

Supporters of Hickman to Meet At 8:00 Tonight

Friends and supporters of J. E. Hickman of Eastland, who is a candidate for the place on the State supreme court now occupied by William Pierson, will hold a rally in his interest at the Eastland county courthouse this (Friday) evening at 8:00 o'clock. It will be the second rally of this kind in Judge Hickman's interest, one having been held here last Friday night.

At the first meeting L. R. Pearson of Ranger presided. The meeting was well attended and an organization with L. H. Flewellen of Ranger as chairman and L. R. Pierson as secretary was perfected.

Flewellen discussed briefly some plans for pushing the campaign and called for expressions from the floor. Virgil Seabury, Joe Jones and Judge Connor responded.

Judge O. C. Funderburk was called upon and explained the limitations placed upon the campaign expenses of a candidate for that office. It appears that only $500 may be spent by the candidate during the second campaign, which is a pitifully small sum to be spent in reaching nearly a million voters. Judge Funderburk explained that a candidate's friends may spend as much as $10 each in his behalf including postage, printing and legitimate campaign expenses.

After discussions from the floor which were participated in by various persons, it was decided to attempt to raise a fund with which to buy printed mailing pieces and get them distributed shortly before the second primary.

Headquarters have been opened here at Judge Cyrus Frost's office. R. E. Sikes was elected chairman of the Eastland division of the organization and Mrs. Joe Stephens and B. E. McGlamery volunteered to assist in soliciting funds.

Forest Wright was elected chairman of Cisco, L. H. Flewellen for Ranger, Jake Alford for Rising Star, Frank Dean for Gorman, J. H. Rushing for Desdemona, J. H. Smith for Olden and Wirt Speer for Carbon.

Another meeting will be held in the 1st courtroom next Friday evening, Aug. 12 at which time representatives from all communities will be expected to report their activities and plans will be perfected for sending out the literature and for personal solicitation at important voting boxes in the state.

Supporters of Hickman Open Headquarters

Supporters of Judge Hickman in his race for the Democratic nomination for the place of Associate Justice of the Supreme court opened offices Tuesday in the store building on the south side of the square between Betty Drug store and Morris Grocery.

The office is equipped with desks and typewriters and a large order for printed pamphlets has been placed. These pamphlets will be distributed from the office. They will be paid for by the supporters of Judge Hickman, each buying an amount of pamphlets.

R. E. Sikes is in charge of the office and also in charge of handling the distribution of printed matter. The co-operation of Eastland people who have influential acquaintance in other parts of the state is asked in directing the printed matter to the proper parties.

Mrs. Moore who so ably assisted Mrs. Funderburk in Judge Funderburk's recent campaign is at the Hickman headquarters giving the supporters the benefit of her valuable experience.

A meeting of the supporters of Judge Hickman has been called for Friday night at which time a report of activities will be made and further plans made for the activities of the judge's friends.

All activities will be conducted strictly in accordance with the election laws of the state and strict adherence to every ruling will be made without exception.

Prairie Chickens Flourish in West

FORT WORTH.—An abundant supply of prairie chickens in the West Texas and South Plains area is promised hunters for the brief fall hunting season, according to reports received here from O. D. Cardwell, deputy state game warden.

The season lasts but four days, Sept. 1 to 4, but is expected to attract many hunters from the Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, and San Antonio districts, Cardwell said.

R. E. Sikes and sons, Bob and J., spent a couple of days the last of the week on Mr. Sikes' farm near Snyder.

Garrett Is Asked To Delay Tax Levy

County Judge Clyde L. Garrett is in receipt of a telegram from Gov. Ross S. Sterling, in which the governor advises the commission to refrain from making any tax levy until after the special session of the legislature on Sept. 13. The session, which has been called by the governor, will be for the purpose of enacting a bill for the purpose of relieving counties of bonded indebtedness on their road bonds.

Eastland county, with road bonds totaling $3,151,000, will receive much benefit from the legislation being sponsored by Governor Sterling.

The telegram from the governor reads: "I request you to defer making a county tax levy insofar as highway bonds are concerned until legislative passes on tax relief measure at special session early in September."

Eastland County Potato Growers Receive Blanks

Sweet potato growers who had their fields inspected for diseases last fall for certification of seed have received blanks for use in requesting inspection again this fall. Other growers may secure this inspection service free of cost by applying direct to the Texas Agricultural Department at Austin or by notifying the county agent.

Application should be made during August so that the inspector may be scheduled in the county for sufficient time to visit all fields where he is wanted.

This inspection service aids the grower in producing disease free seed even though no seed or plants are to be offered for sale and should be utilized by all sweet potato growers. A state law prohibits the sale of sweet potato seed or plants that are not certified as being free of diseases. The law has not been enforced giving growers opportunity to get inspection if it was desired.

Eastland Rotary Club Hears Plan For a City Field

The Rotary club held its usual meeting during the noon luncheon hour on Connellee roof, Monday, with the president, James Horton, in the chair, and Secretary Curtis A. Hertzig ready with minutes of past sessions and taking reports. The program was confined entirely to the subject of aviation, opened for discussion, following the introduction of the speaker-guest, Mrs. Agnes Harwood Doyle, presented by the program chairman for the day, F. O. Hunter and Curtis Hertzig.

Mrs. Doyle launched immediately into her subject, when called upon by President James Horton, with the statement that she had thought of preparing a fine speech, but decided afterward to just give them facts about aviation, the benefit an aviation training field would be to Eastland, and the advantage to the city of having such a field.

She said if there were a project undertaken as had been suggested to try and secure the government field, it would mean a tedious wait of six months or longer, and much red tape; and if secured, the city would have to pay the government the $300 still owing Mrs. Susan Steele, on the land, which the American Legion incurred and has not paid.

This would be as much money, she stated, as is required to establish the city field, which would be an accomplished fact, by the time the government dealings could be instituted, with the hangar yet to build.

That Eastland could be the center of this community in repairing planes, and dwell on the amount of patronage and business Eastland would receive in the event a city owned aviation field was established for training purposes.

Much interest was expressed in the various points presented by Mrs. Doyle, and a round table discussion on aviation followed.

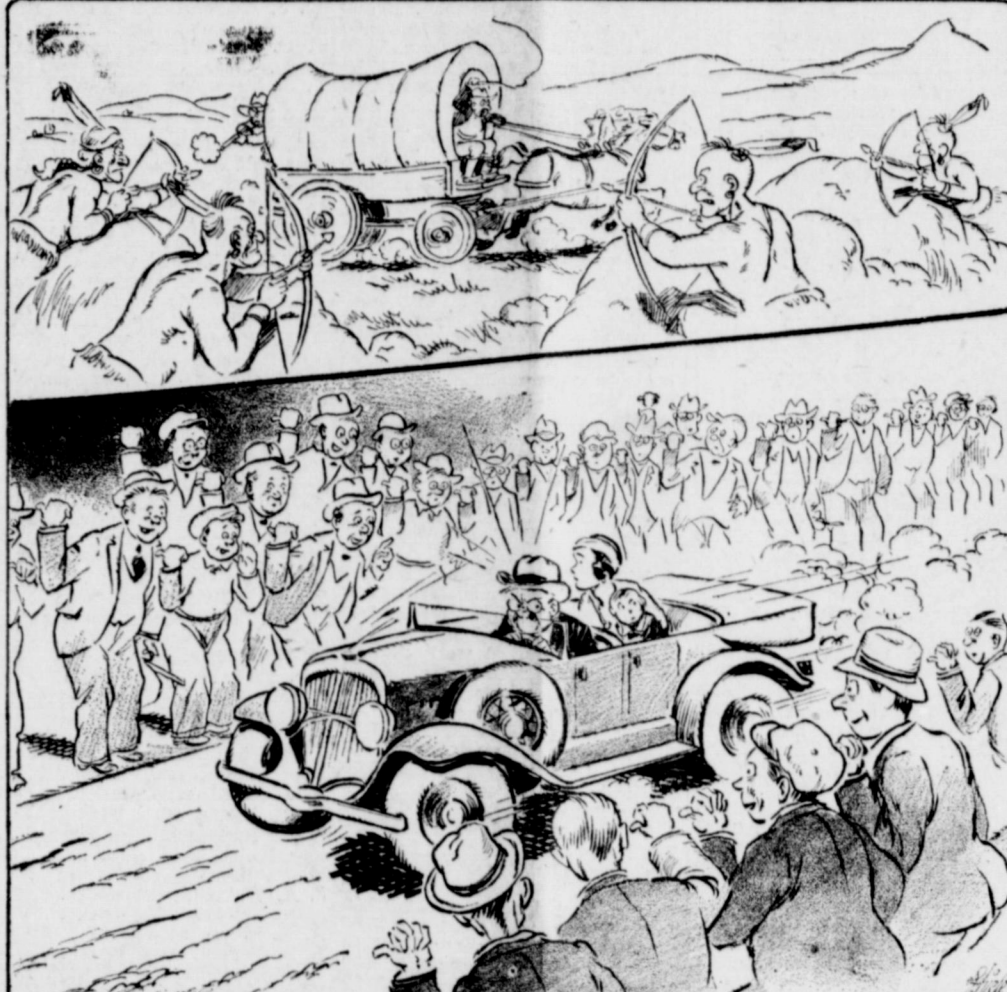

The speaker closed her informative talk by quoting Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem on "Are You a Lifter, or Are You a Leaner?" declaring Eastland was her home town, and she was unselfishly interested in the opportunities presented to the city's welfare.

The president appointed Leslie Gray, chairman of an investigating committee on the aviation project, with authority to select his own committee, and instructions to report the result of his investigation to the Rotary club next Monday.

Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of Chamber of Commerce, also a guest of the club, discussed the outlook for the fall.

The president will appoint a committee from the Rotarians later on, which will meet with

Farmers to Get Financial Aid

AUSTIN.—Financial aid from the federal government is essential to a successful back-to-the-farm movement in the opinion of J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture.

To be successful, he said, such a movement must primarily place the unemployed upon land which can produce practically all of the food crops necessary for the family.

True back-to-the-farm plans should not be confused with attempts of some eastern industrialists and manufacturers to have their employees cultivate gardens while living in the city, he cautioned.

In McDonald's opinion, the return of many unemployed city dwellers would start a definite rehabilitation of rural life. "There are only two places to which the permanently unemployed may go," McDonald said, "to the bread line, through the dole system such as England has, or to a small farm, which is the only place we know where a man may provide the major necessities for a family."

"It would be wise for the United States to study closely, and benefit from the experience of England with the dole system," the commissioner asserted. "A few years ago the British government had unemployment which they considered temporary. They established the dole system with less than 500,000 people accepting it at that time, directly or indirectly, but it was claimed last January, by reliable sources, the British government had something like 14,000,000 people accepting the dole directly. In other words, a few years ago the British government had the dole system, but today the dole system has the British government."

"Ordinarily, the unemployed worker, who had an inclination to go back to the farm, could rent a place and be financed by the land owner, the local banker or the credit merchant, but today neither of these three can or will do this class of financing.

"If these people, who are now unemployed, have in the past supported the government with their money and with their sons when the country needed defending, then surely the government has an obligation to them in this critical period."

McDonald's plan for a back-to-the-farm movement briefly is this: Congress should appropriate money for a revolving fund to finance the movement, and to aid those now on farms but facing mortgage foreclosure to retain their homes.

Those unemployed who are desirous of being established on a farm would be loaned sufficient funds from the revolving fund to be located on a farm, for which long term bonds of low interest rate would be given to the government. The government may use these bonds as collateral upon which the treasury can issue currency to provide money for the revolving fund. In this manner, according to McDonald, the government would be merely lending its credit to its people and the interest on the bonds would defray all costs to the government.

The plan proposed by the Texas Commissioner of agriculture was presented to several congressional leaders early in June and received favorable comment. It is expected the plan will be incorporated in a bill to be presented at the December session of Congress.

They also located and took three suits of clothes lying on the bank, when they found three boys swimming in Sabanno creek.

They brought clothes, still and whisky to town and expect to get the boys soon, as they know who they are.

Amendments to Constitution to Be Voted Upon

AUSTIN, Aug. 8.—Texas voters will have nine proposed changes in the state's constitution to pass upon on general election day, Nov. 8.

Still remembering the last constitutional amendment and how it failed to work as had been heralded, the voters probably will scan the new proposals with careful eye. The last amendment provided for 120-day sessions of the state legislature with 30 days for offering bills, 30 days for hearings, and 60 days for action. It was heralded as providing a business like schedule with one long session to replace numerous short ones. In connection with it legislators' pay was doubled. Then came the awakening. The legislature at one swoop swept aside the provisions for division of time, exercising a four-fifths vote prerogative which the people assumed would apply only to taking up individual measures out of turn. The 120-day session lasted 131 days and has been followed by two special sessions and a third announced for September.

The amendments the people are asked to authorize this time are:

- (1) To allow the legislature to release delinquent taxes which have been due for 10 years.
- (2) To exempt from state taxation $3,000 of the assessed taxable value of all resident homeowners.
- (3) To authorize the legislature to make an appropriation for the proposed Texas Centennial celebration in 1936.
- (4) To lessen the vote required to vote bonds for seawalls, breakwaters, and sanitation in counties bordering on the Gulf of Mexico.

Now two-thirds of all the property owners must vote for such improvements. If the constitution is changed as proposed only two-thirds of those who participate in the election must vote for bonds.

(5) To require those voting in elections to fix an indebtedness on a political subdivision must have rendered property for taxation.

(6) To combine the offices of tax assessor and tax collector.

(7) To have court costs in sale of property for delinquent taxes and to provide more liberal opportunity for redemption. Now double the sale price must be paid to redeem the property. If the proposed constitutional change is made recovery can be made inside a year for 25 per cent and a dollar recording fee and for 50 per cent and the recording fee the second year.

(8) To return the constitutional provisions as they formerly were regarding the use of the permanent fund for the University of Texas. A recent amendment permitted the regents to pledge the income to raise a building fund.

(9) To extend voting and office holding privileges to men in military service as reserves.

Sen. Bob Stuart Speaks For Gov. Ross Sterling

Former Senator R. A. Stuart, speaking in behalf of Governor Ross Sterling, who was prevented from filling his speaking engagements in Eastland county because of a sudden illness, addressed crowds in Ranger, Eastland and Cisco Thursday.

The speaker launched into his talk with a reference to the statement made by Ferguson in the last campaign in which he accused Sterling of having a home with 29 bathtubs. He said that Ferguson had a fine home in Austin that was called the "home pardons built," but that if Ferguson had 100 bathtubs, he could not be washed clean.

He mentioned that federal aid, which was denied the state of Texas under the Ferguson administration because the federal government would not trust the governor with the funds, had been reinstated when Sterling was chairman of the highway commission and had been retained since. He said that when Mrs. Ferguson was governor one of many examples of mishandling funds was when a certain county borrowed a tractor from the state and kept it for some time and rented it to the state for $235 a month. He said that with Ferguson in office no federal aid would be available again and the state would lose $20,000,000 in road aid.

He charged that Ferguson had been a lobbyist for the big oil companies during a recent session of the legislature, yet he had claimed that Sterling was a tool of these same companies.

Senator Stuart called attention to the fact that the state ad valorem tax was 77 cents under the Ferguson administration, the highest it had been under any governor before or since and that with this high tax the schools had received only $12.50 per scholastic, where, under the Sterling administration the schools had received $17.50.

He pointed out the savings that were being obtained for the small home owner by the exemption of homes to $3,000 from ad valorem tax and by the elimination of the tax for the interest and principal on the county road bonds. He said that this saving alone would enable the people to buy several Jersey cows and a flock of chickens within a few years.

Reference was made to a recent query as to how Sterling would maintain the state with this decreased revenue and the speaker explained that a tax of about $8,000,000 a year from cigarettes, a tax of $1,000,000 a year on sulphur, which would be paid by New York business and approximately $10,000,000 would be obtained from the 42 barrels from each 100 barrels produced by the 112 wells in the bed of the Sabine river, all of which goes to the state, would take care of the savings that would be made for the small man and the small home owner. Ferguson's plan, the speaker said, would not benefit the little man but would benefit the large corporations and the owners of large city buildings.

"Sterling," he said, "is truly the best friend the average person ever had in the governor's chair."

He ended his address with a plea that all who wanted good government, honesty in government, and a saving of many dollars a year for the small taxpayer, to vote for Governor Ross S. Sterling.

Speakers for Mrs. Ferguson followed Stuart in his speech here. The crowd, which appeared to be at least fifty-five, listened for Ferguson and Sterling, listened to both speeches and applauded frequently.

Opening Dates For Schools of County Are Set

At the August meeting of the Eastland county school board after classifying schools of the county the board set the following dates for the opening of the various schools:

All nine-month schools to be open by Sept. 12, 1932.

All eight-month schools to be open by Oct. 8, 1932.

All other schools to be open by Nov. 14, 1932.

The board passed an order joining Erath county in the formation of the Rush Creek county line district No. 70 to be administered by Erath county. Tanner district No. 6 in Eastland county was added to the Rush Creek district in Erath county.

At the recent meeting of the state board of education the state apportionment for the year 1932-1933 was set at $16. This is a cut of $1.50 per capita from last year and we are not positively assured that the $16 will be reached this year. There remains a balance of $4.50 per capita to be paid on last year's apportionment and this will be paid before the first payment is made for 1932-1933.

The appropriation for state aid for the year 1932-1933 is $2,500,000. The applications last year far exceeded the appropriation. The state board of education has authorized the state department of education to say that the appropriation for this year will not be sufficient to meet the claims which will be made and that state aid for this year will be distributed on the following basis:

Salary Aid—Teachers' salaries to be paid for the term of six months on the basis of salaries actually paid, provided the salaries do not exceed the state schedule.

High School Apportionment Aid—Allow $10 for each resident high school pupil enrolled in high school. This does not affect the rural schools except in rare cases.

Transportation Aid—Allow an amount equal to one-half the cost of transportation, not to exceed $240 per bus. The amount of aid received by a district for transporting pupils shall not exceed $1 per pupil per month for each pupil transported.

Industrial aid has been cut from $50 to $35 per year for the maintenance for either a home economics or a farm mechanics department.

Consolidation Aid—The amount to be allowed for paying consolidation bonuses for the school year 1932-1933 will be determined after applications for other aid have been received.

High School Tuition—The law provides that an amount not to exceed $400,000 may be used out of the rural aid fund for the school year 1932-1933 to pay tuition of non-resident high school pupils. The state board was of the opinion that this amount would probably not pay more than 50 per cent of the claims. Only 60 per cent of the high school tuition allowed for the present year has been paid. Instructions are that a warrant has been mailed for that amount.

The Purchase of Equipment—The state board of education has sent the following instructions relating to the purchase of equipment in state aid schools. School boards are advised not to spend money for equipment and furniture to meet state aid requirements, if the district has to create an indebtedness to purchase same.

W. C. Campbell of the Sinclair Prairie returned Saturday from a delightful trip to California, where he attended the Shriners convention in San Francisco.

Old Settlers to Open Reunion at Desdemona Today

The second annual Old Settlers Reunion will be officially opened at Desdemona Friday with an address of welcome by Mayor J. H. Rushing. County Judge Clyde Garrett will respond to the welcoming address.

An entertainment program consisting of Rodeo and baseball has been arranged. Candidates for county offices will speak on Friday afternoon and speakers representing the candidates for governor will speak during the Saturday program.

Acceptances of invitations sent out by the committee have been received from former residents of Desdemona from all parts of Texas. The old timers will return and enjoy reminiscences among themselves of the days before the oil boom and during the boom.

Desdemona was originally called Hogtown because of its location on the banks of Hog Creek which was made famous by the publicity given Hog Creek Caruth who promoted and drilled the wells that brought in big production there in 1919.

After the town grew into a sizeable settlement with hotels, a newspaper, electric lights, amusements, etc., the citizens thought it should have a more inviting name than Hogtown and the name of Desdemona was selected.

When the Jake Hamon railroad was built through that section an attempt was made to move the original townsite to the newly laid out plat of Jakehamon, which was on the railroad and had its depot. The attempt was unsuccessful and after a short time Jakehamon dwindled to nothing and the railroad was connected up with Desdemona and the depot moved there.

Desdemona has, of course, lost considerable in both population and business volume since the oil activities. But it is still one of the liveliest communities in the county and its citizens take an active interest in all county affairs.

W. C. Bedford, former county clerk and an unsuccessful candidate in the first primary, is co-operating with Mayor Rushing in making the reunion a success.

Sheriff Raids Home In Cisco

Sheriff Foster accompanied by Loss Woods, Grant Daniels and Officer Gustavon of Cisco, raided a place on the Cisco lake road Wednesday afternoon and broke up approximately 600 bottles of home-brew.

"Mother" Stuart, owner of the place, had charges filed against her in Justice Newman's court. It is said she will plead guilty when her case is called for trial today.

The sheriff's forces said the woman had several dozen bottles of ice cold and ready to serve, but that she had no one in the place at the time of the raid.

District Rally For Sterling Planned

A district Sterling-for-governor rally, announced for Friday night in Abilene, starting at 8 o'clock, will be an all-woman's program—first of its kind this section, noted for its hot politics, has had.

"But that does not mean," said Mrs. Dallas Scarborough of Abilene, announcing the district rally, "that we expect only women to attend. We want the men, too. We want them to come in numbers, from far and near, to hear the women's side of the gubernatorial campaign—why the women of West Texas are supporting Governor Sterling."

Mrs. Ross Sterling, wife of the governor, and Mrs. Cone Johnson of Tyler, women's state chairman, will be the principal speakers. Three-minute talks will be given by women's county chairmen from the 12 counties of the 24th senatorial district. Music will be furnished by the Abilene high school band, and a loud speaker system will be used.

Mrs. Scarborough is district chairman for women.

Tom Downtain Is Injured By Fall

Uncle Tom Downtain, one of the pioneer citizens of Eastland, received a broken arm just above the wrist Wednesday at noon when he fell on the north steps of the courthouse.

"Uncle Tom," as he is familiarly called by those who know him, is a frequent visitor at the courthouse, sitting in the various offices and entering into discussions of political affairs. He was climbing the steps on his way to the inside of the courthouse when he lost his footing and fell on the steps.

His fracture was dressed by a physician and he was taken home where it was said he was resting well last night. He was seen at the courthouse this morning.

At the points once occupied by the extra wings, these insects now have protruding knobs that, according to scientists, act as balancers, for if these are cut off the insect cannot fly.

THE AARD-YARK is now to be found only in Africa, but recent discoveries seem to indicate that this queer animal, or a close relative, once roamed the area that is now Wyoming. Fossil remains have been found in that state, and the curious teeth are like those of the present day Aard-Yark. The name Aard-Yark comes from the Boer-Dutch language and means "earth-pig." But the animal is not related to pigs.

Character Engineering

Editor's Note—The following article taken from The Crescent, official publication of the English speaking society of Kwansai Gakuin College, Kobe, Japan, was written by Prof. Joe J. Mickle, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Mickle of Eastland, and a teacher in the college.

By PROF. JOE J. MICKLE, JR.
Character building is something that we all hear a great deal of. It is recognized as one department of our educational life which is today lagging behind. There is rarely an assembly of noted educators without the question being discussed. And yet it was only a short while ago that Dr. Albert E. Wiggan, distinguished American author, reporting the results of a conference of leading American educators on character building, said that "Many plans were presented yet not a single person was bold enough to claim that he had any sure-fire method." But then Dr. Wiggan went on to add, "Nevertheless, I believe there is one man who has developed a method of character education that should be tried at once in every home and school and prison in the land. His name is J. Franklin Wright, D. C. S., of Detroit. The degree D. C. S., which appears after his name means Doctor of Common Sense." (This degree was conferred on him by prisoners in a certain American prison because of the great good he had done them. It is perhaps the only degree ever conferred on anyone by a group of prisoners.)

Dr. Wright's character building, or "human engineering" as it is called, grew out of his desire to conquer certain bad habits in his own life. Quoting further from Dr. Wiggan's account, "One night Wright went to bed thinking hard on the reasons for living without this hampering habit—reasons of health, nerves, money and dignity. These thoughts so filled his mind that the next morning, to his own astonishment his desire for these bad habits had simply vanished. It is a literal fact that when your mind is filled with the right course of action, thoughts of the wrong course simply get no chance for a look in.

"In other words, Wright woke up to the fact—the soundest in all psychology—that the will is nothing but a set of habits, and that habits are just the things we think about, and that we can control our thinking. If you once see this clearly, you can control your life."

Wright had discovered the great truth contained in the Old Testament (Proverbs 23:7), "As he thinketh in his heart, so is he." He also discovered that thought control was possible. With these two discoveries he reformed his own life.

Seeing that his method of thought control worked so well on himself, he soon tried the same on a few friends who needed help. Here it was also successful. He next began prison work and the success of his efforts are reported as follows:

"During the first year, 320 were released on parole. Had the average of that reformatory prevailed, 112 would have come back as parole violators. Only five did come back. The remainder became self-respecting citizens."

For seven years Wright worked among the prisoners with astonishing success and then someone suggested that he try his methods of character building in the public schools of Detroit. A council was formed for studying "human engineering." The resulting organization became known as the Pathfinders of America.

"Each human being," Wright teaches, "has just so much time and energy to spend. And life is just a big store with the price tag of everything tied to it. Those who ask is it worth the price? build up will power, right habits of thinking—in short, character. If you have right thoughts in your nervous system you will without effort decide on something worth while, something with a good price tag on it."

Dr. Wright makes much of these "price tags of life." He presents the fundamental laws of psychology in a language that even the simplest can understand. His success in building character in the schools of Detroit has been astonishing. Character building starts with the human mind, and it is here that Wright begins. Practically all of the ills of the world may be attributed to the fact that the minds of the masses are dominated by the wrong thoughts. I have just finished reading an article by an eminent sociologist entitled, "Are Militarists Feeble-Minded?" The military mind, the war mind, today stands in the need of Dr. Wright's thought control. For Dr. Wright's "character engineering" means mental regeneration by filling the mind with such wholesome thoughts that the right course of action becomes natural and easy. "As he thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Hermit's Casket Serves As Table

PERRIN, Texas.—Far from the bluster of his native Paris, France, the giant hermit of the Jack county hills sits beside the coffin in which he is to be buried—waiting for death.

That coffin, covered with a cloth, daily serves Albert Schnocke as a dining table in his remote little shack, away from the world. Eight years ago he drove into town with a neighboring rancher and out of his life's savings bought the black, satiny casket with the silver handles.

On top of the casket is a plate with the engraved words, "At Rest."

Schnocke passed his 90th birthday a short while ago—an event he celebrated by eating dinner spread on the coffin.

Little is known of this strange recluse, who began a hermit's life within the recall of only the oldest inhabitants. He cannot hear. He speaks in barely more than monosyllables. From his fragmentary speech a little of his life was learned.

Schnocke was born in Paris in 1842. He left France in youth to seek adventure in America. He joined the Union forces in the Civil war and was mustered out of service at old Fort Richardson, at Jacksboro, Texas.

He bought a few acres of land and a small hut near here. He fashioned his clothes from sacks and lived off the herbs and wild life of the hills. He was pictured as a "wild man" and only the bravest neighbors went near his cabin.

Old settlers folklore describe him as having killed more Comanche Indians during the early Indian wars than any white man.

What induced Schnocke to lead the life of a hermit, he alone knows. He never has married and has no known relatives. He never writes nor receives letters. His pastime is reading. His favorite work is Balza's "A Bachelor's Establishment." On the bed beside the coffin are a score of books such as Sarah Bernhardt's "Memoirs of My Life," "Modern European Civilization," and "Memoirs of the Empress Eugene."

In the one-room hut are a bed, a rude table, a trunk, two chairs, and a black iron kettle for cooking in the fireplace. But the coffin is the principle furnishing and Schnocke is grimly proud of it.

On the rare occasions when visitors call, he unscrews the lid of the coffin, shows them the casket, and with his shirt sleeve shines the plate with the engraved words "At Rest."

Hens Go Doggy Now

Hens on the farm of B. C. Morse, Reynoldsburg, Ohio, have taken to apartment living. Morse reconstructed an old dairy barn into a chicken "apartment" and the new abode of Mrs. Hen and her neighbors, shown above, has six floors, each accommodating 1000 birds. Chickens go into the apartment as pullets and never leave it until they are too old for profitable layers.
