THE "HUB-BUB"

EVERYDAY LIFE

"We must have some food," was the plea of an Eastland woman in the plea of an Eastland woman in a letter sent to the Eastland county sheriff's office Thursday morning. A little girl, whose widowed mother was at home too ill to leave her bed, brought the letter to the sheriff's office. The child said she had not eaten that day. The mother's letter said there was no food in their home and that she had taken down their gas deposit money to buy food and had eaten it. Will some one help them or will one wait for another to do it and it not be done?

"I haven't had a day's work at reasonable pay since July a year ago" said an Eastland laborer "and today I cut weeds in a man's yard most all day for a dollar and when I had finished he told me he couldn't pay until next week."

Hawaii Chose the Most Splendid Fruit

lawaiian canning industry The Smooth Cayenne is a splendid pineapple, which grows uni-torm and vigorous, and which, when ripened in the sunshine, has a generous quota of fruit sugar. Back in 1886, when there was no ineapple industry at all, the pioneer Captain John Kidwell began to grow pincapples to skip fresh to the main-land, but he found that the fruit that grew in Hawaii was of poor or their best pineapples and discovered the Smooth Cayenne. This variety is the basis of today's pineapple industry which had its inception about thirty years ago, and it has grown so spectacularly since that time that it is now producing that time that it is now producing pincapples in such quantities that they may be placed on every table at a price which makes them an several companies took to canning pineapple because that proved to be the only way of getting the sun-ripened fruit to market, filled with healthful vitamins and its full quota of fruit sugar. The first shipments were small, but the fruit was soon canned in increasing quantities because the public took to it from the first. The more they ate, the more they wanted, and the value of the industry has grown from a nominal sum at that time to an annual total

f about forty million dollars. It couldn't have done that without delicious tropical iruit, sun-rip-med, and a scientific method of getting it to market.

Some Pineapple Recipes

Kidwell's idea, however, of establishing a business of shipping fresh pineapples to the mainland, died a speedy death, since a pineapple to have its full quota of fruit sugar and one-half teaspoons baking poware apples to be sent to the mainland had to be picked green, and ripea in the dark holds of vessels, which robbed this fruit of much of its distinctive and delicious taste. For pineapple picked green anywhere fails to every the part of the pineapple picked green anywhere fails to every the same sugar contents. ### JAIL POPULATION JUMPS.

HARRISBURG. Pa., Aug. 6.— Pennsylvania's jail population is in-creasing, according to reports by Dr. John L. Hanna, State Welfare Secretary. Hanna reported 8,821 prisoners in county jails on May 31, 1931, an increase of 2,21 over the 1931, an increase of 2,21 over the number of prisoners for the same date in 1930. In June, 1930, 9,802 persons were admitted as new prisoners, while 9,974 were released.

AUSTIN, Aug. 6.— Seeking funds with which to carry on an aggressive campaign to increase cotton uses, the Texas division of the National Association for the Increased Use of Cotton has appealed to every Texan interested in cotton for small contributions toward the organization's support, according to Lowe Simons, executive secretary.

Letters are being mailed to bankers, manufacturers, corpora-tions and individuals in every part of the state, outlining the aims of the association and what it hopes to accomplish for the cotton indus

Since the goal is to enroll as many Texans as possible in the organization, in every case the con-tributions asked are relatively small, he declared.

Every person who contributes, Simons said, should reap many-fold dividends if the association is fold dividends if the association is able to stimulate consumption of the enormous cotton surplus which threatens the stability of the entire south. Potentialities of the organization were demonstrated when it persuaded many mills of the south, by a weight equalization, to make possible the use of cotton bagging on this year's cotton carn as a substitute for jute.

The Essential Foods

An adequate supply of good milk is, of course, essential. You can take this along in the form of dried, evaporated or condensed milk, all of which comes from cows whose health has been tested and certified by Government experts. Unsweetened evaporated milk is now more and more widely used for babies, as we have

THE corn which you will eat all all-year round food by packing THE corn which you will eat all year 'round, is right now being put into cans. You will eat roasting ears—plenty of them—all summer long, because it is hard to convince the average American that there is anything better than good roasting ears—young, tender and steaming hot. There is a story of the Yankee doughboy who sent all the way from Paris to Long Island for a couple of dozen ears of corn on the cob. They came, each ear wrapped in blotting paper, to preserve the index of the country where climate and
