

Coach Gibson sends word from Lubbock, where he is attending a football coaching school...

A lot of the things we have heard said about members of the Texas Senate during the recent called session of the Legislature wouldn't look well in print.

Mayor McCullough seems to be having a hard time getting Eastland people warmed up over the local gas situation.

People are coming to Eastland for the benefit of the splendid schools here.

Heard a "meter" man say he put in 8 meters last week and only took out two. Each meter represented a family coming in or one going out.

The people in the colored section of the city has gone to work on this new sanitary measure with a vim, according to Inspector Swearingen, and have shown great interest in doing away with the old type open surface toilet.

Mountain of Smoke Fills Sky in Raging Forest Fire

Beholding forth a great mountain of smoke like an active volcano, the uncontrolled forest fire sweeping through forests in Montana, Washington and Idaho is shown in this remarkable picture. Pioneer Family Hold Reunion at Hamlin Aug. 8th

Thirty-nine members of the immediate family and more than 100 friends were present Saturday, August 8, at the annual reunion of the pioneer G. W. Ball family, which was held on the farm of J. R. Bell near Hamlin.

A feast of barbecued beef and great was one of the features of the affair. The meeting was held under a brush arbor built for the purpose. Following the feast speeches were made by Bowen Pope, editor of the Hamlin Herald; W. H. (Bill) McCain, and Martin McCain. Individual stunts from different ones made up the program for the evening. One amusing part of the program which furnished delight for the spectators was a "kangaroo trial" in which one member of the family was tried for having lined up in the "bread line" when his pantry at home was well filled. He was given a suspended sentence and will be on probation until a similar offense is committed.

Simmons and Wallace, the county attorney's office said, were already under five-year suspended sentences.

Eastland Baptist To Have Outdoor Revival Meeting

The Eastland Baptist Church will conduct an outdoor revival in the south part of town beginning Sunday night, Aug. 16th. The place of the meeting will be in the vicinity of the South Ward School on South Seaman street. Plans are to have the lights strung and seats placed in time for the Sunday night service.

Pastor W. T. Turner will conduct the services with the local singers in charge of the music. Services will be held at 8:00 p. m. throughout the week with a special service for boys and girls at 7:30 each evening.

A similar meeting was held in the west part of town a year ago which met with such success that it has been planned all the year to conduct this outdoor meeting in the south end of town as the summer closes. While the meeting will be located in the south part of the city the entire membership of the church and people of all Eastland are expected to attend the services, according to the pastor who extends an invitation to members of other churches to attend all services that do not conflict with services in their own churches.

Other visitors in the club were Barney Tyson of Breckenridge, R. F. Williams of Breckenridge, Russell Smith of Norman, Okla., and W. P. Palm, assistant superintendent of the Eastland High school. All of whom addressed the club for a few minutes when called upon. Funeral For S. E. Williamson to Be Held Today

Funeral services for S. E. Williamson, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Williamson, pioneer Eastland county citizen, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident Wednesday night, will be conducted from the First Baptist church this afternoon (Friday) at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. W. T. Turner, pastor of the church, will conduct the services. Ben Hamner of the Hammer Undertaking Company will have charge of the body. Burial will be in the Eastland cemetery.

Williamson is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Moran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Moran of near Eastland, his two children, Pearl, 4, and Darmon, 19 months; his parents and five brothers and one sister as follows: N. B. Williamson of New Mexico; J. L. L. G. Williamson of Olden; A. W. Williamson, DeForest; and Mrs. E. B. Owen of Olden. All members of the family are here for the funeral.

Williamson was fatally injured about 9:00 o'clock Wednesday night when his car, in which he was riding alone, went off an embankment on the Bankhead highway about six miles east of Baird. His neck was broken, his left arm and left shoulder were broken and his right jaw was broken in two places. He was otherwise badly bruised and perhaps hurt internally. He died about 1:00 o'clock Thursday morning shortly after being brought to the Payne Hospital in Eastland.

Williamson and O. H. Doss, both employees of the Eastland Drug Company, which is owned and operated by Williamson's father, were going to Abilene for the druggist's convention there. Doss intended to spend the night in Abilene while Williamson was to return to Eastland. For this reason they went in separate cars. Doss was driving a short distance ahead of Williamson. Another motorist, driving behind Williamson, saw Williamson's car leave the highway and plunge over the embankment to the left of the roadway. This motorist dashed ahead and called to Doss that a car had gone off the embankment and the driver doubtless was injured. Doss and the motorist rushed to the scene to find Williamson fatally injured.

The cause of Williamson's mishap is not known, but it was believed a tire on his car blew out or his steering gear gave way causing him to lose control of his car. The car rolled several feet down the embankment and Williamson's body was picked up approximately 75 feet from where his car lay. Doss placed Williamson in his car and took him to Baird where a physician rendered emergency treatment and advised that he be rushed to a hospital. Doss called an ambulance and Williamson was brought to Eastland.

Eastland Ford Dealer to Show Commercial Units

Announcement is made today by the Everett Motor Company, local Ford dealer, that a special display of Ford Commercial Units will be had at his place of business on August 19th. This display will be conducted in co-operation with the Dallas branch of the Ford Motor Company, who will bring eighteen different body types to add to the units on hand.

The expansion of the Ford commercial line from a few body types to more than fifty in recent months is unprecedented in commercial car history. Mr. Everett said. "The present effort is to acquaint the public with the various body types, color combinations, tire equipment and springs for a specific load to the end that the lowest ton mile costs may be enjoyed by the users." Mr. Everett said further.

In addition to the truck units to be displayed there will be special mechanical displays, cut-away axles and many other things of interest to the operator of a commercial unit. The units on display will be utilized to demonstrate to interested parties during the showing and immediate deliveries will be made.

One of the most interesting features of the display will be the ambulance and funeral coach equipment recently added to the Ford line. Mrs. S. F. Foster of Dallas arrived Tuesday to visit her daughter, Mrs. L. Collins, 1204 South Green street.

Mayor McCullough Issues a Statement On Gas Situation

Mayor McCullough has issued a signed statement in which he calls upon the citizens of Eastland to make a study of the gas franchise granted to J. W. Moore by the city commission, and which was published in the Weekly Chronicle in its issue of August 7. The Mayor's statement also makes a number of comparisons between the franchise granted Moore and that under which the Community Natural Gas Company, which is now serving the city, is operating. Following is the statement:

"Every citizen in Eastland is earnestly called upon to study the gas franchise granted to John W. Moore by the City Commission, which was published in this paper last week. Unless other action is determined upon by other cities, Eastland will probably not have a chance to get gas rates lowered in a long time to come, if it reflects the plan now offered to them in this additional franchise.

Bear in mind the fact that the present gas company furnishing you gas has no sort of contract to furnish you gas under any conditions whatever. Under its contract the Community Natural Gas Company is not contractually bound to Eastland citizens in hardly any way, save to do as it pleases.

Under the new franchise John W. Moore is obligated by a large bond, when same is approved, to perform the conditions in his franchise. He is bound to furnish you gas of recognized quality. Before we accept his bond, he must show two things: first, that he has or can secure a sufficient gas supply, and, second, that he has the financial backing to enable him to perform his contract. If he does these two things, then you will be asked to agree in writing to tie on to his gas lines when he has the lines ready.

I hear many persons making objections to the proposed Moore franchise. I expected to hear them. We have a good many persons who would object to any proposition. (Continued on Page Five)

Mathena Milling Co. Has New Mgr.

K. C. Jones, of Ranger, former proprietor of the K. C. Jones Milling company, has accepted the position as general manager of the J. M. Mathena Milling company of Ranger and has assumed charge of the business. Mathena resides in Eastland.

J. L. Stone, a resident of Ranger for the past year, has accepted a position as head miller. Mr. Stone is a miller of wide experience, having been in charge of the Alliance Milling company of Denton when a world's record was won on flour. In discussing the milling industry, Mr. Jones stated his company was exchanging flour for wheat at the rate of 30 pounds of flour for one bushel of wheat and many of the farmers were availing themselves of the opportunity to obtain good flour for their wheat. Farmers near Ranger produced large yields of wheat this season and can exchange the wheat for ground flour and feeds of other kinds. The mill is modern in every way and everything is being put in readiness for a full run this fall and winter.

Sheep and Goat Raisers Elect

All officers of the Oil Belt Sheep and Goat Raisers association were re-elected at the business meeting held at Ranger Saturday afternoon following the big barbecue at noon.

Those elected to office were W. H. Bachelor, Palo Pinto, president; J. F. Donley, Ranger, first vice president; L. W. Riddell, Lingville, second vice president; and Ben Whitehouse, Ranger, secretary and treasurer. Dr. Bob Hodges was elected chairman of the selling committee and will be assisted by J. S. Long of Ranger and L. W. Riddell of Lingville.

A crowd of approximately 200 members and visitors attended the barbecue that preceded the business meeting at which barbecued sheep and goat, beans, tomatoes, pickles, coffee, lemonade, ice water and bread were served.

At the business meeting it was decided that the fall sale would be held about Oct. 1, in order that the wool and mohair would arrive at the market early in the season while the price was good.

Subjects discussed in the round table meeting included the methods of handling the wool by the producer, building up the grade of the country of predatory animals.

County Judge Clyde Garrett explained the work that has been done by the state and county in helping destroy predatory animals. He said that the state and county formerly employed three trappers and that one was still employed.

Dr. Bob Hodges, chairman of the selling committee, made a report on the sale of the spring clip, saying that some of the members were complaining because their wool did not bring top prices. He displayed some of this wool, which was full of dirt, burrs and other materials that took much from its value.

Several committees are to be appointed that were not named at the meeting Saturday. These will be selected before the fall clip.

Mrs. Wolf Speaks Of New Styles In Fall Millinery

Mrs. Dave Wolf, of Wolf's Ladies Store, who recently returned from the style centers of New York, Chicago and St. Louis seeing the newest and buying the newest for their store has this to say of the new mode in millinery for fall:

"Although the new types of hats are quite extreme, they are very becoming when properly worn. So much of the style of the new hats depends on how they are put on the head."

In commenting on their line of early fall models, she said "Millinery has never been so fascinating and never before has there been such a diversity of styles. Every type of woman can get something entirely different that will be smart and becoming."

"It is hard to say which is the most outstanding," Mrs. Wolf said. "Because there are so many different types. There is the stiff derby, the type with the soft edge, the roll brim style and the one with the double edge. When these are carefully styled and worn correctly they are easy for anyone to wear."

"The Princess Eugenic styles are meeting with a great deal of success and I think they will continue to be favored throughout the season," she said.

The principal materials in the fall line included felt, for felt, fur, mackin, cheville, crocheted felt, band, cut felt, bendings and a number of styles in both cheville and plaited felt bands.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Sowing and Reaping

Text: Gal. 6:1-10.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 16, Sowing and Reaping, Gal. 6:1-10.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.
Problems in the early Christian church quickly became social as well as individual. The power of salvation of Christ revealed a newness of life, and a conquest over old habits and ways of living was not the whole of gospel experience. The new Christian had to live in relationship with his fellow man, and he was brought into very close contact with those who shared the new experience and the new faith.

A great work of grace may go on in the heart of man, transforming the general aspect of his life so that he may very truly be spoken of as converted, but the change may not be complete and thoroughgoing in affecting every thought and attitude. The man who is intensely conscientious about some matter is apt to criticize his fellow Christian who does not feel the same intensity about that particular thing. The saint who is highly devoted to his own religious development may be unkind of duties and courtesies in the commonplace things of life.

There are those who have accustomed themselves to think so much of high things that they are not always thoughtful or considerate concerning lowly things.

The Law of Christ.
Perhaps it is a comfort when one sees the defects and shortcomings in the church of today to realize that the early church, even in the very generation of those who had felt the direct influence of the Master and of the apostles, was not perfect. Various passages in Paul's Epistles, such as this in our lesson, throw a great deal of light upon these things.

Here in these verses Paul is reminding the Christians at Galatia of the elemental responsibilities of the Christian life in love and kindness toward one's fellows. Apparently there were some in the church at Galatia who were censorious of their brethren and inclined to be severe upon those who had succumbed to temptation and done something unworthy. Paul reminds these censorious Christians that they ought to remember the possibility of being tempted themselves. Instead of being harsh and unkind they ought in gentleness to be doing all in their power to restore the faith and fellowship of those who had been overtaken in fault. "It is the law of Christ," Paul says, "to bear one another's burdens."

The law of Christ, also, is a law of humility, enjoining a man not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, and above all not to think of himself as something when he is really nothing.

Here, also, we come in Paul's statement to a somewhat striking paradox. In verse two he urges these Christians to fulfill the law of Christ by bearing one another's burdens. In verse five he says that "every man shall bear his own burden." The discrepancy is apparent rather than real. It is only where each man feels the fullness of his responsibility and is earnestly striving to bear his own burden and at the same time where each man in doing this is ready to help every other man to fulfill the same law that there can be a truly Christian fellowship or even a true society. Individual responsibility and social responsibility go hand in hand, and the one should never be an occasion for weakening the other.

Mission of Jesus.
In the midst of this responsibility it is necessary that Christians should help to instruct one another in matter of grace. The fact that men have entered into a new experience does not destroy for them the reality of the general laws of life. The fact that the man is saved even from sin does not remove the effects of sin upon him. That is painfully true in all reference to human life. "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Jesus did not come to revolutionize the university or to destroy or change its laws, he came to give man strength and wisdom working in the presence of these laws to achieve his spiritual destiny.

We tend often times to take the reference to sowing and reaping to the effects of sin, but we ought to realize that that law applies in the realm of righteousness. Paul's own conclusion from the effects of sowing and reaping is that we should not be weary in well doing, that everywhere in life as we have opportunity we should be doing good toward all men and sowing the seeds of truth, love and righteousness in full assurance that we shall reap as we have sown.

By the Field Editor

Unmatured crops in the county are needing rain badly. Especially is this true of peanuts and cotton. Farmers generally, however, are making bountiful feed and forage crops and most of them have harvested or will harvest more or less money crops.

DOG HIS ONLY COMPANION ON WORLD VOYAGE IN TINY BOAT

They're going to see the world—from a 25-foot whale-boat. Not even an auxiliary engine will William Lang of New York use on his projected globe-girdling cruise, and his only companion will be his dog, Rola. They're seen here in New York as they prepared to leave on their voyage. Lang will depend on a watch and compass to keep his course.

County Tax Rate Is Fixed at $1.86 On the $100 Valuation

The Eastland county commissioners court, in session this week, set the county tax rate at $1.86 on the $100 valuation for the next 12 months. This total is the same as for the last year and only one or two slight changes were made in the items making up the rate. The rate is based upon an approximate property valuation of $30,000,000, which is about $7,000,000 less than last year. The court felt, however, that the rate set would be sufficient and did not feel disposed to increase the rate if it were not absolutely necessary. It was pointed out, however, that the fullest co-operation of the taxpayers would be expected in the payment and collection of delinquent as well as current taxes due the county.

SUITS FILED IN DISTRICT COURTS

H. D. Hamilton vs. Mrs. Etta Moore Howell et al, suit on note and foreclosure of lien.

K. S. Duncan vs. C. M. Pres-tidge, trespass to try title and for damages.

Farm and Home Savings and Loan Assn. of Mo., vs. Della Johnson, et vir, to collect note.
Burton Lingo Co. vs. J. W. Gates et al.

County Judge C. L. Garrett, the members of the commissioners court, County Tax Assessor Geo. Bryant, and County Auditor W. S. Michael went to Austin last week where they had a conference with Governor Ross Sterling in which they sought to have him permit the introduction at the called session of the legislature of a bill designed to withhold the payment of the state ad valorem tax until such time as other and more pressing indebtedness could be taken care of. Had the bill been introduced and passed by the legislature it would have meant that the county could have deferred until some future date the payment of approximately $100,000. Governor Sterling gave the delegation an attentive hearing, but stated that he could not permit the introduction of the bill.

The county rate of $1.86 is made up as follows: Jury fund, 8 cents; road and bridge fund, 15 cents; general fund, 25 cents; courthouse and jail fund, 10 cents; hospital fund, 2 cents (this is an increase of 1 cent over last year); courthouse interest and sinking fund, 6 cents; road and bridge interest sinking fund, $1.20.
Last year there was a levy of 1 cent for the courthouse and jail interest and sinking fund. No levy was made for this fund this year, however, and 1 cent was added to the hospital maintenance fund, which made the total levy the same this year as last.

Compiled in the Offices of the County Agent and County Home Demonstration Agent

Eastland County Fair

The Eastland County Free Fair will be held at Eastland September 23, 24, 25, 26, practically in the same manner as it was conducted last year. Catalog material is being placed in the hands of the printer this week and it should be ready for distribution the last week of August. Catalog carries the information that the fair is sponsored by the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club and Rotary Club. All individuals and organizations of the county are invited to actively participate in the four nights of entertainment and amusement.

Rural communities are invited to take part in all of the various features, the community agricultural booth, women home demonstration club exhibits, individual agricultural exhibits, community chorus contests, community one-act play contest, fiddlers contest, etc. Ranger Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring an hour's entertainment the opening night and Cisco's Chamber will provide similar program the last night. Boxing exhibitions will complete each night's fun.

The midway will be in full swing each night with the various concessions operated by civic organizations and service clubs of Eastland. Several new attractions this year should make an added appeal to the public. The income from these attractions and advertising in the catalog comprise the sole source of income for financing the fair and general patronage of the midway is needed to assure the financial success of the county fair.

While the recent dry weather has damaged crops to a considerable degree there probably has never been better prospects for fine exhibit materials. Never has there been more canning in the county than is now being done and there should be a wonderful exhibit of home canned foods. There will be a notable shortage in fruit exhibits but garden and field crops of all varieties should be shown in profusion. The fact that farm people need money will prove an added incentive to bring in good exhibit materials. There has been more pure and certified seed planted this season than ever before which will improve the quality of stock exhibited.

For Exhibitors

Farmers who plan to bring in exhibits may well bear in mind that the proper place to select exhibit materials is in the field just as in selecting planting seed. It should be selected and carefully preserved just as it reaches maturity and exhibits should be selected before there is bird or weather damage. It takes no little work to prepare a worthy exhibit and there must be no mixture of other seed or trash. There has been a very fine small grain crop and some excellent samples of wheat, oats, barley and rye are shown in gallon samples. Most of this will have to be hand picked to get our trash and mixtures of other seeds. Dried beans and peas are shown in gallons and require hand picking on account of the tendency to mix with other varieties. Premiums offered and the fact that this gives good planting seed already prepared in preparing a creditable exhibit. The fact also that materials once prepared may be shown both at the community fairs and the county fair again justifies the work.

Community Fairs

Dates for community fairs are as follows: September 1, Grandview; 3rd, Grapevine; 5th, Cook; 8th, Reagan; 9th, Dothan-Friendship; 10th, Alameda-Cheaney; 11th, Colony; 14th, Elm; 15th, Nimrod; 16th, Scanton; 17th, Flatwoods; 18th, Pleasant Hill; 18-19, Carbon; 18-19, Rising Star. There are fourteen of these community fairs, all but two are for one day. Community fair catalogs or classification of exhibits are now being prepared and will be in the mails this week. There is a community fair within reach of every farm family of the county and every one is urged to participate in the fair nearest to him. There is probably nothing that brings more rural people together for the purpose of agricultural advancement and social recreation than this series of community fairs.

Jellies, Jams and Marmalades

From Farmers Bulletin
Jelly. A fruit juice that is good for jelly is one which contains acid and a substance called pectin, which is the essential jelly-making substance. Some fruits contain acid and pectin in proper proportions for making perfect jelly. With certain other fruit juices, either acid or pectin has to be supplied from some other fruit in order to make good jelly.

A perfect jelly is clear, bright, and tender, and when cut with a knife or spoon has a clean surface and does not stick to the knife or spoon. When turned from the glass, jelly should hold its shape and should quiver but not break.

In making jelly it is necessary to know in general the proportion of pectin present; on this depends not only the jellifying of the mass but also the amount of sugar that will be required. Tests for pectin are given below.

If a juice does not contain pectin in a sufficient quantity, fruit juices which contain a larger proportion of pectin or extracted pectin may be added. Likewise acid may be added to a juice which lacks it, but is rich in pectin. A fruit juice that contains a small proportion of acid makes a less tender jelly than does a sour juice. Combinations of two or more fruit juices, therefore, often give better results in both texture and flavor than does the juice of one fruit used alone.

Among the fruit juices that make good jelly when used alone are apple, crab apple, partially ripe grapes, plums, berries and currants. Such fruits as strawberries, peaches, pears, pineapple, and cherries do not make good jelly when used alone.

Extraction of Juice: The fruit should be looked over carefully, and blossom ends or decayed parts removed; it is generally not necessary to remove the skins. Practically all fruits require cooking for the extraction of the juice. Juicy fruits should be cooked in small amount of water; such fruits as apples should be covered with water.

Cook the fruit until it is tender, turn it into a jelly bag and drain it; do not squeeze it but allow it to drip, since squeezing gives a cloudy jelly.

This process not only shortens the time but eliminates seconds and makes more jelly.

A second and third extraction may be made from such fruits as crab apples, apples, grapes, plums and currants by returning the pulp to the preserving kettle after the juice has dripped from it, covering it with water, heating it gradually, and allowing it to simmer slowly for 30 minutes.

Sugar: Probably many of the failures in jelly making are caused by the addition of too much sugar. Currants, under ripe grapes, and wild apples are practically the only fruit juices requiring an equal measure of sugar. Two-thirds as much sugar as juice is a good proportion for most fruits.

Cooking jelly: In general not more than six or eight cups of jelly should be cooked at one time, less may be used. The volume of the preserving kettle should be four or five times as great as the amount of juice to be cooked since there is a tendency for the juice to boil over.

Measure the juice and boil it rapidly for five minutes, skimming it if necessary. Add the sugar, and stir the juice until sugar is dissolved. Heating the sugar seems to save no time, nor does it seem to improve the quality of the jelly. Cook the juice very rapidly; this gives a bright, clear product, whereas long, slow cooking gives a dull, dark jelly or inferior texture.

Jelly test: To test jelly, take up a small amount of the juice in a spoon and allow it to drop from the side of the spoon. When the drops flow together and sheet upon the spoon, the jelly is done and should be removed from the heat at once.

Sealing the jelly: Pour the hot juice into clean, hot glasses, filling them to the top. The jelly shrinks as it cools and leaves a space for the paraffin. When the jelly is cold and has set, cover it with paraffin. Take a knife and run around the edge of the glass about 1-8 inch deep before pouring the paraffin over. This test the paraffin cover the top and seal the sides.

Pectin tests: The pectin test helps to determine whether a certain fruit juice can be used alone for making jelly or whether additional pectin will have to be supplied by adding another fruit juice or extracted pectin; also whether a further extraction of juice from the pulp is warranted.

Alcohol test: Wood alcohol and denatured alcohol may be used for this test, but since they are poisonous great care should be taken in their use.

One tablespoon cooked fruit juice and one tablespoon alcohol. Combine the juice with the alcohol. Rotate around in the container and if there is a large amount of pectin present it will form a gelatinous mass; if there is a small amount it will collect in small particles. This test should be watched carefully since there may be a tendency for the pectin to go back into solution in a short time.

Epsom salts test: 1 tablespoon cooked fruit juice, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1-2 tablespoon Epsom salts. Stir the mixture until the salts have been dissolved, and let it stand for 20 minutes. If the mixture forms a solid mass or large jelled particles, the juice will make a satisfactory jelly.

Canning chicken. Market the culls in tin cans for use in lunches as this fall. The chickens should be killed and thoroughly chilled before canning. Cook the hens until the meat is tender, but does not fall from the bone when removed from the kettle. Cut the meat from the bones, grind, dip or put in large pieces. Add enough of the broth to moisten the meat, put in can, within one-half inch of the top. If the meat is cold, set the can in the cooker, heat and then seal and process 50 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Cool quickly when removed from the cooker.

Chicken may be canned fried. Cut as for frying, have the gizzard or fat very hot and sear the chicken at once and place in cans; add 3 tablespoons of the hot fat and seal at once and process 50 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Be sure the meat is chilled before canning. Cook quickly when removed from canner. Salt before searing and use a fork as little as possible. Do not stick the fork in the pieces if you can avoid it.

Trails In Ink

BY RUTH M. LEWIS

Are you thinking of marrying a quarrelsome man or woman? Oh, of course you love him or her, but how many mornings will you be able to grin as he growls over his breakfast because his coffee is cold and it is his own fault that he didn't come when you called him? Or what will you do, Mr. Man, when she shows positively no reason about the grocery bill?

All this that I am going to say applies to both sexes, but for convenience I shall use the pronoun "he" where either sex is concerned. Will he freeze up and refuse to speak to you for days at a time when you know that you've done nothing to deserve such treatment? Or will he go to the opposite extreme and smash the breakfast dishes and stack the furniture just because a button is off his clean shirt? Will she storm off and lock the door and cry until you are gone to work, and then run off to her mother—just because you were more interested in eating your breakfast and getting off to work than you were in her club paper or what Mrs. Smith's doctor said about her nerves?

What do you know about him anyway? You may know his mother, his father, his "brethren" and sister and an uncle who was the image of him at his age, but you didn't live forty years ago, did you?

Is the man of your choice shy and afraid to reveal his true feelings for fear that you will misunderstand? Are you hurting him with your criticism? Does he think that you are poking fun at him? Does he think that you talk about him to your chums... is that why he with-holds his confidence.

Will he feel that your two rooms and bath is the most interesting spot on earth and want to stay at home with you, or will he never be satisfied to sit by the fire and smoke his pipe and toast his feet in the old gray carpet slippers, or go gallivanting off and leave you and the baby to console each other? And remember, that works both ways! Sauce for the goose is also sauce for the gander, as our grandfather used to tell grandma.

Some men can't be happy with a perfect housekeeper, while others can't be happy with any other kind. Some men shed nagging like water off a duck's back—and it is music in their ears, but others had rather be murdered than reminded that they dropped cigarette ashes on the parlor rug.

Thank goodness, we all have our faults! Nobody can bear perfection, because it is held up as a model for the rest of us. Some of us, however can cheerfully put up with things that would simply drive others berserk in thirty minutes. One bride will get a great thrill out of picking up "hubbys" shirts and socks, while another will kick them into the closet while she holds her nose.

Fear be it from me to try to name all the things that try the patience of happy newly-weds! They seem to live on a different plane from the rest of us, but sometimes they hit the earth with a bump when some of these things happen. It is my hope that I may make their landing more pleasant by warning them before hand.

The Grapho-Analyst cannot promise that you will live happy

All Stuck Up!

NEA Chicago Bureau

"Let's get right to the point of the whole affair," gurgled six-months-old Richard Gronik of Milwaukee as he posed with this giant safety pin, a surprise gift to his parents from friends. "I'm sorta stuck up, you might say," Richard added, "but it's pretty snappy, just the same!" The pin is four feet long and weighs seven pounds.

ever after—like most worth while things, that depend mostly on you. But she can help you to a better understanding of yourself and each other; she will be glad to add to your happiness, and will keep the matter entirely just between the two—or the three of us. None of these letters or analyses will be published, due to their personal nature.

Attach the letter to be analyzed to your letter, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and twenty-five cents in silver, and mail this to Mrs. Ruth M. Lewis in care of the Chronicle, or send it directly to Mrs. Lewis at Stephenville, and your analysis will be sent you just as quickly as Mrs. Lewis can attend to it.

Now we will take up a few of the specimens:

Miss G. C. N. is a person who, though flirtatious on occasions, is very, very limited in her choice of friends—so much so that she confides in no one but keeps her own counsel. She can talk well but it is not about personal affairs, and she is pretty shy, not at all sure of herself nor of what others will think and say of her, but she is not so sensitive about this. If she should be criticized, she can retaliate in cool, well-bred sarcasm that cuts like a whip—and she lays it on thick.

Mr. A. S. shows a quick thinking inventive mind, combined with the ability to go back and study his conclusions. He has the facts of life all figured out to his satisfaction. He has a growing love of artistic surroundings and easy living, appreciates music and has considerable literary talent with a good imagination.

Mrs. P. B. S. accomplishes things by sheer force of will. She does not set the world afire with her enthusiasm, but thinks it a much shorter route to make people do things, and make them do them her way. She is conscientious, careful and persistent, likely being a hard taskmaster, and rarely expecting the world to suddenly bloom into a great flower garden. She is self-conscious about what people say about her, but not especially sensitive.

Analyses may be had by writing Mrs. Ruth M. Lewis and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with twenty-five cents in silver. Write in care of the Chronicle.

"Wanted A Husband," next Thursday night at the Methodist church.

WANTED A HUSBAND

Horace Condey, popular District Governor of the Lions Club and Boy Scoutmaster de luxe, is seen in a new role in the stage force, "Wanted A Husband," which will be offered to the public next Thursday evening. His versatility and charm were never more apparent than in this role of promoter of a matrimonial agency and dispenser of love pellets and aids to beauty.

A club of some twenty unattractive and love-starved spinsters has as its sole purpose the securing of husbands. Mmes Robey, Mullings, and M. H. Kelly are officers of the club. The club seems to be failing to accomplish its purpose until Mr. Condey comes along with a complete line of love pellets and a very wonderful machine called an electric transform(her). The club members are persuaded to submit themselves to this "transform(her)," and some amazingly funny results issue. The clever farce is a scream from the time the first club member arrives till the last one goes through the "marvelous machine."

This comedy in one act will be preceded by a kiddies revue, under the direction of Mrs. Joe Stephen. The first part of this will be a stylized promenade, with prizes going to the best boy and girl models. Only children under six will be used. The second part of the kiddies revue consists of a sleepyland act, with the same children as were in the fashion revue. Miss Lucille Brogden furnishes an attractive background for this act, with a clever piano, and during the entire performance. About twenty-five youngsters will be featured.

In connection with the meeting of the matrimonial club, a boys and girls chorus will be used, to recall to the minds of the spinsters the good old days of long ago.

If you enjoy an evening of pure fun and don't mind laughing till the tears come, be on hand next Thursday evening at the Methodist church. The entertainment is given under the direction of members of the Belle Bennett circle. The price of admission are ten and twenty-five cents. Lay aside dull cares for one evening and come enjoy this uproarious comedy.

Harrison Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Thomas, has returned from a trip to Galveston, Eagle Pass and Corpus Christi.

The Sauce of Life

Go out the lotus of the Nile, and drink the popples of Gathay" sounds like something to do—at least something different at this season of the year when one tires of the usual eats and drinks. But even a Nile resident probably tires of saying "pass the popples."

Luckily, in every clime, there are always new sauces. And a new sauce is to food what a new gown is to a woman—a transformation. Here are three sauces to add zest.

Try One Today

Peas: Heat sauce. Chop and add cap butter and one spoon. Let over a hour. Add one-fourth teaspoon vanilla. Use-thirds cup head and drained canned peas. Chill. Serve with hot maddie, such as Brown Betty, or hot pie. Savory Mashroom Sauce: Melt two tablespoons butter and brown slightly in pan; add two and one-half tablespoons flour and stir smooth. Add sufficient water to be liquor from a 4-ounce can mushrooms to make one and one-half cups of liquid. Add slowly, stirring until thick. Then add one teaspoon kitchen bouquet, salt and pepper to taste, and the mushrooms sliced. Reheat and serve with veal loaf or other meats.

Chopped Asparagus Sauce: Melt two tablespoons butter, add one-half teaspoon curry powder, one-half teaspoon celeri salt, then two tablespoons flour and stir until thick. Add slowly one and three-fourths cups rich milk or cream, stirring constantly until creamy. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add one-half cup canned asparagus cut in small pieces. This is delicious served with fish.

FROM THE GREAT PLAY BY AUGUSTUS THOMAS

NOVELIZATION BY ARRANGEMENT WITH

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
At the Army and Navy game Bob Denton star player, is laid up with a sprained shoulder. During the final play he is put into the match to kick a goal and becomes the hero of the hour. His guardian, Col. Bonham, goes to greet the lad and invite him to meet a group of girls that are wild about Bob. The lad refuses and goes to see Evelyn Palmer. He seems worried and it alarms Evelyn.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Don't be silly, Ev—I'm all right," Bob declared as he moved away from her, his mood unchanged. He picked up a match box from a table to light his cigarette. As he did so, his eyes suddenly lit upon a photograph of Bonita, Evelyn's young sister. He picked it up. "Sure is pretty—this sister of yours," he said.
Evelyn was relieved to see Bob take an interest in something. "She'll be dangerous competition for me. I'm not so sure I want you to meet her."
Bob continued to gaze at the photograph. "Ever tell her about us?"

"Quits" it is and no hard feelings." She put out her hand for him to shake it. As he took it, he noticed a tear in her eye and attempted to speak, but she checked him.
"I'd like to celebrate," she said after an awkward pause during which she regained her composure. "I'd like to have one farewell evening with you. We could have dinner and then go to the Army-Navy dance."
Bob checked her. That was out of the question. "I'm sorry, Evelyn. I can't do it tonight. I'm going to the dance with the colonel and some friends. You know the kind of people they are. They wouldn't understand."
"So you don't think I'm good enough for them." She wheeled upon him, highly infuriated. "You don't think I'll fit in. It's suddenly become very clear to me. You don't love me. Bob. You never did. I've just been another woman as far as you are concerned. Some day you'll be sorry for this." She turned fiercely from him and stomped into a chair. He moved toward her and tried to speak. "Please go away," she murmured.
Bob stood watching her sympathetically for a few moments and then knowing that his protests would prove futile, he turned and left.
Both Bob and Evelyn went to the Army-Navy dance; but not together. In fact they did not meet all evening. Evelyn and Colonel Bonham were too busy bidding against each other for the football used in the game and which was autographed by Bob. The lad, annoyed at Evelyn's bidding, turned to his companion and said, "This place is beginning to get on my nerves. How about going places?"
The girl readily adopted the suggestion and they left the place while the colonel and Evelyn vied with each other for the ball. Three hundred, four hundred, four hundred, five, four fifty. Here Evelyn stopped, but the colonel not knowing her limit and anxious to secure the trophy raised it to five hundred dollars and got it. Then, feeling that he owed an explanation to the girl, the colonel sought out Evelyn.
"I'm sorry I outbid you like that," he began. "But I wanted this ball more than anything else in the world. You see, Bob Denton is a sort of protegee of mine. So you'll forgive me, won't you, for snatching it right out of your hands? I'm sure it can't mean as much to you as it does to me."
"Hardly," said Evelyn, quietly.

the Moore franchise the gas user puts up his $10.00 deposit just as is now required. He also pays Moore $2.00 tapping charge, whereas the tapping charge is now $2.50. At present, if you use 1,000 feet of gas per month you pay $1.00; 2,000 feet $1.35, and then 75c per thousand for additional gas. To Moore you would pay $1.25 for 1,000 feet of gas per month; for 2,000 feet $1.25; for 3,000 feet, $1.50.

If you want to have a good laugh and feel good see "Wanted a Husband," Thursday night, at the Methodist church.

will pay 25 cents a month more under the Moore franchise, it is for them to say how much more they will gain by the lower 50c rate during the other 8 or 9 months in the year.
Others say Moore is not able to put in the gas lines. He is planning, he says, to make every reasonable showing in the very near future that he has the financial resources to enable him to perform his contract. Besides, Moore thinks if he gives the $25,000.00 to guarantee his performance of the contract, then Eastland ought to be satisfied. In addition to the bond guaranty, before Eastland has spent any money at all, Moore will have to lay his lines and be out about $125,000.00. Every gas user in Eastland is guaranteed to get 50 cent gas by a $25,000 bond and by an expenditure of $125,000. How Eastland would hum with good business right now, if a new gas system were installed now! Some people, however, talk like they think a new gas system would hurt business locally. I think it would bring back a little business boom to our little city.

The two objections being urged above are to me without much merit. The proposed franchise would make much money for Eastland people. And if and when Mr. Moore shows me he has the financial backing to put the gas system in, and that he has a reasonably ample source of gas supply of a proper quality, I shall then recommend to you that we sign the written agreement to tie on to his lines when they are ready.

"Looks like we are not going to see much of each other from now on," said Bob.
(Posed by LAURA LA PLANTE AND JOHN WAYNE)

Evelyn looked at him quickly. "No. Why?"
The youth became evasive. "Nothing. I was just wondering."
"The only thing I told her was that she might have a brother-in-law some day."
The mention of marriage gave Bob a start. He turned from her and placed the picture back on the dresser. He remained silent for a moment and then turned toward the girl.
"I graduate this fall. Chances are I'll be assigned to Colonel Bonham's post in Arizona."
The girl's eyes were riveted on the lad. She knew what was coming and was helpless to avert it. The boy nervously fiddled with something on the desk.
"Looks like we're not going to see much of each other from now on," he continued. "We can't go on like this indefinitely. So I thought in fairness to you—"
"I understand." The girl, bitterly hurt, turned and walked away.
"I'm sorry to spring it on you like this, Ev. I know it's kind of sudden. But it's got to be done and I wanted to be honest with you."
She was quiet, but bitter in her reply. "What we've been to each other hasn't meant a thing to you, has it, Bob?"
"Of course it has, Hon. But I thought everything was understood between us. We weren't going to account to each other or ask questions. When one of us was ready to shout 'quits'—that was going to be that."
There was a hysterical note in her voice as she tried to check back the tears and smile. "All right, Bob.

concerned. Some day you'll be sorry for this." She turned fiercely from him and stomped into a chair. He moved toward her and tried to speak. "Please go away," she murmured.
Bob stood watching her sympathetically for a few moments and then knowing that his protests would prove futile, he turned and left.
Both Bob and Evelyn went to the Army-Navy dance; but not together. In fact they did not meet all evening. Evelyn and Colonel Bonham were too busy bidding against each other for the football used in the game and which was autographed by Bob. The lad, annoyed at Evelyn's bidding, turned to his companion and said, "This place is beginning to get on my nerves. How about going places?"
The girl readily adopted the suggestion and they left the place while the colonel and Evelyn vied with each other for the ball. Three hundred, four hundred, four hundred, five, four fifty. Here Evelyn stopped, but the colonel not knowing her limit and anxious to secure the trophy raised it to five hundred dollars and got it. Then, feeling that he owed an explanation to the girl, the colonel sought out Evelyn.
"I'm sorry I outbid you like that," he began. "But I wanted this ball more than anything else in the world. You see, Bob Denton is a sort of protegee of mine. So you'll forgive me, won't you, for snatching it right out of your hands? I'm sure it can't mean as much to you as it does to me."
"Hardly," said Evelyn, quietly.

Chief Lee Reid Has a Birthday

Chief of Police Lee Reid of Eastland celebrated his sixtieth birthday on Saturday, August 8, and his family gave him a big dinner to commemorate the occasion. The center of the table, which was loaded with delicious edibles, was occupied by a huge birthday cake decorated with sixty lighted candles. The chief, who is in perfect health and condition physically, was able to blow all of the candles out with one breath.
Chief Reid has been on the Eastland police force for some time and was formerly a deputy sheriff in the county. He is very popular both as a man and as an officer.

Red Cross Help Not Needed Here

"Runt" Shingleton, Ranger barber, in discussing the business conditions gave interesting news to everyone. "Runt" lives seven miles north of Ranger in the Oakley community and drives to and from work. He says the farmers are saving their corn tops, putting away all feed and not wasting a thing. Cows and hogs are in good condition, which means milk and butter and plenty of fresh meat for winter. And as to canning, his immediate family, which consists of himself, his wife and two children and father and mother, have over 200 cans stored away and have hardly begun. Mr. Shingleton is very proud of the community in which he lives.
Ben Cunningham, prosperous farmer of the Oakley community, has installed a syrup mill and is running at full capacity, making "lasses" for the neighbors on the share basis and also grinding up ribbon cane for his own use.
Miss Marjorie Boren of Baird visited her aunt, Mrs. Ed F. Willman this week. Miss Agnes Boren of Carthage is also visiting her aunt, Mrs. Willman.

Slump And Autos Are Blamed For Missing Persons

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The automobile and the depression both have been held responsible for an increase in a division of police work, this time for the increased number of missing persons in Pennsylvania.

Reports to the state police for the first six months of 1931 showed that 893 persons were reported missing from home. The 1930 total for the same period was 468.

Officials commenting on the increase blamed dissatisfaction with conditions in general and the ease with which a person may adopt the role of "hitch-hiker" for the almost 100 per cent increase.

A new statute in Illinois prohibits carrying in an automobile firearms meant for criminal usage. Looks like a body blow at the motor car business.

VICTIMS AND SCENE OF MICHIGAN'S MYSTERIOUS "GASOLINE MURDERS"

Vivian Gold

Curious farmer folks are shown here examining the wreckage of the automobile in which the battered and burred bodies of two girls and their youthful escorts were found in a lane near Ypsilanti, Mich., supposedly the victims of "petting party handits."

Bodies of the four young people—Vivian Gold, 16, Cleveland, O.; Anna May Harrison, 16, Cleveland; Harry Lore, 17, Ypsilanti, and Thomas Wheatley, 16, Bellville, Mich.—were pulled from the blazing auto by farmers awakened by sounds of a struggle. The murderers were believed to have beaten their victims, placed the bodies in the car, poured gasoline over them and set fire to it.

SUMMER SWALLOWS By Jane Rogers

TO revive the hot and dusty tennis players and weary golfers, not to mention the porch brigade who just sit and try to keep cool, there is nothing like a well prepared iced beverage. Its frosty coolness will quickly drive away thoughts of the oppressive heat, while generous sweetening with sugar will provide renewed energy for the fagged out players and rocking chair athletes alike. Frosty Mint. Crush one bunch fresh mint. Combine juice with the juice of five lemons. Add one-half cup water, boiling hot, and one and a half cups sugar. Let stand one-half hour. Just before serving add three bottles of ginger ale. Serve in the new, squat glasses, with an ice cube, a maraschino cherry and a slice of lemon in each glass.

MILLIONAIRES SPURN BEDS IN MANSIONS TO "HIT THE HAY" IN BARN LOFTS

HO, HUM! THIS IS REAL LUXURY, sighed J. Clark Coit, below, charter member and president of the Society of Hay Mow Sleepers, as he relaxed in a Pullman berth bedded with hay to test its sleep-producing qualities on a trip from Chicago to New York.

Business Chiefs Form Club for "Sleepers"

By NEA SERVICE
CHICAGO.—Listen, all you farm kids who have no place to sleep but in the hay mow. Quit feeling sorry for yourselves.

Millionaires, the very ones you have envied because they have mansions and beds and cool linen sheets, are so envious of you that they have banded together for the luxury of relaxing in fragrant hay mows.

Eight of them, in New York and Chicago, have formed the Society of Hay Mow Sleepers, the only purpose of which is to enable its members to satisfy their yearning to hit the hay. The unique organization is limited to business men who were brought up on a farm, those who have slept in hay mows, and those who never have but always longed to.

"Big Names" Belong
The following prominent business executives make up the roster of charter members: R. W. Jameson, executive vice president of the United Cigar Stores company; J. D. Burger, president of the Reiss-Premier Pipe company, New York; Charles R. Walgreen, head of the drug store chain; J. Clark Coit, president of the United States Radio and Television Corporation of Marion, Ind.; and Chicago; F. K. Morrow, vice president of the Gold Dust corporation, New York City; Craig B. Hazelwood, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Arthur Walsh, vice president of Thomas Edison, Inc., New York City; and Wheeler Simmons, president of the Utah Radio Products company of Chicago.

It all started recently when Mr. Coit was attending a party at the summer home of Mr. Walgreen near Dixon, Ill. There were more guests than beds, so Mr. Coit decided he wanted to sleep in the barn. A bed was prepared for him in the hay mow. He awoke the next morning, tremendously enthusiastic. The night in the hay had recalled most delightful memories of his boyhood days.

and he had slept like a child. Hay More Restful

"Sleeping in a hay mow is more restful than in bed," he declared. "To test his sincerity, his friends arranged with the porter to have his berth bedded with hay when he made a trip to New York later. Mr. Coit passed the test, sleeping soundly.

This incident awakened the desire in others to rest in the fresh-smelling beds, and the society was born, with Mr. Coit elected its president by straw vote. "This organization may be somewhat unique," said Mr. Coit, "but there are a lot of unusual organizations in this country and after all, many of our greatest pleasures are found far from the beaten path."

Meets in Barns.
Meeting places of the society will be located in barns in various parts of the country, with plenty of hay for sleeping purposes. Two have already been established—one at the Walgreen summer home and the other at Mr. Jameson's farm in Antwerp, N. H. Mr. Coit plans to equip a club barn at his birthplace in Missouri Valley, Ia. Each member is pledged to provide a similar barn, so that eventually every state will have its own. There are no initiation or membership fees. The three classes of members are those who have slept in hay mows from necessity, those who slept in hay mows from choice, and those who never slept in them but always wanted to.

Sing Sing Cabaret At Le Touquet Is Gaining In Fame

PARIS.—France has a replica of Sing Sing, in the form of a cabaret just opened at Le Touquet, the fashionable French resort. Striking a direct blow at prohibition, M. Marcel Michoud, who has never even been to the United States, has succeeded in reproducing a typical New York atmosphere, according to his interpretation.

At his Sing Sing cabaret waiters and musicians are dressed in prison garb, with rubber balls and chains attached to their ankles. In the low-ceilinged room, lined with the sides of champagne cases, the barman at his counter is protected by rows of stout iron bars like those of a cell. There is an excellent dance band, with an Al Capone electric organ. On the opposite side of the room, in a small alcove, is a panorama of New York behind bars. Skyscrapers are seen in the distance and the Statue of Liberty is securely chained to her pedestal, with a bottle in one hand and a glass in the other.

M. Michoud has introduced very artistic lighting effects, and contrary to the custom of many cabarets, visitors are under no obligation to order costly bottles of champagne. Drinks of all kinds are served. The cabaret is below the street level, in typical speak-easy location, and in descending

Cisco Favors Cut Off On Highway

CISCO, Aug. 13.—A proposal that the Chamber of Commerce actively urge construction of the proposed Straw-to-Weatherford cutoff on Highway No. 1 east of Cisco was informally approved by the board of directors of the organization in regular meeting last night after it had been suggested by P. D. Wright. It was reiterated that this cut-off following a straight route through the southern part of Palo Pinto, would reduce the distance of Fort Worth by 13 or 14 miles and correspondingly save about half an hour in driving time. This revision of the present route of the highway was suggested by the highway commission some months ago but has been allowed to lag.

Mrs. W. P. Palm and daughter Billie Frances left last Saturday for Anson, where Mrs. Palm will visit her mother, Mrs. J. H. Edmonds.

the narrow and dimly lighted passageways are interesting sketches—one, a caricature of Gloria Swanson, done by herself, and another of M. Michoud, the owner. Over the entrance is a large cablegram, that reads as follows: "Sorry cannot be with you for opening of your cabaret. My friend Almara will replace me. Best wishes. Al Capone."

Taking the United States dyes for a still longer ride, the ingenious designer says that he is going to open three more Sing Sing cabarets in Paris, Berlin and London soon. The Le Touquet establishment is the center of attraction for the smart set of Normandy. Handcuffs are given to the gentlemen accompanied by ladies, to vouchsafe their remaining intact, and the ladies are given miniature scrub brushes and tin pails with which to scour the tables before the liquid refreshment is served through the bars of the bar by the barman.
