THIS PICTURE TELLS THE STORY of the defens of the Alamo, one hundred years ago. On March 3, 1836, 181 poorly-armed Texas patriots prepared to face certain defeat against another attack of the Mexican forces, 3,500 strong. The brave Texas commander, Colonel William B. Travis, drew a line on the ground, in front of his soldiers, with his sword. He asked every man who wished to remain and die fighting like a hero to step across the line.
