'80 Cotton Picture Begins To Brighten

Chief Appraiser Speaks To Lions

Chief Appraiser for the Bailey County Appraisal District Dale Jones explained Senate Bill 621 and House Bill 1061 to members of the Muleshoe Lions Club during their noon luncheon Wednesday, and fielded questions from the members concerning the new tax bills.

Jones explained that when the two bills were introduced to the voting public, the voters were told that the tax referendum, if approved, was aimed at reducing taxes.

"The public voted on the bills," he commented, "and when the tax house is put in order, then taxes will be reduced."

SB621 mandates that city and school taxing entities must join the Appraisal District and pay the district to do their tax services. This is done with a chief appraiser. In the past, a county or taxing entity had their own assessors, their own expenses and then another taxing entity would be doing the same service and paying for the same services, thus causing a duplication of the same taxing services.

"Eventually," according to Jones, "all taxing entities will probably cease to be, will be eliminated, or will be placed under one roof. Thus, a citizen will go to just one office. In this manner, after it is set up, we can operate cheaper as one entity. At this time, we have the option to set up the program or wait until mid-1981."

"The Appraisal District of Bailey County elected to start the program for a smooth transition at this time."

Jones explained that under the new laws, 'teeth' have been added which will prevent the tax assessor from figuring very high taxes. Also, he said the chief appraiser will be responsible for all taxing entities.

According to Jones, the state will send out figures from the state appraisal board. The figures will be sent to all entities as the state will be figuring the taxes by establishing marketable value. If the local assessed fall into the range established by the state, the state officials will be

Fort Worth Golf Pro In Tourney

Arriving in Muleshoe Thursday morning to participate in the annual East Lazbuddie Invitational Golf Tournament, sponsored by Demp Foster, was Mancil Davis, Head Golf Professional from Trophy Club Country Club in Fort Worth.

The young pro is probably best known for his record in the Guinness Book of Records. He is listed as the youngest golf pro, at 28, to ever have more 'holes-in-one' than his age. Although he was listed in the book at 34, he now has 38 holes-in-one.

He is second only to PGA tour player Art Wall in career holes-in-one. He has made appearances on CBS's 'I've Got a Secret' and recently was interviewed on NBC. Davis also came within a few inches of holing one on camera during the interview.

A native of St. Simons Island, Georgia, he was director of golf and general manager of the Island Club. A native of Texas, he attended high school in Dallas and played golf for Louisiana State on a golf scholarship. He won numerous victories in local and state competitions before turning professional in 1974.

Accompanying Davis on the plane were two brothers of the sponsor and host, Demp Foster. Tun Foster resides at Roanoke and Shan Foster is a resident of Prairie Grove, Arkansas.

Delbert Berry piloted the visiting trio from Lubbock.

4-H Shows Well At State Fair

In Steer Show

Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley said several youths from Muleshoe 4-H Clubs showed 11 steers at the State Fair in Dallas last Wednesday.

Jerry Gleason exhibited the champion polled Hereford which had won first in the heavyweight division.

Showing the second place lightweight Cross was Kelly Harrison, while Alan Harrison had the fourth place heavyweight Cross and Jay Gleason had the sixth place lightweight Cross.

Jacinda Gleason exhibited the sixth place mediumweight Cross; Jimmy Gleason showed the seventh place heavyweight Cross and Jeanine Robertson had the 11th place mediumweight Cross.

Also, Jamie Wheeler had the 14th place mediumweight Hereford and Jodie Wheeler showed the 20th place heavyweight Cross.

Tanksley said 30-50 steers were shown in each division, and said he was very proud of the showing for the local youngsters.

"Our kids have done an outstanding job with their fall steers," he added. "We are preparing for the winter steers and more showing."

And, the county agent said around 50 steers are being prepared for the Bailey County Junior Livestock Show in a division that continues to grow. A total of 27 youths are feeding steers this year.

Police Report

Muleshoe City Police are still seeking a small calico cat or kitten which bit a child on West Avenue K recently. As a result, the child is undergoing a series of rabies shots.

Muleshoe Chief Johnny Richards said several calico cats have been reported and picked, however, the cat that bit the child has not yet been found at this time. They are still seeking information about the right brown, yellow and white cat that bit the child.

Also, following an arrest last Saturday, an adult was charged with possession of a controlled substance and dangerous drugs. The adult was arraigned and the case was filed in district court.

A criminal mischief report from 301 East Sixth Street was received and is under investigation.

An adult was arrested and charged with a liquor violation and a report was received that someone had been bitten by a dog near the Assembly of God Church.

Chief Richards said a theft was reported by West Plains Medical Center. It was reported that over $200 was taken from the hospital. The chief said a

Harvest Starting In Bailey County

All is not gloomy for the crop picture for Bailey County for 1980, predicted Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley Thursday afternoon.

This year, according to the county agent, the price is high and a top dollar figure may be realized by the cotton producer. However, he cautioned, we do not at this time know the staple length, micronaire or grade, which will affect the price received.

"This is the earliest we have ever seen cotton open," added Tanksley, "and, agronomists say some cotton is very pre-

Farmers Urged

To Attend Meet On Farm Labor

Darrell E. Kremek of the U.S. Department of Labor has reminded that the United States Department of Labor, Dallas Regional Farm Labor Coordinated Enforcement Committee, is sponsoring a public meeting in Lubbock this week.

The meeting will be in Room 107 at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center with two sessions scheduled on Tuesday, October 21. The meetings will be 2-5:45 p.m. and 7-10 p.m.

Kremek said the Telephone Company Pioneers of America, South Plains Chapter, will be providing translators on a voluntary basis so everyone can communicate.

He said the purpose of these meetings is to provide information on labor laws migrant and seasonal farm workers and to provide an opportunity for public discussion about the coordinated enforcement efforts of the Department of Labor.

The Enforcement Officer said all interested persons, both farmers, and workers, may attend the meeting, and added that the decision making people from the main offices would be at the Lubbock meeting.

mature. Also, premature cotton may be damaged."

The production from irrigated cotton acres cannot be figured in the same breath as cotton in dry southern Bailey County, he added. Some dryland early harvested cotton is taking 6-10 acres to produce one bale of cotton.

With around 45,000 acres of irrigated and 30,000 - 40,000 acres of semi-watered and dryland cotton, although production will be reduced, the price received is expected to offset the production loss from the extreme heat and drought of the past summer.

On defoliation, Tanksley said, "Defoliate when cotton is at least 70 to 80 percent open and all bolls have matured. Time your defoliation a maximum of two weeks before harvest."

"If regrowth occurs before harvesting, defoliate again. Moisture in green leaves and stems harvested and stored with seed cotton also can cause lint and seed to deteriorate."

In an overall prediction, he commented, "Limited U.S. cotton supplies are the main factor behind a strong market. Demand is generally soft. As of September 1 conditions, the US crop was placed at 11.7 million bales, compared with 14.6 million in 1979. The Texas crop was estimated at 3.6 million bales, down from 5.5 million produced last year."

"Dry weather has reduced the staple length of Texas cotton substantially. Price discounts for the short length staple cotton are running 10 to 20 cents per pound under SLM 1-1/6 inch cotton. Loss to the drought will be in both quality and in yields."

Tanksley believes prices in the US market may overreact to the small crop and reach a level in September or October that will be difficult to maintain once users of cotton adjust their demand to the higher price levels.

Drought Effects Reflected In Higher Auction Sales

AUSTIN—Livestock auction sales increased significantly in August, reflecting the effects of the summer's relentless heat wave, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

"During August -- at the height of the drought -- thousands of head of Texas livestock were being moved off of withered pastures and into auction barns across the state," said Brown. "The effects of this weather-related sell-off will be with us for some time."

Figures from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service show that auction sales of cattle were up by 15 percent during August compared to a year earlier. Some 115 percent more sheep and lambs were sent to auction than in 1979, and hog sales totaled 56,000 head, 37 percent above August 1979. Over 40,000 head of goats were marketed in August, compared to 26,000 head the previous month.

"In the case of cattle, Texas herds were just beginning to rebuild after several years of reduction," he said. "There is no question that the drought will prolong this rebuilding cycle, and create reduced supplies of beef in the coming years."

"The situation is particularly bad for livestock producers because marketing decisions are taken out of their hands," said Brown. "When faced with hungry stock, sparse grazing and expensive feed, many have no other choice but to sell. The drought could not have come at a worse time for most producers."

Brown also noted that movement of cattle, sheep and lambs into Texas feedlots accelerated this summer due to the hot, dry weather.

BIOENERGY. That's the term used now in most official government reports on gasohol, alcohol fuels, methane gas and other energy forms to be developed from biomass. According to the latest forecast from the Office of Technology Assessment (OTA), bioenergy can account for up to 20 percent of the total energy needs of the United States by the year 2000. That's double the earliest projections. The OTA report was also one of the first to recommend the use of alcohol (methanol) as a stand-alone fuel rather than only as part of a blend. The big IF remains whether a significant realignment of priorities for federal agencies and extensive coordination among government entities, at all levels, will be required to successfully obtain production and usage goals.

Debbe Brooks Artist Of The Month

Debbe Brooks has been selected as artist of the month at the Muleshoe Public Library. She said, "Ever since I was very young, I have wanted to draw. Mostly it was horses and other animals, but horses were my favorites."

She took art in Jr. High School, but all she can remember about the teacher was that she taught very good drawing techniques and had good projects for them to do.

In High School, she studied under Mrs. Elizabeth Black. There she did three oil pictures and one water color plus many other interesting projects.

Over the years, she has studied under Don Stroud in water color, Larry Hilburn on drawing, Clarence Kincaid and Mary Selfridge both on water color.

She said, "When I moved back to Muleshoe, I started doing more art work and trying different tech-

School Board Grants Leave

During the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the Muleshoe Independent School District last Monday a medical leave of absence was approved for one employee and a letter of resignation was accepted from Robert Brewer, special education teacher at Mary DeShazo Elementary School. Cathy George, a native of Borger, was hired to replace Brewer.

Also employed was Lenda Trussell as a teacher at Richland Hills. She is a graduate of Lubbock Christian College and taught for one year at Friona.

Approved for auditor for the school was the firm of Williams, Adair and Sudduth. Randy Field, auditor for the CPA firm gave the audit report for the 1979-80 school year. No discrepancies were found in any fund, according to the report.

Tom Jinks reported a request for approval to requisition two new school buses and also asked approval of a reimbursement rate for travel and per diem for vocational teachers. Dale Jones reported on the tax collections and Mrs. Johanna Wrinkle and Pat Black gave a status report of the High School English Department.

Plans were discussed to dispose of property owned by the city and school due to failure of the owners to pay taxes and Superintendent Harold Horne reported on bank balances and the findings of the 1979 Market and Index Values of the School Districts.

In other action, Superintendent Horne presented the comprehensive testing program for the Muleshoe Independent School District and the official budget was approved.

Plans were reviewed to accommodate the monitoring team of the Texas Education Agency who will be visiting the Muleshoe Schools.

A lay-out plot plan was presented by the Vocational Agriculture teacher for the Vocational Agriculture Farm.

Several other reports were also given during the evening.

"For the 1980 crop," added Tanksley, "it looks like the market will remain strong. However, in a year when crops are small, prices tend to be the highest just before or at the early stages of harvest. During the next several months, this may offer cotton growers an opportunity to contract 1981 cotton at this year's price level."

Tanksley said the recent rains have supplied badly needed moisture to wheat crops, and in some instances have allowed producers to plant wheat, especially in southern Bailey County.

It also added moisture back to grassland, he added, and helps late pasture although it does not mean the cattleman will not have to winter feed this year. He will have to provide supplement feed, but can now start later in the winter.

According to the county agent, the late rains have provided better quality alfalfa cuttings than earlier this year.

As the little corn still in the ground, and cotton are in a stage of maturity where they are not taking water from the soil, the rains are adding back moisture that has been lost during the drought. He said the rains have all been the best kind of rain to replenish the soil as they have been the slow, gentle type rain.

Many farmers are already preparing their land, and they will have a good jump on the work before spring planting. The land is working well, concluded Tanksley and farmers are destroying stalks, disking and working their land out.

Agriculture, Christmas has been going on already for several months. Last year, the community cooperated together to provide the extensive repairs necessary to make the twelve year old decorations for the streets last through Christmas 1979. Even though the old decorations were made presentable after many hours of work by a dedicated group of volunteers, it was apparent to the workers that the decorations were in desperate need of replacement.

A committee of interested Chamber members was appointed to secure a new set of decorations for the community for Christmas of 1980. The committee recommended a plan to the city through which the City of Muleshoe would provide funding for purchasing the new decorations. Two surveys conducted by the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture showed that the great majority of the community supported such a plan. The city approved the Chamber's proposal, and on October 3, new street decorations for Muleshoe were ordered. The Chamber's Decorating Committee considered many different alternatives and after meeting with the representatives of companies dealing in the sale of street decorations, selected a decoration which is a pole-mounted type.

The committee's decision was based on several factors. The major considerations were cost, susceptibility to wind damage, durability, difficulty of installation, storage, and appearance. The Chamber's Christmas Decorating Committee includes, Hal Anderson, Dave Cavitt, Vi Lindsye, Meryl Neel, Steve Thrasher, and Charles Bratcher.

Ronald Reagan

A Man Of Faith

"Blessed Is The Nation Whose God Is The Lord"

Psalms 33:12

The United States was settled by men and women who had an abiding faith in God. Its Constitution was written by the same type of men.

Through the generations Americans, regardless of their origins, have turned to God-fearing men and women for inspiration, guidance and leadership.

Our generation is no exception. Indeed, men and women in increasing numbers have begun testifying openly to their own acceptance of Christ. In an era when political leaders are being scrutinized carefully, our generation has asked them about their faith and their personal relationship with God and Christ.

Earlier in 1979 Governor Ronald Reagan was interviewed by John Bass, who is Executive Vice President of a large international Christian Association, the association representing thousands of Christian Community leaders across America.

JOHN BASS: Governor Reagan, do you feel there is a need for spiritual renewal in America?
RONALD REAGAN: Yes. The time has come to turn to God and reassert our trust in Him for the healing of America. We need to join forces to reclaim the great principles embodied in the Judeo-Christian tradition and in Holy Scripture. As a Christian I commit myself to do my share in this joint venture. Our Country is in need of and ready for a spiritual renewal that is based on spiritual reconciliation - first man with God, then man with man.

JOHN BASS: Do you have a favorite Bible verse?
RONALD REAGAN: Yes. I do. John 3:16. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

JOHN BASS: What does this Bible verse mean to you personally?
RONALD REAGAN: It means that, having accepted Jesus Christ as my Savior, I have God's promise of eternal life in Heaven, as well as the abundant life here on earth that He promises to each of us in John 10:10.

JOHN BASS: What are your views on Christian education, prayer in the public school, abortion and homosexuality?

RONALD REAGAN: I think my views are pretty well known. I thoroughly support Christian schools and voluntary prayer in the public school. As for abortion I believe that interrupting a pregnancy is taking a human life. That can only be justified on the basis of self defense. I do not believe society should recognize or accept homosexuality as a so-called "alternative life style."

JOHN BASS: Do you believe Christians should be involved in politics?

RONALD REAGAN: Absolutely. This is a part of putting Christian principles into practice.

JOHN BASS: Do you think the Bible is of divine origin?

RONALD REAGAN: I've never had any doubt about it. How can you write off the Old Testament prophecies that hundreds of years before the birth of Christ predicted every single fact of His life, His death, and that He was the Messiah?

JOHN BASS: If you have the privilege to be at the helm of the United States of America, what factor would prayer play in your life?

RONALD REAGAN: I have for years spent much time in dependence on God's leading in my life. It is inconceivable to me that anyone could undertake a job such as the one I had [Governor of California] or even think of the presidency unless one felt he could call on God for help knowing that God does answer prayers. I believe His promise also that where two or more are gathered in His name there will He be also. Thus I have faith in the intercessory prayer as one of the greatest powers on earth.

Open Letter To The Public

We will have an opportunity in less than a month to elect new public officials into local, state, and federal posts. Whether or not our new representatives actively pursue governmental improvements, less spending, lower tax rates and a reversed inflation trend is a responsibility that lies squarely on our shoulders. Our responsibility does not end the day an elected official takes office. When you hire someone to mind the store, you don't dump the whole thing in his lap and go on a four year vacation. You know you'll be broke when you get back. So, since, it's your business and livelihood, you keep a check on him. You supervise him.

The same principle applies to government. You must not elect someone to office and then forget about him for four years and expect any real effort in your behalf. Unfortunately, this is the way most of us have handled our public officials in the past. People, the store is going broke and we are nearly out of business.

Government is an administrative business providing law, justice and service to the people who created it. It must be run like a business. Constant supervision and vigilance on the part of the electorate is mandatory. We can no longer allow our elected officials the free rein they've had for so many years. They have nearly ruined us. I've heard the argument that nothing can be done to change the general trend in government. Baloney!! People made it what it is and people change it. The argument that nothing can be done will hold true until you get hurt. When it really starts to smart because you lose your farm, business or home; when you get hungry, hurt and mad, then watch how you can force change. I hope the American people get angry enough before the hurt sets in, because it will be a long road back.

I'm not hungry yet but the hurt is starting to pinch and I'm angry! I offer my experience and my services to the people of Bailey County and Precinct One. Please consider giving me your support and your vote in November.

Sincerely,
Thomas S. Freeman

NEW EXPERIENCE

A little hesitatingly, a little unsure of that first kiss. This is something new and all kinds of thoughts enter the mind. Now... it's over and... well, what was there to be afraid of? Perhaps this is your first invitation to church, and you would like to go. Then comes the hesitation... "I don't know what to do... what if I made a mistake?" These fears will vanish with the first hearty handshake and friendly welcome that all churches extend, and you, too, may receive the joy of worshipping in God's house.

Japanese Trade Offers Potential Super Sales

AUSTIN--"When a Texas Honeydew melon sells in Japan for $20, Texas producers have a great potential in widening the range of Texas agricultural products now exported to that country," Commissioner Reagan V. Brown announced recently.

Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) marketing personnel recently visited the Orient on a promotional tour, and reported Texas food product sales in Japan have a tremendous opportunity, Brown said.

"(In Japan) A typical person will spend one month's salary on gift items. A tradition in that country, gift exchanges are often food items. It can be a fancy pack of cookies or grapefruit. With nice elaborate packaging, a melon can go for as much as $20," Brown explained.

"We need to work on efficient packaging techniques and iron out any transportation and quarantine problems to get in on the export sales race," Brown said.

Japan is already our largest single-country market for agricultural exports. That country also buys more grain from us than any other and is one of the top three markets for Texas cotton, Brown continued.

A three-day food exhibition in Tokyo allowed the introduction of Texas products such as fruits, candies and nuts as possible gift packs and an opportunity to explain the diversity of Texas agricultural products, Brown said.

Coaches Comments

We were very pleased to win our homecoming game against Lockney. Our defense came back and showed they could play defense with the best of them by holding Lockney to only 68 total yards. Our offense had one of its best quarters of the season while scoring 11 points in the final quarter and coming up with 4 big plays during that period. We should have some momentum built up going into district play. Our goal is to be the district champs; and in order to do that, we must defeat Olton at home on October 24. Get the Mania rolling!

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek has encountered a new theory out of Washington.

-O-

Dear editor:

A new medical theory has originated in Washington that requires a close examination.

According to a National Educational Committee's report to the Department of Health and Welfare, by 1990 there will be 70,000 surplus doctors in this country. This, the committee said, will run the cost of medical services billions of dollars above the 200 billion a year it now costs, because "more doctors will be doing more things to more people, without necessarily improving their health."

In other words, the more doctors there are, the more they're going to find wrong with you. Or, the amount of sickness increases in proportion to the number of doctors around to treat it. I don't believe doctors will agree with this theory, but if it works, if the more doctors the schools turn out the more we'll have to pay for medical services, then I'd like to see the theory put to a wider use.

For example, apply it to ranchers. The more cattle they produce, the more they get per cow or calf. Or apply it to farming. The more cotton farmers produce the more they get for it. I don't know of any doctors agreeing with this new theory but farmers and ranchers would endorse it unanimously.

Come to think of it, this theory has already been adopted in some areas by Congress. For instance, the more lawyers the schools turn out, the more laws Congress passes to give them something to do. And the people who make x-ray film have discovered the theory. The more film they produce, the more x-rays hospitals have to take. For some reason, this theory hasn't worked with car manufacturing.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

AUSTIN—Among nine constitutional amendments on the November 4th general election ballot is a proposal relating to county road work on private roads. If approved by a majority of the voters, Amendment Number 7 will authorize counties with a population of 5,000 or less, according to the most recent federal census, to perform private road work at the designation of the road owner.

Supporters of the proposed amendment reason that it is economically unfeasible to contract a private firm to do private road work in remote rural areas of Texas when the county can provide the same services at a reasonable rate. Also, proponents cite that smaller counties are required by law to maintain costly construction and maintenance equipment, which often lays idle and not regaining any investment. Money regained by contracting equipment out for private purposes could slow tax increases for all county residents.

Opponents of the measure maintain provisions of the Texas constitution prohibit use of public funds for private purposes, and should the amendment pass, public funds might be squandered and doors to further abuse opened. This amendment would place counties in direct competition with private industry. Currently, the construction industry is suffering in many areas of Texas and opponents argue that such an amendment will only compound recession by fueling inflation and increasing unemployment. The opposition also contends that the amendment's population ceiling of 5,000 is rigid and artificial and if adopted at some point, another amendment would be required if more populous counties are to be included.
