BULLETS HIT ITALIAN SHIP AT SHANGHAI

By United Press
SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.—Machine gun bullets rained on the decks of the Italian cruiser Montecucoli tonight as Chinese and Japanese gunners engaged in a duel along the Whangpoo river.

The Italian commander, through a loud speaker, demanded that the firing cease, but the protest went unheeded.

The duel started when a Japanese gunboat opened up against heavy Chinese machine gun emplacements in Nantao, where a surrounded Chinese battalion was making a last stand against complete domination of Shanghai by the Japanese.

Terrorized Chinese refugees threw themselves at the barbed wire barricades of the French concession, seeking to escape the merciless bombardment. Many Chinese soldiers deliberately cut themselves on the wire, believing they had to show wounds to gain admittance.

PARIS, France, Nov. 10.— Reliable sources said today that France was sending four cruisers to Indo-China as a precautionary measure against complications in the Far East.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.— The city of Amoy on the heavily populated island by the same name on the south central coast, was bombarded for five hours today by six Japanese warships, it was reported here.

Fascist State Is Formed in Brazil

By United Press
RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 10.— President Getulio Vargas and his cabinet assumed what appeared to be "dictatorial" control of Brazil today with the promulgation of a new constitution.

The dissolution of all elective governing bodies, including the federal senate and chamber, was announced from the presidential palace.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 10.— President Vargas, under the new constitution in Brazil today, will remain in office "indefinitely" as head of the corporative state, private sources said here today.

It was said that the "green-shirts" Brazil's fascist group, were not taking over the government and there were no indications as to whether Brazil would join the anti-communist pact of Italy, Germany and Japan.

STUDENTS ARE INJURED

By United Press
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 10.—Six students were injured, one perhaps fatally, when an unauthorized experiment resulted in an explosion which wrecked the laboratory at the New Bedford Textile School today.

RANKS ARE THINNED OF WORLD WAR GREAT; HALF VETERANS LIVE

Only 4 of Generals Alive; Half of Veterans Still Remain

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Nov. 10.—Nineteen years after the signing of the Armistice, in the forest of Compiegne, which brought the World War to a close, only four of the hundreds of great soldiers who commanded the armies in conflict, are still alive—John J. Pershing, Henri Petain, Erri Ludendorff and Anton Denikin.

A survey of military statistics showed that the soldiers themselves fared better, and that out of the 22,000,000 men who went to war more than 11,000,000 veterans of that conflict still are alive.

Of the great political personalities on both sides of the war, only three remain alive—David Lloyd George, Natsuo D. Baker and Francisco Mitteri. Only three of the score of rulers who sat on thrones or in presidential chairs during the war are still alive, and two of them, deposed by their subjects, are alive in solitary exile—Wilhelm II of Germany and Ferdinand of Bulgaria, King Victor

ARMISTICE DAY - - - - - 1937

Slowly and with measured tread a sentry paces before the simple marble tomb on the weights of Arlington where "... rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God." Little pomp or ceremony disturbs the quiet and peaceful spot across the river from Washington where others carry on the Republic for which the Unknown Soldier died. Only on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, does the steady stream of those paying tribute to his memory rise to a flood.

Maverick Team to Play In Armistice Game at Eight P. M.

Abilene and Eastland football teams play at Breckenridge in Armistice games. The Eastland-Stephenville game scheduled Thursday afternoon at Eastland, was moved to Breckenridge to be played at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The Breckenridge-Abilene game will be in the afternoon beginning at 2:30.

School board members explained that the game was transferred to enable fans to see both games and was not moved for financial reasons. At the same time, it was said, a greater number of Stephenville supporters is expected at the night game since John Tarleton college meets Weatherford College Coyotes in an Armistice afternoon game which gives fans time to see the Eastland-Stephenville battle in the evening.

Probable starters for the Mavericks: R. Taylor, center; F. Puse and Barham, guards; O'Neil and Perine, tackles; Pryor, Cook, ends; Samuels, Daniels, J. Taylor and Sparks, backs.

Road Bids Asked On Kenedy Highway

AUSTIN, Nov. 10.—The State Highway Department today called for bids, Nov. 23, on the famous "Kennedy County Road." The call for bids omitted for this letting contemplated work on highways 1 and 122 in Parker county.

Highway 1 in Palo Pinto county was also omitted.

Eastland Police Force Is Praised

Praise for the work of the Eastland Police Department is contained in a letter received by Chief W. J. Peters from Ashley H. Sills, principal of Stephenville Junior High school.

The letter read: "Permit me to express to you for my boy and myself our most sincere appreciation for the prompt and efficient service which your very generous favor of yesterday rendered us."

"I was desperately trying to reach my 13-year-old son, who was stranded in Eastland on no one's account but mine, in time to get him on the 2:10 bus for Stephenville. My efforts to reach him through the Texas and Pacific station where he was waiting for me appeared to be futile for the time being. A gentleman visiting here had the presence of mind to suggest that I contact the chief of police. Thanks to his suggestion and your courtesy and accommodation my boy reached home at 4 o'clock."

"Your city and your constabulary are to be congratulated upon the type of protection and service their police department render. At any time that you are coming through to my town, I hope you will permit me in some manner to serve your convenience at least in part to repay your kindness. The City of Eastland has been enhanced in my mind since my experience yesterday."

"Gratefully yours,
(Signed) Ashley H. Sills"

Crusaders Game of "Baiting the Bull" Is Still Being Played

LONDON.—A game that the Crusaders played on their way to the wars eight centuries ago still is being played in a little room in the solid rock of Nottingham Castle.

It is called "baiting the Bull." The "bull" is an iron hook projecting from the wall. The players take a small ring hanging from the ceiling on a long string, and try to throw it so it catches the hook.

The room where the game is played forms part of an inn called the "Trip to Jerusalem," and was used by the Crusaders as a meeting place.

The anthropology section of the British Association is attempting to establish the origin of the game and its queer name, but is meeting with little success.

London Mourning MacDonald Death

LONDON, Nov. 10.— Leaders of all political parties, friends and enemies, paid tribute today to James Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's first labor prime minister, while the liner aboard which he died last night made its way to Bermuda.

It was expected MacDonald's body, after its arrival Monday, would be returned to Britain for burial in Scotland, his birthplace.

MacDonald, seeking rest on a cruise to South America, died while political leaders in London were attending the annual lord-mayor's banquet.

Accident Delays Freight In Ranger

A Peculiar accident near the Texas and Pacific railway station in Ranger Tuesday afternoon delayed a freight train's departure.

As the train pulled into the Ranger yards the arm on the water tower, which swings out over the tracks so water can flow into the engine's tender, swung over the tracks.

The approaching engine struck the arm, breaking off the pop-off valve on the engine and destroying the water tower. The broken pop-off valve allowed the steam to escape from the engine and repairs were made necessary before enough steam pressure could be obtained to move the train, it was reported by those who helped make emergency repairs.

It was estimated that between 40,000 and 50,000 gallons of water were wasted before valves could be closed to stop the flow from the broken pipes.

Utility Case to Be Before High Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The Supreme Court, it was announced today, will hear arguments tomorrow on the Pacific Gas and Electric company case in which the government seeks reversal by the court of a 89-year-old utilities rate-making precedent.

Meanwhile Arnold Oil company is drilling ahead on No. 1 McMillen, about 1,700 feet west of Hickey, No. 1 Martin. All the wells are in Erath county.

Garrett Gives His Views On Special Session Nov. 15th

from the campaign of last year, I had to devote many long hours for the first few weeks preparing for the trial and then was in Abilene for two weeks in its hearing. It had been my plan to visit with many of our people during the time I was here but since so much time was consumed in this litigation my chance to see you and learn your problems and desires has been very limited. In the time at my disposal I have tried to see as many as I could and find out from your collective thinking just what the people of this district wanted one of this hour of their own crisis. Those whom I have contacted have been very frank in their answers and have given me much light on what they think will work for the best interest of all the people, and which I deeply appreciate.

With their thoughts before me and their problems clearly set out I am not afraid to face the task for in the collective thinking of even those whom I have been able to see and talk with I believe I have a very fine cross section of the opinion of our people.

Britain's War Stand Bares Peril to U. S.

The traditional big-heartedness of the British statesman, who is always willing to give full moral support to any other nation which wants to help save the British empire, was never better illustrated than by dapper Anthony Eden's little speech, made just before he set out to attend the Brussels conference.

Great Britain, said Mr. Eden, will be very happy to go "just as far as the United States will go" in measures to end the Chinese-Japanese war.

She will not rush out in front, he said—but she will not be left behind, either. She will follow Uncle Sam's lead whole-heartedly, and if the old gentleman gets up on the firing line, John Bull will be right at his elbow, or reasonably close to it.

This sounds very fine until the moment when you stop to analyze the Chinese situation and see just who owns most of the chestnuts that are resting on the coals. Then it begins to look different.

The real estate that is being shot full of holes at Shanghai is not owned by Americans—not very much of it, anyhow. It is largely British.

The foreign trade that is stagnating while Chinese and Japanese slug one another in the mud is not very American. It is mostly British.

The heavy investments that are dwindling and dying because of the war are not principally American. They are reaped more often in pounds sterling than in dollars.

Most important, the world-wide imperialistic system which is threatened to its very core by this sudden uprising of oriental peoples, who are grimly proving that the white races can be denied with impunity and that the exploited east can find the strength to look after its own affairs—this system is not American, but British. More exactly, it is the British empire itself.

America has a stake in the Chinese situation of course—but it is a relatively small one. Britain has an incalculably large one. More than any other nation on earth, it is to her interest to see peace restored and Japanese military might restrained.

It goes a little against the grain, therefore, to see the British foreign secretary declaring that England will "go just as far as the United States will go" in trying to bring about a settlement.

It serves, too, as a very timely warning to the American government. Reversing a policy which has existed since the Versailles peace conference, that government is now seeking to co-operate with other nations to restore international order. Here is an indication that Uncle Sam's co-operation is expected to result in his getting out in front and taking the lead.

The warning must be heeded, unless we want to find ourselves engaged in the thankless game of raking British chestnuts out of a very hot fire.

NEW YORK.—Now that John Montague is looking for cameras in place of running away from them, what about his golf game? What do the professionals think of him?

Taking all those fantastic yarns out of Hollywood at their face value, you would suspect that the money players would be running for cover. Didn't supposedly competent critics say that Montague could outride Jimmy Thomson and outputt Horton Smith?

But the professionals refuse to be stampeded. Indeed, those among them who know and like the charming fellow advise him to remain mysterious in his golf while and if it is possible for him to further capitalize on the Montague myth.

Montague is no stranger to many of the professionals. A few of them knew who he was all the time. Those who met him and didn't know his identity, respected the fact that his private career, if any, rightfully belonged to himself.

MONTAGUE virtually grew up on golf courses, and, in 1928, when he was 21, served briefly as a professional. But in Hollywood nothing was said about Gene Sarazen playing Montague for 5, 5, and 5 last year and finishing the afternoon with $15 of the supposed Miracle Man's money.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The newsprint, milk distribution, fertilizer and automobile tire industries are all being secretly investigated by Department of Justice officials who suspect that consumers are being gypped through violations of the anti-trust laws.

The automobile finance company "racket" is also being investigated by a Milwaukee federal grand jury. The Aluminum Company and various big oil corporations already are being directly prosecuted under the monopoly laws.

It's all part of a campaign to try to apply anti-trust laws to industries whose products are bought by large masses of consumers. News-print prices were boosted $5 a ton the other day and the D. J. is interested in the how and why.

It also is suspected that farmers are paying unjustified, artificial prices for fertilizer. Federal Trade Commission evidence that "milk trust" companies fixed prices with so-called producer groups in order to soak consumers are being carefully sifted.

And 14 tire companies which submitted identical bids to a government purchasing agency—and then resubmitted them after they were tossed out—have had the shock of their lives to learn that their bidding methods, too, are being investigated with a view to prosecution.

Whether anti-trust laws mean anything and, if so, what, is an interesting—and important—enigma which may soon be solved. Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, head of the D. J.'s anti-trust and business regulation section, is going right ahead on the theory that these laws mean

Grandfathers Were More Particular On The Tax Question

LOCKHART, Texas — Our grandfathers were a little more concerned over the public debts in the early nineties.

Back in 1839 when the Caldwell County commissioners court prepared to float a bond to build the present court house several hundred citizens rose up in unison and signed a petition asking the court to refrain from erecting the new building because the county had $2,326 on the delinquent tax list.

The petition stated in part, "We believe it would be an unjust and insane policy to burden our homes and land with any additional mortgages to make a useless ornament (the proposed court house) to our county for the purpose of gratifying a few people who are indifferent to the real welfare of the masses of our people of the county."

The petition was signed by citizens from all parts of the county. Nevertheless, the court house was erected.

Debate Is Feature Of Rotary Meeting

John Tibbels had charge of the Rotary Club meeting Wednesday at noon and presented a debate team on the question of whether Texas should adopt the unicameral legislative system.

On the affirmative were Jack Hall and Lewis Hughes, with Babb Edwards and H. H. Gilmore on the negative. Good points were brought out on both sides of the question with illustrations taken from experiments with the unicameral system and from the fascist nations in Europe.

The ladies who wait upon the tables at the Rotary Club meetings were presented with a present from the club and W. T. Walton and Ken Ambrose presented a vocal duet.

R. N. Cluck, of Cisco, made a report upon Cisco club's attendance during the six weeks of the contest and left it up to the Ranger club to determine which club was the winner.

Other visitors at the meeting were J. E. Spencer of Cisco, Shakeeb Dakour of Syria and Grady Pipkin of Eastland.

the hopes that opportunities may be found in the Cisco game to use them with considerable success.

Bigger and better pep rallies have been held, both in the school auditorium and on Main Street, and more enthusiasm has been noted in all the student body than prior to any other game, because most of the students believe the Bulldogs will win, and all of them are hoping they will.

A number of signs have been painted around the school, some of the sign-painters being optimistic enough to predict, and paint, signs showing a large margin of victory for the Bulldogs.

Scores in the Ranger-Cisco games in the past have been uniformly close, with the exception of the 42 to 0 win by the Bulldogs in 1934, their last successful Oil Belt season, and the last time the Bulldogs have defeated the Lobos.

In the 14 games played between the two teams since 1923, Cisco has won six games, Ranger has won six and two have been ties, which makes the scores of the games close and the count in games won, lost and tied exactly even, so the winner of the game today will be the team with the best record over the 14-year period.

The records of the two teams since 1923 is as follows: 1923—Cisco 6, Ranger 0. 1924—Cisco 7, Ranger 0. 1925—Cisco 24, Ranger 0. 1926—Ranger 13, Cisco 6. 1926—Ranger 3, Cisco 0. 1927—Cisco 22, Ranger 0. 1928—Ranger 13, Cisco 0. 1929—Ranger 14, Cisco 12. 1930—Cisco 3, Ranger 0. 1931—Ranger 13, Cisco 13. 1932—No game played. 1933—Ranger 7, Cisco 6. 1934—Ranger 42, Cisco 0. 1935—Cisco 14, Ranger 7. 1936—Ranger 6, Cisco 6.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Colored—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels, gas blows up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laszivos are only makeshifts. A mere crowd movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Herminase, gentian, just something in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else, Doc.

Texas Highway Is Economical But Has Durability

SAN ANTONIO, Texas—A new highway extending 25 miles north of here is attracting attention of motorists and highway engineers because of a technique which made it possible to build a heavy-duty asphaltic concrete pavement at a cost of about $10,500 a mile—less than half the usual expenditure for equally smooth and durable pavements.

The new pavement represents the modern "black top, black base" technique and consists of an asphaltic or bituminous surface 1 1/2 inches thick on a bituminous base 3 inches thick. The pavement itself is supported by a 12-inch sub-base of crushed stone and caliche. The new highway is 40 feet wide—four 10-foot traffic lanes—in sections and, in no place, less than 20 feet wide. Ten-foot shoulders of compacted stone along the 20-foot sections give the highway a usable width of 40 feet along its entire length.

The added width is a safety feature engineers have been seeking to build into the modern highways. While the pavement was under construction the Texas Highway Department maintained a test laboratory near the highway in which hourly tests were made of the materials used in the pavement. The close attention to the mixture of limestone, mineral filler and the asphalt cement, made it possible to construct a heavy-duty pavement at less than half the usual cost.

The new highway, according to Horace H. Kerr of the Texas highway department "represents a high order of modern flexible-base asphalt road surfacing built by the most modern processes." The substantial base and sub-base construction have maintained the smoothness and durability of the pavement under its hard surface on a trunk highway—U. S. No. 87 between San Antonio and Boerne, Texas.

JILL

BY MARY RAYMOND

Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

as she got in her car. "God bless us!"

Jill looked back as she started the motor. The old beggar—she must be a beggar, for who else would be out at this hour—was staring at her with a dazed expression on her face. Both hands clutched the bright red scarf.

It was after the car rounded the corner that tears came, rolling down Jill's cheeks unheeded. She was conscious of many curious eyes. But she was past caring. Her world, a beautiful dream world though it had been, had crashed. Her idol had not been found with feet of clay, but with feet of mud. Alan and Ardath. An ugly romance between them.

She must stop thinking of him. She must go back home, and greet everybody at breakfast with a nice morning face. The face of a girl awfully happy over being engaged to Milo Montagne.

Jill shuddered. She couldn't go back now. She would go to Patty and stay until she could face the family with more composure. She wouldn't wake Patty for awhile. She would drive for awhile and then go home.

DURING the time Jill was driving aimlessly about the streets with her white, strained face, Alan had reached his apartment and let himself in with his latch key. The place was now quite empty, a fact which brought a feeling of intense relief. In the rear room, the stripped easel met his eyes, and then a bit of blackened canvas on the hearth.

He smiled grimly. It had been a good picture. But he would forget all about it. His destruction meant that Ardath Holm was now definitely out of his life. Which was a good thing. If she had hung around, she might have done some real damage.

The telephone rang later in the morning and he answered it unceremoniously. He was almost certain he would hear Ardath's voice faking penitence.

"Hello there, old chap."

The voice had a familiar ring. It was, of course, the voice of Ainsworth, whom he had last seen heading for the grind of an English bank.

"Vic! Where are you? I'll take a taxi."

"I'm sorry as the deuce, Alan. But I'm leaving for Louisville in a few minutes. Missed my train last night, all because a beautiful girl wanted your life's history. But it's just as well I didn't get off. There's something I think you should know."

"Not bad news. Surely."

"I'm afraid so. Lord Jeffrey isn't ness would swing clear again—behold what he now saw was a vicious financial circle. He had got himself in this plight by depending too much on the friendship of three men. And friendship had failed him.

Or rather, it would have failed him if Jill had not become engaged to Milo Montagne. He was troubled about Jill. He had never believed she cared anything for Milo. Could it be possible that she had realized the strain being put upon him?

HE could not bear to think that. It couldn't be true that Jill had sacrificed herself for him. She had come in too radiant and proud. She must have become fond of Milo. He hoped she was not dazzled by Milo's great wealth.

He got up suddenly, glancing at the clock. Twenty minutes to six. Great heaven, he had been here for hours going over the same ground and getting nowhere beyond the fact that his business trials were over, for the present at least.

He walked heavily toward the hall. When he had gone to his study the place had blazed with lights. The entrance was a gloomy cavern now, but a faint glow came from the music room.

His faint smile was erased as he reached the door of the music room. The light there was blaz-ing down from a glittering chandelier. It revealed the figure of Barry, his head buried in a pillow. The lines of worry deepened on John Wentworth's weary face as he studied the sleeper, taking in the flushed face and tousled hair.

The fool. The besotted young fool. He should have a real raking down. Yet it would probably do no good. A hard, impenetrable sheet of callousness and ruthlessness had grown over many qualities Barry might once have had. He hated to believe Barry had never possessed those qualities.

He moved and Barry opened drink-dulled eyes, meeting the quiet brooding gaze of his stepfather.

"So it's my thoughtful parent. Might I inquire the reason for the suddenly fatherly interest that would fix me a night can and tuck me in bed?"

"Come into my study, Barry," his stepfather said, sternly. "I have wanted to talk with you a long while. But I kept hoping."

"Oh, can the chatter," Barry retorted. He stumbled to his feet and followed his father across the hall and into the room where the fire had burned down to ruddy embers.

"Hungry Hill" Wants A Better Name Now

By United Press

AUSTIN, Texas.—The return of prosperity prompted residents along "Hungry Hill," a depression-founded street, to petition their city councilman for a better name.

When times were hard, "Hungry Hill" seemed an appropriate title. Now that business is better, the street's occupants decided they needed something up-to-date. The city council requested its engineer to find out what name the "Hungry Hill" people would prefer.

WASHINGTON.—The C. I. O. says to the A. F. of L.: "Bare your head, and we will tap it with a sledge-hammer. You will then go down and out and stay out."

The A. F. of L. says to the C. I. O.: "Walk right back into our mousetrap and have a dose of our highly effective lethal gas."

That's the effect of the proposals of the two labor groups and it explains why the unity negotiations are not getting anywhere.

The proposal of C. I. O. that it return to the A. F. of L. as an autonomous department under its own name simply means, if its claims of a larger membership are true, that John L. Lewis and his colleagues would at once dominate the federation if its members were to be given proportionate voting strength at A. F. of L. conventions. The federation proposal, on the other hand, means that craft unions desire to absorb hundreds of thousands of workers organized by C. I. O. and insist that C. I. O. unions come back as a minority under the effective control of A. F. of L. convention machinery.

Each side attacks the other's membership figures. The A. F. of L. claims 3,250,000 workers and C. I. O., 3,830,000. It's impossible to find out the real strength behind these statistics.

The proposal that disputes between rival affiliated unions be settled at the next federation convention calls attention to the A. F. of L. voting system. One vote is allowed an international union for each thousand members whose per capita tax of 1 cent a month

The war situation is about the most absorbing topic of the day. I said when I presented myself to your consideration last year that I was opposed to war in any form and would not vote to send any of our boys over seas to fight again. I still am of the same opinion and do not think there is any need for us to get mixed up in a foreign war if the neutrality laws are enforced as Congress intended them to be. We do not want war and will not have it if we do not go seeking it by meddling in other nations' affairs. To keep out of war at this time will be far cheaper and mean more for the future than to fight a winning fight and spend millions of lives and billions of treasure.

I believe that there should be some means devised to increase the income of our people and unless something better is found in a very short time there is going to be a minimum wage and maximum hours law passed. I believe that seasonal labor, such as agricultural work and processing, continuous process work such as oil field work and emergency work should be exempt from too rigorous a law of this kind. I do not think that a federal board should have the power that it is proposed to invest them with in the present bill but I am of the opinion that it should be a flexible law with the courts being the ones to handle the issues on the basis of right and wrong and not on the inflexible of the rulings of a board of five men. However, a large part of the need for the law will be obviated when, and if, business continues to improve and the wage earners of the nation once more become busy with their tasks.

I am in favor of the abolition of many boards, bureaus and commissions within the departments of the government. However, I am in favor of surrendering any of the prerogatives of the government to any group who will have the last word to say on such changes. It should be done by laws enacted by Congress and done in the open after full and complete public hearings.

I believe that there should be a comprehensive and complete flood control plan worked out by Congress. By the use of dams and flood by-passes and other means there should be some manner whereby the huge floods of the past can be prevented. Then if power comes as a by-product of such work that power should be used for the development of industry to the fullest. However flood control should be the primary purpose with irrigation as a second consideration and power, with its wrangling and bitterness of the past should be the very minor consideration. Water should be controlled to keep down its destructive agency and then put back on the land for the enrichment of the soil and the prosperity of the land owner or user.

I am in favor of some crop control measure which will insure the maximum price for the farm which it will produce. If this crop which the debenture plan or the domestic allotment plan then I am for it. I do not believe that the land should be abandoned nor the farmer forced from it by curtailment of production. We once controlled the world market on cotton and wheat. We can do so again if we will use one or the other of the plans above and insure our farmers that the crop they raise will bring them an income commensurate with their efforts. Then put the surplus on the world market to bring the world price.

I expect to leave Eastland soon and will be in Washington and if you have thoughts along these or any other lines that might be of help to me in helping you solve your problems feel free to write them to me. They might be the force that would turn the tide for the very thing which would benefit all of us to the greatest extent.

wholly withdrawn from political and military activities and shuns any attention which might earn for him the fate of Generals Koutpof and Miller. Ludendorff lives in retirement in Munich, where he heads the German nationalist movement.

None of the five chief delegates who signed the Armistice is alive—Foch, for France; Admiral Wester Wemyss, then Britain's First Sea Lord; Erzberger, secretary of state, General von Winterfeldt and Count von Oberdorff for Germany. Erzberger was executed a few years later. France's General Weyand, Germany's naval Captain von Geyer, and Britain's Captain Marriott, who were aides-camp in attendance at the signing of the Armistice in Foch's dining-car in a clearing in the forest at Rethondes, are the only survivors of those who witnessed that historic ceremony.

Of the major personalities who signed the consequent Versailles Treaty, only 11 are alive, including David Lloyd George, Col. Edward M. House, Andre Tardieu, South Africa's two generals, Jans Smuts and Botha, Belgium's Max Hymans and Emil Vanderveld, Ignace Paderewski and Dr. Edward Benes.

Of the great field commanders, Hindenburg, von Bulow, von Moltke, Von Kluck and Von Tiritpitz, of Germany, have died, as have Foch, Joffre, Nivelle, Fayolle, Lyautey and Mangin, of France; General Jacques, Belgian commander in chief; General Diaz, who led the Italian army into the war; Haig, Byng, Beatty, Jellicoe, Kitchener, Allenby and French, of Britain; Poland's Pilsudski; Austria-Hungary's great chief of staff, Hatzendorff; Russia's Grand Duke Nicholas, Wrangel and Brusilov.

Of the political personalities, Wilson, Clemenceau, Poincare, Bonar Law, Asquith, Balfour, Orlando, Masaryk and Czar Nicholas

Lions Not to Meet On Armistice Day

No Lions Club meeting will be held today at noon, it was announced Wednesday by B. E. Garner, president of the club.

The decision to hold no meeting today was reached because of the Armistice Day holiday, when so many of the members would have other activities, including attendance at football games nearby, that would hinder their being present.

ence to constituted authority if our civilization is to continue on its march of progress. Constituted authority, he pointed out to his listeners, should prevail in the school, the church and the home, as well as in the state and nation, and he stressed the equal, if not greater necessity of obeying laws of God as well as the laws of men.

Scripture quotation taken for his subject was contained in the gospel of St. Luke, and included Christ's instructions to His disciples as He sent them out into the world to carry His message to all mankind: "Who heareth you heareth me, who despiseth you despiseth me, and who despiseth me despiseth my Father who sent me."

Father O'Brien clearly illustrated his remarks with reference to present-day and recent occurrences which revealed the absolute necessity of constituted legitimate authority in all things for the general welfare of all mankind.

This series of lectures, which are growing in public interest, will continue each evening this week through Friday, at 7:30 o'clock, with Father O'Brien speaking each evening on a different subject. His lectures are highly educational as well as interesting, and with his wide background of experience he is bringing to Ranger a message of value and excellent good will in each of his sermons.
