Commissioners Call Hearing On Combining Voting Boxes

VOTERS -- ATTENTION

In this issue of the Eagle there appears the full text of one or more of the Constitutional Amendments to be voted on at the upcoming General Election (Nov. 8). So that you may be fully informed, we urge that you read each proposed measure in its entirety, and study all of them carefully before you go to the polls to cast your vote.

A public forum is to be held at the regular meeting of the Mills County next Monday, August 8th, at 10:00 a. m. on the subject of combining a number of voting boxes in Mills County.

The public forum was scheduled after a citizens committee headed by the chairman of Mills County Democratic Executive Committee appeared before the Commissioners at their last meeting and recommended that a number of small boxes be consolidated.

In making the recommendation to the Commissioners the committee presented cost figures of holding elections, and pointed out the following:

There is no public place in some of the boxes to hold election and it has been necessary to hold election in private residence.

It is becoming increasingly difficult to get workers for holding election in some boxes.

Some election officials and a number of voters have expressed dissatisfaction with the system as it is, and want the boxes consolidated.

The commissioners at that time through County Judge Wm. G. Yarborough named a committee to sound out public sentiment on the proposal and report back at the next meeting.

Those named on the committee are: W. P. Duren, Joe Palmer, Love Gatlin, Lucile Conro and Claudia Cockrum.

The Court has issued a public notice regarding the proposal and set the public forum. Commissioners desire to know what the people and voters want and all citizens are invited to attend the meeting Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

All will be given an opportunity to express their opinion on the subject.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kelly and children, Kenneth and Carolyn, had as their guests during last week Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Brown and boys, McGregor; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hamilton, Abilene; Mrs. A. C. Henderson of Breckenridge; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hall of Kilgore; Roger Kelly, Karnes City and Mrs. Leonard Warren of Odessa.

Mrs. Mattie Edwards of San Antonio is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. W. Reynolds and Mr. Reynolds, who is ill at his home.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION—WEST POINT, MISS. LEADER: "It's a pleasure to comment on good news now and then, though the opportunities sometimes seem far between. Today's glad tidings are that the Labor Department has turned thumbs down on the idea of setting up a new bureau to force employers to hire older workers."

"The reason is that employers are solving the problem voluntarily at a faster clip than a new law might be expected to do the job."

DENISON, TEXAS PRESS: "After studying and working with juveniles for a period of over fifty years, and having ourselves reared a family of nine, we have come to the conclusion (long ago) that a great mother, along with a fairly decent father, can get the job done without any court action, clubs to fence them in, community houses or youth centers."

LISBON, N. D. GAZETTE: "If people don't make proper arrangements for their mail, an otherwise pleasant vacation can be a mighty frustrating experience," says a note from the postoffice. "The careless preparation or handling of vacation mail can easily result in the traveler's having fewer friends when he returns than he had when he left."

The Agricultural Department has begun studying storage costs as a basis for setting future rates, locking the barn after the horse has fled."

The Goldthwaite City Council has decided to pave the business streets leading from the public square and also to pave the west side of Front Street parallel with the railroad. Other paving will be planned later and it is reasonably certain the greater part of the residence section of the city will be paved, the plan being for the city to pave the center and the property owners on either side to pay for the paving in front of their property.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

It is possible that due to this being an election year, Congress will not complete all the vital projects before adjourning. But there is no doubt, when a tax revision bill is considered, definite consideration will be given on this matter of taxation of cooperatives.

The House Ways and Means Committee, headed by Rep. Wilbur Mills, has already gathered ex-C. W. Harder tentative testimony on matter.

Basically, if the loopholes in the income tax laws on cooperatives are not plugged, it appears that in due time much of the country's independent business will be forced into cooperative by tax law pressures the same as Kremlin edicts forced Russian business into state owned stores.

Testifying before the committee, George Burger, Washington vice president of the National Federation of Independent Business pointed out that on four different occasions over 90% of the nation's independent businessmen members voted in favor of closing the loopholes.

This is not an attack on simple pure farmer cooperatives which operate for cooperative marketing of farm crops.

But the laws on taxation of cooperatives are so loose that they have opened the gates for promoters to develop all kinds of business in manufacturing, wholesaling, and retailing.

In the fields of chemical, mining, oil production, jet fuel production, printing, food canning, and others, in past ten years cooperatives have become a growing phenomena.

Under the laws as they now stand, a private corporation, wishing to lay aside profits for expansion first has to pay out 52% for income taxes.

But an enterprise qualifying under the present loose law as a cooperative theoretically pays out its profits in the form of patronage dividends.

Theoretically, those who receive the patronage dividends, or refunds, as they are called in cooperative circles, pays an income tax on them.

But, a cooperative can hold these dividends, or refunds, in the business and by giving the patrons certificates, which are tantamount to stock, use the money to finance expansion plans.

In other instances, it has been worked out so that an investor in a cooperative manufacturing venture receives his returns in the form of extra production signed to agents for resale.

The investor then receives on this production his patronage refunds in the same manner as if he had actually used the goods himself, thus giving him a much higher return on his investment than any private company could possibly pay.

There seems to be no question that there is a legal right for cooperative enterprises. The question is should they be able to compete with private industry on a tax basis that makes competition with them all but impossible. At present as alert promoters have discovered, cooperatives are the biggest and the best business tax dodge existing.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

those scrappy little fish are so prolific in Lake Texoma, are creating a sensation in the Texas-Oklahoma fishing for Sandies is sport, as testified to by hundreds of after-dark fishermen who line the Roosevelt Bridge by Lake Texoma on U. S. Highway 70 between Durant and Kingston. Any evening from daylight you'll find the elbow along almost all the way to the bridge. The fishing technique is to say the least. As expected, most of them are in pairs, or families. They gives them a protected place to fish, it also furnishes a shelf for the necessary gear. This gear is what fascinated us. Actually, each group brings along its own electric power plant. There were 142 such units by actual count one night—a busy weekend. Each power unit is a home-made affair, and they differ like night and day. Simplest was the gasoline engine taken from a powered lawn mower, connected to an automobile generator, which in turn fed juice to a 300-watt bulb placed under a broad reflector hood that had been lowered some 75 feet from the bridge, to within a few inches of the water. Many rigs included a weight hanging down from the reflector on three lines a few feet in length. As the weight was submerged in water, this stabilized the light and kept it from swinging in the wind. A gallon tank of gas was sufficient fuel to last throughout the night. Some of the fishermen used Coleman or Bernz lanterns. These proved effective, but threw less light than did the electric units. The lanterns are better for the shallower water fishing, say some of the fishermen. The principle of the light was, of course, to attract insects. The insects fell into the water only to be gobbled up by the minnows and shad that also had been attracted by the brilliant light shining upon the water. Deeper down lay the larger fish, pan-size Sandies, gobbling up the crippled minnows that sank bottomward. Most fishermen used a short, heavy rod with a 20 to 28-pound braided line, and a small, inexpensive reel. How many are dropped overboard we do not know, but we're sure there must be plenty—which is another reason for using the less expensive rigs. A heavy lead weight is attached to the end of the line. A few feet above is a stageon about 12 to 18 inches long, to the end of which is tied on a small hook. Minnows are used as bait. That of course presents another problem, the matter of keeping the minnows alive while fishing from a bridge high above the water. Solution is a bull cord tied to the minnow bucket and long enough to lower the bucket into the water, and tie to the bridge railing. All of which means that it's a long pull to bring the fish up, once he's hooked, some twenty or thirty feet deep in the water; and it's another long pull to drag the bucket up again to re-

Fort Worth Has The Time

Texans have a big time. They also have a big time-piece. Fact of the matter is, it's the world's largest. It's the clock that's atop the 30-story Continental Bank Building in Fort Worth. Time is controlled by a microwave radio from the U. S. Observatory in Washington, D. C. The clock itself is five stories high. It weighs 77 tons and the numerals are so large—25 feet high and nine feet wide—that the clock can be read from a distance of five miles.

Gonzales Honors Flag

A plaque commemorating the making of the first battle flag of Texas hangs on the walls of the museum at Gonzales, in South Texas, the town where the flag was made. It was the first flag on which the now famous "lone star" was used.

"Good Enuf" For Comstock

Springs that provide 116,000,000 gallons of water per day should be good enough for anybody. That isn't all there is to it either. What to do with the fish presents another problem. Some ice them down, then and there, atop the bridge. Others drop a stringer into the water and keep the string of fish alive until ready to return home. Slickest deal we saw was by a Dallasite who used the metal stringer hooks, available in singles, that slide down the line. It was a fast ride to the water that his Sandies took, but it sure saved him the task of dragging an ever-increasing string of fish 100 or so feet out of the water each time he landed a Sandie.

Fishing off a bridge is illegal

in Texas. Although they can't do it at home, many Texans aren't missing the fun. A large number of the bridge fishermen we talked about were Texans who bought Oklahoma fishing licenses primarily to enjoy the sport of bridge fishing.

Famous Tree Near Rockport

You won't believe it until you see it yourself. It's the largest live oak tree in the world, and it's located by Goose Island State Park near Rockport, in Aransas County, on the Gulf Coast. This majestic symbol of the ages is more than 2,000 years old, having burst into life a hundred years before the birth of Christ. From its majestic trunk, branches spread forth 118 feet to shade the approximate area of a city block.

Famous San Antonio Fort

Teddy Roosevelt trained his famous Rough Riders in Texas in the same fort that housed such outstanding generals as Grant, Lee, Sheridan and Hood. It's the 3,000 acre Fort Sam Houston, the greatest Army post in the United States. It is located within the confines of San Antonio. Old "Fort Sam" dates back to the pre-Civil-War days and still is active today. Much of the old atmosphere remains. It's a sight to see, whether you're interested in the activities of today or of yesteryear.

Texas Has Taj Mahal

The Mission La Bahia del Espiritu Santo, located in Goliad, north of Corpus Christi, often is called the "Taj Mahal of Texas." Established in 1749, the mission stands proudly today in a rare and enviable beauty—a

Questions And Answers About Social Security

Question: I am age 66 and my wife is age 63. I will be eligible for $116 per month from my social security account when I retire. How much will my wife receive?

Answer: If you retire and your wife has not yet reached age 65 but decides to apply for her wife's benefits immediately, there will be a small reduction in her benefit amount. The amount of this reduction depends on the number of months for which she is paid benefits before age 65. If your benefit is $116 and your wife begins receiving payments the month she is age 63, her wife's benefit would be $48.40. If she chose to wait until age 65, her benefit would be $58. We suggest that she inquire with you; we will compute the amount of reduction, advise her of the various factors involved, and she may choose between filing at the time or waiting until later.

Question: My 3-year-old son is receiving benefits from his deceased father's social security account. I have remarried, and my husband is planning to legally adopt my son and change his name. How will this affect his social security benefits?

Answer: Your son will continue to receive his monthly benefit, but you should notify the Social Security Administration of the date of adoption and the change of name. A child's benefits are not affected if he is adopted by a step-parent, grandparent, aunt or uncle after the death of the parent on whose record the child's claim is based.

IS IT

Century
Christianity
In The 20th

Everywhere one hears that we are living in a changing world. Thus many assume that you cannot clothe the twentieth century in first century clothing. Transportation, farming, medicine, communications and practically every phase of business are undergoing constant change. Christianity, according to this thesis, must change to keep up with the times and the changing needs of man.

But is this really true? Have man's needs really changed? While all would concede the great advances brought about by material progress, some things fundamental to man's salvation have not changed . . . nor ever will.

MAN IS THE SAME

From the time of creation the nature of man has not changed. He has the same greed as did Lot when he chose the fertile valley in preference to the barren hills (Genesis 13). He has the same love for power and preeminence as did Diotrephes, a first century disciple who threatened the unity of a particular congregation (3 John 9). Man has the same lusts that have characterized men of every age—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life (1 John 2:16).

Man has, therefore, the same need for divine guidance, encouragement, sympathy, forgiveness, hope, and salvation that he has always had.

SIN IS THE SAME

In the Garden of Eden sin brought destruction to the peace and contentment of Adam and Eve and destroyed their blessedness of being with God. It resulted in their death and expulsion. In Noah's age sin was rampant throughout the land, and every imagination of man's heart was only evil continually (Genesis 6:5). This brought destruction to the world. When the children of Israel, a people in covenant relationship with God, were delivered from Egyptian slavery they sinned before God in the wilderness and brought upon themselves the condemnation of dying in the wilderness.

In Paul's day the warnings were no less urgent. Referring to the terrible spiritual consequences of sin, the apostle wrote: For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord (Romans 6:23).

CHRIST IS THE SAME

He is the divine Son of God, from everlasting to everlasting: "I am the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty (Revelation 1:8).

The Lord is never-changing and is acclaimed to be Jesus, the Christ, the same yesterday, and to day, and forever (Hebrews 13:8).

We can see, then, that man is the same. Sin is the same. Christ is the same. The gospel of Christ is the same, saving men through God's power the same today as it did in the first century (Romans 1:16).

Therefore, since obedience to the same gospel will make children of God of us today as it did in the first century, it is clear that first century Christianity is not only possible, but actually exists today when people are exactly dedicated to the New Testament and its precepts.

Churches of Christ today plead for a complete return to the New Testament as the sole rule of faith and practice in religion. We strive for religious unity on the basis of the pure Word of God. We urge purity of life and stress the one plan of salvation originally delivered by the apostles of Christ. We pray for everyone's acceptance of the one Lord, one faith, one baptism of first century Christianity.

Yes, first century Christianity is not only POSSIBLE but DESIRABLE! Jesus prayed for the unity of his followers (John 17:20-23). What will you do to help restore undenominational Christianity as it existed in the first century?

WATER DEVELOPMENT SPENDING LAGS

While Texans have been virtually unanimous on the urgent need for development and conservation of water resources during the past decade, actual State spending for such a program has lagged far behind other Western and Southwestern states.

Figures compiled by the U. S. Bureau of the Census have placed Texas next-to-last in a list of 18 Western and Southwestern states in its per capita spending on water and soil resources.

The annual per capita expenditure for developing and conserving water and soil resources in Texas was figured at 11 cents, compared with $2.34 in California, $1.36 in New Mexico, $1.13 in Utah, 92 cents in Montana, 87 cents in Wyoming, 64 cents in Arizona, 59 cents in North Dakota, 54 cents in Nevada, 52 cents in Colorado, 35 cents in Oklahoma, 21 cents in Iowa, 18 cents in Nebraska, 16 cents in Kansas, 14 cents in Washington and South Dakota, and 13 cents in Idaho. The only state below Texas on the list was Oregon, which spends 10 cents a head of its population on water and soil.

The vast progress exhibited by California in taking the lead in water and soil development is pointed up by a proposal which will be voted on this fall. The proposal is to issue some $1,750,000,000 in State bonds to pay for the world's largest water distribution system, designed to take care of all California water requirements for agricultural, industrial and municipal use for years to come. It has been noted that such a proposal in Texas would likely be regarded as so fantastic as to merit little if any consideration.

One of the few steps taken by the State toward extending State help in water programs was the approval by the voters some years ago of a $100,000,000 revolving bond fund to assist local projects by loans when they could be financed in no other way. This brought about the establishment of the Texas Water Development Board, which has yet to complete and finance its first actual loan.

Meanwhile, some two-thirds of all land under cultivation in California is irrigated, while the total irrigated area in Texas in June, 1959, was 7,140,443 acres. This 7,140,443 acres was more than one-fourth of the 28,800 acres counted as cropped Texas.

There has been little expansion of irrigated areas in Texas during the past two years.

Weimar resident, Mrs. L. G. Ringgenberg, says
"GLADIOLA is a must for yeast baking"

Mrs. L. G. Ringgenberg, Weimar, Texas

Encouraged by friends who tasted her delightful Glazed Raisin Loaf, Mrs. L. G. Ringgenberg, Route 3, Weimar, Texas, entered her recipe in the GLADIOLA'S "yeast bread" Baking-Recipe-of-the-Month Contest.

Upon learning that her recipe had won first prize, Mrs. Ringgenberg exclaimed, "I've never won anything in my life . . . and now here I am, the big winner."

One of the secrets of Mrs. Ringgenberg's yeast baking is GLADIOLA Special Hard Wheat Flour . . . with natural strength and character that guarantees uniform good texture whenever yeast breads are baked.

Mrs. Ringgenberg, who looks forward to baking the recipes found inside GLADIOLA flour packages, says, "I really love GLADIOLA flour, and it isn't just talk . . . I've tried almost every brand of flour and I always go back to GLADIOLA. I use it in all of my baking."

MRS. L. G. RINGGENBERG'S GLAZED RAISIN LOAF

|------------------------|--------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 cup seedless raisins | 1 teaspoon salt    | 1 cake compressed yeast |
| ¼ cup soft butter      | ½ cup scalded milk | ¼ cup lukewarm water    |
| ¼ cup sugar            |                    | 2 eggs, well beaten     |

4 cups (about) sifted GLADIOLA Special Hard Wheat Flour

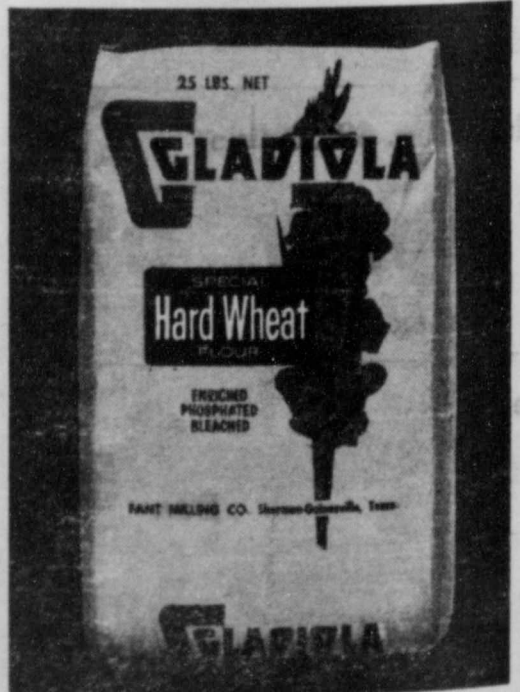

Combine raisins, butter, sugar, and salt in mixing bowl; add scalded milk, stir well, then cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add yeast, eggs, and 1 cup flour to cooled raisin mixture and beat until smooth; add remaining flour gradually, beating well, to make a medium soft dough. Cover and let rest 10 minutes, then knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, adding more flour as necessary to prevent sticking. Place dough in a greased bowl, turn to grease surface of dough, cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Punch down and let rest 10 minutes; shape into a loaf and place in a greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Cover and let rise until almost double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) about 30 minutes or until done. When loaf is sufficiently brown, cover lightly with foil to finish baking. Cool and glaze top with thin powdered sugar icing.

Clip this recipe and paste on file card.

Our Bible says: "And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb." ### GIRL SCOUT SHOUT

By MRS. HOUSTON DUREN

Monday afternoon, July 18, Mariner Troop 8 met with Howard Campbell at Lake Merritt to complete their Motorboating requirement of the Seaman Rating. Mr. Campbell gave the Mariners a short lecture on Motorboats. He pointed out various structural features, safety precautions of the manufacturers, and some practical advice on operating motorboats. In order to pass the requirement each Mariner operated the motorboat, using gears properly while observing safety precautions and pilot rules of the road. They were required to get the boat underway and to dock properly.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that this requirement is important to the Mariners in case they should ever need to use a motorboat in the rescue of a drowning person. Mariners who participated were: Kay Campbell, Judy Dalton, Lynetta Duren, Linda Featherston, Janis Moreland and Linda Yarborough.

GUARD AGAINST HEATSTROKE

Slow down a bit on these hot summer days. Overexposure to the sun, prolonged heat or hard physical labor in a hot or stuffy place can bring heat exhaustion quickly.

In heatstroke, body temperature rises, skin becomes hot and dry, face reddens and headache develops. Heat exhaustion works just the reverse. The patient's body becomes cool, perhaps clammy, with sweat. The best treatment for both conditions is preventative. National Safety Council recommends the following precautions:

- Increase salt intake to offset excessive loss of salt in the body through perspiration. Salt intake can be increased by drinking more salt to food, by drinking salted water, or by taking salt tablets.
- Avoid overexertion and overexposure to direct sun rays or extreme outdoor temperatures and high humidity.
- Wear a hat while outdoors; wear light, porous clothing.
- Eat nutritious food, but avoid over-eating. Drink water often through the day, one glass at a time. Avoid ice water and alcohol.

When heat stroke or heat exhaustion occurs, get a doctor at once and apply first aid treatment.
