Modern Brugs MEAN Lower Death Rates

With the advent of modern drugs, many serious and previously fatal diseases have been brought under control. Prescribed by physicians and dispensed by pharmacists, these drugs are serving mankind in every field of medicine.

And results can be measured with considerable accuracy in the lowered statistical death rates of such diseases as pneumonia, tuberculosis, mastoiditis, septicemia, syphlis and many other infectious conditions; in the leveling off and, in some cases, the decline of admissions to our mental institutions as well as tuberculosis hospitals, and, in the corresponding increase of the human life span in our United States. Whereas, in 1900, a newborn infant had a life expectancy of 40 years, today, the newborn can expect to reach the ripe age of 70! If there had been but a few ounces of sulfa drug in existence in 1923, Calvin Coolidge's son need not have arises.

1790, they had known of streptomycin or isoniazid or para-amino-salicyclic acid, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart might have lived beyond his brief thirty-five years to enrich mankind with even greater contributions of his genius. If there had been only a half-dozen doses of penicillin available in 1863, President Lincoln's son, Willy, need not have died of pneumonia.

Many of the drugs which we take for granted today just did not exist twentyfive years ago; some of them were unknown as recently as five years ago.

Our pharmacy and your physician are dedicated to your welfare. In keeping with the high standards of pharmacy, we maintain a comprehensive supply of these modern drugs of many brands, so that your prescription may be filled promptly and in accordance with your physician's specification whenever the need
