Farm Bureau calls for 1995 Farm Bill to promote marketing

ST. LOUIS - American Farm Bureau Federation delegates narrowly adopted a farm program policy last week, calling for a 1995 Farm Bill that will continue to move the U.S. toward a market-oriented, export-competitive agriculture.

Texas Farm Bureau President Bob Stallman's comments regarding the new Republican controlled Congress helped defeat an amendment that would have prohibited farmers from receiving deficiency payments on non-program crops grown on flexible base acres.

The provision finally approved by delegates was written to allow farmers more flexibility in responding to market forces, while providing a food security "safety net."

"This amendment goes to the heart of the philosophy and changes that are taking place in Congress and in agriculture," Stallman said.

The amendment to which Stallman objected was proposed by the South Carolina Farm Bureau and would not have been much different from existing policy.

The Texas Farm Bureau president quoted new U.S. House Agriculture Chairman Pat Roberts of Kansas, who spoke at the Farm Bureau convention last week.

"Chairman Roberts told us that the status quo does not live in Washington anymore," Stallman said.

In adopting the farm program resolution, delegates said:

✓ American farmers need target price protection to offset limited access to world markets because of existing trade barriers and internal farm policies in foreign countries

✓ There should be no modifications in the farm program that would interfere with the market-oriented goals of competitive loan rates, voluntary stock reduction programs and income supplement as farmers move toward a market-oriented agriculture.

✓ Farm program payment eligibility should not be tied to a means test

✓ The Commodity Credit Corporation should not be allowed to exempt itself from the federal rule making and public comment procedures

✓ Tenants or landowners are entitled to benefits of federal legislation on any farm that is in compliance with the provisions of the farm program, regardless of the status of their other farms

✓ Participation in any federal or state water projects shall not adversely affect a grower's participation in any USDA

Taking care of money for the entire county can be a real challenge

By Helena Rodriguez

Dorothy Turner, a native of Bailey County, has a desk job that is basically 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. every weekday. But surprisingly, it is a job that she finds challenging. She is the Bailey County treasurer and every transaction that goes through the county has her signature on it.

Turner was recently re-elected to another four-year-term to her position as county treasurer. She has held this office since 1981.

"The main thing I like about my job is being able to serve all of the people," Turner said. "I am a public servant and I am here to serve all the people in this county or people who come to me from elsewhere."

Turner considers Bailey County her home, where she was born and reared. She graduated from Sudan High School and has lived in Muleshoe since 1950.

"My job is real challenging because I handle taxpayer's money and the county's. I have to keep up with a lot of balances and do a lot of reporting, so it is a real challenge to be able to do all of that."

Turner added, "But it is a challenge I like. It keeps you going, it keeps you interested and it keeps you busy."

The nature of Turner's job many times requires her to work alone, which she has grown accustomed to. But she does get to work with other people as well in coordinating efforts with other county offices. She also receives a great deal of assistance from Bertha Combs, who was hired a few months ago as community services director and as

Bottom line farming classes set

Bottom Line Farming, a financial training curriculum offered by South Plains College to help farmers learn more about borrowing, begins Wednesday, Feb. 1 at the Muleshoe State Bank Community Room.

Classes will meet from 1-5:30 p.m. Wednesdays and Fridays.

The curriculum for the program was developed by Ron Presley, SPC assistant professor of agribusiness in conjunction with the Texas A & M Extension Service and Texas Rural Communities. The course is offered through SPC's Division of Continuing Education.

The course was instituted because of a Farmer's Home Administration mandate, part of the 1990 Farm Bill, that all its direct and guaranteed borrowers complete and pass educational courses involving agricultural finance and agricultural production.

Presley was employed as a consultant in 1991 by Texas Rural Communities to develop a curriculum.

The course consists of 36 classroom hours and covers such topics as goal setting and farm program

✓ There should be no environmental mandate for participation in the federal farm program

✓ The current system of commodity specific crop acreage bases should remain intact. Base acreage should be determined on a five-year moving average of planted or considered planted acres. There should be a conversion to a "whole farm" base or similar system which consolidates all program and allowed non-program crops. These crops would include oilseeds (soybeans, sunflowers, safflower,

MAN SUSTAINS MINOR INJURIES IN ROLLOVER - A Muleshoe man sustained minor injuries during a one-vehicle rollover on Thursday west of Muleshoe. ✓ Producers should be allowed to plant any combination of program and permitted non-program crops on whole farm bases.

AFBF delegates said they want proven yields used in calculating deficiency payments and target prices maintained at the current levels.

They also stated a preference for maintaining the farmer owned reserve as it is presently structured.

"Blue, Blue, My World Is Blue"

That's incredible! Or so the now defunct television show maintained. They were doing a story about a man who was infatuated with the color blue. To prove it, he was busily engaged in painting a mountain blue. "That's insane!" seemed a more accurate caption to me.

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

I thought of that eccentric painter as I was reading G.K. Chesterton. Chesterton, an amazing man who could turn a finer phrase than anyone before or since, died in 1936, but he describes our world when he says, "We are not altering the real to suit the ideal. We are altering the ideal: it is easier." His example? A man whose ideal for the world is that it might be blue.

Each day, brush in hand, the little man begins the business of painting the world blue. Not an easy job! Some tigers will no doubt resist the change valiantly, but as long as each day he paints so much as a single blade of grass blue, he's reaching toward his goal.

Chesterton laments that modern thinkers aren't as sane as our little painter. Instead, they're like men who begin to paint the world blue, but with each new philosophy they hear they change their "ideal" color to red or yellow or green and their former work is for naught. Blue tigers and all, it fades into obscurity.

How different from the philosophy of Christianity! Christianity stubbornly refuses to change the ideal. Instead it maintains that through the power of God, man himself can undergo a radical change of heart, indeed, that he must. Perhaps in another religion Paul could have remained the zealous but mistaken Saul, but not in this one.

Christianity never changes the ideal; it points us to a Savior who is Himself the only way to reach it. Our world tries to convince princes to be content with "frog-hood," which would be fine if we were meant to be frogs. But Christianity is never content until man is once again, as in Eden, a prince. As the ideal, it holds before man the Prince of Peace, forever unchanging, forever offering his followers the power to change.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & Avenue D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

9th grade Mules defeat Floydada

By Terri Bohler

The Muleshoe ninth grade boys hosted Floydada Monday night, Jan. 23, in Watson Junior High gymnasium. The Mules grabbed a victory with a 42-39 last minute win over the Whirlwinds.

The game was an exciting win for the team. They have had a difficult season, but have improved greatly. Coach Bandy is optimistic as the freshman team moves into the second round of play in district competition.

The Mules opened the ballgame with Paul Olivaris hitting three baskets in the first period. Luke Bruns put up two baskets and Justin Lee made two points. By the end of the first period the Mules claimed a two point lead, 12-10.

In the second period of play the Whirlwinds closed the gap adding 11 points to their score while the Mules added eight. The score as half-time rolled around was 21-20 with the Mules trailing.

Second-half play found the Mules making a great defensive effort. Aaron Purdy contributed to the cause by playing good defense on the press and grabbing a few steals.

The Mules outscored the Whirlwinds by three in the third period to claim a 31-29 advantage.

In the fourth period the Mules and the Whirlwinds traded baskets. Johnny Florez played great defense in the last few minutes of the quarter and is credited with helping the Mules to steal the victory.

The score was tied 39-39 with seven seconds left in the game when Damon Davenport shotgunned one from the three-point arc and the Mules won, 42-39.

Justin Lee led the team in scoring with 14 points and Paul Olivaris followed with 10 points to his credit. Luke Bruns and Aaron Purdy added six points each and Damon Davenport contributed five. Michael Woodard, the only Mule to go to the line, hit one free-throw to add to the total.

McDonald wins Lazbuddie geography bee

Joshua McDonald, an eighth grade student at Lazbuddie Junior High, won the school-level competition of the National Geography Bee on Jan. 11, and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship.

The school-level bee was the first round in the 7th annual National Geography Bee, which is sponsored by National Geographic World and Chrysler Corporation.

Andy Martin, a fourth grade student at Lazbuddie Elementary School, was the second place winner in the school bee.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States.

A 10-country Gallup survey conducted for the society in 1989 found that people in the United States ages 18-24, the youngest group surveyed, knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries in the survey.

The National Geographic Society, with 9.2 million members, has at its mission the "increase and diffusion of geographic knowledge."

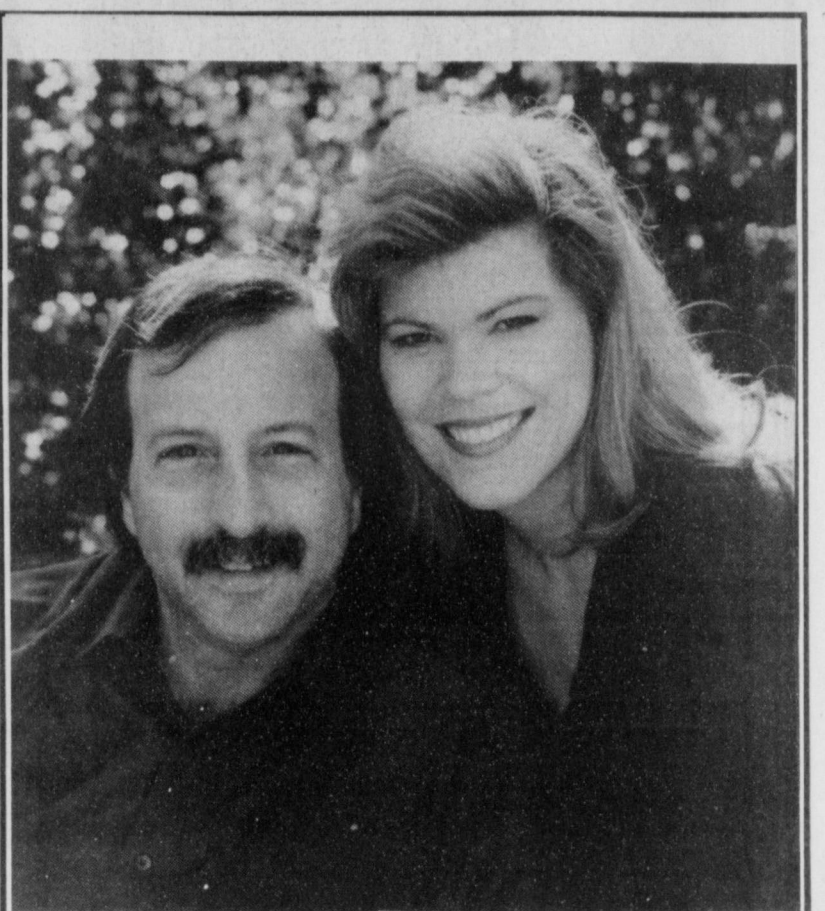

GEOGRAPHY BEE WINNERS - Joshua McDonald was the winner of the Geography Bee at Lazbuddie Junior High while Andy Martin was the second place winner.

In addition to the National Geography Bee, the society sponsors a number of other geography education initiatives, including summer institutes for teachers and the Geographic Alliance Network.

Joshua is the son of Donnie and JoAnn McDonald of Muleshoe. Andy is the son of Tommy and Linda Martin of Dimmitt.

The Senior Citizens met at the Depot January 23 for a regular luncheon, the Invocation was given by Alton Epting. The Salute to the flag led by Wanda Kittrell.

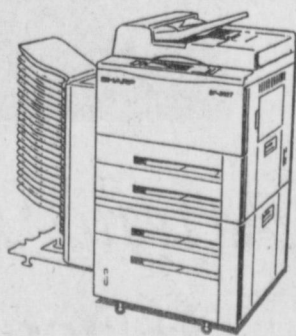

After a delicious meal, Margaret Collins introduced Sandra Austin who brought a very interesting program on the big bird Emu. Sandra and her husband raise these birds on their farm south of Enochs. They have several pairs. These birds came from Australia several years ago. They are playful and very curious. Their oil is used for many different things, it is good for joint and muscle aches in arthritic.

Everyone enjoyed the program. There were 32 present, including 7 visitors, Sandra Austin, Jewell Morrison, Berta Combs, Betty Carpenter, Sherry Wisian, Muriel Lewis and Leon Lewis.

Buster read a poem "You are growing old When". Cards to be sent to the sick, are Avis Williams and Mildred Head. The dismissal prayer was Clara Coffman.

Landscape fabric now being handled

Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District is now handling landscape fabric. Furgeson replied. Windbreak tree orders will be accepted until March 1 and tree pickup will be March 9th at the USDA building at 105 East Ave. D in Muleshoe.

"The fabric is excellent to use as a weed barrier and also for water conservation," said

Johnny Furgeson, chairman of the district. Weed competition and adequate moisture are the two most critical problems in the establishment of a windbreak.

"We feel that by handling drip supplies as well as the fabric, we are providing a good service to windbreak tree planters in Bailey County,"

"I'm Thirsty"

Such a familiar cry to any parent, and who could resist such an appeal. Many times the cry of "I'm thirsty" is a genuine one, but there are times when it is a scheme to linger a little longer, the result of a strong desire to remain awake and play with the dolls and toys that loving parents have provided.

While meeting the physical, play, and comfort needs, don't forget the need for "Living Waters." Take the family to church, where all may hear of, and be drawn closer to our loving Father.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Gramm offers bill to safeguard property rights

WASHINGTON - U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm has introduced legislation to protect property owners from the avalanche of federal regulations and restrictions that can strip private property of its value without compensation to the owners.

"With all the talk about rights in America today, the fundamental freedom to acquire, use and dispose of private property has become a poor relation. In fact, it has very nearly been drummed out of the family because of the federal government's relentless assault on private property," Gramm said.

Gramm's "Private Property Rights Restoration Act" safeguards the rights of individuals whose land is the target of governmental regulations or policies which reduce or destroy the value of the property. The bill requires compensation to be paid when such a taking has reduced property valued by at least 25 percent or $10,000.

It also requires that compensation and legal fees for property owners who successfully plead their case in court be paid for with funds from the agency which issued the unconstitutional regulation.

During the first year of the Clinton Administration, the Federal Register, which is the daily publication of all federal regulations, printed 69,684 pages of rules - the highest since Jimmy Carter's record level.

"This property rights legislation reaffirms the Senate's commitment to private property, and it says in the clearest possible terms that while Bill Clinton and Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt may view private property as being an outmoded concept, the Congress disagrees because the Constitution disagrees," Gramm said.

The Gramm Bill has been endorsed by the American Farm Bureau Federation, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, American Forest and Paper Association, National Federation of Independent Businesses, National Association of Homebuilders and other groups.
