MORE ROUND —
The many statements made by the late James J. Corbett in his colorful boxing career, are most used. "What," someone asked him, "is most important for a man to do to become a champion?" And Corbett replied: "Fight one more round."
Corbett was a champion of the ring, but there have been champions in other fields, and some have held true of them. They have been able to fight one more round.
Thomas Edison, seeking a profligate to light his incandescent lamp, failed month after month, but one day his efforts were successful, and the world was lit with the electric light. Edison fought "one more round."
K. Behrman, one of America's outstanding playwrights, wrote out manuscripts for 11 years before he finally sold his play. Fannie Hurst wrote more than 100 stories before one was accepted.

True department:
The average man is 40 years longer today than he was in 1890.
He has to in order to pay his taxes.

My luck department —
When a man returned from vacation complained of the weather he'd had, a friend replied, "It couldn't have been that bad — you're sunburned!"
"Sunburn, nothing," he replied. "That's rust!"

My kids department —
Five-year old Bobby and his friend Box Gang were busily playing mud pies.
Suddenly activity ceased, then they've run out of dirt, men, they piped up. "Everyone take their shoes and empty them."

From the Falls Church (Virginia) Standard: "It will be when spring comes and the snow grows up along the road and hides the discarded beer cans."

Escapees Caught Tuesday Morning

COYOTES — Two more Mills Co. coyotes were killed last week and will not cause any more death loss to the sheep and goat industry. These coyotes were caught on the Willie Wasserman's place near Mullin by Hammon Humphries, trapper employed by the Mills County Program Building Committee. Mr. Wasserman estimated that these two coyotes have caused him a loss of $1000 on his lamb crop this year. Holding the coyotes are Larry Daniel, county agent, on the left and Humphries is pictured on the right. Hardin and Cagle were hiding

Charles Hardin, 27, arrested last week for the alleged burglary of the Star and Mullin schools picked a lock at the Brownwood County Jail and escaped Monday morning between midnight and 6 a.m. After picking the lock he went out through the roof and down the side of the jail in Brownwood.
He took a car, a blue Mustang, from a Brownwood resident and came to Goldthwaite where he proceeded to break into the Mills County Jail, using a crowbar to break the cell lock and free Kay Cagle.
Hardin and the woman drove the car about one mile to the Masonic Lodge in Goldthwaite, parked the car and proceeded on foot in a southeasterly direction.
From the Goldthwaite jail break Monday morning until Tuesday morning Hardin and Mrs. Cagle were unnoticed.
They were spotted about 8 a.m. Tuesday by a rancher and this prompted local and area law enforcement officers to begin combing the area about 16 miles southeast of Goldthwaite.
Hardin and Cagle were hiding in a house. Mills County Sheriff Horace Brooks checked the house and found evidence that the couple had been there and notified game warden, Bennie Schriver, to secure an airplane to aid in the search.

Schriver and Goldthwaite pilot Floyd Spradley searched the area but did not spot the pair from the air.
A Department of Public Safety helicopter was summoned and arrived on the scene in a matter of minutes and around 10:30 located Hardin laying in a creek bed about 1/4 mile from the house. The helicopter hovered over them until officers arrested Hardin and Cagle.
Hardin was returned to the Brown County Jail and Mrs. Cagle was taken to the Lampasas Co. Jail.

The capture ended a 33-hour state-wide manhunt.
According to Mills County Sheriff Brooks, Hardin will be charged with breaking jail and aiding a felon to escape.
Mrs. Cagle was in jail pending revocation of probation.
Brooks and Schriver were aided by Texas Ranger Troy Porterfield of Llano; Llano Sheriff Gail Ligon; local DPS officers Ronnie Rush and Bobby Wilcox; DPS sergeant, J. O. Tanner of Lampasas; Brown County Sheriff Danny Neal and Deputy Bill Henning and Liquor Control Board officer, W. B. Ray. Rangers H. R. Block of Brownwood and Bob Favor of Brady also assisted in the search.

Rowlett Resigns As Commissioner Of Precinct Four

Precinct 4 County Commissioner A. R. "Andy" Rowlett has resigned from Commissioner's Court effective March 1, 1973.
Hawley Jernigan was appointed by County Judge Cecil Egger to fill Rowlett's unexpired term which will end in 1974.
Rowlett was appointed Commissioner to fill the unexpired term in 1964 when H. G. Brooks resigned to run for Mills Co. Sheriff.
Precinct 4 covers the western part of Mills County.
Jernigan ran against Rowlett for Commissioner two years ago and was defeated by only 6 votes.
Rowlett gave no specific reason for his resignation.
Jernigan commented that his only change would be to make things better in Mills County if he could and that he will work toward that goal as Commissioner of Precinct 4.

AUSTIN, Tex.—A new kind of "drug war" seems to be shaping up in the Legislature.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe spelled out his recommendations for complete revision of drug laws and promised to "lobby hard" with all the resources at his command as governor to get the bill passed.

As introduced in the House and Senate, it called for harsh penalties against dope pushers, annual registration of those who deal in legal drugs — and lowering the penalty for first offense possession of marijuana to a misdemeanor.

Briscoe's bill would allow possession of up to eight ounces of marijuana without risking felony charge on first offense. However, the misdemeanor would be punishable by up to a year in jail and/or $2,000 fine. The Governor also called for stepped-up education and rehabilitation programs. The bill was drawn, said Briscoe, to mesh with the 1970 federal controlled substance act to allow governments at all levels to work more effectively together.

A few days later, however, former Sen. Don Kennard of Ft. Worth, who headed a Senate study committee on drug abuse, assailed the governor's proposals as "an out-and-out fraud as a reform measure." Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena introduced in bill form the far-reaching provisions of Kennard's committee.

Brooks' bill would "decriminalize" marijuana possession and set moderate felony penalties for sales. It would also make simple possession of most drugs (heroin excluded) a misdemeanor and provide for commitment of users to rehabilitation facilities. On the other hand, it would call for non-paroleable life sentences of convicted "big time" heroin dealers.

The controversy continues to boil on the reduction of penalties on use of marijuana — and increasing penalties on those who sell marijuana or hard drugs. H. B. 86 by Rep. Lindon Williams implements more stringent penalties on those who sell drugs. It is backed by the Austin based Legal Drug Control Society, headed by E. E. Armistead. Armistead has passed petitions for over a year, and submitted these to the Legislature.

"The Legal Drug Control Society asks that concerned citizens write their legislators to express support for H. B. 86," Armistead says. "We realize that there is no simple solution on this complex problem of drug abuse, but removing the pusher and dealer from the scene will certainly be a giant step in the right direction."

Armistead started his crusade against the drug pushers when his daughter jumped from the University of Texas tower two years ago. Her notes told about experiments with drugs.

COUNCIL MAKES SURVEY FOR LEGISLATURE — County Judges and District clerks and judges have been asked for important research information to help the Texas Legislature make decisions on current legislative proposals. Questions on marijuana, automobile accidents, probation, etc., have been posed by the Texas Civil Judicial Council — which is charged in state statutes with the duty of supplying information to the legislature affecting state courts.

"It is understandably difficult for a legislator to judge the merits of proposed legislation wisely without any estimate of its impact," said Ronald Earle, chief counsel for the Judicial Council. "The Judicial Council is seeking to provide this needed information instead of conjecture."

In seeking information regarding the number of persons currently on probation the Judicial Council will be exploring uncharted territory, Earle added. "The impact of probation on the criminal process is too important not to consider in more detail."

Current proposals on changes in the Judicial Article of the Texas Constitution sets up machinery for an Administrator of the Court — whose office would compile statistics from the courts on a year-round basis.

COURTS SPEAK — The State Supreme Court refused an appeal by Continental Oil Company to issue an order in an energy shortage action involving the company's inability to deliver natural gas under contract with other concerns.

The high court upheld lower courts restraining Crystal City from locking what's left of the local country club and upholding a 1956 lease of city land.

Court of Criminal Appeals overruled a conviction for theft against a former Crane County hospital executive who allegedly sold a compressor unit used in treating respiratory diseases. The court decision said Crane County had never become owner of the machine, and there could have been no theft or embezzlement from the county.

APPOINTMENTS — Gov. Briscoe appointed Waco newspaper executive Harry Provence as chairman of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

Jack L. Reynolds, former Edingburg city manager, is new associate director of the State Bar of Texas.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has been named to the national energy and natural resources committee of the national conference of lieutenant governors.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. announced appointment of Rep. Hawkins Menefee Jr. of Houston to the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Hobby named to the Crime and Narcotics Commission Rep. Zan W. Holmes of Dallas, Ted U. Kepple of El Paso and Carol S. Vance, Harris County district attorney. Vance was reappointed.

DELAY DENIED — Lt. Gov. Hobby gave repeated assurances that his plans for a March 20-21 citizens conference on ethics in government will not delay senate consideration of reform measures passed by the House. Meanwhile, some House members blasted Hobby for indicating final Senate approval of the reform bills would be held up until after he receives advice of citizens on ethics legislation at the conference.

Hobby said hearings will move forward on ethics, lobby control and campaign financing measures. He noted it is extremely unusual for the Senate to vote on controversial measures before March 9 anyway. The Lieutenant Governor said the citizens conference carries out his campaign pledge to seek voter input on matters of intense public concern.

OIL OUTPUT WIDE OPEN AGAIN The Railroad Commission ordered wide-open, 100 per cent market demand oil production for the 12th straight month.

In making the announcement, Commission Chairman Jim Langdon offered "some good news and some bad news." He said there were no "tremendously serious" shortages during the crucial winter months in spite of heating oil stock declines.

However, Langdon warned, the peak gasoline consuming season is just around the corner, and gasoline stocks are 19.2 million barrels below 1972 in the nation. Further, crude and products stocks in the U. S. are 70.2 million barrels off last year. "The petroleum industry has managed to get out of the frying pan but now is in the fire," said Langdon.

The allowable responded to requests for 3,764,459 barrels of oil daily in March, a decline of 17,003 from February. Exceptions from the 100 per cent allowable are the East Texas field, 86 per cent; Kelly-Snyder, 76 per cent; and Tom O'Connor, 70 per cent. Several other fields are at 80 per cent.

AG OPINIONS — Atty. Gen. John Hill held probably unconstitutional a bill requiring cities of more than 600,000 and less than 800,000 population to improve highway bridges. Hill indicated the bill would violate local or special law prohibitions which are frequently breached by such "bracket bills."

In another opinion, Hill said appointment of an elected judge or a state legislator to be a "special ranger" would be unconstitutional. He said an elected member of the executive department of state government may be appointed a special ranger provided there is no incompatibility between the office and ranger service.

Rep. David Finney of Fort Worth called on Hill for an opinion on constitutionality of a state ethics commission.

QUARTER PLAN DELAYED — The Senate passed and sent to the governor legislation to delay for two years mandatory implementation of the quarter system in state public schools. The Bill (HB 92) moves the mandatory start-up period for the quarter system from next September to the 1975-76 school year. Small school districts urged the delay.

BARGAINING BILL ADVANCES After nearly eight hours of debate, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill giving policemen and firemen collective bargaining rights if local voters approve.

The watered-down bill would prohibit strikes by the firefighters and police, and it would require they get the prevailing wage for their area in comparable work.

SHORT SNORTS — The Senate rejected 13-17 the appointment of Ray Kirkpatrick to the State Insurance Board.

Lt. Gov. Hobby asked Sen. H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock to investigate the spending of the Legislative Property Tax Committee, a panel set up to seek ad valorem tax reform.

Parks and Wildlife Department once more is seeking authority to raise hunting license fees from $3.25 to $5.25 and fishing licenses from $2.15 to $4.25. Atty. Gen. Hill filed a motion for rehearing of the U. S. Supreme Court decision January 22 which threw out the state's abortion laws.

A bill to permit the Attorney General to recover damages for deceptive trade practices or deceptive advertising victims has Senate Human Resources Committee approval.

Women now own nearly $50 billion of life insurance.

Garden Club Completes Park Project

The Goldthwaite Garden Club Park Committee has completed out the landscape plans for Mills County Park.

The plans, drawn by Robert H. Rucker landscape artist in 1959, have been successfully completed by the help of the City Council, the local garden club and other organizations of Goldthwaite.

Plans were completed last Thursday when twenty redbuds, three yucca, one Algerita, and an American Redbud were planted in the park. Also a new gateway marker was erected at the entrance. Supervising the work were the city manager Don Petty and chairman of the park committee, Mrs. M. F. Horton.

The City of Goldthwaite purchased the land in 1953 and the local Garden Club took it as their project in 1959.

A press book and scrap book of the various improvements have been kept by the Club and sent to The Sears Foundation and Readers Digest. The Club won a total of $1510.00 in awards from their project and all was spent on the park except $400.00, which was transferred to the courthouse grounds fund which is the latest project of the club.

The park needs new benches and tables. Anyone desiring to donate these items to the park are urged to do so.

Work this past week was donated by several of the city employees. Featmoss and labor were donated by the city and the trees were purchased from the Garden Club Park Fund and The City Park Fund.

Plans for converting to the metric system of measuring and weighing things are taking shape in the United States and making appearances in grocery stores.

Labels on some processed foods give a measurement in liters or grams in addition to usual information using quarts, ounces or pounds.

Some labels use the metric system because the product is exported to other countries, or imported to the United States—but other labels carry metric system figures because food processors have begun the change over.

Considered simple and consistent, the metric system of weights and measures has been lauded by some educators, who believe that children learn it more quickly and easily than the system now in use.

In addition, the metric system uses decimals instead of fractions, making arithmetic simpler.

Others have questioned the need for changing from the system we understand and seem to make work.

Advocates of the metric system point out that the United States is the only major industrial nation not using it. In fact, they say, there are only 13 other countries—all quite small—not using metric weights and measures.

The rest of the world if either already metric, or committed to becoming metric.

Advocates argue that conversion to the metric system would be an economic advantage, giving the United States a more competitive role on the world market.

Many have raised questions about cost of a metric change over and who will pay for it.

Reports from industries which already made the change indicate that it took less time—and cost less money—than expected.

Some propose that the cost be allowed to "fall where it may," letting everyone bear some of it. Proponents of this approach note that everyone, in turn, will share benefits.

Homemakers have asked about converting recipes and measuring utensils, so some manufacturers are producing utensils with metric markings on one side and customary markings on the other. Recipe writers may follow that example and include figures for both systems.

Cancer Research Needs Additional Funding Support

"Cancer research is too complex, far-reaching and demanding for any single source of support. L. B. Burnham, President of the Mills County American Cancer Society Unit said today, "that's why ACS funds are needed now more than ever."

Speaking at a time when the Federal Government has made cancer conquest a national priority backed by greatly increased financing, the ACS volunteer explained, "This is too big a job for the Government to do alone."

"Right now there are scientists investigating viruses as a possible cause of human cancer; others are concentrating on the body's immune defense system, still others are examining basic life processes within cells. Specialists are studying huge population groups to discover why one group of women runs a particularly high risk of uterine cancer. The list could go on and on because the clues to the cancer puzzle are many, and the answers can come from many sources."

In addition to the complexity of cancer research, various kinds of funding are necessary. For example, Burnham pointed out that the private, non-profit agency had fellowships for the young physicians and dentists specializing in cancer treatment; lifetime professorships and faculty support to keep both research and teaching at a high level; grants to institutions enabling them to further cancer research, and an international fellowship program to enable a cancer researcher from Iceland, for example, to work in Southern California for a year or for an American scientist to put in a year's research in Iceland.

"Right now, we are asking people in Mills County to be generous as we conduct our annual educational and fund-raising Crusade. On the educational side we are teaching our friends and neighbors the importance of an annual health checkup including cancer tests; on the fund-raising side we are asking everyone to share in our programs, including the vital one of research support," he said.

One reason ACS research support continues to be so necessary was explained by Dr. Sidney Weinhouse, Director of the Fels Research Institute, Temple University, who said, "Judgments differ and investigators need multiple sources to whom they can apply for funds, just as they have multiple outlets for publication of their research results."

Then too, as Dr. Carl Baker, former Director of the National Cancer Institute, pointed out, "The ACS can do things we cannot do in the Federal Government. There are certain constraints which exist in government which are relaxed in the private sector."

"This year's ACS crusade theme is 'We Want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime.' Won't you help by being generous this April," asks Burnham.

Mullin Community News

BY MRS. JOHNNIE HOLLAND

Snow! and more snow! That seems to be the story around Mullin. This was really a good wet sloppy one. It will do a lot for the ground, but somehow I just don't like snow like I did back yonder.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ethridge, Randy and Brad of Leander visited here over the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ethridge and also in my home. Gayla received quiet a shock recently. Usually we think of a shock as something bad that happens in ones life, but this one was a happy one for her. She has for sometime been wearing one of the bracelets with a prisoner's name on it. The name on hers was Navy Captain Jeremiah A. Denton of Virginia Beach, Va., the first prisoner to walk off the plane in California. She said that she just couldn't believe her ears for awhile. She plans to contact him soon.

Mrs. Bill Kuykendall of Cherokee and Mrs. Ernest Kuykendall of San Saba visited here a day last week with Mrs. J. L. Hillman.

Mrs. Will Sanders is home now after a 6 weeks stay in the hospital in Goldthwaite. She has been quiet ill, but she is doing better now.

Mrs. Effie Blassengame left Mullin today for Ft. Worth where she plans to visit with a sister and a brother. She will return to her home at Petersburg after this week. She has been here since November visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Juanita Hart, Lisa, Wanda and Tim.

Mrs. Ruth Tullos is visiting in Waco with her son, Rex, and family and her grandson, Jimmy Rex and family. She went to Waco Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Rex Tullos who was here visiting with her mother, Mrs. Cleo Hodges and her brother, Bud.

Mrs. Mae Elliott of Brownwood her daughter and husband and two little grandsons of Bangs visited here Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Noble Mosier. Mrs. Elliott is Mrs. Mosier's niece.

Artie Mosier has a brand new room in her home - all fixed up real pretty. She had two rooms made into one large one. It is nice and real pretty. We tried to get her to give a dance before she had the carpet put down, but she just smiled, and didn't have the dance.

Mrs. Vesta McCormick is home after spending the winter months in Houston with her son, Bobby. She actually brought snow back with her since the ground was covered the next morning after she came home.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Lockett and Mr. and Mrs. Autry Keating visited recently in Lubbock with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Lockett, Leighton and Christopher.

Mrs. Bobby Enger and her daughter, Kay Keene and daughter all of Austin visited last Monday with Mrs. Milton Standley.

Final Rites Conducted For Mrs. Schoen February 14

Mrs. Schoen passed away Monday, February 12, 1973 at 5:10 p.m. in the Western Hills Nursing Home in Comanche.

Born September 15, 1882 in Gartz, Germany, she was the daughter of the late William Stahnke and Auguste Louise Klause Stahnke.

She was married to William Schoen on November 20, 1902

in the St. John Lutheran Church in Priddy.

Mrs. Schoen's faith was confirmed May 29, 1898 in the St. John Lutheran Church in Priddy.

Her husband preceded her in death June 30, 1955 and a son, Otto Herman (Pinto) Schoen on October 21, 1968.

Pallbearers include Henry A. Schoen Jr., Royce A. Schoen, Glendon D. Schoen, Teddy G. Schoen, Freddie W. Schoen, and Willie D. Schoen.

Survivors include two sons, Willie Schoen of Priddy and Henry Schoen of Gatesville; one grand daughter, Dana Beth Schoen of Priddy; six grandsons, Willie Darrell, Henry A., Royce A., Glendon D., Freddie W., and Teddy G.; two great grand daughters; one brother, Otto Stahnke of Priddy; and one sister, Mrs. Alwine Tischler, also of Priddy.

Doings by DANIEL

BY LARRY DANIEL
COUNTY AGENT

Ticks, very damaging parasites of cattle and other livestock throughout Mills County as well as the world, are responsible for serious economic losses each year. In Mills County, they are frequently the most common parasite on cattle. Heavy infestations cause "tick worry." Manifested by a loss of condition, failure to gain properly and a severe degree of anemia. The anemic condition probably results primarily from blood removed by attached ticks. Under extremely heavy infestations, the animal becomes dull, listless, and dies. Tick bites are irritating and cause the infested animal to rub and scratch, resulting in a scaly skin condition. In addition to their parasites activity, ticks also transmit several severe and often fatal cattle diseases.

Insecticides recommended for ticks are Co-Ral, Delnav, Lindane, Malathion, Toxaphene and others. Ear ticks are also very damaging to livestock and insecticides recommended are Co-Ral dust, Lindane in Xylene-pine oil, Korlan and others.

Internal parasites of cows are very detrimental. Drenching of cows at least twice a year is a very good management practice.

Something to remember: There will be a Pasture and Forage Workshop in Goldthwaite on March 13 & 14 with guest speakers from the Extension Service at A&M and Stephenville. This workshop will be open to the public and free of charge. For more information, contact my office.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

One cold February morning a young East Texas farmer-busy with outside chores—was startled by a terrified scream from inside the house. He raced the distance to the house and burst into the kitchen to find his wife backed into a corner, shielding her two children from a slobbering, trembling fox. He beat the crazed animal to death with a piece of stovewood.

There wasn't the slightest doubt that the fox was rabid, driven to a maniacal recklessness by the fire in its brain. Only a mad animal would go brazenly and fearlessly into a farmyard and into a house where humans were present. One child was bitten during this particular incident.

Last December, a West Texas rancher was awoken to the sound of his favorite dog fighting off a rabid fox in his backyard. Before the rancher could end the intrusion by killing the fox, the rabid animal had bitten the man twice. Knowing how rabies can spread the rancher destroyed the dog, which had also been bitten, on the spot. About a month later one of the man's sheep also turned up rabid.

In January of this year, during a basketball game being held in the high school gymnasium of a small community near the Gulf Coast, the referee of the game bent down to sweep away what appeared to be a dead bat lying on the playing court. The man was bitten and immediately began the series of shots required for protection against rabies.

So far this year, rabies cases have been reported in East Texas (Rusk County), Central Texas (Llano, Austin, McCulloch and Mason Counties), West Texas (Concho County), the Gulf Coast (Harris County), and North Texas (Montague and Ellis Counties), involving dogs, cats, skunks, foxes, bats, and a nutria. One such case reportedly involved some 18 dogs bitten by one rabid skunk.

Hundreds of variation of the same stories could be related—all tragic, all true, all preventable.

Texas may be a place just waiting for a rabies epidemic to happen. A year-end report of animal bites indicated that only about one-third of the dogs and five per cent of the cats involved in biting cases were reported as vaccinated against rabies.

Two-thirds of the dogs and 95 per cent of the cats involved in biting incidents in Texas had no rabies vaccination.

Approximately three-fourths of all animals involved in bite cases were listed as owned.

State health officials point out that local health departments and county commissioners have the authority under existing state law to control the occurrence of rabies in Texas, although a few may be unaware the law exists. It authorizes the Commissioners Court of any county to declare their county to be in danger of a potential rabies outbreak in the animal population of the county. Under such an order, the Commissioners could establish regulations requiring rabies vaccination, registration of domestic animals, quarantining of biting animals and rabies suspects, and requiring restraint of domestic animals. Such an ordinance would become the legal minimum standards in existence throughout the entire county, including all incorporated municipalities even if their ordinances were not as strong as the county's. The state law's "teeth" include fines and jail terms for repeated violators.

Simple vaccination for rabies, the elimination of stray animals and the discouragement of wildlife in populated areas and the general support of the public for rabies control programs would go a long way toward elimination of rabies as a threat to the population, say state health officials. But when there is a human exposure, the State Health Department really swings into action.

The animal brain is examined by an intricate laboratory process for evidence of rabies. If the result is positive, the local physician is alerted to the need to institute the series of rabies vaccinations. State Health Dept. Laboratories provided 634 rabies injections for the treatment of humans exposed to rabies last year.

During 1972 more than 7,000 persons reported animal bites. Children from birth through nine years of age had the largest number of bites of any other age grouping listed and accounted for 38 per cent of humans bitten.

With rabies endemic in the foxes and skunks in Texas, as well as bats, rabies protection for pets doesn't appear to the sufficient to prevent a rabies epidemic wherever these animals are allowed to run at large. State Health officials estimate that for every case of rabies diagnosed in Texas wildlife, there are ten cases that go undetermined and unreported.

Bias in Bicycles?

To help its employees get around the premises, a large company kept a supply of bicycles available at all times. But all the bicycles were men's. Women workers finally went to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission with a charge of "discrimination on the basis of sex."

At the hearing, they pointed out that men's bicycles were just not suitable for them, especially since they were also forbidden to wear slacks. This impressed the Commission, which duly upheld their complaint.

The bicycle case is typical of the wide variety of issues that have arisen under famed Title Seven of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Women have also complained — almost always with success — about hiring practices, dress codes, height requirements, smoking privileges, hours of work, and seniority rules.

"Title Seven," said one court, "rejects the notion of romantic paternalism toward women and seeks to place them on an equal footing with men."

In fact, men too have won victories under the same law. For example, the Commission found sex discrimination in another company that gave half-hour lunch periods to its women employees but only 20 minutes to men.

Nevertheless, Title Seven does not apply to hardship situations that are not based on discrimination between the sexes. Take this case: A saleswoman accused her department manager of violating Title Seven by deliberately making her life miserable. She said he made fun of her, gave her hard assignments, and bawled her out viciously.

It turned out, however, that her fellow men in the same department had the same tale of woe. Since male and female employees were being treated with equal harshness, the Commission decided to turn down the woman's complaint.

The Commission said she had not proven a violation of Title Seven, but merely that the department manager was a very nasty fellow.
