Baptist Banquet a Big Booster

Congregation have most enjoyed time of Speaking, Music and Eating

The local Baptist congregation enjoyed themselves, the School Teachers and a few friends in a most Royalty dinner last evening at the Boney dining room with one of the nicest banquets that has been had in the city in many months.

Two long tables were built and decorated with cut flowers, a piano moved from the church and many baskets full of numberless things to eat, and then we could say numberless people gathered for the feast. Several courses were served, consisting of soups, chicken and dressing, salads, potatoes, pickles, coffee and a lot more things making a delicious supper, served in a most beautiful manner by the good ladies of the church.

After the supper, the crowd enjoyed some orchestra music, piano duets and vocal selections by Miss Wells acting as toastmaster. Miss Boney gave a piano solo, Miss Richardson two very interesting readings, Miss Lois Wells a reading of vocal selections by Miss Wells and a pretty song by the members of the Baptist Church. Pastor Pennington did not speak publicly, but some of the good ladies informed that he put in the full time eating.

The rain did not stop a large crowd from gathering you can't stop people from coming to a nice banquet. The folks are mighty good people, and have a good fellowship meeting and was one of the most interesting affairs held by any of the churches in Miami. They have the nicest in the city and extend to all a invitation to worship with us. We do not know who was at the head, or behind this movement, but we can truthfully say that the ladies surely did their part and this function was a decided success.

Miami's First Mayor Killed in California

L. G. Christopher, Secretary of the local Odd Fellows Lodge received a telegram this morning stating that Roy Trowbridge was accidentally killed Monday of this week while working in the Ship Yards at Fullerton, Calif., and that further information would follow in a letter.

This is indeed quite a shock to Miami. The Trowbridge family lived in Miami about fifteen years and only moved from here to California last fall. Mr. Trowbridge was local manager for the White House Lumber Company at this place, and was a very active member of the Odd Fellows, W. O. W. and Yoman lodges and of the Baptist church. Mr. Trowbridge was also Mayor of our city two years and during his administration our Water and light plant was installed. Mr. Trowbridge was about 45 years of age and leaves a splendid wife and six children, four girls and two boys, the oldest of the children being only about thirteen years old.

We presume that burial will take place in California, but details will be lacking until a letter will have reached us.

SOME POPULAR MISCONCEPTIONS CONCERNING TUBERCULOSIS (CONSUMPTION)

That it is hereditary. This is absolutely untrue. That grown people are susceptible to it. Grown people break down with tuberculosis, but rarely "take it." The germ is implanted in childhood. That a person who has tuberculosis should be shunned or avoided. Tuberculosis is different from some other contagious diseases in that one who has it, if careful, need not be a danger to others. That it cannot be cured. Thousands on thousands of people are living and working today because of having taken the "cure" who otherwise would have been helpless or dead.

That medicine will cure it. Fresh air, good food, rest and optimism are the only medicines that should be used except on a physician's prescription. "Patent" medicines are dangerous. That one with tuberculosis should "Go West and Rough It." Following this advice has killed thousands. That no one will help or advise the tuberculous. Call on your County or City Health Officer, Local Anti-tuberculosis Society, or write to the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Carlsbad, Texas, any you will be given authoritative advice.—State Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

Are We Going to Act?

The question most important now before us on road matters is the grading of the Mobette road. There has been some thinking and some talking, but no action. Thinking and talking are necessary for agitation, but action is necessary for results. One business man has offered a very liberal donation of $500.00 on the road if it must be built in that manner. Another suggested a 15 percent assessment on the taxable property along the road as a means of raising funds. Another suggested asking the County Commissioners to issue warrants, and we understand that it is possible to get the State to furnish half the money, and possibly get the other half from the county Automobile road money. Whatever actions we take should be taken before the meeting of the County Commissioners who will meet on the 14th, and let a body of citizens go before them and ask assistance in this way. One of our lady citizens suggested that Miami does need and should have a goodfellowship meeting with all our citizens together, possibly with a banquet and some good speakers to talk over Miami's future progress and how to get the best results. If such a meeting could be held about the middle of next week it would be a very interesting affair.

Roberts County cannot afford to let her roads go to the bad. We need a good grade from here to the county line of Wheeler county.

THE HOME PROGRESS CLUB

The Home Progress Club met at the W. A. Dyer home on Thursday afternoon for the study of France. Mrs. Harry Craig was leader and told the club of all the beautiful paintings and rare jewels she saw when she visited the Louvera. The Louvera is the largest Art Gallery in all Europe. It was once (in the long ago) a residence of Royalty but for more than two hundred years has been used to display all the most treasured Art and rare jewels.

Then Mrs. H. E. Baird gave a short sketch of her visit to Paris, telling of many wonderful buildings, bridges and statues.

The program was completed when Mrs. B. F. Jackson gave an outline of her Tour of France, mentioning many places that have become familiar since our part in the World's War. Miss French favored the club with two songs both sweet and much enjoyed by all present.

The hostess, Mesdames Dyer, Pitts and McKenzie served a delicious one course luncheon to 19 members and one visitor. Club guest, Mrs. Pauline Baird O'Keefe. Mesdames Kinney, O'Loughlin and Strader will be hostesses to the club on Thursday, April 10th at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Kinney. All members are invited. Press Reporter.

Miami Choral Club Entertainment.

The Miami Choral Club are one of the most delightful entertainments the public have enjoyed in some time. Tuesday night at the High School auditorium. The program consisted of several Choruses and solos, under the direction of Prof. Myers of Amarillo who has been training the class for several weeks. A complete program is printed in another place in this weeks Chief.

A sum of over $50. was realized from the receipts which amount will be turned over to the school faculty to be used for the betterment of our school.

The Club will begin work next week on "The Messiah" under Prof. Myers direction. This will be rendered at Amarillo in May, jointly with several other classes.

City Election Next Tues

The City election will be held Tuesday of next week, at which time we are to elect a Mayor, three Aldermen and Marshall. Sufficient men have volunteered their services to fill the places.

Jamison Sells Out the Canadian Record.

F. R. Jamison, for the past twenty years owner and publisher of the Canadian Record closed a deal this week whereby L. P. Loomis, late of Slaton becomes Owner and Publisher, taking charge this week. Mr. Loomis recently sold the Slaton Slatonite and is one of the foremost publishers of the Panhandle, with a wide circulation of friends among the newspaper fraternity all over the state and knows the newspaper business from A to Z. He is a good writer and a splendid citizen.

Mr. Jamison will make his home in Canadian and engage in other business, but the Panhandle Press Association will never agree to excuse him from their list, whether or not he is in the newspaper business. Jamison made the Record one of the most attractive newspapers in the state. He carries strong and appealing personality that you must love, even though you are in his presence but a minute. Possibly not another newspaper man in the state carried as much influence with his home people as did Mr. Jamison. He also could publish the Jamison kid of newspaper, and no one in all the world is capable of taking his place. Frank is one of the most public spirited men in all the state of Texas, and we regret very much to lose him from the newspaper fraternity.

We Sincerely wish Loomis much success with the Record and also Mr. Jamison success in any line of business he chooses to engage in.

Former Miami Citizen Died Friday

Word was received this week of the death of W. Y. Reed, which occurred Friday of this week at Wichita, Kansas. Mr. Reed has been in very bad health for the past several months, and has been in the hospital at Wichita for several months, undergoing several operations.

Mr. Reed was in the watch repairing and jewelry business at Miami until his health broke last summer and he has been in the hospital practically ever since. They were a nice family of people and the family was highly respected in Miami. Mr. Reed leaves a wife, two daughters and a son.

His remains were buried at Kiowa, Kansas this week.

Federal Farm Loan Officials Visit Miami.

Judge H. M. Gossett, President of the Federal Farm Loan Bank at Houston, Cap. S. H. Smith, Chairman of the Federal Farm Loan Board, Washington D. C., L. H. Hopkins, General Appraiser from Houston and Lee Satterwhite, District Appraiser of Panhandle were Miami visitors for this week.

The above gentlemen were highly pleased with our part of the Panhandle. They have already made a goodly number of loans on farms in this section, and signified their willingness to place more money on the Plains land. They went from here to Pampa by Automobile and looked over the North Plains country.

Another Fine Rain

Another of those beautiful rains that visit the Panhandle in the springtime came yesterday with a steady downpour all day and part of the night with no wind whatever. The ground is thoroughly soaked and everything is lovely today with a beautiful sunshine, such as will bring forth the grass and wheat in a very few days.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

We are much gratified because of the increased attendance and interest in the Sunday School. The High School class under the direction of Prof. Clay is doing some very fine work. All of the other classes are showing increased interest. Not so many are remaining for the church services as we could wish. Our regular services will be held next Sunday morning and evening and we cordially invite everyone to attend. Morning subject: What shall I do with my life? May we insist that the membership of the entire congregation try and come out Sunday as this is the first service of the new church year. Chas. E. Pitts, Pastor.

THANKS TO DUANE, DAPHNE GETS THE CHANCE TO BECOME AN ACTRESS—IF SHE CAN MAKE GOOD.

Synopsis.—Clay Wimburn, a young New Yorker on a visit to Cleveland, meets pretty Daphne Kip, whose brother is in the same office with Clay in Wall street. After a whirlwind courtship they become engaged. Clay buys an engagement ring on credit and returns to New York. Daphne agrees to an early marriage, and after extracting from her money-worried father what she regards as a sufficient sum of money for the purpose she goes to New York with her mother to buy her trousseau. Daphne's brother, Bayard, has just married and left for Europe with his bride, Lella. Daphne and her mother install themselves in Bayard's flat. Wimburn introduces Daphne and her mother to luxurious New York life. Daphne accidentally discovers that Clay is penniless, except for his salary. Bayard and his wife return to New York unexpectedly. The three women set out on a shopping excursion and the two younger women buy expensive gowns, having them charged to Bayard. Bayard is furious over the expense, seeing hard times ahead. Daphne, indignant, declares she will earn her own living and breaks her engagement with Clay.

CHAPTER IX.

Daphne bent her head so quickly that his pressed lips touched her hair. She flung backward and thrust him away and broke from his hold.

"Agh!" she groaned. "I suppose I deserve the insult—trusting you." "I didn't intend it for an insult." He followed her with pleading arms.

She backed away and found herself in a corner, flushed, furious, at bay. "How dare you?" she stormed, and thought with nausea how often the phrase had been used and with what hypocrisy.

It seemed to fall familiarly on his ear, for he laughed comfortably. "How can I help it?"

"If you touch me I'll—I'll hit you." He paused, stared deep into her eyes. "Do you mean it?"

"Of course I mean it." "I'm sorry," he sighed. "But won't you let me explain?"

"You don't have to. It's all my fault for inviting you here."

"Oh, no, I beg you not to think that I'm such a cad."

"Please go!"

"All right," he murmured, and left the room.

She heard his stick rattle as he took it from the umbrella jar. She thought: "There goes my opportunity—my career! Well, let it go! It wasn't worth the price!"

Duane appeared at the door again to say: "Oh, by the way, that introduction to Mr. Reben. Do you still want it?"

"No, thank you, not from you. Good-by."

He bowed farewell, then changed his mind, entered the room and sat down, and motioned her to a seat as if it were his house.

"Miss Kip, may I say one word to you? I don't pretend to understand you women people. I'm not sure now just how sincere you are, just how much of a ninny you may think me for being rebuffed so easily. Experience is no guide. But—well—anyway—what I wanted to say is this—there is hardly any man that would even bother a woman unwilling to be bothered if he could only be certain that he was really bothering her. Do I make myself clear?"

"Not in the least."

"Well, then, I give up. But I must leave you a bit of advice. You say you want to earn money. If you do,

"And May I Arrange for You to Meet Reben?"

on the stage or in any other business, you will meet a lot of men who will feel it their duty to try to kiss you at the first opportunity. It's not only because you are so pretty, for I really believe the homeliest girls get the most kisses. Perhaps it's because they're not so particular—but, anyway, it's not because men are villains that they try to kiss women, but because they're obliging. There is an old superstition—I don't know how false it is, or how true; no man can know—but there is a tradition that every woman expects every man she meets to offer her an insult—that's the technical term—as soon as they are alone.

"That feeling is what women are going to run into every time they try to force their way into business. It will die out, I suppose, to a certain extent, as you crowd into our field. It will be one of the last privileges you'll lose. You're already permitted to stand up in street cars and go out after dark alone. By and by you will have to make your advances to the men yourselves in the frankest manner, instead of subtly as now."

Daphne broke in coldly. "That will be a very welcome day to most of us. Somehow it did not sound convincing to her. There was grave conviction, however, in his response:

"It will be a mighty welcome day to us poor men, Miss Kip. For most men haven't the faintest desire to spoon with women. It's hard enough for some of them to keep their own sweethearts and wives sufficiently caressed. Then there's another thing—I'm not boring you—I haven't made as long a speech since I was a school-boy and recited 'Spartacus to the Gladiators.'"

"Go on, please," said Daphne. "A woman doesn't often get the chance of hearing a man tell the truth about these things."

Her sarcasm chilled him a little, but he went on:

"I just want to say this—it's an old man's advice to a young woman going into business: when a man asks for a job he brings references, and they are investigated; or he answers a lot of questions, and he is given a trial. Or when two men meet in a club or elsewhere they shake hands. That handshake itself is a kind of investigation of character. They learn each other's politics and religion and prejudices as soon as they can."

"So when a man meets a woman he is apt to be thrown with a good deal he is apt to say, 'What sort is she?' But the thing that annoys a man most about having to do business with a woman is the fear that he will either compromise her or disappoint her. That's the first problem to get out of the way; and there's nothing easier for a woman to do than to convince a man that she doesn't want him to try to flirt with her—if she doesn't."

Daphne cried, "In heaven's name, tell me how it's done."

"The way to convince him is to be convinced yourself. If you're sincere he'll know it."

"But I was sincere with you, and you didn't know it."

"I didn't know it at first, but I soon did—I think—and now that's what I'm driving at all this long while. If you're going into business competition with men, play fair. Every now and then one of them, as soon as he finds himself alone with you, will be polite enough to insult you. But the average man will let you alone if you'll let him alone. Suppose he does make a mistake and advance, if you could be sensible enough not to get mad, not to feel besmirched, but just take it as a matter of course and say frankly: 'No, thanks, I'm not interested. I understand you perfectly, but you needn't bother,' or something like that, and say it honestly, the rest would be plain sailing."

"And now, if you'll forgive me for talking your arm off and if you'll prove it by letting me help you, I'll promise never to kiss you or try to till—till you ask me to."

Daphne laughed refreshingly at his impudence, and he laughed, as well as he might. And they shook hands with comradeship.

"And may I arrange for you to meet Reben?"

"I hate to ask you now. I've no right to trouble you. But I'm terribly anxious to get a job."

"And I'm terribly anxious to get you one."

"You're awfully kind," she said, and led him to the telephone.

She felt that it would be indelicate to listen, and went back into the living room of the apartment. There Duane joined her in a few moments with the terrifying news that Reben had said that he might have a chance to place her at once if she could come to his office without delay.

Opportunity bouncing out at her like a jack-in-the-box alarmed her. But she faced it pluckily. She put on her hat with trembling hands and went down in the elevator with Duane.

They went up in an elevator at one side of the lobby of the theater and stepped out at Reben's office door. A number of somber and despondent persons of a theatrical complexion were waiting there also, the wretched Lazaruses of art.

Duane spoke to a respectful office boy, who disappeared through a door and returned to beckon him in. With heart bounding high and bubbling at her throat Daphne entered the theatrical world by one of its most gilded portals.

The great Reben sat bulkily behind an ornate table-desk and dismissed a still more ornate stenographer with a nod as he rose to greet Duane.

Duane did the honors: "Mr. Reben, I want to present you to Miss Kip, Miss Daphne Kip."

Reben greeted her with suavity and his eyes were even more enthusiastic than his words. Daphne was at her superlative degree and anxiety gave her a wistfulness that was appealing to Reben. Women's charms and wistfulness made up a large part of his wares in trade.

"Have you had any experience?" "None."

"Studied elocution?" "Never. I never spoke a piece in my life."

"Good! Amateur theatricals?" "Never. I never seemed to care for them."

"Better yet! What makes you think you want to act now?" "Money. I want to earn money—get rich."

"I see," said Reben, and fell into a profound meditation, studying Daphne searchingly.

Duane seized the opportunity to rise and say: "Well, I'll leave you two together to talk terms. It would be indelicate for me to know just how rich Miss Kip is going to be."

He had no sooner gone than Reben's manner changed slightly and Daphne's courage vanished. Reben paced the floor as he talked. His path kept slowly closing in around her like the walls in Poe's story.

"You look like Miss Kemble," he said. "You have somewhat the same temperament. You like her style of play. That may be your line. I can't tell. Of course I don't know how well you can act. Perhaps you never could. Kemble is great, but she comes of an old theatrical family. Of course you have one great capital—your beauty; for you are very beautiful, Miss Kip. Very. Let me see your eyes!"

He had a right to ask if he were going to hire her eyes, but she looked up bravely, for the burly satrap was leaning over her. His left hand was on the arm of the chair, his right on the back of it. His left hand was gradually enveloping hers. It was a fat, hot hand, and his face was so close that it was blurred in her vision.

Then she remembered Duane's words. She controlled herself enough to put them to the test.

She pretended to look coldly into Reben's face, and she said, with a brave show of calm: "Mr. Reben, I didn't come here to flirt with you and I don't intend to. I came here for a job as an actress. If this sort of thing is a necessary part of the job I'll go somewhere else."

Reben backed away and stared at her. He was rendered foolish by her rebuff and he stammered, "Why, I—I meant no harm."

She went on with the Duane system of treatment: "I know you didn't. You meant to be polite, but you don't have to be so polite to me. I don't expect it and I don't like it."

"All right, all right!" Reben growled, pacing the floor again, but in a constantly receding path. He did not speak. He felt that he had made a fool of himself, and he was embarrassed.

Daphne was so frightened with her success that she got to her feet, saying: "I suppose this means that you don't want me to work for you. It's true, then, what they say about the stage."

"Nonsense! Of course not! Rot! I never see most of my people except at rehearsals or performances. I've never spoken to three-quarters of 'em. If you want a job you can have it, and no concessions are necessary. You don't have to make love to me. You make love to the audience, and if you can capture that you can slap my face every time you see me."

Daphne was astounded. She was engaged! She was exultant and thrilled with gratitude to Duane for introducing her to this marvelous opportunity and for the wisdom of his counsel.

Reben said: "The general understudy of the Kemble company has grown tired of waiting for a chance to appear in public. She's quitting me this week for a small part in a road company. You can have her place if you want it. Do you?"

"You bet—er—indeed I do. How often does an understudy play?" "As rarely as possible."

Daphne's joy turned to lead. Reben added: "But we don't pay by performances. I'll pay you twenty-five a week. You wanted money. There's a little of it for a start. Do you want it?"

"Will it lead to anything better?" "It might."

"Am I to understudy Miss Kemble?" "Yes, and all the other women roles."

"And when do you suppose I'll get a chance to play Miss Kemble's part? Soon?"

"Never, I hope."

"That's encouraging!" "If Miss Kemble fell ill we'd ordinarily refund the money, because she's the star. But sometimes we might have to give a performance at short notice. Chances in the other parts might come any day."

"And you'll give me a better chance when you can?" "Indeed I will. If you have the gift, the sooner I find it out and the harder I work it the more money I make. The more you earn the more I make. I'd like to pay you ten thousand a week."

"I'd like to have you. All right, I'll try."

He pressed a button on his desk once, then twice. The office boy appeared, followed by the stenographer. Reben said to the boy: "Is Mr. Batterson here? Send him to me."

To the stenographer he said: "Fill out a contract for Miss Kip—Miss—What's the first name? Miss Daphne Kip. Salary, twenty-five. Make it a three-year contract."

Reben motioned her absent to her chair and said, rather for Duane's sake than for hers, she felt: "Sit down, won't you, till the contracts come? and pardon me if I—"

He finished the phrase by the deed. The office routine went on and Daphne might have been the chair she sat in, for all the attention he paid her. She felt rather ungraciously ignored. Still, she had asked to be treated on a business basis. He was taking her at her word.

Before the contracts were ready Mr. Batterson appeared. He was one of Reben's stage managers, a worried, emotional little man, worn to shreds with his task of stimulating and correcting the emotions by which others earned their wages and fame.

Reben introduced him to Daphne and explained her new office. Batterson seemed none too well pleased with the news that Daphne was ignorant of stage work to the last degree. He had found it hard enough to make the experienced actors read their lines as they must be read and keep on reading them so. To teach this dramatic infant how to walk and talk was an unwelcome labor.

He took Daphne into his office and pulled out a set of parts. When she stumbled over them he cast his eyes heavenward in his swift impatience. He explained them with a vinegary gentleness. He talked to her of the canons of interpretation. He walked through her scenes and spoke her lines for her again and again and yet again. But somehow he could not teach her.

He tried everything but beating her. He flattered her, wheedled her, parodied, satirized, rebuked her, and occasionally he cursed her. She did not rebel even against his profanity, because she had no confidence in herself to support her resistance. She felt that she was far worse than he said she was when he said she was worst. She used all her funds of resolution in keeping from throwing down the part and running away in tears. She had none left for asserting her right to politeness.

Once Daphne was out in the street again and released from the ordeal of pleasing Batterson, youth and ambition brought hope back again. Broadway at twilight was a throbbing with enthusiasm and she caught zest from the crowds. She was going home to study, carrying her little set of textbooks like a schoolgirl. But she felt the wings of conquest fledging at her ankles or the wheel of fortune spinning under her toes.

Her very first effort had succeeded. She was a woman with a salary. She would be no longer a parasite on any man. She had a career and a business as well as the best of them.

Her mother was at home alone. Lella had gone from that tea party to another to which Mrs. Kip was not invited. Daphne's mother greeted her with relief. She told her news with a gush of enthusiasm. It left Mrs. Kip cold, very cold.

She was a pious, church-going woman, Mrs. Kip. She had always looked upon the theater as a training school for the still lower regions. She went to plays occasionally, but usually with a feeling of dissipation and worldliness. Besides it was one thing to see plays and another to act them.

Daphne tried to reason her mother out of her backward prejudices, but she only frightened her the more. Mrs. Kip retired to her room to write an urgent telegram to her husband demanding that he come on at once and rescue his child. She always called on him in an emergency and he always responded.

Lella came home eventually full of gossip and triumph. Her Dutill gown had made a tremendous success; the other women wanted to murder her.

Mrs. Kip broke in on her chronicles with the dismal announcement of Daphne's new insanity. Lella was almost as bitter in opposition as Mrs. Kip had been, but from quite another motive. Lella had aristocratic impulses and looked forward to social splendors. She would gain no help from the fact that her husband's sister was a theatrical struggler.

Daphne escaped an odious battle with her by referring to the need of close study, and retreated into her own room, locking her mother out.

She stayed there, repeating her lines over and over and trying to remember the action that went with them as Miss Kemble had played it. She had a quick memory, but the intonation of the lines gave her extraordinary difficulty.

She remembered one of Miss Kemble's most delicious effects. She came on the stage unannounced and, pausing in the doorway, smiled whimsically and said, "How do you do?" That was all—just "How do you do?" But she uttered it so deliciously that a ripple of joy ran through the audience. Daphne tried to master the trick of it, but with no success. She said "How do you do?" in dozens of ways, with no result except to render the phrases meaningless gibberish.

Daphne flung down the part she was studying and flung away ambition, and went out to tell the family that she agreed with them.

She was confronted by Lella in a role of despair. Bayard had telephoned that he could not get home for dinner. He would not be home in time to take Lella to the theater as he had promised.

Lella was in a frenzy. She had nothing to do but wait for her man to come and take her somewhere. Daphne understood the tragedy of the modern wife; dowered with freedom, pampered with amusements, deprived of the blessing of toil, unaccustomed to seraglian torpor, she must yet wait on the whims or necessities of her husband.

Daphne reconsidered her decisions. Better all the difficulties and heartaches of the actress-trade than this prison loafing of wifely existence. She had something to do.

CHAPTER X.

The next day Batterson telephoned her that he had called a rehearsal with the company. Daphne went to the theater in terror. The stage looked utterly forlorn with the actors and actresses standing about in their street clothes. Under the bright lights with the people made up and the audience in full bloom, like a vast garden, there would be impersonality and stimulation; but the present scene was as doleful as the funeral of an unpopular man.

Courage was largely a matter of her suppers forcing her reluctant feet forward. A soldier ordered to leave a bombproof shelter for an advance, a playground of shrapnel, has just the struggle with his vapour-motor system that Daphne had with hers.

With the kindest smile an amiable wolf ever wore Batterson invited the fluttering lamb to come to the stream and drink. Daphne came forward in a trance and heard Batterson say: "Ladies and gentlemen—Miss Kip, our new understudy. Give her all the help you can."

Miss Kemble had graciously chosen to be present for that purpose, though the result was only to increase Daphne's embarrassment. An imitation in the presence of the living model was a double load to carry.

Daphne's hopes of becoming a great actress receive a rude shock, but she is given a chance to show what she can do, and again it is Duane to whom she owes the chance. She is afraid of the obligation under which she is placed, but Duane assures her that she can repay him in the end.

SPRAINS! RUB PAINS AND SWELLING AWAY

Don't suffer! Go about your duties—Relief comes the moment you Apply "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Don't stay crippled! Rub this soothing, penetrating liniment right into the sprain, ache or strain, and out comes pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling.

Nothing else penetrates, heals and strengthens the injured muscles, nerves, tendons and ligaments so promptly. It doesn't burn or discolor the skin and can not cause injury. Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store now—limber up! Rub the misery right out. A moment after "St. Jacobs Liniment" is applied you can not feel the slightest pain or soreness, and you can go about your regular duties.

"St. Jacobs Liniment" conquers pain. It has been used effectively for sprains, strains, soreness and stiffness for 60 years—six gold medal awards.—Adv.

Shark-Food. In Bermuda small ground sharks are used for food and much appreciated by all classes. The fish average from eight to ten pounds and sell for 12 cents each. In Honolulu the hammerhead shark is frequently seen in the markets and its flesh is considered very nourishing and is extensively salted.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these honey spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and give a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

It is all well enough to "know thyself," but if you are wise you will not boast of the acquaintance.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Long words, like long dresses, frequently hide something wrong about the understanding.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.—Adv.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She mixed Sulphur with it to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

MADE ORNAMENT TO TOWN

Oregon Concrete Grain Elevator "Camouflaged" Into Really Artistic-Looking Building.

Lines as pleasing as those of an old-world castle have been incorporated into a modern arranged and equipped grain elevator of re-enforced concrete, recently erected at Ione, Ore., at a cost of approximately $40,000. Symmetry has been obtained by arranging two circular and two semicircular storage tanks either side of a central rectangular structure and by topping the whole with a pleasing cupola. A heavy black cornice contrasts sharply with the white finish of the walls. The ground dimensions are 62 by 33 1/2 feet, and its height is 124 feet over all. It contains a total of 20 bins with a capacity of 100,000 bushels. A special feature is the arrangement of these bins so as to allow an unobstructed floor space of 12 by 33 feet on the same level as the car floors. The construction is such that the weight of the overhanging bins is transferred to points of contact in the solid slab of concrete beneath the building.—Popular Science Magazine.

WASHINGTON AS MODEL CITY

Chicago Newspaper Points to National Capital as an Example Worthy of Being Followed.

It is strange that American cities have been so slow to appreciate the value of a plan as it is exemplified at the national capital, remarks the Chicago Tribune. The city of Washington was planned by the best landscape architect the founders of the republic could call to their aid. The beauty, spaciousness and facilities of the city with its great open circles and radiating streets, affording varied sites for residences and commanding locations for public and commercial buildings, impress every visitor and justify the pride of every citizen in the capital of his country. But Chicago's plan, even though it involves the reconstruction of its planless areas, is still greater, because it provides a water front that any city in the world could envy, and because it comprehends all parts of the city and starts the people of every section on further plans to improve and beautify their home surroundings.

Importance of City Planning.

As the best humanitarians hold that man builds upon the basis of character, so it is that cities in their physical planning, as it affects their surroundings, must provide for the finer things that tend to make the mind as well as the body rich. The city plan, in view of these conditions, becomes one of the most important and far-reaching influences of the times.

What is done now for the future must be done right!

Compared Ghent to Venice.

Ghent was approached in 1641 by John Evelyn, driving along the Brussels road in a coach and six with which Sir Henry de Vic, the English agent, had accommodated him. He had traveled to Ghent "to meet my Lord of Arundel, Earl Marshal of England," and he compares Ghent to Venice because "the Lys and the Scheldt meeting in this vast city, divide it into 26 islands, which are united by many bridges." The population of the British in the old Flemish city recalls the time, many centuries ago, when Ghent, under the van Artevelde, was the powerful ally of Edward III. Evelyn mentions having seen a palace of Plantagenet memories.

GARDEN of MYTHOLOGY

Typical Scene in Epirus.

EPIRUS garden of mythology, in whose mountains Greece was cradled, may again come under Hellenic rule if the demands of Greek representatives at the peace conference are granted. Here are found the first evidences of that Greek culture which later permeated the world. In the Valley of the Characovista, under the very shadow of Olyzika, the terrible Tomaros of the ancients, ruins speak their tale to the archaeologist of a civilization antedating that of the Greece of today, says the Kansas City Star.

Here, mythology has it, Zeus, released from Chaos, wed Dione, the fecund earth, and from their mating came the beautiful Aphrodite. On this spot now rest the ruins of the sanctuary of Aphrodite, overlooking the crumbled temple and votive monuments, and hidden midst the oaks and olives that have enmeshed the valley, no doubt is the sacred spring, whose murmurings, controlled by the divine Dione and Aphrodite, were interpreted by the temple oracles.

On the side of the hill, to the south of the citadel, which stood on a promontory in the center of the valley, have been found the remains of a majestic theater, its walls shrouded in vines and trees.

There, on the site of the Acropolis, from which all the plain is spread out before the traveler, Ulysses called up the souls of the dead.

From the fateful oaks of Dodona, towering above the temple and theater, Minerva chose the mast of the beautiful ship Argo, and to the god of Dodona Achilles poured out his libations.

Kings Descended From Achilles.
The kings of the Molossians, one of the many tribes into which Epirus was divided, asserted direct descent from Pyrrhus, son of Achilles, who settled there after the sack of Troy, leaving the kingdom to his son Molossus. It was not till the time of Alexander the Great that these many tribes were banded together into one nation. Then Alexander, an uncle of Alexander the Great, was made king over Epirus by Phillip II, father of Alexander the Great, and brought all the tribes together, the little country becoming a united kingdom in the fourth century B. C.

Since, its history has been tragic. The scene of continuous turmoil, it imprudently espoused the cause of Persus in 446 B. C., and, devastated by the conquering Romans, was annexed to the province of Macedonia. Except for inter-tribal vendetta, there were few changes till the thirteenth century, when it was seized by Michel Angelus Comenus with the taking of Constantinople by the Latins.

After two hundred years of Latin and Byzantine rule, with Albania, it reverted to the control of native princes, under whom tribal feuds increased in ferocity and savagery. And, weakened by its years of internal fighting, it was an easy prey to the Turks in the fifteenth century.

Bloody Pile of the Turks.
For a while lawlessness was quelled, but, with the beginning of the decline of the Turkish empire in the seventeenth century, the old rule of blood returned till at the beginning of the present century Turkey was unable to promise safety to travelers within its borders.

Its hills were filled with lawless bands whose depredations the Ottoman rulers were powerless to curb. Hiding in the fastnesses of the Pindus mountains, brigands would swoop down upon pack trains, or upon the valley farms, and be back in their lairs before the police could arrive at the spot and once in their mountains they were safe.

Theirs was the life of the Scotch Highlanders of the time of the Stuarts. Clan spirit increased as the yoke of the Moslem was lifted, and the law of retaliation was the only effective governmental instrument. Blood for blood was the rule, and thousands died in clan feuds.

Inspectors of schools founded by wealthy Epirotes took their lives in their hands when they made their tours and their visits were always kept secret. The French consul hardly dared go out of sight of his home,

MOUNTAIN SHEEP'S PAIN.

"I don't feel as well as I did," said the mountain sheep whose name was Jim.

"Neither do I," said Mr. Blackie, the tall ostrich. They were both in the zoo talking from their yards to each other, for the day was a bit warm. At any rate it was much, much warmer than it had been for a long time and they were all enjoying the weather in the zoo.

"I Need the Zoo Doctor!" Blackie, "we are having spring weather; what say you, Mr. Jim?"

"My dear ostrich," said the mountain sheep, "you mean spring fever."

"And why, pray tell, do I mean spring fever?" asked Blackie.

"Because that is the thing folks get in the spring," said Jim.

"I'm not 'folks,'" said Blackie. "What is spring fever, anyway? I only know it comes in the spring."

"How strange," said Jim, with a funny little smile.

"Why strange?" asked Blackie, in quite a serious tone, as though he didn't understand it at all.

"It's not in the least bit strange," said Jim.

"Then why on earth, or in the zoo, did you say it was strange?" asked Blackie.

"I meant it sarcastically," said Jim. "When one means a thing sarcastically one means to be a little superior and proud and wiser than the other fellow."

"Can't two mean the same thing?" asked Blackie.

"Of course," said Jim. "Then why did you say that when one meant a thing sarcastically, and so forth, and so forth?" inquired Blackie.

"One merely means anyone—no one in particular."

"How dull," said Blackie. "Not dull at all," said Jim. "It's merely the correct way to talk."

"Oh, pardon me," said Blackie, grinning foolishly and making a low bow.

"When I said it was strange that spring fever came in the spring I meant it wasn't strange at all, but quite the most natural time for it to come."

"And so," said Blackie, "you said it was strange when you thought it wasn't strange."

"From the tone of my voice you should have known it was said sarcastically," said Jim.

"How can you expect a stupid ostrich to know anything about things said sarcastically?" asked Blackie.

"I don't suppose I can," said Jim. "Still, you know spring fever comes in the spring."

"Ah," said Blackie, smiling a foolish smile, "it is good to hear that the ostrich can tell you something you don't know."

"You can't tell me anything I don't know, for I do know that. It is simply something you know, too," said Jim.

"Tell me about the spring fever, then?"

"Spring fever is something which makes folks or animals feel sick and poorly and as though they didn't want to do anything at all."

"That's what I've got," screamed Blackie. "I don't want to do anything at all. I should think that would be an illness which folks and animals would get very, very often."

"Some do, and some don't," said Jim.

"I'll be among those who do get it often," said Blackie. "As I told you I was feeling poorly and those are the very things the matter with me. How clever of you to find out what was the matter with me. You're as fine as any doctor, and I'm sure much finer than some."

"Thank you," said Jim. "And I know what is the matter with myself, too. It is making me feel poorly. I have a very sore hoof. I need the zoo doctor. I'm sure he will be coming soon, for the keeper said when he saw me this morning:

"Jim, you have a very bad pain."

"It was quite true I had. I must have hurt my hoof, my front right one, the other day."

"I'm sorry you have a pain," said Blackie, "but I am glad that you explained which hoof it is in, for at first I thought you were trying to tell me you had but one hoof and then I was going to say you were quite mad instead of being sick."

And then the zoo doctor came to give Blackie some medicine and Jim a fine dressing for his sore hoof.

The fellow who sold this plains and last Summer and fall will see how unwise he acted.

Another general twelve to twenty per cent raise took effect the first of this month in telegraph rates. Land sales! Will there never be a stop.

March is over and usually with its ending, the sand storms and high winds leave. We have an ideal country for another eleven months.

Muddy weather is a very good argument for more sidewalks a better sidewalks. Fact of the matter is, a sidewalk is not of much service if over six inches underground.

The beautiful spring rain is almost a weekly incident now. Green grass is also showing up pretty and with a few days of bright sunshine, the Panhandle will look like a paradise.

After July postage on letter mail will be only two cents. But we have not heard half as much kick on high postage as we have high freight and passenger rates.

When in Canadian have your eyes properly fitted by Miller and Bassett, Optometrists, at Millers Jewelry Store All work guaranteed.

Railroad heads and officials have spent lifetimes and millions of money figuring operating expenses to the minimum and worked out details to the finest degree, and the same thing applies to telegraph and telephone companies. Government officials can't expect to change the whole system in six months time without getting it all balled up.

The meeting of the Panhandle Press Association at Vernon the 18-19 of this month will see a large attendance of Panhandle newspaper men. The writer has been placed on the program for "A Mental Picture of Lee Satterwhite. (Panhandle Herald) at the Inaugural Ball." We can see such a picture very plain, but Satterwhite was here first of the week and made a very earnest request that we refrain from portraying it to the public.

Passenger rate fare was increased again the 15th of last month. The freight rate it seems is increasing all the time, or at least it appears that way every time we get a shipment in. People wonder sometime why groceries are so high, and we do ourselves, but then when we receive a two dollar bill of paper and the freight is dollar thirty-seven we can see why groceries are so high.

Postmaster General Burlson is making himself just about as unpopular as a man can get. His muddling the telegraph and phone business up is by no means meeting the approval of the public. Congress passed such legislation strictly as a war measure, and we can see no sense whatever in him taking such dictatorship on telegraph and telephone lines. There was a good and reasonable excuse for the government taking over the railroads at the time they did, but there was no excuse to take over the telephone lines. It is about time for Mr. Burlson to resign, we think.

If there is no wheat raised this year cannot be laid to lack of winter moisture.

Advance Notice
 How every girl can avoid matrimonial pitfalls and snares is the lesson of "Why I Would Not Marry," a William Fox play based on morality, it exists today, which will be shown at the Pastime Theatre for one day April 14th.

A young and beautiful girl endowed with the power to visualize the future, sees how men would use her for a plaything, plunge her deep in the throes of misery and leaves her a human wreck. She avoids disaster by refusing four men successively. The story concerns problems that at some time in life confront every woman.

Worried, half-sick people find out the cause of their trouble. Often it is merely faulty kidney action, which allows the blood to get loaded up with poisons that irritate the nerves. Backache, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder troubles are added proof that the kidneys need help. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands thank them for relief from just such troubles.

Any farmer who raises grades would realize larger profits if he raised purebred Short-horns. They don't require any more room, nor are they so hard to care for as the grades should have. But they sell for more money. A Kansas farmer produced a head from one registered Short-horn cow in 12 years. Two brothers in Wisconsin produced a head from one in 14 years. The value counts up when you're breeding purebreds. American Short-horn Breeders' Association, 100 Grand Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Auto Exhaust Causes Pneumonia. Glastner, who is recognized as a leading British authority on gas poisons, contends that one of the effects of carbon monoxide upon the human system is to cause a pronounced susceptibility to pneumonia, and he has presented a good deal of evidence in support of his contention. Automobile engine exhaust fumes always contain this insidious poison. The warning conveyed is obvious.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. DRAGGING ROADS IN SPRING

By Taking Advantage of Proper Moment Many of Ruts and Bumps Can Be Smoothed Out.

Most earth and gravel roads are in bad shape during the entire winter, largely because of the heavy fall hauling of harvested crops, and the rush of necessary farm work, which takes precedence over any kind of road work. The cold weather strikes them in this condition and makes each rut and bump almost as solid as rock, and in the spring these break down into mud.

Traveling over these ruts is a very racking, uncomfortable, and sometimes painful, operation. The rough jolts require a reduction in speed, cause an added strain on all classes of hauling equipment, and frequently force the automobile owner to abandon the use of his car for the entire spring rather than risk a breakdown.

Most of the unpleasantness and difficulty may be remedied in many localities even in the worst weather, for there are times when the worst cut-up surface is in fairly good condition for dragging. By taking advantage of the proper moment, the ruts and bumps can be smoothed out and the next freeze will result in a smooth hard-surfaced pike that can be favorably compared to a concrete highway.

Owing to the fact that the road surface will be rather wet and sticky when dragged, greater care must be exercised in handling the drag. If the blades of the drag are set vertically, there will be a tendency to scrape up too much earth, or, in the language of the road man, "Ball up in front." Also, if the hitch to the team is set too near the center, the angle of the drag with the road will be too nearly a right angle, or straight across, to shed or crown the wet earth.

Dragging under these conditions should be more an "ironing out the wrinkles" process; hence the blades of the drag should be given a forward or flatter inclination than when working a dry road. The hitch should be so arranged that the angle of the drag is more nearly parallel to the road than ordinary, thus causing the earth to shed better and prevent trouble. For extremely bad conditions, the use of the road machine ahead of the drag will be found effective. In all cases, the road should be freed of all stumps, snags, and bowlders, as these seriously retard good dragging.

A little practice will enable the operator to do a fairly creditable job, and after a subsequent freeze the road will present a smoother and much more comfortable surface. Then, when the spring rains come, the road will quickly shed the water that formerly collected in the deep ruts, and be dry and hard long before similar roads not dragged.

The present difficulties encountered in getting large amounts of crushed stone for road repairs necessitates the greatest care in maintaining all road surfaces in the best possible way without the use of additional materials.

A Hoe and a Sponge. A thick cultivated soil much is one of the best possible ways of saving moisture for growing crops. He that most frequently stirs his soil, especially in times of drought, reaps, other things being equal, more abundant harvest than if tillage were neglected.

Character of Community. Roads index the character of any community. They determine its importance. They either limit its advance or aid it. If it isn't worth a good road, it isn't worth living in and land isn't worth what it sells for.

Corn in Laying Ration. Poultrymen who have it will find it advantageous to use a larger proportion of corn in their poultry rations than has generally been recommended.

New Spring Suits

All thoughts are turned toward Easter now, which is the same thing as saying all thoughts are turned toward new millinery and new suits for spring. It is a delightful custom that invites us to joy on new apparel in honor of this joyous festival. Certainly nothing helps more to impress its significance on children and young people than the pretty clothes that give them so much innocent pleasure. As for women, the instinct to dress is as deeply implanted in them as the instinct for home or children.

The most important item of the spring wardrobe is the tailored suit, always the character of dress that should be worn on Easter day. It is not so easy to make a selection this spring because of the diversity of styles and materials that have been presented by those who create suits. For once in the history of tailored suits serge is chosen less often than other weaves in wool, such as tricort, fluetyn, jersey and some novelty cloths. And again wool by no means holds the undivided attention of suit makers. New weaves in silk and fiber

DISTINCTIVE STREET HATS

Hats of such exquisite lines as those that are pictured here prove that in tailored hats, above all else, the line is the thing with which to catch the fancy of the chic American and all her admirers. Three graceful shapes, two of them having a bandeau, portray three widely different styles, and each emphasizes that simplicity of trimming is a virtue in street hats—something that they cannot afford to ignore. All of these hats are of black lisse, a soft but brilliant braid, and all of them reveal the unevenness of sewing, which is a pretty characteristic of the styles. This roughness, or "bumpiness," as it has been called, is much admired.

These hats are designs suited to younger matrons. The very spirited model at the right has a narrow brim, guilford of curves or rolls, and is faced with crepe georgette. Bands of fancy black braid wander around and over its crown. But that which claims instant admiring attention for this model is the effectiveness of the feather trimming. Two fans of imitation gaura are mounted at the back. They remind one of a proud and graceful crest such as nature places on the heads of beautiful birds.

The hat at the left has a soft crown of satin and a sweeping brim of lisse, mounted on a deep bandeau. The brim looks as if it were set on a satin cap. A long, curved quill of glycerined ostrich makes a wonderful trimming, following the graceful curves of the brim and lengthening its lines.

The hat below is one of the new bandeau hats with brim rolling upward at the left and dropping sharply at the right. There is something very regal and decidedly chic in this droop over the right eye. Some wag has affirmed that the ladies are wearing only one eye this season, and sometimes both eyes are almost lost in the shadow of close-fitting, drooping brims. But in spite of this charming eccentricity, the hat pictured is a dignified model with three glycerined ostrich plumes at the back.

Many Apron Effects. Summer dresses show a number of apron effects. These apron-tunics sometimes in tiers shaped like a Mason's apron, are trimmed with frills, beads, plaiting, lace, etc.

Sturdy Womanhood

Is the demand of to-day In the Health and Strength of the Wives and Mothers Rests the Future Integrity of the Nation.

We must preserve our womanhood. There is need, greater ever for strong women. Apparently, the race is not as sturdy formerly or our women are victims of an over-civilization and able to resist disease. Thousands suffer and thousands more are destined to suffer from that most insidious of diseases, catarrh. Ninety-seven per cent of the people have catarrh. It is not confined to the head, nose and throat as many suppose. Catarrhal inflammation may attack the stomach, bowels or any portion of the body where there are mucous linings. It is no respecter of persons or position. Everyone is liable to attack. Mrs. Mary Fricke, 507 Hornman St., Belleville, Ill., was one of its victims. She says: "I have weighed as little as 100 pounds. For years I suffered with my stomach, cramps and severe headaches. After reading Dr. Hartman's Health Book, I decided to try Peruna. The first

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS. GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

LOCATIONS FOR HOG RAISING

Well-Drained Farm Possessing Rich Soil That Will Produce Forage Is Desirable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An ideal location is on a well-drained farm possessing a rich soil that will produce grasses and other forage as well as the grains needed for fattening the hogs. This does not mean, however, that only those farmers holding rich, level lands should raise hogs, for as a matter of fact hogs are most easily handled on farms that are somewhat rolling. For the production of forage crops the rolling farm is often as good as the level one, and it often has the added advantage of shade and

AS YOU THINK SO YOU ARE

Much Wisdom in Little One's Idea of the Way in Which Success May Be Won.

Aunt Marie was discouraged. She had just applied for a situation and her application had not been successful. "I just told myself before I went up that I wouldn't get it," she told her family. "I always have the worst luck."

Her ten-year-old niece looked up from her game. "You shouldn't have said that, Aunt Marie," she said earnestly. "I believe that's the reason you didn't get it. Why, auntie, when we girls play 'Hands Held Open' I always watch and see that the girl who gets the button when it's passed is the girl who holds her hands just right to get it, and who looks just like she was sure she was going to get it. So I always just fix my hands in just the right way, and then I look exactly like I expected it, and if I do that way I do get it. Maybe that's the way you'd better do about getting a job."

Auntie thought the matter over and decided that perhaps after all that was a good way to do.

There is nothing so bad as not to be good for something.

We can do more good by being good than any other way.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this. Adv.

DRUGGISTS! VICK'S VAPORUB SHORTAGE OVERCOME AT LAST

The Deal Scheduled for Last November, Which Was Postponed on Account of the Influenza Epidemic, Is Now Reinstated—Good During the Month of March.

OVER ONE MILLION JARS OF VAPORUB PRODUCED EACH WEEK

It is with pride that we announce to the drug trade that the shortage of Vick's Vaporub, which has lasted since last October, is now overcome. Since January 1st, we have been running our laboratory twenty-four hours a day and a half hours out of every twenty-four. Last week we shipped the last of our back orders, and retail druggists, therefore, are no longer requested to order in small quantities only.

NOVEMBER DEAL RE-INSTITUTED
This deal, which we had expected to put on last November and which had to be postponed on account of the shortage of Vaporub, is re-instituted for the month of March. This allows a discount of 10% on shipments from jobbers' stock of quantities of from 1 to 4 gross. 5% of this discount is allowed by the jobber and 5% by us.

We advise the retail druggists to place their orders immediately, so that the jobbers will be able to get prompt shipments to them.

THANKS OF THE PUBLIC DUE THE DRUG TRADE DURING THE INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC.

The thanks of the American public are certainly due the entire drug trade—retail, wholesale and manufacturing—for what they accomplished during the recent influenza epidemic. The war caused a shortage of physicians—nurses were almost impossible to obtain—the demand on the drug trade was unexpected and overwhelming, and to this demand they responded nobly. Retail druggists kept open day and night and slept where they dropped behind the prescription counter. Wholesale druggists called their salesmen off the road to help fill orders—hundreds wired us to ship Vick's Vaporub by the quickest route, regardless of expense.

"I don't know about that," roared Jenkins, "but it looks very suspicious. The fellow they have asked to do the job has only got one arm."—Winnipeg Telegram.

A TREMENDOUS JOB TO INCREASE OUR PRODUCTION

In this emergency we tried to do our part. We scoured the country for raw materials—our Traffic Manager spent his days riding freight cars in—we shipped raw materials in carload lots by express and pleaded with manufacturers to increase their deliveries to us. But it was a slow process. Some of our raw materials are produced only in Japan—supplies in this country were low and shipments required three months to come from the Far East. Then we had to recruit and train skilled labor. We brought our salesmen into the factory and trained them as foremen. We invented new machinery, and managed to launch it on Christmas Day, so as not to interfere with our daily production.

143 JARS OF VAPORUB EVERY MINUTE DAY AND NIGHT

By January 1st we had everything ready to put on our night shift, and since then our laboratory has been running day and night. To feed our automatic machines, which drop out one hundred and forty-three jars of Vaporub a minute or one million and eighty thousand weekly, has required a force of 500 people. Our Cafe Department, created for the benefit of these workers, served 7,000 meals during the month of January alone.

13 MILLION JARS OF VAPORUB DISTRIBUTED SINCE OCTOBER.

An idea of the work we have accomplished this fall may be given by our production figures—13,028,970 jars of Vaporub manufactured and distributed since last October—one jar for every two families in the entire United States.

During the influenza epidemic Vick's Vaporub was used as an external application in connection with the physician's treatment, and thousands of people, unable to obtain a doctor, relied on Vick's almost exclusively.

Literally millions of families all over the country, from California to Maine, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, have found Vick's Vaporub the ideal home remedy for croup and cold troubles.

DRAGGING ROADS IN SPRING

By Taking Advantage of Proper Moment Many of Ruts and Bumps Can Be Smoothed Out.

Most earth and gravel roads are in bad shape during the entire winter, largely because of the heavy fall hauling of harvested crops, and the rush of necessary farm work, which takes precedence over any kind of road work. The cold weather strikes them in this condition and makes each rut and bump almost as solid as rock, and in the spring these break down into mud.

Traveling over these ruts is a very tiring, uncomfortable, and sometimes painful, operation. The rough jolts require a reduction in speed, cause an added strain on all classes of hauling equipment, and frequently force the automobile owner to abandon the use of his car for the entire spring rather than risk a breakdown.

Most of the unpleasantness and difficulty may be remedied in many localities even in the worst weather, for there are times when the worst cut-up surface is in fairly good condition for dragging. By taking advantage of the proper moment, the ruts and bumps can be smoothed out and the next freeze will result in a smooth hard-surfaced pike that can be favorably compared to a concrete highway.

Owing to the fact that the road surface will be rather wet and sticky when dragged, greater care must be exercised in handling the drag. If the blades of the drag are set vertically, there will be a tendency to scrape up too much earth, or, in the language of the road man, "Ball up in front." Also, if the hitch to the team is set too near the center, the angle of the drag with the road will be too nearly a right angle, or straight across, to shed or crown the wet earth.

Dragging under these conditions should be more an "Ironing out the wrinkles" process; hence the blades of the drag should be given a forward or flatter inclination than when working a dry road. The hitch should be so arranged that the angle of the drag is more nearly parallel to the road than ordinary, thus causing the earth to shed better and prevent trouble. For extremely bad conditions, the use of the road machine ahead of the drag will be found effective. In all cases, the road should be freed of all stumps, snags, and bowlders, as these seriously retard good dragging.

A little practice will enable the operator to do a fairly creditable job, and after a subsequent freeze the road will present a smoother and much more comfortable surface. Then, when the spring rains come, the road will quickly shed the water that formerly collected in the deep ruts, and be dry and hard long before similar roads not dragged.

The present difficulties encountered in getting large amounts of crushed stone for road repairs necessitates the greatest care in maintaining all road surfaces in the best possible way without the use of additional materials.

A Hoe and a Sponge.

A thick cultivated soil mulch is one of the best possible ways of saving moisture for growing crops. He that most frequently stirs his soil, especially in times of drought, reaps, other things being equal, more abundant harvest than if tillage were neglected.

New Spring Suits

All thoughts are turned toward Easter now, which is the same thing as saying all thoughts are turned toward new millinery and new suits for spring. It is a delightful custom that invites us to joy on new apparel in honor of this put-on festival. Certainly nothing helps more to impress its significance on children and young people than the pretty clothes that give them so much innocent pleasure. As for women, the instinct to dress is as deeply implanted in them as the instinct for home or children. The most important item of the spring wardrobe is the tailored suit, always the character of dress that should be worn on Easter day. It is not so easy to make a selection this spring because of the diversity of styles and materials that have been presented by those who create suits. For once in the history of tailored suits serge is chosen less often than other weaves in wool, such as tricotee, duvetyn, Jersey and some novelty cloths. And again wool by no means holds the undivided attention of suit makers. New weaves in silk and fiber silk, materials that are mixtures of silk and wool, come in for a generous share of attention. A scarcity of wool in wintertime brought these new fabrics for suits into the foreground. But the diversity in materials is as nothing to the diversity in styles, except that skirts are uniformly long and coats generally short, suit styles have little in common. They range from perfectly straight-line models, through semi-fitted coats, to the Russian blouse. Some of the coats are belted and many of them are not. Braids are used freely and buttons well represented, but there are brailess and buttonless models that are quite as smart and correct. The waistcoat must be given special mention because it is attracting as much attention as suits themselves, and presents as wide a variety in materials and decoration. The two suits pictured, among many aspirants for favor, are correct as to length of skirt and coat, and each is provided with a little waistcoat or vestee. In details of furnishing they differ, and in style one is a blouse and the other semifitted.

DISTINCTIVE STREET HATS

Hats of such exquisite lines as those that are pictured here prove that in tailored hats, above all else, the line's the thing with which to catch the fancy of the chic American and all her admirers. Three graceful shapes, two of them having a bandeau, portray three widely different styles, and each emphasizes that simplicity of trimming is a virtue in street hats—something that they cannot afford to ignore. All of these hats are of black lisesere, a soft but brilliant braid, and all of them reveal the unevenness of sewing, which is a pretty characteristic of the styles. This roughness, or "bumpiness," as it has been called, is much admired. These hats are designs suited to younger matrons. The very spirited model at the right has a narrow brim, gullness of curves or rolls, and is faced with crepe georgette. Bands of fancy black braid wander around and over its crown. But that which claims instant admiring attention for this model is the effectiveness of the feather trimming. Two fans of imitation gaura are mounted at the back. They remind one of a proud and graceful crest such as nature places on the heads of beautiful birds.

The hat at the left has a soft crown of satin and a sweeping brim of lisesere, mounted on a deep bandeau. The brim looks as if it were set on a satin cap. A long, curved quill of glycerinated ostrich makes a wonderful trimming, following the graceful curves of the brim and lengthening its lines.

The hat below is one of the new bandeau hats with brim rolling upward at the left and dropping sharply at the right. There is something very roguish and decidedly chic in this droop over the right eye. Some wag has affirmed that the ladies are wearing only one eye this season, and sometimes both eyes are almost lost in the shadow of close-fitting, drooping brims. But in spite of this charming eccentricity, the hat pictured is a dignified model with three glycerinated ostrich plumes at the back.

Julia Bottomley

Ornaments of Ribbon.

Ribbon, from the widest to the narrowest, is used with charming effect in the simplest of hat decoration. There are all sorts of coquettish cockades and other ornaments made in narrow ribbon, while large, perfectly flat bows are applied in groups to the crowns of both large and small hats.

Many Apron Effects.

Summer dresses show a number of apron effects. These apron-tunics sometimes in tiers shaped like a Mason's apron, are trimmed with frills, beads, plating, lace, etc.

Sturdy Womanhood is the demand of to-day

In the Health and Strength of the Wives and Mothers Rests the Future Integrity of the Nation.

We must preserve our womanhood. There is need, greater ever for strong women. Apparently, the race is not as sturdy formerly or our women are victims of an over-civilization and able to resist disease.

Thousands suffer and thousands more are destined to suffer from that most insidious of diseases, catarrh. Ninety-seven per cent of the people have catarrh. It is not confined to the head, nose and throat as many suppose. Catarrhal inflammation may attack the stomach, bowels or any portion of the body where there are mucous linings. It is no respecter of persons or position. Everyone is liable to attack.

Mrs. Mary Fricke, 507 Bornman St., Belleville, Ill., was one of its victims. She says: "I have weighed as little as 100 pounds. For years I suffered with my stomach, cramps and severe headaches. After reading Dr. Hartman's Health Book I decided to try Peruna. The first

Well-Drained Farm Possessing Rich Soil That Will Produce Forage Is Desirable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
An ideal location is on a well-drained farm possessing a rich soil that will produce grasses and other forage as well as the grains needed for fattening the hogs. This does not mean, however, that only those farmers holding rich, level lands should raise hogs, for as a matter of fact hogs are most easily handled on farms that are somewhat rolling. For the production of forage crops the rolling farm is often as good as the level one, and it often has the added advantage of shade and a better water supply. The hill farmer does not have the best situation in all things, but in many instances he has certain advantages which he does not appreciate.

It is an advantage to locate in a hog-raising community. There are many small problems in management which may be learned through actual experience in one's own community. In such cases the older breeders have for a long time been in contact with local conditions, and a new man may profit by their experiences without spending several years acquiring one of his own. Then, too, if a whole community will raise a certain grade or breed of hog, it can obtain a reputation for its product as a community such as an individual never could hope to win. When the buyers learn that a type or breed of hog which they desire is to be obtained in unlimited numbers in a certain locality, they will naturally turn there first to buy the animals. All of which tends to decrease the difficulties of growing and marketing for the small breeder.

The question of a market must always be considered, especially the facilities for reaching it and the type of hog it demands. Most communities have been successfully connected with the large central markets by the railroads, but these will be of little avail if the roads to the stations are poor. Good roads are of inestimable importance, for, among other things, they enable the farmer to market his products at any and all times, thus taking advantage of any favorable fluctuation in the market prices. As to the type of hog the market demands, that must be determined by local inquiry, but in order to bring the highest market price hogs must be well finished and fat. The greatest demand is for 200 to 300 pound hogs, and farmers generally obtain the most profit by marketing their hogs at weights ranging from 250 to 300 pounds.

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.
Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this, Adv.

DRUGGISTS! VICK'S VAPORUB SHORTAGE OVERCOME AT LAST

The Deal Scheduled for Last November, Which Was Postponed on Account of the Influenza Epidemic, Is Now Re-instated—Good During the Month of March.

OVER ONE MILLION JARS OF VAPORUB PRODUCED EACH WEEK

It is with pride that we announce to the drug trade that the shortage of Vick's Vaporub, which has lasted since last October, is now overcome. Since January 1st, we have been running our laboratory twenty-four hours a day and a half hours out of every twenty-four. Last week we shipped the last of our back orders, and retail druggists, therefore, are no longer requested to order in small quantities only.

NOVEMBER DEAL RE-INSTATED
This deal, which we had expected to put on last November and which had to be postponed on account of the shortage of Vaporub, is re-instated for the month of March. This allows a discount of 10% on shipments from jobbers' stock of quantities of from 1 to 4 gross, 5% of this discount is allowed by the jobber and 5% by us.

We advise the retail druggists to place their orders immediately, so that the jobbers will be able to get prompt shipments to them.

THANKS OF THE PUBLIC DUE THE DRUG TRADE DURING THE INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC.

The thanks of the American public are certainly due the entire drug trade—retail, wholesale and manufacturing—for what they accomplished during the recent influenza epidemic. The war caused a shortage of physicians—nurses were almost impossible to obtain—the demand on the drug trade was unexpected and overwhelming, and to this demand they responded nobly. Retail druggists kept open day and night and slept where they dropped behind the prescription counter. Wholesale druggists called their salesmen off the road to help fill orders—hundreds wired us to ship Vick's Vaporub by the quickest route, regardless of expense.

A TREMENDOUS JOB TO INCREASE OUR PRODUCTION

In this emergency we tried to do our part. We scoured the country for raw materials—our Traffic Manager spent his days riding freight cars in—we shipped raw materials in carload lots by express and pleaded with manufacturers to increase their deliveries to us. But it was a slow process. Some of our raw materials are produced only in Japan—supplies in this country were low and shipments required three months to come from the Far East. Then we had to recruit and train skilled labor. We brought our salesmen into the factory and trained them as foremen. We invented new machinery, and managed to launch it on Christmas Day, so as not to interfere with our daily production.

143 JARS OF VAPORUB EVERY MINUTE DAY AND NIGHT

By January 1st we had everything ready to put on our night shift, and since then our laboratory has been running day and night. To feed our automatic machines, which drop out one hundred and forty-three jars of Vaporub a minute or one million and eighty thousand weekly, has required a force of 500 people. Our Cafe Department, created for the benefit of these workers, served 7,000 meals during the month of January alone.

13 MILLION JARS OF VAPORUB DISTRIBUTED SINCE OCTOBER.

An idea of the work we have accomplished this fall may be given by our production figures—13,028,970 jars of Vaporub manufactured and distributed since last October—one jar for every two families in the entire United States.

During the influenza epidemic Vick's Vaporub was used as an external application in connection with the physician's treatment, and thousands of people, unable to obtain a doctor, relied on Vick's almost exclusively.

Literally millions of families all over the country, from California to Maine, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, have found Vick's Vaporub the ideal home remedy for croup and cold troubles.

NINETEEN SAVINGS RESOLUTIONS FOR NINETEEN-NINETEEN

Here are the Nineteen Savings Resolutions for Nineteen-Nineteen. Every one of them good! Pledge to observe them throughout the year, and live up to your pledge. To have one must save. Save and Have! You are your biggest asset! Capitalize yourself! Take the fit out of life and put it in Thrift!

1. I will not quit, but will push my personal job in helping clean up the war.
2. I will buy wisely, save sanely and invest securely, and will insist upon getting 100 cents value for every dollar spent.
3. I will take the "fit" out of life and make it build up Thrift.
4. I will have a personal share in my Country's victory finance.
5. I will have enough saved to hold on to the slippery dollar.
6. I will increase my savings, not tomorrow, or next day, but now!
7. I will capitalize myself through saving. I am my own biggest asset.
8. I will not sell my War Savings Stamps or other Government securities for a mess of pottage.
9. I will join the "Get Ahead" movement, such as one of the Government's War Savings Societies.
10. I will not let the "Waris-Over" idea make me ungrateful to those who have fought and bled for Liberty.
11. I will be behind our end of the Peace Table with my heart, brain, labor, encouragement and money.
12. I will employ all practical means of stopping the foolish drip from the pocket-book which undermines the foundation of Family Success, and save through War Savings Stamps, Thrift Stamps, and other Government Bonds.
13. I will make Thrift a happy habit and a solid business which secures continuous profit from the spending of money wisely.
14. I will remember that Thrift is one of the great lessons taught by the war.
15. I will not set aside my newly-acquired habits of Thrift and Sacrifice, but will "carry on" with greater zeal and enthusiasm than ever before.
16. I will keep a written account of what I buy, study it weekly, and try to reduce my foolish spending, and increase my ability to buy wisely.
17. I will look ahead and not allow my impulse to spend thoughtlessly, rob me of some big opportunity or advancement which may come in the future; I will save for a "Turn Around Fund" which will enable me to meet an unexpected need, or better, an unexpected opportunity.
18. I will save—not through miserliness or to support future laziness—but to live well now and in the future.
19. I will conserve my time, my energy, and my money that I may work without financial worry, with a clear head and fresh vision.

Pledges made in 1918 to invest in United States Government War Savings Stamps, but which, for any reason, could not be met by December 31, 1918 may be fulfilled and the Government expects that they shall be fulfilled by the purchase of 1919 War Savings Stamps.

A War Savings Pledge is a personal, binding obligation. Save and have!

"Nervous Headache"

Nervous headache is the result of a run down weakened nervous system. You feel out of sorts—everything seems wrong—food disagrees with the tired stomach—you can't sleep and have a constant case of "the blues."

Rev. Geo. Hoffman of New Cumberland, Pa., tells how he was cured after he had almost given up hope.

"Five or six years ago I became greatly worried on account of the condition of my nerves. I was prostrated and suffered so much I thought I would never be well again. I used one bottle of DR. MILES' NERVINE and began to improve from the first. I then used it until it completely cured me. It is without doubt the greatest nerve remedy ever discovered."

If you are troubled with a nervous affliction, you will find the first bottle of DR. MILES' NERVINE will bring relief. It is non-alcoholic and contains no injurious drugs—a safe, dependable and efficient family medicine. Ask your druggist about it.

Keep Your Money At Home

Why you should be interested in assisting building up of a Mutual Grain Insurance Company in the Panhandle of Texas. The extremely high rate charged for insurance of grain crops old line companies make it just a matter of good business to obviate this as far as possible. Planter's Mutual Hail Insurance Company after seven years of business as a Mutual Insurance Company decided at its last annual meeting place the company on a sound and secure foundation by adopting (unanimously) a sliding scale of assessments for the purpose of creating a reserve fund of sufficient amount to take care all damages sustained in any year. The Board Directors selected for the ensuing year are warranted in saying to one and all of the who raisers on plains land in Carson, Gray and Roberts Counties that the plan adopted will pay full every dollar of damage for 1919 and at same time provide a good part of the reserve fund to be raised. They are justified in saying to you that a period of ten years of insurance with Planter's Mutual Hail Insurance Company will not cost over an average rate of 56 per cent premiums. This assumption of cost is based absolute figures for the seven year life of Company. This saving to planters is self evident to the Directors. This alone should be sufficient inducement for you to join this Company to nothing of the advantage of keeping premium at home and the interest to be derived from serve fund in local banks.

All Solicitors for the Company will gladly explain to you the method by which the Company expects to secure a reserve fund. They are: P. Russ, W. H. Miller, J. S. Carter and Banks Panhandle, E. H.
