ANHANDLE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Amarillo, Texas, Aug. 27.—An announcement has just been made of a stalled program for the Panhandle Christian Endeavor Convention to be held at Littlefield, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 6 and 7. The program as announced is said to be one of the best ever arranged for a Panhandle convention and it is believed to cause considerable interest over the district.

Wallace Clark, who is in charge of the music department of the West Texas Normal College at Amarillo, has practically assured the officers that he will attend the convention and lead the singing.

Endeavorers have been in his hands at Canyon and are anxious to see him at Littlefield.

E. C. Mobly, pastor of the Christian Church of Amarillo, will lecture Friday night on "Loyalty and Patriotism." Rev. Mobly recently returned from France where he served in the Army Y. M. C. A. secretary and gave interesting lectures on religious and political conditions have made a great demand as a speaker.

R. Thomsen, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of Amarillo, is expected to be a popular speaker at the convention. He has been a past president of the Panhandle for nearly ten years and is known to thousands of the people through his forceful addresses. Dr. Thomsen also was in Y. M. C. A. during the war, serving in the personnel bureau at Dallas and in the selection of secretaries.

As scheduled for three or four places on the program, his chief address being "C. E. Facing the Problem of Americanization" and "What He Would Like to Have Me Do."

J. M. Asbell, pastor of the Christian church of Hereford, a comparatively newcomer in the district over a year ago, but his reputation as a speaker is rapidly spreading. He came from Missouri where he held pastorage for 15 years and has a "show you" spirit as well as a "show me" spirit.

MRS. R. W. WRIGHT DIES IN OREGON.

A message was received Tuesday by Robt. G. Wright announcing the death of his mother, Mrs. Artine E. Wright, at the home of her daughter at Brookings, Oregon. She was the widow of the late R. W. Wright, a well known pioneer citizen of Denton county. A number of years ago Mr. and Mrs. Wright moved to Amarillo and later to Miami, where Mr. Wright died in March 1915. In March, 1918, Mrs. Wright moved back to Amarillo, where she has property interests. At the time of her death she was visiting her daughter in Oregon, where she was stricken with paralysis last April, since which time she has been helpless and almost speechless. Before her marriage in 1865 she was Miss Artina Gober, daughter of the late John W. Gober, of this county. She was born in Georgia and with her family came to Texas in 1851 and to Denton county a year later. After her marriage she and Mr. Wright lived for many years on a farm near Bolivar, on Clear Creek.

She is survived by two sisters and three brothers, as follows: Mrs. W. C. Wright of Denton, Mrs. Mattie Curry, of Eldorado, Oklahoma; Gus Gober, of Quanah; J. S. Gober, of Sanger and Otis Gober of Dumas. She is survived by eight children, Mrs. Mary Watterman, of near Brookings, Ore., Mrs. Inez Melvin of Springfield, Ore., Mrs. Mel Lazarus, of Vervallis, Ore., Mrs. Julia C. Secor, of Bourbon, Mo.; Robt. G. Wright, of Denton; Leal M. Wright of Okla.; J. Pat Wright of Liberal, Kansas; and Fred Wright of Gordon, Arkansas. She is also survived by a number of grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Mrs. Wright would have been 73 years old on November 22 of this year.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

MIAMI STUDENTS TO UNIVERSITY.

Miss Lucile Gill and Eldon Dyer, go to the State University, Miss Lela Boney and Miss Claudia Everly, go to the C. I. A., all graduates of the Miami High School last spring. Most of them have taken the College entrance examination and are able to go direct to their respective schools. This is the first time in the History of our school where students have been able to go direct without having to spend a year in some preparatory school. There is not a better High School location in the Panhandle than Miami. You make no mistake in moving to Miami for school purposes.

BACK ON THE JOB.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Webster and daughter, Evelyn and the Chief force returned Monday afternoon from a two weeks camping and fishing trip in New Mexico and Colorado. Camping among the pines was fine, and the fishing was still finer. We put in from three to fifteen hours per day fishing, and in water from an inch to several hundred feet deep, but we always had plenty of fish, canned fish. There was not but one fish in the two states and it was only three inches in length.

CORDON BARN BURNS

Fred Gordon lost his barn by fire Tuesday afternoon of this week. The fire is supposed to have originated from matches lost by harvest hands who had been sleeping in it. Mr. Gordon was severely burned about the arms and face in getting out a horse. Several of the harvest hands lost their clothes in the fire, some feed was burned, and the good sized barn was a total loss.

HO! WOODWARD COMES

At twelve twenty Sunday afternoon, a special train from Woodward arrived in Miami with a five car load bunch of people from Woodward, Higgins, Glazier, Canadian and a few switches between here and there. The Woodward Ball Team, Band and a lot of real boosters came along and what we mean they took Miami for the remaining part of the day. They unloaded, marched right up the street led by the band and put on a real parade up Main Street, after which the band played a few "Sacred Selections" around the band stand and adjourned until three o'clock when they fell for the ball game.

The game was called for three o'clock but due to delay of some of the boys who went to Amarillo the night before the game was not started until four. The first three innings looked like a real ball game until a little row came up in the last part of the third, when Miami thought she was entitled to a score but had to give it up to keep from calling the game, and here Miami seemed to "Ascend" as the next time Woodward scored one run and in the fifth managed to get around for eight more. From here on out the game was a drag, and the spectators became very tired and all the "PEP" was gone. The final score was fifteen to ((0)) in favor of Woodward. Crow for Miami pitched a good game allowing only a few scattered hits, but errors that were very costly to Miami caused the game to go as it did. Our second baseman Dixon, was out and was missed several times when a real ball player was needed there. Dees at first played a fast game, hit very well and used good head work. Black at third missed several easy flies and some real hard ones got by also. Chisum at short spent Saturday night in Amarillo and had an awful time keeping from going to sleep Sunday, but he didn't though. Keffer, Voss and Cole, relieved by Caylor in the field, caught some very good ones and missed some better ones. Voss led the individual playing by making no errors, hitting two clean ones out of three times up, and showing up well on bases. Longfellow, receiving played a good game as usual and put the usual snap into things until he saw it was going to waste as it would interfere with the boys' slumber.

Now it looks hard for Miami to have to lose a game with such a score as that but had you stopped to think about it, what has the city of Miami done for her ball club this year?? Woodward has stood behind her team and aims to continue to do so. Miami has won fifteen out of nineteen games this year and that is a better record than Woodward holds, but her people stays right with her and makes them go, and you see they do go. The Woodward Commercial Club is strong for her ball club and they are responsible to a great extent for the special train that came up to Miami.

Any how it was a big day in Miami and we are glad to get a chance to see such things as this now and then as it might be a good example to set before the citizens of Miami, and let them see what interests the other cities take in their home interests.

From what we have heard this will be the last game Miami will be likely to play this year and we are proud of the record the boys have made and next year Miami is going to have a real ball club of home boys and support them if they have to call on the Salvation Army to help us out as they love to help those who help themselves.

Miami 10 Wheeler 6
The boys met Wheeler at Mobeetie Wednesday evening and defeated them by a score of ten to six. The ground was in an awful condition to play as there had been no ball played there this year, so you could not expect a very good game under such conditions. However, WE WON and that is what sounds interesting.

OPEN SEASON FOR NEGROES.

Dr. Horton says he was in Chicago while the race riots were raging, and by going out of his way he might have seen a great deal of it. However, he was busy at the University from eight till six, and had to study at night hence he did not see any white hoodlums pounce upon negroes. In fact for three days there was not a darky in sight on the main business streets, which in Chicago means something as in the postoffice alone over 500 negroes are employed.—Quanah Tribune Chief.

IT HAPPENED

Yes it did and we knew it was coming as Lee had told all the boys and carried a license to prove it for over a week. Lee Newman was Married last Wednesday night to Miss Allie Bussell of Canadian. Miss Bussell taught in the Miami school last winter where the young couple made their acquaintance. She has many friends here in Miami and especially among all the young folks who were so fortunate as to meet her while she was here last winter. You people don't have to be told anything about Lee, you know him too well now. He has been in business in Miami for the past three years with the exception of the time he was in Amarillo with the "Ladies Aid Band" last summer along with some of the rest of the Miami boys. Prior to going into business for himself he was in with his father in the hardware business and has always proved a very successful young man. Lee and wife will remain in Miami where Lee will continue his present Tailoring Business and they will start housekeeping in the very near future. We wish to join with many friends of both the young people in wishing them all the joys and happiness of married life, and trust that their lives will so blend as to make a pleasant home.

THE MORAL IS OBVIOUS

The following is an oft told story but shows what a fellow loses by not taking his home paper:

"A man who was too economical to subscribe for his home paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by a neighbor. In this haste the boy ran over a $4. stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His father ran to his assistance, and failing to notice the barb wire fence, ran into that cutting a hole in his anatomy and ruining a $5.00 pair of trousers. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran out, upset a four-gallon churn full of cream into a basket of little chickens drowning the entire batch. In her haste she dropped a $35 set of false teeth. The baby having been left alone ruining a brand new $25 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts on the clothesline.

An old darkey from one of the old states paid a visit to Texas. On his return home one of his 'white chillun' however, quite a grown man, was asking him about his trip and the country; "Well uncle Jim, what about the rain in Texas—does it ever rain there?" "Yassa! Oh yes boss it rains dar. But when it does, it rains with de least judgment of any place I ever saw."

Quite a large crowd of Mobeetie people attended the show here Monday night.

SUNDAY 31 INST.

Don't get in jam, but pass with crowd to Methodist Church for exercise of your faculties. Be popular

AND COME

Ex-Governor James E. Ferguson and his crowd of reformers met at Ft. Worth on the 14 inst., and organized what they termed the National American Party. They have left the democratic party, "jumped the fence," as Ferguson terms it. They hope to carry their reformation North East and West and become the undoing of both the old parties. At the same time Ex-Senator Joseph Bailey and his followers met in Fort Worth, and adopted a set of resolutions looking to the reformation of the democratic party. Both the Bailey and Ferguson crowds goes on record as opposed to Woman's suffrage and national prohibition. Of the two crowds Mr. Bailey's is deserving more respect. It is his right to reform the democratic party if he thinks it needs reforming and he can put over the job. We admire Bailey more than we do Ferguson and his crowd of bottlers. Reformation among the democrats should take place within the party and not in an independent party movement. It is only acting within his rights as a democrat to advocate his idea of government, and if he can get enough voters who sees things as he sees them then the democratic party will come around to his way of thinking. But how about the Ferguson Crowd? They have bolted the party, gone clear outside and have undertaken to organize an independent movement. He will not get anywhere in his new party movement and will not gain motion outside Texas, and then only by the few fellows he has left in his state. Jim Ferguson is as dead as a herring, and Joe Bailey has precious few followers in Texas.—Lockney Beacon.

THE TRAGEDY OF WANT

Our wants are many, some actual, some imaginary, but in the life of everyone comes a time when the want of money is tragic in that it drives us beyond the door of opportunity, makes emergency a giant which we cannot meet.

MUCH NECKWEAR

Women seem to have become much addicted to wearing neckpieces of many kinds. A little journey through shops and departments that carry neckwear reveals such a world of it and such a variety of it that there must be a great demand for all kinds of neckwear. Many of the pieces are intended to replace summer furs. These include scarfs made of plushes, ostrich boas, ostrich capes and capes of marabout feathers or marabout finished with ostrich fringe. This ostrich fringe, which appears like marabout in black, white and natural color, is used in borders and bands in scarfs of gold and silver tissue.

Some of the new plushes used for scarfs do not attempt a close imitation of fur but suggest the most popular summer furs, as ermine and broadtail and moleskin. Besides these there are some handsome satin scarfs and capes trimmed with narrow bands of real fur, shown with hats to match like the smart affair that is shown at the right of the two figures above. Rich silk tassels and silk embroidered motifs put this in a class with the handsomest furs.

Both ostrich and marabout make beautiful capes in the style of that shown at the right of the picture. Nearly all of these are in the natural taupe color of the feathers, but in ostrich capes and boas there is often a mixture of white and natural hues.

Ruffs made of malines in very full plaits and ruffs made of loops of wide satin ribbon are among old acquaintances that find themselves returned to favor, now that everything in neckwear proves to be of interest. They are not at all difficult to make, the plaits or loops are simply stitched on to a band that lies about the neck, and they fasten with ties of narrow satin ribbon.

Small chokers and other small neckpieces in furs appear to have displaced larger neckpieces and capes for summer wear and narrow scarfs of satin, finished at the ends with fringe, prove themselves a chic novelty on women who know how to wear them well.

A Bodice of Ribbon.
The bodice made entirely of ribbon is a feature of midsummer dance frocks—combined with skirts of either net, both silk and cotton; organdie, voile, lace and georgette.

'ALL DAY' DRESSES

One-piece dresses, to be worn in place of suits in and out of doors, received a great boost during the war. When tailors became scarce and the work of making street clothes went into the hands of dressmakers in Paris, the one-piece "all-day" dress began to replace suits. With the approval of Paris upon it, this style of street dress made great headway in America and appears to have established itself. The all-day dress, as it is called, appears, together with new suits, in the early showings of fall styles, sometimes having much the appearance of a suit and sometimes wholly different from one. These two types are shown together in the picture above.

These dresses are made up in the same quiet colors and of the same materials as suits, although colors cover a wider range than are usually presented in suits, and there is more latitude in the matter of decorations.

The dress at the left of the picture simulates a suit so closely that it is misleading. It will interest the girl who must soon be outfitted for college, because it is a youthful model that will see her through the fall without a wrap and prove comfortable in cold weather with the aid of a coat.

It has the appearance of a suit with skirt and short box coat belted in. But the coat turns out to be only a bodice, with fronts lengthened below the narrow belt and disappearing at the sides under a seam in the skirt. It has a satin vest, prettily embroidered, and a few very large bone buttons emphasize its novel features. They are set along the side seams in which the jacket fronts lose themselves and on the odd lapsels into which the collar lengthens. Wool velour is an ideal material for a dress of this kind.

The girl who aspires to look tall and slender should consider the long lines and simple composition of the dress at the right. The picture portrays it with so much fidelity that there is nothing that needs to be said about it. An underskirt of silk, with border of cloth, has the effect of a separate skirt, but the all-day dress is, above all things, convenient to put on, and this skirt is merely the lower part of a foundation that supports the dress. Any of the familiar and reliable wool suitings will serve to make these dresses.

Shipbuilding In College Courses

Many Institutions Will Include Naval Architecture in Curriculums.

TO BE DEMAND FOR EXPERTS

United States Shipping Board Is Encouraging and Fostering Plans for Development of Marine Architects and Engineers.

New York.—Schools of naval architecture and ship construction may soon become important branches of educational institutions of the United States if this nation continues its headway in maritime strength. Fourteen universities and technical colleges have signified their interest in a line of instruction that was decadent almost to the point of extinction when the needs of war presented a demand for ships that could not be denied, and some of them have already established courses in naval architecture, marine engineering and ship construction, while others are planning similar action.

The United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet corporation, which felt so keenly the lack of technicians in carrying out its shipbuilding program, and had to establish emergency schools for intensive training, is encouraging and fostering plans for the new schools in all institutions capable of expanding their fields of learning.

It is assumed by men in closest touch with the situation that the need for marine architects and engineers will grow as the yards expand and enter the open field of competition in construction for home and foreign account. On this assumption P. J. McMillan, manager of the division of ship construction, recently sent letters to universities and technical and preparatory schools which read as follows:

"Does your curriculum include a naval architecture course, and if so, would you be interested in receiving a copy of the following information pertaining to ships and ship construction?"

"1—Technical order (covering change and alteration for vessels).

- "2—Proposed standardization of rolled steel ships.
- "3—Trial trip data.
- "4—Reference data book of various steel vessels.
- "5—Structural steel for ships.

Herbert L. Seward, assistant professor of mechanical engineering at Sheffield Scientific School, Yale university, wrote:

"I would be very glad indeed to receive the 15 items you mention. We are planning and developing courses in marine engineering, and this material seems very appropriate."

Italy Is Hard Hit by Coal Famine

All Other Problems Pale Before Paralysis of Big Industries

LACK OF FUEL STOPS WORK

Nation Will Be Ruined if Aid Is Long Withheld—Price of Coal Is $50 a Ton When It Is to Be Had at All.

you go round and round all the problems which are causing strikes throughout the country—dear living, lack of raw materials, transports, dear foreign money, and you always get back to coal. Without coal there are no industries, without industries there is no exports, without exports there is no money, and so it goes on.

Discontent with economic conditions is general, yet Italy has no coal at home and no transports to go and fetch it from America, where she could get it cheaper than anywhere else.

Rome.—Italians are struck by the similarity of problems which face citizens of this small country and of the big, rich and most prosperous United States. They read of food profiteering, of rent profiteering, of railroad deficits, rub their eyes and exclaim: "Is it possible that even America, that gold-mine amongst countries, has these worries, just as we have?" Even the Italian public school teachers' strike which has driven millions of mothers to distraction, seems to have a faint reflection on the other side.

But one problem here has no counterpart in America. It is the coal famine. This is the worst trouble this country has to face. Everything else pales before it, for the lack of coal is paralyzing industry, closing factories and casting thousands of men and women out of employment. People who listen with or without approval, to D'Annunzio's wild diatribes against Americans and especially against President Wilson, know at the back of their minds that only the coal famine really matters.

MRS. ETHEL PARKS.

War Shipbuilding Loss Is Billion and Half

Washington.—The United States will have to write off on its books a loss of approximately $1,500,000,000 on account of its merchant shipbuilding program. It was said by congressmen familiar with the merchant marine problems that confronted this country at the beginning of the war, and the herculean efforts made by the government during the war to supply the needed ships.

"Had the war lasted another year the advantages and benefits of this wonderful effort and vast outlay of money would have been clearly apparent to all," commented Representative Alexander, former chairman of the house merchant marine committee.

Alexander is assisting in shaping a permanent national merchant shipping policy and in fashioning legislation that will guide the country in its future handling of the great fleet of merchant ships it now owns and may continue to own for some years to come.

Coal Scarcity Threatens Ruin.

Every thinking man and woman here knows that unless the coal famine is stopped, ruin will soon stare Italy in the face. Her coal supply which must be entirely imported, is never enough to last for more than a few weeks.

Italy pays $30 a ton for coal that costs $15 in France, $10 in England and $8 in Germany. The Italian government has tried to get big coal contracts with American mine owners, American coal, at the pit's mouth is cheaper than any other. But Italy cannot get the transports except at prohibitive luxury. Italy had no coal mines destroyed during the war, because she had none to be destroyed. Italy has suffered from coal shortage worse than any other country, and still suffers.

Lack of Coal Basis of Problems.
The question is like a magic circle,

PLANT RIGHT KIND OF TREES
Expert on Subject Offers Advice to Outdoor Art Committees of Town Booster Clubs.

Booster clubs for town planning and civic improvements are the outgrowth of our war-time defensive patriotic leagues. Our suburban should not overlook this opportunity to utilize these war-time organizations for the furthering of their communities. Many interesting and beautiful beautification of your town can be carried on, for the improvement and beautification of your town, following as being important, interesting and practical.

Have your boosters' club appointed an outdoor art committee. The members of this committee should be those who can give considerable time and public spirited, self-sacrificing and appreciate what town improvement means. This committee should recommend the adoption of an ordinance for the protection and regulation of planting on all the public streets.

It should condemn the planting of soft wood short-lived varieties of like the willow, boxelder, cottonwood, poplar and soft maples. All of these are a nuisance and in many cases destructive. The roots of the willow poplars and cottonwoods fill the streets and injure pavements, while box elders and soft maples are seriously affected by insect and diseases.

Only the hardwood long-lived varieties should be recommended by committee, such trees as the American elm, red and pin oaks, sycamores, way maples, lindens, ginkgo, tree locusts, etc. These trees will grow several hundred years old, are seriously affected by insect and diseases and seldom look shabby unsightly.—J. H. Prost in Chicago Daily News.

BILLBOARDS HIT BY DECISION

By Ruling of Supreme Court May Be Barred From Residential Districts.

The power granted cities by United States Supreme court to designate billboards together in the residential districts is hailed with jubilation by the American Civic association in a bulletin which it issues to protect the millions of dollars invested in homes and civic improvements was rendered in the case of the Chicago company against Chicago.

The Civic association, in the strictest language, urges communities to protect themselves from the intrusion of billboards in the residential districts. It calls the billboards "eyesores which depreciate property values."

Los Angeles already has taken advantage of the power given it by Supreme court to bar billboards from all parts of the city except business districts. Whether a block is a business district is determined by written consent of the owners of 75 per cent of the property in the block and the two adjoining blocks.

So it will take the permission of owners of two-thirds of the front in three blocks to erect billboards along one block.

The billboards may be banished any time upon the request of owners of 35 per cent of the front.—Kansas City Star.

Appropriate Gardens.

Much that has been said in regard to the house applies equally well to the garden. Let its style be determined by locality. Formal garden with neat hedges and direct paths more and more appropriate as we approach the conventionalities of life. Leave the picturesque garden to spacious, picturesque surroundings. Winding paths and other features the natural garden require to be of to nature. An orchard is both useful and more beautiful in the proximity of the small house that is far from town. The cost of maintenance is least in the orchard garden with paved paths, flowering shrubs and borders of perennials.

No Need of Haste.

There was a rookie in the squad I was in who objected strongly to drilling. He executed "square right" and "squad left" in gloom and silence, but when "double time" was given he growled loud enough for the whole squad to hear, "Hey, what's a hurry? We ain't goin' nowhere!" Chicago Tribune.

DO NOT NEGLECT HERD BOAR

Management Is Important Part in Raising Strong, Healthy Pigs—Deserves Best Care.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The management of the boar is a very important part in the raising of strong, healthy pigs, and one which is sometimes neglected. He should be the most valuable animal in the whole herd, and as such deserves the best of attention. The boar should be purchased from a breeder of pure-bred hogs when between eight months and one year of age. Many breeders, however, purchase a boar when a weanling pig, but to be successful in this choice requires a wide experience and sound judgment. Aged boars which have proved their worth can sometimes be purchased at a reasonable price. It is much safer for an inexperienced breeder to buy an old, active boar than a young untried boar. If possible, the farmer should visit the herd where the boar was raised and note the conditions under which he was bred. At any rate, it is always possible to obtain from the breeder notes on the health and kind and amount of feeds used, so as to serve as an index to his subsequent treatment.

Upon arriving at the farm the boar should be unloaded as soon as possible and placed in quarantine to guard against the introduction of disease into the herd. If he is lousy it is well to treat this condition at once. His feed should be a continuation of that to which he has been accustomed, feeding rather lightly the first few days until he recovers from the strain of shipping and becomes accustomed to his new surroundings. If it is not feasible to continue feeding as previously indicated, the change to a more convenient ration should be made very gradually in order not to disturb the appetite or health of the animal.

Champion Duroc-Jersey Boar.

Animal. As a rule, a pig 8 to 12 months old will be in proper breeding condition when received unless he has been very heavily overfed. In purchasing an older boar, particularly one which has been in the show circuit, it is often necessary to reduce his condition before attempting to breed. With some animals the breeding power is permanently impaired by too high condition at some time in their life. The boar should be well fed but not fat, as a too high condition makes him inactive, a slow breeder, and a rather uncertain sire. After the breeding season the boar should not be fed so heavily, and should have a wider ration, that is, one containing less of the protein concentrates and relatively more corn. The ration at this time is practically the same as that fed the brood sow when she is not producing a litter of pigs. He should have the run of a pasture a quarter of an acre in area in connection with his paddock. Here he can exercise and obtain much of his feed from the forage, or in the winter when the forage is consumed he may be fed on alfalfa or clover hay in connection with the grain ration. Keep the boar healthy, give him exercise, plenty of rough feeds, and keep him in condition by varying his supply of grain. Under such conditions little trouble will be experienced in getting a normal boar to produce large litters of strong, healthy pigs.

PIG CLUB MEMBERS PROSPER

Some Have Been at Work Long Enough to Have Porks for Sale and Make Money.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Pig club members in Florida are working up an industry among themselves. Some of the members who have been in club work long enough to have some pigs for sale are disposing of their stock to other club members. One club boy has sold $100 worth of pigs to club members this year. Another, who joined the pig club two years ago, is now furnishing pigs to other members, and says he is glad he went into the club work, and believes that every boy and girl who can do so should join.

ATTENTION TO BROOD SOWS

After Weaning Her Pigs She Should Be Kept on Pasture and Fed Gaining Grain Ration.

The sow having weaned her pigs, should be kept on pasture and fed a gaining grain ration to build up her system and flesh for re-breeding, and provide nourishment for the oncoming fall litter.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

In the good old summer time when fruits of all kinds are getting ripe and tempting, when cucumbers, radishes and vegetables fresh from the garden are too good to resist, when the festive picnic prevails and everybody overeats and your stomach goes back on you, then is the time for "August Flower," the sovereign remedy for tired, overworked and disordered stomachs, a panacea for indigestion, fermentation of food, sour stomach, sick headache and constipation. It gently stimulates the liver, cleanses the intestines and alimentary canal, making life worth living. Sold everywhere. Adv.

He Was Learning.

An Indianapolis physician has a new office boy, who himself has ambitions to become a doctor. The other day a little girl came into the office and asked to see the doctor. "He isn't in just now," informed the boy, and in the conversation that followed asked her who was sick.

"My papa," answered the little girl. "And I just wanted some medicine for him. He isn't sick enough for the doctor to come to see him."

The office boy thought a minute. Then, "Is he insured?" he asked.

The little girl nodded that he was. The look of hesitation left the office boy's face. "All right!" he said, "I'll fix him some medicine."

Hopes for a Change.

The weary and pallid little man entered the drug store.

"Do you keep 'Rixie's Reviver'?" he asked.

"Yes," said the druggist.

"Gimme six bottles for my wife!"

"Tried all other remedies without success, eh?" said the druggist, conversationally.

"No; she ain't ill at all. But I saw in the advertisement where a woman wrote, after taking six bottles, 'I am a different woman!'"

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

A Woman's Place.

Discussing the mooted question, "woman's place in the home," Representative Foster of Ohio said on the floor of the house the other day:

"Out in my country a fellow's wife was taken to a hospital for the insane and her husband called to discuss her case with a physician. 'I can't for the life of me understand what made that woman crazy,' the husband said; 'she hasn't been out of her own kitchen in seven years.'"

A blunt man frequently makes the most cutting remarks.

TOO MUCH FOR THE OCULIST

That Kind of Shortsightedness Was Something for Which He Had No Cure.

A woman consulted an oculist about her husband's eyesight, saying she wanted a very strong pair of glasses for him.

"I fear I cannot recommend glasses without first seeing your husband," the oculist said.

"He won't come at any price," was the reply.

"Then tell me something about him. Can he see objects at a distance, or does he experience difficulty when reading? For instance, can he see that pigeon flying above us?"

"Rather," the woman said. "He'd spot a pigeon on the wing quicker than he'd see an airplane, especially if he'd got a bet on it. What I want yer to cure is his short sightedness when he's looking for a job. He's been lookin' for work for the last ten years and never got any to suit his fastidious eyesight yet."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

DELICATE HINT FOR AUNTIES

Little Marian's Cleverly Conveyed Reproof to Her Altogether Too Fastidious Relatives.

The two spinster aunts really did have a very beautiful house, but they were too particular about it to suit their small niece and nephew, who had become tired of being told to "be careful" in this room, and "don't touch anything" in that one.

And Marian decided very tactfully to let them know about it, too. So one day when she and her brother Billy were in the presence of their aunts she began a conversation on the subject of their future careers. After John had named his as that of a lawyer, Marian announced that she was going to be a school teacher like her aunts.

"And Billy, since I'm going to be an old maid, I don't expect you'd better get married, either," she told him. "It would be awful hard on your children when they came to my house to be told to be careful so much."

In after years a courtship may be converted into a battleship.

Bad luck occasionally happens to be a good thing after it is over.

No young man ever considers his best girl too good to be true.

Governor Hobby vetoed the appropriation for teaching German in the state university. He said, "I believe it conducive to purer Americanism to eliminate the subject as one for special instruction in the schools of Texas."

Governor Hobby signed the bill requiring producers of oil and gas to keep a record of the production, the amount of money derived from stock sales, and their promotion expenses. In addition, the new law requires the books of the company to be kept available for inspection by the railroad commission and persons interested in affairs of the company.

A fine of $500 has been assessed against a retail grocer in Binghamton, N. Y., for selling sugar at 15 cents a pound. So far as we know, this is the first concrete act against profiteering. Following this comes the announcement that Oklahoma City wholesalers have agreed to cut the price of sugar to retailers to prices prevailing during the war. Announcement is also made that Department of Justice men are being called from vacations to help fight down the cost of living, and that the Government Secret Service will be used to ascertain who is profiteering. This will undoubtedly give some relief. Now, if we will live in a sane, economical manner and get prices right on anything we may have to sell we may expect the situation to gradually become adjusted. — Vernon Record.

NO BOOZE, SO HE BOUGHT A HOME.

When Coatesville, a steel town in Pennsylvania, went dry, a Polack workman appeared to Charles L. Houston, head of the great Lukens Steel and Iron works, saying, "No beer, no whiskey, me no kin work." The man no doubt believed it. Houston urged him to try the experiment, telling him he would have to get along without beer and whiskey somehow. A few weeks later the same man came back to Houston's office with a smiling face. This time he said, "No beer, no whiskey, me buy a house!" The head of this big steel works believes thousands of workmen's houses will be built this year on money saved by prohibition.

The Alabama Minstrels were with us Monday night and gave a program to a capacity tent. They had some real good wire acting and "Lumber Jim" acrobatic stunts. The jokes were also very fine, in fact they were so good that they live forever, or at least have been on the job for the past fifty years.

CURE FOR DYSENTERY

"While I was in Ashland, Mo., a gentleman overheard me speak of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes William Whitt of Des Moines, Iowa. "He told me in detail of what it had done for his family, but more especially his father who was lying at the point of death with a violent attack of dysentery, and had been given up by family physicians. Some of his brothers advised him to give Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy which he did, and fully believed by doing so saved the life of his child. He stated that he also tried this remedy himself with equally satisfying results."

First Offering of the WOLF CREEK OIL CO.

Our Program

The aim of the organizers of this company is to produce oil. We propose making this an OIL COMPANY in every sense of the word; in doing so—THREE things are essential, namely: MANAGEMENT, SUFFICIENT OPERATING CAPITAL AND ACREAGE—these three plus expert advice in selecting acreage spell DIVIDENDS.

We assure each and every shareholder of a square deal.

We intend drilling our well to a depth of 4000 feet unless oil or gas is found in paying quantities at lesser depth.

We will start drilling just as soon as a sufficient amount of stock can be sold, and will prosecute the work with all diligence until the well is completed.

Should we get production we guarantee our shareholders 75 per cent of the net profit derived from the well, the remaining 25 per cent to be used for further development.

In order to insure our shareholders against loss of their original investment, it is our purpose to sell either 2000 of 3000 acres of (or) lease after the well is spudded in; by so doing we should have sufficient funds in our treasury to return to each shareholder the amount of his or her investment, this is your SAFETY should we bring in a dry hole.

If we get a well, which we are sincerely confident of doing, we still have acreage enough to make all of us an enormous profit; if we are fortunate enough to get one of those 5,000 to 10,000 barrel gushers our stock will be worth as much as Hog Creek which is now selling around $15,000 a share.

OUR HOLDINGS

Our holdings consist of 4000 acres oil and gas leases in Lipscomb county about nine miles from the town of Lipscomb and located on the Barton ranch.

We have gone over this ground thoroughly and are of the opinion that it is on as fine a structure as any in this state.

Our lease lays in the center of a circle of locations for drill sites which is the best evidence of its value.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

It is conceded by some of the best geologists and oil men in general that one of the greatest oil fields ever known will be opened in this Panhandle country and it is our firm belief and conviction that our lease is in the part of what will be the producing area.

Certainly it is wildcat, but all undeveloped territory is wildcat and were it not for wildcatting there would be no production.

Now this decidedly a local Company the success of which depends upon local support and we ask yours to the full.

Remember, the old axiom still holds good—"If you would make money in the oil game stay ahead of the drill."

PROFITS

The profits in the oil business have been so widely advertised since the discovery of Burkburnett and other Texas oil fields that comment is unnecessary, however, we will call your attention to the following paragraph:

Hugh N. Fitzgerald in the New York Financial World estimates the total investment in the Burkburnett field at $13,000,000.00 while $30,000,000.00 have been taken from it leaving a net profit of $17,000,000.00 in less than nine (9) months.

If oil is found in this immense empire, "the Panhandle," the above profits will be a small item by way of comparison.

Now we know that you have the development of this part of the state at heart, we know that you want to make clean legitimate money, so come in with us for all you can afford to buy.

EDITING A NEWSPAPER

Editing a newspaper is a pleasant business—if you can stand it.

If it contains any advertisements the subscribers claim they take too much space.

If there is a scarcity of advertising, it is unpopular, and the people won't have it.

If we attend church regularly, they say we do it for effect.

If we stay away from church they say we are monstrously heathenish.

If we accept an invitation to a wedding, they say we are invited to write it up.

If we are on the streets much they say we neglect our business.

If we avoid going on the street they say we don't hustle around after the news.

If we reject a long-winded communication, its author becomes furiously enraged and discontinues his paper.

If we publish lengthy communications, our subscribers say we lack discretion, and put it in to fill up.

If we omit to decorate our office they say we lack enterprise, and that there isn't a drop of patriotic blood in our degenerate carcass.

If we omit jokes, they say we are poor, miserable fossils.

If we are single they say we are too helpless to get married.

If we are married they say it is a pity on your wife.

If we publish a man who has brought disgrace upon his family the friends of the family never forgive us.

If we decline to say anything on the subject, the man's enemies are disappointed, and we are branded as white-livered cowards.

We are liable to receive these raps and many more, and we are always ready to receive visitors, whether accompanied by a dog or not. Of course we do not claim there is any work in running a newspaper. Everybody knows it's a snap. —Forney News.

GREEN FANCY

BY GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Author of "GRAUSTARK," "THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND," "THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK," "FROM THE HOUSETOPS," ETC.

"SHE IS LYING AWAKE"

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy.

"With the landlord's approval," he explained, pointing to the instrument, "but unknown to the telephone company, you may be sure. Call him up about half past ten. O'Dowd may be up at this unholy hour, but not she. Now I must be off to discuss literature with Mrs. Jim Conley.

"Hello! How Are You This Morning?" nothing in return. After some delay O'Dowd's mellow voice sang out: "Hello! How are you this morning?"

"By the way, O'Dowd, I'd like to speak with Miss Cameron if she can come to the telephone." "Don't be surprised if you are cut off suddenly. The coast is clear for the moment, but—Here, Miss Cameron. Careful now."

CHAPTER XIII.

The Second Wayfarer Receives Two Visitors at Midnight.

The coroner's inquest over the bodies of Roon and Paul was held that afternoon at St. Elizabeth. Witnesses from Hart's Tavern were among those to testify. The verdict was "Murder at the hands of parties unknown."

"I have some cause for believing that one of those chaps in there is from Green Fancy. Go to bed at ten o'clock, my friend, and put out your light. I don't insist on your taking off your clothes, however. I will rap on your door at eleven o'clock. By the way, don't forget to stick your revolver in your pocket."

"I haven't the remotest idea." "About a quarter of a mile below Curtis' house. Are you all right?" "Fine as a fiddle, except for a barked knee and a skinned elbow, a couple of more or less busted ribs. We banged into more trees than—"

"Grievously lonesome," replied Barnes, and wound up a doleful account of himself by imploring O'Dowd to save his life by bringing the entire Green Fancy party over to dinner that night.

"Telegraph," he whispered. "It's a system they have of reporting to each other. There are two men patrolling the grounds near the house. You see what we're up against, Barnes. Do you still want to go on with it?" "I'll stay by you," replied Barnes sturdily.

"My God! Have You Killed Him?"

and—again silence. Barnes' blood ran cold. He waited for the next footfall of the passing man. It never came. A sharp whisper reached his ears, "Come here—quick!"

"I came prepared," said Sprouse, so calmly that Barnes marveled at the iron nerve of the man. "By heaven, Sprouse, I—I believe he's dead. We—we haven't any right to kill a—"

"Without the slightest hesitation he struck a succession of quick, confident blows upon the block of wood." "By gad, you are a wonder!" "Wait till tomorrow before you say that," replied Sprouse, sententiously.

"Quite right. You ought to know. I suppose you thought I was bringing you up here for a Romeo and Juliet tete-a-tete with the beautiful Miss Cameron—and for nothing else. Well, in a way, you are right. But, first of all, my business is to recover the crown jewels and parchments. I am going into that house and take them away from the man you know as Loeb, if he has them. If he hasn't them my work here is a failure."

"Going into the house?" gasped Barnes. "Why, my God, man, that is impossible. You would be shot down as an ordinary burglar and—the law would justify them for killing you. I must insist—"

"I am not asking you to go into the house, my friend. I shall go alone," said Sprouse coolly. "On the other hand, I came up here to rescue a helpless—"

"I am outside with a trusted friend, ready to do your bidding. Two of the guards are safely bound and out of the way. Now is our chance. We will never have another. If you are prepared to come with me now write me a word or two and drop it to the ground. I will pass up a rope to you and you may lower anything you wish to carry away with you. But be exceedingly careful. Take time. Don't hurry a single one of your movements." He signed it with a large "B."

It seemed an hour before their eyes distinguished the shadowy head above. As a matter of fact but a few minutes had passed. During the wait Sprouse had noiselessly removed his coat, a proceeding that puzzled Barnes. Something light fell to the ground. It was Sprouse who stooped and searched for it in the grass. When he resumed an upright posture he put his lips close to Barnes' ear and whispered:

Barnes, Sprouse and "Miss Cameron" have an exciting night at Green Fancy.

DANGER OF WOOD FAMINE IS SEEN

Trees in Forests Must Be Replaced or Great Scarcity Will Result.

SAW MILLS SMALL FACTOR

Pulp Mills Eat Up Many Millions of Spruce Every Year—Scientific Forestry Has Not Caught Up to Tree Slaughter.

Bangor, Me.—When the world gets through with its arguments about war, peace, the (or a) League of Nations and all that is expressed in the short and ugly word "rum," it should turn its most serious and intelligent attention to tree farming. Positively, there must be many more trees, or a constant and liberal replenishment of the existing supply, or presently we shall suffer great inconvenience from the scarcity of many useful and some ornamental things.

In the simple and innocent old times a tree was just so much standing lumber, and lumber was cheap. Within the memory of men of middle age first-class spruce logs sold in Bangor at $11 to $14 per thousand feet. The men who cut the logs were paid $18 to $20 a month and board, the board consisting chiefly of a bunk to sleep in and "beans twenty-one times a week." The men who "drove" the same logs, that is, personally conducted them down the roaring brooks and raging rivers, received for their labors and hair-raising risks, $2.25 to $3 a day, according to their athletic skill and their fame as "white water men," and of course all hands were fed, although the menu was characterized by monotonous simplicity and the service subject to many irregularities and postponements. These same logs were sawed in mills that ornamented the banks of the Penobscot for fifty miles or more, chiefly between Milford and Bangor, a distance of about fifteen miles. The mill hands went to work very early in the morning and kept at it until long after everyone else had quit for the day, being rewarded to the extent of about $30 a month and all the corned beef, cabbage, etc., they could eat in twenty to thirty minutes, three or four times a day, according to season.

Profit to Manufacturer.

The sweet-smelling spruce that was sliced off by the saws was worth $14 to $21 per thousand feet, according to quality and dimensions. This would seem to allow of slight profit to the manufacturer, but there are various ways of measuring logs and lumber—woods scale, boom scale and mill scale—and during the golden era of Bangor's spruce trade the jugglery of figures was such that 1,000 feet of logs, boom scale would "saw out" anywhere from 1,150 to 1,400 feet of lumber, 1,200 feet being a fair average. So, even in the gloomiest days, when heavy spruce dimensions were selling at $21 to $23 and the Bangor mill men would sit in their offices chewing tobacco and cussing the hard times, they were in fact making a pretty good thing—especially if they happened to own the land the logs were cut from.

Then, last of all, the coasters who carried the lumber to Boston, the Sound and New York got $1.75, $2.25 and $2.50 per thousand feet for delivery at those several destinations—that is, the rates quoted prevailed during fairly good times. In dull times lumber was carried from Bangor to Boston as cheaply as $1.25 to $1.50 per thousand, to Long Island sound ports at $1.75 to $2, and to New York at $2 to $2.25.

Now everything is changed. Of Maine's normal log cut of 1,000,000-600 feet, at least 60 per cent goes in to pulp and paper. The native logger, who swung a sharp ax skillfully at $18 to $20 a month and was content to live on baked beans and salted fish, has been succeeded by a polyglot mob that uses saws languidly at $50 to $60 a month, demands hotel fare, frequent payments, polite treatment and every few weeks a vacation. The logs for the most part, are cut into four-foot lengths, and they go to the big pulp and paper mills owned by corporations that long ago bought up hundreds of thousands of acres of the best timber in Maine.

Logging used to begin in November and end in March. Now it goes on at all seasons.

Saw Mills Small Factor.
The saw mill is a small factor in the great game of turning Maine forests into money. The long logger, that is, he who cuts for sawmills, is almost extinct. The big sawmill drives are seen no more. This is the day of the "four-foot stuff" which makes up most of the drives and gives business to the railroads. The pulp mills eat up so many millions of feet of spruce that speculative and statistical persons wonder where it all comes from and how long the supply will last. So far as Maine is concerned there need be no fear of a wood famine very soon, but at the present rate of cutting there is bound to be a scarcity in the United States within a few years that will send prices kiting.

The present annual consumption of pulp wood east of the Mississippi river is about 7,000,000 cords, or 3,500,000,000 feet. That is using wood at a reckless rate, even with a big supply in sight. But there is a greater drain upon our wood resources. Fire takes more than the mills. The eastern slope of the Rockies is 75 per cent burnt land, and the timber map is spotted with great black patches all the way from Puget sound to the Penobscot. In some parts of Maine the burnt area greatly exceeds the green. In the South the pine and the cypress are being cut away at an alarming rate, and in the Pacific states the Douglas fir and other growths are being turned into money as rapidly as possible.

To make up for all the cutting, little is being done. Scientific forestry is making some progress, but as yet efforts in that direction are as nothing compared with tree slaughter. Reforestation is being carried on in some states, as on a small scale, in Maine, but a tree doesn't grow in a day. A big spruce may be felled in five minutes, but its reproduction will require 40 years.

It is not altogether a question of wood supply, either. As the forests go the floods will come, waterpowers will fall and all industry will suffer. Therefore, there must be a lot of tree planting in this country, else pretty much everything will go by the board.

Advance in Pulp Wood Values.

The advance in pulp wood values within 30 months has been remarkable, even for the times. Before the entrance of this country into the war, peeled wood delivered in the mill yard in Maine was worth $9 a cord. Now the price is $18 in Maine and in New York state $23 a cord. This advance is due in part to higher wages and in part to a little profiteering or a turn of thrift by the land owners. Wages before the war, that is, up to the spring of 1917, were $30 to $35 a month and board. In 1918 and 1919 the rate jumped to $60 to $65 a month, and in some instances as high as $75 or $85 has been paid. Just now, because Maine is pretty well stocked, the demand for labor and the price show a declining tendency. But in the United States as a whole the supply of wood is short of the demand, and there seems to be no prospect of lower prices either of labor or product.

OUTDOOR EXERCISE HELPS.

Private Renner and his wife and children at the farm used in connection with Ward 55, Columbia Base Hospital No. 1, where the experiment is being tried to determine whether light outdoor exercise hastens recovery.

One operator in Maine, a Massachusetts man, who got into the lumber business through his love of nature, cut last year on Molunness and the east branch of the Penobscot 30,000 cords, or 15,000,000 feet, of pulp wood and 5,000,000 feet of long logs, and will cut this year 40,000 cords, or 20,000,000 feet of pulp wood, employing 600 men at $62 a month and board or for piece work, $3.50 to $3.75 a cord.

The common impression is that all wood pulp is made into paper and that the increased demand for newspaper alone is responsible for the denudation of our forest lands. It is true that most of the pulp goes to satisfy the appetite of the printing presses, but there have been developed in recent years many and various other uses for the fiber of the spruce and poplar. Innumerable articles are now made of wood pulp—doors, dishes, buttons, boards, boxes, pie plates by the million, trunks and car wheels, and milady who parades the avenue, proud of her gown of tricolette, may be surprised to learn that in that silken fabric is woven the fiber of the spruce—that she owes something of the luster and durable texture of her finery to the fragrant forests of Maine.

NEW EYELIDS MADE FROM LEG

Operation Restores Sight of Maine Man Injured Forty-Seven Years Ago.

Bangor, Me.—Forty-seven years without closing his eyes, then a period of total blindness, followed by complete restoration of sight, this is the experience of John Randolph Watson of the town of Standish.

Mr. Watson was a photographer in Indiana, and in 1856 an explosion of chemicals burned away his eyelids, although the sight was not affected. But with unprotected eyes he continued for nearly half a century, three years of the period being spent in Alaska, where the severity of the climate caused cataracts to form on both eyes and results in loss of sight.

He went to Philadelphia later, where he formerly lived for a time, and was at the Hahnemann hospital, and by grafting flesh from his leg he got a new set of eyelids. The success of the operation is now assured. The cataracts were removed and the sight has been restored.

"Income Unsettled."

Amsterdam.—"Income Unsettled" was the return made by ex-Crown Prince William of Germany, in response to the Dutch collector's request for details. The collector is asking the government, "How about it?"

Vermin Adds to Cost of Producing Pork

Washington, D. C.—Lice add a cent a pound to the cost of producing pork. This has been found in tests just completed at the experiment farm of the United States department of agriculture at Beltsville, Md. Twenty-four lousy hogs were secured and divided into two lots as nearly equal as to quality of animals as possible.

The two lots were managed and fed the same way with the exception that one lot was treated to prevent lice. The animals were weighed at regular intervals and at the end of the fattening period it was found that the hogs infested with lice cost a cent a pound more to fatten than those which were free of the troublesome pest.

The officials of the department who had charge of this experiment give an interesting side light in connection with securing the lousy animals. They communicated with some of the department's field men, asking them to locate lousy hogs. It was some time before a reply was received to this surprising order. After the lousy hogs were purchased the owner learned why, and he immediately built a dipping vat and began to treat the animals to prevent lice.

Coming Fast for Fidele.

New York.—Within the space of three hours, the stork left triplets—six boys—at the home of Fidele Cataldo, his rabbit presented him with ten new bunnies and the family cat announced two new arrivals. Cataldo, who was already the father of eight children on $4.20 per day, is looking for extra work.

Girl's Steer Gained.

Goshen, Ind.—Maxwellton, a thoroughbred steer, fattened by Miss Bernice Gallup, residing east of Goshen, has gained more than 200 pounds since April 3d. A gain of 150 pounds was brought about in one month.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Each day is a fresh beginning. Wise is he who takes today and lives it—and tomorrow when it comes—but not before it comes. The past is of value only by way of the lessons it has brought us.

FOOD FOR THE SICK.

A tempting tray with a change of china, using the prettiest in the house will interest the patient, and he will know and appreciate that the preparation of his food and tray is a pleasure. In the measure in which it is demonstrated. When no invalid tray is provided use a large tray and support it over the patient's lap with books on each side. This will take away the weight and dread of spilling food.

Cereals are such important foods for the ill that it is fitting that thought should be put upon their preparation. For a liquid diet all cereals are prepared in the same way, using two to three tablespoonfuls to a quart of water. Cook for several hours in a double boiler and strain before serving. A thick cereal is cooked as for breakfast food, but cooked a long time.

Chicken Broth.—A good broth may be prepared from the neck, wing tips and feet of a chicken. Scald the feet, removing the skin and nails. Cover with cold water adding celery and let it simmer gently for two hours. Season and strain.

Mutton Broth.—Cut one pound of the neck of mutton in small pieces. Cover with cold water and simmer gently for several hours. Season and strain through a cheesecloth. Add a tablespoonful of boiled rice or barley at serving time. This adds to the nourishment. All fat should be removed before serving. Chill, then reheat after taking off the fat.

Creamed Sweetbreads.—Soak a pair of sweetbreads in cold water an hour, changing the water several times. Simmer in hot water until tender. Add salt and a few celery leaves for flavor. When done dip in cold water and separate into small pieces, removing the membrane. Save the broth in which they were cooked as it makes delicate soup, adding a little milk and seasoning. Put the sweetbreads into a cream sauce and serve on toast or in ramekins.

Lemon Jelly.—Soak a tablespoonful of gelatin in three tablespoonfuls of cold water; add three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water and four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and five tablespoonfuls of sugar. Stir until dissolved. Pour into a wet mold and put on ice to harden. This makes two servings.

Plain Sponge Cake.—Beat two eggs, separating whites and yolks; add one-half cupful of sugar, and a flavoring of lemon juice and rind to the beaten yolks; then add the whites and fold in one-half cupful of flour. Bake in a moderate oven until the cake shrinks from the pan.

A sunny, bright, and buoyant, chronically buoyant disposition is one of the most desirable and enviable qualities of character that anyone, man, woman or child, can possess.

SERVING THE SUMMER MEAL.
In the homes where it is necessary to use economy (and that means 80 to 90 per cent of our people) the using of leftovers wisely and acceptably is usually a daily problem. Because the members of the family shy at anything reheated, made over or hashed, the problem becomes one which takes finesse on the part of the menu planner. The preparation of a leftover into an appetizing dish takes vastly more thought than the ordinary one, which is often the reason why such dishes are not acceptable; they are prepared with too little thought.

The reason so many men balk at salads is because they are used as the clearing house for leftovers. There is something out of balance with a person who has not learned to enjoy crisp, well-blended salads, or well-cooked and seasoned vegetables, but no one can be blamed for refusing unattractive food.

In meeting people and making friends we try to be as agreeable as it is possible to be. Why not use the same method in combining foods, by putting a little originality into the seasonings, and make a new dish welcome?

We have favorite foods as we have favorite friends, yet it is not possible nor wise for us to always be served with the foods we like best or associate with people always agreeable.

Daintiness should be the keynote in the serving of the summer meal, as attractive dishes sharpen the appetite.

By following the advice of Horace Fletcher and chewing the food three times as long as usual, the appetite is satisfied with a smaller amount of food and the body has less waste to throw off, thus saving wear on the human machinery. "Eat less, work more, worry less, walk more," is a good motto for the whole year as well as for hot weather.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE FIELDS.

"It was in the summer time that the fields were waving and chatting and saying these things to each other. Of course they were at their best and the season had been just right for them.

"There had been enough rain but not too much, enough sunshine but not too much. In fact, it had been quite a perfect season so far.

"The fields always spoke of things having been nice so far for they never knew what the weather was going to be any more than the farmers did, and they heard the farmers talking in that way to each other.

"So the fields used to wonder if it would be dry and without even any showers for the rest of the season, or whether it would rain every day and hurt them!

"But this special day they were feeling very well and very happy.

"I'm so good for food," said the barley field. "I am pretty and feathery, too."

"I'm such a lovely pale green color," said the oats.

"And I am good and substantial looking," said the winter wheat.

"I am very good for the feed of animals," said the oats, "and so are peas."

"I come in pretty usefully myself," said the winter wheat.

"How about me?" asked the sorrel, a plant with yellowish blossoms.

"All right," said the oats, "but I am such a lovely shade of green."

"You admire yourself, eh?" asked the sorrel.

"I do," said the oats.

"So do I," remarked the winter wheat.

"And I like myself, too," said the barley field. "We are liked by others," it added.

"We are, too," said the winter wheat.

"Ah, ah, ah, don't boast too much," said a voice.

"And who are you, pray tell?" the fields asked. "Why shouldn't we boast when we have something to boast for?"

"You may boast," said the voice, "but not too much for I want to do some of it myself."

"Then the fields noticed that the voice came from the direction of the clover hay field.

"Oh, ho," said winter wheat, "so clover hay wants to do some talking."

"Certainly," said clover hay.

"Well, what have you to say for yourself?" asked the others.

"Quite a lot," said clover hay.

"Pray tell us what it is then," the others asked.

"You are all very useful. You all make good food for the animals, both in the summer and in the winter."

"Winter wheat bowed gracefully. It was much flattered to be especially noticed.

"But I have a special distinction," said clover hay.

"What is clover hay talking about?" the others asked.

"Don't use such big words," said the barley. "Fields don't understand."

"I mean that I have something special to boast of," said clover hay, "so I don't want all of you to take up the whole summer-time in boasting."

"Ah, we see," said the oats, "clover hay doesn't want us to boast so it can get a good chance at it."

"Right," said clover hay. "You're perfectly right!"

"What are you going to boast about?" asked the winter wheat.

"Myself, of course," said clover hay.

"Yes," it continued, waving about. "I can boast about myself and boast beautifully. I am the food the animals love so; they actually call me the animals' dessert. I am to the animals what ice cream is to the children and to the grown-ups, too."

"It's all very well, all very well, to be regular, ordinary feed, but I, the clover hay, have the honor showed to me of being considered the best part of the animals' meal."

"And what clover hay boasted of was true, for clover hay is the dessert for the farm animals."

Recalcitrant.

The rich old uncle from whom much was hoped for was visiting his niece, who had been telling him how dearly his little great-nephew and namesake loved his school and how well he was getting on with his studies.

"Well, Teddy," said the uncle jovially, upon the return of the little boy, "what do you do in school all day?"

Teddy pondered, "Well," he said gravely, "mostly I wait until it's time to go home."

PLAN TO REPEAT ATTACK OF 1916

Railway Employees' Chiefs Appear at Washington With New Threat to Congress.

ASK $1,000,000,000 MORE PAY.

Also Demand Nationalization of Other Industries, Following Example of Russian Soviets.

Washington.—It is just three years since the four leaders of the railway brotherhoods, having refused arbitration of their demands, sat in the gallery of the United States Senate and held their watches on the Senators while the memorable vote was being taken on the Adamson Law that gave them $60,000,000 additional wages a year. When the vote was counted and announced the four labor chiefs rushed out to the telegraph office and withdrew the order for a nation-wide strike.

That such a scene may be again enacted on a much greater scale is indicated by the startling developments at the nation's capital in the past few days. Now the 350,000 men in the brotherhoods have been joined by more than a million other railroad workers—shopmen, trackmen, telegraphers, clerks, station agents—and the demands are many times what they were three years ago.

A Thousand Million Dollars.

On top of a thousand million dollars of added wages granted by the Government in the past year and a half, the allied workers are asking for another increase of a thousand million dollars.

But more than this, this great body of railroad employees has served an ultimatum on the Government that all the railroads of the country must be taken away from their owners and turned over to the employees to be operated by them on a communistic profit-sharing plan.

The plan is as daring as any conceived by the Russian Bolsheviks, and behind it is the threat of a nation-wide strike, with the leaders of the men sitting in the Senate gallery, watches in hand, counting the vote.

To Tie Up All Transportation.

"We will tie up the railroads so that they will never run again if we do not get what we want," announced one of the labor spokesmen, standing within a stone's throw of the Capitol, and this amazing announcement, like an ultimatum from a leader of the Russian Soviet, was instantly flashed over the telegraph wires to every part of the country.

Since the first Brotherhood bombshell exploded in Washington at the end of July, the fact has leaked out that the brotherhoods are gathering a propaganda fund of $10,000,000 for an intensive drive on Congress. Three million dollars, it is announced, has already been collected from the members of the unions. This will be used in campaign work in the Congressional districts, with the purpose of enlisting the votes of the members of Congress, or of defeating them for re-election if they do not vote as the brotherhoods dictate. Money will also be lavishly spent, it is stated, in sending speakers throughout the country to stir up the enthusiasm of organized labor for the brotherhood plan of communistic railroad operation.

"Nationalizing" All Industry

"If we don't get what we want out of this Congress we will put this Congress out and put another one in that will give us what we want," is the matter-of-fact announcement of the central propaganda office of the brotherhoods in Washington.

Back of the immediate purpose to gain control of the railroads is an even deeper scheme to gain control of all great industries, taking them from their owners and putting them under the direct management of the organized workers, as has been done in Russia, and as they are attempting to do in Germany and Austria.

The reports of the United States Railroad administration show that the Government, since it took over the roads in December, 1917, has increased railroad wages by considerably more than a thousand million dollars, and about $200,000,000 a year is being taken out of the National Treasury to meet the deficit caused by the great increase in labor cost.

Big Wage Increases.

The principal advances in wages have been: To shopmen, $300,000,000; to unskilled labor, $225,000,000; to the train brotherhoods, $200,000,000; to clerks, $125,000,000; to telegraph and station agents, $100,000,000; to miscellaneous classes, $110,000,000.

All of these groups are now demanding additional increases of from 30 to 50 per cent. When the Government took control of the roads the average earnings of all railroad workers, including several hundred thousand unskilled workers, was $1,000 a year. The average is now more than $1,500 and the new demands would raise it to $2,000.
