"YES, I AM RENE BEAUCAIRE."

Synopsis .- In 1832 Lieutenant Knox of the regular army is on duty at Fort Armstrong, Rock Island, Ill., in territory threatened by disaffected Indians. The commandant sends him with dispatches to St. Louis. He takes passage on the stamer Warrior and makes the acquaintance of Judge Beaucaire, rich planter, and of Joe Kirby (the Devil's Own), notorious gambler. Knox learns Judge Beaucaire has a daughter, Eloise, and a granddaughter, Rene, offspring of a son whom the judge has disowned. Rene's mother is a negress, and she add her daughter, never having been freed, are slaves under the law. of a son whom the judge has disowned. Releast hother is a hegiess, and she and her daughter, never having been freed, are slaves under the law, although the girls have been brought up as sisters. Kirby induces the judge to stake his plantation and negro servants on a poker hand unfairly dealt by Joe Carver, Kirby's partner. The two hands contain five aces, and Kirby accuses the judge of cheating. Beaucaire, infuriated, arises to attack Kirby, and drops deed. In the confusion Kirby and Carver are enabled to steal away. Knox tries to induce Kirby to give up his stolen winnings. Kirby refuses and after a hot argument he and Carver throw Knox overboard. The lieutenant swims ashore and reaches a hut. Knox lies unconscious for ten days. Recovering, he finds he is in a cabin owned by Pete, a "free nigger," who had shot him, mistaking him for an enemy. His dispatches have been forwarded. Recovering from his wound, Knox sends Pete to bring Haynes, Beaucaire's lawyer, and they arrange, with Pete's beip, to get the women to the cabin of an aboli-

This fact could be established beyond question. and then they must surely all compre hend the necessity of immediate flight -that there remained no other possible means of escape from hopeless slavery. Desperate as the chance appeared, it was the only one.

It dawned upon me now with more intense force than ever before, the position in which I stood, and I shrank from the ordeal. A perfect stranger, not even a chance acquaintance of those directly involved in this tragedy, I would have to drag out from the closet, where it had been hidden away for years, this old Beaucaire skeleton and rattle the dried bones of dishonor before the horrified understanding of these two innocent, unsuspecting girls. The conviction came to me that I had best do this alone; that the presence of the pegro would hinder, rather than help the solution of the problem.

It is in this sense that some Jewish and Russian couples drink wine at their betrothal ceremonies. The Hebrew, after drinking, dashes the vessel to the ground, in memory of the destruction of the Temple; whereas the Russian tramples the glass beneath his feet, with the pious wish: "May they thus fall under foot and be trodden to pieces who shall enher forward but remained himself deavor to sow dissension and discord between us."

THE PIG PALACE.

"Often where we lived," said Sir

"Oh, well, let him," said Grandfather Porky, "for we have something else to talk about now."

"I would like to use our old name," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"The only trouble would be," said Mrs. Pink Pig, "that we don't really live in a palace."

"No," said Ham, "we don't. We live in a pen. I don't believe anyone would call this a palace." "Because it isn't a palace. It's a

"Besides," said Sir Benjamin Bacon, "it would be nice to have a new kind of palace,"

"Of course," said Sir Percival Pork. "There have been too many of these palaces I've heard of with courtyards and beautiful towers and turrets, and beautiful ladies and gorgeous men.

"Now we should have a change. We should have a change of scenery and people and creatures. We should have a palace of mud, decorated with pig weed and we should have big pigs and little pigs in it instead of ladies and gentlemen.

"We should have a palace of our own, of our own kind, and we wouldn't fuss over it the way some creatures fuss over palaces. We wouldn't bother about sweeping it and polishing the great brass door knockers, for there wouldn't be any brass door knockers."

"But I won't live in a palace which has to be closed at all," said Miss Ham, "and that part of the job would fall back on me, I suppose." "And upon me," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Nonsense," said Sir Percival Pork, 'we wouldn't do such a thing as to We don't want it clean.

DUE TO DIGESTIVE TROUBLE

Condition of Narcolepsy Revealed by Victim's Absolutely Irresistible Desire for Sleep.

Even after a meal of moderate size taken by a normal subject there is a slight tendency to drowsiness, which becomes much more pronounced after heavy meal or in dyspeptics. When sleep under such conditions is irresistible we have narcolepsy. The patient may fall asleep so abruptly that he may endanger himself or others. It is characteristic, however, of narcolepsy of whatever kind that the attack is of brief duration. The victim never collapses, for he always bas time to assume a posture suitable for sleep. He may even announce that he must doze for a few minutes, after which he will awake refreshed. He may be kept awake or readily awakened. Hence there should be no likelihood of mistaking narcoleptics for epileptics of any kind. The digestive troubles are of no particular type -cases have been seen of alcoholic gastritis, hyperchlorhydria, atony, etc. In these patients indigestion is only determining cause, but relief of the stomach mischief seems to lead to complete recovery. Possibly akin to these gastric cases are others in which a subject falls into an imperative sleep after indulgence in alcohol, but who wakes in a few moments completely sober, instead of passing into a stupor .- Rocky Mountain News.

GULL HAD GOOD APPETITE

Veracious Observer Asserts Bird Swallowed Fifteen Smelt Within Space of One Hour.

Sea gulls never visit the Cowlitz and Lewis rivers except when the smelt are running. Local fishermen know when the fish are at hand by seeing the big white birds in the air wheeling and diving and uttering their plaintive cry. They sound like complaining children with rather weak lungs. When the gulls are tired of flying they settle on piles along the shore or on sand banks which they whiten like a fall of snow.

When the sharp eye of a gull sees a smelt he plunges for it, submerges his bill and head, and brings it up squirming. The bird swallows his prey in full flight, seldom or never perching to dispose of it.

A most observant young man relates that a friend of his at Kelso, on the Cowlitz, selected a gull which he could identify and watched it for an hour to count the smelt it caught and swallowed. The number was surprisingly large-fifteen.

Perhaps this gull was more expert or luckier than ordinary. It must have been an exceptional bird in color at least or the Kelso naturalist could not have told it from the rest of the double personality .- Portland (Ore.) Journal.

Obituary of a Jellyfish.

One jellyfish at least became world famous, and when she died, after living for sixty-seven years in the most intellectual society, under the protection of five successive learned gentlemen, she received the honors of an obituary notice in the Scotsman.

"Granny" belonged to the jellyfish family, but was, strictly speaking, a sea anemone whom Sir John Graham Dalyell picked off the rocks and kept in sea water all the years of his life ask you two to keep the palace clean. Sir John fed his protege regularly with one-half mussel a fortnight, and she bore a large family. The Scotsman "In Memoriam" nospring were known. When Sir John died his anemone was passed on to an arctic explorer, and at his death she was bequeathed to another scientific man. Granny throve and bred little ones; she outlived four protectora, and died finally because of the neglect or ill-treatment of a botanist.

How Much Is Enough to Eat? Science is speaking up for the 12year-old who is always hungry. "Age, size and activity," have all to do with the matter. A boy may need more to eat than a girl because he exercises more rather than because he is larger. A small, bookish father tied to desk may need much less to eat than his romping, growing 12-year-old progeny. It is safe to say that a growing child needs all the bread and butter and milk and fruit that it will eat; when the appetité must be coaxed with sweets it is not to be trusted.

If you have stopped running and growing, don't gauge Bobbie's needs by your relative sizes. Growing is strenuous business. Be sure that the children have toth building material for this important occupation and energy fuel for their ceaseless activity. Watching the child's weight will give you a key to the situation.

Center of Sponge Industry. Nassau, the capital of the Bahama islands, is a town which seems to exist for the sponge business. Its coral streets all lead to "the sponge market." Carts, slatted on the sides like square bird cages and filled with sponges, are always in progress along Bay street. A fleet of sponge boats is always passing in and out of harbor or riding at anchor head out along the sponge wharf. Men of business hang out their signs as "Sponge Brokers." Entire yards are filled with sponges, and the constant chatter and song of hundreds of negresses at work clipping and pounding, assorting and drying sponges, are among the familiar street sounds.

BILIOUSNESS

If people who are bilious are treated according to local symptoms they seldom get very much better. Whatever relief h obtained is usually temporary. Trace biliousness to its source and remove the cause and the chances are that the patient will remain strong and healthy.

Doctors say that more than 70 nonorganic diseases can be traced to an Acid-Stomach. Biliousness is one of them, Indigestion, hearthurn, belching, sour stomach, bloat and gas are other signs of acid-stomach. #### TEXAS PUBLIC HEALTH ASSOCIATION

Austin, Texas-With four bright Lincoln pennies clasped tightly in her little hand, a wee yellow-haired girl of nine years called at the state headquarters of the Texas Public Association at Austin; and placing them carefully on the desk of O. M. Lowry, director of seal sales, asked for four Red Cross Christmas seals. She was the first prospective buyer of the little seals of good health in Texas.

The little girl was terribly disappointed when she was told that she would not be able to purchase a Red Cross Christmas seal until they were put on sale between December 1st to 10th. She had made up her mind to buy the pretty seals with the picture of jolly old Santa Claus on them. She received the promise that the first four seals which would be sold in the Lone Star State would be saved for her.

Even the children of Texas are beginning to realize the value of good health, and in many communities the Boy Scouts, Camfire Girls, and Modern Health Crusaders will assist in the sale of Rd Cross Christmas seals. The "kiddies" will do their share in selling the 20,000,000 seals which will be sold in th state to bring better

The little wirl who will have the honor of tuying the first Rd Cross Christmas Seals sold in Texas is Helen Teberg of St. Mary's Acidemy.

Great Britain's Supremacy Passing Into New Hands, Says Naval Expert.

In Great Britain fear is being felt that the trident of the ocean is passfing into new hands. This at least is the note sounded by Archibald Hurd, the naval expert, writing in the London Daily Telegraph.

"It is an arresting fact," he says, "that, judged by the strength of its battle squadrons in active commission, this country's supremacy has at least temporarily passed away. "The United States has now in commission 31 battleships, and Washingington plans to have 20 next year, the reduction in number being balanced by the increased power of some of the ships now approaching comple-"We have in a similar state of read-

It may be somewhat of an affront to our national pride that we should have reached this secondary position at sea." Mr. Hurd consoles himself with the reflection that the British admiralty is saving money.

NUT TREES FOR THE HIGHWAY

Many Respects They Are More Suitable Than the Varieties Which Bear Fruit.

When it was suggested that fruittrees be planted along the sides of American roadways, as is the custom in some parts of Europe, a good many people must have had their doubts about the feasibility of the plan in a country where a considerable portion of the population has still to learn carefully to respect public rights and property, especially when the rights are unfamiliar and the property is of a kind that nobody is under a special -and salaried-obligation to protect.

Another and probably more hopeful proposal is to plant, not fruit trees, but nut trees, as highway ornaments and possible sources of profit. Many of our native nut trees are far more beautiful to the eye than fruit trees ever are, and they are as much superior, too, as providers of shade. They are much better able than fruit trees to take care of themselves, because their flowers are inconspicuous. Their product is a valuable one, and its fairly equitable distribution every year could safely be left to the children of any given neighborhood.

One of New York's eminent physicians, Dr. Robert T. Morris, has been preaching for years and years the value of nut trees. He even goes so far as to insist that, if humanity had turned to these trees instead of to the cereals for its main source of vegetable food-starch and oil-it could have been fed better than now and at much less expenditure of labor. Whether Doctor Morris is right or wrong in that large claim, there is no doubt that country roads would be made pleasanter for all who use them if they were turned into majestic avenues bordered by such trees as hickories, beeches, chestnuts, oaks and a dozen other nucifers.

Immensity of Supplies Needed in Mod-Wants Outdoor Art Committee.

An outdoor art committee can compile and publish a circular on home yard beautification, giving definite information on how to landscape the home yard. This cfrcular should contelegrams in one day, and 3,400 let- tain several sample plans that will suggest the proper arrangement for vegetable garden, flower garden and the planting of ornamental trees and shrubs.

The committee should use its influence to have all school grounds properly laid out, providing for a special garden, playground and ornamental planting for every school yard in the community.

Why have a beautiful, expensive school building designed by the most competent architect, and then leave the ground surrounding this magnificent building unsightly and neglected? Why not have a landscape design made for the beautification of the ground?

Childhood's Energy.

Laziness is an adult vice. Children are almost never lazy. Little children do not want to play; they want to work. Toys are their tools-the objects they use in trying to exercise their faculties in imitation of their elders. Time out of mind the most popular toys have been those that best satisfied this impulse—a doll that the tot can mother, blocks to build houses of, and so on. A top appeals because the child can make it go. plenty of dry, bright, clean bedding frequently-once every two or three days if necessary-to keep the nests and beds dry and comfortable is a prerequisite of successful hog management. This point can not be overemphasized. The young pigs delight in a warm, dry nest, and the practical hog raiser who caters to this desire is the man who usually is able to make the statement, backed up with actual figures, that there is money in producing pork.

The great danger which results from allowing the pigs to sleep in damp bedding is that the next morning the go out into the cold air, often covered with steam, and consequently are likely to contract pneumonia or other serlous ailments. Dry bedding, frequent changes of litter, well-built houses, and plent; of feed of the right character are essential where the producer seeks a 100 per cent pig-raising record. Where these conditions are realized, particularly where the fall pigs are kept dry, sheltered, and well fed, it is as profitable to raise autumn porkers as it is to produce spring pigs, despite the common belief to the contrary.

Experiment Being Conducted on Experiment Ranch in Idaho by Department of Agriculture.

(Prepared by the United States Depart-Corriedale sheep developed in Australia mainly by a Lincoln-Merino cross, are being studied by the United States department of agriculture at the government 28,000-acre sheep-experiment ranch at Dubois, Idaho. There are at present about 1,500 sheep on the project divided into various classes. Australians claim for the Corriedales better mutton form than the Merino, more weight, and yet a good fleece of about three-eighths blood grality. It is expected that the tests now being conducted by the department will eventually result in a better average sheep, as to mutton carcass, than the breeds now on the market. The breed was introduced into this country by the federal department, but since that time many large private importations have been made. Part of the sheep on the Dubois range are being kept as straight Corriedales, while others are being crossed with American crossbreds.

Nellie had told him of her struggles to keep the wolf from the door, and Barton matched the recital with a half-revealed story of his abandonment of home in resentment of the strict rule of an arbitrary father. The delightful evenings he spent at the humble home of the Wards became a treasured joy to him. At the office his application and ability were duly rewarded and he experienced the pleasure and satisfaction of independence and prosperity.

He was proud of himself, and prouder still of the charming companion the evening when he and Nellie came in from the moonlit porch and showed Mrs. Ward the engagement ring on Nellie's finger.

Barton had occasion to go to the office of Mr. Bowdoin one day, but observing that his employer had a visiter was about to postpone the report he had to make when Mr. Bowdoin "What is it, Barton?"
