US Ag Secretary Draws Sell-Out Audience

Farmers Make Pleas, Voice Proposals

Over 500 were turned away at the doors, while in the packed Lubbock Municipal Auditorium, farmers in excess of 3,000 came to voice their concerns, hard-ships and proposals to United States Department of Agriculture Secretary, John Block.

While some shows of resentment and emotions were present, the outbursts were rapidly quelled. For the most part, within the farmers' ranks, Secretary Block remained unshaken and composed, declaring that he was here for some 'one on one' conversation. Jack Block, the Illinois hog farmer, feels your pain and knows the trouble we are in. I'm here to listen to your proposals and to try together to come up with some solutions for us all.

Those who came, expecting a 'cure-all' plan or immediate response to their suggestions, went away disappointed, however. Willingly admitting that he did not have all the answers, Block told the crowd that he had come to them for help and for ideas that might shed a light on the answers.

Secretary Block answered questions from the floor, posed by farmers who lined the east and west walls of the auditorium. Each one hoping to be able to take his turn at talking with the Secretary. Most of them got their chance.

When questioned regarding the farm set aside program, Block stated that the 15 and 10 percent layouts were a step in the right direction. "These percentages were designed so as to ensure maximum participation," he said. "We will have to work from there. I have worked hard to get that far."

In response to many inquiries regarding the $600 million in economic emergency loan money scheduled for release, Block told the farmers that the distribution plans were underway at this time and should be made public within the next ten days. Block stated, however, that there was more than ample funds in FmHA to finance farmers who are eligible. "The amount of funds now in FmHA has been doubled from last year. We are trying to keep every farmer in business that has a reasonable chance of success."

At a 4:30 p.m. airport press conference, Block

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has announced that Phillip Land from his Lubbock field office will be at the Bailey County courthouse in the commissioner's courtroom on March 9, 1982, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. A commissioner's representative.

GTE TOLL CABLE--Construction is underway in placing 34 miles of toll cable between Littlefield and Muleshoe, to be used for handling expected increases in long distance service over the next 10 years. Amherst and Sudan will also be provided with additional long distance and data transmission capabilities. The new facility is expected to be complete by August.

Sales Tax Monthly Rebate Up, Down For Year

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday returned $106.4 million in local sales tax payments to 954 cities who levy the one-percent local tax.

"This is the biggest single payment since city sales tax rebates began in 1968," Bullock said.

The $106.4 million payment represents a 16 percent jump over last February's checks, which in turn had grown 16 percent over the previous February. Payments so far in 1982 are running 13.2 percent above last year's January-February total.

"This increase is higher than inflation and population growth put together," Bullock said, "and at least part of this rise has to come from our work making sure these cities get every penny of sales tax that's coming to them."

The City of Muleshoe's net payment for this year was $29,984.16, which is slightly higher than the $29,858.76 from the 1981 period. Total payments for Muleshoe for 1982 to date are $39,195.33, which is a -2.37 percent from 1981's $40,148.09.

In the City of Morton, net payment for this period was $8,254.14, less than $1 difference between that amount and last year's figure of $8,253.74. Total

Free Ride On Insurance Ends April Fools' Day

The free ride that Texas Department of Safety officials and other law enforcement agencies have been giving Texas motorists regarding compliance with the new state insurance law, will come to a screeching halt on April 1.

This law officially went on the books effective January 1, 1982, however, a 90 day grace period has been observed by the DPS to allow uninsured motorists to obtain proof of liability. April Fool's Day will end that grace period. After that date, all motorists stopped by the DPS for any traffic violation, will be ticketed unless they can show proof of liability coverage.

Some Texas cities' officers are already issuing citations for this violation; while in some other cities, officers of the law are merely instructing citizens on how to comply with this new law. The tickets have, so far, been issued after a motorist has been stopped for another violation, and not in a check point procedure.

Texas Property Tax Code Changes State Tax Laws

Kenneth Graeber, executive director of the State Property Tax Board (SPTB) announced a statewide effort to inform property owners in Texas of their rights and remedies as taxpayers.

"Major changes in the state's tax laws were effective January 1 with implementation of the new Texas Property Tax Code," Graeber said. Among the more significant provisions are those which:

--Establish a central appraisal district in each county which will value all property for tax purposes and provide that value to each taxing unit in the district;

--Provide a single board of equalization -- which will be empowered to hear taxpayer appeals on a wide range of matters rather than just questions of value;

--Make it possible for taxpayers to file all exemption applications and property renditions with one office in a county rather than with multiple tax offices;

--Permit one-time applications for homestead exemptions and open-space land valuation, rather than annual applications as previously required;

--Provide, for the first time in Texas, a method for taxpayers to limit property tax increases to eight percent annually through an initiative and referendum process applicable to all taxing units.

Graeber said that in all except 17 of the state's 254 counties, the new appraisal district has been implemented. Local officials delayed appraisal district operations until 1983 in Bexar, Glasscock, Gray, Hartley, Jasper, Jeff Davis, King, Leon, McMullen, Moore, Oldham, Rockwall, Stonewall and Zapata Counties.

Implementation of full appraisal district operations was delayed until 1984 in Bowie, Crockett and Harris counties.

PUC Drops Services Penalty On GTE

The Public Utility Commission of Texas Thursday (Jan. 14) voted to drop a $4 million annual service penalty it levied against General Telephone Company of the Southwest in August 1980, citing significant improvements in service made by the company since that time.

E. L. Langley, president of General Telephone, said the company is extremely pleased at the commission's actions which recognized the efforts of employees and the company's multimillion-dollar service improvement investment.

"I am sure I speak for the entire General Telephone of the Southwest family when I say our feeling is one of elation and gratitude, of course, that our service improvements have been recognized so the penalty could be lifted. We certainly hope to never again be in a position to have a service penalty imposed on the company. It was a sobering and embarrassing situation.

"The company and the General System invested millions of Capital and maintenance dollars and other resources into the service improvement program, not to mention the significantly increased number of manpower added, and we are pleased for the way all employees have responded to customer-service needs. Even though the various measurements of our services, both of the PUC and our own, indicate we are meeting or exceeding the PUC service standards in most areas our commitment continues to be to meet individual customer expectations. Quality customer service and positive customer perception is our bottom line objective. We will continue to diligently pursue that mission."

Executives on the way up keep abreast of new developments in their field.

If you're a marketing executive or a design professional, for example, a newsletter is available that lets you tap the most productive marketing minds in the U.S. Called the Professional Marketing Report, it covers topics ranging from appraising your marketing effort, to how to act in front of an audience. The monthly report contains about 6,800 words per issue, some 82,000 words a year. All the articles are crisply written, including the one on how to write right. Poultry Houses Push Up Utility Bills

Drafts in poultry houses affect the chickens and also push utility bills up. Since poultry producers have to absorb these costs because they can't pass them on to the consumer, they need to give careful attention to identifying and adopting efficient practices, says a poultry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Tacking plastic sheeting on inside walls of poultry houses can reduce air leakage. For efficient lighting, use 25-watt bulbs with reflectors and keep the bulbs clean.

Early Calving Cows More Profitable

Early calving cows bring in more dollars per head at marketing time. "Producers who only wean their calves at one specific time during the year need to be aware of the importance of early calving," says Dr. L. R. Sprott of Bryan, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Late calving cows usually wean lighter calves which mean fewer pounds of beef going to market," he notes.

A demonstration on the Nash Ranch in Brazoria County bears this out. Heifers were bred from late May to early September, 1980, and calved from early March to mid-June, 1981. All calves were weaned in late September.

Records show that the calves born between March and April had higher weaning weights and sold at higher prices at marketing time, Sprott explained. Early born steers brought $72 more per head and early born heifers brought $64 more.

To shorten the calving period of cows, Sprott sug-

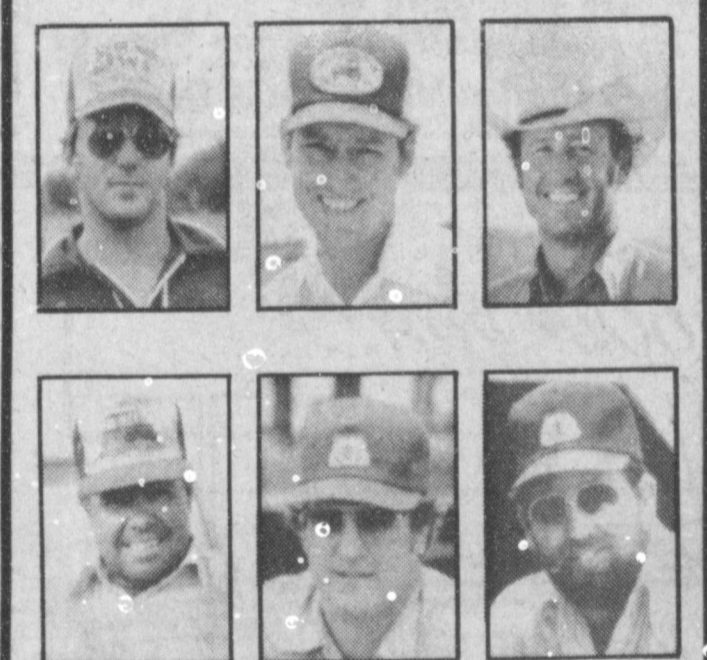

- gests these steps:
1. Replace late calvers with early calving cows.
 2. Take bulls out of the breeding herd 10 to 15 days earlier than the past year for three to four consecutive years until a 60- to 75-day breeding season is reached.
 3. Don't let cows get thin before calving because thin cows are slow to rebreed.
 4. Synchronize estrus to enable more uniform breeding.
- "Shortening the calving season can be an important step in improving the efficiency of cow-calf operations," says Sprott. "And its something producers can do with a minimum of management."

MRS. CURTIS JOE HUNT
[nee Darla Lavon Rhodes]

Home Ceremony Unites Miss Lavon Rhodes, Hunt

Miss Darla Lavon Rhodes became the bride of Curtis Joe Hunt Sunday, February 21, at 2 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents: M. B. Baldwin, great uncle of the bride, read the double ring vows. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rhodes and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt, all of Muleshoe. The fireplace setting was enhanced with baskets of jade and emerald. Brass hurricane lamps with apricot tapers accented with a floral arrangement of apricot roses, apricot bell flowers, gypsophila and spring-ria, complemented the mantel setting. Taped selections of the theme from "Ice Castles" and "The Lord's Prayer" by soloist Belinda Caswell of Muleshoe and organist, Marcella Jennings of Lazbuddie, were played during the ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza and vallice fashioned with a victorian neckline of lace, full length bishop sleeves cuffed with lace and a ruffle at the waist. The natural waisted bodice had a sheer see-thru yoke of Brussell lace accented with seed pearls. A full A-line crystal pleated skirt cascaded into a chapel length train. A band of lace formed the hemline of the skirt and train. A band of lace encompassed the waistline. Her headpiece was a picture hat of organza, holding a walking length rolled edge veil of illusion. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of sonia roses, button poms, white marguerite daisies, apricot carnations and gypsophila tied with white lace and apricot satin streamers. In keeping with tradition, she wore pennies, minted in the year of their birth, in her shoes for something old. Something new was her dress, and for something blue, she wore a blue garter. Tori Hunt, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. She wore a street length apricot modified shirt dress with a tucked bodice and three quarter length cuffed sleeves. She carried a long stemmed apricot rose with gypsophila and satin tube petals tied with apricot and white satin bow and streamers. Best man was Kim Black brother-in-law of the groom, of Muleshoe. Following the ceremony, a reception was held. The members of the houseparty included Mrs. Kim Black, sister of the groom, and JoRonda Rhodes, sister of the bride. Following a wedding trip to Albuquerque, N.M., the couple will make their home at Route Two, Muleshoe. For traveling, the bride chose a Charlie's Original denim pant suit in shades of her chosen colors. Out of town wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Baldwin of Plainview, grandparents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Baldwin, of Grand Prairie, great uncle of the bride. The bride will be a 1982 graduate of Muleshoe High School. Hunt is a 1981 graduate of Muleshoe High School and is employed at Western '66' Co. A barbeque buffet rehearsal dinner was held in the home of the groom's parents. Shades of the bride's chosen colors of apricot, brown and earth-tone was carried out in the table centerpieces and decorations.

Farmers...

was at a loss for an explanation when questioned as to how many farmers he considered expendable.
Another query of "How long do you think that the American farmer and the family farm can survive when costs of production continue to outweigh profits?" Block parried with this: "Farmers are a hardy, proud people, they are survivors. They will survive again. I fully concur that these are disastrous times, and likely the worst that farmers will see." In a later statement Block pledged himself to "working as a tireless evangelist, preaching the gospel of agriculture industry fighting for its interests. I need your help," Block said.

After hearing charges by several farmers alleging that the government cotton classing office at Lubbock had purposely downgraded West Texas cotton, Block firmly stated that this "would be looked into immediately." Farmers had pulled samples that had been previously graded by the Lubbock office and had them re-graded at Texas Tech, revealing a $15-$30 difference in per bale value due the farmer. A Shallowater farmer charged that "we (the farmers) have been robbed blind for years by this classing office and its outdated procedures." Block scheduled an inspection of facility Friday morning.

A great number of the farmers urged Block to reenact the "Dole Flexible Parity Bill." Another suggestion was the "Stegall Amendment." A Paducah farmer said that under the amendment, farmers and the U. S. flourished and fed countless European countries as well.

A Hereford man beseeched the Secretary to "let us help you. We can turn this around, if you'll help us. When we receive fair market prices for our products, we make money and we spend money. We buy cars, tractors, and implements for starters. We can put the United Auto Workers back to work and put an end to a lot of unemployment." Statistics reveal that for every one farmer who goes down, thirty other people across the land go under as well.

In answer to questions regarding the embargoed grain that is stored in High Plains elevators, Block told the farmers that the low-grade corn that is stored is scheduled for use in alcohol production and will not be used to flood or suppress their markets.

Block stood pat on many subjects, while acknowledging that he had the discretion to set loan rates higher or nearer parity.
The town-hall type meeting was conducted in a fairly orderly fashion that ended with a standing ovation for the Secretary and a wish from the farmers that "God be with you in all your decisions." Farmers expressed not only their problems, but their thanks and appreciation for the audience with the Agriculture Secretary.

Tax...

The SPTB administrator noted that in counties which have delayed appraisal district implementation, taxpayers should file their property renditions and exemption applications with city, school, county and special district tax offices as in prior years. In all other counties, renditions and exemption applications should be filed with the appraisal district's chief appraiser.

"It is important that taxpayers file renditions and applications for tax relief prior to May 1," Graeber said.

To call attention to available exemptions and tax administration procedures, he noted that SPTB will be working with appraisal districts, local tax offices and the state's news media to help make Texans aware of changes in the law.

"State law requires any person who owns or manages income-producing personal property on January 1 to file a rendition statement with the appraisal district," Graeber noted.

Additionally, the chief appraiser of a county may require rendition of other taxable property upon notice to the owner or manager.

Special rendition procedures apply to property on which an exemption applicable on January 1 terminates during the tax year. In such a case, the person who owns or acquires the property on the date eligibility for the exemption terminates must render the property for taxation within 30 days of that date.

Banks and railroad companies are required to file special rendition statement with the appraisal district chief appraiser.

Graeber said rendition forms are available from appraisal district offices or from local tax offices in those counties where appraisal district implementation was delayed. Transportation businesses may obtain report forms from the State Property Tax Board in Austin.

Complete information on rendition requirements and on the availability of tax exemptions and special valuation for agricultural land is contained in a pamphlet produced by SPTB titled "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities."

The pamphlet, which also includes suggestions on how to prepare and present a taxpayer appeal, is available at no charge from appraisal district offices, from most local tax offices, or from the State Property Tax Board.

"The property tax is the primary source of local government revenue in Texas, and will generate approximately $6 billion this year to help fund the operations of public schools, cities, counties and special districts," Graeber said.

"We urge all property owners to become familiar with the tax process and to file renditions and apply for all exemptions or other tax relief measures to which they are entitled," Graeber concluded.

Texas Water Plan were announced today by the Governor's Water Task Force and the Texas Department of Water Resources.

An April 1 meeting is scheduled in Lubbock in the Home Economics Auditorium on the Texas Tech campus, starting at 7 p.m.

Among the issues to be discussed are: water resources management for population and economic growth; water laws; water quality management; flood protection; water conservation; bays, estuaries, in-stream flows and fish and wildlife habitat; regionalization of water and sewerage systems; reservoir operations procedures; water importation; project priorities; research and development of new technology; and the state's role in financing water development and wastewater treatment projects.

Names of moderators and the format for the meetings will be announced soon.

Individual citizens, water resource professionals, public officials, and special interest organizations are urged to attend one or more of the public meetings to participate in the development of an amended Water Plan.

The Debt & Federal Land

Senators Charles Percy, Paula Hawkins and others have introduced legislation to authorize the government to sell federal lands and pay off the nation's debt with funds received.

If vast acreage is sold, many billions could be collected, and a major part of the one trillion dollar national debt retired. Some even feel enough land could be sold to retire most of the huge debt, but this is disputed.

Senator Percy would exempt parks and national forests, etc., and sell only a part of what is called real property—carried on the books at a value of $130 billion. In many cases this land is, however, vastly under-valued. So it may be that even keeping inviolate parks and forests, etc., a considerable amount could be raised.

Certainly there is vast federal acreage in the west and in Alaska. Whatever is no longer needed by the federal government, and one suspects it's more than anyone realizes, and whatever its value, and one suspects it's considerable, should be auctioned off. The money received could not be better used than applied to the huge, growing national debt.

Chester Nimitz

The towering figure of World War II in the U.S. Navy was the late Admiral Chester Nimitz. Nimitz was born on February 24, 1885, at Fredericksburg, Texas. As a youngster he leaned toward West Point but won an appointment to Annapolis in 1901.

After graduation in 1905, Nimitz was sent to China and though he asked for duty aboard battleships, he was assigned submarines. When the First World War overtook America he served on the staff of the commander of the submarine force in the Atlantic, and was commended for his wartime service.

By 1939, he was an admiral, and chief of the Bureau of Navigation in Washington, already considered second in the Navy only to Admiral Harold Stark. Following the Pearl Harbor disaster, he was sent to that Pacific base to take command of the Pacific fleet. He served there for the rest of the war, eventually commanding the largest and most powerful naval force ever assembled.

The Navy began World War II badly prepared and with inferior torpedoes; though the Japanese won many of the early naval engagements between the fleets, the U.S. Navy gradually emerged during 1942 and early 1943 as the more effective fleet.

Submarines of the U.S. Navy—Nimitz's old specialty—were outstanding and did more than air power or surface units of the fleet to strangle the economy of Japan. But air and surface forces were also brilliantly utilized; architect of the ocean triumph was Chester Nimitz.

AUSTIN—The role of being an educator is a difficult one. Among many talents, it requires knowing "what" needs to be taught.

This is one problem that the Texas Legislature has faced each legislative session. Unfortunately, in past eagerness to teach our children everything of value, legislators added more and more requirements to our laws mandating what had to be taught. This resulted in a problem of overload. The children received exposure to more branches of knowledge but they weren't learning such basic skills as reading, writing, and arithmetic.

During the last session of the Legislature, there was a long overdue backlash to this situation. Legislation was passed which eliminated previous course requirements which set forth a procedure to establish a new core curriculum that concentrates instruction in twelve basic areas.

This legislation designates the state board of education to determine the essential elements of the new core curriculum. The state board is moving forward prudently on this assigned task. It has selected from across the state experts in various subject fields who have begun their research. Though a report is to be made to the next Legislature, the task will not be completed at that time. There will be many opportunities for varied input in the decision-making process, but the legislation does require that the final decisions will be made by the state board, not by the Legislature as before.

It might sound like an easy task but there are varying adamant opinions as to what should be included in this curriculum.

We must remember that behind this strong sentiment is a similar desire to provide the best possible education for our children. There is no disagreement on that point.

The final decisions will require a phase-in method of implementation. Therefore, the effects of this legislation may not be felt for two to three years and not be finished for years after that.

I sincerely hope that the state board of education can determine a core curriculum which emphasizes basic skills and which will be acceptable to all concerned. In addition, I believe that Texas should continue to provide adequate finances so that all schools will be able to offer some additional school subjects, as local communities and local school boards may deem necessary.

The question is as old as wheat farming: Has a yield plateau been reached in wheat production? This question was recently raised at an international symposium on wheat yields. General opinion of most plant scientists was: The potential for further genetic improvement in wheat does exist. With that possibility is the definite probability of continued yield increases. Many scientists pointed out, although the process of refinement and, therefore, yield increases is quite slow and tedious, the increases will be a vast improvement over the varieties of 10-15 years ago. On the very near horizon, for example, are the highly refined techniques of single cell culture and gene surgery. Both of these look extremely promising, though still in their technological infancies. There has been no plateau in technology and what follows technology more closely than yield?

CAPITOL UPDATE

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The increasing productivity of American farmers is one of the greatest success stories of the 20th century. This phenomenon has been made possible not only by improved technology, but also by the ever-increasing skill of our farmers.

Farming today is both a business and a precise science. Today's farmer is an expert in meteorology, soil sciences, marketing, finance, and even computers.

The Future Farmers of America have played an important part in developing today's cadre of skilled farmers. We observe National FFA Week February 20-27, a good opportunity for all of us who enjoy the bounty of the farmer's labor to pause to consider his contribution to our lives and our nation's economy.

For 55 years, FFA has helped prepare young men and women for careers in the industry of agriculture. I am proud to be the first member of the U.S. Senate to become a life member of the National FFA Alumni Association.

This vocational student organization has given us producers and suppliers of agriculture products, community and business leaders, and government representatives at all levels. Currently, the organization includes nearly 500,000 students in 8,000 schools throughout the U.S. These young people are learning to be good citizens as well as productive agri-business leaders.

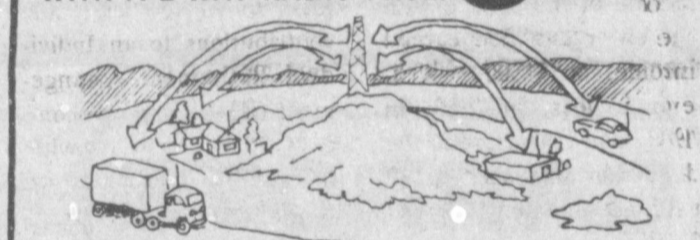

FFA Week coincides with the birthdate of George Washington, a fine agriculturalist as well as a primary shaper of our nation. Farming was the mainstay of early America, and continues to be our most basic industry. We are the best-fed nation in the history of the world. Our farmers also supply much of the rest of the world with basic agricultural commodities -- and in the process make a major contribution to the U.S. balance of payments.

Texas plays a particularly crucial role in American agriculture. Our state ranks third in cash receipts for overall agricultural production. We produce in some quantity virtually every agricultural product that is found within the continental United States. We rank first in upland cotton production, first in sorghum grain production, first in wool production, first in cattle feed, and high on the list for a host of other products.

Texas owes much of its prosperity to its farmers. Thus, it is particularly fitting that we recognize the young men and women in FFA who are about to embark on careers in agriculture.

This is a trying time for the agricultural industry. Costs are rising; markets are uncertain, and high interest rates impose heavy burdens. But the need for dedicated, competent farmers is greater than ever before. I am proud of the young Texans who are working to make farming more productive, and who are willing to commit themselves to a career in this vital industry.

Drivers Can Save Money On Insurance

For the first time, motorists are required to be covered by liability insurance. Texas legislature enacted the compulsory liability insurance law which goes into effect January 1, 1982.

Minimums required are: bodily injury protection of $10,000 per person ($20,000 for two or more persons) and property damage of $5,000.

Expect tough enforcement from all law enforcement officials who may request proof of insurance at every routine traffic encounter. First offense is class C misdemeanor, not less than $75 fine payable at municipal court. Second and subsequent offenses move to class B misdemeanor, with fine of not less than $200.00, with license and registration suspended.

Up to 30% of all Texas drivers are not currently covered.

WAYS DRIVERS CAN SAVE MONEY

1. Drive defensively, have no accidents, not speed.

Driving records for 3 years form basis for insurance premiums. More than three tickets or one driver's fault accident will result in re-examination of policy in force. Result will likely be cancellation of current policy at year's end and transferal to county mutual or assigned risk pool policy.

2. Take a Defensive Driving Course (DDC).

Texas Safety Association statistics show those who complete the 8-hour Defensive Driving Course (DDC) are better drivers. The Texas State Board of Insurance allows insurance companies to grant those who complete the course a ten percent reduction in insurance rates.

10% DISCOUNT FACTS

The 10% discount applies for three years and can be renewed by taking the eight-hour course again, is allowed for the principal driver of each family car, and applies to policies written by rat-regulated carriers. Discounts are given at the discretion of assigned risk pool and county mutual carriers.

Written and produced by the National Safety Council in Chicago, Illinois, and administered by the Texas Safety Association, the DDC is taught by instructors in more than 650 agencies across the state with around 225,000 graduates each year.

Laws On Social Security Misuse Now In Effect

Stricter laws regarding the misuse of Social Security numbers and cards are now in effect, according to Laura Peacock, manager of the Lubbock social security district office.

A law signed by President Reagan in late December 1981 provides criminal penalties for: 1. using a Social Security card obtained with false information, 2. using someone else's Social Security number, 3. buying, selling, or counterfeiting Social Security Cards, or, 4. possessing a regular or counterfeit card with intent to sell or alter it.

"An unlawful act affecting the Social Security Card or number is now considered a FELONY, rather than a MISDEMEANOR," Peacock added.

Penalties for conviction can be a fine of up to $5,000 or a prison term of up to five years - or both.

According to Peacock, individuals wishing to report misuse of Social Security cards or numbers should call the Social Security office listed in the directory or the HHS hot line in Washington D.C. at 202-472-4222.

Working Couples Will See Tax Relief In 1983

Beginning in 1982, new provisions in the federal tax law will bring some relief to many two-earner families. Working couples generally pay higher taxes on their joint income than they would pay if they were single. This is called the "marriage tax penalty."

Under the new law, couples filing jointly may be able to deduct up to $1500 in 1982 and $3000 in 1983. They will not have to itemize deductions on Schedule A of Form 1040 to claim this deduction.

The new tax law will allow working couples filing a joint return to deduct from gross income either five percent of the earned income of the spouse with the lower qualified earned income, or $1500, whichever is less, in 1982. In 1983 and thereafter, the deduction increases to 10 percent, but cannot exceed $3000.

Also increased in 1982 is the Child and Dependent Care Credit. A taxpayer with an income of $10,000 or less and one qualifying child or dependent will get a maximum credit of $720, while those who make more than $28,000 get a $480 maximum credit. For two or more qualifying individuals, the maximum credit will range from $1440 to $960. Under prior law the maximum credit was $400 for one qualifying dependent and $800 for two or more.

Also, for the first time in 1982 the new legislation will allow workers who are already covered by an employers' qualified pension plan to make deductible contributions to an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) or to the company plan itself provide that the plan provides for voluntary employee contributions.

Farmers Should Beware Of Soil Insects

Farmers in Bailey County have been battling increasing numbers of soil insect pests in recent years due to the loss of some effective seed protectants and a general increase in pest populations.

Soil insects generally attack plants at, or slightly below, the soil surface, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. They feed on germinating seed, tender shoots and on roots of developing plants. Some tunnel into the crown of young plants. Heavy infestations can reduce stands and make replanting necessary.

Common soil insects include several species of cutworms, such as the variegated cutworm, black cutworm and climbing cutworms; wireworms and false wireworms; soil maggots; rootworms and white grubs.

Wireworms and false wireworms often cause severe problems for grain sorghum and corn producers, notes Tanksley.

Soil maggots, including the seedcorn maggot and onion maggot, often cause seedling losses, especially in cool, wet soils.

Corn rootworms are severe pests of corn and grain sorghum. They reduce stands on thousands of acres each year and are probably the most serious soil pests in Texas.

White grubs attack corn, sorghum, small grains, vegetables and other crops. One white grub per foot of row will cause a stand loss in grain sorghum.

If damaging soil pest populations are detected, apply an approved pesticide according to label directions, suggests Tanksley.

Treated seed are effective against light infestation of wireworms and corn rootworms while broadcast or row-band applications are required for heavy infestations. Broadcast applications are usually necessary to obtain effective control of white grubs.

Drivers Can Save Money On Insurance

For the first time, motorists are required to be covered by liability insurance. Texas legislature enacted the compulsory liability insurance law which goes into effect January 1, 1982.

Up to 30% of all Texas drivers are not currently covered.

Driving records for 3 years form basis for insurance premiums. More than three tickets or one driver's fault accident will result in re-examination of policy in force. Result will likely be cancellation of current policy at year's end and transfer to county mutual or assigned risk pool policy.

2. Take a Defensive Driving Course (DDC).

Texas Safety Association statistics show those who complete the 8-hour Defensive Driving Course (DDC) are better drivers. The Texas State Board of Insurance allows insurance companies to grant those who complete the course a ten percent reduction in insurance rates.

10% DISCOUNT FACTS

The 10% discount applies for three years and can be renewed by taking the eight-hour course again, is allowed for the principal driver of each family car, and applies to policies written by rate-regulated carriers. Discounts are given at the discretion of assigned risk pool and county mutual carriers.

Written and produced by the National Safety Council in Chicago, Illinois, and administered by the Texas Safety Association, the DDC is taught by instructors in more than 650 agencies across the state with around 225,000 graduates each year.

Laws On Social Security Misuse Now In Effect

Stricter laws regarding the misuse of Social Security numbers and cards are now in effect, according to Laura Peacock, manager of the Lubbock social security district office.

A law signed by President Reagan in late December 1981 provides criminal penalties for: 1. using a Social Security card obtained with false information, 2. using someone else's Social Security number, 3. buying, selling, or counterfeiting Social Security Cards, or, 4. possessing a regular or counterfeit card with intent to sell or alter it.

"An unlawful act affecting the Social Security Card or number is now considered a FELONY, rather than a MISDEMEANOR," Peacock added.

Penalties for conviction can be a fine of up to $5,000 or a prison term of up to five years - or both.

According to Peacock, individuals wishing to report misuse of Social Security cards or numbers should call the Social Security office listed in the directory or the HHS hot line in Washington D.C. at 202-472-4222.

Working Couples Will See Tax Relief In 1983

Beginning in 1982, new provisions in the federal tax law will bring some relief to many two-earner families. Working couples generally pay higher taxes on their joint income than they would pay if they were single. This is called the "marriage tax penalty."

Under the new law, couples filing jointly may be able to deduct up to $1500 in 1982 and $3000 in 1983. They will not have to itemize deductions on Schedule A of Form 1040 to claim this deduction.

The new tax law will allow working couples filing a joint return to deduct from gross income either five percent of the earned income of the spouse with the lower qualified earned income, or $1500, whichever is less, in 1982. In 1983 and thereafter, the deduction increases to 10 percent, but cannot exceed $3000.

Also increased in 1982 is the Child and Dependent Care Credit. A taxpayer with an income of $10,000 or less and one qualifying child or dependent will get a maximum credit of $720, while those who make more than $28,000 get a $480 maximum credit. For two or more qualifying individuals, the maximum credit will range from $1440 to $960. Under prior law the maximum credit was $400 for one qualifying dependent and $800 for two or more.

Also, for the first time in 1982 the new legislation will allow workers who are already covered by an employers' qualified pension plan to make deductible contributions to an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) or to the company plan itself provide that the plan provides for voluntary employee contributions.

Farmers Should Beware Of Soil Insects

Farmers in Bailey County have been battling increasing numbers of soil insect pests in recent years due to the loss of some effective seed protectants and a general increase in pest populations.

Soil insects generally attack plants at, or slightly below, the soil surface, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. They feed on germinating seed, tender shoots and on roots of developing plants. Some tunnel into the crown of young plants. Heavy infestations can reduce stands and make replanting necessary.

Common soil insects include several species of cutworms, such as the variegated cutworm, black cutworm and climbing cutworms; wireworms and false wireworms; soil maggots; rootworms and white grubs.

Wireworms and false wireworms often cause severe problems for grain sorghum and corn producers, notes Tanksley.

Soil maggots, including the seedcorn maggot and onion maggot, often cause seedling losses, especially in cool, wet soils.

Corn rootworms are severe pests of corn and grain sorghum. They reduce stands on thousands of acres each year and are probably the most serious soil pests in Texas.

White grubs attack corn, sorghum, small grains, vegetables and other crops. One white grub per foot of row will cause a stand loss in grain sorghum.

If damaging soil pest populations are detected, apply an approved pesticide according to label directions, suggests Tanksley.

Treated seed are effective against light infestation of wireworms and corn rootworms while broadcast applications are required for heavy infestations. Broadcast applications are usually necessary to obtain effective control of white grubs.

Child Care Class Held In Health

A unit in child care was presented in a very unique way. The health classes, under the direction of Mrs. Gwyn Murray, cared for children represented by eggs during the week of February 15-19. Monday each student received a single egg, meaning one child, or two eggs, meaning a set of twins. The eggs were colored pink or blue distinguishing each as a boy or girl. Students were considered child abusers if they cracked their eggs or had their eggs kidnapped. On Friday, these abusers were sentenced to court and tried by a jury of their peers. Many "children" were kidnapped and held for ransom for two candy bars or jelly beans, etc. The students proven guilty were punished by having to wear child abuser signs or having to tell their teachers that they were child abusers.

This fun project was enjoyed by the students and teachers of MHS. It was done in a mature manner, helping students to realize the many responsibilities a parent has in raising a family.

There is no quick method of making the uncertain certain, so learn to be patient.

High School Faculty Entertains Students

The Muleshoe High School faculty entertained the student body with their presentation of the "Faculty Follies," Thursday, February 25, at 10:00 a.m. in the high school auditorium. This spectacular production presented musical numbers from the 40's all the way to the 80's. Representing the 40's were the famous Andrews Sisters with their presentation of "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" and "Strip Polka." Jean Allison, Esther Marie Dillman and Lucy Faye Smith were complete in World War II WAAC uniforms. The Bugle Boy, also in uniform, was Eddie Chance.

Rickety Rackety Sam, alias Wayland Ethridge, presented a piano medley, also from the 40's.

The Twisters did "Sitting in the Back Seat" from the 50's. The seven girls sitting in the back seat of the red convertible were Linda Tankley, Mollie Degge, Elaine Estrada, Kristi Phelps, Jean Allison, Dorine Harbin, and Stephanie Barrett, who is

The famous Osmonds, Donnie and Marie of the 70's, were outstanding in their medley including "It Takes Two" and "Paper Roses." Johanna Wrinkle and Stephen Johnson, in their white pants trimmed in sequins and their matching purple shirts, sang and danced.

The well known Dolly Partin, Pat Black, accompanied by Rickety Rackety Sam Ethridge, sang "Jolene" and "Nine to Five." Her black sequined costume

Tennis Season Practice Opens

The 1982 tennis season practice opened on Monday, February 15. The people who are out for tennis are K-K Flowers, Kelly Hamblen, Todd Holt, Staci Vandiver, Lupe Rosales, Preston Scoggin, Kristi Heathington, Wayne Precure, Cristal Taylor, Leroy Hurtado, Jay Cage, Jimmie Lee, Kristi and Scott Campbell, Paul Silguero, Jeff Hamilton, Charlotte Morris, Alan Finney, Terry Graves, Cheyenne Bickel, Tyree Vandiver, Kanda Mason, Cindy Turner, Robert Vela and Rob Donaldson.

Each player will be interviewed later in the season. No cuts have been made on the team, but will be made before the first dual match which is on March 1 in Farwell at 4 p.m.

glittered as she kept the rhythm of the 70's and 80's.

The MKG's, Molly Degge, Kristi Phelps, and Gwyn Murray, sang a medley beginning with "Sentimental Journey" of the 60's followed by "Cotton Fields," and "The Rose."

The Pointer Sisters sang "He's So Shy" to John David Agee. The Pointer Sisters, in their rolled up blue jeans and head bands, were Gwyn Murray, Kristi Phelps and Molly Degge.

The last group to appear were the "Oakridge Boys" of the 80's. They sang "Elvira" a religious medley and "Blaze of Glory." The Oakridge Boys were Scott Murray, Kevin Wiseman, Bob Graves and Wayland Ethridge. Wayland Ethridge also did the piano accompaniment and Steven Ethridge, an eighth grade student, accompanied on the drums.

"Celebration" was the finale when each member of the musical returned for special recognition.

Special thanks go to Kevin Robinson for serving as the disc jockey for the production and to Gary Watkins, Dale Hughes, Jimmy Lee, John David Agee, and Steven Ethridge. These students helped with the curtain, lights, sound, etc. Mrs. Elizabeth Black added her talent to the production with professional signs presented on an easel announcing each number.

The small admission charge of 25 cents was charged for the production, and the money collected will be presented at graduation in the form of a scholarship to a graduating senior.

It is rumored that the MHS faculty enjoyed presenting this extravaganza as much as the students enjoyed seeing the "true" talent of their teachers and administrators.

WILTED LOVE

I don't think I'll ever understand
Where do you leave all your love
When here in my heart,
it's in demand

Why do you seem so cold
It really confuses me
Why do you act so bold

At school you act like a stranger
But elsewhere you act so friendly
My heart only keeps warning:
DANGER

I feel I want to cry
I know I should forget you
So, I guess I'll just say
Good-bye.

Comment On Sports

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Tennis doesn't create the TV viewer interest it should. That's partly because tennis seems to be a sport in which one or two players gain dominance.

It was for a time Bjorn Borg; before him Jimmy Connors and today it's John McEnroe--unless he's stopped at Wimbledon in June by Borg, again. The others, with some occasional exceptions, just don't seem to figure. Everyone knows Roscoe Tanner has a great serve and that several of the others--Lendl for example--are interesting. But in the tournaments that court, the dominance of the top tennis star or stars is far more pronounced than in golf, for example.

Sale Of Largest Cotton Crop In 28 Years Undertaken

Steps needed to sell the largest cotton crop in 28 years, thus improving depressed cotton prices, were described by National Cotton Council staff members at High Plains area meetings this week.

Ed Breihan, Lubbock, Council president, chaired the meeting in Lubbock February 24, while Lloyd Cline, Council vice president and Lamesa grower, presided at the meeting in his home town later the same day.

Outlining ways to improve the depressed cotton economy, Macon T. Edwards, council vice president/Washington operations, said the industry must lend its voice and insistence to efforts to get the nation's "economic house in order."

"Cotton and agriculture simply cannot prosper when the economy is in its current state," he said.

Edwards also stressed the need to "sell our way out of this situation bale-by-bale, garment-by-garment."

He said cotton industry leaders and the Council staff are working in Washington to provide direct credits to foreign customers to allow them to buy U. S. cotton.

The best way to do this is through funding of the revolving credit fund created by the new farm law," Edwards stated.

Speaking of the 1981 farm act, Edwards said its target price provisions have provided short-term assistance to the depressed cotton economy.

Dr. Dean Ethridge, director of the Council's economic services, told the group the outlook is for world cotton supply and demand to shift into a better balance in the coming season, and restore some degree of prosperity to the industry.

Looking ahead to the 1982-83 season, the economist indicated world cotton production will be in the vicinity of 65.5 million bales or about seven percent below this year. Lower acreage is anticipated in view of current prices, and yields are not expected to equal this season's record levels.

World cotton consumption is expected to post another gain of one million to 1.5 million bales or perhaps more if the global economy improves significantly.

"Most of the increase will occur in the net importing countries and, since the U. S. is again expected to have sufficient supplies, exports of eight million bales or more are generally expected for 1982-83, Ethridge stated.

Domestic demand for cotton could be stimulated by lower interest rates which would remove some of the disincentive for inventory ownership and lead to some re-building of stocks, he pointed out. While stocks have been reduced to bare-bones levels all the way from mills' raw fiber warehouses to retailers' shelves, he said the practice of hand-to-mouth purchasing will probably continue until buyers are convinced that the upside price risk exceeds the carrying cost.

The economist sees prospects for a U. S. offtake of 14 million bales which would reduce domestic stocks to four million by August, 1983.

Pete Brown, field services director, described activities of Cotton Council International, the Council's overseas arm, and outlined efforts to build export markets for U. S. cotton.

He said overseas activities include: (1) industry contacts to bring international buyers and U. S. exporters together; (2) an information service to develop and distribute market data; and (3) an advertising and expansion program to promote industry awareness of U. S. cotton, increase retail sales of products made primarily from U. S. cotton, and improve cotton's image among customers.

Brown also stressed Council efforts to expand export credit, especially the U. S. Department of Agriculture's credit guarantee program.

"It's a most valuable tool in maintaining and expanding foreign markets for U. S. cotton," he said, "because it locks your cotton into the markets that make use of the program."

Brown said the $335 million in guarantees for cotton exports last year was a record high and that $300 million has already been announced for this year.

"This is good, but the bottom line remains that there's still a lot of cotton that needs to be exported and we will continue to look for every possible opportunity to utilize more credit guarantees to help current exports above current commitments of 5.3 million bales," he added.

TRU-TEST PAINTS
PAINTING HELP SPOKEN HERE.

BY Bonnie Blaire
TRU-TEST COLOR CONSULTANT

Dear Bonnie:
The woodwork in our home is solid oak but the varnish is checked and darkened with age. I want to paint it but my husband says he plans to strip it someday. I'm afraid that day will never come. Meanwhile, how can I convince him to paint it?
Signed, Impatient

Dear Impatient:
I'm with you! Your rooms will certainly look more contemporary with painted woodwork and, if painted white or a light color, they will look larger, too. Assure your husband that, if and when he is ready to strip the woodwork, it takes very little extra effort to strip the paint along with the old varnish.
For a light, bright look paint woodwork white and choose a clear pastel tint for walls. (See "PASTELS A & D" on the TRU-TEST Custom Color Selector.) Or, choose a soft muted wall color (from "BACKGROUNDS B & C") and paint woodwork to match.
For an elegant effect paint white woodwork against deep jewel toned walls. Select colors like deep blue, forest green, burgundy from the "ACCENT" collection of the Custom Color Selector.
Match woodwork to the background color of a wall-covering for unity and continuity.
Or, paint woodwork to match the dominant accent color in a drapery or wallcovering pattern to repeat and distribute the pattern around the room.
For a genuine early American effect, paint woodwork a deep colonial blue, rusty red or deep gold against soft warm off-white walls to simulate whitewash.

STILL LIFE

This still life is in perfect harmony and balance; there is no motion or confusion to mar its perfect beauty. How peaceful and quiet it looks! This kind of static beauty is never possible for life, however, because life is never static; life means motion, activity, change, confusion. But this dynamic nature of life with its infinite variations doesn't mean that life need be without peace. New experiences of every kind, pleasant or painful, can be met with serenity if one understands that his whole life is a gift from God. The peace of God which passes all understanding is the gift given only with Himself. Worship Him and know peace in your heart!

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
The Church is God's appointed agency in the world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond. Without the preaching of the Gospel, man will long for mercy and the forgiveness of sins. Therefore, every man should support the Church in the work of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should understand and practice the truth about man's life, death and eternity: the truth which shows us will set us free to live as a child of God.
