Experiment Farm Results.

Mr. Ledigh, of the U. S. Experiment Farm at Channing, gives out the following results:

"The general conditions of the experimental small grains, are very good, but the root development is not very great owing to the great amount of moisture. In some wheats the stand is too good and may have a bad influence on the yield. One variety of rye is about ready to head.

Of the fall sown wheat 48 out of 98 were not injured by the winter and only two are entirely killed.

Of 21 barleys 5 had good winter resistance and none are entirely killed. Of 11 winter oats varieties only 2 stood the winter well and 5 seem to be entirely dead. Several durum (so called macaroni) varieties were fall sown and were partly winter killed.

This spring 276 varieties of wheat have been planted, mostly in small lots, although 37 numbers were planted with the drill on some 20 acres of land. These are mostly durum wheats. Spring barleys to the number of 85 are now sown, the largest acreage devoted to one variety being 1 acre. Of oats 48 varieties were planted and of these the largest acreages are about 1/4 acre each of Rust Proof and 165 lbs. Sixty Day, the seed for both of which plots were grown here last year. A few varieties of fall and spring rye are being grown.

Among the wheats are several varieties of emmer spelt einkorn, and other very hardy kinds which are from Germany, the Caucasus and Abyssinia which have been sent here in the hope that the qualities they have shown in the North may possibly in some cases prove useful here.

The trial of a series of corn varieties started last year will be continued and some 40 small amounts of seed will be tried also. The broom corn millets did so well last year that all the available varieties are to be tried and several seedings will be made.

One of the most important lines of work this year will be the starting of a systematic effort for the improvement of the grain producing qualities of Kaffir Dwarf, Yellow Milo and other non-saccharine sorghums. This will include some 30 or 40 new varieties and probably 50 heads each of milo and kaffir. It is the intention to cover selected heads of these plants during blooming periods so as to prevent mixing. As far as is known this will be the first work of this kind ever undertaken."

will offer his hand with a thud. You have got to do the shaking.

A man who is forceful, energetic, and a doer never shakes hands in a listless manner.

Any person, male or female, who rolls the eyes while talking, lies for effect. They are carried away by false pride.

The man who looks you in the eye, talks in a moderate tone and modest manner, who shakes hands vigorously, who is neither nervous nor aggressive, can be trusted.

All women are a bad risk. This is due to inherited mental and physical traits, in which man figures as a Santa Clause

Extravagant Funerals.

It is a great pity that foolish human pride doesn't stop with the demise of the deceased. The relatives of the departed, not contented with the modest, quiet, unostentatious disposition of the dead, often make a gorgeous, silly display in the simple matter of putting away from sight the mortal remains of their loved ones. This is one of the most unseemingly customs of modern times. Some time ago the Texas Christian Advocate made some remarks upon false pride and foolish extravagance in the matter of funerals that are well worth reproducing. It said: "There is nothing more sacred than a funeral service which we have conducted over our dead, as we lay them in their last resting places. Yet it is to be regretted that we are establishing a custom in our cities and larger towns of make these services needlessly showy and expensive. Not that we desire this sort of thing, but that custom is making it necessary. Other people are doing it, and when we have this sad duty to perform we do not want to appear different from the usages of those about us. Hence we purchase a casket, hire several expensive carriages and pay for an extravagant hearse. It would look a little bit out of taste under the circumstances to take the question of expense into consideration and apply the rules of economy to such an occasion. Hence, we go along against our judgement and ability. As a matter of fact, a poor man can hardly afford to die in the city on account of the enormous expense attached to putting his lifeless remains away. Looking at this matter as we do, we have come to the conclusion that somebody ought to be brave and sensible enough to break up the custom of observing these showy and expensive funerals. Our bodies do not need costly caskets in which to dissolve and go back to Mother Earth, and our friends do not need a long procession of carriages to follow us to the grave. If so, and they be in reality our friends each one will gladly furnish his own transportation. The dust of our dead is too sacred to expose to such coarse display. Let our people throw this sinful custom aside and bury their dead quietly and decently, and in accordance with their means."

Well and truly said. "A poor man can hardly afford to die," these days, and doubtless many would not if they just didn't have to.—Dick Naylor in Home and Farm.

Good Advice.

In an address to the Mother's Congress at Washington recently the President of the United States gave parents a bit of good advice in the following: Into the woman's keeping is committed the destiny of the generations to come after us. In bringing up your children you mothers must remember that, while it is essential to be loving and tender, it is no less essential to be wise and firm.

If you mothers through weakness bring up your sons to be selfish and to think only of themselves, you will be responsible for much sadness among the women who are to be their wives in the future.

If you let your daughters grow up idle, perhaps under the mistaken impression that as you yourself have had to work hard that they shall know only enjoyment, you are preparing them to be useless to others and burdens to themselves. Teach boys and girls alike that they are not to look forward to lives spent in avoiding difficulties but to lives spent in overcoming difficulties. Teach that work, for themselves and also for others, is not a curse, but a blessing; seek to make them happy, to make them enjoy life, but seek also to make them face life with the steadfast resolution to wrest success from labor and adversity, and to do their whole duty before God and to man.

Beyond Expression.

G. W. Fawcett, East Florence, Ala., writes: "For nearly seven years I was afflicted with a form of skin disease which caused an intense, unbearable itching. I could not sleep, and my permanent relief until I tried Hunt's Cure. One application relieved me and one cured me, and although I have had the disease several times since, Hunt's Cure is a guarantee for relief from all itching diseases of the skin. Price 50c."

We know not the inestimable blessings of health until we have tossed and tumbled for a season on the bed of disease. We never understand how favored we have been in the joys of the home circle until in some dismal hour the silver chalice is loosed and the golden bowl is broken. We can hardly appreciate the smiles of prosperity until we reflect upon its departing comforts from the frowning door of adversity. It is the strange curriculum of nature that we taste of the effacing cup and then of the healing drops that we do not all gratefully upon beds of down and irritating thorns that sorrow shall predominate along the whole route of life here below that the joys of Heaven may be more acute. Our best teacher is the stern, devoted pedagogue of experience and his best lessons are the knotty ones of adversity.—Ex.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best Most Popular.

"Mothers buy it for coughy children, railroad men buy it for severe coughs and elderly people buy it for a gripper, say Moore Bros., Eldon, Iowa. "We sell more of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than any other kind. It seems to have taken the lead over several other good brands." There is no question but this medicine is the best that can be procured for coughs and colds, whether it be a child or an adult that is afflicted. It always cures and cures quickly. Sold by Central Drug Store.

LAND!

About Rheumatism.

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say that it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by Central Drug Store.

Closing of School.

The Miami Public School closed on Thursday and on the following day, Friday, the Commencement exercises were such as to call forth many expressions of appreciation, or we might say admiration, from those who were present and saw how well each of the scholars did their particular part.

At 10 o'clock in the forenoon the song "On to Victory" rendered by a choir of young ladies was the signal that the events of the occasion were so anxiously awaiting would soon follow. The song was very appropriate for the occasion. Following the song came a beautiful prayer by Rev. B. F. Jackson. Then after another song Prof. Rodus made a few remarks in regard to the graduating class. He stated that the school had followed a common school curriculum which correlated strictly with the requirements of the college and that the three young ladies of the graduating class had taken the course, did the work, and did it well. Misses Lola Tolbert and Rilla Pulaski had prepared pieces under the caption of "Our Duty in Life" and "As the Foundation is Strengthened" respectively, then followed Miss Mary Coffee with the valedictory. Misses Mary Coffee and Lola Tolbert were dressed in pure white and Miss Rilla Pulaski in cream and each had a bouquet of flowers. The trio presented a picture of loveliness. Rev. B. F. Jackson, as president of the board of trustees, in a few well chosen remarks delivered the diplomas. The oratorical contest aroused a great deal of enthusiasm. All of the contestants did so well that each had a large number of admirers in the audience, and it was with some misgiving and hesitancy, the judges announced the result of their deliberation, awarding the first prize of $5 to Samuel Nichel and dividing the second prize of $2 between Charlie Heare and Weiner Tolbert. The other three in the contest were Fred Tarvin, Lester Stump and Remus Kelly.

The exercises in the evening included recitations, dialogues, drills, songs, etc., and many were the proud parents when they saw how well the children did. There were so many numbers that space will not permit us to mention them separately.

With the closing of this term of school the teachers look back over their year of work and we are sure a feeling of gratitude and pardonable pride arise in their breasts, for they have done a good work, and have generally given satisfaction. The past season the faculty of the school and the patrons have come nearer working in harmony than they ever have in Miami, and to this in a great measure is due the success of the school, but yet the patrons were quite delinquent in their work with the teacher. But we believe a greater interest is being aroused in our school work, and this is good. The common school fits one for the college, and the college fits one for professional or specialized work. The common school is to qualify the student for citizenship. For every one that enters the universities ten go to the battle of life equipped only with a common school education. And as their usefulness to the state depends largely on the work done in the common school we should see that this work is thorough. In this respect we can do much to aid the teacher by bringing out the mental capabilities of the child and to inculcate into the daily training the principles of honesty, industry and frugality, which qualities will be commended of him if he makes a success when he goes out to brush up against the world.

Laundry. Mrs. Silvy Purley now has the Laundry basket in charge. The laundry will be sent off every other week. Patrons can leave their laundry at the barber shop where it will be called for.

In Regards to the New Land Law. Austin, Texas, April 17, 1905. County Clerk, Roberts County, Miami, Texas.

DEAR SIR:—The new land law became effective Saturday, the 15th, inst. Under it all sales and leases are suspended until September 1st, 1905, and thereafter all applications to purchase must be filed in this office by mail and not by anyone in person. This office will proceed, at once, to prepare a circular letter explaining it, and also the law with Rules and Regulation under it, and have them printed for free distribution just as soon as possible.

You will be furnished with a supply as soon as printed, also with proper blanks in due time.

Yours very truly, J. T. Robison, Acting Commissioner.

The Wichita Falls Times says: "If nothing serious happens between now and harvest time, there is every indication that Wichita county will this year produce on an average of 25 bushels to the acre of wheat. Considering the acreage that was planted, this means that a million and a half bushels will be raised in Wichita County."
