MY FRIEND CLARENCE Martin brought home from our recent trip to Canada a sheet which included the following statements: The piece is entitled "REASONS WHY THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE IS HARD TO LEARN." (So it happens in other English-speaking countries as well as our own!) This must be why the participants in Spelling Bee contests may ask the person pronouncing the words to use a particular word in a sentence.

1. The bandage was wound around the wound.
2. The farm was used to produce produce.
3. The dump was so full that it had to refuse more refuse.
4. We must polish the Polish furniture.
5. He could lead if he would just get the lead out.
6. The soldier decided to desert his dessert in the desert.
7. Since there is no time like the present, he thought it was time to present the present.
8. A bass was painted on the head of the bass drum.
9. When shot at, the dove dove into the bushes.
10. I did not object to the object.
11. The insurance was invalid for the invalid.
12. There was a row among the oarsmen about how to row.
13. They were too close to the door to close it.
14. The buck does funny things when the does are present.
15. A seamstress and a sewer fell down into a sewer line.
16. To help with planting, the farmer taught his sow to sow.
17. The wind was too strong to wind the sail.
18. After a number of injections, my jaw got number.
19. Upon seeing the tear in the painting, I shed a tear.
20. I had to subject the subject to a series of tests.
21. How can I intimate this to my most intimate friend?
22. A minute is a minute amount of time.

LET'S FACE IT: ENGLISH IS A CRAZY LANGUAGE! For instance, there is no egg in eggplant, nor ham in hamburger. Neither apple nor pine in pineapple. English muffins weren't invented in England, nor French fries in France.

Sweetmeats are candies, while sweetbreads, which aren't sweet, are meat, not bread. We take English for granted. But if we explore its paradoxes, we find that quicksand can work slowly; boxing rings are square, and a guinea pig is neither from Guinea, nor is it a pig!

And, why is it that writers write, but fingers don't "fing," grocers don't groce, and hammers don't ham? If the plural of tooth is teeth, why isn't the plural of booth beeth? One goose, two geese. So one moose, two meese? One index, two indices?

Doesn't it seem crazy that you can make amends, but not one amend? If teachers taught, why didn't preachers praught? How can a slim chance and a fat chance be the same, while a wise man and a wise guy are opposites? How can overlook and oversee be opposites, while quite a lot and quite a few are alike?

Have you ever run into someone who was combobulate, grunted, ruly or peccable? And where are all those people who ARE spring chickens, or who would ACTUALLY hurt a fly? You have to marvel at the unique lunacy of a language in which your house can burn up as it burns down, in which you fill in a form by filling it out, and in which an alarm goes off by going on.

English was invented by people, not computers, and it reflects the creativity of the human race (which, of course, isn't a race at all). That is why, when the stars are out, they are visible. However, when the lights are out, they are invisible. Why, when I wind up my watch, I start it, but when I wind up this essay, I end it?

Firemen Get $900 For MS

Bovina Volunteer Firemen went door-to-door collecting funds in Bovina to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The money, from small change to big bills, is still being counted, but officials give report the total at approximately $900.

Stan Miller, Andy Garza, Sammy Stormes, Joe Olvera and Charlie Teague covered all of Bovina, knocking on doors and asking for donors to "Fill the Boot".

Hannah and Heather Miller, Jennifer Garza, Scott Gordon and two of Stormes' granddaughters also helped in MS effort.

Mustangs Open Here Tonight

The Mustangs open the 2001 season at home tonight against Hagerman, New Mexico. Kickoff time is 8 p.m. at Mustang Field.

Quarterback David DeLaRosa and running back Nemecio Rodriguez are expected to play. Both were hampered by injuries and did not scrimmage against Kress last week.

Coach Scroggins expects his team to be much improved over last year. "I think we are going to surprise some people," Scroggins said.

Watermelon Thanks

Bailey Farms will be supplying watermelon to the Bovina ISD cafeteria, free of charge for the next three weeks.

The new business that came to Bovina recently is donating the sweet melons so Bovina's students and teachers can enjoy them before the end of the season.

Cathy Riley, head of Bovina's cafeteria, said that the melons are a big hit during lunch time. Thanks, a bunch to the folks at Bailey Farms!

Thieves Are Apprehended After 12-Hour Manhunt

The lesson could be don't leave your keys in your vehicle, even if you are at home. Or it could be just good advice from law enforcement not to jump in the back of a pickup being stolen, even if it is yours.

In either case, 23-year-old Farwell resident Jarrod Franse is safe and sound after two men tried to steal his truck and made him mad.

Franse's 2000 Dodge Dakota pickup was parked in front of his Farwell residence around 6 p.m. Sunday, August 26, when he noticed two men on the street looking it over.

When they opened the door of the pickup, which had the keys in the ignition, he came out of the house to confront them. They jumped in, started the pickup, and drove off with Franse in the back of the truck.

He would later explain that it made him mad when they drove off with him beating on the window, so he just dove in the back and started screaming at passers-by "they stole my truck."

The two Clovis men, 18 and 16 years of age, were looking for a vehicle to steal when they spied Franse's Dodge Dakota. They sped away east on Highway 84, with Franse frantically trying to get help.

An unidentified motorist wrote down the license number and pulled off the highway in Lariat to call the Sheriff's office. Sheriff Randy Gerles, assisted by Parmer County deputies and others, began to look for the trio and the white pickup. Details and location of the truck were sketchy.

Meanwhile, the two hoodlums were trying to dislodge Franse from the back of the pickup, driving at speeds estimated at over 100 mph. Franse broke out the passenger side window of his truck and proceeded to pummel the thief in the passenger seat.

In apparent frustration, the two stopped the pickup in Castro County, three miles south of Highway 86 at the Greg Sides residence. The boys ran into a nearby haygrazer field.

Parmer County Chief Deputy Michael Howard used his drug dog, Arno, who is also a trained "apprehension and attack" dog. Arno captured Joe Angel Roldan, 18, about 9 p.m.

Officers searched for the 16-year-old suspect until 2 a.m. and decided to resume after daylight. A Castro County resident called authorities at 6:30 a.m. Monday to report the suspect was spotted about 3 1/2 miles south of the haygrazer field.

Franse suffered some minor bruises during the melee. Sheriff Gerles said Franse was very fortunate that the outcome was not more serious.

Roldan was charged with aggravated kidnapping and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He is in Parmer County jail under a $100,000 bond for the kidnapping and a $10,000 bond the vehicle theft.

The juvenile was charged with the same two offenses and is being held in the juvenile detention facility in Lubbock.

Sheriff Gerles said that in addition to all of his Parmer County deputies being called out, the DPS, Castro County Sheriff Department, Muleshoe Police Department and Dimmitt Police Department assisted in the arrests.

Nominees Needed For GT Program

The Bovina Independent School District is accepting nominations from the community for students who might be eligible for Advanced Academic Services, formerly known as the Gifted and Talented Program.

Any student currently enrolled in Bovina Schools is eligible for nomination.

Nominees will be screened and tested with parent approval. Referral forms are available from Carolyn Beauchamp in Room 113. There is no deadline for nominations.

"So You Want To Be A Travel Agent!"

Airlines delivered yet another whammy to travel agents last week.

The travel agents are screaming all sorts of obscenities but as usual it will not do them any good. As a group they have no real clout. Never have.

But that does not keep them from threatening all sorts of mean retaliatory actions against the bad old airlines who have had the attitude that travel agents stink for at least the last 20 years.

Now the airlines have reduced pay to travel agents down to a miniscule "why bother" level. Agencies across America banded together this week to show them airline guys a thing or two.

In a show of sheer power and clout, many agencies closed their offices for two hours on Thursday. (At least a few said they were going to, but I bet not many actually did.)

There. That ought to show those several hundred million airline passengers a thing or two. Not to mention scaring the flaps off of American, United and Delta.

For decades the foundation of a travel agent's business, i.e., their income, was commission earned on airline tickets. The commission income on an airline ticket was quick and easy.

Lots more folks bought airline tickets more often than cruises and tours so naturally an agent looked to air income first.

The numbers were very simple. An airfare consists of three parts: the fare plus the tax equals the total. The fare goes to the airline, the tax to the government and the total is what you, the customer, pay.

Travel agent commission was deducted from the fare. The bigger the fare, the more commission the agent earned. Standard commission percentages were 5% in the 60s, increasing to 7%, then 10%, in the 70s. It stayed at 10% until 1995.

So if a customer bought an expensive ticket, say a $2,000 roundtrip fare, a travel agent was paid $200 for hooking the flights and issuing the ticket.

A $100 fare earned $10 commission, $500 fetched $50, and so on. Agents worked hard to build up their monthly air volume. A half million a month in ticket sales brought in $50,000 in gross monthly income or $600K a year just for writing airline tickets.

You can see the lure here. Big money; an exciting, romantic, exotic industry; and free or reduced rate travel benefits. As travel agents used to say, "It sure beats working for a living."

But that fantasy has ended. In 1995, the airlines made a drastic change in the commission structure. Led by Delta, they "capped" travel agent commissions at 5%, or $25 for a one-way ticket and $50 for a roundtrip, whichever is less.

So the example of a $2,000 fare that had earned $200 commission, was now capped at $50, a 75% reduction in income.

Since 1995, the airlines have gradually reduced commission levels and pay rates to 1960 levels. Then last week, American Airlines again reduced the cap rate to $10 for a one-way or $20 for a roundtrip ticket, regardless of the fare.

Our $2,000 ticket example today earns $20, a below-the-poverty-level one percent commission rate. It took United, Delta and Northwest about 28 seconds to follow along with American's reduction.

Some industry veterans say that the next step will be to eliminate travel agent commissions on airline tickets, a situation the airlines have wanted for years.

Travel agents say that airlines can't get along without them. Closing for a measly two hours on a Thursday is not going to prove that point.

Agents need to stop issuing airline tickets altogether for a week, or a month, if they want to get anyone's attention. But they won't do that either. They will keep issuing tickets at the measly rates because they can't not write airline tickets.

Many agents charge service fees now to issue an airline ticket because they can't pay their overhead on the low commission income. Travel industry leaders advise agents to sell leisure travel, i.e., tours and cruises, where commissions are still in the 10-15% range for now.

Trouble is, people don't buy cruises or tours as often as they do air tickets. Leisure travel is seasonal, so agents do well during vacation season and die when fall comes and school starts.

The Web-surfers and Internet junkies have also hurt "brick and mortar" travel agency business. I know folks right here in Friona that have traveled recently with airline tickets purchased through their home computer.

So why am I writing about it? Nostalgia. For 20 years I owned a travel agency in downtown Dallas. The airlines for the most part were our friends. I traveled the world, mostly free, because my agency sales volume earned respect from the carriers.

Airlines don't respect travel agents anymore. Some frequent fliers say the airlines don't even respect their customers anymore.

I'm glad I was a part of the travel industry during the glory years when Pan Am ruled the air and Braniff hyped their Flying Colors.

I'm sad too though. Long ago, everybody I knew wanted to be a travel agent. Not anymore.

The fare, tax and total game is gone for good.

SHOOTING THE CANYON....The Texas Press Association of Austin recently sponsored a photography seminar in Amarillo for member newspapers. Jerry and Carole Jean Wright of Albuquerque, New Mexico were in town visited recently. They stopped in Bovina and got Jerry's mother, Gladys and took her to Wichita Falls to see her family.

Gladys stayed with her sister, Louise Summers. While in the Burkburnett area, she also visited with her mother, brother and other sister, Balma Dunham, Eugene Varner and Betty Aday.

After leaving Gladys with her family, Jerry and Carole Jean went to Ft. Worth to get their daughter, J.J. She is a junior at West Texas A&M University in Canyon and studies equine science. She has been in Ft. Worth for the summer as an intern.

Her parents helped her move back to Canyon into an apartment.

Carole Jean, J.J. and Jerry all spent some time with the Hastings and Gladys in Bovina for a few days.

Juanda Murphy had surgery last week in Lubbock. Reports were on Thursday that she was doing better.

Jack and Ona Patterson's granddaughter and two great-grandsons, Cara, Zack and Kord Fisher of Memphis, visited in the Patterson home last week for three days.

We received a note from the Navy this week concerning Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Scott Curtis. His wife, Elizabeth, is the daughter of Elodia Serna of Bovina. Scott is on a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific Ocean and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the amphibious assault ship USS Boxer, home ported in San Diego.

While in the Red Sea, Scott and the crew of the USS Boxer were treated to dinner and a movie on the flight deck. The event started with a steel beach picnic, the crew took a seat under the stars to view the film "Castaway".

A lot of folks have commented about the Carson story from last week. Yes, all the events really happened and they have even been on another adventure. We will have a follow-up story on the family's trip through Yellowstone National Park soon.

Todd Schilling is back home recuperating after being a patient at Covenant Medical Center in Lubbock since Thursday, August 23.

He's getting around with crutches and a walker and had a great attitude about his injury and the recovery that lays ahead.

I'm sure just being back home is a big help for the entire Schilling family.

Thanks to everyone who donated money to the local firefighters. The reported total is approximately $900—one of the most successful "Fill the Boot" campaigns in Bovina!

Becky and Ty London went to Odessa for the weekend. After a trip to Toys R Us, we returned with a small train set. We have been playing trains ever since!

FOOTBALL CONTEST

Weekly Prizes of...
$20 • $10 • $5

Plus a Grand Prize of $150!

Pick the team you think will win in each game and place the WINNER'S NAME beside the corresponding number in the contest entry form at the bottom of this page.
Pick the score of the tie-breaker game and place your guess in the appropriate blanks on the entry. The tie-breaker game will not count on your won-loss record. It will be used only in case of a tie.
Winners will be named by the Monday following the contest deadline each Friday, if possible. Cash prizes of $20 for first, $10 for second, and third prize of $5 will be awarded.
Tabulation of individual entrants will be kept all season and at the end of the season, the Grand Prize Winner will be named and will receive $150!
There is nothing to buy. No requirements other than bring the entry blank, filled out, and delivered to former Bovina Blade office location, in the hall next to Dorothy's beauty salon by 5 p.m. or mailed to PO Drawer B Bovina, TX 79009 (postmarked by 5 p.m. Friday) or faxed to 806-250-5127.
Only one entry form may be submitted per individual. If more than one form is submitted by an individual, all will be disqualified.
Tabulations will be available for public inspection. Members of theBlade staff will serve as judges for the contest.
Contestants must be 10 years old or older. Everyone except employees of this
