved like a little lady. "I hope you did, too," said her mother. "Yes, indeed I did; I turned somersets for her on the bed."

A Paisley publican was complaing of his servant maid that she could not be found when required. "She'll gang oot o the house," said he, "twenty times for ance she'll come in."

"Humph!" said a young gentleman at a play with a young lady; "I could play the lover better than that myself." "I would like to see you try it!" was the naive re-

A lady said to her husband that she had read the art of love just to make herself agreeable to him. "I had rather have your love without the art," he replied.

The following lazonic epitaph, carved on a Spanish tombstone, should be remem-bered: "I was well, I tried to feel better, took physic, and here I am.'

A Child's Heroism.

Willie Bowen, aged 9 years, is a slate picker on the piers of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company at Honesdale Pa. Two ponderous iron rollers, one close above the other, revolve slowly a few feet above the boy's head where he works. A piece of slate from the coal that is carried from screen to screen on endless canvas belts, got between these rollers this morning. The boy reached up from the scaffolding on which he stood to take the slate out. His hand was caught by the rollers and drawn slowly in, until the little fellow was raised from his feet, and was suspended over the canal, ten feet above

it. Nearly half of his arm was drawn between the rollers before his terrible situation was discovered and the machinery stopped. Before the boy could be removed, a messenger had to be dispatched to the machine shop, some distance away, for the machinists to take the machinery apart. This required more than fifteen minutes, All this time the lad hung suspended by his crushed hand and arm, the flesh being entirely torn away, exposing the bones and cords. The little fellow never uttered a cry nor shed a tear. His father, an employe on the pier, was a weeping witness of the terrible scene, and the boy kept saying: "Don't ery, father; they'll get me out all right." The lad's arm will have to be amputated at the elbow.

The Word "Skedaddle." Paris Register.

One of the most used words during the great rebellion, and one which had its origin at about the time of the Bull Run defeat was "skedaddle." Some bogus philologist tried to trace its origin from the Greek. But this was voted fraudulent. It was simply an army word, perhaps a growth, possi bly an inspiration. No one was ever able to satifactorily explain its origin.
