PANHANDLE DAY" AT THE DALLAS STATE FAIR

has definitely been decided that there be an all Panhandle exhibit at the Dallas State Fair in October of present year. It is designed that Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce will group all of its exhibits, in county units, under one cover one enclosure, thus preserving the unity of the county and at the same time representative of the unity which is desired to be expressed by organization.

There is a Great Day coming! The management of the Fair has applied to for the designation some certain day as "Panhandle Day." On that day it is being argued to operate special trains out of Amarillo, collecting the passengers in all over the Panhandle-Plains territory and all going in one great train. Some of the towns have already volunteered to take hands and agencies of pleasure and comfort. This special train will, in all ballistics move over the Ft. Worth Denver, enroute to Dallas and will probably return over the T. P. via Centwater where breakfast will be served and a daylight trip over the Ft. Plains.

The final details will be worked in plenty of time, so make your arrangements to bury troubles for a couple of days and have the time of your life.

OFF ON A VACATION

The entire Chief family, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Webster and little daughter, Miss Evelyn left today of this week for a two weeks vacation. They expect to visit and camp a while in the Mountains of northern New Mexico and then turn north into Colorado.

If you don't like paper while he is away, just me down and print one to suit yourself, we don't give a rap, for once are we'll get fired as soon as returns anyhow.

Just come right along with your work, big ads and news items, we're glad to get them, and say, while we think of it, all we are going to get of this is what fun there is coming and what we collect on subscription. any of you fellows are four of five years behind, please pay up while the boss is away, you'll get proper credit on his books, and we need the money.

METRIC SYSTEM WOULD HAVE FOILED KAISER

Germany Counted on Allies Confused Weights and Measures The lack of standard in weights and measures among the Allies gave Germany a great advantage in the waging of world-war, according to the messages received from prominent manufacturers of the United States by the World Trade Club of San Francisco. One of them, a large manufacturer of material used for making war munitions, President F. O. Wells of the Greenfield, Mass. Tap, Die, Machine Tool company goes so far as to declare war if the United States and Britannia had been standardized with their allies in the vital matter of weights and measures.

The World Trade Club, representing 500 leading San Francisco manufacturing merchants, is promoting a campaign for the world wide adoption of meter-liter-gram, the units of the metric system of weights and measures, now in use by practically all nations of the world except the United States and Great Britain.

The campaign has brought many responses of support from men like Wm. G. McAdoe, David Starr Jordan, Nicholas Murray Butler, Expressman Elliot of Harvard, Henry Van Dyke, Judge E. H. Gary, John Hays Hammond, Wm. C. Redfield, Theodore N. Vail, Otto H. Kahn, George W. Perkins, Dr. Charles H. Mayo, The Lord Mayor of Manchester and many more.

COVEY BUYS OUT PICKENS AND DIAL

Pickens & Dial will continue to sell automobiles and expect to soon have another location. Messrs. Covey and Son will hold their present location, to be used for Tractors and Trucks, and use their new place for Ford Cars and repair work, having in it a garage 50 by 80 feet, and also the lower floor of the Masonic hall.

HOTEL CHANGES HANDS

CATTLEMEN TOLD

CAKE SITUATION Local cattlemen are much interested in the following circular letter just received from the Secretary of the Buyers' and Sellers' Live Stock Association at Amarillo, in regard to the condition of the cake market for the coming fall and winter:

"The season of the year has arrived when every feeder of cotton seed cake is beginning to think about the price he is going to have to pay for cottonseed cake and meal for his winter feed.

"Since the Food Administration regulations were removed June 30 the price on the cake has advanced from $57 to $76 per ton f. o. b. the mill, basis 43 per cent protein, nut size cake, 100 lb. sacks and the market continues to advance. It is to your interest as well as to that of every feeder of cottonseed cake that immediate steps be taken to counteract the effort produced by the speculators in cottonseed products. As above stated, the price has advanced $20 per ton in the last sixty days and the reason for this is that all old crop cake and meal has been practically cleaned up and there is very little if any, cake or meal available for prompt shipment, regardless of the price you might offer. It will be sixty days before a general operation of the oil mills will begin. The mills have not as yet purchased any seed nor will they for at least thirty days and then only in very limited quantities.

"The mills have been placed in this position; they do not want to sell their cake until they have purchased seed and know what the manufactured product is going to cost them, but the speculators, whether they be cowmen, dealers or exporters, are forcing the mill to name prices for future shipment and naturally the mill names a price high enough that he thinks his interest will be fully protected. We know from direct information that the majority of the mills in Texas and Oklahoma, in fact the entire South, are not wanting to sell their products at this time and the prices they have named, they named with the aim in view of not selling any products and every time they name price and the buyer purchases, the next time they name a higher price. From this you can readily see that your interest will be best protected by waiting to purchase your cake and meal requirements until the mills begin operating which will be not earlier than September and we would suggest that you hold off purchasing your requirements until in October, regardless of the conditions that may exist with you unless you can get the cake shipped at an early date. You will gain nothing by buying at this time for September or October shipment and the probabilities are that you will save $15 to $20 per ton by waiting.

"Prior to the war the price averaged about $23 per ton f. o. b. the mill, basis 43 per cent protein. The Food Administration set what they considered an equitable price. We thought that they set the price too high, but probably they had information from both sides, that justified the price they named of $57 f. o. b. the mill, basis 43 percent protein, nut size cake, 100 lb. sacks and while we do not believe conditions justify and warrant a higher price than last year, granting that the cost of operation of mill, living cost and other expenses have increased, we do not see where it is possible for cake or meal, basis 43 per cent protein to be worth over $60 per ton f. o. b. the mill.

"While there is a shortage of grass and feed in Colorado, Montana and Idaho, conditions were never more favorable in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Arizona and these sections use more cake than all the rest of the range region of the United States together.

"The officers of our Association are ever alert to watch your best interest and by the combined efforts of all livestock associations, we can accomplish much and if you will kindly ask the association that you belong to get out a letter to its membership on the above subject we can be of great help to all cottonseed cake users.

"We are getting out something like 32,000 letters, sending them over the great cattle growing region of the United States and to seventy-four live stock associations, and we ask that you see your fellow cowman and enlist him in this great movement, thereby properly safeguarding your interest.

"Hoping that you will give this matter your careful attention, I am Yours truly, J. H. Avery, Secretary."

BASE BALL

On Sunday, August the third, the Wheeler team came over to Miami all elated over the fact that they had won from Wellington the previous week and very confident that they would win from Miami very easily, but it took only a short time to change their minds for them and Miami easily defeated them by a score of 4-0. Voss did the twirling act for Miami and pitched a good game allowing only a few scattered hits which did not result in anything serious.

Sunday afternoon our boys went to Pampa where they were scheduled to play that afternoon, and where they also expected a hard game as Pampa had defeated them here two weeks ago by some kind of an accident. The game was called at three-thirty and from the start showed that it was going to be a real ball game. Pampa had imported the Smith "Wonderful" from the fast Elks Club at Amarillo and he was doing the rolling act for Pampa while Voss did the same for Miami. Neither team scored the first two innings but in the first of the third Miami managed to put Cowser and Keffer across the plate for a couple of runs. Pampa scored two runs in the fourth inning tying the score. From then on until the first of the eighth inning there were no runs made on either side, but we must admit there was some real ball playing took place. In the first of the eighth inning, Smith let the Miami boys fill the bases on some clean hits, then walked a man or so and even went so far as to walk a man with bases full. In this inning Smith gave up the mit and walked calmly back to center field and Short came to the box. In this inning Miami managed to put over four runs making the score 6-2 and during the last half of the inning Pampa pushed another man across making the score 6-3, neither team scoring in the ninth, the game ended 6-3 in favor of Miami. Voss pitched a good game up until the seventh inning where he was relieved by Cowser who went in with a cold arm and was unable to hold, and was relieved by Keffer who finished the game in good style, with more smoke than Pampa seemed able to manage. Smith for Pampa went out in the eighth and was relieved by Jack Short who pitched a good finish to the game. Raymond Cunningham for Miami pulled some real sensational stunts during the game which saved several runs. Everyone seemed to be at their best and all played a clean game. Chisum for Miami led in the batting by hitting three clean hits out of four times up, he was followed by Patton who hit two clean hits out of four times up. Following is a summary of the game which shows each individuals playing.

ABOUT THE FREE SCHOOL BOOKS.

Last year the people of Texas voted a tax of fifteen cents on the hundred dollars of taxable property so that free text books may be furnished the school children of the state, and a law putting into effect this provision of the amended constitution was enacted during the regular session of the Thirty-Sixth Legislature.

The new law provides that free text books shall be furnished to every pupil within the scholastic age, who attends school. However, it provides that those who wish may buy their own books by paying the regular price as agreed upon by the State and book concerns.

The school trustees are made custodians of the books and have the power to make such arrangements for distribution to the pupils as they may deem best and more economical. The trustees are under bond as guarantee that a correct record of the books will be kept and accounted for. In the event that a book is destroyed or lost, the parent or guardian of the pupil is responsible for the loss of such book, will pay for it. The responsibility of trustees is only to the extent that the books will be correctly accounted for to the State.

All the books shall have printed labels pasted on both inside covers and such labels are to be numbered. All teachers keep a record of the number of each book issued to pupil. All books must be covered by pupil under the direction of the teacher. Pupils will be allowed the use of the books just as if they were owned, but all books must be returned to the teacher at the close of school or when the pupil withdraws from school. Local boards of trustees shall make provision for the fumigation of books before the re-issue of the books. Covers of all books shall be removed before re-issue, and the pupils to whom the book is issued shall replace cover.

For all information concerning books and the law, address Miss Annie Webb Blanton, Austin, Texas.

DAVIS-SANDERS

Mr. Mason Davis and Miss Bessie Sanders were married Tuesday night at the home of the brides parents. This was rather a surprise to the people of Miami and especially the younger set, for they had no idea Mason had such ideas in his head.

Mason is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Davis of Miami and has spent practically all his life in and around Miami, however he spent one school term in Texas City where he graduated from the High School there. He is a fine young man and we are sure that he will make the young lady a very prosperous husband and happy partner for life.

Miss Sanders is a daughter of Mr. Sanders who has been doing engineering and grading work in Wheeler and Roberts counties for the past two years and she is well and favorably known among Miami and Mobeetie young people. We are sure this young couple will be a happy couple and the Chief joins with their many friends in wishing them all the happiness possible.

THE TRAGEDY OF WANT

Our wants are many, some actual, some imaginary, but in the life of everyone comes a time when the want of money is tragic in that it drives us beyond the door of opportunity, makes emergency a giant which we cannot meet.

SAVE YANK CITY IN MACEDONIA

Red Cross Cares for People Made Destitute by Bulgarians.

LIKE REAL AMERICAN CITY

Headquarters of American Oil and Tobacco Interests Opens After Bulgarian Occupation—See Awful Picture of Misery.

Kavalla, Macedonia.—Few Americans, except those in the tobacco industry, have ever heard of this little port on the Aegean sea. Yet it has many features and activities to commend it to the interest of the people of the United States.

Here the finest tobacco in the world—the bulk of which is consumed in America—is grown. Here the great American tobacco companies have export headquarters. Here the biggest oil company of the United States and America's greatest relief organization, the American Red Cross, have distributing centers.

Indeed, Kavalla has come to have some of the aspects of a real American city. There are so many Americans here that one feels himself only a few hundred miles from home, instead of in the heart of a remote region whose beginnings antedate the birth of Christ.

Bulgaria Wants Harbor.

For years Bulgaria has looked upon Kavalla with a covetous eye. Although defeated and subdued, she looked hopefully to the peace congress at Paris to give her Kavalla as a port. Yet Kavalla is not a harbor. It is merely a roadstead affording good anchorage for coastwise steamers.

Millions of dollars and endless development would be required to convert the city into a first-class port. But Bulgaria, which now has only the shallow port of Dedegatch at the mouth of the Gulf of Enos, was and is anxious to get an outlet through Macedonia and the sea for her large output of tobacco, wheat, live stock, silk and attar of roses, and would be quite ready to spend any sum in developing and deepening the harbor.

Kavalla is situated on a rocky peninsula and is dominated by the ruins of an old Venetian fort. It is protected from the south by the Greek island of Thasos. Back from the seacoast is a mountainous district known in Macedonia as the Pangaion.

Coursing through the valley, on Pangalon's eastern slope, is the placid Anghista river, which some historical writers believe to be the stream where Paul baptized Lydia. On all sides of the mountains in this region is rich arable land peculiarly adapted to the growth of tobacco. The best leaf in the world is grown here, and so valuable are the fields for tobacco culture that very little else is cultivated.

During the war the Bulgarians adopted in Kavalla the same ruthless practices they followed in all occupied territory. They pillaged and destroyed. They made every effort to make the land uninhabitable. They cut down the trees and carried off furniture and everything made of wood. They sacked the homes and drove the Greek inhabitants out.

As a result of all this, when the Greek commission of the American Red Cross established relief posts here, a few days after the armistice, their representatives found living conditions almost unsupportable.

First Red Cross Base.

Kavalla was the first city in Macedonia to become a base for Red Cross operations. The natives speak with unbounded gratitude of the help given them by the Americans. They say the food furnished by the American Red Cross was the first substantial nourishment they had in four years.

No section of the Balkans ever presented a more depressing picture of misery and squalor. When the Americans came in they found the inhabitants dying by the dozen from famine, exposure and typhus.

They immediately established soup kitchens and dispensaries and gave out tens of thousands of American-made garments. They sent in doctors, nurses and medical supplies. They distributed hundreds of thousands of loaves of bread made of American flour. They established shelters for the homeless women and children. They cared for the hordes of broken and dispirited Greek and Serbian soldiers who had been released from vile prison camps in Bulgaria.

In their devotion to the task of rescuing the typhus-stricken population two of their number lost their lives and three nurses contracted the dread disease.

HAVE NO ONE TO PUT IN JAIL

Mayor of Canton Wants to Know What Use the Prison is in His Town.

Canton, O.—"What good is a jail when there is no one to put in it?" This query was sprung by Mayor Poorman, and when he failed to get any answers from other officials he announced he would recommend that the old city jail in the basement of the city hall be abandoned and the space be repaired and converted into office rooms for the city building commission.

"The jail is of no use now," said Mayor Poorman. "It has only been used for several years for drunks and slackers and now we have none of these. The new jail is sufficiently large to take care of all prisoners," the mayor added.

LACK MICE FOR STUDY OF CANCER

Doctor Wood of Columbia Reports Shortage Because Armies Needed Them.

HELD UP RESEARCH WORK

War's Absorption of Scientists Who Entered Service Also Retarded Investigations in Disease—Death Rate Jumps.

New York.—Study of cancer during the war was impeded, not only by taking physicians from research work but because of the shortage of mice, which were used in large quantities with the allied armies for the detection of gas and the diagnoses of certain types of disease, according to the report of Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of the George Crocker special research fund of Columbia university.

Thousands of mice which had been raised for research work were turned over to the government. The mice breathe very rapidly and are far more sensitive to gases than human beings, so that they were kept in exposed sectors and observed closely, because their behavior would indicate the coming of gas long before it could be detected by human beings. It was also announced that mice had been sent out on board every submarine, for the same purpose.

Mice React to Gas.

One of the most common troubles on submarines has been from chlorine, due to wet batteries. The mice react to the gas long before it is dangerous, or even perceptible, to the crew, thus enabling them to find the difficulty and repair it before the air becomes so tainted as to be dangerous. In the British army hundreds of canaries were used, as well as mice, for the detection of gas. In addition to supplying thousands of mice to the government, the George Crocker special research fund raised enough, however, to supply many medical schools and research laboratories throughout the country.

The other use of mice in the war was in discriminating between the various types of pneumonia prevalent at

HIS ONE AMBITION

A sailor on one of the battleships now stationed in the Hudson river, New York, initiating a very interested little pupil into the mysteries of a ship's bugle calls. different times. Different types of the disease are treated differently, but it is often found impossible to discriminate between the different classes of symptoms in men. When mice were inoculated with the germs, however, effects were produced which readily indicated the disease.

Doctor Wood reported that various changes in cancer statistics has resulted during the war, especially in England, where large classes of the population had been sent to the war, but that a careful analysis of the figures showed that the changes were mainly due to dislocation of classes of population, not to any remarkable increase or decrease in the disease itself.

Death Rate Jumped.

As cancer is most prevalent in persons over the military age, the proportion of deaths from this cause naturally jumped, where the proportion of men of younger ages was reduced. In this country, likewise, the records were found to show that cancer was most prevalent in Vermont and least so in Utah and Montana, but this was explained as being due to the fact that a large percentage of the youth of Vermont had migrated and that a larger proportion of the population in the western states was composed of newcomers, generally young men and women.

Among countries, cancer mortality was greater in Switzerland, and was highest generally where the highest civilization was found. Doctor Wood supposes this to be due, not to any connection between cancer and a high state of civilization, but to the fact that cancer is less often diagnosed and reported as the cause of death in countries like Russia.

Saved After Twelve Years.

Altoona, Pa.—High-priced china-ware, rings, pieces of silverware and other articles of value which withstood the flames when a department store on one of the most prominent corners in the business district was destroyed by fire 12 years ago are being recovered from the ruins during the excavation work for a new business block. A whole unopened barrel of china dishes was recovered, only a few on the top being broken.

MORE HOT WEATHER DISHES.

Eggs will have reached the lowest figure for the year, during the summer, and if ever, now is the time to indulge in egg dishes galore, as well as in packing them for winter use.

Beaugard Eggs.—Take five hard-cooked eggs, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, five squares of toast, one cupful of milk, one tablespoonful of butter with salt and pepper to taste. Chop the egg whites, rub the yolks through a sieve. Scald milk and add butter and cornstarch rubbed together. Now add the whites, then add salt and paprika to taste. Put the toast on a hot dish, cover with a layer of white sauce, then a layer of the yolks, then the whites, and finish with the yolks on top. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and put into the oven for a few minutes.

Devised Eggs.—One dozen cooked eggs, one teaspoonful of French mustard, four tablespoonfuls of minced ham or tongue, one tablespoonful of olive oil, salt and cayenne to taste.

Cut the eggs lengthwise. Take out the yolks carefully, not to break the whites. Rub the yolks to a smooth paste with the mustard and oil, then add the ham or tongue finely chopped. Fill the whites with this mixture and press the halves together.

Eggs Poached in Tomatoes.—Peel and cut into small pieces six medium sized tomatoes. Chop fine one small green onion. Put the onion and tomatoes into a sauce pan and cook slowly 15 minutes, adding salt and pepper. Have ready slices of well-browned toast, buttered. Carefully drop six eggs into the tomatoes, and when well poached place them carefully on the toast; pour the tomatoes around them and serve at once.

Peach Omelet.—Pare and stone three ripe peaches, then press them through a sieve, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and the well-beaten yolks of three eggs; add carefully the stiffly beaten whites of six, and pour into a well-greased baking dish. Bake 15 or 20 minutes and serve at once.

If you cannot set to meter all the mists of your soul, Then let its heavenly harmony your daily life control; Unto from out the discord of life's bitterness and pain Sweet symphonies shall rise—nor your life-song be in vain. —Alice Dunlap.

FRUIT COCKTAILS

There is no more appetizing beginning for a summer meal than a fruit cocktail. They should be served very cold in small glasses or in fruit cups such as lemon, orange, apple or grapefruit. Vegetables are also used as cocktails, the tomato being the especial favorite.

In preparing fruits for cocktails two things should be remembered: The fruit should stand in a strup or sprinkled with sugar to be well sweetened. To prepare the strup use twice as much sugar as water and cook it until thoroughly dissolved.

The entire menu should be considered when serving a fruit cocktail, as other fruits do not appear at the same meal. If a vegetable cocktail (put together with some sort of a salad dressing) is served, the salad is omitted for that meal.

One of the most attractive cocktails may be made by using watermelon or muskmelon for the foundation. Cut the melon with a French potato cutter into small balls and cover with a ginger sirup, using the Canton ginger and bits of ginger; pour over the balls of canteloupe. For watermelon the dainty color makes a most effective dish; use the heart of the melon for balls and simple, lightly flavored sirup of sugar water and lemon juice. It is unwise to add a sirup too highly flavored, for the fruit flavor itself should be first.

A pineapple and raspberry combination is very good. Cut the pineapple with a small potato cutter and let the fruits stand in sirup uncombined for three hours, then chill them together one hour.

Equal parts of sliced peaches and stoned cherries marinated in sugar sirup and garnished with frosted mint. Dip a sprig of mint in egg white then in sugar, having the mint well chilled.

Twice as much diced peach as very ripe blackberries, treated with the sirup and flavored with a little lemon and orange juice.

Vegetable cocktails may be made of various combinations, but those most suitable are:

Two tablespoonfuls of minced tomato, one of minced celery, one tablespoonful of aspic jelly cut in bits, half a teaspoonful of chives, three drops of tobacco sauce, French dressing and mayonnaise to moisten.

HOME TOWN HELPS

CLEAN UP AND KEEP CLEAN

Much More Than Mere Comfort Is Involved in Having Community Free From Dirt.

The greatest effort in the history of cleanliness is on!

For cleanliness has a history. Its influence can be traced down the ages. Those races that were clean were those races that were the masters.

The Athenians, with their baths and beautiful homes, conquered the Persians, with their unkempt beards and dirty skins. The Romans, with their aqueducts, their barbers, their gardens, beat back the barbarians with their goat skins and greasy figners.

Louis XVI was the most dainty monarch France ever had and one of the mightiest. Filth kept the Panama canal from being built years before it finally was. Bolshevism flourished when the dirty and ignorant gained control in Russia.

Real people, the wise, the leaders in progress, always have fought for cleanliness. At times it has been a sporadic fight, a skirmish. A clean man was handicapped by a neighbor who let his premises run wild. But co-operation has been brought to play at last.

This year, in the United States alone, 7,000 villages, towns and cities are campaigning for cleanliness and health. They are not doing so for a day or a week, but in a continuous campaign. In a steady pressure.

Tin cans, flies, refuse, dirt, waste paper, unsightly buildings, unpainted surfaces are taboo. The drive is on.

It has been estimated that 30,000,000 men, women and children in the United States are annually interested in and working on clean up and paint up activities. It is an army of magnificent purpose and of immense possibilities. It is bound to win.

Join the forward movement. Clean up, paint up and keep it up. Make the old enemies, dirt and disease and unsightliness, abdicate and stay out.

WHY HOME OWNING IS URGED

Ten Powerful Arguments Put Forward by Those Convinced of Wisdom of the Plan.

Home owning will result in benefit to people who become home owners and to the city as a whole, for these, among other, reasons:

- 1. In the long run the home owner is more prosperous than the renter, and the prosperity of any city depends upon the prosperity of its individual citizens.
2. The home owner is permanent; the shifter does little good to his city or himself.
3. The home owner is progressive; the renter is not interested in progressive movements.
4. Habits of thrift learned in home buying add to the wealth of the individual and the city.
5. The home owner beautifies the city; the renter does not; the more beautiful our city is the more people will be attracted to it.
6. Other things being equal, the home owner is a better worker than the renter, and keeps his position after the renter is discharged.
7. The owner of a home has an ever-present protection against poverty, and will not become a charge upon the community.
8. No city of renters can ever succeed. No nation of tenants ever became great.
9. A city that is worth living in is worth owning a home in.
10. Other things being equal, the home owner is a better citizen, a better soldier, a better American than the renter.

Old-Fashioned Flower Garden.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," which can be found in a bed of old-fashioned flowers at a minimum cost.

After the soil is prepared, sow the seeds or set out the plants, putting the tall ones like sweet peas, hollyhocks, golden glow and sunflowers in the back. Plant shorter ones in front, such as the marigolds, Japanese poppies, sweet Williams and field daisies; in front of these still shorter ones, such as petunias, nasturtiums and asters, with pansies, pinks and verbenas in front. A border of candy tuft or sweet alyssum is very decorative. With such an arrangement, flowers for the parlor and living room table can be obtained until frost comes.

Many a bouquet of beautiful flowers at practically no expense also can find its way into the room of some sick person or to a hospital ward.—Thrift Magazine.

Build Bird Homes.

Birds add much to the home surroundings and are easily made neighbors if nesting places are available. Bird houses will attract wrens, bluebirds, martins and nuthatches; and the windbreak, apple orchard, or lawn trees make good homes for orioles, phoebe, robins and thrushes. They will pay for any attention by the destruction of many injurious insects. Some fruiting shrubs, such as the Juncherry, black haw, sheeberry and cherry should be planted in thickets, not alone for the birds, but because they add much to the surroundings.

CONTROL SHEEP-KILLING DOGS

Secretary of Agriculture Asks Two Governors to Urge Laws Protecting Sheep.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The enactment of more adequate state laws to control sheep-killing dogs is urged by Secretary Houston in a letter just sent to the governors of 20 states. The secretary points out that, although there has been a gratifying increase in the number of sheep in the United States in the past year, there is room for further expansion of the industry. Farmers, he says, are discouraged in many instances from keeping sheep on account of the danger of damage by dogs. The letters were sent to the governors of Arizona, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin where state legislatures are now in session. Following is the letter:

"I understand that many states are having under consideration the matter of legislation to encourage the larger development of the sheep industry by moving or controlling the dog men. During the past year, as you perhaps know, there has been a gratifying increase in the number of sheep in the United States. There is undoubtedly room in many sections of the country for further expansion along this line, especially in the settled farming area. The field representatives of this department, however, generally report that farmers are discouraged in many instances from keeping sheep on account of the danger of damage by dogs.

"The question seems to be primarily one for consideration and action in the various states. I am, therefore, taking the liberty to bring the matter to your attention, with the hope that you will look into the situation and make such recommendations as may seem wise to the legislature of your state. May I not, in this connection, call your attention to the careful drawing and apparently well-enforced laws of several states, notably the laws of New York and Pennsylvania, which are set forth in the bulletin (Farmers Bulletin 935) inclosed herewith."

USE FEED TROUGHS FOR PIGS Should Be Constructed So That Each Little Porker Will Get His Full Share. (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Young pigs should be given the feeds in such a manner that each individual pig gets its share. The simplest way to accomplish this is to allow the pigs to eat from a properly constructed feed trough, one that will keep the pigs out of the feed and will lessen the possibility of crowding.

SYSTEM OF SHEEP FARMING

To Be Successful Wool or Mutton Cannot Be Ignored—Two Products Profitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A system of sheep farming that is to be continuously successful can ignore either wool or mutton. In most cases the two products will be worth equal consideration. In other cases either one may be emphasized according to the peculiarities of conditions, management, and marketing.

BEST TIME FOR SOWING RAPP

If Done at Last Cultivation of Corn Lambs Can Be Turned Into Cornfield in Autumn.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is good practice to sow rapp the last cultivation of corn. The lambs can then be turned into the cornfield in the fall and will feed upon the lower leaves of the corn and make excellent gains.

LINKNOWN PANAMA

Nut Palm Beside the Jungle Trail.

I BELIEVE it will surprise most Americans, and perhaps a few of our field naturalists, to learn that right at the back door of the Panama canal lies an almost unknown jungle wilderness, unmapped and practically uninhabited in the interior except for a few very primitive Indians. Virtually the entire eastern portion of the republic of Panama lying between the canal and Colombia, roughly 300 miles long by from 50 to 100 miles wide, is unknown, and the published maps of this country, except for the seacoast and the location of a half a dozen small towns, are all faked, writes Lieut. Col. Townsend Whelen in Natural History.

It was my good fortune to spend the entire dry seasons (December to June) of 1916 and 1917 exploring a part of this country. We found it necessary to know something of that portion of it nearest the canal, and it fell to my lot, assisted by Companies E and H, Twenty-ninth United States Infantry, to make a preliminary exploration with a view to planning and expediting its accurate mapping by the engineer corps.

It is because this little piece of jungle probably will remain virgin and unspoiled for many years that I think it ought to be brought to the attention of our field naturalists. It is so easily accessible, and yet only the borders of it have been searched by the scientist. No one yet knows what is in the interior, what secrets it contains, what new fauna and flora its exploration will reveal.

In the Real Jungle.

The Canal zone, which extends five miles to either side of the canal, practically all of the jungle forest has long since been cut off, and in its place has grown up a dense, impenetrable second growth of small trees, palms, creepers, thorns, and coarse grass. But if one cuts his way through this tangled growth for about five miles in from the canal he comes to the real jungle, standing up like a gigantic wall of green verdure. Once in it all is different, even the very climate itself. Here one can wander at will, unimpeded by thorns and creepers. It is even easier traveling here than in the woods of our own Northeast, because as a rule there is much less "down" timber. It is like a new world, a world that one has not even read about.

From the blazing sun and sweltering heat of the second growth one enters what is almost an underground world, cool and balmy. Everywhere the giant trees go up limbless for from 100 to 200 feet, and then spread out their verdure, literally hiding the sky. Beautiful slender palms grow in great profusion in the semidarkness forming the lower growth, impeding one's view but not one's progress. Scarcely ever can one see more than 50 yards, and never does the explorer get an extended view, even from the tops of the highest mountains. When I first entered the jungle it was with an indescribable feeling of awe and wonder, and this feeling has never left me; nay, it persists, drawing me, calling me to come back, more insistent even than the "Call of the North."

Unexplored Mountain Ranges.

That part of the jungle in which the most intensive exploration was conducted lies to the east of the city of Colon, between there and the town of Nombre de Dios, and extending from the Caribbean coast inland to the headwaters of the Chagres river system. Between the Chagres basin and the Caribbean coast rises the cordillera of Cerro Bruja, a mountain range that starts about ten miles east of Colon, and rises steadily, culminating in the peak of Cerro Bruja (3,200 feet) about 15 miles south of the town of Porto Bello. East of Cerro Bruja peak the Rio Piedras rises almost in the basin of the Chagres, flows north around the base of Cerro Bruja, then west, and empties into the sea half way between Colon and Porto Bello. The Piedras is one of the largest rivers of Panama, but you will not find it on any map, even its mouth having been mistaken for a lagoon of the sea when the coast line was charted.

The Rio Grande, figuring largely on existing maps, is an insignificant little stream, several miles long, really unworthy of a name. Beyond the valley of the upper Piedras rises a really imposing range of mountains called Cerro Saximo, culminating in a peak somewhere south of Nombre de Dios, which must attain an altitude of from 6,000 to 8,000 feet. I think I am the only one who has ever viewed this range, as it seems to be invisible from any place where there is any trace of human beings, and its presence is barely noted on only one old map, with no indication as to its altitude.

Beyond Saximo neither I nor anyone else know what. There are rumors that the interior beyond is inhabited by Indians of the San Blas (Cuna-Cuna) tribe, and that they are very hostile to invasion of their country by whites.

Plant and Animal Life.

I must confess to absolute incompetency when it comes to a description of the flora of the jungle, incompetency both scientific and linguistic. I doubt if the jungle as a whole can be described—it can only be marveled at. It is beautiful, appealing, terrifying. I never cease to wonder at the trees—giant moras, borizon, cavanillesia, celbas, rubber, and fig. The enormous trunks with great buttressed roots rise 100 feet without a limb, and then spread out literally to hide the sky. Limbs, so high that one can scarcely see them among the leaves, drop lianas to the ground—long tangled lines like the wrecked rigging of some masted ship. Then there is the secondary growth, a hundred varieties of tree ferns and palms, suited by nature to grow in semidarkness, robbed of the sunlight by their giant neighbors.

The bird life is no less wonderful than the vegetation. The Panama jungle is alive with birds. The variety and coloring are truly remarkable. On the ground I observed several varieties of quail, tinamou, and pheasants. In the low-bush area are wrens, humming birds, thrushes, and birds, and a variety of other species either common to the United States or unknown to me. In the medium zone, half way to the leafy ceiling of the jungle, dwell doves, guans, owls, motmots, and trogons. High up in the roof are parrots, parakeets, macaws, toucans, and cotingas.

The mammal life of the jungle is also very abundant. The ordinary traveler, however, will see little of it owing to several conditions which only a man with extensive hunting or collecting experience will realize. Among the animals I observed were tapir, deer, peccary, agouti, paca, sloth, coati-mundi, kinkajou, anteaters, monkeys, otter, puma, jaguar (spotted and black), ocelot, squirrels, opossums of many varieties, and rabbits.

Snakes were fairly numerous, the harlequin snake, box constrictors, and a very long and thin bright green tree snake being the most numerous.

Dad's Position.

"Nope, you can't marry him." "But, papa, consider his wavy hair, his soulful eyes. He is my ideal." "Listen here, girl. If you could meet up with an ideal earning as much as $30 a week I wouldn't say a word."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my housework."—Mrs. B. B. ZIELINSE, 302 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the credit."—Mrs. J. O. ## American Half-Cent Pieces.

Joseph Powell, the curiosity shop keeper at the zoo, has added a collection of United States half-cent coins to his already large coin exhibit. They date from 1800 to 1856. Of course, the fact that half cents are now worth 25 cents to 75 cents each, because of their scarcity, is another matter.—Cincinnati Star-Times.

The Methodist are building a memorial Hall on the Campus at the S. M. U. at Dallas and it will be the largest and best auditorium owned by the Methodists in the State.

The privilege is given the church at large to have the names of their soldier boys placed on a bronze tablet in this hall to stand for ever as a token of appreciation of what they did for all. Ten dollars must be sent with each name and the money thus given will be used to help build the Hall.

We would like to have all the names inscribed but since this would take so much money, the Auxilliary is planning to place the names of the boys who gave their lives in the service in this Hall.

BUILDING UP OUR WOMANHOOD

Given Up to Die by Her Friends, a Young Lady Recovers Her Health and Increases Weight—45 Pounds.

A Powerful Nation Needs Strong Healthy Women.

A nation is no stronger than its women. Hence, it is the duty of every woman whether young, middle age, or in advanced life to preserve her health. If you are sick and suffering don't wait until tomorrow but seek relief at once—today. Tomorrow your illness may take a chronic turn.

There is a remedy for almost every ill. Thousands have found Peruna to be that remedy as did Miss Clara Lehr of 21 N. Gold St., Grand Rapids, Michigan. She writes a friend: "I don't need Peruna any more. I am all well after taking six bottles. I weighed ninety pounds before I started and was poor and weakly. I had such a cough and spitting all the time that I never expected to recover. My friends gave me up. I could eat nothing. Now I can eat and weigh 135 pounds. I most thankfully recommend Peruna to my friends."

Miss Lehr's letter is an inspiration, a message of hope to suffering women. It tells you that you too may be strong and well and vigorous.

Peruna may be had in either liquid or tablet form. Ask your dealer. If you value health, do not accept a substitute. Dr. Hartman's World Famous Peruna Tonic is what you want. The Peruna Company, Dept. 79, Columbus, Ohio, also publish Dr. Hartman's Health Book. The book is free. Write for it. Your dealer will give you a Peruna Almanac.

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Pounds of Powder for the Feet.

That is what the government sent last year to make the soldiers' and sailors' feet comfortable and fit for the kind of war they fought and finished.

In Peace and War for over 25 years Allen's Foot-Ease, the Antiseptic Healing Powder for the Feet, to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath has been the standard remedy for all aching, swollen, hot, tired feet, blisters and sore spots and for the instant relief of corns, bunions and callouses.

Thousands of people sent packages of Allen's Foot-Ease to their sons, brothers or sweethearts in the army and navy because they knew from experience that it would freshen and rest their feet, make their shoes comfortable and walking easy. Those who use Allen's Foot-Ease have solved their foot troubles.

MOTOR TRUCKS TO AID ROADS

Government to Give Army Equipment Valued at $45,000,000 to State Highway Departments.

More than $45,000,000 worth of motor trucks are about to be distributed by the secretary of agriculture through the bureau of public roads to the state highway departments. These trucks have been declared surplus by the war department and are being distributed to the states under the provisions of section 7 of the post office appropriation bill. They must be used by the states on roads constructed in whole or in part by federal aid, for which $200,000,000 in addition to the former appropriation was given to the states under the same bill. All that the states must do to acquire the use of these 20,000 trucks, which range in capacity from two to five tons, is to pay the loading and freight charges.

Of the 20,000 motor vehicles to be acquired practically free by the states 11,000 are new and 9,000 are used, but all are declared to be in serviceable condition. The motors will be apportioned to states only upon request of the state highway departments on the basis of the requests received from the respective states, and in accordance with the apportionment provided in the federal aid law approved in 1916. The requirements of the laws are such that the bureau of public roads cannot distribute any trucks to counties or individuals.

FARMERS FAVOR GOOD ROADS

Recognized as Greatest Economic Need of Agricultural Communities in Eastern States.

Good roads are the greatest economic need for agricultural communities. This is the answer of 200 prominent farmers of the state of Maine to questionnaires which asked them to summarize urgent necessities to bring their districts up to the desired economic standard.

The definitions of the greatest needs covered a wide and interesting range. The largest record of needs was good roads, 85 emphasizing the urgent necessity of adequate highways. There were 45 who asked for more farm laborers, 44 for co-operative buying and selling, 35 for better school privileges, 29 for more blue-blooded stock, 29 for manufacturing plants, 29 for better marketing facilities, and 21 for greater credit extensions by banks.

ROADS AS DIVIDEND PAYERS

Where Good Roads Enable Farmer to Save One Hour Per Week He Makes Big Gain in Year.

If a farmer saves an hour a week by being enabled to use good roads as opposed to bad roads, it would mean 52 hours a year; estimating the use of man and team as being worth $6 a day, this means a saving of $31.20 a year.

Suppose his farm is assessed at $10,000, and the additional tax levy due to the issue of road bonds by the county runs to $1 per thousand, which would mean $10 a year additional taxes as against a saving of $31.20 or time alone. This means that he is investing $10 and drawing dividends of $31.20, an interest rate of 312 per cent.

TEXAS TO BUILD HIGHWAYS

According to Member of State Highway Commission Approximately $12,000,000 Available.

Approximately $12,000,000 is available for road construction work in Texas in 1919, according to R. M. Hubbard, a member of the state highway commission. This amount includes about $10,000,000 from the federal post office appropriation bills.

HAD IT DOWN FINE

Janitor's Wife Evidently Profound Philosopher.

Allowed No Differences of Opinion to Mar Her Happy Married Life—Some Way Say She "Humored the Brute."

"Excuse me, Mrs. Dimkin, but if there's any cool feeling between you and Mr. Dimkin it has nothing to do with me and I can do nothing but wish you to patch up your troubles and be happy once again." The janitor's wife put down her mop as she spoke and stood with arms akimbo.

"But there is no quarrel," replied Mrs. Dimkin, tearfully. "Really! Just a difference of opinion, so to speak."

"That's one thing people shouldn't have, especially married ones, this here difference of opinion," remarked the janitor's wife. "The difference is in danger of getting worse until finally it's a break."

"If a man wants to go to the hall game he should be let go. A woman shouldn't be always begging to go along. Baseball is a man's game and a woman's fad. No woman really likes baseball—she only pretends it so her husband will take her along."

"When Oswald, my husband, asks to go by the game I don't pester him to be on the next bleacher seat. I have better sense. If I get the habit of going to the ball game with him how do I know but what he may start asking me to take him by my knitting club? Not for me!"

"Maybe what you say, a difference of opinion, comes about cooking. What a man should eat lots of times causes trouble. If he hasn't got the same food ideas as his wife she should have the same as him. I don't like finnan haddie—I hate it—but Oswald is more finnan haddie than a finnan haddie itself."

"Then what do I do to save arguments? Why, when he says we will have finnan haddie for breakfast, or for dinner, I say: 'Oh, Oswald, how glad I am you mentioned that delicate food! I'm dying for a portion!'"

"I like different talking-machine music than what he likes, but he don't know it. He never knows that when a bagpipe solo is on the machine I feel like jumping off the roof or something. He never guesses that a rodel makes me so sentimental I feel I got to mop my eyes instead of the floor."

"He wears a silk hat that Mr. Slim moons gave him four years ago, and it makes him look like old Cap. Street, but he thinks he looks like some one he saw in the movies—a fellow called Bushman, I think—and I let him go on thinking it."

"Would you advise me to start something and then we'd be like you and your husband—have already a difference of opinion? No, Mrs. Dimkin, we are one happy couple and we're going to stick that way. Maybe it's my fault, but I'm satisfied and so is Oswald. I think."—Chicago News.

THE PUMA PAIR.

"I'm the puma, or Mr. Mountain Lion," said the puma.

"And I'm Mrs. Mountain Lion or your puma mate," said his mate.

"Now, we both know who we are and we both know who each other is," said Mr. Mountain Lion.

"We know so many things," said Mrs. Mountain Lion.

"That's so," agreed her mate.

"I am not just sure what all we do know," said Mrs. Mountain Lion.

"Neither am I," said her mate, "but I don't suppose it makes much difference."

"It might, of course, if anyone came up to us and said, 'What do you know?'"

"Do you suppose," said Mr. Mountain Lion, "that anyone would be so rude as to come up to two perfectly nice creatures and ask such a question?"

"They might," said Mrs. Mountain Lion, or Mrs. Puma, known by either name.

"Horrors," said Mr. Mountain Lion. "Horrors indeed, but it might be true," said Mrs. Mountain Lion.

"I don't think it would be fair," said Mr. Mountain Lion. "It would not be nice to go up to anyone and say, 'How much do you know, or what do you know? It would be very rude, and also unkind. No one wants to show how little he knows, but everyone wants to show how much he knows and when asked how much it might appear very little.'"

"You talk as though you didn't know much," said Mrs. Mountain Lion.

"But I know a good deal," said Mr. Mountain Lion.

"My dear puma mate," said Mrs. Mountain Lion, "what would you do if anyone did ask you how much you knew?"

"I Would Pretend I Was Asleep."

"I would pretend I was asleep," said Mr. Mountain Lion.

"That's a bright idea," said Mrs. Mountain Lion, "but suppose your ribs were tickled and you laughed, what then?"

"I'd pretend I was laughing and talking in my sleep," said Mr. Mountain Lion.

"You are bright, there is no mistake about it," said his mate. "Let's talk about what we do know, eh?"

"Yes," said Mr. Mountain Lion, "we can commence by saying we know who each other is!"

"Of course we knew it before we said it," smiled Mrs. Mountain Lion.

"Well, it does no harm that I sometimes repeat what we know," said Mr. Mountain Lion.

"Ah yes," said Mrs. Mountain Lion, "it is quite harmless to do so, and, too, it is nice. It is pleasant to talk over our ways and habits and it is just like big people talk over their business plans and children over their school or their games."

"We're the Puma family, the nice family of handsome mountain lions."

"We are," agreed Mr. Mountain Lion, "and we are quick and spry and clever. We can run and move easily and we can climb wonderfully."

"Oh, we're such good climbers! We're the best climbers in the world—that is we're the best climbers of the great cat family—especially of the big members of the family."

"Yes, that's right," said Mrs. Mountain Lion, "and not only can we climb but we can swim. Oh, how we can swim. We aren't going to be senseless creatures when we come to a piece of water—we're going to swim."

"That's right," said Mr. Mountain Lion, "but water doesn't come in pieces, my love, it comes in ponds and lakes and streams and brooks and rivers and oceans."

"Well," said Mrs. Mountain Lion, "I meant, of course that when we came to any pond or brook or lake or river we would be able to swim in the water therein!"

"Ah, that's the way to say it," said Mr. Mountain Lion, "and that word 'therein' made a particularly fine ending, yes, a particularly fine one."

"I AM A PRISONER HERE."

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy. At Hart's tavern Barnes finds a stranded troupe of "barn-storming" actors, of which Lyndon Kuseroff is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading lady. He learns Green Fancy is a house of mystery. That night Andrew Roon and his servant, guests at the tavern, are shot near Green Fancy. Barnes comes under suspicion and stays to help clear up the double murder. He gets into the Green Fancy grounds; meets the mysterious girl, who gives him the cut direct, and is politely ejected by O'Dowd, an interesting adventurer. Enter at the tavern another man of mystery, Sprouse, "book agent." Barnes visits Green Fancy with the sheriff and stays to dinner. Enter still another mysterious personage, "Loeb," secretary to Curtis, owner of Green Fancy, who does not appear because of illness. Barnes again meets "Miss Cameron," the mysterious girl, who is a ravishing beauty in evening dress.

CHAPTER X.

The Prisoner of Green Fancy, and the Lament of Peter the Chauffeur.

He envied Mr. Kuseroff. The barn-stormer would have risen to the occasion without so much as the blinking of an eye. He did his best, however, and, despite his engerness, managed to come off fairly well. Anyone out of earshot would have thought that he was uttering some trifling banality instead of these words:

"You may trust me. I have suspected that something was wrong here."

"It is impossible to explain now," she said. "These people are not my friends. I have no one to turn to in my predicament."

"Yes, you have," he broke in, and laughed rather boisterously for him. He felt that they were being watched in turn by every person in the room.

"Tonight—not an hour ago—I began to feel that I could call upon you for help. I began to relax. Something whispered to me that I was no longer utterly alone. Oh, you will never know what it is to have your heart lighten as mine—but I must control myself. We are not to waste words."

"You have only to command me, Miss Cameron. No more than a dozen words are necessary. Tell me how I can be of service to you."

"I shall try to communicate with you in some way—tomorrow. I beg of you, I implore you, do not desert me. If I can only be sure that you will—"

"You may depend on me, no matter what happens," said he, and, looking into her eyes, was bound forever.

"I have been thinking," she said. "Yesterday I made the discovery that I—that I am actually a prisoner here, Mr. Barnes, I—Smile! Say something silly!"

"Together they laughed over the meaningless remark he made in response to her command.

"I am constantly watched. If I venture outside the house I am almost immediately joined by one of these men. You saw what happened yesterday. I am distracted."

"I will ask the authorities to step in and—"

"No! You are to do nothing of the kind. The authorities would never find me if they came here to search." (It was hard for him to smile at that!)

"It must be some other way. If I could steal out of the house—but that is impossible," she broke off with a catch in her voice.

"Suppose that I were to steal into the house," he said, a reckless light in his eyes.

"Oh, you could never succeed!"

"Well, I could try, couldn't I?" There was nothing funny in the remark, but they both leaned back and laughed heartily. "Leave it to me. Tell me where—"

"The place is guarded day and night. The stealthiest burglar in the world could not come within a stone's throw of the house."

"If it's as bad as all that, we cannot afford to make any slips. You think you are in no immediate peril?"

an amiable mood and champing to be off. So seldom is it in good humor that he—"

"I'll be off at once," exclaimed Barnes, arising. "By Jove, it is half-past ten. I had no idea—good night, Miss Cameron."

He pressed her hand reassuringly and left her.

She had arisen and was standing, straight and slim by the corner of the fireplace, a confident smile on her lips.

"If you are to be long in the neighborhood, Mr. Barnes," said his hostess, "you must let us have you again."

"My stay is short, I fear. You have only to reveal the faintest sign that I may come, however, and I'll hop into my seven-league boots before you can utter Jack Robinson's Christian name. Good night, Mrs. Van Dyke. I have you all to thank for a most delightful evening."

The car was waiting at the back of the house. O'Dowd walked out with Barnes, their arms linked—as on a former occasion, Barnes recalled.

"I'll ride out to the gate with you," said the Irishman. "It's a winding, devious route the road takes through the trees."

They came in time, after many "hair pins" and right angles, to the gate opening upon the highway. Peter got down from the seat to release the padlocked chain and throw open the gate.

O'Dowd leaned closer to Barnes and lowered his voice.

"See here, Barnes, I'm no fool, and for that reason I've got sense enough to know that you're not either. I don't know what's in your mind, nor what you're trying to get into it if it isn't already there. But I'll say this to you, man to man: Don't let your imagination get the better of your common sense. That's all. Take the tip from me."

"I am not imagining anything," O'Dowd said Barnes quietly. "What do you mean?"

"I mean just what I say. I'm giving you the tip for selfish reasons. If you make a badly fool of yourself, I'll have to see you through the worst of it—and it's a job I don't relish. Ponder that, will you, on the way home?"

Barnes did ponder it on the way home. There was but one construction to put upon the remark: it was O'Dowd's way of letting him know that he could be depended upon for support if the worst came to pass.

O'Dowd evidently had not been deceived by the acting that masked the conversation on the coach. He knew that Miss Cameron had appealed to Barnes, and that the latter had promised to do everything in his power to help her.

Suspecting that this was the situation, and doubtless sacrificing his own private interests, he had uttered the vague but timely warning to Barnes. The significance of this warning grew under reflection. Barnes was not slow to appreciate the position in which O'Dowd voluntarily placed himself. A word or a sign from him would be sufficient to bring disaster upon the Irishman who had risked his own safety in a few irrefutable words. The more he thought of it, the more fully convinced was he that there was nothing to fear from O'Dowd.

Peter drove slowly, carefully over the road down the mountain. Responding to a sudden impulse, Barnes lowered one of the side seats in the tonneau and moved closer to the driver.

"How long have you been driving for Mr. Curtis?"

"Ever since he come up here, more'n two years ago. Guess I'm going to get the G. B. 'fore long, though. Seems that he's gettin' a new car an' wants an expert machinist to take hold of it from the start. I was good enough to fiddle around with this second-hand pile o' junk an' the one he had last year, but I ain't qualified to handle this here machine he's expectin', so he says. I guess they've been some influence used against me, if the truth was known. This new secretary he's got cain't stumuck me."

"Why don't you see Mr. Curtis and demand—"

"See him?" snorted Peter. "Might as well try to see Napoleon Bonaparte. Didn't you know he was a sick man?"

"Certainly. But he isn't so ill that he can't attend to business, is he?"

"He sure is. Parylised, they say."

"What has Mr. Loeb against you, if I may ask?"

"Well, it's like this. I ain't in the habit o' bein' ordered aroun' as if I was just nobody at all, so when he starts in to cuss me about somethin' a week or so ago, I ups and tells him I'll smash his head if he don't take it back. He takes it back all right, but the first thing I know I get a call-down from Mrs. Collier. Course I couldn't tell her what I told the sheeny, seein' as she's a female, so I took it like a lamb. Then they gits a feller up here to wash the car. My gosh, mister, the darned ole rattle-trap ain't with a bucket o' water all told. So I sends word in to Mr. Curtis that if she has to be washed, I'll wash her. Then's when I hears about the new car. Next day Mrs. Collier sends for me an' I go in. She says she guesses she'll try the new washer on the new machine when it comes, an' if I keer to stay on as washer in his place she'll be glad to have me. I says I'd like to have a word with Mr. Curtis, if she don't mind, an' she says Mr. Curtis ain't able to see no one. So I guess I'm goin' to be let out."

An idea was taking root in Barnes' brain, but it was too soon to consider it fixed.

"You say Mr. Loeb is new at his job?"

"Well, he's new up here. Mr. Curtis was down to New York all last winter been'treated, you see. He didn't come up here till about five weeks ago. Loeb was workin' fer him most of the winter, gittin' up a book or somethin', I hear. Mr. Curtis' mind is all right, I guess, even if his body ain't."

"I see. Mr. Loeb came up with him from New York."

"Kerect. Him and Mr. O'Dowd and Mr. De Soto brought him up 'bout the last o' March. They was up here visitin' last spring an' the fall before. Mr. Curtis is very fond of both o' 'em."

"It seems to me that I have heard that his son married O'Dowd's sister."

"That's right. She's a widder now. Her husband was killed in the war between Turkey an' them other countries four or five years ago."

"Really?"

"Yep. Him and Mr. O'Dowd—his own brother-in-law, y' know—was fightin' on the side of the Boolgarians and young Ashley Curtis was killed."

"Was this son Mr. Curtis' only child?"

"So fer as I know. He left three little kids. They was all here with their mother jest after the house was finished."

"They will probably come into this property when Mr. Curtis dies," said

"She's a Widder Now. Her Husband Was Killed in the War."

Barnes, keeping the excitement out of his voice.

"More'n likely."

"Was he very feeble when you saw him last?"

"I ain't seen him in more'n six months. He was fallin' then. That's why he went to the city."

"Oh, I see. You did not see him when he arrived the last of March?"

"I was visitin' my sister up in Hornville when he come back unexpected-like. This feller Loeb says he wrote me to meet 'em at Spanish Falls but I never got the letter. Like as not the darn fool got the address wrong. I didn't know Mr. Curtis was home till I come back from my sister's three days later. I wouldn't 'a' had it happen fer fifty dollars." Peter's tone was convincingly doleful.

"And he has been confined to his room ever since? Poor old fellow! It's hard, isn't it?"

"I'm sure is. Seems like he'll never be able to walk ag'in. I was talkin' to his nurse only the other day. He says it's a hopeless case."

"Fortunately his sister can be here with him."

"By gosh, she ain't nothin' like him," confided Peter. "She's all fuss an' feathers an' he is jest as simple as you or me. Nothin' duffy about him. I c'n tell ye." He sighed deeply. "I'm jest as well pleased to go as not," he went on. "Mrs. Collier's got a lot o' money of her own, an' she's got high-falutin' New York ideas that don't seem to jibe with mine."

Long before they came to the turnpike, Barnes had reduced his hundred and one suggestions to the following concrete conclusion: Green Fancy was no longer in the hands of its original owner for the good and sufficient reason that Mr. Curtis was dead. The real master of the house was the man known as Loeb. Through O'Dowd he had leased the property from the widowed daughter-in-law, and had established himself there, surrounded by trustworthy henchmen, for the purpose of carrying out some dark and sinister project.

"I suppose Mrs. Collier has spent a great deal of time up here with her brother."

"First time she was ever here, so far as I know," said Peter, and Barnes promptly took up his weaving once more.

With one exception, he decided, the entire company at Green Fancy was involved in the conspiracy. The exception was Miss Cameron. It was quite clear to him that she had been misled or betrayed into her present position; that a trap had been set for her and she had walked into it blindly, trustingly. This would seem to establish, beyond question, that her capture and detention was vital to the interests of the plotters; otherwise she would not have been lured to Green Fancy under the impression that she was to find herself among friends and supporters. Supporters! That word started a new train of thought. He could hardly wait for the story that was to fall from her lips.

"By the way, Peter, it has just occurred to me that I may be able to give you a job in case you are let out by Mr. Curtis. I can't say definitely until I have communicated with my sister, who has a summer home in the Berkshires."

"I'll be much obliged, sir. Course I won't say a word. Will I find you at the tavern if I get my walkin' papers soon?"

"Yes. Stop in to see me tomorrow if you happen to be passing."

Barnes said good night to the man and entered the tavern a few minutes later. Putnam Jones was behind the desk and facing him was the little book agent.

"Hello, stranger," greeted the landlord. "Been sashaying in society hey? Meet my friend Mr. Sprouse, Mr. Barnes. Sit-em, Sprouse! Give him the Dickens!" Mr. Jones laughed loudly at his own jest.

Sprouse shook hands with his victim.

"I was just saying to our friend Jones here, Mr. Barnes, that you look like a more than ordinarily intelligent man and that if I had a chance to buzz with you for a quarter of an hour I could present a proposition—"

"Sorry, Mr. Sprouse, but it is half-past eleven o'clock, and I am dog-tired. You will have to excuse me."

"Tomorrow morning will suit me," said Sprouse cheerfully, "if it suits you."

CHAPTER XI.

Mr. Sprouse Abandons Literature at an Early Hour in the Morning.

After thrashing about in his bed for seven sleepless hours, Barnes arose and gloomily breakfasted alone. He was not discouraged over his failure to arrive at anything tangible in the shape of a plan of action. It was inconceivable that he should not be able in very short order to bring about the release of the fair guest of Green Fancy. There was not the slightest doubt in his mind that international affairs of considerable importance were involved and that the agents operating at Green Fancy were under definite orders.

Mr. Sprouse came into the dining room as he was taking his last swallow of coffee.

"Ah, good morning," was the bland little man's greeting. "Up with the lark, I see. Mind if I sit down here and have my eggs?" He pulled out a chair opposite Barnes and coolly sat down at the table.

"You can't sell me a set of Dickens at this hour of the day," said Barnes sourly. "Besides, I've finished my breakfast. Keep your seat." He started to rise.

"Sit down," said Sprouse quietly. Something in the man's voice and manner struck Barnes as oddly compelling. He hesitated a second and then resumed his seat. "I've been investigating you, Mr. Barnes," said the little man, unsmilingly. "Don't get sore. There are a lot of things that you don't know, and one of them is that I don't sell books for a living. It's something of a side line with me." He leaned forward. "I shall be quite frank with you, sir. I am a secret service man. Yesterday I went through your effects upstairs, and last night I took the liberty of spying upon you, so to speak, while you were a guest at Green Fancy."

Sprouse plans things quite different from selling books, and takes Barnes into his confidence.

Answer Letters Promptly.

Punctuality is as important in social and business correspondence as it is in personal conduct. Men and women in business learn the importance of replying to letters as soon as received. For mail social notes such as invitations, wedding announcements or death notices should be acknowledged as soon as received and even friendly letters demand a reply within a week after their receipt, if true courtesy is observed.—Biddy Bye.

Mexican Sacrificial Stone.

The sacrificial stone was the stone on which human victims were sacrificed before the war god Huitzilopochtli. It is the principal Aztec temple in Mexico. It was dug up near the site of the temple in 1791, and is now in the Mexican national museum. The stone is diamond shaped, 8 3/5 feet in diameter and 2 1/2 feet thick. The sides are covered with elaborate sculptures.

American Styles in Summer

In certain lines of women's apparel America has become independent of other countries in the production of styles and materials. In some things we are conceded to excel, as in the designing and making of tailored suits and shoes. We have been driven to depend upon ourselves in producing the bulk of the readymade underwear worn by women whose demands are peculiarly American.

The proportion of undergarments made of washable silks grows larger, and crepe de chine gains on fine cotton materials every day. There are several very good reasons for this, but the main one is the inborn love of luxurious clothes, especially in the matter of undergarments, which is rooted in the eternal feminine nature.

Hand stitching is the hall-mark of elegance on undermuslins, so that women who know how to sew for themselves have a great advantage over those who do not. But there is not much hand sewing or hand embroidery on manufactured underwear, which, nevertheless, contrives to be very dainty. The manufacturer who turned out the two envelope chemises shown here will not dread a comparison between them and their hand-made counterparts. They are just as effective and just as durable. It is in little details of finish that the hand-made garment gets beyond the limitations of machinery and cannot be exactly copied. The chemise at the left is of white silk with a crossbar of green. There is a yoke of plain silk, also a border about the bottom and bands over the shoulders made of it. Bows of narrow ribbon with their hanging ends finished with soft silk balls make fascinating and original finishing touches.

The lovely garment at the right is made of pale blue satin with heavy silk embroidery and real fillet lace to enrich it. The empire waistline makes it graceful. This is gathered in with satin ribbon tied in a bow with long loops and ends. The same models are not less beautiful or less elegant when made of fine cotton fabrics.

Ready-Mades for Little Maids

As mothers become busier, or less inclined to spend time in sewing, in order to give it to other affairs, they have learned to look to the specialist to help them out with frocks and other clothes for children. And manufacturers have met the growing demand for ready-made or partly-made clothes, by turning out examples of good designing, in practical materials, that the most gifted amateur cannot hope to excel. Even those mothers who prefer to have the children's clothes made at home, look to the display of children's frocks made in the shops for models to guide them. Wraps they nearly always buy ready made.

Since the school girl must be outfitted by the time September appears over time's horizon, dresses and wraps for her make their entry in July. These forerunners of fall styles this year show that the neat effects that were featured in spring have come to stay a while, all because they were so heartily welcomed. They mark an advance in taste and are useful in educating the little girls themselves to like neatness. A fine sense of clothes is sometimes inborn, but sterner it is acquired unconsciously by the fortunate daughter of a discerning mother. Neatness is the outstanding merit of the frock and wrap shown in the picture above.

The little girl at the left wears a dress of black and white checked woolen goods made with a plaited skirt and a wrap that inherits its style from the spring season. It is a coat and cape combined with buttons for ornament and has a small cape collar overlaid with silk. It will be noticed that it is longer than the dress (which is knee length) in the cape portion, and that the shorter coat is belted across the front. There are very practical set-in pockets on each side.

The frock of cotton poplin at the right might be made of chambray, gingham, or other sturdy cotton goods, or in plain wools. It is a pretty design with bodice simulating a jacket and a plaited skirt. Small buttons and a childish collar, set off by very simple embroidered sprays, that are repeated on the bottom of the jacket, reveal the ideas of a designer who has no superiors. They are the signature of trained talent.

RULES FOR FAILURE
Printing "Rules for Success" as prepared by successful men and women has been a specialty with certain magazines for some time. The reverse of this is found in "Rules for Failure" as prepared by a prisoner in Ohio State Penitentiary and is printed in the Ohio State Penitentiary News. He gives the following seven rules, which he claims will guarantee a "successful failure":

- 1 Believe that everything is right that you are not caught at.
- 2 Be careless of responsibilities let George do it.
- 3 Fly into passion on slight pretext—lose your self control.
- 4 Always think of GET, never about give.
- 5 Look gloomy; never see good in other people.
- 6 Regard every man who differs from you as a knocker.
- 7 Never indulge in self-analysis; you may learn your faults and that you havent enough sand to cure them.

These are good rules for attaining the HIGHEST PERFECTION OF FAILURE. But if you are anxious to be successful in life, DON'T FOLLOW THE RULES FOR FAILURE. Start right and at once by BEING THRIFTY. Thrift leads to FINANCIAL SUCCESS. When you put your money in War Saving Stamps regularly, when you buy what you really need and want, buy it so you get full value and treat it as if it had the value of money, you follow the first great rules for financial success. Buy War Saving Stamps regularly.
