Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cook Have A Fine Peach Orchard

One of the finest peach orchards seen in this section in a long time is owned by Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cook on Caddo highway about three miles north of Ranger.

Mr. Cook says he moved to the place in 1923 and told his wife he expected to have some peaches to sell someday. That promise has been fulfilled. There are nearly 1,000 trees in the orchard and most of them are loaded down with fruit, notwithstanding the fact that several hundred bushels have been disposed of at market prices.

Mr. Cook displayed three peaches of unusual size and weight. They were of the Elberta variety and were beauties to look at.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook are both past 70 and do most of the work themselves and really enjoy it.

"The only thing we do not like to see is peaches going to waste, so we have three trucks that will be here this week to help us save the best peach crop that we have ever raised," Cook said.

Peaches are not all the Cooks raise. Grapes, figs and truck are also part of their daily chores.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook are genteel people and they appreciate visits from their friends.

At the meeting Monday night the plans for the singing convention were taken up first after J. E. Meroney, Dr. A. K. Wier, E. S. Tentative plans for the motorcade call for the start from Ranger to be at 7 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, Aug. 20, with stops at Olden, Desdemona, Gorman, Carbon, Eastland, Morton Valley, Parks Camp and Breckenridge for lunch. After lunch the stops, tentatively arranged, will be at Caddo, Metcalf Gap, Strawn, Mingus and Gordon, with the return to Ranger scheduled for sometime around 5 o'clock.

Two bands are to be taken along on the trip, it was stated at the meeting Tuesday, and souve-

COMMITTEE ON PROJECTS HAS FIRST MEETING

At a meeting of the Ranger projects committee, held in conjunction with the meeting to discuss the singing convention and junior college motorcade, reports were received which showed of the committee's activities.

E. A. Ringold, who was appointed as chairman of the committee to visit Fort Worth and see what could be learned about prospects for an underpass or overpass, made his report to the committee.

He stated that a conference was held with Chief Engineer Mitchell of the Texas & Pacific Railway company, who stated that an underpass at the point selected would installed a little to the north of the be impossible, but that it could be proposed site. Grades would prevent installing the structure at the site selected by the committee, he stated.

The committee was informed that the T. & P. had applied for 30 underpasses or overpasses, but that one at Ranger had not been considered by the railroad company as it was not thought enough traffic could be diverted to it to justify the project.

A report is to be made within 10 days, however, he said, and a copy would be sent to the committee.

G. A. Murphy reported that a city project, calling for chatting streets at a cost of about $21,000, had been worked up, but that the city did not have the $5,000 necessary for purchasing the chat. Arrangements had been made, he said, with the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company for all the free gravel the city would need.

It was reported by E. A. Ringold that the plans for remodeling the junior college dormitory had been returned for corrections, but these would be completed in a few days and it was felt that the project would go through.

nirs will be presented along the route. After a short entertainment program speakers will talk on the Ranger Junior College and on the coming singing convention.

Ranger Files Application For Marker To Commemorate Greatest Oil Boom

Ranger filed with the historical commission of the Texas Centennial today an application for recognition as one of the historical spots of Texas. The application forwarded to Henry Hutchings, secretary of the Centennial Commission of Control by R. V. Galloway, secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, asked for $500 for two markers commemorating the Ranger oil boom. One of these markers is to be placed where Main street intersects the Broadway of America near the Main street crossing. The other at the Merriman Cemetery, which was the center of one of the largest oil pools in the Ranger field and for which large sums were offered for drilling purposes.

In support of the claims of Ranger for such recognition a summary dealing with the oil boom accompanied the application. This summary was written by Boyce House, former editor of the Ranger Times, and who has devoted years of study into the history of mining and oil booms. His book "Were You In Ranger?" is to be published soon.

The article summarizing Ranger's claim to fame follows:

"Ranger was the scene of the biggest boom in the history of the United States.

"When rushes are mentioned, most persons think at once of California and the 'days of '48'. The value of all the gold produced in California in 1849 was $10,000,000. The best year the Klondike ever saw was $20,000,000. Goldfield yielded $12,000,000 in its banner year. Add all three of these together and multiply by two and you do not have as much wealth as was produced in 1919 in a circle having a radius of 40 miles with Ranger as the center—and in 1920, the Ranger field produced even more oil than in 1919.

"Probably no like area in the history of the world ever saw such an expenditure for development in the same length of time as the Ranger field did. For drilling, leases, pipe lines, railroads, highways, utilities, residential and business construction, the outlay was $1,200,000 a day or more—at the rate of more than $400,000,000 a year.

"Consider the number taking part. Writers place the migration to California in 1849 at 75,000. At least half a million people were in the Ranger field, at one time or another, in the two years of the boom. "Color! Ranger had it, Tex Rickard, Jess Willard, John Ringling, Jake Hamon, Count de Beaufort, thousands of former service men, adventurers, millionaires, gun fighters, gamblers figure in its history. There were 63 killings and suicides within a year in Ranger—to say nothing of the other towns in the area.

"Rags to riches" was too commonplace to attract attention. One company, worth $3,000,000 before the boom, saw its holdings valued at $300,000,000. Another company paid $10,350 for each $100 invested. Leases brought the highest prices in the history of petroleum. Four railroads were racing to be the first into town. Merriman church could have leased its cemetery to an oil company for $100,000 but the word flashed across the nation, in Ferrell's stirring poem, "Merriman Is Not for Sale!" There was the millionaire gob, and the scavenger who made a fortune, and the duel in which three men were killed, and the chief of police who wore gold pieces for cuff-buttons, and the daylight holdup of the Oklahoma Cabaret.

"Then there were the flaming wells, the gas geysers, the cities that rose in a day (and vanished almost as swiftly)—yes, the Ranger field was the scene of the biggest boom in the history of the United States."

The letter which went with the application read as follows:

"The City of Ranger and its Chamber of Commerce hereby make application to the Commission of Control for the Texas Centennial celebration for a sum not to exceed $500 for the purpose of erecting two markers in Ranger commemorating the great Ranger oil boom, 1917 to 1921.

"One of these markers to be placed on the Broadway of America, the all year route from Broadway New York to Broadway San Diego, Calif., and adjacent to the T. & P. passenger station where Main street intersects this highway, which is known as State Highway No. 1 and United States Highway No. 80. The other to be placed at the historical Merriman Cemetery three miles southeast of Ranger, which was the center of one of the largest oil pools in the Ranger field and for which large sums were offered for drilling purposes. This cemetery was a subject of many newspaper stories and magazine articles including Ferrell's famous poem, "Merriman Is Not for Sale!"

"Attached you will find a short historical sketch written by Boyce House, staff correspondent for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, enumerating a few historical facts regarding Ranger about which he has written a book to be published soon.

"In addition to the above facts regarding the historical Ranger oil boom, Ranger was a scene of an early Texas Ranger camp from which they fought Indians and pursued cattle rustlers. The early pioneers settled around this camp for protection and it soon developed into an important trading center. The city of Ranger derived its name from this camp.

"In view of these facts contained in Mr. House's brief, we feel that Ranger is justifiable in making application for recognition for the Centennial Commission of Control. Your consideration of this application will be very much appreciated.

"Respectfully,
"RANGER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
"R. V. Galloway, Secretary."

Public Library Offers a Great Variety of Books
A new record was established in the Ranger public library Monday when circulation of books and registration of new readers showed a decided increase. It is hoped by the librarian that still more citizens and visitors will take advantage of the collection of good books and magazines. The library, located in the basement of the high school building, is open from 9 until 12 every morning except Sunday and from 4 until 6 after noon on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and no charges are made for using it. There are cool reading rooms for those wishing to read newspapers, books, or magazines there. A collection of fiction and non-fiction from the Texas state library and the high school and junior college fiction and non-fiction provides an abundance of excellent reading material.
These are a few suggestions:
"Beneath Tropic Seas," a record of diving among the coral reefs of Haiti by William Beebe, director of the department of tropical research of the New York Zoological society. The book is illustrated by clever drawings and actual photographs.
"The Mason-Bees," by J. Henri Fabre.
"The Life of the Bee," by Maurice Maeterlinck.
"Devils, Drugs, and Doctors," by Howard W. Haggard, gives an authentic story of the science of healing from medicine-man to doctor. For those who like travel:
"A Vagabond Journey Around the World," by Harry A. Franck.
"The Glorious Adventure," by Richard Halliburton.
"How I Worked My Way Around the World," by Harry Steele Morrison, is the romantic story of a young American who traveled 50,000 miles by land and sea, interviewed crowned heads and other notabilities, and returned home with both money and experience, having literally worked his way around the world.
Besides these topics the librarian will be glad to show anyone books on care of the sick, household management, literature, history, and other interesting and worth while subjects.

Simple Reform Means Wide Social Change

Few reforms in this modern world can stand by themselves. Nearly all of them are interlocked with the social structure as a whole, and if you undertake to set one minor matter right you are apt to find yourself committed to making a sweeping change in the entire set-up.

For example: Dr. David Snedden, professor of education at Teachers' College, Columbia University, discussed the education of small children before a summer school class in New York the other night.

His point was that sending a child to school or kindergarten at too early an age puts the child in an unnatural environment and is apt to do more harm than good. It would be preferable, he said, to keep a child at home until it is 9 or 10 years old.

Then he went on to describe what he conceived as the ideal "school" for a child. There should be a normal household, he said, with a roomy back yard, flanked by similar yards in which the child and his playmates could come together.

All of this, he added, should be under "the sympathetic oversight of mothers who are not gainfully employed but are free to give their entire time to the vocation of home-making, including its most important division of child rearing."

Now all of this sounds very nice indeed, and there will be few to disagree with the good sense of the prescription. But try, just for a moment, to imagine the sweeping changes that would have to be made in our social habits to provide this setting for the average child.

First we must have a comfortable house with a roomy yard. This, at one fell swoop, does away with those massed city blocks of apartment houses, "duplexes" and little cubby-hole dwellings with ten-by-seven back yards. It would mean rebuilding a good half of every city, and raising the economic status of a sizable percentage of our entire population—for some millions of people fail to provide roomy back yards for their children for the simple reason that they can't afford it.

Then there is the demand that the mother be a full-time housewife, with no outside job to take up her time; and this, in turn, would call for another revolution. We have several million women gainfully employed in trade and industry, a great many of them mothers; and most of them work not because they like to but because they have to, to keep the family going.

If we are to fill this prescription, the annual income of innumerable families will have to be boosted—and thousands of men will have to learn how to become milliners, beauty shop operators, typists and heaven knows what else.

All of this is just a sample of the way things interlock in this modern world. Here we have an educator telling what we ought to give our children. To do it we would have to have an entirely different kind of society.

Gov. Talmadge of Georgia Throws Hat in Ring

Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia has planned a speaking campaign of the North and West this fall "to prevent the renomination of President Roosevelt." He will open in Illinois in September. He will go from Illinois to Iowa. And later campaign in New York and the New England states.

He should make an invasion of Louisiana where the real kingfish of the South is master of the political field. Long is a candidate for a presidential nomination. Talmadge is a candidate. They are two of a kind, but Long is a keenminded politician, he has the audacity of the toughest of ward leaders.

South Dakota Relief Heads Issue Drastic Order

South Dakota has a democratic governor, Thomas L. Berry. He is one of the leading ranchers and livestock producers of the state. He is not a politician. He is a hard headed business man—a humane American. He believes all men who are fit to work should prefer a wage to charity. Nineteen thousand heads of families were removed from the state relief rolls in a drastic move to force them to seek employment in the harvest fields. There was a reason for it.

"Spurred by farmers' complaints that dole recipients had declined to go to work gathering grain, officials ordered the suspension of all state and federal relief until the shortage of farm labor is fully supplied."

South Dakota is an agricultural state—a livestock state. Thousands on the relief rolls were in the rural district. Harvesting time is on and the growers of things demand that men on the relief rolls who are able to work and to support their dependents should be called to the fields and assist in the harvesting of bumper grain crops and this, too, without delay.

Why shouldn't the dole be abandoned in sections where there is work for thousands of harvesters and laborers?

The men who have forged ahead and made a success of their own business concerns are putting in the same hard work towards the upbuilding of your city. Help them!

Death of Charles Rosner, Widely Known Business Man

Charles Rosner was one of the outstanding business men of Austin. He died in the city of New York Monday. He was found dead in bed in his hotel room where he had gone with managers of his Austin and Taylor stores on a buying trip. He left Austin Saturday with the manager of the Rosner department store here and the manager of the Rosner store at Taylor. His son was already in New York City, having gone there about two weeks ago. According to press dispatches, he was a victim of heart disease.

Mr. Rosner had a long and interesting career. For more than a third of a century he had been a leading figure in the business life of Central Texas. He had engaged in the retail clothing business here for 35 years. And since June, 1931, he had operated a department store at Taylor. He was a director in two Austin financial institutions—the American National Bank and the Security Trust company and was interested in other Central Texas enterprises of a financial nature. He was identified with commercial organizations of the city, active in civic progress and thoroughly identified with all movements for the advancement of his people, liberal contributor to all charities and held in high esteem by a large circle of friends. He had been a citizen of the United States for 50 years—a loyal and most worthy citizen. He began at the bottom rung of the ladder and fought his way to the top. He was self-made and proud of it and ever loyal to the flag of his adopted country, a devoted husband and father and a square dealer as he saw life and living in this vale of tears.

Country in Sore Need of Labor Engineers

As labor relations grow more complicated there is greater need for men who understand them. In fact, Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, believes that the job of conducting labor relations must become a profession, and a vital one to the industrial peace of the future.

Employers are realizing this more and more. Almost every great factory has experts constantly studying its labor relations problems, and discovering new means of administering industrial justice.

New methods are being tried in efforts to solve some of the ever-recurring problems. One of these is the "annual wage" in seasonal industries.

Building and automobiles are typical of industries where the hourly wages are generally satisfactory, but in which a man may work so few hours during the year that his annual income is pitifully small. President Roosevelt himself has spoken out for the principle of wages based on a year's income.

This idea is comparatively new, though Proctor and Gamble, Cincinnati soapmakers, began such a plan in 1923. This "guaranteed employment" plan assures the employment" plan assures the employe a minimum of 75 per cent of the number of hours in every work week (now 40) for 48 weeks each year. The effect of such an assurance on workers is incalculable. And the company has found it beneficial too, for it has had to estimate and plan for steady production, which is economical.

But see how the idea has worked out in another industry which in some departments is extremely variable from year to year and season to season. At the Austin, Minn., plant of the George A. Hormel packing firm, a "straight time" plan has been in operation for nearly two years.

Here abattoir employes have agreed to work long hours when the heavy seasonal run is on, but short hours when it is not, getting the same weekly pay for both periods. The idea is to "pile up" unworked hours when the run of hogs to slaughter is low, and then do those "unpaid balances" of work later, when there are more hogs to kill.

Due to the drouth in 1934, the company lost out, for hours were short and it had to pay the regular weekly wage anyway. But it recently extended the agreement to 1939, providing that employes may "pay back" those unworked hours any time until that date. If no opportunity occurs before that time to even the matter up, the "piled-up" hours will be canceled.

Thus, even in a highly seasonal industry like hog-killing, it has proved possible to keep men at work at short hours without reducing their weekly or annual pay.

It is pioneering efforts like these that point out the future job of the labor engineer. In unions, in management, in the government service, he has an interesting and vital work to do.

Deluxe Chair Cars Added To Train On T. & P. Railway

The Texas and Pacific railway that ten new deluxe chair cars, assuring a degree of travel comfort heretofore unknown in chair car travel, have been placed in service on its three crack trains, the Sunshine Special, the Texan and the Louisiana Limited.

In making the announcement, Frank Jensen, general passenger agent, said the new chair cars "embodied every new feature known in passenger car equipment and that they meant a new high point in pleasure and relaxation for passengers."

"The new cars," Mr. Jensen explained, "introduce an innovation in reclining arrangements. The chairs, heavily upholstered to make them soft and comfortable, can be turned entirely around. If the occupant wants to face the window, his chair will turn that way. If a party of four want to face one another, the chairs are quickly turned to accommodate them. In addition, the reclining arrangements have been greatly improved. The chairs tilt back farther so as to provide a greater degree of comfort than was possible in the old style chairs."

Building Permits Continue Uptrend

AUSTIN. — Building permits issued during June in about forty of the leading cities of Texas were well above those of the like period last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Permits for the month totaled $2,492,685, a decline of 14.7 per cent from the previous month but 50.4 per cent above the similar month last year. During the first six months an increase of 98 per cent above the corresponding period last year. Cities showing increases over the previous month, the like month a year ago, and the first six months of the year in comparison with the corresponding period last year are: Big Spring, El Paso, Fort Worth, and Sherman.

Rehabilitation of Rural Districts Is Expected to Start

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Rexford Tugwell swung today into his $500,000,000 program to rehabilitate rural America. He applied for $10,800,000 to set up eight projects in seven states, converting some 750,000 acres of poor farm lands into public forests.

The projects to be established in Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Mississippi and New York, will give employment to 6,731 persons on relief rolls.

Parents Should See If Children Are Physically Fit

AUSTIN.—Now is the time, according to Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, that every parent should ask himself if his child is physically ready for school. A child will answer this question and give time for the correction of minor defects before time for school is open.

A child with defective vision can not be expected to do the required work in school until this handicap is removed. Inflamed, watery eyes, granulated lids, chronic styes, nervous actions as habitual winking, maybe caused by defective vision and should be attended to immediately.

The far reaching effect of infected tonsils on the system has been recognized by health workers for many years. Many of the ills of later life as heart disease, arthritis, deafness, etc., are directly traceable to tonsils that became infected during childhood and were allowed to remain untreated.

Have your family physician see if your child's shoulder blades project and if his arches are low. Simple exercises, diligently adhered to, when the child is young, will prevent later serious developments in many cases.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5.—A former inmate of an insane asylum confessed he stomped Dr. Paul Rogers, dentist, to death. The confessed slayer, Clarence Edwards, who lives near Smithville, Mo., did not resist arrest at his farm home.

Later at police headquarters he re-enacted the stomping, rattling the floor with the force of his jumping. The dentist's crushed body was found Sunday beside a Missouri river bottom road near Wellborn, Kansas. Heel marks were on his shirt and several ribs fractured. One pierced his heart.

Edwards, 35, told officers he hit Rogers several times after the man reached for a heavy glass mug during an altercation.

Business Man To Get An Award

NEW YORK.—Announcement of an annual award "For achievement in industrial administration" is made by Fortune Magazine in its August number.

The conditions of the award are:

"The editors each January will select from among those charged with the administration of American industries, small as well as large, the name of the individual whose achievement as an administrator during the preceding year seems to them most worthy of praise. To that individual Fortune will award $1,000 in cash and an appropriate certificate."

The editors express the opinion "that an industrial administration in an industrial society is as fully, if less formally, charged with a public interest as was political administration in a political society."

"Industrial administration," the announcement said, "as contemporary industry understands the term, is as much an art as politics is an art" and "industrial administration in the modern world attracts very much the same kind of energy, intelligence and ambition as was attracted by the art of politics in the politically minded world of the 18th Century."

The editors believe that a "series of such decisions, honestly made and publicly criticized, cannot fail to clarify the state of public opinion upon the standards of industrial conduct."

AUSTIN, Tex.—Five times as many college students will seek campus jobs at the University of Texas this fall than there will be jobs, J. I. Moore, dean of student life predicted today.

Relief jobs, under FERA appropriations in the past have paid $15 per month, but Dean Moore said that no assurances have been given that any funds will be available for the coming school year.

If Huey resents senators yawning during his filibusters, he might resort to some stop-gap legislation.

Farm Systems To End Floods

WASHINGTON.—Floods such as recently paralyzed farming in the middle West can be reduced by a thorough application of erosion control measures, according to H. H. Bennett, Department of Agriculture chief of the soil conservation service.

Bennett, a department report said, drew his conclusion from reports submitted to him by regional directors of the agency in Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado—the states most affected by the floods.

A. E. McClymonds, Colorado Springs, advised Bennett that "proper erosion control measures and a well-balanced farm management program would prevent a repetition of the recent flood."

He explained that terraces, conservation reservoirs and contour cultivation between the drainage area and water courses would reduce run-off by more than one-fourth in torrential storms and would completely control the run-off in ordinary storms.

Regional Director F. L. Duley, reporting from Mankato, Kan., said that "if the whole basin were treated we could keep enough of the water out of the stream so that the flood stage would seldom be reached."

The "elimination of over-grazing" was emphasized in the report of R. L. von Treba from Nebraska. All three directors reported the department said, that the region presented "ideal conditions for a flood," because the drought of the past few years had depleted vast areas of vegetation which formerly helped to hold rainfall in the soil.

AUSTIN, Aug. 6.—The State Board of Mineral Development was engaging a lawyer to contest a ruling by the state supreme court which the board construes to make acreage a basis for oil recovery in East Texas.

In 1862, Grant visited the headquarters of Gen. John Fremont in St. Louis. He gave Maxwell a dollar for holding the reins of his horse while he talked with Fremont. It was not long after this that Maxwell started his mule-selling career.

Governor Commutes A Death Sentence

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—Taking the roll of the thirteenth juror, Gov. James Allred today commuted to life in prison the death sentence of Hugh McCann and asked his successors in office not to extend additional clemency.

McCann was to be electrocuted Aug. 31 for killing Mrs. Lillian Davis at Temple, Sept. 19, 1934.

While he found no justification for what he termed a "terrible murder" the governor said it was doubtful if McCann was in possession of his full faculties at the time.

HAILE SELASSIE TO PAY CASH FOR WAR NEEDS

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 6.—In exclusive interview with the United Press today, Emperor Haile Selassie I, declared Ethiopia will pay as she fights, in event of war with Italy.

"We have not yet sought to purchase anything for which we lack the money to pay and have no intention of departing from that policy," the bearded monarch said.

The interview took place in the imperial palace. The emperor said his countrymen were ready to fight to the death, but that for the sake of peace he willing to submit to a mandate under the League of Nations which would preserve Ethiopia's sovereignty.

He expressed no terror of the modern fighting equipment of Italy, declaring "no special mental preparation is necessary" for his people.

Asked if he had been assured of Japanese support of any kind he replied in one word:

"None."

Through the United Press Selassie thanked President Roosevelt for his statement of Aug. 1 about the impending war and the American press and people for their sympathy and support.

The interview was the frankest exposition the emperor has yet made on the Italian dispute. He re-affirmed his determination to lead his own troops in the battle if war comes and said the women of his country would accompany the army and prepare food and nurse the wounded.

HOT GASOLINE CHECK-UP PUT INTO EFFECT

Commenting on a recent editorial in this paper, described as "able and pertinent," Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, in a communication received Wednesday stated "It would be a God-send to the people if congress could adjourn tonight sine die."

"I quite agree with you that congress should continue in session until it properly concludes all of its important business. "But it would be a God-send to the people if congress could adjourn tonight sine die. Over a million dollars will be wasted every day that congress remains in session. There have been 9044 bills introduced during our continuing session since Jan. 3. Most of them are bad bills, and should not pass. One pay an attorney's fee of $24,400. From now to adjournment, determined efforts will be made every day to pass these private bills. Many will pass, regardless of strenuous opposition.

Greatest Evil of Rural School System—Lack of Co-operation— Asserts County Superintendent

Greatest evil of the rural school system—lack of co-operation between adjoining districts—that is the opinion of County Superintendent C. S. Eldridge.

The expression came Monday when the superintendent addressed members of the Eastland Rotary club at their weekly luncheon.

Co-operation is needed between towns and the rural districts, Eldridge stated. Let the city schools get the rural districts' high school pupils, but the rural districts should retain their grammar grades, the superintendent stated. Grammar school is the foundation of learning and more important than high school work, Eldridge stated.

The county superintendent has a panacea for the rural schools' ills, he told the club. Dubbed the "trade territory system," Eldridge recommended schools in certain districts merge. "It's coming to that anyway," he confided.

Removal of rural school students to the city by way of bus and other activities is sounding the death knell for social intercourse of communities, Eldridge stated. Stress was placed upon co-operation of cities and rural districts. "What may seem little to cities is important to the rural section."

He used a slogan of a southern newspaper, "Civilization begins and ends with the plow," to illustrate importance of the rural sections.

RANGER TO HAVE BIG SINGING CONVENTION ON AUG. 17 AND 18

J. E. Meroney, president of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Ranger school board, announced Saturday that plans were underway by the two groups to sponsor a big, two-day singing convention in the Recreation building on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 17 and 18.

The school board has donated the auditorium of the Recreation building for the purpose and the two groups will cooperate in making this the biggest singing convention ever held in this part of the state, it was stated.

All singers living in and around Ranger are being urged to write and talk the singing convention and to urge everyone who is interested to be present. Ernest Rippitoe of Dublin, one of the most famous singers in this part of the state and who has conducted a number of popular singing schools in Ranger, has announced that he would be present and would have his quartet with him.

The Stamps-Baxter recording quartet, which has just completed a contract in New York City, where it made a number of records, is also expected to be at the convention and to take an active part in the singing.

Other groups are expected from the Hartford Music company of Dallas and the Quartet Music company of Fort Worth, both of which have gained considerable fame at singing conventions over the entire country.

"This is not to be a Ranger singing convention, nor an Eastland county convention," Meroney pointed out Saturday, but it is to be much larger in its scope, taking in every section within driving distance of Ranger. I expect that the large seating capacity of the auditorium will be ample to take care of the entire crowd, but I confidently believe that it will be

TWO MEXICANS ARE CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Suit for $2500 judgment against the City of Eastland was asked in a petition filed Monday in 88th district court by E. M. Brand, banking commissioner and liquidator of the defunct Texas State Bank.

Petitioner alleges the City of Eastland executed a $6,500 promissory note to the Texas State bank on Oct. 1, 1931, which was payable in 90 days at a rate of 8 per cent interest.

Provision was made in the note, petitioner recites, that if attorneys collected after the note's maturity, a penalty of 10 per cent would be added. J. H. Reynolds, president of the Cisco State bank, in giving his reason for liquidation of the bank's affairs, said that he had believed for a long time the community could not quite support two banking institutions.

"There is no question but that Mr. Spears has a strong bank, and this one will make it even stronger."

He pointed out that the Cisco State bank had been "breaking even," but had not been a great paying institution.

Methods to Destroy Leaf Worm, Which Threatens Ruin of Cotton in County, Are Explained By County Agent Head

Destruction of the cotton crop by leaf worm infestation is threatened in this county, but it can be easily controlled, C. Metz Head, county agent, announced Wednesday after an investigation.

Head states the best method is to use calcium arsenate, otherwise known as arsenate of lime. This is the same material as is ordinarily applied for the control of boll weevil. Under ordinary conditions and where dusting machinery is available, it is applied in dry form. Head states it should be applied in an even dust cloud, five pounds per acre ordinarily being sufficient, although in cotton of large growth it may be necessary to apply 10 pounds per acre, Head states. It should be applied preferably in the early morning while there is dew on the plant, although it is claimed effective when applied in mid-day provided there is no wind.

1934 TOTAL IS LOWER THAN IN BIG YEAR, 1933

Eastland county farmers received for their cotton last year $254,731.64 compared to $107,606.60 in 1932 and $281,403.29 in 1933. C. Metz Head, county agent, announced Wednesday, on the basis of complete official three-year county cotton figures just released from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The income last year was more than double what it was in 1932, and almost equal to that of 1933, a very favorable year, the county agent points out.

The farm value of lint and seed last year was almost $12,500 more than it was in 1932, and added to this was $22,428.84 in benefit payments.

Values are based upon yields and prices as furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture. The benefit payments include all those to April 30, 1935. The value of unsold Bankhead certificates held by farmers is not included in the amount of benefit payments. Texas farmers have about nine million dollars' worth of these certificates on hand, according to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

This increased farm income has been the means of helping farmers stay in business, maintain their farms and homes, and remain customers of merchants, it was pointed out at the county agent's office.

Last Rites For Mrs. R. H. Bundick Held On Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Esta Bundick, 80, pioneer resident of Ranger, were conducted from the First Baptist church of Ranger Monday afternoon with Rev. G. W. Thomas conducting the services, assisted by other pastors of the town. She died in a Ranger hospital after several days illness.

The decedent was born in Gonzales on April 27, 1865, and was married to R. H. Bundick in 1888, and in 1906 moved to Ranger, where they settled in their present home.

The decedent is survived by her husband, who is well known and respected throughout this section, one son, Otto of Ranger, and one step-son, R. H. Bundick, Jr. Other surviving relatives include two brothers, J. E. Hargis of San Antonio and T. E. Hargis of Bisbee, Ariz.

Interment will be in the Evergreen cemetery following the services at the church.

John Tarleton Is Expecting Increase In Rolls This Year

STEPHENVILLE.—Room reservations and applications for admittance at John Tarleton college point towards a record enrollment for the next school year, Dean Gabe Lewis said.

The last reservation for a place in the Boys' Barracks was taken several days ago, he said.

Although there are still a number of vacancies in rooming houses adjacent to the campus, Dean Lewis said the number of advance registrations of boys is unusually large.

Eastland Man Is Charged With a Liquor Law Violation

Charged in two complaints in connection with alleged possession of liquor, Pete Theous, operator of the Little Queen cafe in Eastland, made $1,000 bond in each case, Milton Newman, justice of the peace, stated Monday.

Complaints charged possession of liquor at the Eastland cafe, business and residence, Theous, 1111, deputy sheriff, was accompanied by Newman and Bill Wood, deputy sheriff, and E. L. Woods, deputy sheriff.

Muscovites Hie To Open Fields

MOSCOW.—Muscovites, more than most people, are lured by the open country. This was shown by a recent official checkup on the way some 1,500,000 residents of Moscow spent their "free day," or day of rest, which comes every six days. Of this number more than one-third, or 600,000, bought tickets for suburban trains. Some spent the day at their own "datchas," or summer houses. The less fortunate went to rest-homes, tourist bases or walked in the country. Meanwhile, 500,000 more spent the day in various parks or sports grounds or in the open-air theaters. Some 250,000 visited the Central Park of Culture and Rest alone. More than 20,000 were lured by the cool waters of the Moscow River. Over 36,000 visited the zoo. Museums and libraries during these warm summer days are not so popular. On the day of the checkup, only 2,716 persons visited the Tretyakov art gallery, although the attendance in winter is much larger. Two thousand persons visited the Museum of the Revolution, and a special art exhibit by Moscow painters drew only 1,040 patrons. The great urge to wander from or about the city on free-day heavily taxes the transportation system. On the day in question, the Moscow street railroad sold 5,695,000 tickets, or nearly 2,000,000 more than the population of the city. The new city subway, which is five times as expensive as the tramway, carried 240,000 passengers, or about 70,000 more than on normal days. Also a great increase in automobile and taxi traffic was noted. There are relatively few private automobiles here, in comparison with American or western European cities. However, as their production increases and as the state carries out its program of road-building around Moscow, the number of persons driving into the country is constantly growing.

Japan Importing Bulk of Goods of American Origin

TOKYO.—The United States sold more goods to Japan in the first half of 1935 than any other nation and more than all Asia combined, according to semi-official compilations. The compilations made by statisticians of Tokyo Assh, were based on the official announcements made every ten days and estimates for the last ten days of June. Imports increased 28 percent in that period and exports to the United States increased 21 percent.

One of the most noticeable declines affected the trade with Argentina. According to the reports, sales to Argentina amounted to only 3,39,000 yen ($977,010) a decrease of 58 percent. Japan's purchases from the United States, mostly cotton, totaled $114,661,890 while the purchases from all Asia including China and Manchukuo amounted to $112,351,800.

In many areas Japan's sales improved. Sales to the Philippines increased 31 percent while to China and Manchukuo they increased 36 percent. The sales to Central and South America amounted to $14,755,430 and the imports $3,174,550. Exports to Canada with which Japan has been in controversy regarding high tariffs for some time, amounted to only $946,850 according to the Asahi while imports from Canada totalled $8,420,730. The grand total which reveals that Japan still has an unfavorable trade balance, shows that imports and exports increased equally on a basis of value, namely 20 percent.

The total exports for the six months is estimated at $284,663,700 and the imports at $338,261,900. Of possible significance was the decline in exports to El Salvador. According to the Asahi's table exports decreased 88 percent. El Salvador last year recognized Manchukuo and some circles expected an increase in Japanese sales there.

HUNTINGTON, Ind.—The U. S. supreme court's decision in ruling the NRA unconstitutional doesn't mean a thing to the Huntington county commissioners. They have ordered that all bidders on county supplies first must produce a certificate of compliance with the National Recovery Act.

DAVID'S TEMPERANCE AND FAITH

During the reign of Jehoiakim in Judah, Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, besieged Jerusalem and took a number of the flower of their youth to be trained as his counselors. They were tutored in languages, science and astrology so that they might become advisers to him.

Among these boys "remarkable for the beauty of their bodies, and the comeliness of their countenances" were Daniel and three of his companions.

Their personalities struck the king as unusual and he designated a special table with "refined portions of rich food from his own table to supply it."

prince of the eunuchs who had charge of their table to serve them only vegetables and water. He quieted the fears of the man that they would lose weight and beauty of their countenance by persuading him to try this diet for 10 days on their table. The eunuch would have lost his head for disobeying the king's order.

But at the end of 10 days they were in much better condition both physically and mentally, than the boys who had fared on rich food and wine.

"As for these four children God gave them knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom; and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams." (Verse 17.)

Graduation day came and they stood before the king for their final examinations. The king found these four boys "ten times better than the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm."

No greater argument could be made for temperance in living than that one picture of Daniel and his

New Threat to Auto Speeder

A new curb on auto speeders that promises startling results is shown in operation here—the Massachusetts State College high-speed meter. As a car passes the first of the two light sensor poles shown across the road, it starts the meter and as it passes the second, 18 inches distant, the recording instrument's operation is stopped, giving the speed within the fraction of a mile at 30 and within two miles an hour at 60.

must we sell souls to eternal ruin that the strong may live well?

In quietness in studying God's word we can know to say "no." But turning again to the picture of Daniel we can study the frame and background of silver touched with the blue of the sky in truth. The sun of faith illumines it touched by the gorgeous colors of crimson and purple of courage lighting the path of the figure struggling up the mountain by prayer and study of the word, amid the blossoming shrubs of love, hope and charity, to the high peak of purity found in nearness to God.

The words of the Lord are pure words: as silver tried in a furnace of earth, purified seven times.—Psalm 12:6.

If the haven desired by all people is ever found it must be by the way of the lowly Nazarene who was the Great Artist of living. He is not a representative of God but an embodiment of God. He stands today calling the hearts of people to take a definite stand for purity in following him to peace and happiness in health of soul and body.

Importance as it is, there is no time to mention the fact that in the history of the baseball world, the most interesting and dramatic event that has occurred in the past few years is the rise of the minor league players. These are the players who are not in the major leagues, but who are nevertheless playing in the minor leagues. They are the players who are the backbone of the game, and who are the ones who are most often overlooked by the general public. comrades. In reading the Book of Daniel we find that it is not merely giving an account of Daniel's life but deals more with the fact that God with all his power and foreknowledge controls and directs the history of nations. He could use the Hebrew captive boys and the mightiest king on earth to accomplish his divine plans.

Daniel was the outstanding personality in the group of boys devoted to their study and devotion always relying upon God as the source of all wisdom.

In all of the wickedness of the court he maintained a quiet faith and poise that revealed the true art of living. He dared to be different from the crowd not to glorify himself but his God.

All we hear the word on all sides but what is art? We find the two letters "ar" to be an ancient word root that appears in many languages. It means to bind or join together. The man who builds a beautiful chair, or some other thing is an artist, the letter "d" is added. The letter "m" is added making "arm"—"the art of God."

The great painter, Walter Sargent, said: "Art is not a mere skillful representation of nature, but a definite embodiment of a significant range of human experience."

So we see Daniel as a great figure in history, a great artist in the manner of life because he embodied God's truth in his life both by study and practice until the picture fingers even today while those of the crowd who dwell on the rich food and drink of the king are forgotten.

What a challenge today for all people who are not only seeking and striving to attain greatness in power and position by keeping up with the mad whirl of worldly ways.

For those with the word God, the Holy one of Israel in returning

FORMER OLDEN BOY NOW AT RANDOLPH FIELD IS HOME ON 30-DAY LEAVE

By OLIVE FORD STEPHENS
Living in a government army camp is like being in a different world, Carvie Fullen, Olden boy, stationed at Randolph field, San Antonio, comments. Carvie has served one year and five months of his three-year enlistment.

He says there is no depression at camp and never has been one. The boys get their three meals daily, sleeping quarters, free hospitalization, and their pay just the same as army men have for years. No one mentions the problem of living because there is no problem to it. No one is rich but no one is broke, or if he is, he knows it is only temporary and his next pay is on the way.

Carvie has one of those flashing, contagious smiles and visits with him this morning, I was impressed with the fact that if he is a fair sample of Randolph field boys, then Randolph field is a k. k. He has the happy-go-lucky attitude of youth, to which he is adding a store of valuable experience and information.

Asked what his advice to a boy wanting to be an aviator would be, Carvie unhesitatingly replied, "Go through high school and get as much of college as you can. You can't even get to first base without a high school education." Carvie knows, because in his senior year of high school, he and three other boys left to seek their fortune in Arizona, about a month before he was to have been graduated from high school. The fortune somehow failed to materialize and now Carvie has been attending night school to make the rest of his credits there at Randolph field.

Carvie laughingly related the experience of his first flight. He said he had been trying to get a "hop" but hadn't had any success until he asked a captain who grinned and said, "O. K. go get your chute." Carvie said the captain was already taping up his motor, so Carvie fell all over himself hunting attendants and getting a "chute." But in his hurry he could not manage to find anyone with a key to the locker where helmets were kept, so he assembled out and fell into the cockpit minus a helmet. He said the captain asked, "Can you take it, kid?" and he said, "Yes, sir."

Carvie did not know the seats were adjustable for comfort and wind resistance, so when he found a terrific wind beating against his forehead all he could do about it was to lower his head in a strained position and keep it that way during the ride. Most of the time he held his hands over his ears to keep the noise of the motor from bursting his ear drums. Also he was absolutely certain that should he even attempt to change the position of his feet, so much as a fraction of an inch, it would mean a "crack up." He was afraid he would touch the stick. But sitting woodenly still and bent forward, his legs cramped and one hip felt paralyzed because what he had supposed was merely a little "hop" turned out to be a trip to Austin and back. When the plane finally nosed down to Randolph field, Carvie said he was too tired and cramped to know whether he was scared or not. And on the ground, when the captain yelled at him, he could not hear a word and had to ask him to repeat it. It was, "Are you o. k.?" And Carvie's reply was, "O—Ye-ye-yes, sir."

Since then Carvie has had many "hops" and enjoyed them all. That is, all but the one when he lost his goggles just as they left the ground and they fell through the hole by the stick and down into the fuselage and worked back toward the baggage compartment, with Carvie madly watching and fishing for them. But it was not until he landed that he finally retrieved the goggles and once more could breathe at ease. Because the government goggles cost $36 a pair and enlisted men don't have $36 running around loose much of the time.

Camp life is very complete. There are commissary department, post office and sundries, drug store, soft drinks, moving picture show, barber shop, filling stations, and all necessary accommodations, but now and then the boys go to San Antonio to see the sights. Once in a while one or more of the soldiers get into a little row with civilians but among themselves there is very little trouble. In fact in the 17 months he has been there, Carvie states he has seen but only one fight between men in that camp. The next day their captain said, "Next time you boys decide to stage a battle, let us know so we can sell tickets. We could use a little money."

Yes, sir, talking with Carvie one gets the impression that here is a boy going after those high school credits and he will get them. And also here is a boy who is going places and seeing things in aviation.

Letters From Our Readers

An opportunity will be offered the people of Texas in the Aug. 24 election to assume their rightful authority to speak quickly in times of public emergency without waiting for the next regular session of a legislature that convenes but once each two years.

To take advantage of this opportunity the voters should adopt the amendment to the constitution, fourth in order on the ballot, which provides that "in cases of extraordinary emergencies affecting the state as a whole amendments to the constitution may be proposed upon the submission of the proposed amendment by the governor at any special session."

As the constitution now stands, the people are prevented from adopting any emergency measures, no matter how dire the need, without a wait that might mean permanent disaster. As an example, the next regular session of the legislature is in 1937, and, if some holocaust should strike now, in the combating of which the people would have to amend their constitution, we should have to wait a year and a half before an amendment could be offered.

The rapidly changing policies of the national government—the changing social and economic life of the people of Texas both show conclusively that the people should be able to vote quickly on matters affecting their welfare. Especially is this true when extraordinary conditions exist affecting the state as a whole. The need of this privilege and this right is emphasized by the certainty that lawful authority must be furnished the state and local communities to care for the orphan, the destitute widow and the sick living in our midst when their needs are acute.

As these orphans, widows and impoverished sick find their wants no longer can be supplied through national government relief sources, their cries will be directed as is now being done in many instances to the local communities and to the states as a whole. Surely the people of this state would not want to see these appeals made in vain, yet unless a favorable vote is given Amendment 4, no power exists in this state that will provide food, clothing and shelter for this group of our people. We should remember as we go to the polls on Aug. 24 that Amendment 4 does not involve an issue of opinion. It is merely a change in our fundamental law giving to the people a power and a right to do that which they always should have the power and right to do; that is, to change their fundamental laws as to necessity demands.

A vote for this amendment will not mean that any particular provision must be made. It is simply the granting to, or the assumption by, the people of a power to provide what might be reasonable and necessary to the public welfare. Any such questions of specific needs will be submitted in future amendments, as authorized by the one now under discussion, when such needs arise. Then only will the people be asked to vote on a specific provision for the needs of those same widows, orphans and sick.

A vote against this amendment would continue to tie the hands of the state and local governmental agencies and so prevent them from doing anything adequately to meet the situation.

Citizens who are interested in public welfare can not afford to permit this amendment to fail. It is their duty to acquaint their fellow citizens with its purpose and its need; to organize their communities in active groups that will further an intelligent understanding of our problems so that on Aug. 24 a tremendous vote for Amendment 4 will be given by the people of Texas.

Air Travelers Prefer Sleeping In Pajamas

NEW YORK.—Pajamas in dark shades are women's favorite sleeping garments for air travel and only rarely is a nightgown worn. This conclusion was reached by Anne Clegg, American Airlines stewardess, after observing habits of travelers on sleeper planes for the past year.

Nine out of ten times the garment is of a dark color, she noted, but she hesitated to set any ratio on pajamas as compared to nightgowns.

Bear Plunges Hill Folk Into Dispute

BALSAM GAP, N. C. — Honest John, champion bear and champion hunter of pork on the hoof of the Balsam Mountains, is the subject of a local controversy on legislation.

Wild life lovers, pointing to his reputed 80-year age, his great size (600 to 700 pounds), advocate special legislation to "protect" his life. But there are just as many who feel the legislature should make it lawful to hunt him, in season or out, until his ravages on the legs of mountain farmers are ended.

Honest John got his name from the fact that he never kills more than one hog at a time, always picking the carcass clean before he seeks another porker.

Strawn Trades Days Drawing Huge Crowds

FARMERS ARE DOING WEEKLY BUYING THERE

Entertainment on Saturday, The Day Farmers Shop, Is Turning Trick.

Trades days in Strawn, which are held each Saturday, are proving to be the most popular ever staged in this vicinity, and possibly the most popular ever staged in West Texas by a town the size of Strawn.

Each Saturday people congregate in the town from over a wide trade area, and each week the crowds are growing steadily and the interest is increasing in proportion to the crowds that attend.

Merchants in the city, who are sponsoring the trades days, have begun to realize what an important event these days are to the town and they see graphic examples each week of how a smaller town can draw crowds and business from the larger and more recognized trade centers by the cooperation of the merchants and the concerted efforts to give the people what they want when they want it.

Business in Strawn has picked up considerably since the trades days have been inaugurated and indications are that they will become a regular and recognized weekly feature, with increasing numbers of people visiting the city each week end to participate in the entertainment offered and to do their shopping where some inducement is being offered.

Special attractions are being offered each Saturday, including rodeos, baseball games, barbecues, and new plans are being considered for a homecoming for ex-students of the Strawn High school, which will probably be held some time before Sept. 1, and which is expected to draw not only the regular trades day crowds, but their numbers are expected to be swelled by a large number of the ex-students.

NACOGDOCHES, Aug. 5.—A negro named Forney, driver of a truck which crashed into a group of churchgoers, injuring four, two seriously, was in jail today and Sheriff Fitch said he hoped to have the negro's companions soon.

Sheriff Fitch said that Forney claimed dust blinded him as he tried to avoid hitting another car and he did not see the people.

The accident occurred as the crowd gathered for evening services. The truck sped out of the night, ran into the crowd before they had time to dodge. The truck went several hundred yards before it stopped and the three occupants fled.

STRAWN HAS BIG CROWD AT DELEON FETE

Strawn played an important part in the Peach Festival at DeLeon Wednesday, the first day of the big three-day event.

The program was opened with an address of welcome by Mayor Daniels of DeLeon, after which he called upon a number of out-of-town visitors for short talks.

Among those called upon, and who spoke were J. M. Tucker and Rev. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church.

At the program the importance of building highways to connect towns in this area was brought out by the speakers.

After the program a watermelon feast was served by the DeLeon Chamber of Commerce.

Approximately 200 attended the Peach Festival from Strawn, every business house in the town sending a representative and in some instances several from one firm attending in a group.

The large turnout from Strawn was prompted by a desire to secure approval of a new highway from DeLeon, through Desdemona and Strawn to Graham.

NEW DEAL TO FACE DECISION ON ITS COTTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The new deal this week approaches a billion dollar decision on what it is going to do about American cotton.

On Thursday at 11 a. m., EST, government experts will announce the first official estimate of the 1935 cotton crop, most valuable agricultural harvest.

The government is expected to decide after the estimate, whether it can pour some $309,000,000 back into the treasury by unloading here and abroad its stocks of cotton.

The world supply of American cotton is expected to be valued roughly at $1,000,000,000 regardless of the number of bales. The decision on the cotton loans this year will involve this supply.

West Texas Chamber of Commerce Group Expresses Views on Three Of Seven Proposed Amendments

The taxation and public expenditure commission of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in line with previous declarations and policies of the organization, has completed a report on the seven state constitutional amendments, upon which the people of Texas will vote on Aug. 24.

Recommendations are made on only three of the proposed amendments, four of which do not come within the policies of the organization to justify a recommendation, the report says.

The complete report of the commission is as follows:

As chairman and vice chairman of your taxation and public expenditure commission and in line with previous declarations and policies of the West Texas chamber, we are reporting and recommending herewith relative to the constitutional amendments being voted upon the fourth Saturday in August as follows:

(1) Free Textbook and Apportionment Amendment, S. J. R. No. 24: This amendment abolishes a provision in the constitution which ever since 1891 has required our public school funds to be distributed on a scholastic population basis. The scholastic population method of distributing school funds has severely penalized West Texas. Our native white population is 16 per cent greater than the rest of the state, and having but little negro and Mexican population our scholastic population is proportionately less and our enrollment and average daily attendance is proportionately greater than the rest of the state. A complete analysis shows that West Texas has around 29 per cent of the scholastic population of the state, while West Texas has from 32 to 35 per cent of the school enrollment and average daily school attendance of the state.

The proposed amendment makes possible the allotment of school funds on a daily attendance basis instead of the discriminatory scholastic population basis. This change has been recommended by the State Department of Education and by the State Board of Education and the report of 1932 states as follows: "The basic law should be so amended as to provide for the distribution of state school funds on basis of enrollment and average daily attendance; that is on basis of service actually rendered by the schools. The state should no longer subsidize absence from school. Its resources should not be used to the extent of millions of dollars annually to reward non-performance of duty."

If the funds were allotted on an enrollment and daily attendance basis West Texas would secure from 3 to 6 per cent more money than we have been securing for over 40 years. On the basis of a 30 million dollar available school fund this means that the West Texas schools would secure from $900,000 to over $1,500,000 per year more than she has been securing. This amendment enables overcoming a 40-year West Texas discrimination and the securing of more funds for our public schools and should be vigorously supported by West Texas.

There might be some misgivings about the free textbook provisions of the amendment inasmuch as it enables the giving of free textbooks to private or sectarian schools. It is a fact, however, that this will not add to the cost of free textbooks as the present law requires books to be purchased in accordance with scholastic census. Since all children, regardless of color or religion are placed on the census rolls, whether they attend the public schools or not, it, therefore, appears that this provision will not result in the purchase of additional books. Furthermore, if any one has religious scruples about books being furnished to parochial schools, the fact still remains that our State Board of Education will always approve and prescribe the books. There need be no fear that parochial schools will receive per capita allotments because the amendment states that no part of the available school fund shall ever be appropriated to or used for the support of any sectarian school. We see nothing in the free textbook provision that should keep West Texas from militantly voting for this amendment in order that we may do away with the discriminatory scholastic census basis of allotment.

(2) Old Age Pension, H. J. R. No. 19: This amendment enables the legislature to make a payment of $15 per month to every citizen of Texas over the age of 65 years, excluding only criminals, inmates of state institutions, etc. There is nothing in the amendment limiting the payments to indigent and persons without means of support and under the provision of the amendment a millionaire is eligible for the pension. The amendment makes no provision as to the total cost to the state or as to how the revenues are to be raised.

If a pension of $15 a month is to be paid to the 232,459 persons in Texas over 65 years of age, the total annual cost to the state will be over 40 million dollars. This is more money than annually is appropriated to our schools and is equivalent to the total cost of our state government, excepting highways.

Already 25 per cent of the people of the state draw their means of support from taxes and these taxes, according to 1932 figures, consume 97 per cent of the net income of the individuals and corporations of Texas. In fact, the total tax bill consumes all of the net income of the people of Texas excepting nine million dollars. It, therefore, seems impossible that this proposed new tax burden can be consumed by taxes on income.

To place the new burden on property and raise the revenue from ad valorem taxes would be still further beyond all reason and possibility. Already these ad valorem taxes are confiscating the property of West Texas and leaving in its wake bankruptcy and destitution. On an average ad valorem taxes are consuming 99 per cent of the net returns from property.

We would favor and support an old age pension plan if the needy were assured of its benefits. Under the provisions of this amendment to think that West Texans can support it at least until proper restrictions are placed in the amendment and until the present tax base is broadened and property taxes are relieved. We recommend that our organization vigorously oppose this amendment.

(3) Abolishing the Fee System, S. J. R. No. 5: This amendment abolishes the fee system in all counties with population of 20,000 or more and enables the commissioners courts in counties of 20,000 or less to abolish the fee system and pay for such services on a salary basis. Long have we opposed the pernicious fee system as one which tends to develop inefficiency, injustice and additional costs to the taxpayers. We believe that this amendment should be supported and adopted.

(4) Commitment of Insanity Patients, H. J. R. No. 39: This amendment would make it possible to commit to an institution allegedly insane persons without trial by a jury. The limit of temporary restraint for observation and treatment of patient is 90 days. The purpose of the amendment seemingly is good, but there is nothing in our previous declarations and policies which justify a chamber of commerce program on this measure.

(5) Suspended Sentence Amendment grants the courts having original jurisdiction of criminal action the power, after conviction, to suspend the imposition or execution of sentence and to place the defendant upon probation and to reimpose such sentence. We likewise pass this amendment as one not within the purview of our chamber of commerce activity.

(6) Mode of Amending the Constitution, H. J. R. No. 48: This amendment, if carried, will enable special sessions of the legislature to submit constitutional amendments. At the present time constitutional amendments can be submitted only by the regular legislative session. We likewise have no objection to this amendment and see in it no West Texas issue.

(7) Prohibition Repeal, S. J. R. No. 3a: This issue has in no way been a part of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce program and we think it inadvisable as an organization to take a position either for or against it.

The above covers all seven amendments being submitted in the August election and we think it imperative that our organization call upon our affiliates and constituents to vigorously support the school apportionment measure, to oppose the old age pension measure and support the abolishing of the fee system measure.

Yours very truly,

JAMES D. HAMLIN, chairman, H. C. CUSTARD, vice chairman, Taxation and public expenditure commission, West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
SEA SCREEB STAR WRITER

ABOUT this time of the year, pears, in spite of their seeming sweetness, will serve as a fine tonic for tired summer appetites. Use them fresh in salads, fruit cups and desserts or as a breakfast fruit, or stew them for a compote. Better still, bake them for breakfast with bacon and eggs.

To bake pears pare and core them and arrange in a single layer in a lightly buttered casserole. Sprinkle with sugar, cover closely and bake slowly for an hour until tender. A little ground ginger mixed with the sugar improves the flavor. Or drop a vanilla bean in the center of the casserole. Chill and serve with whipped cream and ginger cookies. Two tablespoons of sugar for each pear makes the fruit sweet enough for the average taste.

For Stuffing Pears

For stuffed pear salad, use cream cheese mixed with preserved ginger and finely chopped nuts. Peanut butter and cream cheese makes a good stuffing, too, and seedless white grapes and nuts folded into a fruit-salad dressing. If you do them in fritters, serve with ginger sauce. This is a good dessert for a vegetable dinner. Pare the fruit and cut it in very thin slices. Drop into fritter batter and fry in deep hot fat. Drain on crumpled paper and serve with ginger sauce.

Sautéed pears with chocolate sauce is a favorite dessert in my family. The fruit is pared and cut in halves and browned lightly in butter. Cover with hot chocolate sauce. Let stand until cool and chill for several hours. Serve with or without a garnish of whipped cream.

Peanut butter and cream cheese makes a good stuffing, too.

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Chilled lemon balls, cereal cooked with dates, cream, milk, coffee, toast.

LUNCHEON: Corn soufflé, creamed green peppers, chilled baked pears with whipped cream, ginger cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER: Steamed haddock, shoe string potatoes, creamed broccoli, frozen pear salad, toasted crackers, milk, coffee.

ar. 1 cup water, juice and rind 1-2 lemons, 1 clove, 1-4 cup marsh-malino.

Pare fruit and cut in halves. Make a syrup of sugar and water. Add pears, lemon juice and grated rind of lemon and cloves. Simmer until fruit is tender. Remove pears from syrup and drain. Add marsh-malino to syrup and cook until thick. Pour over pears and serve very cold with or without a garnish of whipped cream.

Because pears are slightly acid they make ideal desserts to serve with fish. A frozen pear salad does duty for both salad and dessert in a fish dinner of steamed haddock, shoe string potatoes and creamed broccoli.

Frozen Pear Salad

Cook pears in thin syrup until tender. Drain and put in freezing tray. Mix 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 cup whipping cream, whipped until firm, 1-2 cup finely chopped nut meats, 2 tablespoons minced preserved ginger, 2 packages cream cheese, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Work nuts and ginger and lemon juice into cheese. Combine with whipped cream and mayonnaise and pour over pears. Freeze until firm and serve on lettuce. Garnish with cherries and more mayonnaise.
