

State Bank Charter Sought By Group For Goldthwaite

A group of investors has filed a charter application for a new state bank in Goldthwaite.

Filing under the name of the First State Bank of Goldthwaite, to be located at 105 Fisher Street, the group stated assets at $1,000,000.

Proposed directors of the new organization are Hollis Blackwell, Don Geeslin, G. C. Head and Robert C. "Bob" Johnson, all of Goldthwaite, and Stuart S. Coleman and Robert Henry Johnson of Brownwood.

The assets are divided into the following categories: capital, $400,000; surplus, $400,000 and reserves, $200,000.

Blackwell, speaking for the group, said that no officers have as yet been selected. He said that the state bank charter is being pursued because of familiarity with state bank procedures and operations.

"Our community is big enough for two banks," Blackwell commented Tuesday. "A little competition never hurt anyone," he added.

Atty. Larry Temple of Austin is correspondent of the proposed bank. As of this time, no date for investigation of the application by examiners of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has been set.

The State Department of Banking will conduct a hearing on the application sometime in January of 1978.

The application was filed last week.

Eagles 'Stun' Early With Fine District 10-A Opening Win

About one-third of the people who witnessed the Goldthwaite-Early football game here last Friday night went home a little dismayed. Those people were the Early fans, who came to see their Longhorns take home the prize and the District 10-A opening ball game.

The bunch from the north were rated by everybody, and that means everybody, to finish at least two touchdowns ahead of the local Fighting Eagles, but coupled with a little over-confidence and a supreme Eagle effort, the impossible turned possible as the Eagles came out on top 8-3.

It was a defensive triumph for the locals, handing Early fourth down and long situations on countless occasions, and making two key interceptions.

The first steal was managed by Eagle safety Mike Lee who picked off an errant Longhorn pass on the Eagles two-yard line, with only a few seconds remaining in the first half. The second was garnered by James Green on the Eagles' 8-yard line in the third quarter.

Early drew first blood in the game on a "practiced" field goal. They tried one from the 20 yard line that proved to be low, however, the Eagles were offside, and the next try, from the 15, split the crossbars for the three pointer.

A roughing the kicker foul by the Longhorns was the step in the right direction that started the Eagles on their way to a score.

On first and ten from the Early 48, quarterback Mike Lee hit end Eddy Welch for 23 yards and then on the next play a pass that most thought would have been too high was grabbed by fullback Randy Benningfield, who had managed to get behind two Early defenders. This was good for the six-pointer. The Eagles tried for the two point conversion, and a perfect pass from Lee to Welch in the end zone netted the pair of points. This all happened with 8:20 to go in the game.

This was the point in the contest when the Eagles defensive eleven came in to shine. The Longhorns ground game, that had been so fruitful in previous Early games, faltered under bruising tackles by the Eagles. And when the clock drifted into the final minute, the airways also proved to hold nothing for the Brown County men. The game ended when Carson Padgett and Mike Jenkins "read" an Early screen pass play and knocked down the ball.

In regards to injuries, Coach Brister said that Jett Johnson and Gregg Geeslin will not see action in this week's game. Everyone else is expected to be in fine shape for the encounter.

Bill Bishop Appointed Pct. 1 Commissioner

Bill Bishop was officially sworn in as Precinct One Commissioner of Mills County last Friday morning.

The appointment, made by County Judge Herbert Faulkner, comes as a result of the resignation of Burtel Roberts, who submitted his letter of resignation on Sept. 26.

The appointment became effective on Oct. 1.

Bishop's appointment comes in action to Article 2341 of the statutes of the State of Texas which states "In case of vacancy in the office of commissioner, the County Judge shall appoint some suitable person living in the precinct where such vacancy occurs to serve as commissioner for such precinct until the next general election."

Judge Faulkner, in making the appointment had this to say about Bishop:

"The reason I have selected Mr. Bishop for this appointment is because he is a good and outstanding citizen of this County, he is concerned about County Government, and is very capable of filling the position.

"Bill lost the 1976 primary by 187 votes to Mr. Roberts for this position.

"Mr. Bishop has for 15 years been a District Director for the Brown-Mills Soil & Water Conservation District. "He was a trustee for several years of the Goldthwaite Independent School Board; a Director of the Federal Land Bank; served as President of the Mills County Farm Bureau; is a member of the Mills County Building Committee; and is a Veteran of World War II.

"Following World War II, Bill moved to Mills County from Kimble County, Texas, where he was reared.

"He lost his wife on May 8, 1973. Bill has one son W. G. Bishop, Jr., who lives on Route 2, Goldthwaite, and one daughter Mrs. Judy Sides, who lives in Garland, Texas.

"Bill is a deacon of the Scallorn Baptist Church.

"I am proud to have Bill as a Commissioner and I know he will serve you well."

Several friends and relatives were in attendance to witness the swearing in of W. G. Bishop for the office of County Commissioner of Precinct #1, Mills County.

Lee Receives 35-Year Award

ANGUS PAUL LEE

Mr. Angus Paul Lee has provided 35 years of dedicated and conscientious service to his community of Moline, Texas, and to the National Weather Service as a volunteer weather observer. It was announced just recently that Mr. Lee is one of 26 observers selected to receive the John Campanius Holm Award.

John Campanius Holm Awards, created in 1959 by the National Weather Service, are made annually to honor volunteer observers for outstanding accomplishments in the field of meteorological observations. There are nearly 12,000 volunteer observers who make and record daily weather observations in all parts of the United States, and only 25 or 26 receive the John Campanius Holm Awards.

Mr. Lee was honored for his many years of accurate and timely observations of daily rainfall measurements. He was the only one to receive the award in the central Texas area. He also was awarded a 35-year pin and a certificate.

ICA To Meet

The Independent Cattlemen's Association of Mills County will meet at 8:30 P.M., Monday night, October 10th, in the Community Room of the Mills County State Bank.

All farmers and ranchers are invited and urged to attend.

Soil Conservation Zone 4 Vote Oct. 6

Landowners of Zone 4 of the Brown-Mills Soil and Water Conservation District will hold an election on Thursday, October 6, 1977 in the Community Room of the Mills County State Bank. Zone 4 is in Mills County and consists of that area south and west of U.S. Highway 84, exclusive of that area between the Pecan Bayou and U.S. Highway 84 north and west of Mullin, Texas.

Eligible voters must be owners of land within the sub-division and be actively engaged in the business of farming or ranching. Under the community property laws of Texas, the wife of a landowner is entitled to vote and hold office.

Soil and Water Conservation District Directors serve a term of five years.

The position of a director on local boards is becoming an even more important job than in the past to local landowners and land users. With the passage of several environmental laws involving soil, water and plants, local units of government, especially conservation districts, will be in a position to exert considerable influence in the implementation of these environmental laws.

W. G. "Bill" Bisnop presently represents the landowners of Zone 4 on the Brown-Mills SWCD Board.

You are urged to vote in this important election.

The Mills Minister

Roland D. Fry, Minister
Goldthwaite Church of Christ

THE HOME

There is a direct relationship between the strength of our Nation, the church and the home. The church or nation can be no stronger than that strength found in the home. The home must build strength in sound moral values, and a depth of integrity, if we are going to have these values in our leaders. Parents must be aware of the need of sound leadership on their part, by setting the right kind of example for their children.

The Christian home is built on a lifetime covenant that brings the husband and wife together in a oneness that is to be broken only by death. This is a long term contract that can be bound together by that perfect bond of love, that will bring to life some of our most precious pleasures. If this love fails to mature and draw the family together, the home can be a place of constant fighting, where there is found no joy or happiness.

Our actions and attitude in the home will build the character of our children to a great extent. The parents should always live before the children what they want them to be.

Below is listed a few rules that we might follow to make our home more Christian, make our children more what we want them to be, build a stronger and better nation and church, as we find happiness for our home.

BEATTITUDES FOR MARRIED COUPLES

BLESSED are the husband and wife who continue to be affectionate, considerate, and courteous long after the wedding bells have ceased ringing.

BLESSED are they who have a sense of humor and laugh together, for this will be a handy shock absorber in every day problems.

BLESSED are the married couples who abstain from the use of alcoholic beverages.

BLESSED are they who love their mates more than any other person, who joyfully remain faithful to one another, and continue to build for their family.

BLESSED are they who attain parenthood, for children are a heritage of the Lord.

BLESSED are they who remember to thank God for their food and who take time daily to read the Bible and pray.

BLESSED are the husband and wife who regularly worship and work together in the kingdom of their Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

BLESSED are they who arrive at a satisfactory mature understanding concerning financial matters.

BLESSED are the husband and wife who humbly dedicate their lives and their home to Christ and who practice the teaching of Christ in the home.

Agricultural Research Proven Valuable Tool For Stockmen

Livestock studies conducted by Texas A&M system research facilities have long been of benefit to Texas producers and may prove even more crucial to Texas sheepmen in the future, current low sheep numbers offering little incentive for commercial firms to invest in research and new product testing.

Too, some research is simply not commercially applicable in the first place, except in a very roundabout way. Bitterweed studies, for example, might or might not lead to development of a commercially viable bitterweed antidote. Meanwhile, the A&M people are attacking the problem from various other angles.

The first step, of course, was to identify the true culprit. This was done on a broad scale by the fellow who first determined that bitterweed, and not one of the scores of other plants, was killing his sheep. Much more recently, A&M scientists isolated "hymenoxon" as the actual toxic agent in the plant.

This information opened the way for numerous other lines of attack and made it possible to determine if some of them might work. So far, an amino acid, cysteine, seems to work as a counteragent to hymenoxon. Thus, we have what could be a useful treatment, but it also has its drawbacks.

Rumen action tends to break down cysteine before it can reach the intestine, rendering it useless. Researchers, however, have had some success with encapsulation, thus protecting the amino acid long enough for it to reach its destination.

A lack of encapsulating equipment, in turn, has limited research along these lines, so tests at the present time involve injection.

Other bitterweed studies include testing the effects of herbicides both in controlling the weed and in reducing its toxicity.

Weed control by herbicide treatment is nothing new, but the principle has certain specific drawbacks when used on bitterweed. For one, bitterweed, where it is a problem, grows right alongside other more desirable forbs. Many of them are extremely important for sheep grazing, and a herbicide that kills bitterweed will also eliminate these more desirable plants.

Too, the most widely used herbicide, 2-4-D, has almost no residual effect and bitterweed can crop out again almost immediately. Current testing involves a search for other herbicides with better residual action.

As for using herbicides to reduce the toxicity of bitterweed, test results conflict. Field tests indicate the 2-4-D can greatly reduce the level of hymenoxon, but laboratory experiments have given just the opposite results. Field samplings also indicate that hymenoxon levels in individual plants may vary from one time to the next.

At present, we have no cure or positive treatment for bitterweed, but we do have a respectable number of dedicated researchers looking for both. And they're not trying to sell us their results, so they're not overly concerned with the size of the market we can give them.

Texas Food and Fiber

by Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner
 Texas Department of Agriculture

Driving out of Austin the other day, I was passed by a car of early 1970 vintage. On the rear bumper was a sticker which declared: "If You Like to Eat, You're Involved in Agriculture."

I liked that. And it set me to thinking. What does Texas agriculture mean to you and to me?

The value of the agricultural industry simply cannot be overemphasized. Last year, for example, the estimated cash receipts from the sale of crops and livestock in Texas amounted to $6.4 billion. This dollar figure, translated into economic impact as the raw agricultural products move through the channels of trade, amounted to $23 billion, giving the state's economy a healthy boost.

Texas agriculture touches each of us. As consumers, we can depend on a fresh, close-at-hand supply of food the year 'round. Each year, an increasing portion of the 1,575 pounds of food consumed by each of us and our families is being produced in Texas. Too, the buying power of our food and fiber dollars is increasing. Today, only $12.50 of every $100 is spent on food compared to the $23 spent in the 1950's.

If you are a member of a Union, an hour's wage will purchase more clean, nutritious food than in any other nation.

Besides being a producer, Texas' farmers and ranchers are also consumers. They buy food, clothing, household furnishings, building materials, autos and auto supplies, farm machinery, fertilizer and pesticides. They spend more than $5 billion a year just to produce their crops and to raise their livestock. They spend over $457 million a year on fuel and purchase 2.5 million tons of fertilizer and minerals.

Like you and me, the Texas farmer is a taxpayer. School districts, hospital districts, water districts, county, state and federal tax collectors all receive their share of the farmers' tax dollars. Texas farmland, valued at $37.7 billion, provides the state with a large portion of its tax base, and the state's farmers pay more than $188.8 million annually in farm property taxes.

Workers in the food processing industry, public utilities, transportation industry all benefit from the farmers' labors. The butcher... the baker... the doctor... lawyer... merchant... the garage mechanic... salesman... every Texan has a vital interest in agriculture. Our well-being today and tomorrow depends upon "the farmer."

Like the bumper sticker says, "If You Like to Eat, You're Involved in Agriculture."

SEATTLE RECENTLY joined the ranks of major cities eliminating mandatory retirement for municipal employees when Mayor Wes Uhlman signed an executive order abolishing what he called "arbitrary age discrimination against older Americans."

The executive order, which will affect about 175 city workers this year, will not apply to policemen and firemen, who must retire at an age set by state law.

Uhlman's action follows closely similar legislation enacted in Los Angeles which abolishes mandatory retirement for city workers with the provision that they take an annual physical examination. No physical will be required for Seattle employees.

Mayor Uhlman said mandatory retirement denies persons "the opportunity to continue to live productive lives and also robbed the city of a much valued resource—the experience and talents of older citizens."

Break the "breakfast blues" with tasty, exciting new menu ideas. Breakfast can be low cost and still interesting, varied and quick. And studies show children do better in school if they've eaten a good breakfast. Breakfast should provide one-third of the day's protein, vitamin and mineral requirements. And it's the easiest time to satisfy the Vitamin C requirements—citrus fruit or juice, or tomato juice is just right. For a nutritious and fun breakfast, try topping a favorite hot cereal with applesauce, jelly, jam or marmalade. Serve fresh fruit kabobs using apple, pear or peach wedges and strawberries or banana chunks. Toast sliced pound cake and spread with margarine, cinnamon and sugar. Try eggs any way - with cheese, mushrooms or just sunny side up. A cup of creamed tomato soup may just hit the spot. And young children will enjoy dry cereal topped with their favorite flavor of ice cream. Another exciting breakfast quick bread might be the following recipe for Indian Fry Bread— 3 cups all-purpose flour 2 tbsp. baking powder 1 tablespoon sugar 1 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon lard 2 cups (about) water (cold) Fat for frying Mix all dry ingredients. Cut in lard and add water to make a thick dough. Knead well. Break off handful and fry in deep fat until golden brown. mmmmm—good!!! Happy Breakfast!

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from the Eagle files of October 10, 1952.

David Watters, of Pleasant Grove, who last year was named the outstanding farmer in the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District, was elected last Tuesday night to succeed Willis Hill as Supervisor for the subdivision number 4 of the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District.

Mrs. Ola Mae Wilkey this week resumed business as a beauty shop operator and owner in Goldthwaite. She opened a new establishment on the west side of the square, next door to the Fire House, which was formerly occupied by the Benningfield Dry Goods Store.

Margaret McCasland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon McCasland of Star, won the Reserve Championship with a pen of five broad-breasted bronze turkeys at the State Fair of Texas at Dallas last Saturday.

Miss Jane Ann Steen was initiated on Tuesday of this week into membership of Alpha Chi, honorary scholarship society at McMurray College in Abilene.

Anthrax, which made its appearance about three weeks ago in the Will Boykin herd of cattle southeast of Star, caused a quarantine to be imposed on all adjoining places, according to report by Dr. D. R. Kerby, Goldthwaite veterinarian, who is treating the cattle.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Taken from the Eagle files of October 8, 1937.

W. C. Dew, who died at 10:00 p.m. last night in a Temple hospital from burns received early in the day, will be laid to rest this afternoon. Services will be at the Methodist Church with Rev. Fred J. Brucks and Rev. John K. Beery, his present and former pastors, officiating. All business houses will close for the funeral.

You can tell that school is in full swing now. Even the freshmen are getting used to it—now they don't look where they are going any more than the upper classmen.

Miss Willie Fay Gray of Goldthwaite and Roger Beaty were married at the home of Mrs. S. F. McLean in Brownwood last Saturday night at 9 o'clock.

The Jolly Chatter Club of Live Oak met with Mrs.

CHARADES

Team I claims victory in the game of Charades; Team II serves the Ice Cream!!

That's right folks, it sure was a sticky situation! On Thursday, September 15, at 2:00 p.m. a few of the residents at Hillview Manor decided to try their luck at charades. The result was hilarious!!

Geraldine Geeslin, Florence Sheldon and Brigitte Dunn coordinated the activity. Geraldine was captain of Team I, which consisted of Mrs. Ruby Kattes, Mrs. Della Means, Mrs. Mabel Yarborough, Mrs. Alice Waggoner, Mrs. Lena Brown, Mrs. Josie Faught and Madie Kirby.

Brigitte was the captain of Team II, which consisted of Mr. Jack Burns, Susan Huckabee, Mrs. Lou Rothwell, Mrs. Ola Rudd, Mrs. Maggie Lucas, Ella Webb, and her sister Mrs. Julia Evans.

Florence was score keeper and clue giver. Both team captains alternated giving clues, too. Some of Charades portrayed for the teams to guess were: A Buzzard Flying; kneading bread; making a birthday cake; a Brush Arbor Revival Meeting; and planting a garden.

It was a close game, but Team I finally won with a score of 19 - 12. Team II

The Central Texas Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges will hold the October Meeting at the Nell Pape Garden Center, Waco, on October 7, 1977.

The program for the day will be presented by Mrs. W. B. Shelton, of Temple, who will speak on "Orchids and Bromeliads". A commercial exhibit from Betty's Green Thumb Nursery will be on display, and all members are asked to exhibit their orchids and bromeliads.

Special exhibitors from within the group will be Mrs. Gerald Ballard, Milton Sonnenberg and Mrs. J. Luther Staton, Jr.

Hostesses for the day will be those judges from Lampasas, Killeen and Goldthwaite.

Texas just gets the lightning. Some West Texas sheep producers have felt a different kind of lightning from a particular cloud that's been nothing but silver lining to others.

The cloud is Kleingrass, and though it's become one of the most popular introduced grasses in recent years, many sheepmen, particularly in the western part of the state, are wishing they'd never heard of it.

Klein, or something that co-exists with Klein, is killing their sheep.

Highly adaptive and extremely productive, Klein has a lot going for it as a field grass, a point not missed by stockmen. Plantings increase yearly, and with this increase has come a corresponding increase in Kleingrass poisoning in sheep, a condition otherwise known as "swell-head".

Research into the problem has been going on since the malady first surfaced, but so far no one is certain just what it is that causes Klein poisoning. Some researchers theorize that a fungus may be to blame, but it is still nothing more than a theory. Other than Klein itself, no factor has been isolated common to all reported cases.

Those studying the disease DO know what it does. Early symptoms include swelling and drooping of the ears. Sunlight is a key element in the condition, and sheep may seek shade. At this point, sheep moved to shade and given water and feed can generally be saved.

Eventual death loss may approach 40 percent; however, on sheep that progress to the bottlejaw and swell-head stage. The problem is essentially one of extreme sensitivity to sunlight, and in advanced cases, lambs may suffer serious blistering and skin peeling. In severe cases the eyes may blister and burst. Liver failure is an integral part of the disease, and goes hand in hand with the photosensitivity; the liver breaks down chlorophyll, the green photoactive chemical in growing plants, and loss of this break-down action leads to the visible symptoms.

The disease seems to occur most frequently in lambs, but grown ewes and goats are also susceptible. There also appears to be a geographic factor; the problem is almost unknown east of Central Texas. Some researchers have suggested that mixing Klein with other grazing will prevent poisoning, but some of the recent documented cases have been found in fields where Klein made up only a small percentage of available forage. Until more is known about the malady and hopefully an antidote developed, the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association urges sheep producers to consider very carefully before planting Klein. After all, we're still working for an increase in sheep numbers.

Star Pee Wee, Jr. Teams Beat Sidney

The Star Pee Wee football team won their first game of the season last Tuesday night, beating Sidney 12-0. The team scored twice, with one touchdown on a pass from Keith Harper to Randy Ethridge, the other one on a run by David Clary.

According to report by Coach Tidwell, the Junior High team played the best defensive game of this year Tuesday night against Sidney. Jamie Tidwell scored three touchdowns. Carl Norwood scored two times on passes from Jamie. Carl also made two extra points on two passes, and kicked 2 extra points.

Sidney had only scored once up to the last two minutes of the game, then they scored two more times before the game ended. Even though Sidney came alive near the end of the game, Star still won the game 36-18.

Coach Tidwell stated that Gene Norwood, Darrrell Newton and Billy Jones did very good on defense in this game.

HEARING TESTS ARE IMPORTANT

If you have a hearing problem of any kind you owe it to yourself to have an Electronic Hearing test made to find out why, and what can be done to help you before it is too late. The tests are free and will only take about 20 minutes of your time.

We explain in plain English what can be done to help you, then you make your decision. We never try to high-pressure you into buying anything. There are thousands of people today suffering from hard of hearingness, (even some that wear Hearing Aids), just because they waited too late to do something about it... don't let this happen to you.

Mrs. Joe Treadway will hold a regular Hearing Aid Workshop at the Mauney Court in Goldthwaite, Monday, Oct. 10th, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. We invite you to come in for your free test. We do repair service on most makes of Aids, and have a full service on cleaning, tubes, batteries for your Aid, and can always save you money. We are licensed by the State of Texas to fit and dispense Hearing Aids. We are always close by when you need us. We are in the Hamilton office every Friday to run special tests and assist you in every way.

LET'S GO, TEAM!

GOING ALL THE WAY...

'Freedom To Be' 4-H Week Theme

During National 4-H Week Oct. 2-8, 4-H members will be exploring the theme, "Freedom to Be." Over the years, 4-H has helped millions of boys and girls grow into self-directed, productive and contributing members of society. It has done this through an informal, learn-by-doing approach to education, in which young people choose their own projects and set individual goals for achievement.

The strengths of 4-H come from several sources. The Cooperative Extension Service of the land-grant universities, state and local governments, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture provide substantial resources and versatility for the 4-H program. Private sector donors—businesses, foundations and individuals—contribute significant financial and technical assistance. And parents who are involved in 4-H help to reinforce their children's learning experiences in the program.

But the real key to the success of 4-H lies in the hundreds of thousands of volunteers who lead organized clubs and special interest groups or serve as advisors at the local level. It is estimated that for every hour spent on 4-H by a professional extension worker, a volunteer leader spends 10 hours. This amounts to about 20 eight-hour days each year.

Volunteer leaders provide healthy adult-youth relationships, teach skills, and give supervision and encouragement. Although the number of leaders has doubled in the past decade, even more will be needed if 4-H is to offer positive educational opportunities to increasing numbers of youth. We can't think of a better way to invest in America's third century than by volunteering time and talents to help prepare young people for the future.

President Jimmy Carter says the theme, "Freedom to Be" is a most appropriate one for an effort that reaches out to all young Americans—rural and urban—from all racial, cultural, economic and social backgrounds. For many it is the door to a lifetime of personal growth and self-fulfillment.

He further states, "I welcome this opportunity to challenge 4-H'ers and their capable leaders to continue in their search for new knowledge and fresh approaches to the problems facing their communities. By your involvement you greatly enrich the lives of all Americans."

Schlueter Named To Tax Committee

State Rep. Stan Schlueter of Salado has been appointed vice chairman of a joint House study committee by House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Schlueter will serve on a seven member committee composed of members from the House Agricultural and Livestock, Ways and Means, and Constitutional Amendments committees.

Clayton has asked the panel to make an in-depth study of ad valorem taxation and the effect of that tax on agricultural land.

The joint studies are being undertaken in an effort to pare spending costs by fully utilizing existing staff of committees and because the studies overlap the jurisdiction of more than one committee.

There are to be 12 separate studies undertaken in all. Final reports are to be made prior to the next legislative session in 1979.

In choosing a fabric, quality need not mean expense.
Check a fabric this way:
• Rub the fabric against itself several times. Watch for flaking, which means the fabric is heavily sized and may lose body after laundering.
• Stretch the fabric - then release it. It should spring back. If not, areas of strain will bag later.
• Wad a corner to check for wrinkling, but remember that some crinkle cloth and puckered fabrics are supposed to wrinkle.

• Check for vivid, clear colors.
(Dull colors signal dyes that may not wash well).
• Make sure fabric designs are printed on the "straight" of the grain. Noticeably off-grain designs are difficult to match in sewing.
• Rub the fabric against another fabric to detect crocking. Crocking means the color rubs off. When a brightly colored fabric crocks, it is almost impossible to set the dyes at home.
• Look for the term "colorfast" on belt ends or hang tags to insure that the fabric will not fade.

Tigers Lose To Buckholts

Star High School Tigers played Buckholts this week and try as they might, nothing seemed to work right. The tigers touchdowns were made on a pass from Harold Franks to Phillip Hartley, and one was made by Phillip when he caught a pass and ran it over again. The third touchdown was a pass from Vandell Norwood to Phillip. Stars last touchdown was made by Huntis Dittmar on a short run after a handoff. Only two points following the second touchdown were good. The final score was Buckholts 58, Star 26. The half time performance of the Star Drill Team was very good in spite of a problem with the music.

Come out and support the young people of Star. They need our encouragement. This weeks game will be played Friday, at 8 p.m. with Oglesby.

Official Memorandum
By DOLPH BRISCOE
Governor of Texas

For over 90 years the United Way Movement has been a leading example of America's distinctive tradition—the impulse of people to act voluntarily on the problems of their communities.

The United Way has become a principal life support system for the Nation's growing, changing network of voluntary community agencies. It is a movement to which people can be most fully involved—directly and personally—in improving community life.

The United Way is the mechanism through which human qualities essential to a good society—caring, mutual concern, compassion—can find a ready outlet.

WHEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the weeks of September, October and November, 1977, as UNITED WAY CAMPAIGN MONTH.

'Bespeckled' Ball Carriers

Mike Lee, number 12, above photo, makes yardage late in the game against Early last Friday night. Mike, the Eagle quarterback, threw some beautiful passes in the game, completing 8 of 20 for 149 yards, and no interceptions. The Eagles won the district 10-A opener 8-3. In the lower photo, an unidentified Early ball carrier, plows over Eagle defender, Darrell Martin, number 34, in the second quarter. Martin made a lot of key tackles in the contest, and was part of a total team defensive effort by the Eagles, stalling the heretofore potent Early offense to only 179 yards. Both ball carriers wear glasses.

Going Strong

On the Job For 63 Years

At 77, Jack Pearce, of Rochelle, Illinois, is still doing what comes naturally: he's holding down a job, something he's done since he was 14. For the past 18 years, ever since joining the Rochelle Police Department, he's been in charge of the town parking meters, issues citations for parking violations and works as a school crossing guard during the school year.

Born in a small Illinois town, Pearce was one of 12 children, six boys and six girls. "We were known as the 'Dirty Dozen,'" Pearce told a writer from The National Council on the Aging.

During summer vacation between the seventh and eighth grades Pearce got his first job, heating wire wheel spokes over a hot fire and passing them to other men who inserted them in the hubs. His pay? Eight cents an hour.

As many people from his generation did, Pearce decided then and there to drop out of school and go to work full-time.

"I decided if I was going to work, I'd better get a job that paid a little more than eight cents an hour," Pearce said with a chuckle. "That's how I ended up in the coal mines. I started at $1.57 an hour—that was pretty good money back then."

In 1933, Pearce and his wife Alice moved to Rochelle, where they've lived ever since. Over the years, they raised five children and now have 14 grandchildren and four great-grand children.

"We've always liked youngsters," Pearce said, "and I guess that's why Alice and I agreed to sponsor a dance for one of our daughters and her friends."

Little did they realize that one night of chaperoning would lead to nine years of sponsoring dances for Rochelle's teenagers, although neither of them regret a single minute of the time they donated.

"I think being around kids so much has helped keep us young at heart," Pearce said.

Even today, as Pearce walks seven to ten miles every day in Rochelle's downtown area checking meters for violations and marking tires with his yellow-tipped pointer, the citizens of this small town always have time to say hello. "Young or old, I like all people," Pearce said. "That's one of the best things about my job—I get to see my friends all day. I wouldn't know what to do with myself if I wasn't out making my rounds."

THE FORT WORTH

Independent School District has opened all school lunch rooms to persons 60 and older and offers them the regular student lunch for 75 cents a meal. Superintendent Gerald Ward has encouraged school principals to extend the program beyond the cafeteria by making unused rooms available to older persons for programs and socializing.

"We are hoping that interested senior citizens will join our VIP's program," he said. "This group, Volunteers in Public Schools, is open to adults of all ages who would like to put their talents and abilities to work helping school staffs to help the students."

Mills County — The Way It Was Down on the Farm; "Sunday Dinner"

By Hartal Blackwell

We were all there on Sunday morning - all at home getting ready for church with Mama running around in her stocking feet tending to the last minute details of dinner and dressing at the same time.

Of course, there were chores to do on Sunday - milking, feeding the hogs and chickens, and Mama had the dishes to do; but we didn't call that work - or at least it wasn't like hoeing and plowing, or washing and ironing. The best of everything was saved for Sunday: we had Sunday clothes, Sunday dinners and Sunday company.

But Saturday came before Sunday and it seemed to have been made especially to get everything ready. By Saturday morning most of the week's work was over. With the clothes hanging, washed and ironed, in the closets; the mending, sewing and quilting put aside; the floors scrubbed to a shining white with sudsy lye soap - Mama was ready to do her baking for Sunday.

It was an easy matter to keep track of what Mama was doing in the kitchen on Saturday morning by just listening to the identifying sounds. There was the regular ring of dishes carefully placed on the cupboard shelf, the screeching whine of the back door when she went outside, then silence until we heard the flat bang when it shut. Soon we would hear the big wooden spoon as it beat vigorously against the bowl to mix lightbread that had been rising all night; later the sound of Mama kneading the bread on the doughboard or set a rhythmic accompaniment to her favorite hymn, "Bringing In The Sheaves," as she hummed along with the kneading.

Everyone had to rush on Saturday because that was the afternoon for going to town. The cream set souring in the shiny tin cans; the eggs were crated and ready for market; Mama's round molds of butter with flowers etched on top were wrapped in wet cup towels and ready for the grocery store; the corn set shelled in a tow sack in the back of the car, waiting to be ground at the mill. They always carried a clean, boiled white sack for the meal after it was ground; Mama wouldn't have dirt in her cornbread.

Grandpa and I stood on the porch and watched the little trail of dust boil up behind our Model T as it became smaller in the distance. We noticed, without saying, that the sumac growing beside the lane fence had turned a fireball red; the postholes in the pasture were the color of hog plum jam, and there was a nip in the air. It was October, and Grandpa said, "You know, son, I've gotta get my long handles out pretty soon. One of them blue darter northers will be blowing in here before long."

When I turned to go into the house, I went by way of the Sunday dining room where the pie safe stood in the corner. As I peeped in, I saw loaves of bread, brown as toast; somehow during the morning, Mama had managed to bake a cake and a big apple cobbler. But they were for tomorrow when company would be coming - not today.

There was a dark, cavernous look about the big dining room where the round table stood; the parlor seemed that way, too, because Mama never raised the shades except on Sundays, or special occasions. It was seldom that those two rooms saw the rays of sunshine, or felt a fresh breeze.

After church, Mama went through the crowd asking various families to share our dinner. We never knew who she had invited until we were well on our way home. We hoped there would be plenty of children for a good afternoon's play.

Suddenly, when we were home, there was a mingling of movement and sound; the dining room was lived in again - the shades were up and the sun glistened on the oak buffet. Mama went busily about getting dinner on the table; doors slammed; someone was coughing on the front porch; children's voices drowned out the bleating sheep at the water trough under the liveoak; the ticking of the Seth Thomas mantle clock was lost with Grandpa's talking. There was movement everywhere, into all the rooms, through all the house and soon dining room chairs would be pulled back - then forward again as the grownups sat down to eat.

We children continued to play in the yard, but our thoughts were in the dining room hoping they wouldn't eat it all while we were asked to wait.

The guests were so engrossed with their visiting and dining that not a word of praise came forth about the crispy fried chicken or the bowl of potato salad so carefully decorated with a boiled-egg sunflower. When it became evident that none would come, Mama had to fish for her own compliments; as she brought in the apple cobbler she said, "I made a plumb bust on this old cobbler. You don't have to eat it if you don't like it."

Only then did everyone jerk to attention and assure her that the cobbler was the best she had ever made - and so was everything else. Then Mama sat back and, with a smug-little smile, enjoyed her cobbler, too.
