Confederate Home Property Does Not Have Much Value

AUSTIN—Sale of unused property at the State Confederate Home would not make a dent in the deficit in the Confederate Pension Fund, Claude Teer, chairman of the state Board of Control, believes.

He considered impractical a suggestion that such a sale be made to help overcome the deplorable condition of the Confederate Pension Fund, now more than $5,000,000 in the red.

There are 80 veterans living at the Home. The grounds on West Sixth Street, Austin, are extensive. The buildings would not bring much at sale, Teer said, and the real estate would have a low price because of a ravine that traverses it. It might be used as a real estate venture by dividing it into home sites.

The property is held by the state. It can be disposed of only by act of the legislature. Teer considered it doubtful that the legislature would authorize a sale. Later, when the handful of Confederate survivors become still smaller, he thought it possible the state might use the property and buildings for a hospital for crippled children.

The Confederate Women's Home, Austin, will be needed for many more years for its present uses, Teer said. It houses about 100 widows of veterans. The widows have a much younger age average than the veterans.

Dairymen Urged To Make Use of Trench Silo Plan

Because the feed crop in Eastland County has been cut short due to the drought, and burned up feed is almost worthless for hay, County Agent Cook is urging every dairyman and livestock raiser of the county to put everything available in trench silos. A letter on trench silos which has just been received from E. D. Euday, Extension Dairyman, covers the subject as follows:

"The dairymen in this sort of situation will have hard going this winter unless he takes steps to save the burned up feed in such a way that it will make good feed. This can be done. The answer is the trench silo. Put this burned up feed in a trench silo and add about five barrels of water per ton of feed, and it will make pretty good feed. Nearly every farmer can find something to put in the trench silo. He may use Johnson grass, sudan grass, sunflowers, carless weeds, blood weeds, tumble weeds, sorghums and corn.

The thing to do is to bury everything the farmer can get his hands on. The dairymen that has plenty of roughage can get by in good shape, since he can afford to buy concentrates, but he cannot afford to buy both concentrates and roughness.

These feeds when put in a trench silo will provide a succulent roughage which will produce more milk than will dry roughages. They can be put in the trench silo at very little cost. They may be cut with a grain binder, a row binder or by hand. The whole bundles or stalks may be put in the trench. Therefore, the silage cutter is not necessary. All the feed may be cut down before the farmer starts filling the trench. By so doing, he will not need to hire any extra help.

Shingle the bundles in the trench and wet them good. A trench deeper than three feet need not be filled in one day. Put down a two-foot layer of feed each day and wet it good with water. When you have it full, cover with at least twelve inches of dirt. The trench may be opened and feeding started in three weeks after filling.

Every dairymen should plant one acre of small grain (wheat, barley, or oats) for each row. This should be done in September if he gets rain. Grain planted in September will provide more grazing in the fall and winter than will grain sown later on. Early sown grain will usually stand more cold than late sown grain.

Good small grain pasture will supply the cow all the feed nutrients she needs to produce two gallons of milk daily. If you have two gallons cows, you will not need other feed than this. Plenty of small grain pasture will provide the cheapest way to get through the fall, winter and spring.

Shady Grove Man Tells How Grain Exhibits Prepared

J. W. McKinney of Shady Grove community, who has a reputation at fairs with his grain sorghum exhibits, made the following explanation Saturday to Elmo V. Cook, County Agricultural Agent, of his methods of selecting and preparing heads:

"I go in the field with my knife and a light box and hunt for the low rich spots, where the cane makes the largest growth. I look for the heads that come up to the standard; usually I'll select about one hundred heads to get the ten that I intend to use.

"Then I go to the house and spread them out on a table in rows, being careful that no head loses even a single grain. I then go over them all and select the best head there is in the pile. Size and purity both considered. I then get nine more heads just as much like the first one as possible.

"I put the heads in the shade for about six days so that they will dry out, and then wrap each head individually and put them away from mice and weevils."

Search Is Begun For Oldest Terrace

Where and when were the first terraces in Eastland County built? County Agent Elmo V. Cook is anxious to locate the farm having the oldest terraces in order to study the effects of terraces over a long period of years and to compare the productivity of land protected by terraces with fields exposed to erosion.

It is estimated that 12,000 acres of farm land in Eastland County have been terraced under the supervision of county agents. These terraces have been constructed largely with farm power and often with home made drags. Many hundreds of these acres have been terraced without any cash-outlay. Agent Cook states. In recent years the county commissioners have used road machinery to build terraces on many farms. The cost of terracing with heavy machinery is usually below $1 an acre.

"In the early years it was difficult for the county agents to persuade farmers to build terraces," the agent said. "Here and there a few farighted men agreed to use their farms as demonstrations. Before long the neighbors could see the improved crops growing in the fields where terraces protected the rich top soil from gullying and sheet erosion, and held the water on the land until most of it was absorbed."

Information in the form of a letter or a visit to the office about these old terraces in the county will be appreciated by the county agent. Stories about early terracing will be given to the newspapers as they are collected.

Clipper Planes Not Ships By Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO — Pan American Airways' three trans-Pacific flyers, the China, Hawaian and Philippine Clippers, will have to avoid resting too long if they are to avoid taxation in California, according to the latest ruling of state taxation authorities.

Attorney General U. S. Webb has ruled that the clippers are taxable in California if they are habitually at the Alameda airport. The company had demanded exemption from taxation on the grounds that the transoceanic clippers were vessels and thus exempt from taxation under a section of the state constitution.

Webb ruled, however, that clipper ships are generally regarded as seaplanes and not vessels inasmuch as most of their travel is in the air. He also expressed doubt that when California legislators in 1914 enacted the present taxation law as regards vessels that they were far-sighted enough to have foreseen and intentionally included trans-Pacific airplanes within the exemptions of the law.

The tax fight now hinges on the interpretation of what is meant by the word "habitual" as regards the amount of time the clippers spend at their Alameda base.

DROUGHT RATE ON FEEDSTUFF IS EXTENDED

AUSTIN, Sept. 10.—Drought relief rates on shipments of livestock feed to North Texas counties were announced today by the state railroad commission. The rates will be effective Sept. 14th. The reduction is 50 per cent on hay, and 33 1-3 per cent on other feeds.

"There is an unusually heavy hay crop in South Texas," Chairman E. O. Thompson of the commission, said. "These rates, no doubt, will afford a market and a large traffic to railroads. Therefore, the rates will be a benefit to the hay farmer, the cattleman, the farmer in drought areas, and to the railroads."

AUSTIN, Sept. 10.—Plight of farm tenants will be the topic of a state conference to be held within a month, Gov. James V. Allred said today.

SENATOR SAYS IS TAKING UP CAPITOL ANGLE

Designation of Eastland county on the Federal Government's drought stricken list has been requested by commissioners' court, County Judge Clyde L. Garrett disclosed Thursday.

Efforts to place Eastland county on the drought stricken lists were initiated with a communication to Senator Tom Connally, who requested that detailed information of the county's plight be furnished officials.

Judge Garrett stated County Agent Elmo V. Cook and his assistants are preparing to assemble information which will be sent to federal officials.

Officials state the emergency drought program is being carried principally by the Works Progress Administration. The WPA, it is understood, is furnishing work for as many needy farmers as possible while the resettlement administration is making loans or loans and grants in cases where employment is not available.

Texas counties already in for drought relief are Montague, Clay, Wichita, Archer, Wilbarger, Baylor, Hardeman, Foard, Childress, Cottle, Hall, Knox, Collingsworth, Wheeler, Gray, Jack, Wise, Parker and Seury.

Senator Connally's wife to County Judge Clyde L. Garrett: "I shall be glad to do all that I can to obtain prompt designation for Eastland county and am today taking matter up with officials in Washington and urging immediate and favorable action on your request. Regards."

The wire was sent from Marlin. Judge Garrett believed that a personal investigation by officials would be tantamount to designation.

Report Is Made On Drought Condition Of Eastland County

Elmo V. Cook, Eastland County Agent, today mailed a report to Jack Shelton at College Station, urging that Eastland County be placed on the list of drought counties of the state.

The report sent out by Cook stated that there had been no rain in 60 days, and that high winds had done considerable damage to the feed crops and had cut down the incomes of many farm families.

His report showed that 1,300 farm families are now in need of WPA assistance and that 100 livestock men were forced to move 2,000 head of cattle to other counties because of a shortage of feed and water.

Cook estimated that 25 car loads of feed would have to be shipped into the county before another feed crop could be produced, and stated that a reduction in freight rates on feedstuff would be of material benefit to the farmers and stockmen of the county.

Costly Well Is Paying Farmer Big Dividend

By United Press
JUNEAU, Wis. — Ed Uecker, of Hustaford farmer, got last laugh on his neighbors last summer.
Last year, the neighbors laughed when he hired an expert crew to drill a 600-foot well on his 40-acre orchard and garden plot. He installed a power pump with a capacity of 300 gallons a minute and constructed pipe lines to carry water to ditches dug through his farm.

While his neighbors saw their crops wither, Ed this summer enjoyed one of the best harvests in years. He believes this year's return will pay for the entire irrigation system.

Investors In 1408 Home Financing Groups Insured

WASHINGTON. — Continuing its steady growth in coverage of eligible savings institutions, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation reports that up to August 15 the protection of insurance of investors' accounts had been granted to 1408 thrift and home-loan institutions located in almost all the states of the country and in the District of Columbia and Hawaii.

Illustrating the steady growth in numbers of the institutions taking advantage of this additional safeguard for their investors, in the past month alone 44 applicant associations were approved for insurance. Almost 45,000 more investors are thus given the benefit of insurance, bringing the total of insured savers to more than 1,100,000. The combined assets of the 1408 insured associations now total upward of $961,000,000.

Each shareholder and depositor in these units, which include savings, building and loan associations, cooperative banks and home-ownership associations, is safeguarded against loss of his account up to $5000. Such insurance was made available by Congress in June, 1934, as a part of the National Housing Act. The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation was set up as a government agency to administer the insurance.

Insurance of accounts is open to all institutions of this type which apply for insurance and are approved as to their soundness. All federally chartered savings and loan associations are required to be insured. To date, state-chartered institutions numbering 268 have become insured. In addition, 517 associations that have converted to Federal charter in the past three years are so protected. The other insured institutions are Federal Savings and Loan associations that have been recently chartered.

By strengthening public confidence in associations of this type, which are leaders in the small home mortgage field, the insurance feature serves to attract an increasing flow of private capital into home-financing channels. Accordingly, loan funds are made more available locally for potential home-owner borrowers at moderate interest rates.

Rangers Say Movie Rangers Are Slow Drawing Six Guns

AUSTIN.—"The Texas Rangers" underwent hard scrutiny at a movie preview given before real Rangers when Ranger Day was celebrated at the Texas Central Centennial Exposition.

Veteran Ranger Captain Will L. Wright, Floresville, found the movie "Rangers" slow and clumsy on the draw.

"They wouldn't have a chance with a man like Ranger Bob Goss, now stationed in East Texas," Senior Ranger Captain H. H. Carmichael said after seeing the picture.

Goss is probably the fastest two pistol man in the present day. "He can present both pistols to you with the handles politely turned your way, then flip them both around and have you covered before you can bat an eye," Carmichael said.

Charges Against Two Dismissed By Court

Hill was charged with theft over $50 and Ledbetter with driving while intoxicated.

New Rules For Exhibits In Women's Department of Fair Are Explained

Mrs. James Horton of Eastland, chairman of the women's department of the Eastland County Centennial Fair, Sept. 15-19, released the following statement Saturday.

Committees for the Women's Department of the County Fair have been working for the past several weeks. It is the plan this year to make this department bigger and better than ever before. This is Texas Centennial year and Eastland County women want to show their loyalty to this celebration.

President of the County Federation, Mrs. Brown of Cisco is busy urging women of her town to contribute to this fair. Other towns are doing likewise.

There will be no prizes in this department, but blue, red and white ribbons will be awarded for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places respectively. In the past our Wednesday night and Saturday night exhibits have been very unsatisfactory, due to late entries and early withdrawals. The new rules are that:

"Exhibits will be accepted from 3 P. M. Tuesday, Sept. 15th till 6 P. M. and from 8:30 A. M. till 12 noon Wed., Sept. 16th. Nothing will be accepted after this hour."

"All exhibits will remain in place through Saturday night and can be called for Monday morning."

"There will be competent disinterested judges in each department who will judge and place ribbons as awarded between the hours of 12 and 2 on Wednesday. Thereafter all exhibits will be on display."

Gifts May End the Chautauqua Deficit

CHATAUQUA, N. Y. — The Chautauqua institution, entering its 63rd year, appears well on the way to financial recovery after three years of indebtedness under receivership.

Led by Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas who telegraphed a contribution of $50, supporters of the institution have donated more than $55,000. In addition, leaders have the promise of a third of the $95,000 yet to be raised, on condition the other two-thirds of that amount is contributed.

Highlights of support in addition to Gov. Landon's gift included an unexpected donation by Mrs. Mina Edison Hughes of a $10,000 memorial to her former husband, the late Thomas A. Edison. Mrs. Hughes is a daughter of Lewis Miller, co-founder of Chautauqua.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Norton, Chicago, have offered to pay $1 for every $2 contributed, up to $85,000, which would more than make up the deficit. They announced "the additional subscription is given on the condition that the entire $150,000 . . . shall be subscribed."

Amarillo to Have Will Rogers Day

AMARILLO.—This city has been selected as the site for national Will Rogers memorial exercises to be held next year.

The occasion will be the opening and dedication of the Will Rogers Highway, National Highway 66.

Motorcades beginning at Chicago and Los Angeles, terminals of the highway, will meet in Amarillo.

Irvin S. Cobb, close friend of the cowboy-humorist, will head the Los Angeles caravan.

The memorial exercises will be held late in May or early in June, 1937, by which time Panhandle citizens have pledged themselves to have the last link in the highway paved.

National headquarters of the National Will Rogers Highway Association will be opened in Amarillo in September.

Monkey Glands Are Popular With British Women

LONDON.—Englishwomen seeking rejuvenation from monkey glands outnumber by far the women doing so in any other country, according to Dr. Serge Voronoff, "monkey gland" expert, who is now visiting in London.

"Women of other countries are satisfied if their faces look young, but Englishwomen must be young," declared Dr. Voronoff. "They want to ride, golf and dance on equal terms with their daughters and even grand-daughters."

"It is possible for a woman, who spends a painless half-hour in having the glands of a monkey transferred to her, to regain 15 years of her life."

Landon's Fundamental Principles

The only possible explanation for Gov. Alf M. Landon's strict adherence to what he called "fundamental principles" in his second major campaign speech delivered at Middlesex, Pennsylvania, is that he was not yet ready to discuss details. A full month after his speech of acceptance and ten weeks after his nomination, he displayed a definite determination not to commit himself on a single issue of the campaign.

That this is true was demonstrated in the blunt comment in the Old Guard newspapers on the governor's long-heralded effort. Some of it revealed a degree of disappointment that bordered on disgust. For example in the orthodox Washington Post we read:

"It was disappointing to those who expected a discussion of specific issues or an explanation of how he would go about attaining certain objectives and remedies which he recited, such as those contained in his assertion that 'The American remedy for unemployment is real work at good wages,' and again, 'The remedy for monopoly and special privilege is to do away with them.'"

"It is no longer a secret that several of Gov. Landon's close advisers wished him to be more specific."

And truly the human mind is incapable of conjuring anything more "general" than were his remarks. "We see men, women and children living in the home," he asserted. "We see that the family and the home are the foundation of national life," he continued. This merely served as a reminder that more than two million such rural and urban homes were saved from immediate foreclosure by direct loans from Roosevelt recovery agencies and as many more by the restored credit of private lending agencies. "We also see," he rambled on, "the heads of families assuming responsibility for their (the families') support." All of which we can recall having seen. And we can remember even more vividly that heads of families continued with that normal responsibility until 12 years of reactionary control in this country forced the responsibility upon the credit of the Federal government.

Naturally the independent press could find nothing creditable in the essay. The Scripps-Howard papers treated the candidate kindly: "Our readers will give us credit for being patient with Gov. Landon," they said, "but this major speech of this major party's candidate is so utterly nothing that it is an affront to the American people who are asked to elect him President. There is nothing in it to take hold of. And we tried to foist a second-class candidate upon them. This apology is due first from that little group who built up the myth of the man Landon. It is due then from those ponderous personages who, one after another, made the pilgrimage to Topeka and returned home saying 'He'll do.' Because, on his performance to date, he simply won't do."

"Though I've listened to lots of jazz, I'm no savage, no earer-up-of-the-social fabric," says Paul Whiteman. Still we'd hate to have him sit on our davenport.

CONCRETE IS THE REAL LOW COST ROAD

Tradition that Degree from Harvard Is Aid to Graduates In Business Is Shattered By '11 Class Survey

BY HARTZELL SPENCE United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—Harvard graduates are no better off than other college men 25 years after commencement, John R. Tunis concludes in a new book, "Was College Worth While?" published by Harcourt, Brace.

Hard as this may be on the dignity of America's oldest educational institution, it is no less painful to Tunis, himself, a member of the class of 1911. It was his personal interest in that class, 25 years after graduation, that led the author into the revealing if confounding labyrinths of his classmates.

He found 541, or 86 per cent, of the living graduates of Harvard 1911. Their status, for men launched into the world with educational silver spoons in their mouths, is disconcerting to the author. For these men have contributed no more to the world, made no more money, and certainly are no happier, than the 1911 graduates of Nebraska or Swarth.

But Tunis cannot answer the title question of his book. Measured by contributions to the world of those Harvard men of 1911, their education was not worth while. Speaking for themselves, however, the men from Cambridge say their schooling was of incalculable esthetic and social value, even if it didn't help them earn a dime.

But collectively, Tunis woefully admits, his class has "done little for the world at large beyond the fact that many of us have been good citizens, raised families, and paid taxes."

The author excuses his generation somewhat because, six years out of college, these men were thrust into the World War, and 10 years after they returned home and made a new start. The depression overtook them and uprooted their lives anew.

What is the Harvard graduate like after 25 years? From this book we get the following picture: Mr. Harvard is 46 years old, vigorously healthy, with an income of $4,400 yearly. He is proud of his wife, a graduate of Wellesley or Radcliffe who earns her own spending money outside her home. He has two children and his sons are now at Harvard, or in private preparatory schools.

He is a vehement Republican, a bitter anti-New Dealer, but does nothing to correct government abuse except to criticize. He goes to church and is fundamentally religious. He reads 10 books a year, the Saturday Evening Post, and the newspaper sports pages. His radio tunes out symphony, in summer he plays a good game of tennis, and miserable golf. In winter he skis and pursues energetically a hobby such as stamp collecting. He works 13 hours a day and in the evening likes to drink whiskey with his friends. But he cannot even write a business letter with correct grammar, punctuation and spelling.

The book runs along interestingly, not statistically. It tells of the Harvard graduate of 1911 who, a hobo, hasn't slept in a bed in five years, and of courageous battles of these Harvard men to start new professions after losing their shirts in the depression. Now 14 per cent of the class of 1911 is on relief, and fully 50 per cent is dissatisfied with its life work.

One salient fact is that more graduates of Harvard in 1911 became bona fide dirt farmers than did graduates of the University of Nebraska the same year.

The author draws statistics from several other schools to show that Harvard men, after all, are not untypical of a whole generation.

Canada Builds An Efficient Defense

By United Press

OTTAWA—Canada's army is undergoing a thorough "house-cleaning."

Making public a long list of changes, the Department of National Defense has disclosed that the non-permanent active militia is being completely reorganized to give the country a compact, coordinated service in place of the present straggling, loose organization.

Hitherto the active strength of the militia has been divided among innumerable regiments. All were under prescribed strength and some were moribund. Under the department's new plan, many of the units are being disbanded completely, others are being strengthened through amalgamations, and entirely new units are being formed.

The changes, which have been in progress for several months, are part of the Canadian Government's plans to co-ordinate the Dominion's entire defense system.

Olympics Over, Berlin Finds that Food Is Scarce

BY EDWARD W. BEATTIE United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN—The recent Olympics were a real country fair for German housewives with families to feed. Now that the games are over, the same housewives are finding difficulty in buying what they want in the markets.

Everything was available during the first two weeks in August. There was pork and beef aplenty. Visitors from the German provinces marvelled at the fact that store windows actually displayed whole crates of eggs—a startling event in view of the fact that since last winter's egg shortage Germany's supply of hen fruit has never come back to normal.

The eggs so displayed were Finnish, Swedish and Danish, brought in with the scanty supply of German funds now available for trade in foreign countries.

Eggs Vanish Now that the Olympic games are over and there is no longer any need to meet the demands of thousands of foreign guests in Germany, eggs are again growing scarcer. It has become so that they are invariably unobtainable in parts of the city.

As to meats, butchers who go to central distributing depots to get their day's supply of cuts of beef and other meats are now forced to show what their recent turnover in such products has been—and then they usually are able to purchase only half of what they want. And if their tax papers are not fully in order, they are apt to get nothing whatever.

The army draws a huge supply of meats and other food, and with the domestic supply insufficient and the trade financial situation such as it is today, the general public sometimes gets left.

Western Rail Tours Near All Time High

CHICAGO.—Record-shattering western tour business during the past season was revealed here today in preliminary reports received by Harry G. Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives, from passenger traffic officials of leading western rail carriers.

In many instances escorted tours through the west equalled and in some cases surpassed the 1929 peak when the national parks and other western outdoor vacation lands enjoyed their banner year.

R. Thompson, passenger traffic manager of the Northwestern railroad, reported the biggest tour year in the history of that line. "The 1936 season exceeds by several hundred the 1929 high mark on our road," he said today. "In fact, our tour department has had its largest year since its inception back in 1902."

The Burlington railroad, through Albert Cotworth, Jr., passenger traffic manager, reports a 50 per cent increase over last year's escorted tour figures, and indications at the present time are that the final figures will place this year's volume above that of the previous high mark established in 1929.

Passenger earnings, in general, on the Rock Island to August 1st, showed a 17 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year, and W. J. Leahy, passenger traffic manager of the Rock Island, indicated that tours to Colorado and the Pacific coast formed a substantial part of this increase and are running far ahead of their most optimistic pre-season estimates.

The Milwaukee road, through George B. Haynes, passenger traffic manager, reports an increase of approximately 40 per cent in the tour business over last year's mark, with the bulk of tour travel directed to Yellowstone and the Canadian Rockies.

W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe railroad, claims the largest year in the history of the Santa Fe's tour business with California and the Grand Canyon as outstanding lures, and a great volume of tour travel headed for the coast by way of Dallas and Fort Worth, where the Texas Centennial celebrations form a dual attraction.

Virtually all of the Western railroads have made reports similar to the foregoing," said Mr. Taylor. "This outstanding increase in escorted tour business is indicative of the general trend of the traveling public back to the rails. The Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific, Katy, Frisco, Union Pacific—in fact every leading western carrier—will be able to look back on the season of 1936 as one of the best in the history of their tour departments."

Miss Leila Janes, staff librarian, explains: "When a new baby is registered, the municipal health officer notifies the library, furnishing the name and address of the parents. We send out to the mother a list of books on the care of infants."

Not only do parents benefit, but potential library customers are secured, Miss Janes admits.

Interior of Globe Is Remodeled and Changed Thruout

The Globe, Inc., has been greatly improved in appearance by work that has completely changed the interior of the store.

The interior has been repainted and the entire counter arrangement has been changed, giving the store an entirely different appearance.

The shoe department has been enlarged and now encircles the rear of the store instead of being on only one side and the rear of the building. The office has been moved to the rear at the left, instead of being in the center of the building as it has been for a number of years.

Penney Store Is Celebrating Its Birthday Here

Birthdays, whether for individuals or business concerns, always make interesting news. Today the J. C. Penney company, Ranger, is celebrating nine years of active service to the citizens in Ranger and trade territory.

On Friday, Sept. 9, 1927, the J. C. Penney store held its official opening in Ranger, with Mr. Roy Gilbreath as the first manager of the store. The following is taken from the files of the Times: "In principle, in policy, in operation, in service rendered, in quality of goods provided and in the money savings afforded, our new store here will—it must—balance with those ideals which have been directly responsible for the unusual success of our long-tested idea of collective buying and selling. Nothing will be left undone to win and merit your confidence."

This policy adopted by the J. C. Penney store, has made many friends.

D. M. Cooper, manager of the store, who has only been in Ranger a short time, is prominent in civic affairs of the city, and is taking active interest in boosting for Ranger and trade territory.

The party now being celebrated by Penney is "saying" is with new merchandise" bought specially for the event and at prices that are very attractive.

The entire sales force of the store join with Mr. Cooper in inviting the people to come and see what birthday bargains are on hand for them.

Alfalfa Planted As Soil Conserver Is Paying Dividends

WAXAHACHIE, Tex. — Approximately $17.70 per acre is the income to date from alfalfa grown on the R. G. Goodloe farm, a Soil Conservation camp co-operator in the Red Oak community. The alfalfa was planted March 23 in strips which are used instead of terraces for erosion control.

Ten acres of these strips yielded 5 tons the first cutting and seven tons the second cutting. Mr. Goodloe expects two more cuttings this year if the droughty conditions do not continue.

Mr. Goodloe states that the two rows of cotton nearest these alfalfa strips are taller and more productive. He estimates the cotton in this strip cropped field at from a quarter to a half bale per acre.

Based on present prices the income from alfalfa should be greater than from cotton. Soil improvement payment will be made on the alfalfa acreage.

"Even though the alfalfa was sown late, it was effective in raising the elevation of these strips," Mr. Goodloe states. "Deposits of dirt around the alfalfa plants range from a quarter of an inch to six inches deep," was another statement made by Mr. Goodloe.

Mr. Goodloe prefers fall planting of alfalfa due to the fact that weed infestation appears in spring plantings. He used a weeding hoe to get rid of the weeds this spring. The rate of seeding was 18 pounds per acre.

Cotton is rotated with wheat or oats between the alfalfa strips.

Los Angeles Decides To Hoard Gold Coin

By United Press LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Los Angeles County has decided to become an intentional violator of the federal law forbidding the hoarding of gold.

WPA workers unearthed a 45 gold piece dated 1880, while demolishing the old courthouse, built in 1886. The coin was preserved in the county museum instead of being turned over to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, as the law requires.

Longhorns to Have "Starless" Football Team This Season

AUSTIN, Tex.—The University of Texas Longhorns can well be thought of as a "Starless" football delegation when they take the field for their 1936 schedule, and says Coach Jack Chevigny, is just what he wants.

With the opening tilt of the "toughest schedule in the history of football at the University" less than two months away, roll call reveals only 17 familiar names. Thirteen letter men have exchanged their football togs for a cap and gown.

Around these 17 men Coach Chevigny hopes to build a fighting team which will do credit to a schedule which includes such teams as Minnesota University, Louisiana State University, and Southern Methodist, 1935 conference champions.

With the 17 returning lettermen as a nucleus for his 1936 team, Chevigny points to a number of men who have been "coming up fast" and gave every indication of being able to fill any gaps when they worked out in spring practice.

A shift in positions has placed Captain Clint Small, Jr., Amarillo, in the key center position after two seasons of tackle play. As aides at this position Small will have Bill Hughes, Van Alstyne, and Roy Abines of Odessa.

Candidates for guard positions are not heavyweights, but are just the men to fit into "his style of play," Chevigny avows. Considered here are J. T. King, Houston; Howard Terry, Cameron; Lewis Lovier, Fort Arthur; Charles Naiser, El Campo, and Albert McMillan, Eagle Lake. All men show promise of building a strong forward wall.

Four men will probably carry most of the burden in tackle position. Ray Keeling, Dallas; Nick Frankovic, Chicago; Lowell Butler, Wink, and Jack Landers, Comstock, all 200-pounds, promise to plug this hole satisfactorily, but standing in the ground, ready to step in, will be Robert Purvin, Dallas; W. L. Fromen, Houston, and David Bland, Austin.

Two probable starters in end positions are Jack Collins, Denton, who has shown great offensive and defensive work in the past and Walton Laney, Dallas, who will have many opportunities to carry on his fine work in this position. Hoe Roach, Decatur; John Peterson, Amarillo; Homer Tippen, Richmond; Ned McDonald, Houston, and Dave Johnston, Tyler, will be shock troops for the place and will probably see a great deal of service before the final whistle ends the season.

Prospects are even brighter in the backfield as a review of the brain spot of the squad sees the return of Ney "Red" Sheridan, Sweetwater, who worked so smoothly and effectively in the quarterback position last season. Bill Fornay, Valparaiso, and B. J. Eunas, Washington, complete the list here, and promise more strength at this position than the Longhorns have had in years.

The parade of names of available for the left halfback position places strength were strength is needed. Bill Pitzer, Breckenridge, returns to continue his brilliant punting and plunging of a year ago. Judson Atchison, Baird, whose bid for fame last year was short-lived, will have another opportunity to prove that his early season play last year wasn't "just a lot of luck." His early season runs caused many scouts to warn other teams of his play, and may have been the cause of his inability to get started again during the rest of the season. Also ready to do in this spot is Ed Strout, El Paso.

At right half, Jay Arnold will continue to be a threat to all opponents. Only Arnold's temper kept him from reading with the top notches last year, many unofficial observers believe. Morris Sand, Chatfield, will have another opportunity to exhibit his defensive play this year and ready to fill in the gaps will be Wallace Lawson, Cleburne, and Raymond Howard, Tyler.

Veteran Irvin (Duke of Wellington) Gilbreath will lead the attack at fullback position, and playing time will probably be divided equally between him and Hugh Wolfe, Stephenville. With these two men ready to "struck their stuff" for opposing defenses, Chevigny seems little worried over the functioning of his backfield.

Most worries center around the line. Many say the line can't stand up to the punishment which is bound to be meted out by heavier eleven. Ted Twomey, line coach, and Jack Gray, end coach, may have heard such rumors, but all indications are they will. When practice sessions begin early in September, match this show of brawn with brainy playing on the part of Coach Chevigny's "starless Eleven."

Schedule for 1936: Oct. 9—Louisiana State at Austin. Oct. 10—Oklahoma U. at Dallas. Oct. 17—Baylor at Austin. Oct. 24—Rice Institute at Houston. Oct. 31—Southern Methodist at Austin.

Lunacy Wards In Hospitals Urged

FORT WORTH—Lunacy wards in city-county hospitals were advocated today by Dr. Burke Brewster, Tarrant county health officer, as a solution to a long-standing Texas health problem.

Recent years have found Texas jails overcrowded with feeble-minded prisoners, unable to secure entrance at state asylums because no room was available. El Paso officers reported conditions were so congested that violent patients had to be lashed to cots in jail quarters.

Fort Worth's county jail has a lunacy ward to accommodate nine patients. The number often exceeds that, however. Dr. Brewster said, necessitating the use of regular jail cells for overflow patients.

Dr. Brewster said that Dallas, New Orleans and other cities were solving the problem by using lunacy wards in connection with public hospitals. He would include such accommodations at a proposed city-county hospital here. At present, Dr. Brewster said, local hospitals will not accept a patient with a lunacy complaint outstanding even if the patient suffers from pneumonia or a killing fever.

have the close supervision of his teachers and where less than 10 per cent of the students fail in freshman composition, not because English is easier in junior college, but because the untiring effort of well-trained teachers has helped 15 per cent of the 25 per cent who would fail in a large university, to pass. Rob your freshman of his foundation in English and you are hampering him in his very life, because he has no other language with which to express his history, science and engineering ideas.

Ranger Junior College offers 27 semester hours of college English, fully affiliated with all colleges and universities of the South, and six semester hours of public speaking. Her teachers are well-equipped to teach the students to express themselves effectively, and to make their English a permanent part of their equipment for life in the world of the radio, typewriter, telegraph and telephone.

Safe of Wood to Withstand Fire Is Built By Professor

CORVALLIS, Ore.—Prof. T. J. Starker, professor of forestry at Oregon State College, has built a wooden safe for fire protection.

The professor isn't kidding. He worked on the theory that the average home or small office doesn't need a safe that will stand a fire that would destroy a building, since fires rarely burn more than an hour before being extinguished.

Its wooden safe affords more protection than an ordinary metal filing cabinet, which transmits heat readily and is no protection at all, even against a brief enveloping fire, Starker believes.

He found that a blowtorch, directed against a two-inch plank would not burn through in half an hour and in that time the opposite side of the plank was only moderately warm.

Following this lead, Starker built his cabinet of two-inch planking. He believes his valuables have reasonable protection.

Many Freshmen In Big Universities Fail In English

BY MRS. HAL HUNTER As the 1936 term begins, fathers and mothers with children of the college age are seeking a suitable hospital for their children. Wherever your child goes, there is that inevitable course in English composition that he must take whether he is going to be a merchant, doctor, lawyer or whatnot. Shall you send him to a large university, where, according to Dr. Fred C. Ayer of State University, 25 per cent of the freshmen fail in English, or shall you send him to a junior college where he can

Drivers' Licenses Don't Cut Accidents

AUSTIN—Licensing Texas automobile drivers with the threat to revoke licenses for careless driving has had little effect in reducing the state's auto accident death rate, the Texas Safety Council reports. Managing Director Ralph Soape said that in the past year Texas had an increase of 15.4 per cent in automobile fatalities.

The record for the country as a whole reflected a one per cent decrease. The Texas drivers' licenses were not required until April 1. More complete reports on automobile accidents since the drivers' license law took effect, may also explain in part the apparent disparity between state and national accident percentage. This, too, has been Centennial year with much more motor traffic.
