'Culture Olympics'

The Olympic Games unquestionably have raised the level of athletics and health in this and other countries.

That this type of competition might be applied to mental as well as physical pursuits has been the theory of a prominent Philadelphia philanthropist, Samuel S. Fleisher. He has so impressed others with his views on the subject that a "Culture Olympics" is soon to be conducted by the University of Pennsylvania School of Education.

Purpose of the movement, which its sponsors hope will spread throughout the nation, is to discover and encourage children and adults who have latent talents in cultural pursuits. Awards may be in the form of scholarships.

It will be interesting to follow the career of the "Culture Olympics." Perhaps such emphasis on the mental side of young America is just what is needed.

Happy Omen

One very excellent sign of the times is the fact that contributions to organized charities have gone substantially upward this fall.

In 78 cities that have been collecting Community Chest subscriptions of late, more than $38,000,000 has been paid in. In most of these cities final figures are not yet available; where such figures are at hand, they show that most cities have passed their objectives and have collected more money than they requested.

It has been hard for the charities, in the last few years, to get the money they needed. For one thing, people have not had so much to give; for another, the fact that the government is feeding and sheltering millions of people has led to a mistaken assumption that private charity has less to do.

This fall money is more plentiful. It appears, too, that people are realizing that the organized charities still have a tremendous load to carry, and are contributing accordingly.

Foods and Fueds

Restaurants, as a rule, are homey places in which people spend some of the most serenely content moments of their lives. But this does not, it seems, apply to Hollywood restaurants.

Compared to filmland eateries, apparently, the old-time waterfront dive was a haven of peace and quiet, for hardly a week passes that we do not hear of some new imbroglio in a movie colony cafe.

In the latest incident, an actress was reported to have been carried from the building in a hysterical condition, while men sparred inside. And just within the last two weeks, a male actor denied having been involved in a similar occurrence.

With a New Year here again, perhaps it would not be amiss to suggest that Hollywood restaurant proprietors make a resolution not to serve their patrons raw meat. It might help.

Punishing Chain Stores

One minor but significant election result was the defeat in the California referendum of the license tax on chain stores running up to $500.00 a unit. This was clearly a punitive and not a revenue-raising tax, as it applied to the chains alone and not to their competitors. The California Chain Store Association therefore decided to take advantage of the State's referendum statute to secure a sufficient number of signatures to put the question directly up to the voters. It is instructive to notice that the voters not only favored the repeal of the tax but that the largest majorities in favor of repeal came from the rural districts. It is true that this rural support appears to have been secured in part by the cooperation of the chains in making their facilities available for the marketing of surplus crops, but the result is none the less impressive in view of the argument that the small towns especially resent chains because they injure the local merchants and are managed by 'outsiders.'

This appears to be the first time that this particular question has been submitted to a direct popular State-wide vote. The result does not prove that the voters lack sympathy with the problems of the small independent storekeepers, but it does indicate that the majority of them are aware of their gains as consumers through the economies that the chains have made possible. If the independents, by progressive storekeeping or cooperative buying, can compete more successfully with the chains, the California voters will doubtless give every support to their efforts, but those voters know that a punitive tax on chain stores will either drive such stores out of business or force them to raise their prices to pay it, and in either case consumers must suffer.

The legislators of some twenty States which now impose special taxes on chain stores should study the implications of this California referendum carefully. They should ask themselves whether they have not been deceived by the agitation of organizations representing small storekeepers in believing that the opposition to chain stores is much wider than it really is. The referendum, also, encourages the hope that the ill-advised Patman-Robinson act, rushed through with no adequate debate in the final days of the last session of Congress, will be sharply revised or repealed.

Ranger Elks Are Justly Proud of Their Smaller, More Comfortable Quarters Since They Have Moved

Members of the Ranger lodge of the B. P. O. Elks, who were at first more or less reluctant about giving up their old quarters and moving to a new location, are now as proud of their clubrooms as a young father is of his first born son. And justly so, it will be found by those who pay the lodge a visit.

The old quarters were much larger, but where vast open spaces have been done away with, a snug, comfortable lodge quarters has supplanted the huge vacancy that one noticed on visiting the old domicile of the club.

Starting on the top floor at the rear, as one does when shown over the new quarters by W. A. (Happy) Leith, secretary and J. C. Carothers, exalted ruler, the arrangement of all the rooms is most ideal, and sufficiently large for all the regular work of the lodge.

At the rear of the top floor is a nicely furnished lounge or reading room, with upholstered wicker furniture, where members can gather for reading, listening to the radio or whatever one chooses to do in a lounge room.

Just in front of the lounge is the club room proper, where the fixtures from the old room fit in nicely, making a compact room where from 30 to 35 members can gather in comfort, and which can be heated or cooled as the weather demands, with a minimum waste of time and at a much lower cost than heretofore.

Descending the stairs to the recreation rooms, which are on the second floor, the huge elk head, which adorned the old rooms, is placed at an advantageous position on the wall of the stair landing.

The recreation rooms are divided somewhat like the lodge rooms above, with one small and one large room furnishing ample space for the members to congregate. The secretary has an office at the front of this floor, where he keeps his records. Leith is growing a few lilies in his office, which are beginning to bud and from which he expects to have Easter Lilies by Easter. He is almost as proud of his miniature flower garden in his office as he is of the office itself and the entire layout.

Moving was a big job, which has not been entirely completed, however, and Carothers and Leith pointed out that there were several improvements that would be made in the Spring when the weather would be more suitable for the work.

Venice to Show Tintoretto Art

VENICE — An exhibition this spring of nearly 200 paintings by Jacopo Robusti, the Venetian master more commonly called Tintoretto, is being planned by the city of Venice.

The success of the exhibition in 1935 of about 300 works by Titian, which was inaugurated by King Victor and which was visited by thousands of art lovers from all parts of the world has induced the city to plan a show for the glorification of another great master.

The exposition, under the plan, will include the majority of Tintoretto's canvases existing in the churches, public museums and private galleries of Italy.

There are 18 Tintoretto's in Florence, 11 in Rome, 5 in Milan, 4 in Bologna, 4 in Verona and 3 in Turin. The bulk of the master's works is in the churches and galleries of Venice.

Public museums and private collectors outside Italy possess about 125 paintings, of which 32 are in Vienna, 22 in Madrid, 19 in London, 8 in Amsterdam, 7 in Berlin, 7 in Dresden and 5 in Paris. Others are in the United States, Belgium, Scandinavia and Russia.

It is the organizers' hope to get the majority of the canvases owned abroad as a loan for the occasion, as was done for the Titian exposition.

No effort, it seems, will be made to obtain loans from the United States, owing partly to the disinclination of American museums and collectors to part, even though temporarily, with their treasures. No requests for loans will be made for obvious considerations, to Moscow and Madrid, granting that the masterpieces still will be in possession of those governments at the time of the exhibition and that no disaster will have befallen them in the meantime.

The show will take place in the historic Pesaro Palace, on the Grand Canal, which proved to be an ideal setting for the exhibition of Titian's works.

The canvases, which, for technical considerations, cannot be removed from Venetian churches, will be seen there in connection with the exhibition in Pesaro Palace. The same procedure was followed with the paintings of Titian.

U. S. Pushes River Right Out of Bed

WASHINGTON. — The Columbia River has just been "pushed out of bed" again.

It is the second time in history that the giant stream, the second largest in America, has been moved. The first shift in course occurred about 10,000 years ago—a result of the ice age when glaciers descended over the continent.

Life Begins at 4 for Little Joan

Denied sight, hearing, and speech since birth, Joan Higgins, 4, still may approach normal contact with the world if efforts of Dr. Robert Gault, Northwestern University psychologist, are successful. Using a device that translates words into vibrations, one of Gault's aides, above, is teaching Joan to recognize and identify simple objects. When her mother was unable to support her, Joan was adopted by an Evanston, Ill., family.

Pastors Relaxing With a Creative Work As Hobby

BOSTON—Two Baptist clergymen of Massachusetts find time for pursuit of absorbing hobbies—one is a painter of ship-pictures, the other is an inventor.

The Rev. Marinus James, pastor of Norwood's First Baptist church, in spare moments paints marines like a professional artist. A one-time seafaring man, the clergyman holds a master's license.

The Rev. Ernest L. Loomis, pastor of the Winton Street Baptist church at Haverhill, has many useful inventions to his credit. Taught to use tools as a boy on a Connecticut farm, he found relief in inventing gadgets after a second nervous breakdown caused by the strain of ministerial duties.

The Haverhill pastor holds the rank of major in the U. S. Army reserves.

Among inventions of the Rev. Loomis are a device to prevent use of slugs in subway slot-turnstiles, a foolproof fountain pen clip, a one-unit air-conditioner for automobiles and buses, a gadget for keeping pictures straight on walls, and an easily adjustable brake lining that saves wear and tear on the drum.

PITTED AGAINST BLAZING OIL-WELL

"Smoking Camels helps to keep my digestion in trim," says Patton, oil-well fire-fighter

CLAD in an asbestos suit (left), "Pat" Patton tackles a blazing oil-well. "After that I can tuck away a hearty meal provided I have Camels handy," says Patton, enjoying a hasty bite (right). "Smoking Camels helps keep my digestion in proper trim. And Camels don't get on my nerves." Camels increase the flow of fluids—alkaline digestive fluids so vital to a sense of well-being after eating. Camels are mild!

"A BRONC BUSTER takes a terrible jouncing," Alice Greenough (left), explains. "But Camels help me enjoy my food. Smoking Camels with my meals smooths things out for my digestion. I like Camels' mild, delicate flavor."

SPORTS REPORTER AGREES 100% with "Pat" Patton that Camels help digestion along. James Gould (right), speaking: "My job's a strain on nerves and digestion too. And my smoke is the same as 'Pat' Patton's. Camels set me right—give me a cheery 'lift'!"

ALL-AMERICAN Hockey Star, Phil La Batte says: "Good digestion and healthy nerves are 'mists' in this game. So I smoke Camels."

Bridge Over Golden Gate Nearing Completion

Its 4200-foot span adding mechanical grandeur to San Francisco's famed entrance from the Pacific, the Golden Gate bridge, above, is approaching completion, with formal opening set for May 1. Huge suspension cables and the 746-foot towers are the supports for the bridge floor, over which autos will, for the first time, drive above the Golden Gate. With the already opened Bay bridge, San Francisco, long "isolated" on a peninsula, will have direct overland outlets north, east, and south.

Referring to watershed studies being made near Waco, and also research work on soil conservation stations in Texas, Dr. Geib pointed out that correct conclusions can not be arrived at over a period of a few months and urged the cooperation and patience of agricultural workers in the state.
Dr. Geib pointed out that as experimental data is obtained it is used as the basis for field programs in Soil Conservation Service projects and camps and disseminated for public use and benefit.

No Single Way Is Satisfactory In Erosion Control

PORT WORTH—"There is no single method by which erosion may be satisfactorily controlled under the widely varied conditions which exist," Paul H. Walser, the state co-ordinator of the Soil Conservation Service, College Station, told the conservation group of the Texas Agricultural Workers' association meeting here Friday afternoon.
"Not only must each acre of a field be treated according to its needs and adaptabilities, but all the fields of a farm must be planned and treated in consideration of their relationship to each other," Mr. Walser explained. The single farm must be planned and treated in its entirety and because of the fact that water recognizes no farm boundary lines, adjacent farms of the watershed slope must be planned and treated if erosion is to be controlled satisfactorily and economically.
Outlining soil and water conservation as now being carried out on almost one million acres of Texas farm and range lands under the direction of the Soil Conservation Service, Mr. Walser said that treatment of each acre in accordance with its needs and adaptabilities calls for a carefully planned and co-ordinated program of all approved erosion measures and practices if desired results are secured. Such a program must be based upon a study of soil types, erosion conditions, crop adaptations, climatic data, and other factors which are common to the area.
In a co-ordinated erosion control program such as used and advocated in project and camp areas of Texas is successful, it must coordinate all measures and practices in such a manner that when applied on the farm each will supplement the other in such a way that they all work together in saving soil and water.
"There is no exception of completely stopping soil losses, that is, reducing them to zero under a feasible and practical program adaptable over a wide area. The goal to be reached, however, is reduction of losses from fields, and checking of soil movement on the field to a point where natural processes plus constructive effort is making preparations to move to Big Spring.

Our community was made sad when we heard of the death of Charley Griffin, killed near Tyler Dec. 29. He and his wife had just taken dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Blackwell and went straight to his death in a car wreck. He had many friends here that mourn his going. Also Bro. W. H. Whitworth of Daddemona that was buried the 5th was once a citizen of Cheaney. His family has the sympathy of this community.
Mrs. R. L. Yardley is reported real sick. We all hope her a speedy recovery.

on the part of the farmer will maintain something near a balance," Mr. Walser stated.
Dr. H. V. Geib, field supervisor of the division of research of the Soil Conservation Service, traced work now under way and plans now being developed for research activities on soil conservation.

War Cargo Ship 'Escapes' During Congress Squabble

Winner in a dramatic race against the American government, but still facing the perils of attack at sea, the freighter Mar Cantabrico is shown here as it got under way from New York, bound for Spain with war supplies for the loyalists. As Congress put forth every effort to pass an embargo resolution in time to halt the vessel's sailing, aircraft, engines, and other equipment were rushed aboard the freighter. After twice being halted, the ship passed the three-mile limit as the embargo measure was being held up in the House. So last night the ship departed with much of the cargo left scattered over the deck, some crates being visible at the stern in this picture. Robert Cuse, Jersey City exporter, was the shipper.

Travels Cover a Total Mileage of Million and Half

JOHANNESBURG. — J. H. Curle, "world's champion wanderer," whose wanderlust has led him on travels totaling 1,600,000 miles and into every country of the world except Tibet, has returned here to prepare for another journey.

Curle began roaming when he was 14 years old, and he has kept a map of his travels. The tracks criss-cross Europe in a tangled network, plunge into the heart of Asia to Samarkand, and circle the globe in many lines.

He has just returned from a visit to Afghanistan and little-known Nepal, where he penetrated to the fringes of Tibet, the only country he has not entered.

Down through the Malay Archipelago to Sumatra and on to the inaccessible mining areas of New Guinea, where supplies all go in by air, lies one route. Australia he has traveled thoroughly, and the South Sea islands. From the Klondike to the Straits of Magellan he has explored the two Americas. In Africa he has visited Timbuctoo and traveled down the River Congo from its source to the sea.

In his search for material for a book on gold mining, Curle has visited more than 500 gold mines the world over. He has written a series of books containing his philosophical musings upon the people and places he has seen.

He considers Brazil the most beautiful country in the world; India the most romantic; Jerusalem the place and country in which he would settle if he could give up traveling. He first came to Johannesburg years ago as mining editor of a newspaper. He has no intention of settling down yet, and has already planned a journey into the heart of South America.

TAX TROUBLE FILL VOLUME

SAN FRANCISCO.—Do Californians have trouble with taxes? Two of the state's leading tax authorities have just written a 500-page volume dealing with the special problems of California citizens under both state and federal taxes.

Food Clothing Supplied to Many Through the WPA

SAN ANTONIO.—During 1936, food and clothing were supplied to a monthly average of 70,549 destitute Texas families through the WPA commodity distribution project. It has been announced by R. L. Montgomery, state director of the project.

Now sponsored as a WPA project by the Texas Relief Commission, the distribution of surplus commodities has been effected through various governmental agencies since June, 1933. Number of families dependent upon the distributing agency for food and clothing during the year just closed is the smallest in the three and one-half year history of the organization, Montgomery pointed out. In 1933 there were 148,240 families receiving necessities from the government. In 1934 there were 203,956 families on the list, and 186,399 families were benefited in 1935.

Working with a staff of 786 persons, 744 of whom were formerly on relief rolls, Montgomery has supervised the distribution of more than 45 million pounds of food and more than five million garments and household articles this year. Retail value of these commodities is estimated at $9,534,006. Expense of distribution was $440,517, less than five per cent of the value of the commodities disbursed. Ninety-six per cent of the expenditure was for salaries, Montgomery said.

Social workers employed by local agencies certify to the need of applicants for food and clothing. Most of the recipients are unemployables or have not been absorbed in WPA projects.

Primary purpose of the project is to utilize price-depressing agricultural surpluses for distribution to families with subnormal consumption. The system of distribution through non-commercial channels has not interfered with retail business but has served to stimulate and increase the consumption of a number of commodities, Montgomery declared. While the main concern is the proper distribution of surplus agricultural commodities, facilities have been made available for the distribution of other products. Thus, articles from WPA sewing rooms and other production projects are disbursed to the needy.

In the entire program of distributing commodities to the state the federal government has supplied Texas with $62,000,000 worth of products, including such items as 19,000,000 pounds of smoked meat, 95,000,000 pounds of canned meat, 21,000,000 pounds of butter, 3,000,000 pounds of prunes, and 38,428,000 pounds of flour.

Huge Diamond "Lucky" Stone Has Changed Hands

LONDON.—A 19-carat diamond, valued at $60,000, which is said to be the luckiest stone in the world, has been purchased by a group in England.

Unlike the famous Hope Diamond of ill-omen, the "lucky" diamond is rosy-pink. It is credited with the power of warding off ill-health.

When Azon Barbara of Paris bought it 100 years ago, he was suffering from an apparently incurable disease. Immediately after it came into his possession, his health improved, and during the next 28 years of his life he never had an illness.

Since then it has been handed down from generation to generation, and it has always held the same charm.

A short time ago, the sole survivor of the family sold it.

By Margaret Smith Masquers

The Masquers held their first meeting of the new year last Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Hunter, the sponsor. Marie Galloway, Druella Perry, Gracie Jones and Margaret Smith provided the program, a very complete and interesting comparison and contrast of "Hamlet" with Leslie Howard and "Hamlet" with John Gielgud.

"Riders to the Sea," by Synge and "The Neighbors" by Zona Gale were discussed and one will be used as the one-act contest play.

Those present were Marie Galloway, Mildred Moorman, Gracie Jones, Druella Perry, Catherine Galloway, Stephen Preslar, Margaret Smith and Mrs. Hunter.

Plowboys from Tarleton came up to Ranger and made the Rangers look like midgets. The Plowboys were all diked out in their new white satin suits and we'll have to admit they looked "super-super-grumshus." (It's not in the dictionary!)

Lineups: Plowboys, Carrigan, r; Hull, lf; McConachie, c; Smith, 3g; Killen, lg. Rangers, Woods, rf; Phillips, lf; Weaver, c; Anderson, rg; Wiesen, lg.

We can't be positive of the Plowboy subs, 'cause there were two teams used. Second team was Tinker, Waters, P. McConachie, Rankin and McClung. Subs for the Rangers were Neal, Coalsor and Hague.

Tuesday night Mr. LaMance and the Rangers went to Tarleton to play the Plowboys again and from what we hear the eight Rangers played against three or four Tarleton teams. Wonder how many Plowboys went out for basketball? The Rangers were to play Randolph Friday night but due to weather conditions the game was postponed.

Service Group Has Business Increase In Census Report

WASHINGTON — Service establishments receipts reached $2,029,302,000 during 1936, Director William L. Austin, Bureau of the Census, announced today in a final report on such businesses for the United States, by areas.

This figure is $81,784,000 over the preliminary tabulation of $1,947,518,000 which was made public last October.

The report covers 574,708 establishments engaged in selling "services" rather than goods, which distinguishes them from retail stores. These establishments required 580,840 active proprietors and firm members and 634,232 full-time and part-time employees to "serve" their customers.

The 634,232 employees were paid $367,517,000, of which $497,118,000 was paid to full-time employees and $70,399,000 to part-timers. Compensation to proprietors and firm members is not included in the payroll tabulations.

Federal directors, embalmers and crematories, included in the "personal services" group, had the largest receipts of all kinds of service establishments, $230,014,000. Other classifications in the personal service group with large receipts are barber shops with annual receipts of $209,337,000, and beauty parlors, with $171,943,000.

In the "business service" group, adjustment and credit bureaus and collection agencies had the largest receipts, $43,663,000.

Included in the "repair services and custom industries" group are figures for specialized automobile services. Storage garage receipts reached $68,040,000, while parking lots received $18,751,000. Top and body repair shops did a $32,611,000 business. Establishments shown are automobile laundries, paint shops, radiator shops, rental services, battery and ignition repair shops, tire repair shops and other automotive repair and service establishments, except repair garages, which are included in the retail census.

The new report is one of a series on service establishments issued from the current census of business. The statistics are based on information gathered by a field canvass conducted during the early part of 1936. They are compiled, analyzed and published at the Bureau's Philadelphia branch.

under the direction of Fred A. Gonnell, chief statistician, census of business.

In this report, identified as Volume II, number of establishments, total receipts, number of active proprietors, average number of employees, and annual payroll are shown. Table 1 presents data by states for detailed kind-of-business classifications. Table 2 is shown by states and presents totals for all kinds of business combined for counties and cities down to 2,500 population. Table 3 presents information for each city of 25,000 population and over for as many kinds of business as can be shown without disclosing the operations of individual establishments.

Reports on service establishments are available upon request. They are prepared by Ralph C. Janosekka, chief of the service division, assisted by Albert A. Eisenstat.

Moving Picture
Solves a Murder

LONDON — A movie film has aided Scotland Yard in capturing and convicting two murderers.

Alfred Stratford was sentenced to death for the murder of Mrs. Ada Fortescue at Shepherd's Bush, and Mary Flynn to eight years penal servitude for manslaughter. Had it not been for George Millar, a cur-b-side movie photographer, the crime might never have been solved.

When Mrs. Fortescue was found dead on Aug. 14 it was established that a Mr. and Mrs. Williams had been lodging with her. Near the body was found a label from a woman's dress bearing the name of a London shop.

The clerk who had sold the dress could not describe the woman buyer. Detective Inspector Huish, disappointed that his only clue had led to a blind alley, left the shop. As he did so a moving picture photographer took his picture.

George Millar, the photographer, told the detective that he had been filming passers-by for several months. Inspector Huish decided to take a million to one chance. At the Yard a theatre was arranged and day after day neighbors of the dead woman sat with the police as thousands of pictures were flashed on the screen.

Hal H. Hunter, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who today announced his candidacy as police commissioner of the City of Ranger in the city election to be held next April.

Eight thousand shots had been screened before one of the audience recognized a film of the two vanished lodgers. Within a few hours the printing presses of Scotland Yard were turning out leaflets with photographs of the couple for distribution to police stations all over England.

The hunt ended a few weeks later when a detective attached to the Bow Road station recognized the man in a crowd, took him into custody, and later captured the woman.

Ohio Resident Is Proud He Taught
King to Swim

WARREN, O.—Credit for the swimming capability of England's new king, George VI, is claimed by Fred A. Plater, a disabled former British seaman and Warren resident.

Plater, an expert swimmer, recalled his first meeting with the king and his older brother, then Prince of Wales, at a British naval swimming tank at Davenport Barracks in 1910.

"It was there that Edward and Albert came to swim," he related. "They were just kids, but a scrappy pair. They were friendly and jovial, too."

The two young princes marveled at Plater's swimming speed and asked him for instructions. They were apt pupils, he said.

"Edward used to look on and tease his younger brother while I gave him lessons," Plater said. "He called him 'Bertie.'"

A bursting shell in the battle of Jutland ended Plater's six years of active service in the British navy.

It was in this same battle, he said, that 20-year-old Midshipman Albert, now King George, serving aboard H. M. S. Collingwood, won citation for coolness and valor under fire.

Plater was struck by an exploding shell in the battle and still carries bits of shrapnel in his head. One leg is permanently crippled.

His former swimming pupils, the royal brothers, then grown to manhood, visited Plater as he lay wounded in a British naval hospital.

When he had recovered from his wounds, Plater came to America. He has lived in Warren since 1921.

Chinese Trims Cost Of Ghost Marriage

SHANGHAI—The government encouraged custom of mass marriages, which has been adopted in China by famine refugees, inmates of a blind school and normal persons for the sake of economy, has become a fad among ghosts.

The marriage of ghosts was nothing new in China, for matrimony often was contracted by parents whose children died while infants, but who have become of marriageable age.

The popularity of mass marriage of ghosts is new, however, and credit for the idea goes to Li Lu-pin, a man with plenty of ideas for picking up a dollar here and there.

Lu-pin offered to serve as the necessary "go between" in arranging a mass wedding of 30 pairs of departed souls, collecting only $2 from each parent for his services. With $120 in his pocket, Lu-pin gave the word that everything had been arranged and the ceremony took place.

The parents of the eerie brides and grooms liked the idea, too. They formerly had paid more than $100 for a single wedding.

Indian Chief to Speak at School

Chief Lightening of the Winnebago Indian Tribe of Wisconsin will present an unusual program in the Ranger High School from 11 to 12 Friday morning. He will be accompanied by Billy Lewis, a trick rope artist from West Texas.

Chief Lightening has been with several large stage productions. He was with the show "Wings of the Century" for two years in the Chicago World's Fair Century of Progress Exposition. He was featured for five months with the California-Pacific International Exposition at Dallas for four months. He has been game hunting in Mexico, Canada and the northwestern states with bow and arrow and he will give a thorough demonstration of archery as practiced by the North American Indian.

This interesting representative of the Indians will appear in tribal costume and discuss tribal customs, dress, history of the Winnebago Tribe, and the Indians' use of the bow and arrow. He will shoot still and moving objects and will shoot balloons from the mouth of his helper.

Billy Lewis is a native of West Texas and is very adept with trick roping and rope spinning. He was featured with the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy Band and later with the Texas Tech Matador Band. He was with the Texas Centennial Central Exposition in Dallas for four months and worked with the California-Pacific International Exposition.

This team has recently played in the high schools of Lubbock, Snyder, Big Spring, Sweetwater, and Abilene, and their performance here Friday morning should be enjoyed by everyone. The public is invited and a small admission charge will be made. The proceeds will go to the girls basketball team.

To the People
