PETTY THIEVERY IN EASTLAND

The fact that a large amount of petty thievery is going on in Eastland has been called to the attention of the Chronicle this week. Those mentioning this thievery state that, in their opinion, most of it is done by young boys. It seems from reports that they come on the streets at about nine o'clock at night and, from all outward appearances, are carelessly whiling away time as many boys of this age do.

But it is said that closer observation discloses the fact that they form a fairly well organized gang and are engaged in "lifting" small articles wherever they find them, such as radiator caps, gas tank caps, gasoline, article left in cars, merchandise or other things left in front of business houses. So prevalent have these petty thefts become during the last few weeks that it has become very annoying to the citizens of Eastland. It has become necessary to place guards out to watch cars at churches and other places where people congregate, at night.

The Chronicle does not, in any sense, blame the city and county officials with this condition nor criticize them for it. It is a proposition that they cannot handle very well and it is doubtful if they should attempt it. Many more officers would be necessary, if they did. Of course, when they find any of this thievery in progress, they take such action as their duties require, and doubtless are putting forth special effort to break it up, but it is too wide spread for them to cope with it full. If our information is correct, the age of the boys thus engaged places the responsibility directly upon the parents and citizens of Eastland. In many cases that have occurred recently the boys were known. Parents should know where their boys are at night and what they are doing. Public opinion should rise so high against this sort of mischief and petty crime that it of necessity would cease.

LOWER TAXES IS THE NEED

The financial affairs of the city of Eastland have reached a point where the citizenship, as a whole is becoming concerned, and the main item of concern is the assessed valuation of property on which taxes must be paid. It is the general opinion that valuations are too high. Assessed values have been reduced within the past two years but perhaps not in keeping with the deflation in property values.

At this time Eastland is burdened with a large bonded indebtedness. The bondholders want to get back as much of their investments as possible, and are pressing the officials with this in view. But the city authorities must not lose sight of the interests of the citizen whose property has so greatly decreased in value during the past five years. The people have accepted their losses with a commendable spirit. Now the bond holders must be patient until some equitable adjustment can be made for the settlement of their claims.

At this time the assessed valuation of city property is a little more than two million dollars. The tax rate is $2.50 per hundred. It is our understanding that the taxes collected are split about fifty-fifty between retiring outstanding indebtedness and providing running expenses for the city. A large per cent of the taxes remains delinquent on the rolls. This fact reveals the crux of the whole situation. These taxes are not delinquent because the people won't pay but because they can't pay. So the solution is to get taxes down within the reach of the people's ability. It appears that this can be done best by reducing the valuation of property—reduce to one half of the present figure if necessary. Each reader is capable of doing his own figuring on this proposition. The main point in the situation is to get taxes down to where the people can pay, thus laying the foundation for a laudably prosperous future for Eastland.

Everybody In a Community Must Pull Together to Make the Community Grow

(Copyright 1933 by Associated Advertisers, Inc.)

There are some cities in this world which "just grew up" in spite of every obstacle. They are the result of fortunate location, either on natural routes of trade and commerce, or strategic military sites, of defense or offense. But such cities are very few in number. In this country, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco are conspicuous examples of settlements that lived and grew because they were so located that growth was natural and rapid.

Even those cities, however, required plenty of help from the men and women who lived in them in order to become the great commercial, financial and social centers they are today. How much more, than do other communities, not so fortunately located, require the combined efforts of those who live in them, if they are to grow and prosper.

Let's take the case of our own community. Those who first settled here and started the town we now call home had ample reason for so doing. Those of us who came after them have found additional reasons for wishing to remain here and to build a constantly improving town. Many of us, no doubt, are not especially desirous of seeing our town grow into a big city, with its congestion and noise and dirt. All of us, though do want to see our town prosper and increase and offer us greater opportunity for material and spiritual happiness. We find, through experience, that there are many advantages in making our homes in a small town or a medium-sized town as against living in more congested centers. But what we are primarily interested in, no matter what the size of the place we call home, is the opportunity it offers us—opportunity for financial betterment, for comfortable living and for all the things that make life worth while.

It stands to reason that any town in which the people are not pulling together will not make progress, and the experience of these towns in which there is discussion is proof enough that lack of co-operation among the people living in a community is the surest way in the world to kill the community.

We are all proud of our own town. If we're not, we ought to be. It's a mighty good place to live in. We'd all like to see it a better town. But just sitting back and wishing isn't going to make it better.

The only effective way to bring that about is to cooperate to the fullest extent among ourselves. And cooperation covers a multitude of things. First, and foremost, it means trading at home and patronizing our home industries. Merchants here are alive to the needs of the community. You may rest assured that they will meet any demands made on them and will increase their facilities to serve you, just as fast as increased facilities are needed.

Why? Because they, more than anyone else, are primarily interested in the growth and prosperity of our town. An increased volume of business means greater profit to them, which also means that they, in turn, can spend more to improve their service to you and can support more liberally the many civic enterprises to which they are required to contribute, year by year.

Your money spent with your local merchant doesn't leave town to help build up some other community. It stays here, circulates freely among a lot of people and keeps at work constantly, to improve your own town. But the money you spend away from home to buy commodities you could buy just as cheaply, and a whole lot more conveniently here, doesn't come back. It's gone forever.

So, before you go away, somewhere else to buy, sit down and think over calmly, just what you are doing to your own town when you go to some other town to spend your money. You may think you are saving money, but are you? Every dollar you spend away from home takes just that much capital out of your own town. That reduces the circulation of money here. It means a reduced buying power here. It means that less labor can be employed that fewer products of our own industries can be purchased, that less improvements can be made, that there will be less support for schools and churches, and that YOU have reduced YOUR OWN opportunity for financial betterment.

Patronize local industry and give employment to local people. Buy from your home merchants. Keep your money at home, working for you and your neighbors.

Good Times Ahead If We Will Stick With Each Other

Of course there are lots of puzzling problems constantly facing the business interests of Eastland. Those that are still here fighting the game have stuck it out. All its needs now is the wholehearted and undivided effort of every citizen of Eastland to stand by and put every cent possible through the business interests of Eastland for their needs.

No one need worry about the result of such a determined effort because in the end it will return to us all many times over. Let's encourage every business in Eastland to such an extent that there will be no occasion to lose heart just at a time when things are on the upgrade. Patting a business man on the back and telling him how sorry you are that business might not be so good—and than run off some where else to spend your money doesn't do the business man any good. What he wants is business—not sympathy.

It is hoped that the turn of the tide of home trading will be so universal that it will never be said again "That folks go to other places to do their buying." The greatest asset for any community is the man or woman that says, "Eastland is the best town I know of, and I wouldn't leave it for all the others." Good business makes that possible. Trading at home makes good business a reality.

If you're already trading at home—then this won't bother you except that you will agree with its importance. If you've wandered a little with your trading—then stop it and get in line with those loyal supporters of the community that are doing their best to create good business, thereby making business better and at the same time have a feeling that Eastland is best after all.

When people go to other towns to trade it cripples business of all kinds in the home towns. The merchants cannot stock their stores with the best and latest merchandise when their own home town people are not loyal.

The merchants of the town contribute to all public affairs, and they expect the citizens to do their part by trading at their places of business instead of going to other towns or cities. It is the duty of every citizen to promote the growth of his home town, and there is not a better way of doing this than by trading at home. If the citizens of this town continue to go elsewhere to trade there is little chance for the merchants to make money enough to pay rents on the stores, taxes and license.

When a person trades at home he has more time and thought to give the purchase he is making, and he will find he has made a better bargain and is better satisfied with his articles, than if he had bought it hurriedly, away from home. In the long run, the person saves more money by trading at home because it takes money and time to travel to other towns.

Loyalty is a great virtue. If a person is a true loyal citizen, he will stand by his home town, state and country.

WHY WE SHOULD TRADE IN EASTLAND

By VIRGINIA STEWART Freshman, High School "Trade at Home" is a good slogan for a town. It pays to trade at home because a dollar spent at home comes back to you. A dollar spent out of town is gone forever.

When people go to other towns to trade it cripples business of all kinds in the home towns. The merchants cannot stock their stores with the best and latest merchandise when their own home town people are not loyal.

Goodrich to Award Medals For Safety

Safe truck and bus operators of Eastland will be recognized during the coming year, according to C. T. Lucas of Lucas Service Station of Eastland, local distributors of Goodrich truck and bus tires and tubes.

"The B. F. Goodrich Rubber company is sponsoring a safety award program which will honor every truck and bus driver in America who completes six months of safe driving," Mr. Lucas says.

"To the man who accomplishes that distinction, Goodrich will award a silver medal and an emblem for his truck, designating him as a safe and courteous driver."

"If the driver continues his record for six additional months, making a total of one year of safe driving, he will receive a gold medal and a replica for his vehicle."

The awards will be known as the Silvertown Safety Awards, and will be distributed by Goodrich truck and bus tire representatives throughout the county. C. T. Lucas is local distributor and lead organizer for the safety award campaign.

"Every truck or bus fleet operator is eligible for the award," Mr. Lucas says. Companies operating fleets can register the entire operating personnel or drivers may register individually.

"Each entrant will sign a pledge of safe and courteous operation, to be followed throughout the campaign. The pledge is somewhat similar to that signed by a million American passenger car operators who are members of the Goodrich Silvertown Safety League, an organization sponsoring a nation-wide campaign for safer driving.

"We believe," Mr. Lucas stated in announcing this campaign in the Chronicle, "that the motoring public of America will be given a new conception of truck and bus transportation. Goodwill will be built through this campaign, and the tendency to brand truck and bus operators as 'road hogs' will decrease. Because a few of the great number of operators insist on violating principles of safety and courtesy, passenger car operators and pedestrians are prone to charge truck and bus transportation in general with such violation."

"The response of truck and bus owners and operators will create sincerity and confidence in the ranks of American motorists," the Goodrich distributor says.

Dunlop Making Tires For 44 Years

There is a decided honor in starting an industry that has reached such tremendous proportions at the Automobile Pneumatic Tire Industry, and according to Mr. Barney Shoemaker, local manager for the Dunlop Tire Company the Dunlop Tire & Rubber Company are the original founders of the pneumatic tire industry. Mr. Shoemaker says that the factory started the business 44 years ago and have continuously been manufacturing the highest quality tires since that time.

A complete line of tires for every make of car regardless of size is constantly kept in stock here in Eastland and besides having attractive prices they are making liberal allowances for old tires. See their ad quoting prices in this issue of the Chronicle.

Mr. Roberson states that times have changed in the garage business and in this day and time one has to be on the alert constantly keeping up with the new ideas in the automobile industry. "I have kept up with every change that has been made and the personnel of our organization are constantly studying the necessary requirements of modern automobile reconstruction.

Mr. Roberson says: "In behalf of my employees who have served the people of Eastland and surrounding community, I offer my sincere appreciation of the loyal support of their friends and I am glad to also extend this appreciation through the association of Messrs. B. E. Roberson and W. J. Peters, mechanics, "Bill" Garrett, top and body repairer, Roy Hardwick, car sales and parts department, and Eugene Ashley, who handles all used parts for patrons desiring his services."

The Superior Garage is exclusive dealers in U. S. L. Batteries, and have a complete battery service plant. Painting, washing, greasing, top and body and fender repairing, wrecker service and a used car department are features of the Superior Garage. Day and night service is given for the benefit of all patrons. Mr. Roberson is for Eastland 100 percent, and at every opportunity does in a humble way those things that take to make a better town for Eastland people. Gas and oils complete the Superior service.

Capable mechanics are on hand to render a valuable service to the motorist that has the misfortune to have car or motor trouble. Muirhead states: "We have constantly added to the facilities of automobile service in Eastland until now we have one of the best equipped plants in West Texas. We guarantee our work from every angle and feel that our many satisfied customers are our best recommendations."

"The ultra and fascinating new models of 1933 Buicks, Pontiacs

Super Service Is Paramount With Panhandle

Beaten paths can only be made by constant trekking and the Panhandle Super-Service Station is an outstanding example of what super service will do for the best interests of the people as well as the successful operation of a complete service garage and filling station.

With the assistance of those who help spend the payroll in the channels of Eastland's trade territory, J. N. Harris, mechanic, Harvey Basham, battery service department, and Floyd "Slick" Hubbard (colored), Fred Michael, proprietor of the Panhandle Super-Service Station has a merry time filling his customers orders from fixing the car from top to bottom, to just a wipe of the windshield with water added in the radiator.

Mr. Michael says: "For several years our business has been serving the people of this community in such a way that it makes us feel good to see them come back for more 'Super-Service.' We do not use anything but nationally advertised and standard materials of merchandise in all our repair work. We find it pays and satisfies."

They are exclusive agents for Exide Batteries and have a complete battery service department. Hood Tires and Tubes are featured. High test and quality Panhandle gas and oils are an outstanding feature of the business. Complete garage service, repairing, washing and greasing and a complete line of accessories make up for the perfect service rendered by this popular organization who pull for Eastland and are a part of its community life.

Nothing is more important to a community than an institution that renders valuable service. That's Panhandle Super-Service biggest asset.

'Oliver Twist' to Be On Connellee Screen Sunday

There is a popular saying that "the play's the thing," but those who know the theatre realize that the cast is often equally important. Thus Shakespeare, the greatest dramatist of all times, has the immortal Hamlet admonish his players to "hold the mirror up to nature." Proof positive this, that the Bard knew the actor to be of vital importance, and realized that even the most stirring lines and situations must fail if poorly interpreted.

It is for this reason that Monogram has spared no care and expense in gathering together a distinguished cast to present Dickens' famous classic, 'Oliver Twist' which comes to the Connellee theatre on Sunday for a three-day run. The list of players in this one screen offering reads like a collection of names in the theatrical Blue Book, and represents the best the stage and screen has to offer.

Such actors as Irving Pichel, Alec B. Francis and Lionel Belmore need no introduction to the classics. All have served their time in famous plays. Pichel, who plays Fagin in the present production, won renown by his impersonations of Eugene O'Neill characters; Alec B. Francis, trained in Shakespearean roles, appeared in such Belasco successes as "The Return of Peter Grim" and "The Music Master," and Lionel Belmore, a veteran of fifty years standing, interpreted the characters of Sikes and Brownlow on the English stage, long before he tried his present role of Bumble.

Lovable little Dickie Moore plays the title role in "Oliver Twist," and other well known names in the cast are William Boyd, Doris Lloyd, George K. Arthur, Tempe Piggott, Nelson McDowell, Barbara Kent and Virginia Sale.

TO THE CITIZENS OF EASTLAND

Believing that taxable values in the city of Eastland are now so unreasonably high as to result in confiscation of the property of its citizens and that the situation demands prompt correction, we offer ourselves as candidates for your City Commission, subject to your approval through the election to be held on Tuesday, April 4. We are each property owners and tax payers and we pledge ourselves unequivocally to the substantial reduction of taxable values with a view to placing city taxes upon an equitable basis and one upon which property owners are able to pay. The welfare of our city and its citizens rises above the interest of any individual and we solicit your support of our candidacy in our endeavor to reduce city taxes through lower valuations and to reduce the expense of city government through the practice of rigid economy in maintenance.

CIRCLE SESSIONS
The Anne E. Day Circle of the Methodist Missionary society was entertained by Mrs. Frank Castleberry at her pleasant home Monday afternoon, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Pettit, and Mrs. Lola Mitchell, co-hostess.

Bouquets of lilacs added their charm to the session opened by the chairman, Mrs. Will Keith, with devotional conducted by Mrs. George Brogdon, closing with the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Hymn, "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds," and prayer by Mrs. Annie E. Day, terminated this period.

In the brief business session, the circle voted to have a bake sale on Saturday, April 8, when home grown flowers will also be sold on commission, for benefit circle funds.
