Cows And Jobs Aiding Students In Texas Schools

Editors' Note: This is another of a series of articles showing how college education has gone on in Texas despite some effect from the depression. Previous articles have pointed out and explained a trend toward the smaller institutions.

DALLAS.—Earnest young Texans who want college educations but haven't any or enough money for the necessities have turned to several new types of part time work this fall.

The working college boy is traditional college orchestras are familiar and student magazine-selling has been joked about but those and other usual types of student work have been eclipsed by some found in a United Press survey.

The Parker county farm boy who brought his cows to Weatherford college, staked them nearby and sold milk and butter to pay his way, inspired a number of imitations. The survey shows he has imitators at four schools.

Five students at Howard Payne college, Brownwood, have cows and running dairies. Six others are selling home-cured meat to help pay their way. Several others sell home-canned products. Two boys at Baylor university, Waco, brought cows from home and are paying for their meals in a private home with the milk and butter.

Several students at John Tarleton college, Stephenville, have individual dairy herds and poultry flocks. Others there are feeding hogs and beef cows for the market. A group of Texas Technological college boys are paying their way by operating the college farm and dairy on the old XIT ranch.

One Austin college (Sherman) student runs his own cleaning and pressing plant. Countless others in nearly all institutions act as laundry agents.

One Texarkana junior college student drives a bus, another works for a telephone company and a third is a newspaper reporter. One Baylor university student is a city fireman after classes. At Abilene Christian college, the roster includes a shoe-repairer, a chauffeur, an electrician, several tutors and several students caring for children.

University of Texas students work in many state offices and one or two are members of the legislature. Some of them used to sleep in the treasury department as guards for the vault.

Part time ministers, barbers, bookkeepers, stenographers, instructors, graders, waiters, filling station operators, janitors, and odd-job boys among students run into the thousands.

Practically all the colleges have employment services or exchanges. These provide students for such work as lawn-mowing, chimney-repairing, picture hanging, fence-straightening and almost any other task an ambitious energetic boy or girl can do.

FIRM DISSOLVED

The law firm of Patterson, Grisham & Patterson has been dissolved by mutual consent of the members of the firm, Judge R. N. Grisham has announced. Dissolution of the firm was made necessary by reason of the fact that Judge B. W. Patterson, a member of the firm, will take the oath as judge of the 88th district court January 1st.

Talking About Us

The Weekly Chronicle appreciates very much its loyal friends throughout the county. We receive many complimentary remarks about the paper and are passing a few of the more recent ones on to you. As is our custom we do not give the names of those making statements quoted, but should anyone be interested in knowing the identity of anyone we quote we shall be more than glad to give them the name and address upon their application for same:

"You are publishing the best newspaper ever gotten out in Eastland. There is not only more news in it, but more information of benefit to the people than in any other paper," said a prominent Eastland man this week in commenting on the Chronicle.

Frank Jones is publishing one of the best weekly papers at Eastland that I ever saw. I always read it and find so much news of interest to me in it, said an Abilene man to an Eastland man in Abilene last week.

"For some reason I failed to get my Chronicle Friday morning and when it didn't come I was just lost. It sure is interesting and is the only Eastland paper that I read," said an Eastland woman this week.

"I read your paper every week and find much valuable news and information in it. I note there are firms in Eastland who never advertise in your paper. I also notice that they are among those who always want to sell the farmer something but never buy what he has to sell, said a farmer who resides near Gorman, this week.

"I get two Eastland weekly papers every week, but the Chronicle is the only one I ever read any more. The other one never has any news in it," said an Eastland woman.

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The Baptists of Eastland are anticipating a most pleasant and profitable day Sunday, Nov. 20, inasmuch as two unusual opportunities will be theirs. At the morning service, John Mason, the State Secretary of the Texas Baptists will speak. Mr. Mason is an outstanding layman, an able and forceful speaker, and Eastland is indeed fortunate in securing him for this service.

At the evening service, 7:15, the Knights of Pythias will have charge of the program. The speaker of the hour will be Hon. John Lee Smith of Throckmorton, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Texas. A most unusual feature of the evening will be the sacred concert given by the harmonic band from the Pythian Orphan Home, Weatherford. This band has been in Eastland upon several occasions, the remarkable programs being well remembered here. The public is cordially invited to attend both these unusual services.

The Sunday school at usual, 9:45 J. A. Carlisle, Supt. B. T. S. at 6:00, J. A. Ross, director.

RANGER MAN HURT

"Punk" Squires of Ranger was injured Saturday when his horse fell on him at the rodeo and he was pinne dunder the animal. His injuries were not serious.

NEW PASTOR

The First Christian church of Eastland announces that Rev. C. W. Lipsey of Randolph college at Cisco, has been secured for the regular Sunday morning services of the church.

The usual motley menage of spectators, so commonly found in a Night Court past midnight, roused themselves sleepily, shifted slightly in the uncomfortable chairs, and showed faint signs of reviving interest. The line-up had been unusually meager that night and there had been few cases of any interest.

The magistrate had had small change to use his famous unorthodox decisions. They would see what he would do now with this collection of street women in front of him.

The women who confronted the magistrate were of varied types. Some were old and dissolute, others young and pretty; some tried to hide their nervousness, others were openly defiant. One was different, however, Mae Keene sat with an easy air of nonchalance, her legs crossed high. She stared at the lining of Detective McKensie's hat. He was the sleuth who had brought her in.

"I know that some of you are first offenders, and, if given a chance, will reform. Yet the city must be protected against open and flagrant soliciting on its streets."

Mae's eyes suddenly focused on a small inscription in the detective's hat. It read: Made in Danbury, Conn. She smiled slightly. The magistrate was still talking.

"Try and make a fresh start. But don't come back here. If I spot you again—well, you won't find me so lenient."

Mae's weary glance left the hat and she looked up at the detective. "MacKensie, find out where the girls live," directed the magistrate. "See that they leave the city within twenty-four hours. Where necessary, furnish their transportation."

"Yes, sir."

"As for the others," the magistrate continued, "those who have nowhere to go—three months on Welfare Island."

Detective MacKensie personally escorted Mae to the train. He gave her some fatherly advice as the train started to pull out.

"Well, good luck, kid—and take my advice. Don't come back."

Mae waved at him. "Okay, Grandpa. I'll remember all your advice. I'll watch my diet, go to the dentist twice a year, and pray for you every night." She sneered, "to break a couple legs."

She impatiently paced the car aisle until the train stopped at 125th street. A protesting porter handed her her bag.

"But you got a ticket to Danbury, ma'am. You ain't left New York yet."

"Who wants to leave New York?" she told him dryly.

As she emerged onto the street, she suddenly felt her bag being taken from her hand. Mae turned in alarm, then heaved a relieved sigh. A taxi-cab starter was holding a door open for her. She hesitated for a moment before she stepped into the cab; she just couldn't resist the attention she was receiving.

Mae was suddenly aware of a very disquieting fact. The taxi meter had hit the dollar mark and was mounting steadily. Her gaze switched to the identification card. James Doyle. Umm—he wasn't bad looking either. She leaned forward in her seat.

"PHANTOM OF CRESTWOOD" MOST PUBLICIZED FILM

The picture which millions of persons have heard about. The picture that inspired two hundred thousand amateurs to turn mystery story writers. The most talked about story Hollywood has ever produced. Each of these rather startling phrases can be used to describe Radio Pictures Broadcast Special "The Phantom of Crestwood," opening at the Lyric Theatre Saturday night at 11 p. m.

For never before has an author's work, or a screen or a stage production had such a preparatory campaign as was given this feature. Planned and written both as radio drama and as a scenario, the opening installments of this thrilling story recently were broadcast in six weekly sequences over the great Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Millions of listeners heard the development of "The Phantom of Crestwood" each Friday night. These millions were urged, having heard all but the solution of the mystery, to write a 500 word ending as they would solve it. And for the best ending cash prizes totalling $8,000 were offered, via the radio, newspapers, periodicals and billboards.

Additional interest in this thriller of thrillers was aroused by a series of advance advertisements in national magazines, key city newspapers, and on theater screen and billboards throughout the country. Hears of the promotion estimate that a hundred million Americans and Canadians either have read or heard about "The Phantom of Crestwood."

For such a campaign months of preparation were necessary. Other months, fewer in number, were required by the Radio Studios in Hollywood to make ready for and to film the story. All in all, each factor considered, it can be claimed that "The Phantom of Crestwood" is the most famous mystery story of all time.

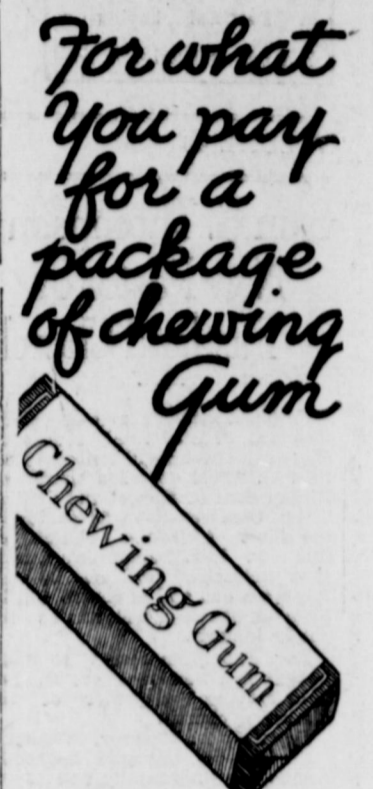

The cast in the "Phantom of Crestwood" is one of importance. Included are Karen Morley, Ricardo Cortez, H. B. Warner, Pauline Frederick, Ivan Simpson, Anita Louise, Tom Douglas, Matty Kemp, George E. Stone, Allen Pringle, "Skeets" Gallagher, Sam Hardy.

ning into that dick wouldn't be very healthy for me. And in a joint like this—

"Listen, Mae," said Lil tenderly, "hangin' around me ain't gonna get you nowhere. Why don't you get out. You're young yet."

"Did you ever try it? You've been around a long time."

Lil nodded. "Ever since I was seventeen."

Mae's eyes widened in surprise. "Seventeen!"

"Yeah," I did my Christmas shopping early. I woulda got out once, only I got a lousy break—I fell in love."

Toot's O'Neill came in abruptly. Mae disliked him at once. He had a greasy pile of conceit about him. Lil rushed over and kissed him.

"Tootsie, darling!"

Tootsie, it seemed needed a "fn."

Lil gave it to him and he left.

Lil looked after him adoringly. "Sweet guy, Toots."

"Some people like spinach," said Mae dryly.

"You got him all wrong, Mae. Did I ever tell you how I met him?"

"Yes, I know. One day you opened your pocketbook—and there he was!"

Lil stuffed some money in Mae's bag smilingly.

"Thanks, Lil," said Mae softly.

Jimmy Doyle, back at the back stand, was telling the boys what a tough guy he was. They listened with awe as he related his version of Mae's duplicity.

"What'd you do?" asked one of them.

Jimmy warmed to his story. "What do you think I did? I had her pinched!"

The other enemies of unsuspecting pedestrians looked surprised. "Pinched!"

"For a dollar forty!"

Jimmy hitched up his collar vindictively. "Why not? You don't think I'd let her get away with that, do ya?" He looked at them meaningfully. "She's in the can now!"

Someone laid a hand on his shoulder. "I beg your pardon—"

Jimmy whirled around. He turned suddenly pale. Mae Keene stood there offering him some money.

"I'm sorry about runnin' out on you today," she said, "but I had to—I had no money. Here's your dollar forty."

PYTHIAN DINNER WELL ATTENDED

The Pythian Sisters temple of Eastland were hostesses to a charming 6 o'clock dinner in K. of P. hall on Monday night, when guests were seated about the long banquet table, dressed in yellow chrysanthemums in brass bowls, lighted yellow candles in mahogany holders, and napery appointments in pale green.

The covered dish menu, brought delicious meat, vegetable, salad, and pastry courses, with last course of cafe noir.

Most excellent chief, Mrs. Eddie Slaughter, presided, and invocation was offered by Rev. O. B. Darby.

The evening session, following the dinner, was given to the formal initiatory ceremony for candidates, Mrs. O. B. Darby, Mrs. Blanche Nicols, Mrs. Ralph Duhr and Mrs. M. T. Johnson, with the colorful work on by Breckenridge team.

Those present, Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Darby, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Duhr, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reed, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Hayen Frye and family; Mmes. Artus, M. Q. Taylor, Anna Rogers, Davis, J. Watson, Milton Newman, D. B. Board, Cecil Enbaris, Blanche Nicols, Artie Liles, and from Breckenridge, Mmes. V. Ila, Mathias, Wyatt, and Pollazzari.

Talks for the good of the order were given and those from the new candidates especially stressed.

A kitchen shower for the temple, gifts of visitors and members brought a number of handsome pieces in china service from the Breckenridge temple and silver and crystal-ware from local members.

This successful entertainment was under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Artie Liles, toastmistress for the dinner.

EASTLAND COUNTY FEDERATION TO MEET

The Eastland County Federation of Women's Clubs, meets in Cisco, at the new library building, Saturday of this week, at 2:30 p. m., with Twentieth Century club as hostess.

Miss Edwin Sue Gorce, library organizer for Texas, from Austin, will be one of the speakers, and will have an exhibition of books and pictures from the state library, in connection with her address.

Miss Reeves of Brownwood, president Sixth District T. F. W. C., and Miss Sallie F. Hill, district home demonstration agent, College Station, are also programmed.

The president of the county federation, Mrs. J. M. Perkins, would appreciate the attendance of Eastland and Ranger and other county members of federation.

EASTLAND COUNTY CHILD WELFARE BOARD

The Eastland County Child Welfare board recently organized will Oct. 25, through the efforts of Clyde L. Garrett, county judge, and Mrs. Nettie S. Myers of Henriett, Texas, a state officer, will meet Friday, Nov. 18, at 2 p. m., in the county commissioners' court room in the Eastland county courthouse.

Mrs. Myers, an assistant in state division of welfare work, stated this department was created by legislature of 1931, to enforce Texas laws for protection of defective, illegitimate dependents, and neglected children of this state, and to work closely with county child welfare boards, which are organized by commissioners' courts, and consist of seven members, from various sections of the county.

This body also co-operates with juvenile courts in planning for those who appear before court and with child placement agencies.

Members of the Eastland county board are Mrs. Saunders Gregg of Ranger; Mrs. Phillip Pettit of Cisco; Mrs. F. C. Oldham of Gorman; Mrs. J. M. Perkins of Eastland; Mrs. M. Howard of Rising Star; Walter Harwell of Ranger, and Mart Agnew of Cisco.

The board will meet at 2 p. m., and every member is requested by Judge Garrett to be present.

METHODIST CHURCH W. M. S. INTERESTING MEETING

The Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church held an interesting session Monday afternoon when arrangements were made for the day of prayer to be held next Monday all day.

Announcement was made that Mrs. W. E. Coleman, superintendent of supplies, is preparing a box to be sent the Virginia K. Johnson home in Dallas, by Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Hickman introduced Mrs. J. P. Mason from Scarrette college, a training school for missionaries.

Mrs. Mason gave a most instructive talk on the college, located in Memphis, Tenn.

The last lesson in the mission study, "Living Issues in China," was taken up under direction of Mrs. W. P. Leslie, who presented a devotional from fourth chapter of Mark.

Hymn, "The Kingdom is Coming," and prayer by Mrs. T. M. Johnson, prefaced a book review of "The Good Earth," which brought out the hardships and sufferings of the Chinese women, most interestingly given by Mrs. Joe C. Stephen.

Hymn, "God Be With You" and dismissal prayer by Mrs. B. E. McGlamery closed the session attended by Mmes. Hickman, M. H. Kelly, J. Frank Sparks, M. B. Griffin, Ed Graham, Milton Newman, Iola Mitchell, W. P. Leslie, Gates, T. M. Johnson, Joe C. Stephen, T. J. Haley, D. J. Jobe, Guy Dunnam, Turner B. Collier, D. C. Hawley, W. C. Marlow, B. E. McGlamery, C. G. Stubblefield, P. L. Crossley, F. D. Hale, and Frank Jones; and visitors, Mmes. Q. A. Mouser, T. L. Gates and J. P. Mason.

W. M. S. OF BAPTIST CHURCH

The Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church held a business and Bible meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. W. D. E. Owen presiding, in absence of the president, Mrs. S. C. Walker.

The session opened with hymn, "I Choose Jesus," prayer by Mrs. Marvin Hood, and devotional from John 15:4-16, "Christ's Choice," with Mrs. R. L. Young conducting. Prayer by Miss Sallie Morris closed this period.

Delegates were elected to the W. M. U. and Baptist convention now in progress in Abilene; Mmes.

CHURCH OF CHRIST BIBLE CLASS

The Women's Bible class of the Church of Christ heard a fine lesson on the review of the work the class has had under the tutelage of Mrs. L. Herring, at their meeting Monday afternoon, when the hymn "Face to Face," led by Mrs. B. Boggess, and prayer by Mrs. B. E. Roberson, opened the session dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Dan Childress.

Others present were Mmes. Downtain, Harry Wood, R. B. Reagan, J. R. Crossley, Percy Harris, James Graham, H. E. Everett, N. K. Prately, H. C. Duke, R. L. Rowe, J. D. Reid, Guy Shirrill, H. E. Lawrence, J. T. Sue, Kellert, Gerald, Wingate and Hoyt Davis.

AUXILIARY CHURCH OF GOD

Mrs. Harmon Perry was hostess to Women's Auxiliary of Church of God Monday afternoon, with session conducted by Mrs. E. O. Bailey, vice president.

The study hour, foreign missions, included Spanish speaking people, especially in Mexico.

Those entering the discussion were Mmes. J. T. Wilson, E. F. Ganow, D. K. Williamson, E. O. Bailey and Herring.

The class is working for a Christmas box, to be sent their foreign missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Crosse, in Beirut, Syria, and will take the articles to be packed for shipment to their next meeting this coming week, which will be given to local workday program.

At close of session, Mrs. Perry served refreshments of hot chocolate and cake.

Session closed with sentence prayers by members of junior department and Mrs. J. P. Truly, their director.

The Sunbeam band had a very interesting period, under the direction of their little president, Lillian Lee Bishop. After the reading of minutes, personal service report was presented by Frances Laverne Darby. Mrs. Lee Bishop, leader of the band, gave some very interesting facts about missions in Japan, and the little ones then put on their "golden glories" and sang songs in the Japanese language. The session was dismissed with prayer by Othello Bishop.

Those present, Curtis Terrell, Rowena Cook, Fayette Campbell, Katherine Hall, Beulah Drake, Josephine Murphy, Kenny Kate Wood, Geraldine Terrell, and Travis Cook, promoted to intermediate group from juniors, welcomed as a new member; Marzelle Wright, Katrina Lovelace, Catherine Garrett, Frances Lane, Doris Lawrence, Robert McFarland, Ancil Junior Owen, and Carlin Car-gile, welcome by the juniors as a new member; Lillian Lee Bishop, Othello Bishop, Frances Laverne Darby, Anne Jean Darby, Monta Walker, Ruth Walker, Dale Bishop, Myrtle Bishop, Roland McFarland, Johnny Faye Murphy, and two other new members welcomed, Charles Carlisle and Margie Maxine Guthrie.

BOOSTER CLASS WILL HAVE SOCIAL PARTY

At the Sunday morning meeting of the Booster class of Methodist church Sunday school plans were changed for their social and the party will be given on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. C. Patterson, who will be assisted by co-hostesses Mmes. W. W. Kelly, Frank Hightower and M. H. Kelly.

The husbands of the women members and wives of the men members will be guests of the class, which is arranging an evening of "42" games, and will serve refreshments.

The social meetings of the class are held at occasional intervals and are always delightful affairs.

Rev. J. A. Caraway of Weatherford accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Cecil T. Nelson of this city, attended the Baptist convention at Abilene, Wednesday.

One of World's Great Wonders Found in Texas

Here's a real "look-see" at the wonders of Pluto's realm, taken in the newly discovered and explored Longhorn Cavern, right at the center of the State of Texas—at Burnet, 50 miles northwest of Austin. Dr. Frank E. Nicholson, famous as the explorer of Carlsbad, has definitely established this Texas wonder to be the third largest cavern in the world. When fully explored, it will be larger than any other, he says. Note Nicholson in the photo, with his wife, Peggy, standing just above him, almost in the "Dragon's Mouth." Longhorn Cavern State Park, with the cave as the feature attraction, will be opened to the public for the first time Thanksgiving day, with a big four-day celebration.
