His program rapidly has taken shape during that time, and a complete overhauling of the economic and social life of the country has been started.

A survey of the first two months shows numerous definite accomplishments, with a start toward in-flation and farm relief, bringing an upturn in prices and an apparent improvement in business.

The president has moved with almost bewildering speed attempting to revive business and industry, get 15,000,000 idle back to work, and raise farm prices. He has tackled the depression from every angle, with the support of a willing congress and an enthusiastic public hungry for action.

It is predicted his entire program will have the approval of congress before midsummer. No president in history has been given

Reviving the oid ex-soldiers and old settlers reunion, a popular county-wide attraction held annually in Eastland for a quarter of a century, the citizens of Eastland are planning one of the most elaborate celebrations ever staged in the county for July 3 and 4.

At the merchants' regular monthly smoker at the High school cafeteria last night, plans for the coming celebration were discussed at length and a splendid program outlined.

The meeting, which was not so later that the way the kitten, or dog, etc., was running, and it was dark or light in color.

Mrs. A. E. Herring, Misses Blankenship and Hendricks of West Ward school faculty assisted in posting the schedule cards.

Dr. W. S. Poe and Dr. H. C. Brown gave their services freet in their department. Those children whose examinations could not be completed Monday will be reached at a later date.

BAPTIST WORKERS NEAR BROWNWOOD TO MEET NEXT AT MANGUM CHURCH

The most severe storm since 1910 struck this area late last night and early today, demolishing warehouses, farm buildings and homes.

Three persons were killed by falling timbers. The injured toll was eight or more.

The death toll included the two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Richardson, farm family, in the little community of Delaware, east of Brownwood. The victims, Arthur, 11, and Marjory, three, died last night. Richardson may die.

Mrs. J. W. Arant, middle aged farm woman, died in a hospital here today from injuries sustained when the twister demolished her farm home. Her husband was injured and his recovery is doubt-

The Richardson home was picked up from its foundations, tossed 50 yards by the wind and then demolished as it struck the earth. Mud, gravel and sand worked into the open wounds of the intered persons, increasing the secretity of their injuries.

Unofficial estimates of the term damage approximated $100,-100.

description of the section of the se DESDEMONA, May 11. — Our rommunity was grieved Sunday night to learn of the death of T. N. Prater, known to most people as "Uncle Tom." He had passed away at his home at Lorenzo after an illness lasting for some time. At the time of his death he was 91 years old having been born in Arkansas on Aug. 4, 1841, but having come to Texas in his youth and residing in Desdemona many years. His old home place which is one of the land-marks of our town still stands on the hill just west of the bridge in the western part of town. During boom days he was fortunate in having a number of good wells come in on his land but he was never changed in his friendly nature by his wealth. He took an active interest in his business affairs though he left a good deal of the details to be looked after by his grandson, Gerry Grice, of Stephenville, Funeral services were conducted at Howard cemetery, north of town. Tuesday afternoon by the Desdemona Masonic lodge of which he was a charter member in his youth. The funeral procession started from the home of J. H. Rushing, whose family was connected by marriage with "Uncle Tom." The large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends and the beautiful and numerous floral offerings hore mute testimony to the love and esteem in which he was held. Sympathy is extended to the family. community was grieved Sunday

WHIT OUT POOR-HOUSES

(From Fort Worth Press)

For the aged and friendless poor there used to be only one road to take. That was the road Over the Hill to the Poor-House. Today, thanks to an able and persistent campaign by labor and social workers, that way of sorrow is closed in one-half the states of the Union.

A report by the American Association for Old Age Security reveals:

Since January eight new states have joined the pension parade. In all, 24 states, covering 42 per cent of the nation's population, have adopted pension laws. In 18 of these states the laws are mandatory upon the counties.

This month Ohio may adopt the pension system, and thus a majority of states will have built for their aged poor new and pleasanter highways toward the setting sun.

Although half the states have acted, the problem of old age security, unhappily, is not half solved. Normally there are 6,000,000 Americans past 65 of whom fully 1,-500,000 are dependent upon charity. If all pension states provided security for their aged poor, 65 years and over, fied without both the 'inner' and he beneficiaries would total only 630,000. The 870,000 'outer' expressions of the mind of destitute old folks in non-pension states still must tread the thorny road.

As a matter of fact most of the pension states provide by for those, past 70. Furthermore, since it is in the less that whole report is receiving careonly for those, past 70. Furthermore, since it is in the less progressive states that the majority of the needy aged live, the fight in these states will be harder.

Federal aid can win quick and complete pension victory. The Dill-Connery bill for government aid to states on a 50-50 basis would bring under the pension principle all the states, and set a uniform age limit at 65. It would cost the government less than $50,000,000 a year.

Some day wealthy United States will guarantee economic security to all its citizens. Since old age pensions are chapter cheaper than poor houses and since we have long accepted of responsibility for the care of the aged poor, the wisdom of the federal aid law is clear. Especially, since the progres- but Christian schools are far more sive states have met the government half-way.

Having decided to take root and make the farmstead a happy place to live and a productive place to work there are a number of things to be done as soon as economic conditions will permit: A suitable storehouse should be provided by preparing a good commodious cellar or building a combination smokehouse, pantry and curing house of native stone, logs or even lumber. Sand should be stopped from blowing by the use of small grain sowed at peanut harvest time or by subsoiling or by strip rowing with corn or grain sorghums. The farm home should be made liveable by putting in additional windows where more light and ventilation is needed, broken window lights may be replaced so the dow lights may be replaced so the pillows may again be used on the beds instead of to stop the rain or drafts. Leaks should be stopped in the roof and a good job of painting done. Adequate and modern outbuildings should not be

Work In Mission

The following is from Joe J. Mickle Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Jickle of Eastland, who is a teacher in Kwansei Gakuin, Nishinomiya-Shigai, Japan. Because of the existing conditions in that country and the war between China and Japan, the article is of special interest at this time:

This seemed to me an altogether useless and foolish question. Useless because the answer is so obviouly 'no,' and foolish because if there was ever a time when Christian internationalism needed to assert itself, this is that time. Christianity can, and does, find expression in many forms but there is no use in our trying to escape the obligation that falls upon us at time as Christian internationalists by saying that we will shift emphasis to some other form of Christian expression. I am not ing to say that Christianity within the human heart, but I saying very emphatically that the complete fulfillment of the Christian ideal must include a Chris-tian internationalism. Over 30 Million Americans Now Have It-Is This Dreaded Disease Becoming a Plague?

Athlete's Foot is a fungus germ (Tinea) which appears on the feet in the form of a little yellow blister, causing severe irritation and itching—especially between the toes. This disease is very contagious and is spreading with alarming rapidity among all classes of people.

The failure to successfully treat Athlete's Foot in the past has been due largely to the fact that these germs hibernate in the pores of the shoes. Salves and liquids applied only to the feet DO NOT PEND. TRATO THE PORES OF THE Medical Science has recently described by the second of the
