EASTLAND

By JOE THOMAS COOK

The Eastlander relinquishes his column this week to V. O. Hatcher, business manager of the new corporation and a joint owner with Earl T. Williams of the old Eastland Printing Company before its incorporation.

Mr. Hatcher's statement follows: "For several months a number of prominent citizens of Eastland have planned the formation of a corporation to sponsor the publication of a truly Eastland owned newspaper, one that will at all times serve the best interests of Eastland and surrounding territory."

"This week the incorporation of the paper was completed, and it is now being published by the Eastland Printing Company, Incorporated. The officers of the corporation elected to serve for the ensuing year are as follows: Milburn McCarty, president; Samuel Butler, vice president; Joe Thomas Cook, secretary; Earl T. Williams, treasurer; and V. O. Hatcher, business manager."

"A glance at the list of stockholders in this corporation in the announcement on this page and at the officers of the corporation will immediately banish any skepticism in the minds of the citizens of Eastland concerning the purpose of this corporation. The men named here represent almost every interest in Eastland. They have no axes to grind, they are members of no clique or partizan organization, and they have no prejudices to vent. They are all Eastland citizens working to build a good town and a good newspaper."

"On March 20, 1930, under the ownership of Earl T. Williams and myself the first edition of the Weekly Record was published. At that time it was the only weekly paper in Eastland."

"During the next year and a half the people of Eastland favored the Record with a nice share of their business and it is here that the two owners, at that time, wish to express their sincere appreciation of this loyalty. It is only with the support of the citizenship, merchants, and readers that we were able to continue. Any paper in any town is entirely dependent on such support."

"We feel indebted to Eastland. We own our homes here and under the new arrangements pledge ourselves to merit a continuance of this support."

"The incorporation of the Eastland Printing Company brings into the organization Eastland taxpayers of the highest character, men of proved worth to the community, and, as stated in the announcement, have joined with the previous owners to build Eastland and an Eastland newspaper."

"No drastic changes are contemplated in the policies or management of the Record. Your co-operation is earnestly solicited."

V. O. HATCHER, Business Manager.

Funeral Held For Cooper Wednesday

Thomas Jasper Cooper, who was killed when hit by a truck on the Ranger-Eastland highway west of Olden Tuesday morning, was buried in Alameda Cemetery Wednesday morning. Hamner Undertaking Company had charge of the funeral.

Cooper, who was the operator of a grist mill at Olden, had apparently stepped from a car and started across the highway when struck by the truck. He was killed instantly, his head being almost severed from his body. He was born in Mississippi January 24, 1861.

FIREMEN TO MEET

The monthly meeting of the Eastland volunteer firemen will be held at the fire station Friday night at eight o'clock, Mack Hennessee, fire chief, announced this week. All the members are asked to attend because several important matters are to be presented.

WORK ON PLAY

"The Brat," a three-act comedy, has been chosen by Eastland Little Theater members for their first production of the season. The casting committee is working on the play and expects soon to be able to announce characters. Mrs. M. J. Pickett, publicity chairman, said this week.

Eastland County Wins Eighth Place In Fair Exhibit

Eastland County was awarded eighth place, carrying a prize of $350, on its county exhibit at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas this week, J. C. Patterson, county agent, announced. Last year this county won first place, in 1930 third place, and in 1929 second place at the State Fair.

"Texas counties had the best agricultural exhibits in the history of the State Fair this year," Mr. Patterson commented on his return to Eastland this week. Competition was so strong among the counties for the high honors that only 20 points separated the first ten winners on a score card of 1000 points.

George Parrack, courthouse engineer, received two first places and a second place in his individual rabbit exhibit at the fair. S. B. Norton of Olden won every prize on grapes and his vegetables placed well in the fair. Eastland County received all the awards offered on apple exhibits, Mr. Patterson said.

Eastland County Requests $42,000 Of Relief Fund

A formal request for $42,000 of the federal relief fund was filed Tuesday of this week by Eastland County with the secretary of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

A county-wide relief workers meeting was held Monday in the county courtroom, at which representatives from all the towns of the county were present, and the tabulated reports were compiled and the amount of the request approximated. Milburn McCarty, a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, City Manager W. C. Marlow, George Brogdon, and Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, represented Eastland at the meeting.

The group of relief workers decided to divide the fund for this county on the same basis on which the Red Cross flour is being divided at the present time. At the present time Ranger has 450 families, Eastland 394, and Cisco 389 families who are receiving flour, and the division of

Teachers Institute Meets October 28

The Eastland County Teacher's Institute will be held Friday, October 28, at the Eastland High School, B. E. McGlamery, county school superintendent, announced this week.

The general session, which will open at 9 o'clock Friday morning in the high school auditorium and continue to 10:30, will consist of a song service, a devotional, and a business session with Superintendent McGlamery presiding.

The section meetings will meet at 11 o'clock following the general session, adjourn for lunch, and reconvene for a short afternoon session. The divisions follow: high school division, M. L. Cobb, Desdemona, chairman; intermediate division, W. W. Jarvis, Ranger, chairman; rural division, Superintendent McGlamery, chairman; and primary division, Miss June Pearson, Ranger, chairman.

Several faculty members of the Eastland public schools will appear on the program for the day. They are as follows: P. B. Bittle, superintendent of schools; W. P. Palm, principal of Eastland high school; Miss Oneita Russell; Mrs. G. H. Kinnaird; Miss Lillian Smith. The Rev. O. B. Darby, pastor of the Eastland Baptist church will lead the devotional in the general assembly Friday morning.

WINGATE BABY

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wingate are the parents of a baby boy born Thursday, October 6, at the local hospital.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

We, the undersigned stockholders, wish to announce the formation of a corporation, the Eastland Printing Company, Incorporated, organized for the purpose of publishing The Weekly Record.

With worthwhile service to Eastland and the surrounding territory uppermost in our minds and not with a view of any great financial gain, we have banded ourselves together in this corporation. For several years we have realized that Eastland should have a representative newspaper, a paper first, last, and always for Eastland, and one that would be a worthy representative of the town.

We intend to keep this corporation free at all times from even months of reflection and consideration and we all sincerely believe that with the proper co-operation from the merchants and citizens of Eastland we shall be able to build up the Record so that within several months Eastland will have the type of newspaper that it has long deserved.

We intend to keep this corporation free at all times from partizan politics, and we shall not take sides in controversial matters, always directing the paper toward non-partizan, legitimate, and constructive news, which will work for the best interests and prosperity of the town.

We sincerely solicit the co-operation of the whole citizenship of Eastland in helping us build this truly Eastland paper and at the same time help us build Eastland.

Committee Named To Co-operate On Federal Building

A committee was appointed this week by C. J. Rhodes, president of the Chamber of Commerce, known as the Chamber of Commerce Post-office Committee to work in co-operation with the government in locating and planning the new postoffice building, which will be constructed here within the near future. J. E. Lewis, Carl P. Springer, and Earl Bender compose the committee with Dr. H. B. Tanner as ex-officio member and secretary of the committee.

No definite action has been taken as yet on the federal building for Eastland. In February of last year an allotment of $85,000 was made for the construction of the building here, and several weeks ago the Interdepartmental Building Commission made the appropriation. Several factors enter into the preference of towns for new federal buildings, Dr. Tanner explained this week. Preference is given those towns the lease on whose postoffice building expires before January 1, 1934, and Eastland is in this classification. Preference is also given to county seat towns, to towns in which the governments already owns building sites, and to towns with postoffice receipts of more than $20,000 a year. Eastland, of course, is a county seat, and the postal revenue exceeds $20,000 a year, but the government does not own land here, Dr. Tanner said.

Rhodes Re-elected C. of C. President

C. J. Rhodes was re-elected president of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce at a noon luncheon and annual meeting of the directors held last Friday at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Earl Woody and O. E. Harvey were elected vice presidents, and Dr. H. B. Tanner was re-elected secretary.

A brief resume of the year's work was given by Dr. Tanner, who also read the report of Theodore Ferguson, certified public accountant, who had audited the books of the secretary.

The five directors whose terms expired with the end of the fiscal year, September 30, will be certified to the city commission for re-appointment. These are C. J. Rhodes, Kenneth B. Tanner, O. E. Harvey, Frank Castleberry, and Earl Woody.

A report on attempts to receive aid from the federal government signified that the work is under way and that a meeting was scheduled to be held Monday of all welfare workers of the county to complete the papers.

J. E. Lewis agreed to request the city commission to increase the $75 a month appropriated by them for financing the Chamber of Commerce.

The following directors were present at the meeting: Milburn McCarty, G. M. Harper, J. E. Lewis, G. S. Stire, F. M. Kenny, C. J. Rhodes, Kenneth B. Tanner, O. E. Harvey, Earl Woody, Frank Castleberry, Hamilton McRae, and Dr. H. B. Tanner.

Homestead Tax Exemption Amendment Explained by Frank Putnam, Originator

In an article written recently by Frank Putnam of Houston, who is reputed to be the father of the homestead exemption amendment which will be voted on in the November election, the author explains the principles underlying the amendment. He says the "people are going to ratify the bill in the November election."

Mr. Putnam continues his article as follows:

I asked seven first class lawyers of Texas the following question:

"When the people of Texas in their Constitution forbid the State to tax $3,000 of the assessed value of residence homesteads, can subdivisions of the State thereafter tax that $3,000 of assessed value?"

The answer of each of the seven, given without hesitation, was:

"Certainly not."

I do not share the fear that "such a result would work havoc with the taxing structure of counties, cities and school districts."

Let us look at the facts. Loss of state revenue from homestead tax exemption is liberally estimated at $7,000,000 yearly. The Forty-second Legislature appropriated over $225,000,000 for the years 1932 and 1933—more than $122,500,000 a year. These appropriations, made during the worst depression the country ever saw, exceeded by several millions the largest previous state appropriation for any two-year period. Surely the next state administration can cut out $7,000,000 of its extravagance and avoid the Eastland Mavericks Meet Yellow Jackets Today at 3:30 P.M.

Coach Howard Parker and his squad of Cleburne High Yellow Jackets are in Eastland today for a game with Coach Joe Gibson's Eastland Mavericks at 3:30 o'clock at Maverick Field. This will be perhaps the best game that Maverick fans will be afforded this season on the home field, since most of the important conference games will be played away from home.

Eastland will turn out en masse to boost the Mavericks in their game with the heavy Yellow Jacket team this afternoon. Eastland merchants have agreed to close their stores from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock today in order to let their employes attend the game. Loud speakers furnished by the Harper Tire and Battery Company will be installed so that the people can learn the players and follow the game better.

Roy Brown ineligible The Maverick team received another shock this week with the announcement by Coach Gibson that Roy Brown, star halfback, is ineligible for participation because of his age and will not play in any more of the Maverick games. Lee Taylor, captain last year, is out of the lineup this year because of his age, and this week the 20-year age rule of the League eliminated another of Eastland's best players. It is fortunate, however, that both men's eligibility was determined before the conference games start. Coach Gibson said that the players have been checked closely and that there is no question concerning any of the other members of the squad.

Roy Brown had stamped himself as one of the best safety men in the Oil Belt district by his brilliant playing last year, and his return of punts in the game last Saturday was commendable. John Garrison, freshman triple-threat man who is showing up well this year, has been assigned to the safety position and will play that position in today's game.

Although they have only four left-terms on the squad, the Yellow Jackets are much heavier than the Mavericks. The Cleburne team always makes a good showing in its district, and it is expected to be strong again

Democratic Drive Started in County

"A Democratic medallion on every lapel," is the slogan adopted by the county organization of the Democratic national campaign this week as it began an intensive drive in this county for funds. The finances of the campaign are being raised by the sale of little bronze medallions bearing the profiles of the Democratic standard-bearers.

Senator-elect Wilbourne B. Collier was chosen last week as county chairman of the campaign, and Earl Conner, Jr., is chairman of the Eastland voting precinct.

The campaign in the 17th congressional district is under the direction of an executive committee, of which Judge Milburn McCarty is a member. Judge McCarty has general supervision of the drive in Eastland, Burnet, Mills, and Lampasas counties.

Mullings Places Third in Contest

Maurice Mullings, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mullings of this city, was winner of third place in the senior division of the Southwestern Model Airplane Contest, which was held this week in connection with the State Fair at Dallas.

Young Mullings is a sophomore aeronautical engineering student in the University of Texas and spent six weeks of the past summer in designing the miniature ship which he entered in the contest. The award of prizes in the contest will be made this afternoon in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kenny will leave Saturday for Denton, where they will attend the wedding of Mr. Kenny's nephew.

See page 8 for names, numbers, and positions of players of both teams. Clip the rosters and take them to the game with you.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed a vacant house across the highway from the Warner Memorial College, 1 1/2 miles west of town, Monday night early. The fire department responded to the call with the chemical truck, since no fire plugs were located that far out, and extinguished the fire. After the truck had left, the fire broke out again and the house was burned completely. The house was the property of D. K. Williamson.

THE FEUD

By PAUL HAWK

A tall hedge separated the spacious grounds surrounding Centreville's two prettiest homes. And there at that hedge Gregory Lansing, just arrived from four year's schooling in the east, found his father, Mr. Lansing's lean frame was quivering with rage. He seemed about to leap over the hedge. On the other side and no less angry, old Daniel Baldwin, squat and bald-headed, stood glaring upward at his tall antagonist.

The subject of this surprising and apoplectic debate, Gregory could not find out. It seemed to consist mostly in their vying with each other in the application of such terms as "squat little shrimp" and "skinny old reprobate."

"What was all the fireworks about, mother?" Gregory asked, after he finally got them separated.

"I don't know, Greg. They've been going on like that for ages. And Mrs. Baldwin doesn't speak to me any more either. I've never seen your father act so."

"That beats me," Gregory mused. "You four used to be together all the time before I left—and always making me entertain that darned little Valerie."

One week later Valerie arrived home from the finishing school she had been attending. She also found the two old men at the hedge shouting and fuming at each other. She caught hold of her father's coat tail and dragged him away.

"A nice reception for the returning off-spring!" she scolded him. "What's the matter, anyway?"

"That—that—" Mr. Baldwin sputtered inarticulately; then he whirled and shook his finger in Valerie's face and looked at her fiercely. "And I don't want any of my family having anything to do with any of his! Understand? If I catch you with that young upstart of his'n—"

Valerie tossed her head. "Humph!" she said.

Mr. Lansing strode purposefully "That Valerie Baldwin's back," he announced to Gregory. "An' let me tell you something. If I ever catch you even talking to her, I'll—I'll disinherit you!"

"Humph!" said Gregory. The next time the battle at the hedge was resumed, both Valerie and Gregory went to act as pacifiers. Both started to speak; then they stopped and stared.

The Valerie that Gregory knew had been a chubby, freckled kid with stringy hair—a regular nuisance because his mother had made him play with her. This Valerie was tall. She wore clothes that must have come straight from Paris. She had golden brown hair. She had a delicate, transparent skin. She had blue eyes. This Valerie was enough to make one stare.

The Gregory that Valerie knew had been a rough upkept kid who was always interested only in dogs and machines. This Gregory, this tall, well groomed man with sleek black hair and sharp brown eyes was a new one. He was decidedly attractive!

So they got rid of their respective fathers and sauntered and meandered until they met at the hedge once more. They met, of course, to talk about the feud.

"What in the world has happened to them, Greg; they're positively savage."

"Yeah, we've got to do something. It's not right that neighbors be so unneighborly."

After a while, Greg said, "I say, hadn't we better meet and discuss this matter—privately—after we investigate a little?"

Valerie thought they should. They did. They met, they dined, they drove to the city, they danced—and discussed—all in one night.

But the investigation proved to be slow. Neither could get much information as to the cause of the enmity between their parents. Other clandestine meetings were required, for the matter was assuming serious proportions in their minds. What must the people of Centreville think of such actions of their two most prominent citizens?

Nor did talking with the old men help: "Look here, Dad. Hadn't you better soft pedal the ire a bit? Ya know, it's indecent that two old friends should be on the outs. Why not declare a truce?"

"With that—Never!" said Mr. Lansing firmly.

Valerie tried too. "But, Daddy, won't you make up with him for me?"

"No!" roared Mr. Baldwin.

So six more meetings of consultation went by—with no visible results. Then, at a luncheon one afternoon when they had slipped away, carrying a lunch basket, Gregory said, "Val, I'm getting tired of this speakin' out to see you. But I can't get the governor to give in."

She looked at him in a way that made his heart leap at the thought he had. "I can't get mine to quit quarreling either," she told him.

Gregory's heart did another somersault as he leaned forward. "I know a way," he said huskily.

"Tell me," she commanded breathlessly, her eyes on his.

"Let's elope!"

"Let's!" she said. "But how—"

"Leave that to me," Gregory said masterfully.

It was romantic carrying a ladder to her window, Gregory thought. But it was practical, too, for it would be ticklish business if they were discovered. But they weren't. At midnight exactly, they eased out of the driveway in Gregory's car, which he had slipped out of the garage before going for her.

At exactly five seconds after midnight, two figures emerged from the hedge. They stood there, the tall one and the short one, peering after the departing car until they saw the tail light come on and then disappear around a corner. Then the two figures executed a little dance.

"Oh boy! Did they fall for it hard, Ben!" exclaimed Mr. Baldwin.

"Did they?" exulted Mr. Lansing.

"And they never woulda married if their mothers kept thrusting them at each other like they used to. I'm glad I thought of us gettin' mad, Dan."

"You mean you're glad we thought," Dan said affectionately, punching Mr. Lansing in the ribs. "Let's open that bottle."

THE END.

Farm, Home Hour Program Listed

The methods that dairy farmers are using in the country's most concentrated area of dairy production—the New York milk shed—to cut their production costs to the lowest possible figure will be analyzed in the monthly extension program of the Farm and Home Hour by V. B. Hart, farm-management expert of the New York State Extension Service, speaking on Wednesday, October 19.

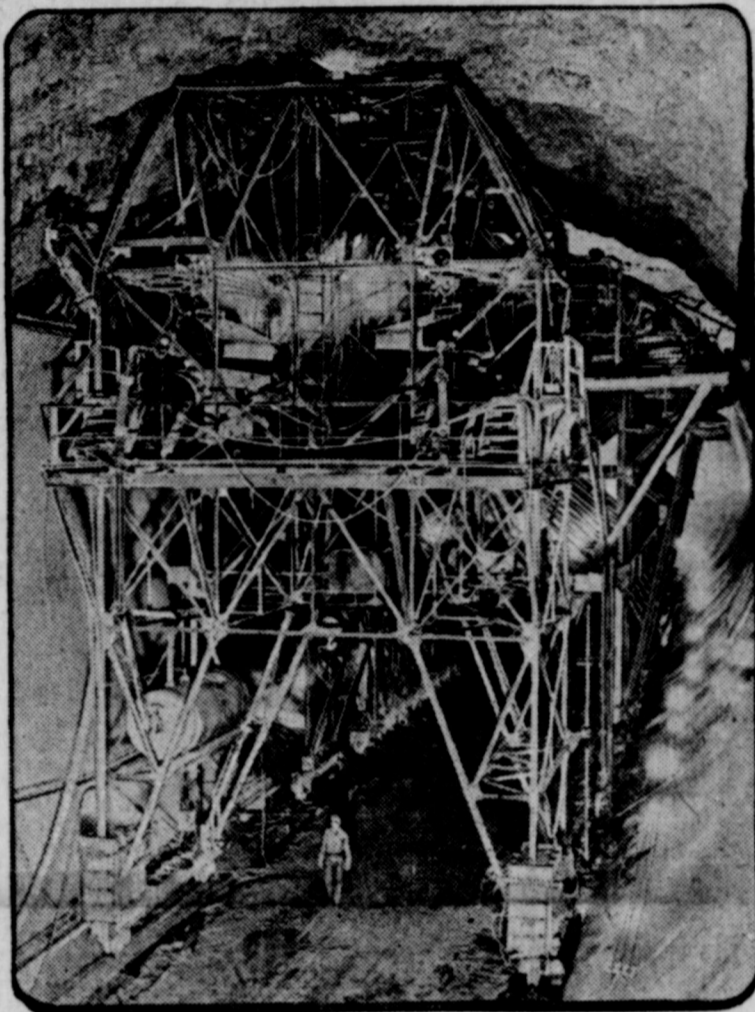

This program, presented by the Federal and State Extension services, also will include a report from the West Virginia Extension Service on the organization of home industries among farm women of that State to improve farm family incomes, and comments from Reuben Brigham, editorial chief, Extension Service, on how farm people generally are meeting the 1932 situation.

The Department of Agriculture broadcasts of the week will bring four economic reports, a forestry sketch, timely talks for homemakers and gardeners, and another of the series of reports on results of chemical research given by the chief of the Federal Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, Dr. Henry G. Knight. The week's program follows:

Monday, October 17—"October Hog Markets," C. A. Burmeister, Bureau of Agricultural Economics; "The Trend of Dairy Production," J. B. Shepard, Bureau of Agricultural Economics; "The Price Situation," A. G. Peterson, Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Tuesday, October 18—"October Cattle Markets," C. V. Whalin, Bureau of Agricultural Economics; "The Household Calendar," Ruth Van Deman, Bureau of Home Economics; "The Garden Calendar," W. R. Beattie, Bureau of Plant Industry. Wednesday, October 19—Land Grant

Interscholastic League Basketball

By Roy B. Henderson, Athletic Director, Interscholastic League Bureau, University of Texas

(The following article is one of a series written by League authorities on various aspects of the Interscholastic League work in Texas.)

The first state championship in basketball for the high schools of Texas was conducted under the auspices of the University Interscholastic League in March, 1921. While there are no records available as to the number of teams that played the first year in League competition, it is estimated that approximately three hundred participated. In 1932 more than fourteen hundred teams, involving the individual efforts of over fifteen thousand boys, took part in the series of games which led to the final State tournament.

From the beginning in 1921 a plan has been in effect whereby county and city championships are decided by February 15 each year. Usually the week following this date district tournaments are held to which are qualified the county and city champions. When a team has won its district championship it is scheduled to meet the champion of an adjoining district for the right to enter the final State tournament. Thus, the State tournament each year is a tournament of champions, each team being three times champion in its own right: county or city, district and bi-district.

With the exception of the years of 1927 and 1929 all of the State basketball tournaments have been held in Austin. The 1927 and 1929 tournaments were held in Memorial Gymnasium, Agricultural and Mechanical College, College Station. From 1921 to 1926, inclusive, and in 1928 the State finals were conducted in the old wooden gymnasium at the University of Texas. The scene of the 1930 tournament was the Austin High School gymnasium, while the last two, 1931 and 1932, have been held in the new Gregory Gymnasium at the University of Texas.

State championships in basketball, sponsored by the Interscholastic League, have been won by the following schools: 1921, El Paso; 1922, tournament winner disqualified, runner-up, El Paso; 1923, Oak Cliff, Dallas; 1924, Oak Cliff, Dallas; 1925, Beaumont; 1926, Brackenridge, San Antonio; 1927, Athens; 1928, tournament winner disqualified, runner-up, Temple; 1929, Athens; 1930, Denton; 1931, Athens; 1932, Temple.

October Time To Improve Pastures

College Station—The brilliant success of hundreds of East and Central Texas farmers with improved permanent pastures the last few years leads the prediction by R. H. Bush, special agent in the A. and M. College Extension Service, that the number of farmers beginning pasture improvement this fall will break all records. Returns as high as $50 per acre have been made on pastures in the East Texas Permanent Pasture Contest this year, from rich grazing furnished dairy and beef cattle, work stock, sheep and hogs, he says. County agent records show that 45,000 acres of permanent pastures yielded 3040 farmers an average of more than $5 per acre in 1931, and this value is expected to show an increase in 1932. Some of the best pastures are carrying two or three head of mature stock per acre with little additional feed required.

"October is the best month to begin improvement," says Mr. Bush. "Waste creek lands make a good spot to begin, although there are many cases of good upland pastures. Improvement may include clearing away underbrush, fencing, mowing weeds, terracing, draining, and always sowing a variety of fine pasture grasses and clovers. Dallis grass has been found throughout the entire East, South and Central Texas territory as a supplement to Bermuda grass. Rescue grass is commonly sowed and often Italian rye grass. Carpet grass is succeeding in many places. Among the legumes most commonly sown are the yellow and white sweet clovers, lespedeza and black medic. County agents are ready to help farmers get started on pasture improvement.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This week has been designated this year as Fire Prevention Week, and in Eastland as in almost every town in the United States the city officials are co-operating with the faculty members of the schools in bringing to the attention of every school child the importance of a modicum of caution in the handling of fire.

This week school children in the grade schools and the high school are practicing fire drills, writing themes on fire prevention, and hearing talks by officials on the precautions with which every school child should be familiar.

The observance of this week should not be limited solely to the schools of the country, however. While it is necessary that the tenets of fire prevention be taught the school child, the adult is responsible for the majority of fire loss each year, and each grown person, too, should pause for a few minutes this week and consider how he can be more careful and how he can help lessen the loss of life and property by fire.

Here are a few facts about fire that you should read whether you have time to read more this week or not:

During 1931 fire destroyed approximately 10,000 lives.

Nearly one-third of these were children under ten years of age.

Two-thirds of the total were burned to death in homes.

The total economic loss was $464,633,265.

In order to visualize these facts, compare them with the following:

The annual fire bill is about equal to 75 per cent of the interest on our national debt.

The new excise and miscellaneous taxes recently imposed on us will produce, in a year, very little more than the annual fire bill.

Over 80 per cent of all fires are easily preventable.

Fire is the great destroyer—not only of lives and property, but of employment, business opportunities, community and industrial progress. Of every hundred industrial establishments burned in the last five years, 43 were not rebuilt. The waste was complete and absolute.

The conquest of fire is simply the conquest of public ignorance, laxness and indifference. Each of us owes the community a duty—to eliminate the hazards on our property. We cannot afford the "luxury" of fire.

Fuller and Tucker
Open T. P. Station

The T. P. Service Station the first door west of the city hall is now being operated by W. P. Fuller and Gene Tucker. New service is being offered as will be seen by their opening advertisement in this issue of the Record.

Mr. Tucker has been in the battery and auto electrical work in Eastland for a number of years and brings this extra service to the station.

Mr. Fuller was with the T. P. Railroad here a number of years and was transferred to Midland about 2 years ago but has moved his family back here to what Mr. Fuller calls home.

The new firm invites their friends to visit them at their new location.

"STATIC"

By J. L. COTTINGHAM

Note to Virge Foster: If I am found with a bullet hole where my brains ought to be, arrest Mrs. May Harrison. She has been prophesying my demise for several days.

Ralph Simmons says that people are confusing him with Harrison Thomas. He admits that they both wear rouge on their cheeks but claims the resemblance ends there. We have agreed to ask everyone to be more careful about this in the future as it embarrasses Ralph. Harrison is the one with the floppy ears.

Ken Wingate was pulling tubing without an oil saver and was black and greasy enough to have been mistaken for Frank Bond when he got word that he had a brand new grandson. He went to investigate without cleaning up. He found the report was not exaggerated but the nurse had to boil the baby in the sterilizer for two whole days before it began to look white again. Someone ought to tell Ken that you are supposed to grease a baby with vaseline—not axle grease.

Otis Knox is serving as an apprentice on his own ship. Luther Thomas sits in the office and Otis swings the propeller. Otis looks hopeful after each swing but nothing happens for Luther has not turned on the ignition. He likes to watch Otis crank. When Luther does kick on the switch, the big Whirlwind starts popping with hardly a push, then Luther remarks to whoever is around, "It is a good thing Otis is built like a horse." Boy, you better be careful. If Otis ever catches on, he will be sure to turn a chubby transport pilot across his knee and begin again where his mother left off.

Mrs. Doyle flew in from Fort Worth Sunday with some friends. She has not been out in her own ship very much lately. She also said Static ought to hear about ye editor trying to crank a ship and falling on the editorial ear. She compared our cranking to her landings which was not fair—we did not break the prop. Arch Fehl was out giving advice but did not go up—said he was afraid it would kill his wife if he got killed. I do not believe that she would do that much rejoicing.

Miss Nina Whitfield has a new red dress; Miss Merle Ticer has a new black hat; Miss Jessie Lee Ligon has a new black ensemble dress and Miss Frances Cotton has a new package of chewing gum. That is all the market news.

Does anybody know who it is that the Texas Electric sent out to connect up a motor for the States Oil and he hooked it up to run backwards? Johnny Hart denies he did it, claims his only work is to sell light globes. Better avoid him if you can, he is worse than a life insurance salesman.

Got a highly indecent letter—telling me to write decently. The style and misspelling seems to point to Herbert Reed or Little Jack Lewis but I have not had time to check the typewriting. I believe the advice was meant in the kindest way and would like to print the letter but every other word is so obscene that it cannot be done. That fellow sure ought to be giving advice on how to write clean stuff.

Further deponent sayeth not. I thank you.

SHOPPING WITH MAIFRED

A stroll around the square and through the stores of Eastland merchants leaves with us a multitude of impressions that can be summed up in one word—values. Never before have so few dollars and cents been endowed with the power to purchase such quality and attractiveness. We visited dry goods, drug, and grocery stores this week, and in each of them found corresponding values in their several lines.

Shoes for both men and women are being shown in blacks and browns. Kid, suede, and fabric pumps and ties appear to be best sellers in women's shoes. Pointed toes in men's foot wear are being shown almost exclusively. Sport oxfords in children's shoes are excellent for school wear.

Don't you enjoy the original neckline arrangements in women's apparel this season? Scarfs, ties, tricky openings, and high simple lines are seen. One special arrangement that caught our eye is the wide, flat "nun" collar of white pique, which gives the wearer a pleasing demure appearance. These are shown on ready-made dresses, or can be bought separately to dress up light-weight woollens or heavy crepes.

The new waffle stitch fabric is being used for women and children's lingerie, featuring dainty nightgowns and undies. New pajama styles are being displayed among men's furnishings.

Women's gloves in both suede and kid are proving popular. Beige or white is being worn by some women with black or dark costumes, while others turn the trick the other way, wearing dark gloves with lighter costumes. And the contrast is striking. Then there are those who prefer to be conservative and match their accessories with their coat or dress, which is always good.

Drug stores are showing a wide variety of merchandise. One store has just received a large shipment of imported vanities. Another has special prices this week on electric irons. And still another is featuring a line of cough syrup and cold medicines. And if you have seen as many sniffles as we have during the past week or two, you will agree with us that the latter merchant has a valuable sense of timeliness.

A trip through Eastland grocery stores not only stimulates the appetite but also attracts the shopper with the beauty of their displays. Grocery merchants seem more and more to be finding various methods of displaying the freshness and quality of their stocks. Shelves are filled with attractively labeled canned goods, and fresh vegetables and fruits are shown in novel arrangements.

Have you visited Eastland stores this week? And don't you conclude with us that Eastland can boast a line of stores that would be a credit to any town of its size?

Mrs. A. C. Williams of Pecos is visiting relatives and friends in Eastland and Cisco this week. She will return this week-end to Wink, where Mr. Williams has been transferred from Pecos as manager of the Safe Way store in Wink.

The local W. M. S., co-operating with a statewide movement, has been observing this week a week of prayer, the main topic for discussion being "Texas for Christ." Interesting and spiritual programs, indicating that our women are fully aware of the need and importance of state missions, have been rendered under the direction of the efficient missions chairman, Mrs. Marvin Hood, each afternoon except Wednesday from 2:45 to 3:45 o'clock. On Wednesday night the program was rendered at the regular prayer meeting hour by the Young Women's Auxiliary under the direction of their counselor, Mrs. L. J. Lambert. This very fine program stressed the cause of Christian Education and Baptist hospital work in the state, and demonstrated the fact that our Baptist young people are keenly alert to the importance of this phase of work.

ASSOCIATION FORMED

A meeting for the organization of the Eastland County Better Livestock Association will be held Saturday, October 22, at 2:30 o'clock in the county courtroom at the courthouse here. Everyone interested in the raising of better livestock in Eastland and adjoining counties is especially invited to attend this meeting, at which time officers will be elected and plans perfected for monthly meetings of the association and showing of livestock. The project is sponsored by the trade extension committee of the Retail Merchants Association.

Members of the Methodist Woman's Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at the church for a mission study class. About twenty women were present.

The devotional was brought by Mrs. Ed Graham, and prayer was offered by Mrs. J. J. Mickle. Mrs. W. F. Davenport gave a map talk on the geography of China, using a map made by her daughter, Miss Maurine Davenport. Mrs. Iola Mitchell spoke on the history of China. A discussion of the political issues in China was brought by Mrs. W. P. Leslie, and a character sketch of Sunyet Sen was given by Mrs. T. J. Haley. Mrs. Mickle read a letter from her son who is a missionary in Japan. The meeting was closed with prayer.

The society will meet next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church.

Bible Class Meets With Mrs. Pickett

Mrs. M. J. Pickett was hostess to the Ladies' Bible Class of the Church of Christ Monday afternoon at her home in Hillcrest.

The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, the center of attraction being a table arranged to represent the Sea of Galilee, a mirror surrounded by rocks and holding water lilies and a ship.

The song, "I Need Thee Every Hour," opened the program, and Mrs. Dan Childress led in prayer. The lesson from the Sermon on the Mount was taught by Mrs. Lorette Herring. Mrs. Leo Boles, a new member, wife of the coach at Warner Memorial College, closed the meeting with prayer.

Angel parfait with coffee and whipped cream was served to the following members: Mmes. W. T. Self, Harry Wood, R. L. Rowe, J. R. Boggus, C. B. Wood, J. R. Crossley, Jimmie King, Kellett, Ira Hanna, John Fehl, A. W. Fehl, B. E. Roberson, W. A. Teatsorth, James Graham, H. C. Duke, Downtain, Hoyt Davis, R. B. Reagan, H. E. Lawrence, John Sue, Guy Sherrill, Lorette Herring, Percy Harris, Dan Childress, and the hostess, Mrs. Pickett.

Miss Winnie Snider attended a luncheon at the Cisco Christian Church Wednesday night as the guest of Gene Shockley. The luncheon was given in honor of the students of Randolph College.

Men's Class Has

Eastland Mavericks Swamp Daniel Baker Freshmen Last Saturday with Score 33-0

By JOE THOMAS COOK

After tying Poly High Fort Worth 12-all two weeks ago in a sluggish and spiritless game, the Eastland Mavericks came back last Saturday to flash a fast offensive game and swamp the Daniel Baker Hill Billy Freshmen 33-0.

The Mavericks had the advantage throughout the entire game and at no time did the Freshies threaten the Maverick goal line. The interference and blocking of the Eastland team was working beautifully on most of the plays, and most of the long broken-field runs came as a result of well-timed blocking by the line and backfield. The Mavericks did equally well on the defense, smothering play after play, throwing Daniel Baker backs for losses and blocking kicks.

Eastland fans must not become too optimistic over the Mavericks, however, because they were playing a weak team last Saturday, and their team looked somewhat ragged at times even against the freshmen who were no match for the Eastland team.

Eastland Host To Gun Clubs Sunday

Delmer Brown, flashy Maverick end, was unquestionably the outstanding man on the field Saturday. He scored three of the Maverick touchdowns and was responsible in part for a fourth. In the first quarter and again in the third he made long runs for touchdowns on double reverse plays. Again in the fourth quarter he took a bullet-like pass from the hands of Burgamy and weaved his way 45 yards for his third touchdown. Brown showed up well on the defense also. In the fourth quarter he rushed in and blocked a punt to give the ball to the Mavericks on Daniel Baker's 15 yard line, and on the next play Mackall ran for a touchdown on a well-executed lateral pass from Garrison.

Garrison, freshman on the squad, stamped himself as one of the most promising backfield men on the team by his play Saturday. He punts, carries the ball, and passes almost equally well. He made consistent gains around end and through the line, he punted 40 and 50 yards consistently, and he tossed forward and lateral passes with skill. He threw a lateral pass to Mackall in the latter part of the fourth quarter that resulted in the fifth touchdown for the Mavericks.

Roy Brown, halfback, who plays safety position on the defense, played a good game. He can return punts as well as any safety in this district, and his pass-snatching and broken-field running Saturday was almost sensational. In the first quarter he ran 55 yards through the Hill Billy team, and Captain Burgamy took the ball over for a touchdown on the next play. At the beginning of the fourth quarter he took a pass from Burgamy and made a 30 yard gain.

Burgamy Directs Team.
Captain Burgamy played a good game at quarter, directing his team skillfully and making several end runs that were highlights of the day. Co-captain Mackall gained consistently on line plunges and made the last touchdown with a lateral pass from Garrison. Daniels, veteran fullback, is showing the same strength that has characterized his playing in previous years.

Heath, Baggett, and Railey at guard, Gary and Fulcher at tackle, and Vaughn and Barrington at end showed up favorably in the game. Allison played another of his consistently good games and Kitley relieved him at the pivot position for several minutes during the encounter.

Early in the first quarter of the game Roy Brown returned a Daniel Baker punt 7 yards, and on the first Maverick play of the game Elmer Brown gained 20 yards around left end. Daniels picked up five yards on the next play. Garrison reeled off 15 yards around left end, and Delmer Brown made the first touchdown of the game on a pretty double reverse play. Burgamy failed to convert. Score 6-0, Eastland.

Later in the first quarter Roy Brown broke away for a 55-yard broken field dash and on the next play Captain Burgamy took the ball over for the second touchdown. Joe Simmons missed the extra point. Score 12-0.

Neither team scored in the second quarter of the game which was characterized by intercepted passes and fumbles by both teams.

Brown Scores Again
About the middle of the third quarter Garrison intercepted a pass. On the next play Garrison picked up 5 yards around left end. On the next play Delmer Brown repeated his double reverse play for a 30-yard run and another touchdown. Burgamy ran the ball across the goal line for the extra point. Score at the end of the third quarter — Mavericks 19, Daniel Baker 0.

Early in the fourth quarter Burgamy shot a pass to Roy Brown for a 30-yard gain. On the next play Delmer Brown took a bullet-like pass from Burgamy just over the line of scrimmage for 45 yard and another touchdown. The extra point was kicked and the score stood 26-0 in favor of the Mavericks.

Later in the last quarter Delmer Brown blocked a punt on the Hill Billies' 15-yard line and Co-captain Mackall scored a touchdown on the next play with a lateral pass from the hands of Garrison. Burgamy kicked goal. Score: Mavericks, 33; Daniel Baker, 0. The ball remained in the middle of the field during the last few minutes of the game.

Breckenridge is leading in the pistol events, Ranger in the high power rifle, and Eastland in the shotgun events as a result of the inter-city shoot held Sunday afternoon at the American Legion Gun Club range. An inter-city shoot has been held by the clubs once each month during the summer, and the club scoring the highest number of points will be awarded a loving cup November 1.

Tom Harris, Eastland, and Jimmie Summers, Ranger, tied for high score in the high-power rifle shooting Sunday with 48x50.

J. T. Hughes, Breckenridge, took high score in the pistol event with a perfect score of 100x100.

Jim Horton was high in the shotgun event with 48x50.

CLOTHES COST $21.66
GROESBECK—Careful planning, keeping clothing accounts, and wise buying are the important factors in dressing appropriately at low cost, according to 12 Limestone county home demonstration club women who dressed last year at an average cost of $21.66. Money spent for clothing varied from $16.16 to $10.06. The women acted as demonstrators in their clubs and with the help of Miss Cora Kirkman, home demonstration agent, showed their neighbors how to save on clothing. Each one has a foundation pattern to insure well fitting clothes, and each has a roomy closet for storing clothing.

MAKES FISH LAKES
Centerville — Five artificial lakes for raising fish have been constructed in Leon county this summer under the supervision of R. S. McEachern, county agent. They have been built by damming up spring hollows, and when complete the five lakes will store about 75 acres of water ranging from 3 to 15 feet deep. Government fish of the right species will be used to stock the lakes.

Goree — Stevenson, Hampton and Weber gin to be erected here.

Edcouch — Work on new school building progressing rapidly.

Bonham — Southwest Pump Co. moved to new quarters.

BROWNFIELD—Texas Cotton Co-operative Association office opened.

BUYING THINGS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Late Dean of Men,
University of Illinois.

King Eadger in "The King's Henchman" has lost his wife and wants a second. He is lonesome as widowers often are, and is eager for a young and beautiful companion. He is a busy man, or thinks he is, which really amounts to the same thing, and so is delegating Aethelwold to go in search of a new queen and to plead his cause for him, and says to him as he is leaving on his mission:

"Lord, I am lonesome for a lovely woman
To buy things for!
Bright silk that clashes like a sword!
And gems from the East, not seen before in England!
And weight her down with them, that she might not walk
But leaning on my arm.
Ah, Aethelwold
What dost thou think on, in the Lent-end-tide
When the white thorn blossoms on the haw?"

Part of the joy of life for the king was in buying things. I sympathize with him; I have exactly the same sort of feeling. Half the pleasure of living would be gone if I could not buy things, and if there were no one for whom to buy. London to me means among other interesting things Regent street and Liberty's with its beautiful fabrics and potteries and curious and quaint things from foreign lands, and the joy of buying something. I should not want to go to Edinburgh if I could not buy things, but you see I am not like King Eadger, for I have some one to buy things for. I am not given to the blues; melancholy and mental depression I know little about, but one would scarcely be mortal if he did not at some time or other feel a little low. At such a time of mental or even financial depression nothing heartens me so much as to buy something.

Abolition of Economic Illiteracy

Prepared by State Educational Committee

Assume for a moment all schools closing for a school generation—six to twenty-six—a period of twenty years. There would be little, if any, modern education and training; because, where millions of learners need to be educated, only organized and systematized education could possibly do the work. How would uneducated and untrained people fit into the business man's scheme of producer and buyer? Even the mailorder houses would have to organize picture classes in order to explain their catalogs to prospective buyers. As producers these people would react no better. Such a crash in business would follow that past panics would seem like a quarter-point fluctuation in the securities market, by comparison. In short, schools perpetuate a continually upkeeping and upgrading process in our American life. If the schools were closed for one generation, the golden chain of economic success would be broken, and it would take several generations to recover the loss because their great power lies in their perpetuity and continuity.

Homestead Tax—

necessity to lay any new tax. It if does not, the people of Texas are liable yet to regret that they didn't elect me Governor in 1930 or 1932. With relatively few exceptions, our 254 county governments and our thousands of city and district governments have also been spending the taxpayers' money extravagantly, and are still doing it. If and when the $3,000,000 homestead exemption is found or made to cover county, city and district taxes, their total loss of revenue from that source will not be more than four times the State's $7,000,000 loss, or $28,000,000.

It is safe to say the people of Texas as a whole have had to cut their personal and business expenditures at least 50 per cent during the past three years. Is it unreasonable of us to require that our local governments shall cut their spending 18 per cent to 20 per cent? If trimming their extravagance to that extent works havoc with our local office holders, why, they will be in good company, that of nearly everybody else in Texas.

Heretofore, in all countries, all times, title to all land, real ownership, has been vested in the Crown, or the State. Citizens, or subjects, have never really owned their homes. They have held them subject to regular payment of rental (taxes) to the real owner, the Crown, or the State. This is true in Texas today. If you doubt it, just fail or refuse to pay taxes on your town or farm home and see how soon the real owner, the State, will take over your property, sell it to the highest bidder in order to collect its rent, and set you and your family into the street or the highway.

When in May, 1930, I introduced homestead tax exemption as an issue in Texas politics, I challenged, in behalf of the people of Texas, the worldwide historic theory and system of land ownership. I proposed (to myself) to persuade the people of Texas to establish a system under which families can acquire permanent and, except by consent evidenced by voluntary sale, INALIENABLE ownership of homes.

An earlier Texan said: "Civilization begins and ends with the plow." I am ashamed to say I can't at the moment recall his name, but you'll know who he was. Under modern conditions I would amend his historic remark to read: "Civilization begins and ends with the home." The free home. The safe home. The home which man and wife can labor years to pay for, knowing that when it is paid for it will be theirs and their children's for as long as they wish to keep it, debt free because our State Constitution already protects homesteads against seizure for any debt except a mechanic's lien and taxes, and tax-free because our people, the first in recorded history, shall have written that additional protection for it into our Constitution on Nov. 8, 1932. Free from state taxes now, soon to be free from all taxes.

Consider: Texas has 1,300,000 families, 800,000 of them renters, 500,000 home owners, 200,000 of the 500,

Heads Eli's Team

John Wilbur, captain of the University football team, photographed at the opening of the practice season. He plays at left tackle.

000 mortgaged, their homesteads only partly paid for.

What do you think will take place when $3,000 of the assessed value of Texas homesteads ($5,000 to $6,000 full value) is exempted from all taxes? How many of the 800,000 renters will promptly begin buying town and farm homes? How many good families will be attracted to Texas to make homes in the only state on earth where it is possible for men and women really to own homes, and not to rent them from the State? Our poverty-breeding single-crop farming system will gradually disappear with the tenant system that produces it. Texas in due time will become the richest, happiest State in the Union, and other state will follow our example. Gen. Sam Houston, looking down from the Valhalla of great warriors, will applaud his chosen people for having made themselves the world's first genuinely free men and women, freeholders in fact.

FRANK PUTNAM.

"INCUBATED" CRANBERRIES SHOW KEEPING QUALITIES

Testing cranberries in "incubators" has proved a reliable method of forecasting their keeping quality for the season in Massachusetts.

The incubator test, began several years ago by Dr. Neil E. Stevens, of the United States Department of Agriculture, consists of keeping a pint of cranberries in an electric incubator for a week early in the picking season. They are kept warmer than in ordinary storage and this hastens the ripening and decay which normally occurs over a longer period. The spoilage of the samples indicates approximately the general spoilage to be expected in storing the crop. The keeping quality of the fruit varies widely from year to year and the tests aid growers in deciding how best to handle the crop.

The weather during the growing season has a pronounced effect on the keeping quality of the cranberries. The best combination appears to be cool weather in May and June followed by relatively dry weather in July and August. The worst combination was a warm May and June followed by a rainy and July and August.

SELLS COTTAGE CHEESE

CHILDRESS — Handicapped for money with which to develop a demonstration for her club in providing a complete farm food supply, Mrs. M. B. Couch of Plainview Home Demonstration Club in Childress county, went into the cottage cheese business and now has money to spare. Coached by Miss Helen Cowan, home demonstration agent, Mrs. Couch started by giving samples of her cheese to friends and three grocers. Now she has ten regular customers to whom she sells twice weekly. Since February she has sold more than $22 worth and after building pantry shelves and buying all necessities for filling her food budget, has $6 left.

4124 CANS PUT UP

STAMFORD — A total of 4124 cans of food was conserved as a cost of 4 1/2 cents per can in July and August in a community kitchen in Stamford by home demonstration club women in near-by clubs, according to Miss Sue Bonner, home demonstration agent. Containers were furnished by the local community chest, and 2850 cans were turned over to them for charity, the remainder going to the people who ran the kitchen, and to those who furnished the products. Sixty-five city residents, many of them on the charity list, worked with 82 farm women under the direction of local home demonstration club members.

American Legion to Meet at Stamford

A convention of the seventeenth district of the American Legion has been called by Executive Committeemen M. J. Benefield to be held at Stamford Saturday and Sunday, October 15 and 16. Every post is urged to be well represented, G. E. Hughes, assistant Department Adjutant, said in a letter to legionnaires this week. This will be the first convention of the new year, and will be instrumental in getting the 1933 program under way.

Department Commander Carl Nesbitt will be in attendance to outline the state program of the American Legion. Wright Patman, member of the House of Representatives of the national Congress, is also expected to be present, as well as other prominent men of the state.

Preparations for the business session and entertainment are being made at Stamford, and legion members have been assured that not a dull moment awaits them at the convention.

Don't Expect Much From Cold Remedies

In autumn people remain indoors more, and susceptibility to colds increases. The hazard is greater also because, with the opening of school, contagious and infectious diseases are more prevalent.

These maladies, such as measles, and other diseases common to children, generally appear with symptoms comparable to those of a cold, says Dr. F. J. Cullen, of the Federal Food Administration. Mothers should be on their guard against such troubles and should realize that medicines ordinarily used for colds are of no value in the treatment of more serious diseases.

"For many years scientist have been working to find the causes and proper treatment for colds," Doctor Cullen states. "So far their work has been of little avail. There are medicines on the market recommended for colds but their main benefits are relief from some of the symptoms. The individual must trust to more reliable measures to remove the underlying causes.

"Some manufacturers, through their advertising, lead a purchaser to believe that their products will not only cure colds, but likewise will prevent pneumonia, sinus infections, and other serious maladies. Such declarations are not based on facts. While the administration at present is not taking regulatory action against products recommended for the relief of a symptom of a cold, it is removing from the market preparations falsely and fraudulently labeled as having remedial value in the treatment of diseases such as influenza, the symptoms of which are similar to colds.

Mother of Mrs. Lacy Dies Sunday Night

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Cross Plains, for Mrs. T. B. Vestal, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Lacy, 219 South Ammerman Street, Sunday night at 9 o'clock.

CHAPEL NOTES

By Wanda Jean Huling

The assembly meeting of Thursday, October 6, was very interesting to the students, faculty, and visitors. Grady Owen, a former teacher in Eastland High School, made an interesting talk on a subject that appealed greatly to his audience — "Romance of the Common Place." He told us of some of the places that he had visited, and compared them with places in our own United States. He said that of all the beautiful scenery that he had seen, none was more beautiful than that on the drive from Eastland to Ft. Worth.

A deep feeling of loyalty was aroused in the hearts of his listeners when Mr. Owen said that one could walk under the United States flag in our own country without expressing any emotion whatever, but let one walk under our flag in a foreign country and try to describe the feeling of patriotism and devotion that one experiences.

We all enjoyed Mr. Owen's talk very much, and hope that he will be with us again soon.

Chapel met Monday, October 10, Rev. Gillis, pastor of the Presbyterian church, was to have been with us, but due to other arrangements could not come.

Coach Gibson made a talk on football, explaining the new rules to us. He said that it made no difference as to the shape, size, or color of a football—it was the ability to handle one that counted. He said that it was absolutely necessary for the student body to support the team, and for the boys to go into the game with the right mental attitude, determined to win. We were all very glad when he said that our team had prospects of being the best team that Eastland High School has ever had. We hope so and are going to do our best to make it so.

Mr. Palm made a short talk, urging every football player to be certain that he is eligible to play before coming out. He explained that he and Coach did not have time to find if every boy coming out were eligible or not. He also urged every boy who is physically unable to play football to enter some other activity that would help to place our school in the front rank.

Palm and Gibson on Rotarian Program

W. P. Palm, principal of Eastland High School and chairman of the program committee for Monday's meeting of the Rotary Club, gave a classification talk on school activities at the meeting, giving statistics for this and past years.

Coach Joe Gibson spoke on football, explaining the standard held up for boys who play on the high school team as to grades and other requirements. He also explained the new football rules and their effect on the game.

Howard Gholson and Fred Yonkers, both of Ranger, were visitors. Miss Clara June Kimble served as pianist for the club at Monday's meeting.

One hundred tickets to Gentry Brothers Dog and Pony Show were given by the club to be distributed at South Ward school.

Miss Lesbia Word spent the weekend at her home in Fort Worth.

Club Girls Leave Monday for Fair

Winners of the free trips to the State Fair Educational Encampment or 4-H Club girls are: Mary Alice Weeb, Romney; Willa Deen Maxwell, Okra; Jessie Lee Bennett, Flatwood; Lorene Hays, Flatwood. These trips were awarded for the best club exhibit at the county fair, including the history and record book of the year's work. Trips were awarded to bedroom demonstrator, yard demonstrator, year round garden demonstrator and to one co-operator.

The four girls will leave Eastland Monday, October 17, chaperoned by Miss Fontilla Johnson, home demonstration agent of Nolan County. The girls will be guests of the State Fair for the three days. Transportation is provided through Ollie B. Webb, assistant to the president of the T. & P. Railroad.

Dave Moody returned Tuesday night from Wichita Falls, after spending several days there visiting his father and brother.

Calloway, Tanner Address Lions Club

Judge Oscar Calloway of Comanche and Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, were the principal speakers on the program of the weekly Lions luncheon held Tuesday noon on the Connellee roof.

Judge Calloway discussed briefly the evils of the present Federal Reserve Board and the system of Federal Reserve Banks. He credited the depression to the Board's holding money from circulation.

Dr. Tanner told the club of the work being done in trying to secure for Eastland its share of the unemployment relief fund appropriated by Congress. He said he hopes that Eastland can secure between $6,000 and $7,000 for the months October, November and December for the relief of unemployment in this city.

Coach Joe A. Gibson announced the game Friday between the Eastland Mavericks and the Cleburne Yellow Jackets and urged that the business men close their stores and attend the game. Plans were made to install an amplifying system at the field for the game so that the people can become acquainted with the players and follow the progress of the game. President Harper appointed a committee composed of G. S. Stire, E. E. Frey-schlag, and Ernest Jones to raise money for the loud speaker and to arrange for the closing of the stores for the game.

The club voted to give free tickets to the Gentry Brothers Show to the children of West Ward school, since the Rotarians had given theirs to South Ward.

Hamilton McRae, Dr. Tanner, and Judge Calloway were the visitors at the luncheon.

Cattle Feeder Loan Blanks Are Available

Application blanks for loans to cattle feeders may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce offices, Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary, announced this week. The loans are being made by the Federal government and are handled through the regional loan banks. The loan bank for this territory is the Regional Credit Corporation of Fort Worth.
